

TOM DUNCAN'S

Frankfort Watchline

The Democratic race for governor may start sizzling. After some of the dustiest maneuvering of no-harm times, both sides seem ready to run flat out now.

Former Gov. Bert Combs signaled the sign of the stretch drive by winning the Kentucky Education Association legislative program.

Gov. Wendell Ford's sign came at rallies in Combs' mountain strongholds. Speakers read texts prepared by Ford advisers attacking Combs in scorching terms.

Both moves raise some questions.

Why would Combs risk the wrath of those fearing tax increases when he already had the KEA leadership in his camp?

And how far will Ford go in attacking Combs, rather than sending out the work to be voiced by others?

Combs' position is that the KEA plan actually is modest in terms of Kentucky's educational needs and that it can be met with no new tax except a severance tax on minerals.

But he also doesn't want to depend on the KEA leadership to deliver the rank and file school people across the state.

And he says, "It's one thing to have someone for you and another to have him working for you."

Ford's stance on attacking Combs depends partly on how much mileage these second-hand charges get in news reports.

So far, there's been too little to suit Ford's people, too much according to the Combs camp.

If all at least may breathe some life into a campaign that was becoming so "me too" that wags were trying to measure some promises in terms of "me one-and-seventy-eight."

Ford strategists felt they struck paydirt in letters to members that pointed out he favors putting all revenue from a severance tax on coal into the general fund, which provides school money.

The Combs plan is a severance tax on other minerals too, with an unspecified portion going back to the producing counties.

The fact is that neither side is getting much more specific than Combs' estimate that his severance tax could produce 30 million dollars a year for schools.

*****

State Sen. Henry Beach makes the other seem like pickers on a severance tax. In his race for lieutenant governor here, saying he'd raise 100 million dollars a year with one.

Now if the next bidder will kindly step up we'll get on with the auction.

Politicians can stand almost anything better than property.

Hardly had shrewd Senate Republican Leader Wendell Van Hoose put Democratic legislative leaders on record as refusing to hear former Parks Commissioner James Host explain why he didn't take bids on a swimming pool cover before Host started discussing it elsewhere.

As the Republican candidate for lieutenant governor Host can expect some flack on the subject.

But it's just one of those things that no amount of statistics can turn into a political plus.

Depending upon your leanings the Ford rally attacks on Combs may seem everything from mod-slinging to fair charges.

Certainly they were favored with the phrases of old time Kentucky political gun-fighting:

"Political freebooters... close-in circle of cronies... handpicked palace guard... influence... payoffs and scandals."

In keeping with the City of Mt. Vernon's "Clean-Up Week" scheduled for April 26 through May 2, the Signal building is getting a much needed face-lifting. Actually, it was the clean-up week which inspired the painting but the fact that it was the first time our budget could remotely stand the expense. Anyways, it should improve the looks of Main Street but we won't mention the state of my yard at home.

You & The Draft

Recently our headquarters received a letter from our national headquarters requesting that we investigate a congressman from another state had received a letter from one of his constituents regarding a Kentucky registrant.

The crux of the letter was the writer wanted his son-in-law, Bruce, to be drafted. He alleged that Bruce had taken a hallucinogen and as a result failed his draft physical.

The allegations were not substantiated by our investigation. We found that Bruce had been rejected by the Armed Forces Examining and Entrance Station (AFEEES) because of a hearing defect. As he was unacceptable for military service, his local board classified him I-Y.

Subsequent to the I-Y classification, the method of processing men for physical examination and induction was changed, and the Random Sequence Selection (RSSN) system was instituted. Bruce's date of birth was April 12, 1949, and in lottery of December 1969, he received RSN 346.

Even if AFEEES had recommended that he be rejected for a physical re-examination at a later date, his local board could not order such re-examination until all other available registrants with the same

RSN had been ordered.

The National Director in 1970 authorized the physical examination of registrants with RSN's 001 through 215 and induction for those with RSN's from 001 through 195.

A registrant in Class I-Y with a higher RSN than that reached in his local board could not voluntarily drop his classification in order to revert into a reduced priority selection group.

