Whole Family Gets In This Picture

By SUE WARGREN

When mother started painting again, art became a whole way of life for the members of the James R. Young family at 825 Della Drive.

The house at that address almost tells the story of this family interest.

Some 50 pictures cover the living room walls alone.

In other parts of the house, the walls show some of the oils of Mrs. Young, water colors of the younger members Tony, 7, and Randall, 5, the decoupage of Teresa, 12, and some cutout works of Sheila, 9.

The living room rug has been removed so that the four young artists can work easily on the bare floor.

Additionally, each has a corner in his room reserved for art work.

Mrs. Young, Anita, turns out her work from a card table and easel in the corner of her bedroom.

Mr. Young, the last member of the family to take to brush and paint, devotes most of his time to the duties of president of the Blue Grass Artists Association. He recently completed two small oils, but will not hang his works with those of the other members of the family.

"My main interest is building the Association and being coordinator for this family interest."

Anita is the real artist in the family, but like all our interests, her art has become very important to the whole family.

Right now, the whole family is excited about Mrs. Young's showing of her works which opens Sunday at The Book Mart at 238 North Limestone Street. Exhibit hours are 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. daily except Mondays and Fridays. A reception will be held from 2 to 4 p.m. Sunday.

Featured in the exhibit is a collection of miniatures. Mrs. Young's greatest art interest now.

These miniatures which also are on exhibit in the Capitol in Frankfort, feature Kentucky rural scenes.

"I love painting rural scenes, probably because I was born in Eastern Kentucky," Mrs. Vernon and I think once you have lived in the country, you never get used to city scenes.

Two of the most popular are of Central Kentucky horse farms.

Mrs. Young gives credit to her father for developing her early interest in art. He was a country school teacher for 45 years and encouraged his daughter while she was his student.

"He also always said I was his lucky child because I was the 13th of 17 children and was born on the 13th day of the month.

Although the art interest was always with her, Mrs. Young says she did not take up painting until two years ago.

"And that's when the whole family got interested."

Teresa has won art shows at school and has taught decoupage to her class.

Sheila has won several school contests with water colors. In fact, she won so many prizes that her name was removed from the last competition. Right now, she is working on a poster for a national 4-H contest.

Tony likes to work with water colors.

Randall has been encouraged to pursue his interest in art by Mrs. Young's teacher, Bill Smith.

And Mr. Young has spent most of his leisure hours in the past year serving as president on the Artists Association . . . the hours, that is, that he is not working as president of the Fayette County 4-H Club Council and as director of the Fayette Education Service District.

During the past year, painting has joined hands with another pleasant family hobby — camping.

The Youngs have camped from one end of the state to the other and now combine painting with their trips.

"We now pack up art supplies for the whole family when we start getting our camping equipment ready."

In the summer, the family accompanies Mr. Young on business trips and while he makes calls on customers during the day, the family camps in its big tent . . . and naturally does some painting.

The Eglin staff was cited for training more than 1,500 ARRS personnel during a 16-month period. Center personnel were also honored for accomplishing the first operational overseas deployment of rescue helicopters, using in-flight refueling to provide long-range capability.

Aircrews assigned at the center were especially recognized for flying support for the Apollo program, major tactical training exercises and disaster relief following Hurricane Camille in Mississippi in 1959.

Sergeant Parsons will wear a distinctive service ribbon to mark his affiliation with the Eglin facility.

Fred Mullins, Sr. was honored on his 65th birthday Sunday, March 14 with a dinner at his home at Orlando. Mr. & Mrs. David Bogges of Central City, Ky. "Our baby loves the floor," says Mrs. Bogges, "and with our electric heat she's perfectly safe. It's so even and cozy -- wall to wall, floor to ceiling. The right humidity helps keep her healthy, too."

"The comfort's fine with me, too," says Mr. Bogges. "But I'm really impressed with electric heat's economy."

The wonder drug that prevents babies from being born blind, deaf, mentally defective and dead from German Measles.

The wonder is people won't use it.

