RENOVATION
It would be to the higher yields and better quality grazing from your pastures, it can be done through Pasture Renovation by putting legumes back into grass pastures.

A sure fire way to Perk up Pasture Profit Potential is to put legumes into a good stand of grass. Plowing up and starting over are not necessary. Renovation is not only cheap and fast. If the pasture gets started faster and produces more feed quicker.

If you have grazed clover, you are ready to go. If there is a lot of top growth of grass it should be grazed down or mowed so that a disk will cut into the ground more easily.

Test your soil. Put on lime, phosphate, and potash according to the test. Test in the soil. A disk is a very good tool for this job. You should destroy at least 40 to 60 percent of the grass. You can start this disk as soon as the soil is dry enough to be worked. Be sure to disk enough to get a good job done. The big tendency is to under disk. Of the three grasses, fescue, bluegrass and orchardgrass, orchardgrass requires the least disking.

Seed your legumes. The best seed is in Kentucky have come when the seedling was done by March 15. Use the full rate of seeding. The following mixtures and rates are recommended in pounds per acre:

White clover, 1 to 2 lb. and Red clover, 7 to 9 lb.; Annual lespedeza, 20 to 30 lb.; Alfalfa, 12 to 15 lb.; White clover, 1 to 2 lb. and Red clover, 4 to 6 lb.; Alfalfa, 8 to 10 lb. and Ladino white clover, 1/2 to 1 lb.

Take care of the pasture when new growth gets underway by (1) good grazing management; (2) clipping to keep down the pasture; (3) making sure that the new legumes can get sunlight, air and water; (4) topdressing annually with fertilizer to maintain the stand and get high yields. Seed can be drilled or broadcast but should not be covered more than 1/2 inch. Be sure the seeds are properly inoculated to provide a built-in nitrogen fixation.

HELPFUL HINTS FOR STOCKMEN
Dr. Gay, beef cattle specialist for the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture, reminds farmers that lice become a problem during the winter months. "Farmers should keep backcrabbers and dusters charged," he said, "and should spray during suitable weather if necessary."

Dr. Gay also advises that farmers: "Use newborn calves a chance to survive. 'Make sure they nurse soon after they are born,' he said, 'if one's mother isn't producing milk, use the calf colostrum from another source.'"

Dr. Gay recommends getting colostrum from a nearby dairyman if the farmer doesn't have a supply on hand. "Freeze it in 1/2 pint cartons so you'll have some ready to use and warm for that calf whose mother won't claim it or isn't producing milk."

Beef breeders' nutrient needs increase drastically following calving. Separate wet cows from dry cows, and then feed them accordingly.

Farmers should remember to treat the navel of newborn calves with veterinary iodine solution to protect them from possible bacterial infection.

Weathered grass or grass has less protein than a nutrient in vitamin A and phosphorus. These are critical nutrients of farmers should be certain that they are available to the beef cattle.

Tetany among beef cows is an unpredictable and complicated disorder, says Dr. Gay, says energy deficiency and mineral imbalances are most frequently to blame. Supplementary energy (grain or molasses) along with supplementary magnesium seems to prevent the best method of prevention.

LANDSCAPE
Of course, winter is still here, but should begin to think and plan for next year's flowers and all ornamentals that may be needed to replace those that have died or are getting so old that they no longer are contributing to the good effects we want. It's an interesting thing, but plants are just like people in that they get old and eventually die. Some plants grow old gracefully, and others do not. This means the homeowners must be constantly on guard and be willing to replace, or at least get rid of the plant before it develops forms of growth that are freakish looking.

One sometimes sees evergreens in the front foundation planting that are so near dead and badly deformed that they are ghastly looking rather than good looking as they should be in that location. Half-dead plants or those that have lost a number of their branches should be removed and destroyed. Now is the time to plan for this and, also, remove the old plants ever if the new ones are not to be set for a month or so.

