To Offer Training

The State Department of Health will soon offer local health department sanitarians, public officials, sanitary engineers and sanitary landfill operators and managers training in effective solid waste management. Solid waste includes household garbage such as paper, plastics, cans, furniture, appliances, glass and clothing as well as industrial waste.

Audiovisual aids and curriculum materials are currently being developed by the Division of Solid Waste, which will direct the $3,089 one-year project recently approved by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency.

For example, three scale model sanitary landfills are being constructed, training manuals are being written and films and equipment are being purchased.

"Since this type of program has never been conducted before, we are faced with a major problem of development," Samuel N. Johnson, division director said. "Many changes may have to be made along the way. We are trying to set the pace for future efforts."

Actual training will begin within the next three months.

Under the project, local health department sanitarians will be taught how to accurately inspect, report and evaluate conditions at waste disposal sites. They will also receive instruction on legal responsibilities, planning and research.

SUBJECT: SOLID WASTE TRAINING - Samuel N. Johnson (l), director of the State Department of Health's Division of Solid Waste, helps Jim Denny, a student intern, set up a scale model sanitary landfill. The model is one of three Denny, a junior biology major at Transylvania University, is constructing to aid the new on-the-job training project for sanitary landfill operators, county sanitarians, sanitary engineers and public officials.

"These sanitarians will play an important role in an upcoming state industrial and hazardous solid waste survey," Johnson said. "Some of their training time will be concerned with this."

Landfill managers and public officials will learn effective planning, construction and operation of disposal sites, with particular emphasis on how to prevent water and air pollution, and where to obtain help in training new workers.

Landfill operators will focus on preventive maintenance of equipment.

"When solid waste disposal equipment fails, a long, expensive delay often results while parts are ordered and repairs are made," Johnson noted. "By teaching proper checking of equipment we hope to prevent such difficulties."

Training of consulting and city engineers will concern legal requirements for obtaining disposal permits and good designs of sanitary landfills.

Johnson also hopes the project will help reduce the turnover rate of solid waste workers.

"Approximately 25 new local health department sanitarians in the state need to be trained every year," he noted. "Similar turnovers occur among operators and managers of disposal sites and among public works officials."

"By increasing the knowledge and skills of these people through our program, we hope salaries will be upgraded to the point that more individuals will be encouraged to continue to work in solid waste disposal," he said.

Besides Johnson, a sanitary engineer and three public health representatives are working in the project. Two more public health representatives and another sanitary engineer for the program are expected to be hired soon.

STATE DEMOS PLAN 5TH DISTRICT RALLY

Six From Here Receive EKU Degrees Aug. 5

Eastern Kentucky University awarded degrees to six candidates in summer commencement exercises Thursday, August 5.

Dr. Robert R. Martin, EKU president, conferred the degrees at the 7:30 p.m. program in the Van Pelt Pavilion in the campus amphitheatre.

He conferred the honorary doctor of laws degree upon the commencement speaker, Dr. Kelly Thomson, former Western Kentucky University president and now president of WKU's College Heights Foundation.

Together with the 1,414 degrees presented in May, the summer commencement brought the total of degrees conferred this year to 2,009. Eastern awarded 2,053 degrees last year.

A breakdown of this summer's degrees follows:
Graduate School—Specialist in Education, 8; Specialist in Technology, 1; Master of Arts in Education, 185; Master of Arts, 41; Master of Science, 49; Master of Business Administration, 6; Master of Music Education, 4; Master of Public Administration, 4; Arts and Sciences—Bachelor of Arts, 72; Bachelor of Science, 26; Bachelor of Music Education, 3.

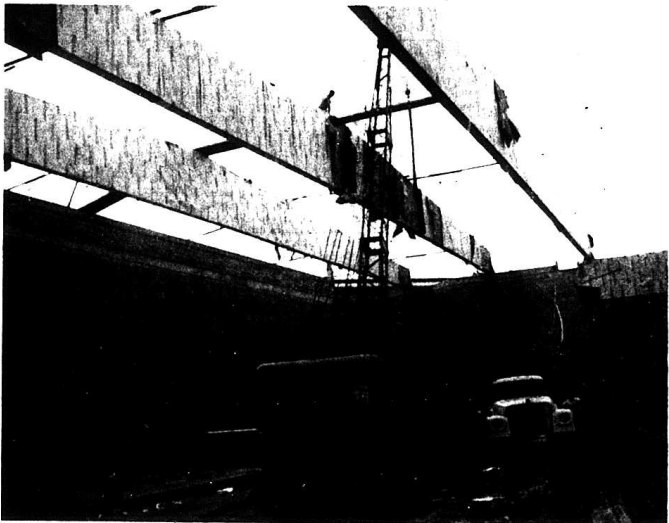

Receiving degrees from Rockcastle County were:
Lynda Lee Broderson, Billy Lee Cameron, Charles Kna-

Richard L. Shivel, (left) son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard E. Shivel, and Ricky Price, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charley Price, all of Brodhead, recently enlisted in the U.S. Navy under the Buddy system. Following the swearing in ceremony, both men went to Great Lakes, Illinois where they are undergoing recruit training. Both are graduates of Brodhead High School and will enter the Aviation field after recruit training.