Women who get German Measles while they are pregnant may have a 50-50 chance of having a defective child. Not very good odds.

During the past year, 100,000 babies were born with many more serious defects than the next tragedy.

Most of the babies are born to children of school age who are immunized with a safe effective vaccine. But the vaccine is useless unless we use it.

The list of excuses is long. But time is short. Another big outbreak is expected this year in Kentucky.

If you are desperately need to know if the epidemic is to be averted, it starts there.

What you need is now. If you see your children see that they are protected against German Measles. Ask your family doctor. Or the health department.

What you do after reading this could make a lot of difference. The difference between life and death.

More Signers Needed For Water District

Approximately 115 more signers are needed to assure the success of the Northern-Rockcastle County Water District, according to Byron Baker, a director of the District. Mr. Baker said that to date between 45 and 50 persons of the 165 needed, have signed for the water and paid the $100 fee. May 1 is the deadline which has been set for the signing-up. The entire project hinges on getting the 165 signers since this is the minimum number which engineers for Farmers Home Administration say is necessary to make the project financially feasible. A survey taken last fall in the area, by the engineers, showed that there were 167 persons willing to sign for the water and the amount of the FHA grant (40%) was figured on this basis. The $100 fee which is paid at the time of signing pays for the meter. Of course, each customer will then be responsible for running the line from the meter to his house. The base water bill will be $7.00 a month for the first 2,000 gallons.

If all the signers are obtained, $24,000 will be available July 1 and it is hoped that bids and the contract could be let immediately thereafter. If you wish to sign for the water, you may do so by contacting one of the following: Byron Baker, Lonzo McCollum, Robert Abney, Jack Pursons, Jan Stevens or Herbert Coffey.

Judgment Awarded

An $1,800,000 judgment was awarded Lincoln County woman by a Rockcastle Circuit Court Jury last week.

The judgment was found against Everett Cash and the Rockcastle County Board of Education and stemmed from an accident which occurred in March of last year on Highway 616 in Rockcastle County. Mrs. Dessie Schaffer, 62, was awarded the damages for medical expenses which were incurred by her after her car was struck by a county school bus.

A Circuit Court Jury also awarded Clint Gill, about 30, of Mt. Vernon to four years in the State Penitentiary on four counts of forgery.

On Tuesday of this week, Wade Miller of Rockcastle County was fined $100 and cost on a charge of "Maliciously Cutting" Carl Kirby of Calloway.

"MY MOTHER ONLY KNEW" is the name of the three-act play which will be presented by the Mt. Vernon Senior Class next Thursday night, April 1, at 7:30 p.m. in the school's gymnasium. Joe Young Named

To Planning Commission

Joe Young of Mt. Vernon was elected to the Municipal Planning Commission by the Mt. Vernon City Council at a continued session meeting of that body Monday night.

Besides Mr. Young, other members of the Commission are Larry Travis, Clifford Bales, Charles "Tuck" Baker and Councilman Jimmy Robinson.

In other business, the Council turned down a request by Roscoe Gustafson of Dearborn, Michigan to purchase a 70' x 120' right-of-way across city property to build a road to a subdivision he is developing. Mr. Gustafson offered the City $300 for the land and told them that the right-of-way would greatly facilitate the building of the road for him and would be beneficial to the City in that other land belonging to the City would be opened by the road.

However, the Councilmen were advised by City Attorney Carl Clontz that they could not legally grant the right-of-way unless they could show a legitimate benefit to the City of Mt. Vernon. Mr. Clontz suggested that the Council ask Mr. Gustafson to agree to the right-of-way of about 10 acres of the land on which the sub-

Well, the Dairy Farmers in Rockcastle County will have to go some to top a recent story we heard concerning a Dairy Farmer in Pulaski County. According to Buster Wilcox, Joe Livesay has three cows which had a total of six calves within three weeks of each other. Now let's see you top that....

Have you noticed how scroungy our garbage cans along Main Street have been getting recently? Well, perhaps some of the local civic organizations would take a hint and see if they don't think that the replacing of these cans would be a good local project....