We have a two-fold purpose in sharing this incident. First, we like to point out that many allegations concerning Selective Service registrants suspected of trying to evade military service through the use of a hallucinatory drug are untrue, and secondly, that a physical examination and induction cannot be accelerated.

Q. How does a person become a member of the draft board, and what is the pay for serving?

A. Local board members, government appeal agents, appeal board members and medical advisors are appointed by the President upon the recommendation of the Governor. Advisors to registrants are appointed by the Director of Selective Service. All serve without pay.

Q. When did the World War II draft act expire and when was the present law enacted?

A. After the end of World War II, the President de-

Sooner or later Kentucky campaigning gets back to traditions.

*****

Combs' ability to disarm reporters continues. Told by one that his people found response to his proposal for a vote on giving bonus to Vietnam veterans "very, very favorable," Combs snorted: "That's just great. I haven't gotten one darn response my self."

EASY, EASY

While one of the giant-flowered zinnias, has multi-colored blooms, each different.

Zinnias are so easy to grow and furnish the garden or the house with so many flowers, it's surprising that every garden doesn't boast one or more.

The only real "trick" in growing zinnias is to plant the seeds after the soil is thoroughly warm.

Planting before this time does no good. In cool, damp soil the seeds rot and it's just as if you'd never planted them.

Undisturbed plants, grown from seeds sown where you want the flowers, will grow and bloom better than when seedlings are transplanted.

To make things easy for yourself, sow the seeds one at a time as you don't have to thin seedlings later. A few won't come up but most will.

If you are sowing giant type zinnias, plants should be sown 12 to 15 inches apart in the row and the rows made 3 feet apart.

Smaller varieties can be sown in rows only 2 feet apart and plants allowed to grow 8 to 10 inches from one another.

Of course the really tiny zinnias, like Thumbelina, fall outside these general recommendations. The midgets are often used at borders or even grown in pots.

Zinnias will thrive in any soil, but you'd be surprised to see how much better they produce in fairly rich soil.

They also show marked difference in growth if given plenty of water. A once-a-week soaking in dry weather pays off.

What type of zinnia to plant? There are so many from which to choose that you may have a hard time making up your mind.

There are giant-flowered zinnias which include Tetra Giant Cactus-Flowered, Zenith, Whirligig and State Fair, medium-sized flowers found in Cut and Come Again, and a bit smaller, in the Pompano. Midget zinnias: Thumbelina, Old Mexico and Persian Carpet.

INSPECTION PERIOD FOR THE PROPERTY TAX ASSESSMENT ROLL

The ROCKCASTLE County property tax roll will be opened for inspection from May 3 through May 7, 1971. Under the supervision of the property valuation administrator or one of his deputies, any property owner may inspect the tax roll to check the assessment of his property and compare it with the assessment of comparable property to determine whether it is equitably assessed. The tax roll may not be inspected for any other purpose.

This is the January 1, 1971 assessment on which state, county, and school taxes for 1971 will be due on September 15, 1971.

The tax roll is in the office of the property valuation administrator in the county courthouse and may be inspected between the hours 8:30 AM and 3:30 PM.

BLOOM FOR YEARS
The peach-leaved camellias, an early-grown perennial, are yours from spring-sown seeds.

Although the usual time to plant seeds of perennials is late summer, peach-leaved camellias can be moved before or protected during winter, spring it out a good time to plant seeds of these more permanent flowers. Sometimes, if you plant sufficiently early in spring, there's a bonus: you may realize plants will furnish some bloom the same year.

Even if they don't flower, plants will be larger when next winter comes, and will display more blossoms another year. A number of perennials are as easy to grow from seeds as annuals.

These include calliopsis and rindillids. Layfleur perennials include campanulas (you know that perennial and biennial garden camellia), turberry bellis, shasta and painted daisies and still more.

It's best to sow seeds of these in a coldframe, the earlier the better, or in a separate bin where you can watch and care for them.

Even seedlings sprout, water them every other day unless rain supplies the water. Feel the soil first to make certain it is not already moist.

