It Took 109 Years . . . And These Men To Build Cox's Tradition Of Excellence

Even back in 1862, the name Cox was associated with quality. It was then that Mr. William H. Cox opened his wagon making shop in the Well-hope section of the county and quickly became known as one of Rockcastle County's finest craftsmen. His son, William A. Cox, joined him in this business and because of this trade, the firm soon became active in Funeral service.

That was the beginning of a family tradition perpetuated through four generations--a tradition that permeates the entire Cox organization, and is reflected in its personal concern for and responsibility to each family it serves.

Today as for 109 years, every detail of its facilities and services has been planned to express Cox's complete dedication to the personal consideration of the needs and wishes of each family it services.

"Turned On" Wedding

"I do" solemnly spoken by bride and groom, is usually enough to make a legally valid marriage. But suppose one or both of the parties is "turned on" either by drugs or by alcohol. This may create a situation once described as follows by Euripides:

"The tongue hath sworn, but the mind is unshorn."

Marriage is a contract—a special kind, to be sure, but a contract nonetheless. The key to a contract is mutual assent, a meeting of the minds. And a mind not competent to assent is not competent to make a contract, no matter what the tongue says.

How clear must the mind be? The law's test is whether the person is able to understand the nature of a marriage contract at the moment he says "I do." If he is not, the marriage may be annulled.

But intoxication short of that which usually is overlooked. Since the law gives matrimony the benefit of the doubt, courts generally will not grant an annulment merely because the bride or the groom was a little high.

Furthermore, even if one of the parties was indeed "out of it" at the time of the wedding, the marriage may become valid because of what happens afterward. Take this case:

A man married a girl he scarcely knew, as the climax of a protracted drinking party. Seeking an annulment later, he pleaded in court that he had been in an alcoholic stupor at the time of the wedding.

But the girl pointed out that he had continued to cohabit with her for several days after he had sobered up. Result: annulment denied, because the marriage had been "ratified" by subsequent events.

What if one of the parties, although in good shape at the wedding itself, had concealed the fact that he was an alcoholic or a dope addict? Under these circumstances, most courts will grant an annulment to the spouse who has been deceived.

This, a bride won an annulment when she discovered after the nuptials that her bridegroom was a heroin addict. The court said this was the kind of vital information that, in all fairness, any bride had a right to know.

Moran - Halcomb

Miss Sarah Jeannette Moran, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Madison Moran, became the bride of Mr. Robin Floyd Halcomb, son of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Halcomb Thursday, August 5, at the Albany United Methodist Church, with Reverend John C. Tate officiating at the double ring ceremony.

Mrs. Youngs Chalkin Emerson, Russell Springs, organist, played nuptial selections including "Christie" "Never My Love" "Hiz" and the traditional wedding march.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a delicately feminine full-length gown of satrapeau, designed with an empire bodice heavily embroidered with French chamois lace and seed pearls. The high jewel neckline was of Venice lace, the a-line skirt had Venice lace appliqued down the front and around the hem line. The lantern sleeves had long lace cuffs, and her train was embroidered with the French chamois lace. Her veil of silk illusion, bordered in Peau d'Ange lace was worn mantilla style. Her only jewelry was a pair of diamond earrings, a gift from the bridegroom. The bride carried a cascade bouquet of white roses and pink carnations.

Featured in the church decorations were white gladiolus, interspersed with pink carnations. The background of this floral spray was comprised of a large group of greenery, thus echoing the bride's selection of flowers in her bouquet.

Mrs. William Madison Moran, of Seaside, Tennessee, was m-tron of honor, and Miss Jill Halcomb, sister of the groom, served as bridesmaid. The bride's attendants were dressed in floor-length dresses of sheer, with empire bodices and puffed sleeves, in pale pink and green. The matching headpieces were made of net secured with a large sheer bow. The attendants carried long-stemmed pink roses.

Mr. Donnie Emerson of Russell Springs was the best man and William Madison Moran, brother of the bride, served as usher.