I must commend everyone (including a pilot on my cooperative we have all been concerning the double-parking on Main Street. If you will just stop and remember how congested it used to be between 8:30 and 9:30 in the morning you will realize how well the situation has been resolved. Of course, we won't talk about the shape of my front and back bumper from having to park so much more than I am used to. But speaking of parking and traffic in general, have you been to Lexington lately?

Well, I have several times and I am more thankful each time that I live here I do and don't have to fight the city traffic daily. Maybe I would be more accustomed to it eventually but if you're like me and don't know where you're going half the time or how to get there it's really a nerve-wracking experience. I can't imagine anyone who would subject themselves to it for minor little old things such as shopping or entertainment. It takes a national emergency to even get me on the interstate has been resolved.

IMPVT. COUNCIL HOLDS MEETING

The regular monthly meeting of the Rockcastle County Improvement Council was held Monday night, March 22 in the Rockcastle County Courthouse with Roy Brown, president, presiding.

During the meeting, a motion was made by Sam Ford, seconded by Galitt Craig, that Paul Crabbe, Commissioner of the Department of Commerce and others from his office be invited to spend two days in Rockcastle County to be briefed on what is available in the industrial sites, water supply, etc. Motion carried.

Mr. Ford also reported to the organization that the Jaycees are planning a homecoming celebration in Rockcastle County for July 23, 24 and 25. The homecoming activities will include a horse show and recognition of prominent people in Rockcastle County.

The possibility of a portable canning operation being set up locally was also discussed. Lindsey Canning Co. was mentioned as a possible sponsor and the canning and freezing of blackberries was discussed. About 40 tons of blackberries were bought in Rockcastle County last year by Nathan Mullins for export.

Roscoe Gustafson of Dearborn offered the Council an option on 100 acres of land in Rockcastle County at $1,000 an acre to be used for an industrial site. The option would be set for approximately 90 days.

A resolution concerning the construction of two dams on the Rockcastle River was adopted by the Council. The resolution will go to Senator Marlowe Cook.

WE'RE SORRY, BUT...

What we mean is that our typesetter really wasn't interested this week, if anything our typesetting machine was. Late Tuesday afternoon the machine quit justifying the lines and since repairs constitute either a trip by us to Lexington or waiting for a repair man to get down here we couldn't do anything about it until Thursday.

We apologize for the appearance of the paper this week and hope to have everything set to rights next week.

LIVINGSTON RESIDENTS HURT IN WRECK

A wreck, which occurred last Friday evening on Highway 461 eight miles south of Mt. Vernon, resulted in injuries to three Livingston residents.

Hurt in the collision were Wayne Durham, 31, his wife, Helen Durham, 27, and Verna Durham, 19. Mrs. Durham and Verna Durham received Class A injuries and Mr. Durham received Class B injuries. All three were transferred to a Lexington hospital.

The other car involved in the wreck was driven by Howard Cox Venable, 54, of Dayton, Ohio. Mr. Venable received Class C injuries. Letter To The Editor

March 19, 1971

Dear Editor,

After reading your article concerning Hepatitis outbreak in the schools, I could not resist looking for more information about the disease. I read in one of my textbooks and found the following information:

Hepatitis is a disease that causes inflammation of the liver cells. The disease has two forms: Infectious Hepatitis and Serum Hepatitis. The most common form of the disease is Infectious Hepatitis. It is caused by two different viruses and is spread through human excreta, direct personal contact and food contaminated by the virus, including water. Serum Hepatitis is essentially the same, but is spread by syringes and needles that have been in contact with blood and are not properly cleaned. Serum Hepatitis is not spread through feces. All persons with Infectious Hepatitis should be isolated for at least seven (7) days. Persons with Serum Hepatitis do not need to be isolated, but if the form of the disease has not been established, the person should be isolated. It is important that bowls, cups, etc. be disinfected before disposal unless public sewage facilities are available. Thorough hand-washing is important for the person following the use of the bathroom.