It is rather difficult to remove some of the plants and leave a nice appearance unmarred by large stumps to replace those removed. Very often it is wise to remove the entire front foundation planting, at least on the side of the foundation, and let these young plants grow along.

Regardless of what is done, be sure and get rid of the old deformed plants -- they are eyesores.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Forced Fingerprinting

Arrested for a traffic offense, Hand objected strenuously to being fingerprinted. He finally gave in, but only under protest. Shortly afterward, he filed suit against the city, demanding that his prints be destroyed.

"They were taken by force," he pointed out at a court hearing. "That was a violation of my constitutional rights. According to the Fifth Amendment, no one shall be forced to be a witness against himself."

However, the court ruled against Harold, saying he could no more withhold his fingerprints than he could mask his face or cover up a tattoo.

"The witness does not testify," said the court. "The facts speak for themselves."

Generally speaking, courts have agreed that forced fingerprinting is not a violation of the Fifth Amendment.

But another objection has also been raised: isn't this an invasion of privacy? A man arrested on a misdemeanor charge made that argument in opposing the fingerprinting procedures of the local police.

But this objection too was turned down in court. Calling attention to the great need for fingerprinting in law enforcement, the judge said:

"If a man's privacy has its limitations and is not always superior to the rights of the public, the taking of fingerprints is a humiliation to which a possibly innocent person must submit for the benefit of society."

Of course, fingerprints, like all facts, are infallible. They may be just as useful in proving a man's innocence as in proving his guilt.

In a murder case, a bottle found at the scene of the killing had several fingerprints on it. But none matched those of the man arrested for the crime. The prosecutor decided that since the prints did not help his case, he would not bring them into court at all.

But at the trial, the defense attorney said the fingerprint evidence should be brought in for the benefit of the prisoner. To the court, this was "elemental justice." The prints were duly displayed to the jury -- and helped the prisoner go free.

School Board Opens Bids

Fifteen bids were opened Monday night by the Rockcastle County Board of Education for two used school buses, three small trucks and a house on school property at Livingston, which the board had authorized for bids.

Successful bids for the 1954 36 passenger school bus was Clayton Hammond with a bid of $100, the 1954 Dodge school bus was bid in by Gilmer Pruitt for $128.35; a 1967 Dodge panel truck was sold to Ed Sikes for his bid of $440 and McKinley Hise bought a 1960 Chevrolet panel truck for $80 and a 1955 Ford truck for $45. The house, which is located on the ball park at Livingston School and which must be torn down and moved, was purchased by Earl Ponder for $61.50.

In other business, Wayne Vansant, son of Mr. and Mrs. Willie Vansant, was hired by the board to teach English at Mt. Vernon School. Mr. Vansant replaces Mrs. Ted Ramsey, who resigned that post effective February 24.

A contract with Kentucky Utilities to provide service for the new school at a minimum payment of $1 for the first year was discussed by the board. Superintendent Parsons explained to the board that representatives of KU had met with him and asked that the board accept a minimum contract of $26,150 for the first year's operation. This means that even if the school should use less electricity for heating, air conditioning, etc., the payment to KU would still be $26,150 the first year. KU said that the minimum payment was necessary because of the amount of expense involved on their part in installing the necessary equipment to service the schools.

However, Mr. Parsons told the board that he had checked with the architectural firm in charge of construction of the school and they had advised him that a more realistic figure to be used in the first-year minimum contract would be $24,400.

On a motion by Willie Taylor, seconded by Kenneth Adams, the board voted to accept the architect's figure for the first-year contract.

Two substitute teachers, Brenda Gentry and Clelia Ray Brown, were hired by the board during the meeting, subject to certification, and a continuing contract for Mrs. Loreta Dillingham, home economics teacher at Livingston, was approved.

