County Agent's Notes

NEW LAW WILL CHANGE TAX RETURNS

Tax practitioners may charge farmers more for preparing tax returns this year. This is because changes in the tax law will mean that more time and effort will be required to do the job, according to Stephen Q. Allen, agricultural economist for the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture. However, the extra efforts will likely result in farmers paying less income tax.

The tax reform act of 1959 resulted in about 53 major changes in the tax law. Many of these changes will affect farmers for taxable years of 1970 and later. Some of these changes will mean that farmers will pay lower taxes; others will require more payment. The following are some of the provisions of the new law:

1. People with large non-farm incomes who also report large farm losses may have to set up a special excess deductions account (EDA) to report part of the profit on a future sale of farm property as ordinary income rather than taking capital gains on such sales.

2. The gain on the sale of certain livestock will be treated as ordinary income rather than capital gain to the extent of depreciation taken after 1959.

3. Horses and cattle held for draft, dairy, breeding or sporting purposes must be held by the farmers for at least two years in order to qualify for capital gains treatment.

4. Exchanges of male animals for female animals are not "like kind" exchanges and are therefore taxable.

5. New limits have been set on "hobby losses," and the term "hobby," is redefined.

6. Soil and water conservation expenses claimed in 1970 and later years may have to be included as ordinary income if the farm is sold at a profit within 10 years.

7. The due date for the tax return for the calendar year for farm taxpayers who do not file estimates, has been advanced from February 15 to March 1. Similar extensions are also provided for fiscal year farms.

8. The investment credit provision has been repealed as of April 15, 1971.

9. The time available for tax-free reinvestment when property is involuntarily converted has been extended from one to two years.

10. Larger benefits from income averaging for taxpayers who have unusually large incomes in 1970 have been provided.

11. The personal exemption has been increased from $600 to $225 for 1970. These exemptions will be even larger in future years.

12. A low income allowance is provided for individuals with low incomes and/or large families. These and many other provisions in the new tax law are fully explained in the "Farmers' Tax Guide" which is available at your County Extension office.

SNACKER'S DELIGHT

Tasty snacks made from beets, mushrooms, sweet potatoes, and would you believe-parsnips-are now on the market. These vegetables - when sliced and fried in deep fat (like potato chips) become an interesting and nutritious snack.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture's chemists at their Agricultural Research Service laboratories in Philadelphia developed the basic technology for the deep-fat frying of vegetables (other than potatoes). Recently a manufacturer adapted the process and now the tasty little snacks are available in many areas.

One of the most important features - infact, an unexpected advantage of the new products - is that the tastiest snacks were produced from large over-mature, and starchy vegetables not suitable for the fresh market or for most other processing. Production of the new gourmet snack foods include additional flavoring agents. The products also are less oily than the original ones made at the USDA laboratory. Now being commercially produced, the gourmet items are sold in two ounce jars in many specialty food stores and supermarkets throughout the country.

For an attractive asparagus salad you should start with U.S. Grade A or Fancy asparagus spears. Their color is bright and uniform, the heads tight, and the spears free from tough fibers, according to the U.S. Department of Agriculture grade standards.

evidence sluggishness in 1971. In public construction, the hold-back in federal spending for new projects because of budget and anti-inflation considerations, plus the stringent credit climate, restricted 1970 activity. But the ease in credit and the termination of federal holdbacks on new construction outlays should stimulate this phase of the industry to contribute to the overall economic improvement looked for in the ensuing months.

As the recovery in residential building gains momentum, and as consumers loosen their purse strings, production and sales of home furnishings, building materials and supplies, and lumber should show marked improvement.

1971 ECONOMIC PROFILE

The staff of Babson's Reports envisions a strong business tempo in the first half of 1971. Depending upon the scope and length of tie-ups in the steel and copper industries, however, at least a significant slowdown seems unavoidable for a portion of the second half. If the steel workers "hit the pavement," industrial production will encounter a downdraft after midyear; but even if the now apparently remote possibility of an amicable settlement occurs, there will be a "breathing spell" in industrial production as the steel companies and their customers work off strike-hedge stockpiles. Toward the end of the year, renewed buoyancy should be in evidence.

