 ages were more frequent in the summer.
 Most of the ascorbic acid in the U.S. diets is supplied by vegetables and fruits. In the winter it usually with citrus. In summer the tomato consumption brings up the level. In the fall, dark green and deep yellow vegetables made their greatest contribution. Vegetables contributed more vitamin A than any other food group in each of the four seasons. The third nutrient most often short in the diet study was calcium.
 Spring Clean-Up
 Early April is the time for removing trash that has accumulated during the winter months. The lawn needs raking, and the trash among the shrubs and some of the perennial flowers should be removed. Young trees and evergreens that may have been mulched with well rotted manure needs to have the refuse removed at this time.

 While you do your work, take care to see that the young growth is not injured. The young grass from the fall seeding still very small, and if the lawn is raked vigorously much of it will be pulled out of the ground and thrown away with the trash. It is not uncommon to see trash removed from the lawn, showing lots of green from the young grass that has been pulled up. This means that raking the lawn in the spring is not a job for the children. A good, stiff broom that can be used to sweep the lawn is much better than a steel rake. The leaf rake that has flexible steel teeth will do all right if it is used as a broom and the lawn is swept rather than raked.
 Bulbs, some of the early iris, and other perennial flowers will be sent into the ground at this time, and they are very tender and easily broken, injuring these shoots means the loss of some of the earliest bloom and, at the least, damage to the young leaves that are so important to the plants. The best way to remove trash from these plants is to do it by hand.
 The young trees, shrubs, and evergreens that were mulched with rotted manure in the fall should have the coarse parts of the manure removed with a rake and the soil around the plants loosened to a depth of 2 or 3 inches. Work the remainder of the manure into the soil. If these plants were not mulched with manure, loosen the soil with a spade in a circle about 20 inches in diameter around each plant. This will destroy all the grass and weeds that will grow and remove moisture and plant food so badly needed by the young plants.

 DRUG EDU. CONFERENCE HELD IN GARRARD CO.

A preliminary farm marketing quota will be determined for each farm by multiplying the farm yield by the 1970 farm acreage allotment. The farm marketing quota for 1971 for each farm will be 95 percent of the preliminary farm marketing quota, regardless of size. The farm quota for each succeeding year will be determined by multiplying the previous year's farm marketing quota by a national factor. The factor will be obtained by dividing the national marketing quota (less national reserve) by the sum of the farm marketing quotas for the preceding year for all farms. However, such factor cannot be less than 95 percent for any year, and a larger factor (1/2 the reduction for larger farms) will apply in 1972 and 1973 for farms having "allotments" of 50 acres or less.
 The national marketing quota, each year, is the amount of desirable tobacco for marketing in the United States which the Secretary estimates will be utilized in the United States and exported during the marketing year, adjusted upward or downward as the Secretary in his discretion, determines desirable to maintain an adequate supply or for effecting an orderly reduction of supplies to the reserve supply level. Any such downward adjustment is limited to 5 percent of estimated utilization and exports.
 If marketings from a farm are less than the farm's poundage quota in any year, the difference (up to 100 pct) will be added to that farm's quota for the following year. Marketings from a farm may exceed the farm's quota by 10 percent without penalty and with price support. Marketings in excess of 10 percent of a farm's quota will be subject to full penalty and will not be eligible for price support. Any marketings in excess of a farm's quota will be deducted from that farm's quota for the following year. The legislation authorizes long-term lease (up to 5 years) of Burley tobacco farm quotas and transfer to other farms in the same county. Not more than 15,000 pounds may be leased to any farm. In addition, the farm quota after transfer may not exceed the pounds determined by multiplying the farm yield by 50 percent of the cropland.

Rockcastle County School students will benefit from the five "Calamity Days" authorized by the State Department of Education to school systems who lost time due to bad weather, the board decided at its regular meeting Monday night. The board had originally passed a motion to accept the $59,700 bid from the Hummermagn Corp. for the partitions but at Monday night's meeting voted to rescind that motion and ask for bids again. According to Superintendent Parsons, the board felt that since only one bid had ever been received for the partitions that before if more than one bid were received. The board had not officially notified Hausermann of the acceptance of their bid.

ramblings... Local Officials Named In Million Dollar Suit

It just doesn't pay to get too cocky and think you've got it made, as I found out last week. You see, it was like this. We had a 12-page paper, which was our biggest one of the year thus far; but, everything had gone pretty well. News wasn't too hard to come by and we weren't too late getting it out. So, you can imagine my chagrin Thursday morning when it was finally noticed that we had switched headlines on the two lead stories on top of the front page.