When the plants are 2 to 3 inches high, thin them so each has several inches between it and its neighbors.

By late June the plants should be large enough to move wherever you want them to grow and bloom for the next few years.

They should not need winter protection because they early produce and flower profusely for you another year.

Kentucky Leads Nation In Construction Of Public Libraries

HANCOCK COUNTY PUBLIC LIBRARY, Hancockville

With 10 public libraries having been completed and 12 presently under construction, the past 3 1/2 years have witnessed the coming of age of Kentucky libraries. With this construction program underway, Kentucky is building more public libraries than any other state in the nation. Funding of the construction projects has been made possible through Gov. Louie B. Nunn's Library Amortization Program, which pledges more than $200,000 a year in state funds to be used to construct libraries in local communities.

LABUE COUNTY PUBLIC LIBRARY, Hodgenville

Regional Library Serves Blind, Handicapped

Kentucky's Regional Library for the Blind and Physically Handicapped furnishes some 2000 Kentuckians with tape and disc talking books, braille books and cassettes.

The service is provided free by the Library of Congress and distributed under funds from the Kentucky Department of Libraries.

The special library, headed by Miss Frances Coleman, is the 42nd regional library under the Library of Congress system which provides services for the blind and physically handicapped. The facility is located at 50 East Clinco Street in Frankfort.

Before the establishment of the library some two years ago, the state had shared the payroll for such agencies with the Tennessee Library and the state of Tennessee. After the need for a separate facility was brought to the attention of Gov. Louie B. Nunn, he appropriated $80,000 to establish the service.

Thirty thousand talking books, 1500 braille book volumes and 2000 tapes are now being mailed to homes of the 2000 users at a rate of 72,000 a year.

The talking books are general in nature and include classics, best sellers, mysteries, current fiction, non-fiction and children's literature. Periodicals are also available, including Harper's Atlantic Monthly, Newsweek, Ladies' Home Journal and others.

Although tapes, records, cassettes and braille can be ordered through the Frankfort Regional Library, machines to play the talking books are available from Kentucky Industries for the Blind.

Applications for the machines are available from Miss Coleman, Kentucky Regional Library for the Blind and Physically Handicapped, P.O. Box 814, Frankfort, Ky., 40601, or from local public libraries.

Any person unable to read a conventional book contentedly is eligible for a talking book machine.

Green Thumb Tips

When it's time to move seedlings into the garden it's time to be ultra-careful. For transplanting, seedlings has to be done with care.

Soil must be well prepared, raked fine and level. Water the area to be planted the day before you intend to transplant.

And choose the day with care—a cloudy day is ideal. No clouds? Then move seedlings in late afternoon so night time can help their recovery from shock.

Annual flowers exist to produce seeds which will perpetuate the species. If you want them to keep blooming, prevent seed formation by picking all spent blooms promptly.

A few minutes a day spent tending the flowers will give you lots more.

When you plant seeds in the places where flowers are to bloom, consider color schemes.

For instance, blue lobelias are pretty alone but much more effective when interplanted with pink sweet alyssum.

Similarly, a low-growing red salvia might be planted in front of tall white-flowered zinnias.

Morning glories can be grown flat on the ground as well as up a fence or other support.

If you have an unshiny area that you want to hide, this vine grows rapidly and soon will shield it from view.

Shrub borders can look colorless after the last shrubs have flowered.

Correct this lack by setting groups of annuals in strategic spots between the shrubs.

A pretty and unusual plant for a shady spot is mimulus, more commonly known as monkey flower.

If you have only a window box for a garden, let your children sow radish seeds in part of it and learn the joy or producing something from seeds.

Look into the newer spinaches if this vegetable is one of your favorites.

Varieties like America hold well during warm weather, which is more than can be said for older varieties, which usually form seeds and become unusable.

MAN-ON-THE-MOON

Man-on-the-Moon is a new, double, large-flowered, almost white margold for your 1971 garden.

In the race for space the U.S.A. was first to put a man on the moon. In the race for a white margold, there's as yet no winner but Man-On-The-Moon, a new margold, comes close.