I cannot see that the school environment would be satisfactory enough to control Hepatitis. Have you ever stopped to think how many children in the first grade through the eighth grade stop and wash their hands thoroughly after each use of the bathroom? The fact that Infectious Hepatitis is spread through human excreta would make a child contaminated after each use of the bathroom.

Suppose he went from the bathroom into the lunchroom to eat his lunch. The first bite of food he ate could become contaminated. Also, there is the factor that the child comes into direct personal contact with other children, which is another way of spreading Infectious Hepatitis.

If, and I quote from the article in the Signal, "All reported cases acquired the infection from exposure to a person with which had previously had Hepatitis," how many people had they come into direct personal contact with before their symptoms had been confirmed as Hepatitis? I cannot believe that this school environment would be sanitary enough to control any infectious disease, including Hepatitis.

Frankfort Watchline

Now's the time to run get your brother.

It's like the time when the country boy saw two trains headed for an inevitable collision. Asked at the investigation what he did and why, he said:

"I ran to get my brother—he's never seen a train wreck."

Either way and "I'll relatives can sit back a while and see the collision of Lt. Gov. Wendell Ford and former Gov. Bert Combs in the Democratic race for governor.

Both sides seem to sense that now's the time—and the dirt, or mud, may soon be flying.

Combs' forces are being their efforts on the idea that he's going to win, that anyone expecting to share in the rewards had better get aboard now—and that Ford is just plain weak.

Ford's camp can be expected to start punching at Combs' record the last time around—with enough mention of truck deals to cause bad blood between old friends.

Neither side will say so but indications are that unusually large number of voters have their minds made up already.

So the bitter battling will be over a relatively few votes.

But if you'll look beyond the image-makers' advertising you'll see some of the most intense maneuvering in the political arena of a generation.

And in the meantime the Republican ticket headed by Gov. Emert can't move troubles internally than from the outside.

Although the feeding is still in the mulling stage, the slogan "The Spirit of Kentucky Today" could be changed to the old sports yell "Fight, team, fight!"

And the fighting could be among themselves.

Just to add to the mix former Gov. A.B. "Happy" Chandler is shaking his papers as a non independent candidate.

So run get your brother—if you can catch him.

Kentucky Education Association leaders have denied that membership dropped after the teachers' strike during the 1970 Legislature. But their own statements indicate otherwise.

In announcing a drive to get teachers registered to vote, Dr. Marvin Dodson referred to KEA's 29,000 members.

Not quite a year ago KEA officially listed 31,800 members.

Either way, with relatives and friends added, it represents a potent political force.

And all sides figure the KEA leadership will point it in favor of Combs, Ford, although making some conciliatory moves, will be trying to drive a wedge between the leaders and the body of teachers.

Over 500 Kentuckians turned out as planned for a study of the state's school education needs were unveiled at a Jaylong Governor's Conference on Exceptional Children in Frankfort.

The study will include a survey of additional special education needs of the state's 182 school districts and the ultimate development of a state plan for implementation of the study's recommendations.

Gov. Louis B. Nunn addressed the group at the opening session and praised them for their personal concern that "the exceptional child of today will not become the forgotten adult of tomorrow."

Governor Nunn has described the study, believed to be the first of its kind, as "the most comprehensive program ever undertaken by any of the states."

"Only when we enable all Kentuckians to reach those goals which they are capable, to fulfill their greatest potential as men and women, will we have met our responsibilities to the brotherhood of man," the governor said.

Regional chairmen from areas corresponding to Kentucky's 15 Area Development Districts will assist an 11-member state task force in the collection of the information and organization of the survey.

Results of the study will be directed to Governor Nunn, the state Board of Education and the Legislative Research Commission for possible legislative action in the 1972 General Assembly.

A proposal to place central authority for milk-control in Kentucky within the state Health Department was made by Dr. William P. McElwain, state health commissioner.

McElwain made the proposal at the 46th annual meeting of the Dairy Products Assn. of Kentucky in Louisville recently. Some 300 dairy product processors and distributors from around the state attended.

As it is now, inspection is a "hodge-podge" of state, county and city inspectors, and is not always uniform, he said.