In the only other major item of business, a contract in the amount of $59,700 with the Hauserman Corp. school was approved. Mr. Parsons told the board that although the contract is for 1971-72, the school were tight, that the partitions could be paid for out of the 1971-72 capital outlay funds when only a half-payment is due on the school building bonds. He also told the board that a bid of $23,000 would be approved through the Title I project for use on the new school, since there are three rooms for this program included in the school, and that this money could be used for the partitions.

Clay County Downs Devils In District Tourney Play

A tight, nervous bunch of Mt. Vernon Red Devils took the floor Tuesday night against a tough Clay County team and were defeated in the first game of district play 70 to 54.

The Red Devils were cold throughout the first quarter and it showed. They were cold on shooting, were out rebounded solidly by the much bigger Tigers and could only garner eight points the first quarter.

The Devils were forced to numerous turn-overs by Clay County's hard press and by sloppy ball handling. The game was never really in question; however the Red Devils did pull to within four in the second quarter. The score at half-time was 20 to 34 in favor of the Tigers and at the third quarter stop, the Tigers were ahead 51 to 39.

Dale Coffey, playing his last game for Mt. Vernon, garnered 17 points followed by Jim Mullins, playing a good game in a substitute role, sunk 4, George Powell, also a senior, got 11, and Rudy Burdette and Tommy Coffey, both seniors, got 7 and 5 points, respectively. Two of Mt. Vernon's starters, Tommy Coffey and David McCaskey, fouled out of the game.

Clay County will now meet Ansville, who drew a first round bye, in the first game Friday night. Wednesday night, the Brodhead Tigers took on Jackson County and Livingston at Oneida.

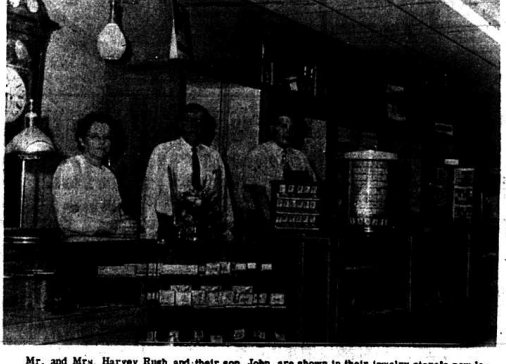

PIGG APPROACHED AFTER LONG CHASE

Roose Pigg, 40, of Brodhead was approached by a wild pig Wednesday night by Lloyl Albright, city policeman of Brodhead, after a 31-mile chase which began in Brodhead.

According to Albright, about 9:15 p.m. Monday night, he observed Pigg coming through Brodhead on U.S. 150 traveling at a high rate of speed. Albright said he gave chase but Pigg refused to stop until he neared Waynesburg when he stopped the car, jumped out and ran into the thicket.

Albright said that he thought Pigg had something in his hand when he ran into the thicket and when he (Pigg) refused to put his hands up or come out on command, he (Albright) shot him in the left leg near the ankle.

Pigg is a patient in the Rockcastle County Baptist Hospital. At press time, no charges had been filed.

Vernon area, considerable inconvenience last Thursday afternoon. Workmen were cutting the tree down on the Mt. Vernon Auto Parts property on Main Street in Mt. Vernon when it fell across electrical wires and burnt down three-spans of conductors. 850 customers were out for 25 minutes and 111 were out for 3 hours and 25 minutes. A district line crew of nine men worked four hours repairing the damage.

A tobacco barn belonging to James Noe, and located in Owens Subdivision, was completely destroyed by fire late Saturday afternoon. Several small tools, belonging to Jack Mullins, were also lost in the blaze. Mr. Noe said the barn was not insured. The exact cause of the blaze is undetermined. Shown in the above photo fighting the blaze are Kermit Bullock and Wayne McNew.

Demountable Partitions, such as those shown in the above photo, will be installed in the new central high school, the Rockcastle County Board of Education decided at their regular monthly meeting Monday night. The partitions will be installed in the classroom section of the school at a cost of $69,700. The partitions allow for flexibility in programming in that they can easily be moved to allow open space or to provide small or larger rooms.