Strength in the first half of 1971 will not be uniform. During the first quarter, we project a dearth of upward in factory output. This will be due, largely to the carryover of post-strike catch-up efforts in the automobile industry. This impetus will be augmented by inventory accumulations in preparation for labor troubles in the industries cited earlier. The second quarter of 1971 will likely see a leveling-off in the business climb as the automotive field returns to more normal levels of operation. Thus, the crucial phase is expected to center in the third quarter of the year when the steel industry must cope with the United Steelworkers. The fourth quarter is likely to encounter some lethargy to begin with, but a show of strength should close out the year.

Throughout 1971, residential building is expected to provide a measure of strength for the economy. Since consumers may require some additional time—a spell of good business—to fortify confidence sufficiently to unleash the pent-up buying potential, not too much vitality is anticipated during the first half of the year from consumer spending; but the tide should run more favorably in the second half, and particularly in the fourth quarter.

TRILLION-DOLLAR ECONOMY

The nation's Gross National Product should rise to a new record rate in 1971, with the year's average exceeding the trillion-dollar mark. This measure of the dollar value of goods and services produced, in current dollars, is expected to average approximately 6% above the rate for 1970. However, much of the gain will stem from price increases, on a deflated basis, Gross National Product will show a much smaller increment, perhaps approximating 3%. Greatest part of the strength is expected to occur during the first half-year, with the first three months evidencing most of the vigor, yet with the second quarter sustained at a high level. The second half of 1971 will see a degree of pullback from the first half, with labor conditions the primary deterrent.

CONSUMER SPENDING SLATED FOR REVIVAL

One of the disappointing aspects of 1970's business picture was the tight-fisted attitude of consumers. Despite the peak rates of personal income, consumers boosted their savings. With the unemployment problem likely to remain a source of concern in much of 1971, the task of reviving consumer confidence will be difficult. We anticipate only moderate gains in consumer spending in the forefront of the year, but strength should become more evident as the year progresses, with 1971 closing out vigorously.

PERSONAL INCOME

The General Motors strike and layoffs in defense-related lines caused a tapering-off in the upward trend of personal income in the second half of 1970. The stronger trend should be resumed in 1971, but the bulk of the upturn is expected in the first six months or so, with some tapering off during the second half. Fresh wage boosts under new labor packs signed during the year; automatic, step-ups in wage rates under existing multi-year contracts; pay boosts for federal, state, and municipal employees; and upward wage adjustments triggered by cost-of-living escalator provisions will combine to propel personal income upward.

EMPLOYMENT CONDITIONS

On the strength of brisk factory operations in the first half of 1971, total employment is expected to post some gains in the new year. But the pinch on profit margins, plus high labor costs, will tend to restrain job expansion. With the natural growth of the population and the retrenchment of U.S. armed forces overseas, the economy may be hard-pressed to absorb all of the growth in the civilian labor force. Unemployment, close to 6% of the available labor force as 1970 drew to a close, seems destined to edge past the 6% mark before relief is encountered.

TAXES

Because of the top priority economic stimulus is slated to receive in 1971, the Babson's Reports staff anticipates little change in personal income and corporate profits tax rates at the federal level, but somewhat higher federal levies toward the year end should not be ruled out if inflation gets out of hand. The tax burden will surely be heavier at state and municipal levels, occurring in a wide range of levies including those on incomes, corporate profits, sales, and property.

BUSINESS PROFITS AND DIVIDENDS

Corporate profits after taxes in 1971 are expected to show a better year-to-year comparison than was the case in 1970. We forecast an increase of some 7% to 8%. However, the profit outlook will take on its healthier hue primarily because of the comeback from the lean year just past. Nevertheless, businessmen must stay on their toes during the next twelve months, since pressures will keep slipping away at profit margins, even though an anticipated higher rate of general business and price markups should give a fillip to earnings. The degree of improvement in profitability could look quite impressive for those companies which turned in poor earnings results in 1970 due to strikes, inventory losses, and changes over in accounting procedures for the handling of sales and profits not yet earned.

Reflecting the improvement in profits, the outlook for corporate dividend payouts in 1971 seems promising than in 1970. While a spate of generous dividends is increased, not anticipated, we do recognize the change for the better in corporate liquidity which, together with improving profits, will allow management to take a somewhat more liberal view toward dividend payout.