True, it is not quite as white as Whitcomb, but it's earlier-blooming and has bigger blossoms, double and 3 1/2 inches across.

These appear on 20-inch tall plants and continue to open from mid-summer until frost.

Barney Arnold Named Dairy Month Chairman

Barney Arnold, Farm Director for WHAS Radio and Television in Louisville, has been named June Dairy Month Chairman for the State of Kentucky.

His selection was made by Harmon H. Barlow, Jr., Rt. 2, Cave City, President of American Dairy Association of Kentucky.

His most recent award, which involves an all-expense paid European tour for being "Farm Broadcaster of the Year," is a handsome memento from Celvy Chemical Company and an award recognized by the National As-

The above photo was taken Tuesday of the Red Hill Road and is one example of the state of the blacktop on the road since coal trucks began hauling over it a short while ago. The road was blacktopped less than a year ago and is disintegrating badly in several places and it is felt by residents and highway officials that overloaded coal trucks may be the main reason. Three citations were issued last week to overloaded coal trucks by officials of the Department of Motor Transportation and one citation was issued to a dirt truck. The men came before County Judge Charles Carter Saturday and entered pleas of not guilty. Trial was set for Tuesday, April 27.

National Library Week

Do you really know what can be found in your public library? Do you know how to get the most out of it for your own needs?

Local support is important for basic operating expenses, but our libraries could not improve without state and federal help. State and federal funds for Kentucky libraries are administered by the Kentucky Department of Libraries.

Go into your library and take a look at what is there. Few people realize that many of our library's books are carefully selected by the professional staff at the Department of Libraries. They arrive regularly at local libraries, catalogued and ready to be placed on the shelves. Out of the thousands of books published each year, our library receives the best of the crop for children, young people and adults.

Books are not the only materials found in our libraries. There are also recordings and framed paintings ready to take home. Some libraries have microfilm, film strips, and tapes as well.

We have reason to be proud of our libraries here in Kentucky. For libraries of their size, there are few better in the United States.

One reason for this is the broad range of services offered. In addition to our county library services, the Department of Libraries can be contacted by mail or phone for materials not found at the local library. Often these materials or answers to questions are provided in two days' time, in emergencies the time required may be even shorter. Regional librarians, paid by the state, help with this work.

For material which cannot be located in the local library, the Department of Libraries maintains a large collection of books, periodicals, and films. This collection is used almost entirely by local libraries.

A network of library services is being developed by the Department of Libraries to make the most unusual material available to local citizens.

Ask your librarian a difficult question and see how the system works. You may be surprised to find the answers waiting for you.

Get the habit of using the library - not only for personal or business reasons, but also for answers to the problems of drug abuse, pollution control, ecology, consumer protection and hundreds of other vital matters.

Our libraries can help us to save the good things of this world for ourselves and our children. Good will is not enough. Today we must have knowledge - the right knowledge at the right time.

Water District Will Prove Big Asset

The Northern Rockcastle County Water District has gone over the two-thirds mark in their quest for enough customers to qualify for the $54,000 grant from Farmers Home Administration for a water project.

160 signers are needed by May 1 in order to get these funds which have already been earmarked for the project. There is little or no doubt that the necessary signers will be obtained by the deadline and residents of the Wildie, Roundstone, Conway and adjoining areas are to be commended for their steadfastness in supporting the project.

Not only will the health benefits from pure water, as opposed to what has been proven as "unsafe" water, in the area, be untold but the increase in value to the properties in the area will be quite significant and should not be overlooked.

Extension of the water lines to residents of the Chestnut Ridge area also looks very hopeful at the present time, following a meeting with property owners in this area last Friday night, several of the required twenty-two signers along the road have already been obtained. This area requested the City of Mt. Vernon several times to extend the city's lines to serve them but due to a lack of funds for expansion by the city, their request has always been tabled. Now, if everything goes according to schedule, fresh, pure water will be a reality for the entire district within a little over a year.

Naturally, we all have difficulty occasionally coming up with the money needed to be a part of things, such as this project, but that is not really the problem for residents in the area mentioned above. There is money available for financing the $100 hook-up fee, if the property owner does not have the ready cash, which can be paid back in terms to fit almost anyone's budget.

