CBS CONTEMPT CITATION
On Tuesday, July 13th, the House of Representatives defeated a request to cite CBS and its President, Frank Stanton, for contempt of Congress. The issue involved in the contempt citation was the willful refusal, on the part of CBS, to comply with a legitimate congressional inquiry.

"In creating what has been called a news documentary—"The Selling of the Pentagon"—CBS deliberately misconstrued and misrepresented the information it received," commented Fifth District Congressman, Tim Lee Carter. "It did so in order to present its own view of the public information activities carried out by the Department of Defense."

He went on to say, "Through clever electronic manipulation, the words of speakers were rearranged to make an individual appear to answer questions in a different way than he did in fact answer them, and another individual appear to be delivering a statement he did not in fact deliver."

Representative Carter explained that, "This is not the first instance in which CBS has violated the trust placed in it by its viewers. The history of deceptive practices also includes the quiz shows of the late fifties, a staged pot party presented to the public as an actual event, as well as staged interviews and scenes relating to an invasion of Haiti.

"Deception in broadcast news is like a cancer in today's society. The spread of calculated deception, paraded as truth, can devastate the earnest efforts of any public official seeking to represent his constituents.

"There are those who argue that the contempt citation would infringe upon the First Amendment guarantee of freedom of the press. The Supreme Court, however, has ruled that the knowing falsification of news, and the false statement made with reckless disregard of the truth, do not enjoy constitutional protection.

In the words of Oliver Wendell Holmes: The most stringent protection of free speech would not protect a man in falsely shouting fire in a theater and causing a panic."

"The public has placed its trust in that which it views as objective, affirming Congressman Carter. However CBS has placed itself above both the people and the personal.

Big Welcome To Miss Lois Jane & Mr. Tiny Little

BY: Joe Harlow

WRVK and Radio Valley welcomes Mr. Tiny Little and his wife Miss Lois Jane as WRVK's Country Music Sweetheart.

Miss Lois Jane Neal hails from Pine Knot, Kentucky and started her singing career at the tender age of 11. Church and religious organizations were charmed with her talent for gospel singing. Until recently she was under the management of Mr. Wally Fowler and appeared on his syndicated television show. She has thrilled audiences as a guest on a host of television shows and has added to her such guests as Glenn Campbell and the Lawrence Walk show.

The current record of the "Little Lady with the Big Voice" is the old Eddy Arnold hit, "Mommy Please Stay Home With Me." The flip side is the beautiful ballad made by Elvis Presley, "Crying in the Chapel." This record is # 10 in England and I predict it will soon be high on the charts here. Her current hit is her album "One of God's Sheep," and has already reached the 10,000 mark in sales. These records are available through her promoter, Mr. Larry Burdette, Manager of WRVK.

Mr. Tiny Little is employed as Chief Engineer and disc jockey on WRVK. He comes from Owensboro, Kentucky and has worked at WHAS and WTMF both in Louisville, Kentucky. His most recent position was WKBS, West Liberty, Kentucky. Tiny will conduct the "Man of the Street Program" on WRVK. Tiny is a veteran of World War II, where he served as a fighter pilot.

The "all new" WRVK, "The greatest sound around" has all new programming under the able management of Mr. Larry Burdette. Listen to Wolf Man Jack, the complete news, weather and stock market report is capably rendered by Mr. Pete Stamper, Joe Clark and Mrs. Ora Lee Hurst. Mr. Russell Houk is their Sunday "Anchor Man."

For the best in country and gospel music and to know what's going on, keep your dial on 19.60, that's WRVK, ADV.

proval of the majority of sportsmen. Veteran hunters are in favor of the earlier closing. Only the shooter who hopes to harvest great numbers of doves is opposed, most usually.

Roost shooting, which will be circumscribed by the half-hour earlier closing and was the reason for this change, is most destructive to a dove population. As the birds whirl into their favorite roosting spots and congregate there literally by the thousands, they are set-ups for those who like to blast away and see one or more doves fall.

At this late period some estimate that half of the great number killed are wasted. The bumper fires away, with no attempt to pick up his kill until after the last minute he is permitted to shoot, and by that time it has grown so dark he is unable to find many of the downed doves. The new regulation will prevent such wanton waste of the dove population.

The avid dove hunter demands the change for another reason.

They point out that doves of a given vicinity have a single roost to which they return each night. Doves bunch up, especially in late afternoon, and many thousands will spend the night in a relatively small woods. They'll return there each night and then forage into the fields the next day in search of food.

So long as there is food available nearby, they'll remain at that roost and in that vicinity. A loss of food will cause them to move out. So will the constant bang-banging of their roost. Often huge droves have been driven from an area rich with food, simply because they are so harassed at their roosting areas. If the harassment is eliminated they should remain in the area for field shooting for many additional days.

The commission is firm in its belief that doves should be harvested for human use since, if they are not taken by gun, they will die early of natural causes and be wasted. Dove hunting, sportsmen will tell you, is one of the fastest shooting sports and the meat from the doves is described by many as a delicacy. There are many reasons that doves should be harvested, but to waste them is a crime. By affirming roost shooting the commission has prevented a great waste of doves.