He also recommended elimination of fee collection systems at local levels for the financing of milk-control programs.

"We don't like to get funds from the people we are trying to regulate; you get along too well sometimes that way," he said.

STATE SUES AUTO MAKERS

The state of Kentucky has sued the Big Four auto makers in an attempt to force recall of all motor vehicles manufactured since 1953 and presently being operated in the state.

The state asked that the Big Four be forced to install air pollution control equipment on all the cars at no charge to the owners.

General Motors Corp., Ford Motor Co., Chrysler Corp., and American Motor Corp., as well as the Automobile Manufacturers Assn., Inc., were named as defendants in the suit, which was filed in U.S. District Court.

The action, filed by Atty. Gen. John Breckinridge, charged that it has been established "since at least 1952 that motor vehicles contribute to air pollution by the emissions of hydrocarbons, carbon monoxide, oxides of nitrogen and other contaminants."

The suit said that the four auto manufacturers and the auto association have conspired since 1953 and up to Oct. 28, 1969, to restrain the utilization of air pollution control equipment in violation of federal antitrust laws.

The plea state proposed for the apartments was originally designated for a motel, but developers so far have shown little interest in a motel.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Passing the Pedal Pusher

Motorists today are sharing our streets and highways with more than 60 million bicycle riders, and the number is rising. As a driver, you should be alert to high legal responsibilities as he passes his slow and silent companion of the road.

The law's Number One Rule is that a motorist must give full allowance for the "slower" of bicycle riding. Take this case:

A driver saw a bicyclist ahead of him on the highway, wobbling noticeably. It seems that the rider was steering his bike with one hand and balancing a rake over his shoulder with the other. Nevertheless, the driver's car slowed down nor steered to the left. At the last instant, the bicyclist lurched into his path and got hit.

Was the driver guilty of negligence? A jury decided that he was indeed, for failing to adapt his driving to a danger he should easily have foreseen.

Still, motorists are not expected to do the impossible.

Another case also involved a bicycle that swung across the path of a car. But this time, the accident occurred on a dark night, the bicyclist had no lights, and the rider was wearing dark clothing from head to toe.

Under these circumstances, the court saw no reason for blaming the motorist. The court said he could hardly be expected to notice someone who was so nearly invisible.

Furthermore, the bicyclist himself has the responsibility of handling his own vehicle with care.

One rider, pedaling around a bend, crashed into a car that was parked at the curb. Painfully injured, he decided to put in a claim against the owner of the car. He based his case on the fact that the car had been parked in a no-parking zone.

But the court refused to let him shift the blame for what was really his own fault. The court said:

"A bicyclist rider has the same duty as any other vehicle operator to keep it under his own control that he can avoid collisions. He cannot, willfully, run into a standing vehicle and (expect to) recover damages."

Hunting & Fishing

You And The Draft

May the white bass fishermen be alerted. The time is soon to come when these "stripers" will be on the move in the headwaters of a number of lakes and in some rivers and small streams.

It's just about spawning time for the species and when this occurs it means that these fish are well for leaders to be in the area that is thrown in their general direction.

To the uninitiated an explanation of the famous white bass "runs" may be helpful. Most of Kentucky's major lakes have bountiful populations of this gamster, the average weight of which would be around one pound, but which on many occasions may be pushing three pounds. When spring rolls around and the water temperatures in the headwater or feeder streams rise to around 50 degrees, the mating urge comes to these fish. They move into the shallower waters of the streams to deposit their eggs.

Even before the run actually starts in the streams great harvests of white bass are made in the lake itself, just below the first riffle of the stream in which they are to spawn. The migration up the lake starts many days prior to the actual spawning and they may be found in deeper water near the mouth of the stream in good numbers and may be caught by trolling by casting a shadlike lure or minnow. The knowledgeable fisherman will follow the whites right on up the lake until they enter the shallow water where the fishing reaches its peak.