FURTHER EASING IN CREDIT CONDITIONS

In 1970, monetary authorities expanded the nation's money supply at a rate which seemed somewhat on the generous side. However, some "armchair quarterbacks" feel even this was inadequate to give the economy a real uplift. So the Federal Reserve may well be under pressure to step up its injection of credit into the banking system, particularly since the Nixon Administration will be applying fiscal measures to pump more life into the ailing economy. In this joint effort both participants are on the horns of a dilemma, — namely, that the economy must be given added vitality without inflationary pressures being granted free rein. Hence, Federal Reserve authorities undoubtedly will keep a finger on the pulse of consumer and business capital expenditures, while the Administration must watch even more closely the rate of increase in prices and wages. Though price-wage controls exist also, but it will probably be only slight and not ruled out as possibilities if "inflation" tactics fail.

Since short-term money rates have already receded significantly from the oppressive levels which existed when the credit crunch was most biting, there is likely to be only a moderate further dip despite the salutary monetary policy and added progress in rebuilding bank liquidity. At the long-term end of the interest rate spectrum, we foresee a easing of borrowing costs also, but it will probably be only slight and not until the latter part of 1971. The degree of easing of long-term money rates will be restrained by the ravenous need for capital, not only by the private sector of the economy but also by states, municipalities, the federal government and its various agencies.

THE INTERNATIONAL SCENE

International problems evident during much of 1970 will persist in the year ahead. The staff of Babson's Reports visualizes a continued touchy and highly inflammable international climate—with numerous tinderboxes—but no World War III. Instead, there will be stalemates in most 1971 world trouble spots, all having explosive possibilities. In addition to heating up the ailing economy, the Nixon Administration can be expected to hew closely to the established "Vietnamization" policy to forestall any further erosion of the GOP's 1972 Presidential hopes. As to the world areas U.S. foreign policy seems likely to stress persuasion rather than military involvement, in hope that the combatants can amicably resolve thorny issues.

In 1971, the greater danger on the international front may be in the trade and financial sectors. The new Congress will have to tangle with the Trade Bill once again. Because of the likelihood of a massive federal budget deficit—and with the emphasis upon credit-easing measures to move the economy forward—the U.S. balance-of-payments position could once more be in jeopardy. The important European central banks are renowned for their abhorrence of budget deficits; hence, the American dollar could fall into disfavor again. Such a development could cause another "flight from the dollar" and drain our already grossly inadequate gold reserves. While these dangers are serious and should not be lightly dismissed, we forecast that economic and inflation problems, which are plaguing most of the leading Free World nations as well as the United States, will take enough pressure off the dollar in international currency markets to avert devaluation in 1971.

BOND MARKET OUTLOOK

The protracted uptrend in money rates resulted in a severely down-trodden bond market during much of 1970. However, toward the end of the year the series of reductions in short-term money rates prompted a vigorous rally in bond prices, particularly in issues bearing near- and intermediate-term maturities. Only sustained brisk demand for long-term capital funds kept prices for long-term bonds from posting commensurate gains.

As 1971 unfolds, prospects favor a continuation of firm-to-higher bond prices. Monetary moves to stimulate the economy should enable money rates to ease a little further. This will be translated into somewhat higher bond prices. How much further bond prices will advance, will be determined by the degree of aggressiveness which the Administration and the Federal Reserve exhibit in seeking to lift the economy. Also, in the second half, and particularly toward the end of the year, the economy should be on a sufficiently strong footing to create more active demand for short- and long-term credit. This could push interest rates back upward.

Even though the extremely generous yields available on bond issues a few months ago have been eroded, investors who require a solid base of fixed income can still find reasonably rewarding bonds among the intermediate- and long-term bonds. There are also some less-lucrative-yield convertible and preferred stocks which can provide inflation-hedge protection via their conversion privileges.