Two representatives from each Girl Scout Troop in Mt. FAIRVIEW

Rev. Ray Dean filled his regular appointment at Fairview over the week end with good attendance. 104 persons were present for Sunday School. Thank the good Lord for each and every one of them. It's so wonderful to be able to go to church. You know we need spiritual food as much as we need physical food. To me a week end isn't complete without church service. So if you aren't attending church anywhere where you please start, it will be a great blessing to you.

We also thank God for the one profession of faith at our church Sunday and the one re-dedication. May God bless these two young people and all others elsewhere.

Attending the singing at the Dixie Park Baptist Church in Berea Sunday afternoon were Mrs. Flossie Burdine, Mr. and Mrs. Willie Cope and son, Buddy, and Mrs. Hubert Chastain. The attendance at this meeting was one of the largest I've seen for a long time. I was so impressed with the number of young folks who took part.

Mr. and Mrs. Glen Ponder and daughter, Edith Rae, spent last week end in Greensburg, Indiana with his sister, Mrs. Fred Whipple and Mr. Whipple. Please remember church and Sunday School. Pray for one another, love your neighbor, and have respect and concern for your fellow man. God bless you all.

HUNTING AND FISHING

Kentuckians often are not as aware of the fine fishing available in the commonwealth's major lakes as are residents of neighboring states. This premise is strengthened by the fact that the sale of fishing licenses to resident and non-resident, for 1969. According to records in the Fiscal Control section of the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources, a total of 283,026 Kentucky residents purchased fishing licenses during that year while out-of-staters bought 107,711.

By applying extremely rough figures, one can determine that about four out of ten persons who fished in Kentucky were from out-of-state. This statement is true for license buyers, but a little quirk exists in that the percentage of resident fishermen is much greater than that of out-of-state fishermen. All residents, 25 and older are allowed to fish free, without a license. Also, youngsters under 16 who are residents of the state are given the right to fish without paying a fee. Persons in both these categories from out-of-state must pay and therefore their numbers are included in the 107,711 column, while in the resident license column we must count also those thousands of Kentuckians who are exempted because of age and pay no license fee.

Capital Digest

Local courts around Kentucky were able to collect $63,857 last year in provisions for unpaid bail-bond judgments with the help of the State Insolvency Department's new bail bondmen licensing program. The judgments against some of the 103 bail-bond firms now licensed to operate in the state were for bonds which had been forfeited. The payments were forced during examinations by the department to determine if bondsmen currently holding licenses should have them renewed. No firm or individual can continue to operate as a bondsman if a judgment is unpaid. Those figures were released by Insurance Commissioner Robert Preston as his department prepared to receive annual accounting reports due from bail bondsmen by March 1. The reports will contain the following year's rates to be charged by each firm, which the department will use to determine if those rates are applied uniformly to all customers. Of the total in judgments the department required to be paid, Jefferson Circuit Court received the largest amount, $33,320. Other circuit courts receiving substantial sums were Pulaski, $7600; Barren, $4600; and Montgomery, $3000. GROUP WORKS TO STOP MIGRATION TO CITIES A group working to reverse the flow of Kentuckians from rural areas to cities recently heard a U.S. Agriculture Department official say the federal government is ready to help them get their programs under way. The Kentucky Development Committee, organized in the early fifties and made up of local and state government agencies and private organizations and business, maintains the migration to the cities has created the massive problems of pollution, congestion and crime, while leaving rural areas without a sufficient tax base to provide adequate services. At a recent meeting of the group in Louisville, Dr. Henry Ahlgren, deputy under secretary of agriculture, said "Now there is agreement at the national level that a massive effort is needed to slow down the rural-to-urban migration, and perhaps to reverse it." The KDC has sponsored programs to show rural residents what development possibilities exist in their areas and encourage residents to get the job done. A committee spokesman noted that improvements in transportation and communications have made it possible for people to remain in rural areas and still make a living by means other than farming. All that really needs to be done is to convince people of that, he said.