Moving into the spawning waters first are the males. They will be caught for a few days before the females follow the same route into the spawning areas. They will spawn when the water temperature reaches and hovers around the 52 degree mark but they will move into the spawning area when the water is considerably cooler.

If the "run" is not interrupted by heavy rains, muddy water or cold, it will continue for as much as three weeks during which they can be caught at any time of day or night. If inclement weather sends the temperature plummeting, the run will subside. The same will happen if the waters become muddy. But immediately upon the return of favorable conditions good catches may be resumed.

The "father" of the white bass run is Dix River which is the feeder stream of Herkington Lake. For over a decade they have been caught in this famous area where fishermen may line the banks, shoulder to shoulder, to retrieve this hard fighting, good tasting game fish.

But other lakes have lately produced some of the finest white bass fishing in the spring. Of course, the whole affair depends on the weather conditions. This being the case a fisherman often may take his daily 6 possession limit of 60, that sometimes may average well over one pound each, from the headwaters of Dale Hollow, Cumberland, Barren River Lake, Dewey, Buckhorn, Rough River and Nolichoke lakes as well as others. Also every two or three years excellent runs may be discovered below the locks and dams in the Kentucky River.

Fishermen should be alert because a sprinkling of the whites has already been taken from Mt. Will and Spring Creeks which are the headwaters of Dale Hollow. There the water temperature ranges are 30 to 40 degrees higher than in the Kentucky lakes. And if they are moving in the Dale Hollow area, can they be far behind in the other lakes?

YOUTH REVIVAL
SET FOR APRIL 1-4
Youth Revival services at the Liberty Baptist Church will begin April 1 and continue through April 4. The church is located on Route 328 off Highway 39.

Evangelist for the services will be Bro. Dean Cochran from the Liberty Baptist Church in Cincinnati, Ohio. There will be special singing each night for the services which will begin at 7:30 p.m. each evening.

Gurney York, pastor of the church, and the congregation cordially invites everyone to attend.

Some parents who are regular readers of "You and the Draft" may recall a television program arranged to sing numbers requested by his listeners. The spot was introduced by "letters, letters, letters."

Recently our mail has included numerous inquiries from young men regarding their draft has been lessened since they did not receive an Order to Report for Induction during the first quarter of the current year.

The inquiries were in the Extended Priority Selection Group (E-PSG). To be placed in the E-PSG a young man had to be in Class I-A on Dec. 31, 1970. His RSN was reached in his local board but he was not available for induction because of exercising procedural rights.

To illustrate, we would like to share with you the case histories of three young men who are now in the E-PSG. The first registered his deferent local boards. Harold, born Feb. 12, 1948, has RSN 68 (Dec. 1, 1969, Jottery).

Gordon, born on March 6, 1947, RSN 139, was classified I-A (Aggravated). His apprenticeship training was completed in November 1970, and he was reclassified I-A. Like Harold, he made a timely appeal which delayed his classification into Class I-A.

The third case concerns Bart, born Aug. 9, 1948, RSN 105. Bart had been given a Hardship Deferment (III-A) (H) in November 1969. This deferment was reviewed in June 1970 and continued. The local board again reviewed Bart's deferment in November 1970 and determined the circumstances did not warrant a continuation. Bart also appealed his classification into Class I-A.

In January 1971, the respective local boards placed each young man in E-PSG. Each was needed to fill the January call. However, since not available at that time because the appeal had not been adjudicated.

In filling his January call each local board had no other choice but to induct registrants from the First Priority Selection Group (F-PSG). Before authorizing the induction from the I-PSG our office had determined that all available Kentucky registrants in the E-PSG had been issued an Order to Report for Induction.

Since it was necessary to induct from I-PSG in January all Kentuckians now in the Extended Priority Selection Group have been "locked in" and will be inducted as they become available.

We hope that the information we have related will serve to clarify how other young men like Harold, Gordon and Bart must remain in the E-PSG for future fulfillment of their military obligation.

Q. I have just been interviewed for a job in private industry. The company wants to know whether I will be drafted in the near future. I graduated from college in June 1970 and was reclassified I-A. My date of birth is July 18, 1947. My lottery number is 190.