STOCK MARKET PROSPECTS

Threat of a massive liquidity crisis for debt-laden corporate enterprises, and the shock of the Cambodian invasion, sent stock prices sharply lower during most of the first half of 1970. But when investors realized that monetary policy had shifted convincingly to an anti-recession posture, the stock market rallied sharply from late May until midsummer. There followed a fairly confined trading range until the latter part of November when the lowering of money rates sparked a new flurry of buying which carried the Dow-Jones Industrial Average out of its limited-range consolidation phase.

Even though the stock market has already recouped a good deal of the ground lost since the long decline began in late 1968, participation in the rally has been confined to a fairly small segment of the market. Thus, there is still ample room for the rally to broaden. With the advantage of expansive monetary and fiscal policies, the Babson's Reports staff foresees an extension of the late 1970 upturn. Earnings reports more favorable than those of a year ago will also help to build investor confidence in the early months of 1971. Thereafter, worries over the steel industry's labor situation may instill renewed caution.

Overall, the stock market is not likely to experience a sustained upsurge into new high ground in 1971. Limiting factors include the restraint upon corporate profits by cost-increases, uneasiness over international developments and labor problems. Hence, there will be spells of uncertainty as regards the stock market in 1971. A plus factor of significance, however, is the still well-deflated position of a majority of stocks.

There continue to be attractive opportunities for investors who have thus far failed to participate in the market recovery, or for those operating under a conservative investment program. In the case-poor growth area, the Babson's Reports staff favors selected issues in the drug and hospital supply, petroleum, utilities, life insurance, and offshore oil and gas industries. Certain undervalued and depressed cyclical issues offer opportunities for capital appreciation, particularly in the building-related home furnishings, food, automotive equipment, precious metals, trucks, and truck transportation fields. But in view of the many areas of uncertainty, emphasis should be placed upon stocks of companies which are well established and capable of achieving profitability in conjunction with the anticipated business betterment.

Hunting & Fishing

County clerks throughout the state now have available 1971 hunting and fishing licenses. New licenses must be held by participating sportsmen as of January 1. The licenses are valid only during the calendar year and it makes no difference if they were purchased late in 1970 or become available as of January 1, 1971. (Just a word to the wise sportsmen, and there are many of them.)

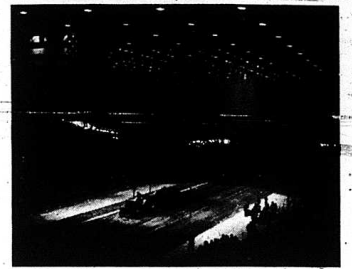

Even if the water temperature is down to the 40 to 50 degree mark, don't despair—fish will bite provided a suitable lure is presented to them in the right manner and at the right time. The best time would be the midday, if the sun is shining. If not, there's no harm in choosing between the early morning, late evening or midday.

In all probability, especially if you are fishing in a pond or lake, the fish will be found on the bottom in the deeper sections of the lake. Of course, you won't find fish 100 feet down for the simple reason they probably would not find oxygen at that depth. The "bottom" we're talking about is from 10 to 20 feet down—maybe up to 40. Because the water is warmed at that depth, fish will be in this area, and although they will get more responsive as the warmer weather, they will bite an artificial lure, especially the nightcrawler, or live bait.

Presenting the lure, it should be worked slowly along the bottom, giving the lethargic fish time to make up its mind as to whether to take the lure. They are slow of movement and slow of thinking, and during the colder weather, a distinct type of fishing is necessary if the fisherman is to be successful.

For instance, if the bottom-running lure is used, it should be bounced along the bed of the pond or lake at a very slow speed. Periodically the lure should be allowed to come up near the bottom. Often while the bait is motionless, the bass will make up its mind that it is hungry and that the bait may satisfy this hunger. But it will not dash at the lure recklessly. Most likely it will pick up the bait and run a short way before deciding for sure that it wants that lure. Once its mind is made up it will dash off, swallowing the lure as it runs. So it is not until the second run that a fisherman should hit back in this type weather. The same holds true for the live bait fisherman. Instead of biting a live nightcrawler or minnow with gusto, the bass in cold weather will prob-

110 drivers will be competing for top cash prizes and trophies during the 1971 National Farm Machinery Show tractor pull Wednesday and Thursday evenings, February 10-11 at the Kentucky Fair and Exposition Center in Louisville. ably fool around a considerable time before deciding it is for real. Now there are fishermen who will ply their trade differently in cold weather, and to be sure, they are successful. But usually the most successful ones are those who take it slow and easy.