At the present time, there seem to be very few obstacles to completion of the project; but, one thing that should be kept in mind by the people in these areas is that if they tarry too long the hook-up fee goes up with each completed phase of the project.

Capital Digest

Gov. Louie B. Nunn defined three ecological terms—exploitation, preservation and conservation—and called the latter "one of the most misused words in the English language" at the annual banquet of the Bourbon County Soil and Water Conservation District recently.

The governor included the "cut-and-get-out" area of the lumber industry in the category of exploitation, which he described as "man working against nature."

The term preservation, he said, can be defined as "a pessimistic philosophy of non-use," and considers man an intruder in nature and not a part of it.

He defined conservation as "a cautious philosophy of use but not misuse of natural resources." The governor blamed persons who claim to be conservationists for the misuse of that word.

"There are a lot of these people running around with signs who don't even know how to spell ecology," he said.

He told the group the future world "dictates the need for wise conservation practices," noting that the U.S. population and its need for forest products will double by the year 2000.

He estimated that 300 million acres must be added to existing commercial forests to meet the demand.

FIRM TOLD TO STOP SELLING ITS STOCK

The state Securities Division has directed Scholarship Counselors Inc., Paducah, to stop selling its proposed "Scholarship Trust Fund" securities to the public until the firm is registered as a Kentucky broker or dealer.

The trust fund is not registered to sell its securities in Kentucky, and the head of Counselors Inc. — Joe T. Kelley, Paducah — is not registered as a Kentucky securities agent.

R. Waddle Jr., director of the securities division, acted after obtaining an attorney-general's opinion that the nature of the firm's operation made it subject to securities regulation.

Waddle said the company has sold more than 700 contracts in Kentucky.

The director, in describing the operation of the firm, said membership in the scholarship trust fund is based on a $175 enrollment fee from prospective members plus the deposit of a certain sum into a savings account, and the irrevocable assigning of interest earned to the trust fund.

The depositor would then name a beneficiary, usually his own child, and the trust fund would pay for the beneficiary, upon entering his second year of college, the costs of room, board, tuition and college fees.

The success of the plan is predicated upon a system based on school dropouts, death and other factors.

The depositor would forfeit all benefits if the beneficiary fails to go to college, if full payment by the depositor is not made, or upon the death of either the signer or the beneficiary.

crease over last March.

Non-stock non-profit corporations also increased over last year. Some 163 new filings were recorded during the first three months of 1970 compared with 138 in the same period last year.

Harper termed the increases "an encouraging sign that Kentucky's private enterprise, that indicates the commonwealth's economy is healthy and going strong."

PLANS ARE CANCELED TO DRAFT 9 KY. DENTISTS

Governor Nunn's office has announced that the nine Kentucky dentists who had been notified they were being drafted into military service by July 1 will not be going after all.

Instead, the Defense Department said that selective service will wait until June when the Kentucky National Guard and the University of Louisville dental schools graduate their 1971 classes.

A survey of the dentists' classes had indicated that approximately 40 or more of the new dentists are applying for active duty in the armed services.

The cancellation of the draft plans was taken with the approval of Defense Secretary Melvin Laird after Governor Nunn and others made protests to the White House about the hardship the draft would cause unnecessarily to recently graduated dentists.

Dr. M.G. Randall, Louisville, chairman of the State Advisory Committee for Dentists, had written to the governor informing him that the dentists called up for service on July 1 were of 1970 graduates who had sought unsuccessfully to enter the service at the time of graduation.

Goof-Proof Party Fare

When company's coming, nothing's easier to plan a dinner party around than a big, juicy roast. There's little to goof and lots to gain with a roast entrée. Once in the oven, you gain loads of time for other party preparations. And, most likely, you'll gain leftovers for tomorrow's lunchtime sandwiches.

But, a roast can be just an ordinary dish unless you jazz it up to make-it memorable. The easy way to fancy up a roast is with a delectable sauce made with unique Brown Gravy with Onions. This rich gravy, made with beef juices and finely chopped onions, is believed to be the first canned onion gravy sold nationally.