A. As you were in Class I-A at the end of the calendar year, and your Random Selection Number of 190 was not reached by your local board in 1970, you reverted to a reduced selection group at the beginning of 1971. This action further reduced your vulnerability for military service. Under present regulations the extended priority selection group and the first priority selection group are vulnerable for induction.

Q. On June 6, 1970, I went to the draft board to report the birth of our first child. The woman at the board told me there were no few father deferments. Is she right?

A. Deferments for men maintaining a bona fide family relationship with a child or children were eliminated by the President on April 23, 1970. If you held such a deferment before that date, you will retain it as long as you qualify. But if you neither held such a deferment nor had applied for one before April 23, 1970, you will no longer be eligible for the deferment.

Social Security

There are a few things that a girl about to be married should know, and one security relates to social security. James Mustian, Manager of the Somerset office, today reminded every new bride to change her name on her social security card if she hasn't yet done so. Another social security card showing the new name with the same number will be issued to the bride. Also, social security records will be changed to show her new name.

Mustian stated that this is most important because social security records are kept by both name and number. Some employers report a girl's earnings under her married name although the social security records are still being kept under her maiden name. If the name reported does not match the name on file, the earnings are automatically recited. Then, the employer or employee must be contacted for an explanation. This causes unnecessary problems and, in some cases, results in an earnings loss on the married person's earnings record. Since social security benefits are based on these earnings, this could cause a significant benefit loss to the worker and her family when she retires or in the event of her disability or death.

SCARLET AND BLUE

The larger tubular-shaped flowers are those of scarlet sage or red salvia, whichever you prefer to call it. The smaller are those of blue salvia. Either plant is useful.

Nobody is neutral about scarlet sage (red salvia). It's a case of either love or hate. And, oddly, the two reactions are because of the same thing—the flower color.

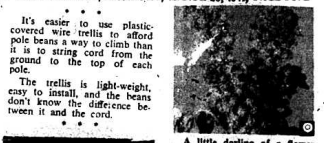

Gardeners who love it point out how bright and cheery it is and how well it contrasts with evergreens or other foliage plants. The ones who dislike it say that the color is too bright and doesn't "go" with anything.

The people who dote on scarlet sage must be in the majority for certainly millions of plants are grown each year, usually in front of or between evergreens in a house planting. This lone use is a short-sighted one of a valuable plant.

Have you a garden path? Try scarlet sage plants spaced four feet apart along either side and plant a row of white-flowered petunias in a flower border and around them plant Petiole Yellow marigolds with pale yellow flowers. Lower still, perhaps for a border, are blue lobelias. Stunning!

When blue salvia is mentioned, the reaction is only love—nobody hates it. This is partly because of color, partly because blue flowers are comparatively scarce and also because blue salvia is a "happy" plant, "mixer" but very easy to grow.

Plant soon where you want flowers and move seedlings that are too close together. In due course of time these will grow into 2 1/2 foot stems with graceful, waving topped whorls of white or purple. Blue Bedder's blossoms are pale blue, those of Royal Blue are violet-blue. Regal White and Regal Purple have flowers of the color named.

A little darling of a flower is misnomer, grown for its delightful scent.

dictated partly by which one dies in November. But he'll start with the premise that the taxpayers haven't yet been sold on any expensive package.

Republicans will lose one of their strongest legislators for the 1972 session, Senate Minority Leader Wendell Van Hoose says he won't seek re-election.

Quiet but extremely able, Van Hoose was respected by all.

In the cleanup after the special session most thoughts were on how the legislative reapportionment plan would fare in court.

As Legislative Research Commission staffers sifted through mounds of working papers the watchword was "Save two copies—one for us and one for the judge."

Over the years the State Highway Department's personnel policies haven't exactly been founded on ethics.

So there were plenty of smiles when Personnel Director M.C. Hartley sent out a memo saying:

"Any employee who feels that he has been discriminated against due to race, religion or ethnic reasons."

Ethics or ethics, Democratic survivors figure it's a rat race.