The mother of the bride wore a sheath dress of blue worsted silk with matching accessories. Her corsage was made of pink rosebuds. The mother of the groom was dressed in a pink knit dress. She wore white accessories, and her corsage was also of pink rosebuds.

The parents of the bride entertained at a reception in their home immediately following the wedding ceremony. The bride's table featured a central arrangement of pink carnations and white roses with greenery which carried out the bride's colors of pink and green. Serving pieces of silver, and silver candlesticks with white tapered were set upon a lace tablecloth which

County Agent's Notes

By: H. Lee Durham

VEE Vaccine Program

The target date for the VEE horse vaccination program in Kentucky was September 7, 1971. VEE is a serious threat to the horse population in Kentucky. VEE also affects people, with the very young and the very old experiencing more serious illness.

Dr. K. F. Burdette and Dr. William Adams are now in the process of vaccinating all horses, ponies, mules, donkeys and burros in Rockcastle County regardless of age or sex.

Owners of horses, mules, etc. will need to contact Dr. Burdette or Dr. Adams and make a date with them for the vaccination of their animals.

The vaccine must be issued to each veterinarian on a daily basis. It must be used the same day it is issued. It must be kept "cool" until used. Every animal must be identified. Lip Tattoos, registration name or number are preferred. Metal tags to be attached to the name or tail will be furnished for other animals.

All equine in Kentucky are eligible for the vaccination even though the owner may live in another state. The vaccine is supplied by USDA at no charge to the veterinarian.

USDA pays the veterinarian for accomplishing the vaccination. There is no charge to the owner for VEE vaccination.

Farms that have a regular veterinarian may request their own veterinarian to accomplish the vaccination regardless of county or area vaccination lines.

All over the United States Extension agents have been asked by the U.S. Dept. of Agriculture to make a count of all horses in their particular counties. The national horse count is being made in connection with the recent outbreak in Texas of VEE (Venezuelan Equine Encephalomyelitis), a sleeping sickness of horses. The survey is part of USDA's effort to protect horses throughout the country.

An exact count is important and Rockcastle County totals are needed as soon as possible. If you own a horse - or any animal of the equine species, please let your county Extension agent know as soon as possible. If you have already reported your horses, mules, etc. you do not need to do so again, however owners need to contact Dr. Adams or Dr. Burdette in order that they may set up a schedule for the amount of vaccine they need to obtain for a particular day and work out a schedule for the vaccination program. Rockcastle County Extension office is located in the courthouse, phone 256-2403. Antiquing Can Lead Elegance to Furniture. Homemakers who would like over yellow, a brownish color; over red, a brick red; over white, an old ivory look; over blue, a blue-green coloring. Burnt umber produces a darker effect than raw umber. Lamp-black is used on dark paint to achieve a very old look. Raw sienna and yellow ochre produce a golden tone. If a frost antique finish is desired, a white enamel undercoat is used instead of umber.

Miss Bartlett gives this recipe for antique glaze. Combine three tablespoons of turpentine and one and one-half teaspoons of raw umber oil color in a cup or can and mix thoroughly. Add one tablespoon of varnish and mix again. Apply the glaze with a brush or spray over the entire area or section by section, depending on the size of the piece being antiqued.

After the glaze has been applied to the entire surface, wipe off with a clean, lint-free cloth. Flat surfaces should be wiped with a circular motion, starting at the center and working out toward the edges. Using a small, dry brush, remove excess glaze material from depressions and blend the color back toward the center again.

A clear coat of dull varnish over an antique finish will protect the old look. If extra protection is needed on pieces such as tables, apply several coats of varnish, sanding lightly in between with fine sandpaper. One of the greatest advantages in antiquing painted surfaces, Miss Bartlett said, is that if the homemaker doesn't succeed in achieving the desired effect with the first coat, she can try again. The entire glaze can be washed off with turpentine before it has dried and another coat applied with a slightly different formula. Your county Extension agent in home economics can give you more detailed information on antiquing.

