AY, JULY 8, 1979. PAGE SEVEN is believed, however, that it is believed, however, that it is themmed from the fact that this variety is best when picked and eaten at early morn when still covered with dew. Because blackberries have always been plentful throughton the country, little effort out the country, little effort out the country, little effort till the middle prove them intil the middle prove them intury. Beginning about 1850; great interest developed in the breeding of such fruits and now many excellent varieties of demesticated blackberries of demesticated blackberries are available,

But the wild variety is still a wonderful, tang fruit, it is still in great demand, and one of Mother Nature's most valuable gifts, On the current market, blackberries command as much as $1,00 per gallon and offer footloose country boys who don't mind the chiggers that usually infest blackberry patches at this time of year, an opportunity to make of year, an opportunity to make some extra spending money.

The woolly aldef aphid, a sucking insect, is attacking silver (water) maples and alders on Kentucky home plastings. The tiny insects cluster on underneath sides of leaves in large masses of cottony threads or strands. In heavy infestations, leaves will curl up and the tree (maple or alder) becomes unsighty. The trees likely will not die from the attacks, though.

Rockcastle Included In Addt'l. Blacktop Project

Highway Commissioner B.E. Righ has announced plans to apply the first cost of new blacktop to about 1000 miles of 18 cm 20 miles. King said her program will get rural motorists "out of the dust and mod," and reduce air pollution from dust for those who live or work along the roads. "Also, we're reducing future maintenance costs," Ning said. "When we get a good hard surface there, we don't have to go in and grade and place additional stone each year.

"HOME-LIKE ATMOSPHERE"

- Visiting Hours -

In this ever fast changing world of ours, a tot of the old fashioned customs are beginning to vanish. Such is the case with visiting in the home. A lot of funeral homes nowadays have certain visiting hours in which you are allowed to be with your loved one or one of your friends and them a set closing hour at which time you have to leave.

At the Dowell & Martin Funwal Home we feel that the wishes of the family should be strictly observed and that they should be allowed to stay with their friends and neighbors for as long as they like. After all, isn't that the meaning of the word "Home?"