These birds, despite the heavy hunting pressure put on them, continue to exist in good numbers. Actually, in the eastern United States where the hunting pressure is greater, the population continues good. But, the Department of Interior reasoned, even on the healthy dove population, a dozen a day is plenty for a hunter. Accordingly they reduced the limit to 12 per day or 24 in possession after two or more days of hunting. Last year and the year before the limits were 18 and 36, on an experimental basis.

Except for these major changes the dove hunting regulations for this fall remain about the same as for last year. The season opens on Sept. 1 and continues through Oct. 30; reopens on Dec. 1 and continues through Dec. 9. Shooting hours, remember, are from 12 noon, prevailing time, until one-half hour before sunset.

Many Kentucky sportsmen will applaud the recent action of the Fish and Wildlife Resources Commission in halting the shooting of doves one half hour before sunset.

Local Swim Team Journeys To Danville

The Cedar Rapids Country Club swim team journeyed to Danville July 21 for a tri-meet with Danville and Lexington. Sixteen members of the local team received ribbons for placing in the events (including a first in diving for Joe Clontz and a first in one event for John Henderson) but the local team placed third in point total. The Cedar Rapids swimmers did exceptionally well in the events for such a young team but their third place showing resulted from being unable to enter all of the more than 40 swimmers. Both the Danville and Lexington teams have been engaged in competitive swimming for the past 15 years.

New Rural Mail Route Effective August 21

A new rural delivery mail route, serving Mt. Vernon and nearby surrounding areas, will go into effect August 21, according to Postmaster James O. Smith. The new route (to be designated as Route Q) has been in the planning stages for several months since a post office decision to service postal customers who lived in a radius of over 1/4 mile from the main post office. Of course, mail boxes will have to be erected by those wishing to take advantage of the new service and Postmaster Smith said that persons deciding to erect these boxes should come into the post office to see which side of the street they should put their boxes on to be serviced. Along with the many new customers which will be added, there will be several changes in the other three rural routes originating out of the Mt. Vernon Post Office. Added to Route 2 will be the route from the Pickle Station, along U.S. 25 to Chestnut Ridge and including Chestnut Ridge Road. Approximately five families on the Old Casey County Road will be added to Route 1 and on Route 3, West Main Street and Rose Hill in Mt. Vernon will be switched from Route 3 to 4. Further changes include the addition to Route 3 of the Town Hill Road, Old Richmond Road, the Tanyard Road to Hillard Bowman, the Bob French Road to Eugene Thomas and the Martha Hill Road to Travis Cope. Other areas which will be serviced by the Rural Carrier on Route 4 is Carter Road to the residence of Sam Ford; Fairground Hill, Sawas Subdivision and the Carter-Henderson Road to Walter Renner. Postmaster Smith stressed that if there are any questions concerning either the new route or changes in the other routes that he should be contacted before August 21. The delivery which begins August 21 is a temporary one for 45 days after which time, a decision will be made as to whether enough use is being made of the new route to make it a permanent one.

Wait 20-30 Days After Topping To Harvest Burley Tobacco

Harvesting burley tobacco soon after it is topped can be a costly practice, warns University of Kentucky agronomists. In field trials conducted by UK College of Agriculture staff members, yields as well as returns per acre were greater when crops were harvested 20 and 30 days after topping than when the tobacco was cut and housed 10 days after it was topped.

Crops used in the study, made by UK agronomists A.M. Wallace, J.B. Smiley, W.O. Atkinson, and J.L. Sims, were located in Nelson, Scott and Casey counties. At each location, half the tobacco was topped when flowers were in the button stage.

The other half was topped when flowers were 50 percent full. The stage of maturity when topped affected yields only slightly - less than 100 pounds per acre at each location. However, when the tobacco was cut 20 days after topping, the average yield for the three locations was 244 pounds per acre greater than for that portion of the crops cut 10 days after topping. This is an average yield of about 25 pounds per acre for each day the tobacco stays in the field after topping. In some of the test locations, yield differences were considerably greater than this.

The UK researchers point out that results of this study indicate burley growers can realize best yields and returns per acre if they top their tobacco in early flower stage and then delay harvest as long as weather conditions remain favorable and loss of lower leaves is not serious.

Fresh coconuts in the shell retain good quality up to a month in the refrigerator. Containers of ready-to-eat coconut also keep best in the refrigerator, according to the U.S. Department of Agriculture. Add finely chopped nuts (pecans, cashews, almonds, filberts, or roasted peanuts) to your salad for a real taste treat. Nuts also add more vitamins to your diet. Did you know that in a refrigerator that must be defrosted manually, the coldest area (outside the freezing unit) is the chill tray located just below it? The area at the bottom of the cabinet is warmest.

It's a good policy to protect fats and oil from air, heat and light, USDA researchers also advise that fats and oil should be kept in small containers where there is little or no air space. After a package of dried egg has been opened it should be kept in an airtight container in the refrigerator. It will keep its good flavor for about a year if it is stored properly. How long should you keep bacon in your refrigerator? For best quality you should use it within one week, according to the U.S. Department of Agriculture. Before storing vegetables you should check and see if there are any bruised, soft or decayed ones. Only store vegetables in good condition, because partially decayed ones can ruin several if stored together. If you've purchased ham, frankfurters, bologna, or smoked sausage you can just put them in the refrigerator in their original packaging. Don't shake the cup. According to USDA, flour should be spooned lightly into a measuring cup and then leveled off with a spatula.