Well, I wasn't too impressed by my error, after all I have made some good ones in my time (and don't worry no flout will again). However, to be the least, it did upset me somewhat, to the extent I had to have both halves of them reprinted. Oh well, "mother said there'd be a time for that."

Now, let me first say that I hope what I have to say now, makes somebody who has been suffering back half of them reprinted. Oh well, "mother said there'd be a time for that."

A former Kentuckian filed a $1 million damage suit in U.S. District Court Friday against six Rockcastle County officials for what he termed was false arrest in a 40-year-old murder case.

Hyram Peters now a resident of Fort Peck, Mont., said in the suit that he was misidentified as a suspect in a 1931 killing in Mount Vernon, Ky.

Peters said he was arrested last year in Montana, but released shortly afterward when he showed he had no connection with the Kentucky case. However, he said the warrant against him has not been dismissed yet and newspaper publicity of his arrest has damaged his reputation.

Indictment apparently led to Hyram Peters' arrest, he said. Barnes, Jackson and Tinsley were arrested at the time, but Earl Peters never was arrested. Hyram Peters claims he has been mixed up with the defendant in the old case.

Last April, Hyram Peters said in his suit, an unidentified informant identified him as the suspect in the 1931 killing and he was arrested by officials of McConne County, Mont. Hyram Peters said he is a native of Rockcastle County, but has lived in Montana since 1914. He was born Jan. 14, 1890.

Defendants in the suit are County Atty. William Gregory, County Judge Charles Carter, Commonwealth's Atty. Harold Rogers, Circuit Judge Lawrence Hall, Circuit Clerk Clerk Money Cummins and Deputy Sheriff Clinton Winstead.

Fiscal Court Meets

The Court also voted to advertise for bids for a new dump truck to be bought with the trade-in of a 1967 dump truck.

On a motion by Sherman Sargent, seconded by C.W. Phillips, the Magistrate also voted to transfer $2,745 from the rural road fund and to deposit $500 in each Magistrate's road account and $245 in the Judge's account.

While Mr. Roy was before the Court, Magistrate C.W. Phillips took the opportunity to ask what could be done about the coal truck which were tearing the backtop on Red Hill Road up so badly. Mr. Phillips said that it had taken so many years to get the backtop and now it was being torn up by the trucks which were hauling coal over it in overweight loads.

Local 4-Hers Will Attend Conference

Kentucky 4-H members from every area of the state leave April 10 for the annual Kentucky 4-H Older Youth Conference in Washington, D.C. Attending the conference will be some 200 young people and 16 adults, according to Carlisle G. Bastin, UK Extension 4-H program specialist. The group will travel to and from the conference on chartered buses, returning home on April 17. In Washington, they will stay at the National 4-H Center, where most of the conference sessions will be held.

Planned especially for Kentucky 4-Hers, the 1971 conference will be held in a new school, the conference will give these young people advanced citizenship leadership training that they can pass on to other 4-Hers and to their high school classes.

Conference speeches and discussions are planned to give the delegates a deeper understanding of their heritage as U.S. citizens. As background for their citizenship studies, the 4-Hers will take field trips to national monuments and government buildings in the Washington area.

Among the places they will visit will be Capitol Hill, Arlington Cemetery, Lincoln Memorial, Mt. Vernon, and the Smithsonian Institute. Most of the delegates also will visit (Cont. to 5)

Local Board Moved

Has anybody seen Selective Service Local Board 85, which will start Thursday morning was located in the courthouse at Mt. Vernon, recently?

Well, for a few days there, it was a big mystery even to Mrs. Della Seals, clerk of the Local Board.

However, after talking with Mrs. Seals at the New Federal Building in Richmond where she is now located, we found that the move wasn't entirely unexpected.

Mrs. Seals said that some time ago, there was a directive from the National Selective Service Headquarters to the State Selective Service Headquarters that several local boards would be combined into one office. Well, the matter rested there for some time until last Wednesday when Mrs. Seals received a phone call from the State Headquarters at Frankfort directing her to be packed and ready to move her office furniture and records to Richmond early on Thursday morning.