Compulsory School Laws Subject Of Grand Jury Recommendation

The November term of the Rockcastle County Grand Jury adjourned Saturday, December 19 and their final report contained two recommendations, one dealing with the matter of Compulsory School Attendance and the other a very favorable report on the jail and other courthouse facilities.

The Grand Jury's recommendation concerning the school attendance laws resulted after the jury heard testimony from one county resident that the laws were not being enforced by school officials. The Grand Jury then called before them the school system's Director of Pupil Personnel to ask for an explanation in the case.

The Grand Jury then decided to make the following recommendation on the subject: "IN THE MATTER OF COMPULSORY SCHOOL ATTENDANCE."

"We, the November, 1970 Grand Jury of Rockcastle County, Ky., do hereby make the following recommendation: That subsequent Grand Juries investigate and follow up on the Grand Jury investigation made by this Grand Jury concerning Compulsory School Attendance Laws. This recommendation is made especially in view of the matters brought before this Grand Jury for investigation; any future Grand Juries should recall witnesses

BABSON'S 1971 BUSINESS AND FINANCIAL FORECAST

BUSINESS AND THE STOCK MARKET

By Babson's Reports Inc., Wellesley Hills, Mass., December 31, 1970. A year ago our Forecast for 1970 cited the "freeman jinx" which has plagued four of the past five decade-opening years. It was our prediction that 1970 would suffer a similar fate. For the better part of 1970, financial markets, industrial activity, inflation, the labor situation, world problems, unemployment, and civil disorders have created some unerving moments.

1971 LOOKS BRIGHTER

By and large, 1971 should be able to chalk up a better performance on many fronts. Part of this improvement will be due to the absence of a number of the perils which beset portions of 1970. The protracted Teamsters' and United Auto Workers' strikes, for example, exacted a heavy toll from general business. Also, the stringency in credit during the early months of 1970 and the virtual disarray of the bond market which persisted even further into the year had a lot to do with retarding business in the last twelve months. With these factors either out of the way or less oppressive, it is logical to anticipate that the economy will show improvement in 1971.

SHIFT OF ADMINISTRATIONS POSTURE

Failure of the Republican Party to make real inroads at national, state, and local levels during 1970's non-Presidential election is likely to have a significant influence on conditions during the year ahead. Prior to the election, the Nixon Administration was content to maintain a laissez-faire policy with respect to management-labor relations, and it emphasized fiscal restraint in an effort to quell inflation. Results of the election, however, pointed up the unmistakable importance of "pocketbook" conditions over the otherwise publicized issues. Therefore, the Babson's Reports staff expects the Nixon Administration to take a more active role during 1971 in stimulating the economy and in enlisting labor and management help in the battle to control cost-push inflation.

NOT ALL CLEAR SAILING

Last readers of this forecast view 1971 with complacency, however, the staff of Babson's Reports sees a number of potential dangers which the nation and its economy must contend with. The real possibility of a labor tie-up in the steel industry, for example, poses a danger to industrial activity on a par with the disruption caused by the I.A.W.'s strike against General Motors. Moreover, inflation and an uncomfortably high level of unemployment seem destined to be problems with which the Nixon Administration and the monetary authorities may have to contend throughout 1971. Summarily, however, unless these potential pitfalls become extreme, healthier business should be the rule for 1971 compared with the wabst year of 1970.

INFLATION STILL AWESOME PROBLEM

A year ago, we labeled Inflation Public Enemy Number One for 1970. This forecast, unfortunately, was all too apropos, as the upward trend of the indexes of consumer prices, wholesale commodity prices, and labor costs in 1970 dramatically proved. Although there may be interim spells when supply-demand ratios in selected areas raise hopes of progress in the fight to harness inflation, it promises once again to be a top issue in 1971.

Despite indications that the Nixon Administration will adopt a harder line against the exorbitant escalation of wages and prices, the die has been cast for another upward twist in the wage-price spiral. The lush new labor pacts inked by auto firms, the signal gains won by the Teamsters, and automatic wage increments under terms of existing multi-year pacts in other industries provide lofty goals for labor's negotiating teams working on new contracts during 1971. On the price front, the squeeze on profits and the resolute upward wage costs leave management no alternative but to raise prices.