For your party roast, combine gravy with roast dripping, tomatoes, ripe olives, and chili powder for a zip. Serve unadorned, or over meat slices.

PARTY ROAST WITH SNAPPY ONION SAUCE

4-pound rolled rib roast
 1/2 teaspoon chili powder
 2 cans (10 1/2 ounces each) tomatoes
 1/4 cup chopped canned tomatoes
 4 cup sliced ripe olives
 1/2 cup chopped onion
 1/4 cup buttered noodles

Place meat, fat-side up, in large roasting pan. Roast at 325°F. for 1 hour 40 minutes or until desired doneness (medium—about 25 minutes per pound or 160°F. on meat thermometer). Remove roast from pan. Spoon off excess fat, saving drippings. Cook chili in drippings. Add gravy, tomatoes, and olives. Heat, stirring to loosen browned bits. Serve with meat and noodles. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Carter Comments

Tobacco Program Enacted Into Law

For the past several months, Congressman Tim Lee Carter, Representative of Kentucky's Fifth District, and his colleagues have worked to develop a new burley quota system. On April 1st, a bill was passed establishing poundage quotas for burley tobacco.

Congressman Carter believes that this legislation provides a solution which will be fair to both small and large growers and will ease the difficulty caused by overproduction of tobacco.

In order to determine a quota for each farm, the average yield per acre for the four highest years of the period from 1966 to 1970 would be calculated. However, the farm yield established for any farm could not exceed 3,500 pounds per acre. Cuts made during 1971 would not be greater than 5% for all farms.

During the deliberations on this bill, an amendment was adopted which would benefit small growers. It was proposed by Congressman Carter and supported by Congressmen Wilmer Mizell, William Wampler, and Clarence Miller. It provides that during 1972 and 1973 reductions made for farmers with bases of half an acre or less would be only half the reductions for larger growers.

On Wednesday, April 14, President Nixon signed this bill into law and made official the referendum which is scheduled for May 4, 1971. At that time, all burley farmers will have the opportunity to express their feelings on the new program passed by Congress.

"My colleagues and I have spent a great deal of time and effort to formulate a program which will include benefits for all those involved in the production and sale of burley tobacco," commented Congressman Carter. "I believe that the law which was enacted meets these requirements."

Workers at the Great Saltpeetre Cave are shown building a Coon cage near the entrance to the cave. Along with the Coon, several animals, including a Peacock, will be housed in this area as an added attraction to tourists. John Lair, owner and developer of the historic site, has already built a dam across Crooked Creek and will stock the backed up water with trout.

Cooper Approves New Burley Poundage Bill

I am very glad the President has signed into law the burley poundage bill passed by the Congress last week. I believe the change to poundage controls will save the burley price support program for farmers in future years, is fair to all farmers, and will protect the agriculture economy of the areas which depend upon burley production.

There will now be a referendum in early May, perhaps on Tuesday, May 4, to determine whether farmers will have a burley program, with price supports and poundage controls, for the next three years. Unless two-thirds of those voting favor the program, there will be no price support, and no limitation on burley production.

This referendum will be no different from those held every three years in the past—that is, a choice between a burley price support program and no program—except that the law has now been changed so that each farm will receive a poundage quota instead of an acreage allotment.

I support and will speak in Kentucky for the burley tobacco program—which I have worked to protect and defend during my entire service in the Senate—and I hope very much that it will continue to have the full support of all farmers in all burley producing areas, just as it has in the past.

I want to emphasize I think the poundage program is fair to all the farmers—whatever their size operation—and it is the only way I see that 90 percent price support and our burley program can be maintained.

County Agent's Notes

By: H. Lee Durtam

LAWN MOWING

The lawn mowing season is coming into full swing. To make your mowing job as easy as possible check your mower to insure good operation. The engine should start easily and the blade should be sharp to cut the grass evenly.