Postmaster James O. Smith, left, and W.C. Dowell of Mt. Vernon are shown in the above photo with the new mailbox which Mr. Dowell, who lives on West Main Street, put up in order to receive mail on the new Route 4 which will go into effect Saturday, August 1. According to Postmaster Smith, the most important thing after getting the box up is to have the name of the postal customer on the side in at least one-inch high letters.

The gymnasium at the new central high school will have a different look than most high school gymnasiums. The beams, shown in the above photo, are of laminated wood with a walnut veneer finish and will be exposed when the gym is complete.

3,346 Receive $86,604 In Food Stamps In June

During June 3,346 low-income persons in Rockcastle County received food stamps valued at $86,604.00, Commissioner of the Department of Economic Security Merritt S. Deitz, Jr. announced today.

This record compares to 3,432 persons in Rockcastle County who received food stamps at a cost of $85,538.00 during June of 1970.

One of the reasons cited for the increase was that Kentucky's Food Stamp Program, administered by the Kentucky Department of Economic Security and the Department of Agriculture, safeguards the health of the nation's low-income families through better nutrition.

Freedom Revival Begins Aug. 16

A revival meeting will begin Monday evening, August 16 and continue through Sunday evening, August 22 at the Freedom Baptist Church, located two miles from Mareburg.

Rev. Charles Saylor, pastor of the Rockcastle Baptist Church, will be the evangelist. Rev. Saylor, a graduate of Georgetown College and the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary in Louisville, has pastored several churches in Kentucky and served on various committees on the state and associational levels. He is presently serving as a trustee of Georgetown College.

City Council Discusses Leasing of Boat Dock

The Mt. Vernon City Council held their regular monthly meeting Monday night and the main item of business was the consideration of a proposal for leasing the boat dock facilities on Lake Linville by Dorvin M. Shank of Louisville.

At a previous meeting, Mr. Shank had met with the Council to make his proposal and to give a list of references. Mr. Shank's proposal was that a lease agreement for 1971-72 be signed between him and the Council whereby the City would receive 45% of the gross sales from rentals, camping fees and other income incurred at Lake Linville during the calendar year 1971.

Mr. Shank told the Council Monday night that at the end of 1971, he would then stock the boat shop himself and add other sport features at the lake and would renegotiate with the City on the percentage of the gross sales which they would get for 1972.

However, the Council held off from giving Mr. Shank a definite answer on the lease and later decided to offer to enter into a lease agreement whereby the City would sell him (Mr. Shank) all stock and equipment now at the dock, except real estate and buildings, make him (Mr. Shank) responsible for the utilities, and the City would receive compensation from Mr. Shank at the rate of 25% of the gross for 1971-72. Since Mr. Shank had already left the meeting at the time the Council came to this decision, his acceptance or refusal of the proposal is not known yet.

Postmaster James O. Smith tells us that the new mail route will go into effect Saturday, August 21 for everyone outside a radius of 1/4 mile from the main post office who delivers rural delivery. All who live in the post office, check the map out there with Mr. Smith to see which side of the street your house goes on, put a regulation box on and have your name on it in letters at least one inch high. Postmaster Smith tells us that it is very important that persons desiring delivery get their mailboxes up as quickly as possible so that a sorting case can be made up at the post office. A number for each box up will be assigned at a later date.

Do you realize that football season is a matter of a couple of weeks away? It's hard for us at least to face up to the fact that summer is almost gone and before too long the cold winter winds will be blowing. But, speaking of football, let the Mt. Vernon Red Devils will travel to Mercer County August 29 to begin their 1971 season and their first home game is with Fayette on September 17. You know, one of the first things we noticed when we came to this area, was the lack of enthusiasm for football as a sport. It is hoped to basketball. I am not knocking basketball because there isn't any sport I don't like. But, I do think that perhaps the successful efforts of several of our past football teams may be partly due to this lack of enthusiasm by local sports fans for the game. Of course, the 1961-1962 football team can't be held to blame for that, but the fact is, it is true. We agree that football is a

2 Grants Approved By Appl. Regional Comm.

Senator John Sherman Cooper and Marlow Cook, and Fifth District Congressman Tim Lee Carter announced approval of two grants totaling $393,727 for Kentucky from the Appalachian Regional Commission.