In addition to the cost-push factor, other forces could also fan the flames of inflation. For one thing, labor's productivity has not yet improved significantly. Another consideration is the likelihood that the Federal Reserve will continue to ease credit, on balance, as it has in the past year. And it may be forced to go further than desirable, at times, in order to create a credit climate favorable to the Treasury's regular refinancing needs plus the new financings that will be required to fund the fiscal 1971 federal budget deficit, estimates of which range anywhere from $10 billion to $20 billion. The Babson's Reports staff estimates a deficit around $15 billion for fiscal 1971; but it could be much higher. President Nixon's budget for fiscal 1972 (covering twelve months from July 1, 1971 through June 30, 1972) is not yet available, but another sizeable deficit seems unavoidable.

LABOR CO-STARS ON TROUBLE SCENE

The economy was dealt a one-two punch during 1970 by the Teamsters' and United Auto Workers' strikes. But there was a host of other less publicized walkouts. Net result was a skyrocketing of production time lost due to labor disputes. The outlook for 1971 promises little relief from the strike factor. A lengthy series of labor pacts expire in the next twelve months. Among the more significant are the following: Contracts with the major metal container producers run out on February 14; the aluminum industry has a May 31 deadline; the copper producers' pacts expire June 30; and the all-important United Steel Workers' contracts with the steel industry and July 31. In addition, contracts covering approximately 80,000 dockworkers are up for renewal in 1971, involving the International Longshoremen's Association working the Atlantic and Gulf ports, and the International Longshoremen and Warehousemen Union on the Pacific Coast.

PRODUCTIVE CAPACITY -- HELPMATE AND VILLAIN

As 1971 debuts, American industry is operating well below its theoretical capacity. Moreover, new plant and equipment projects started prior to the deceleration of capital outlays last year will be coming on stream in 1971. The nation's productive capacity—which is growing in might and efficiency—provides at least a measure of hope that inflation can be kept within tolerable bounds. Excess productive capacity relative to current levels of demand tends to moderate the severity of price mark-ups, while the use of efficient facilities can bolster profit margins.

But there is, another face to the productive capacity factor. Due to the large gap between productive potential and near-term demand, the urgency to increase new plant and equipment has moderated noticeably. Hence, the Babson's Reports staff does not expect businessmen immediately to resume the expansive rate of outlays for capital equipment which fired the economic boom of the last decade. To the extent that recent cutbacks in business capital expenditures are not fully restored, progress of the economic revival in 1971 could be restrained. Overall, there should be an upward trend in business capital expenditures; but much of this will be due to price inflation. On a physical volume basis, however, the increment will not be equally impressive. However, there could be some assistance if efforts to stimulate the economy incorporate measures restoring even part of the investment tax-credit incentive to capital expenditures.

BUILDING AND CONSTRUCTION

Physical volume of construction in 1970 slipped below that of 1969, reflecting the low level of residential building during part of the year. However, as monetary conditions eased, a promising pickup in new housing starts emerged. The staff of Babson's Reports forecasts increased vitality in the housing field in 1971. In the move to revitalize the economy, new home building is paramount, and some steps have already been taken to assist housing. With residential vacancies negligible and the nation on the threshold of a surge in new family formation, the need for new housing facilities is certainly present. Thus, with mortgage money now more readily available and mortgage interest rates likely to ease some in 1971, the home building field should provide important support for the economy. The outlook for commercial and industrial construction, however, is less promising. Reflecting de-ration of business capital expenditures, the nonresidential building sector is likely to

The state's monthly revenue report released last week showed General Fund tax receipts over the first five months of the current fiscal year up 11.3 per cent over the same period last year. General Fund revenues for the period totaled over $225 million, compared with $203 million last year, while November receipts were nearly $58 million, compared to $45 million for November, 1969. Total Road Fund receipts were off 11.7 per cent for the period, but Road Fund tax receipts were up 4.5 per cent. Agency Funds were up 28 per cent. Among General Fund categories, sales and use tax revenues for the five months were up 8.5 per cent, individual income tax receipts were up 11.2 per cent and corporate income tax receipts were up 7.6 per cent.