Mrs. Seals, of course, complied and the move was made Thursday as directed. But, it seems that also on Thursday another directive went out from National Headquarters stating, in effect, that the combining of the boards would be stopped. It evidently reached State Headquarters at the time that the State Selective Service Board, which was also scheduled to be moved Thursday to Richmond, was not moved.

At this point, Mrs. Seals have not received the final word on whether or not Local Board 85 will remain in Richmond but if you need to contact Mrs. Seals, you may do so by calling 623-1864 at your own expense or going to see her at her office in the New Federal Building. As soon as definite word is received as to where Local Board 85 will be housed, we will transmit the information to you.

Poundage Quota For Burley Tobacco

The Congress has approved legislation which provides that the Secretary shall, within 30 days following enactment, proclaim national marketing quotas for Burley tobacco for the three marketing years beginning October 1, 1971, on a poundage basis.

Within 30 days following such proclamation, the Secretary shall conduct a referendum of the farmers engaged in the production of Burley crop of Burley tobacco to determine whether they favor or oppose the proposed national marketing quotas on a poundage basis. If two-thirds or more of the farmers voting in the referendum approve such quotas, the Secretary shall set such quotas to be in effect for the 1971, 1972, and 1973 crop. Marketing quotas or price support for Burley tobacco shall be in effect for the 1971 crop and another referendum on poundage quotas will be held next year.

A farm yield will be established for each farm having a Burley allotment in 1970 by averaging the farm's yield per acre for the 4 highest years of the 5 years, 1965-70. If Burley was produced on the farm in less than 5 of such years, the farm yield will be the average of the yields obtained during the (Cont. to 8)

Achievement awards in various areas of FFA were presented to these five members of the local chapter also on Friday night. Carter Proclaims Alcoholism Info Month

Rockcastle County Judge Charles Carter has proclaimed the Southeastern Kentucky Mental Health Center for its praiseworthy achievement in educating the public about the dangers of alcoholism, the nation's fourth major health problem and a serious threat to the lives of over 4,000,000 and the estimated alcoholics - male and female - in the United States today.

Judge Carter's proclamation points out that "the cost of alcoholism in human suffering, in disintegration of family life, in economic attrition to the individual and to the community is incalculable."

Gov. Louie B. Nunn told a Crusade vs. Crime Convention in Louisville recently that although millions in federal and state crime-fighting funds have significantly furthered law enforcement in Kentucky, crime is "eleven" and "forcefully" a local problem.

The meeting, designed to attract citizen involvement in volunteer efforts against crime in Louisville, attracted about 500 persons from in-cross, the state interested "in standing up on the side of law and order."

Governor Nunn said, "It is going to take Crusade vs. Crime organizations throughout our state, who will support their local law enforcement officials, who will help over our courts, who will encourage their elected officials' support, and who will help our schools and churches to reach out and touch the lives of those who have failed or

He cautioned, "But never let us stray from the basic truth that the major imperfections lie not in the American system of justice, but in those within the justice."

The governor asked the convention to continue efforts in such a way that a grass-roots crusade against crime will be waged in every part of the state and in every phase of the system "in order that once again reverence for the laws will be breathed by every American mother to the babe that prattles on her lap."

"I just think it is time we stood up and said that rather than making laws fit our conduct, we're going to have to make our conduct fit the laws," he added.

HIGH RISE PLAN IS BLOCKED

A citizens' group who has been fighting for the historical preservation of Capital Avenue in Frankfort won a significant round in Frankfort Circuit Court when Judge Henry Meigs ruled that a city zoning ordinance that would permit construction of a high-rise office building is invalid.

The ruling came in a suit brought by a group of Frankfort residents seeking to block a multi-story office building by Investors Heritage Life Insurance Co. at the corner of West Second Street and Capital Avenue.

The Frankfort City Commission last May had rezoned three lots to allow a building higher than three stories. The rezoning had been recommended by the Frankfort-Franklin County Planning and Zoning Commission.

The citizens' lawsuit challenged the rezoning on the grounds that it would create "visual pollution" and would result in destruction of a historical area by leading to commercial development around the Capitol.