One grant of $538,727 is for the third year funding of the Southeastern Kentucky Regional Mental Health-Mental Retardation program in Corbin, which serves Clay, Jackson, Knox, Laurel, Rockcastle, and Wayne Counties.

The second grant of $60,000 is for assistance in the renovation and expansion of the Jackson County Ambulance Center in McKeen.

Farm Bureau Royalty Crowned

Miss Pamela Cummins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Cummins of Mt. Vernon, and Billy Sowder, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Sowder were crowned 1971-72 Farm Bureau King and Queen at the recent Farm Bureau Fish Fry and Banquet.

Miss Cummins is a junior at Mt. Vernon High School and Mr. Sowder is a senior at Broadhead High School.

In October Miss Cummins and Mr. Sowder will represent Rockcastle County in the District Farm Bureau Queen and Mr. Teenage Farm Bureau contest held in London.

Capitol Digest

Gov. Louie B. Nunn stressed the need to sell Kentuckians on the recreational potential of their own state as he addressed dedication ceremonies at three state parks recently.

At Lake Barkley, as the governor dedicated a new 18-hole golf course and other recreational additions, he cited figures which showed only 22 per cent of last year's 25 million state park visitors were Kentuckians.

Noting that out-of-state visitors already spend on Kentucky as a family vacation, he said, "One of it is up to Kentuckians to come and to reap the fruits of their investment in these magnificent (park) facilities--and then to go back home and sell Kentucky to more Kentuckians."

The governor also traveled to John James Audubon State Park to dedicate a 60-acre wooded buffer tract recently added to the park, and then on to Glasgow to dedicate the new $2.5 million Derran River Lake State Park Lodge.

At Audubon, he credited a 47 per cent increase in park visits the past three years to improved highways, including the completion of the Parkway and Audubon Parkway in Henderson.

The governor told the Glasgow audience that Kentucky parks are perfect places where Kentucky families can be together.

And all 900,000 families living in the state will benefit "beyond the need to preserve the American family," he said.

NEW PLAN INTEREST MAY FORTELL ECONOMIC UPSWING

An increased interest being shown by industrialists in new plant construction in Kentucky is a good sign that the national economy may be on the verge of a significant upswing, Commerce Commissioner Paul W. Grubbs said recently.

Prospects for new plants are the first of the year, Grubbs said.

In January we had only five active proposals, he said, but for the last five months we've processed over 35 new proposals.

The risks are assigned to all companies on the basis of the amount of business they do in Kentucky.

A state insurance firm would be required to participate in the plan in order to invalidate the crime-insurance amendments to the FAIR plan program.

The decision forestalled temporarily the possibility of the federal government's writing its own crime insurance policies in the state, State Insurance Commissioner Robert Preston said.

The U.S. Dept. of Justice is pushing for Kentucky to assure that such coverage was available for all who need it "at affordable rates."

Preston argued that if an injunction had been granted, it would benefit the insurance companies who asked it, because these firms would undoubtedly be the carriers for the federal insurance. As such, he added, the companies would be guaranteed their profits, which they would not be under the state plan.

AMENDMENT CERTIFIED FOR FALL BALLOT

Secretary of State Kenneth F. Harper certified the proposed homestead constitutional amendment last week, authorizing all county court clerks to place on the Nov. 2 general election ballot.

The proposed amendment deals with a property tax exemption for senior citizens and was prepared during the 1970 session of the legislature.

Specifically, the amendment would provide a $5000 exemption for the residential property of a person 65 years of age or older.

In keeping with constitutional requirements, the amendment had been published four times in two newspapers prior to its certification, Harper explained. It will be published again by Wednesday Oct. 12 and Oct. 26.

Harper urged Kentuckians to study the proposal carefully, then vote their choice.

"This is an important opportunity for all citizens of the Commonwealth to make their wishes known in a vital policy area," he said.

TEACHER SURPLUS HERE FORECAST

A State Department of Education official predicts that Kentucky's teacher surplus may continue indefinitely.

For the past 10 years, said Dr. Sidney Simandle, the number of teachers being graduated has exceeded the number of jobs available but the surplus was absorbed by other states.

Simandle, Director of the Teacher Education and Certification Division, said the state now is producing about 6000 teachers a year for a Kentucky market of about 2500 jobs.

He said he expects teacher unemployment to be higher this year than last, with perhaps 1000 teachers being listed on the state placement list.

"I don't see much opportunity for it to let up in the next year or two," he added.