J.E. Lockett, commissioner of Revenue, emphasized that the state's economic outlook remains cloudy, and the revenue picture in the months immediately ahead is still uncertain.

KENTUCKY BURLEY MOSTLY SOLD BEFORE CHRISTMAS
Over 85 per cent of Kentucky's projected burley tobacco poundage was sold before the holiday recess, according to figures released by the state Department of Agriculture. Volume on the state's markets during the pre-Christmas auctions was over 327 million pounds, which brought farmers some $236.6 million. The estimate for the total 1970 crop is 383.4 million pounds. Lexington's market led the way, with over 13.5 million pounds sold. Maysville was second, selling 5.3 million pounds. The Greensburg market sold for the highest session average, paying 73.43 per hundred. Auction houses were set to reopen Wednesday, Jan. 6.

EFFORT MADE TO REDUCE OVERUSE OF HEALTH AID
A six-month pilot program has been initiated by state health officials to teach a selected group of medical assistance "over-users" the proper use of physician and pharmaceutical services.

The project, outlined at a recent meeting of the Kentucky Medical Assistance Advisory Council, will determine the feasibility of "lock-in" procedures for the state's health service recipients. Fifty-two beneficiaries of the program will be issued a special identification card, locating them to their selected physicians and pharmacies for six months; emergency cases excepted.

Tom Durcan's Frankfort Watchline

Count on the computer on redistricting. They'll use computer break-downs of the 1970 census figures, of course, in blocking out population.

But when it comes to the actual redrawing of state House and Senate district lines man will whip the machine. And the man in Kentucky will be James Thomas Fleming. The witty, ruddy-faced, cigar-chomping director of the Legislative Research Commission can out-think a computer any day when it comes to Kentucky government and politics. He, not a computer, will spell out for most lawmakers just how one step will affect another in realigning the districts. For example, Jefferson County gained 64,108 in population since the 1960 census—almost exactly the 84,718 for an added Senate seat.

But the county was somewhat shortchanged last time. And even if it now gets eight Senate seats instead of its present seven it would have an excess population of more than 17,000.

If the decision is to split away parts of counties to make districts equal, which 17,000 Jefferson Countians do you put with what other counties to form a Senate district? Lumped with Shelby, Spencer, Oldham and Bullitt counties, they'd come near the ideal population. But do you take the 17,000 from Jefferson's Republican east end of Democratic southwest section? The possibilities multiply at every choice, of course. And if you consider splitting counties for House districts, the prospects force even Fleming to lean on a computer. That was part of the flap over who was getting what census information from Washington—and when. It turns out that an aide in Gov. Louie Nunn's office got a bundle of computer material before the LRC was informed. Not that the Republican administration will try to outflank the Democratic legislative majority in the special session or anything like that. But some cagey soul may have figured that with a computer, a few days head start and Gov. Nunn's control over when the session will start it all just might make an even break with Fleming's brain. Might, that is. *****

Gov. Nunn's power to call the Legislature into session doesn't carry over into authority to send it home, of course. But there will be pressure to get the remapping done and get home—to campaign. Because the deadline for filing in multi-county districts will be March 31. (Cont. To 3)

The Kentucky Turnpike's 15th annual audit report released recently gave a glowing report on the road's current financial success, as well as high hopes for the future.

In fiscal year 1969-70, the Louisville - Elizabethtown highway earned $6,427,899 and more than $3 million of the revenue was used to retire outstanding bonds.

Over half of the original $38.5 million in bonds has been paid since the Turnpike opened in 1956.

Tolls in the current fiscal year are up some seven per cent over last year, indicating a total revenue income of some $7 million by next July 1.

LEAD-FREE GASOLINE AVAILABLE NEXT YEAR

By the middle of next year, at least five of the major gasoline companies will be able to supply the state with lead-free or low-lead for its vehicles.

All the firms suggested the price would be competitive, and that it would range between the present prices of regular and premium gasolines. Most of the firms also expressed reservations about the use of low-lead gasolines in automobiles other than the new 1971 models with engines designed for them.