ASHLAND FIRM ORDERED TO AIR POLLUTION HEARING The Semet Solvay coke plant at Ashland must appear for a hearing before the Air Pollution Control Commission to determine if permits should be granted for the firm's continued operation. This will be the first major industry subject to a hearing under the agency's permit regulations, which took effect in November 1968, with a July 1, 1970, deadline. Semet Solvay's permit application was received by the commission in early December, but it failed to reflect compliance with at least two regulations, the staff reported. The commission's technical director Frank Partee said he viewed the action as having great significance. He said there are "a great number" of other air contaminant sources which have not applied for permits. "We're attempting to work on these things on a priority basis and this was a long-standing problem, so it got a high priority." MED SCHOOLS WILL TRAIN FAMILY SPECIALISTS The medical schools at the University of Kentucky and the University of Louisville are moving toward the establishment of departments of family practice after trustees at both schools recently approved the action. At least 25 UK medical students have expressed interest in the program, and officials there hope to initiate the three-year residency program for family specialists by the beginning of next fall semester. Only a one year internship is required for medical graduates to become general practitioners. The family specialist is viewed as more prevention-oriented, focusing on long-term health care for patients instead of episodic treatment when a particular disease must be remedied, a UK spokesman said.

Such a doctor might be more suitable for small-town practice than the more restricted specialist who can be supported only by a large population. HIGH PRICE, LOW POOLING ON 70-71 BURLEY Last year's burley tobacco brought the second highest average price on record while the percentage of pooled burley was the lowest since 1965, according to the Market News Service. Over the eight-state belt, some 590.6 million pounds averaged $74.14 per hundred. Kentucky markets sold 402.2 million pounds, or better than two of every three pounds sold in the belt, and the commonwealth's largest averaged $72.12. The state's biggest market in Lexington sold 81 million pounds with an average of $72.50. Highest season average was paid by the Greensburg market, selling 9.4 million pounds at $73.09 per hundred. Auction bid samplings included in the season-ending report showed moderate price increases for burley grades and flyings, but the most sizeable gains were shown by some red grades of leaf and the tips. DRUGGISTS MUST SIGN NARCOTICS PRESCRIPTIONS Kentucky's attorney general has ruled that it is illegal for pharmacists to type information in filling prescriptions for narcotic drugs. The date the prescription is filled, along with the pharmacist's signature should be written in ink to make it difficult to erase, the opinion said. The ruling was sought by Louisville hospital pharmacy which said it is common practice to type the date of filling and the pharmacist's name. The opinion held the information must be handwritten on the face of the prescription to cancel it according to law. FARM BUREAU ASKS CAR INSURANCE HIKES The state's second largest single-car insurer has asked for an overall increase in its automobile insurance rates amounting to about nine percent, worth $972,543 per year. The Kentucky Farm Bureau Mutual Insurance Co., which writes some seven per cent of the automobile policies in the state, has been granted a hearing on the proposal at 9 a.m. on March 11. The requested increases are chiefly in the categories of property damage, which covers more than the tolerance in Central and Eastern Kentucky. The subcommittee professed not to have noticed until it was pointed out, Chairman Jones, up 20 percent in the new filing. The company proposes a reduction in medical payments coverage cost of 13.8 percent, while liability coverage for bodily injury would remain relatively unchanged. Farm Bureau's last rate revision came after a hearing in May 1969, when a 4.5 per cent increase in rates was approved. TOM DUNCAN'S Frankfort Watchline Self-preservation is a wonderful instinct. For a while at least it's the over-riding force guiding work on redrawing Kentucky House and Senate district lines. Some of the broad picture of meeting one-man, one-vote standards figured in preliminary work before the special session. But now even party and factional loyalties can be factored in as a lawmaker sees what's proposed for "my district." And except for those not planning to run again or in a spot that can hardly be hurt, most are thinking of No. 1. And No. 1 is "a governor's race. That, mercifully, was out in the shadow for a time by the remaining proposals, and the grumbling and maneuvering seemed unlikely either the House or Senate will pass unchanged the new plans. And one major change in a map almost forces others. But the Senate's first proposal, for example, includes a 6th district that could be labeled the "West Wall." It stretches from Logan County on the Tennessee line, through Butler and Owsley, to Breckinridge and Meade on the Ohio River at Louisville's gates. "It crimps plenty of rural incumbents to the east. The House proposal caused most complaints over the idea of splitting away parts of 31 counties. But it also raised a question by allowing Western Kentucky districts less population variance than the tolerances in Central and Eastern Kentucky. The subcommittee professed not to have noticed until it was pointed out, Chairman Jones, up 20 percent in the new filing. The company proposes a reduction in medical payments coverage cost of 13.8 percent, while liability coverage for bodily injury would remain relatively unchanged. The House proposal caused some lawmakers seeking help from any source to keep from being hurt in restricting redistricting the approach of a small boy with an adult vocabulary. He'd managed to climb a large tree but couldn't get down. After calling his mother again and again without result, he yelled, "We'll, anybody's damn mama got me down!"  The Kentucky Education Association's intentional vagueness on the cost of its 1972 legislative program may be paying off. Just after filing for the Democratic race for governor, former Gov. Bert Combs said he favors cost-of-living raises for teachers. Asked if he meant the KEA plan, Combs said, "I think it's good to formula as any, if they're satisfied." But he later said he understood the plan to be three to six percent raises—not four—and explained he was thinking of the KEA proposal only as "sort of a preliminary yardstick." *****