Simandle said several developments might ease the state teacher surplus. He pointed out that a change in Kentucky's teacher retirement system soon will allow teachers with 30 years experience to retire regardless of age, and he expects many will, thus opening jobs.

Frankfort Watchline

Squabbling among the state university presidents over secondary colleges, law schools, tuition, out-of-state students and, of course, money mainly obscures the real question: Who will control education in Kentucky, the professionals or the public?

The fact is that now the professionals are firmly in the saddle in both higher education and the common schools.

Almost the only time they pay more than lip service to the general public's view is in asking for money.

Most professionals do try to serve the public's interest--and they see it. And some even listen to the public.

But control simply has been wrested from the people. Many of the state came out that wistful cry, "Take the schools out of politics."

Now, though, educators are perhaps more politically active than ever. And that control of ground best left unpolished.

Nothing is wrong with political activity itself, of course. The trouble comes when the goal is empire building or ego satisfaction instead of providing the public with the schools it needs and wants.

And talk of any institution's "right" to develop as it sees fit is only talk. The rights belong to the people. If professional can convince the people, well and good. If not, the people must prevail. On this the professionals seem to be the ignorant ones.

And they may not have too much time to start learning.

Private use of state-owned cars is like Johnson grass. It takes constant battling. But the latest mini-crisis drew guffaws.

It seems a university employee was using a school car for his daytime rendezvous at a motel. And he was caught by Frankfort folks, not school officials. For him, school's out. *****

Only Investors Heritage sage Allan Trout could describe the dangers of a Federal Trade Commission effort to make advertisers prove their claims in these terms:

"The FTC, it seems to me, is trying to repeal one of the oldest rights of human nature, the right to dream of pleasure, free bliss in Shangri-la, that Never-Never Land of Hopedam, where the lion roareth, the woodland thimble, and the whangdoodle mourneth for her fireborn." ***** rough-and-tumble game but there is no reason to suppose that it is really any more dignified than basketball if played with the proper equipment and coaching. Anyway we think a little encouragement to boys to play the game by parents and others and more support of the sport in general by fans would make a marked difference in the performance of the team... Well, the Mt. Vernon Playground closes the door on another season this Saturday night and it has been one of the most active seasons yet for the ballpark. The addition of several softball teams, three of them sponsored by competitive food markets in town, really livens things up for the ball fans and right now a double-elimination tournament is going on which will be climaxed by the championship game Saturday night. Of course there was also volleyball for the men and women and softball for the women besides all the various softball and hardball leagues for little boys. Not to mention that several perennial football squares, with a little lesterball on the side, all under the very capable direction of Paul Thomson, playground director. All in all, it was another good year for the local playground and filled many hours that would have otherwise been void of means of entertainment for children and adults (ourselves included)...

"Converting to electric heat was easy... easy on our budget, too!"

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Newby of Versailles, Ky.

"I thought converting would mean a big mess," says Mrs. Newby. "But it was simple. And electric heat certainly makes no mess. We've noticed real savings on redecorating and cleaning costs."

"It's a comfort in more ways than one," says Mr. Newby. "I just don't shell out any more for maintenance and repairs. That's economy for you!"

Electric heat offers a wide choice of modern systems. But if your present heating is forced air, your new electric furnace installation is already half completed. Your central air conditioning too.

ATTENTION FARMERS

If you don't lime it, why plant it

Why Soils Need Lime

Only a few crops grow well on acid soils because they require calcium and magnesium which are replaced by applications of agricultural limestone. This material not only corrects the soil acidity, but also supplies the plants with the needed calcium and frequently magnesium.

Soil pH, which is a measure of the acidity or alkalinity of the soil, affects the availability of all elements which influence crop production. An application of liming material to an acid soil increases the availability of plant nutrients which are important to crop production. Among these are nitrogen, phosphate and others. Liming reduces luxury uptake of potassium by the plants and reduces the availability of aluminum and iron manganese which are harmful to plants if they are present in sufficient quantities in the soil. Liming also helps increase the number and activity of beneficial soil bacteria. It helps improve the physical condition of the soil by supplying the calcium needed by leguminous crops to increase their growth. It increases root development and permeability of the soil.

Lime is the most economical factor involved in crop production on most soils in the humid area as they are acid in varying degrees. The application of needed fertilizers is also one of the most economical factors in crop production. The wise use of water - both rainfall and irrigation - is still another factor involving crop production. However, the one which is most frequently neglected is the application of agricultural limestone and this is the first step in a sound soil fertility program on most soils in the humid area. Failure to apply this material limits crop production and wastes fertilizer dollars as well as the producer's capital investment and his labor in crop production. To get a better picture of soil needs, a soil test made by an accredited laboratory is recommended.