Rotary Mowers in recent years have permitted the homeowner to expand the size of his lawn but at the same time more caution must be provided in the mowing operation. Care in mowing, plus the observance of a few rules are necessary. For example, inspect the lawn area before mowing. Get all the bones, rocks and other debris out of the lawn before you start. The blade can become dangerous missiles when caught in the rotary blade. Mow only when the grass is dry to prevent a foot slipping into the whirling blade.

Another good rule is always retuel the mower when the engine is cold since a hot motor can ignite gasoline. When the mower is unattended the motor should be stopped.

Keep the mower clean for cooler operation of the engine and when inspecting the blade or other moving parts, always disconnect the spark plug wire.

As a final safety precaution, do not let small children operate the power mower or be in the area of the mowing operation.

PRUNING SPRING FLOWERING SHRUBS

Pruning flowering shrubs that produced blooms on last year's growth should be pruned as soon as the flowers fade. Pruned plants will bear more flowers next year than the unpruned ones.

When cutting out deadwood, cut an inch or two below the deadwood into live wood. Control the size of the shrub by thinning out disorderly branches and stems. Cut the branches back to larger stems by cutting them back to the ground.

Thinning allows room for the growth of side branches, year old wood to promote new growth.

SUMMER FLOWERING SHRUBS

The summer flowering shrubs bloom from mid-June into fall. These shrubs should be pruned in the dormant season, usually in the spring before growth starts.

Coniferous, or narrow leaved, evergreens are also best pruned in the spring, usually

May or June, when the buds and shoots are newly formed. If pruned every year, pruning can usually be limited to cutting back part or all the new growth. When they need more severe pruning, cut them back to a growing shoot shortly before or just as growth starts in the spring.

ALFALFA WEEVIL CAUTION DAMAGE
Alfalfa weevil eggs have been hatching for over a week, and according to Dr. R.A. Scheibner, entomologist for the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture, feeding damage from the weevil is approaching the point where sprays will be needed.

Dr. Scheibner said the weevil egg counts, which are taken weekly in the Lexington area, have been five to seven times higher than they were in the

Hunting & Fishing

Fabulous fishing should be the rule rather than the exception in Kentucky waters for the next two months. No matter the type freshwater fishing a person desires, he will more than likely find it within Kentucky. From the streams to the farm ponds, to the major lakes—there'll be various species of fish to be caught and the average fisherman will be reaping huge dividends by fishing shallow for fish. Papermouth, they are now in the beginning of the spawning season and this will continue for several weeks. And the black bass are hungry in many lakes and will be caught on live bait and various minnow-like lures as well as on nightcrawlers, fished off the banks. This fishing should continue good until early May, when it will drop off as the blacks hover over their nests in spawning operations. The blacks are now furnishing good fishing in farm ponds and in most streams. Right now the season is barely opening for bluegill. Before long they will be on the spawning beds in just about all waters and while they are on the beds fishing will be furious. All a fisherman would need do is locate the pan-like nest, fish over it with worms or small fish and the bluegill will do the rest. So, for a couple or three weeks fishing should be good everywhere. But with the ending of the three-week period will come other types of fishing for the same species which also will be highly productive. The white bass will have moved from their spawning grounds back into the deep water and will be very hungry. They will be found alongside deep, rocky banks, maybe at 40 to 50 feet, and they'll be caught at night on minnows. When a school is located it's not difficult to harvest a limit of 50 with little difficulty. Here fishermen use a light and usually remain anchored in the same spot throughout the night. They shine the light into the water which attracts minute water bugs which in turn bring in the minnows or shad. Those the whites feast on and those are what attract the whites in great numbers and hold them in the area. True, on given nights the whites may never come in and the result is a lost night of fishing. But usually at some time between dusk and dawn, they will be available. At a still later time, usually in June, the whites will be found in the open water. Crayfish may be caught after their spawning forays by fishing at night. They also will be taken in daylight hours but around fallen tree trunks at 15 to 40 feet down. When black bass are on their nests they'll hardly bit at all, but when they come off they are hungry and furnish some furious fishing by casting surface lures. That is the most appealing type fishing. Actually by casting the surface lure in the early morning