As state says Lt. Gov. Wendell Ford's plan for sharing state revenue with local governments is not based on population. But he won't say what it is based on. Votes maybe?  Mrs. Louie Nunn's physical troubles are not dangerous—except to the peace of mind of a lady who likes to be up and doing. She actually suffered a mishap while she and Gov. Nunn were vacationing. Her five-day hospital stay was enough to try her energetic nature. But she'll be confined to the Madison white.  TRY OUR CLASSIFIEDS

"Who wants to clean the oven?"

(must be an electric self-cleaning oven)

if everybody's that willing to tackle the world's meanest kitchen chore... well, it simply must be an electric range with the oven that cleans itself automatically. Completely — oven floor, door, walls, racks. For pennies.

Another reason for the happy faces could be the delicious meals that a flameless electric range, with its precise controls, helps you turn out.

Incidentally, for amazingly fast cooking, consider an electronic oven; cooks a 5-pound roast in thirty minutes! Electric or electronic, see your dealer now and start cooking the modern way.

Indoors or out—electric cooking is America's Favorite.

For good cooking electricity outdoors — a portable electric grill. No coals, no starting, no cleaning up.

Lunchtime Power For Kids On-The-Go

When the kids are having an absolute blast, nothing short of a rope around the neck will convince them that it's time to break for something to eat.

So mom, why fight it? Next time the kids scoot off to the toboggan run, the sledding hill, or skating pond, pack 'em food to tote along. Make it hot 'n' hearty... snow sports and nippy air are the perfect combo to create roaring appetites. For some lunchtime power for kids on-the-go, consider canned Spaghetti with Meatballs in Tomato Sauce. It's quick to heat, easy to pack (use a wide-mouth vacuum bottle and don't forget the spoons), and so good to eat! Made with enriched spaghetti, beefy meatballs, and a secret tomato sauce... it has the satisfying goodness that kids hangery yearn for.

Add a bit of spunk to the spaghetti with additions of sweet gherkin pickles and celery salt. Include, too, hot chocolate, apples, and tomato cookies.

SPUNKY SPAGHETTI

1 cup thinly sliced sweet gherkins
1/2 cup celery salt
1/2 cup tomato cookies
Makes 4 to 6 servings.