Meigs' ruling said the ordinance "spot zoning" practice repeatedly condemned by the state Court of Appeals, and that it was "arbitrary, discriminatory and unreasonable."

An attorney for the firm said the case will probably be taken to the Court of Appeals.

EDUCATION COUNCIL ACCEPTS RECOMMENDATIONS

Ten of 15 staff recommendations on changes in Kentucky's colleges and universities have been endorsed by the state Council on Public Higher Education.

The report listing the recommendations will go to the interim Study Commission on Higher Education by April 15. That commission, created by the 1970 legislature and composed of nine lawmakers, is to report its recommendations to the 1972 General Assembly.

Among the major proposals accepted are:

- * That Kentucky State College in Frankfort be given university status effective July 1, 1972.
- * That budgetary and program controls by the council over the state colleges and universities be increased.
- * That a study of all existing graduate and professional education programs be endorsed.
- * And that the state superintendent of public instruction be dropped as chairman of the board of regents at the state's four regional universities and two colleges. He would be replaced by one additional member appointed to those boards by the governor.

The council rejected a proposal to transfer the administrative control of Jefferson Community College from the University of Kentucky to the University of Louisville.

EDUCATION INNOVATIONS AWARD PROGRAM PLANNED

"What's new" in Kentucky's classrooms will be highlighted during Governor Nunn's annual competition for educational innovations in the state's private and public schools.

The governor said the purpose of the program is to multiply the impact of the innovative programs by transmitting their experiences throughout the state.

"What we want to share the best in our schools with every student in every part of this Commonwealth," he said.

Three top awards will be given, one each for primary, one each for secondary, and one for an outstanding innovation in an elementary school, a junior high school and a high school. In addition, awards in each of those three classifications will be given to every part of each of the five districts into which the state will be divided, provided the innovations qualify.

The state winners in the competition will be announced yield $3,481,000 extra each year for the companies.

He disapproved the family physical damage policy which would have brought the firms $4,809,000 annually.

There was some indication that the stumbling block was the $50 deductible on collision policies for which the board asked an average 20 1/2 percent increase.

A rafting for a last-summer increase is possible. The $1000 fine limit on the rating board is the first under such circumstances.

PRESTON SAID, and the maximum his department is able to levy.

The state Citizens' Commission on Consumer Protection had intervened in the case and sought dismissal of the rating board's application.

ORGANIZED CRIME UNIT EXPANDED

The Department of Justice recently awarded the Kentucky Crime Commission a $205,967 discretionary federal grant to expand the Organized Crime Intelligence Unit within the Kentucky State Police.

And according to Maj. Robert C. McKinnery, who heads the Investigative Division of the Department of Public Safety, the men are already on the job.

The Crime Commission's matching $70,000 to obtain the grant are part of the $1 million allocated to the commission by Governor Nunn and the 1970 General Assembly.

An original grant of $60,000 to the department enabled Maj. McKinnery to begin work last year with four agents.

Governor Nunn announced the framework for the grant at a Crusade vs. Crime luncheon in Louisville. "These funds will enable us to put 11 new highly trained special agents into the field and back them with four intelligence officers and a systems analyst, as well as a sophisticated laboratory and technical assistance," he said.

According to Maj. McKinnery, organized crime is "any criminal element sophisticated enough to have a planning structure. This may be highly organized element, with a legitimate business or even street level crime."

TOM DUNCAN'S

Frankfort Watchline

"The greatest political asset in Kentucky may be anonymity. That assessment of the value of being unknown—or at least with little record to be attacked—came from a supporter of Lt. Gov. Wendell Ford.

But an aide to his opponent in the Democratic primary for governor, former Gov. Bert Combs, agrees at least in part.

He feels, of course, that the record itself of Combs' 1959-63 term as governor is a real redoubt asset. But he tags as the biggest problem in Combs' campaign the personal antagonism or bitterness of those who didn't get the jobs or favors they wanted. The aide feels the problem of explaining why Combs left the lifetime security of a federal judgeship has been handled.

And he says the 59-year-old candidate's age seems no handicap.

The Combs camp obviously was rattled by news reports on a $100,000 fee paid him by a law firm that negotiated a settlement with the Highway Department some years after his term as governor.

The aide pointed out that the story specifically said Combs was not charged with doing anything illegal.

He called the story unfair—but not really damaging.