For traveling, the bride chose a knit ensemble of navy, red and white. Her accessories were white, and her corsage was a white orchid. After a wedding trip to Atlanta, Georgia, the couple have returned to Albany to live.

The bride is the granddaughter of Mrs. Bill Duvall and the late Mr. Duvall. The groom is the grandson of Mrs. John Halcomb and the late Mr. H. H. Scob of Livingston, and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Mason of Mt. Vernon.

Hunting & Fishing

As surely as the waterfowl season occurs, questions arise on which species may be included in limits, how many of each and in what combinations. And there are valid questions, because federal regulations, because federal regulations on bag and possession limits are, to say the least, a bit intricate.

To make the road a bit easier the U.S. Department of Interior and the State Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources have come up with a simplified bag and possession limit makeup.

First for the geese: The statewide season opens on Nov. 15 and continues through Jan. 23, with shooting hours from one-half before sunrise until sunset. Dates for Ballard Wildlife Management are on Dec. 1 - Jan. 23, with shooting ending at 12 noon and with no hunting on Sundays or Christmas Day.

The same bag and possession limits apply in both areas of hunting. The daily limit is five which may consist of two Canada or two whitefronted or one of each. Example-A hunter may kill two Canadas, two blue and one snow, or, he may take one Canada, one white-fronted and fill out the five limit with other species. If the limit includes two Canadas, no whitefronted may be taken, or if the limit includes two whitefronted, no Canadas may be taken.

The possession limit is also five which may include four Canadas with one blue or snow, or two Canadas and two whitefronted plus one of the other species, but the possession limit may never be exceeded. More than two whitefronted. If the two whitefronted are taken, then only two Canadas may be had plus one of the other geese for a total of five. The possession limit does not apply in the field and is effective after two or more days of hunting.

Geese may not be transported, shipped or delivered for transportation or shipment by common carrier, the postal service or by any person except as personal baggage of the hunter taking the birds.

The statewide duck season opens Nov. 28 and extends through Jan. 16, and on the Ballard Area the season runs Dec. 1 through Jan. 15. Daily limit is four which may be made up entirely of four mallards or four black ducks but it includes more than one Canada or one redhead in aggregate.

The bag limit for four may be made up of any combination of the above ducks, so long as the extreme limits on various species are not exceeded. The possession limit is eight and may be made up entirely of mallards or black ducks or a combination of these two species and other species, but at no time may the possession limit include more than four wood ducks nor may it include more than one Canada or one redhead in aggregate. Under no condition may a hunter have in his possession more than one Canada or redhead and if he has one of this species he may not have the other.

In addition to the above limitations two scupally and four in possession may be added to the above outside limits of one Canada or one redhead, (only in the Nov. 28 Dec. 6 blue-winged teal season) two of this species may be added daily and four in possession. That is, it is possible during this brief period for a hunter to harvest eight ducks in a day or have 16 in possession after two or more days of hunting.

On the Ballard area hunters must make reservations

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Fat Bus

Harvey never knew what hit him until they told him about it afterward in the hospital.

He had been standing on a sidewalk near the curb, gazing to the north when a bus stopped for a stop. The front corner of the bus, which overtook the curb, struck him a glancing blow on the forehead.

Under these circumstances, was Harvey entitled to collect damages from the bus company? In a court case, the company said no. The driver had a right, argued the company, to drive close to the curb as his wheels would allow.

But Harvey won a substantial judgment. The court said the driver should have realized that, since a bus is wider than its wheels, it can extend over the curb and smite an unsuspecting pedestrian standing on the sidewalk.

In the eyes of the law, a sidewalk is a safety zone in which the pedestrian reigns supreme. As the court put it:

"A pedestrian is entitled to assume there is no danger from traffic so long as he remains on the sidewalk."

Would it matter if the pedestrian had actually seen the bus coming toward him? That should make a difference, claimed the bus company in another injury case, because it would have been so easy for him to take one step backward—to be safe.

But again the court ruled in the pedestrian's favor. The court said he simply had no reason to expect that the bus would intrude where it had no business intruding.

Still, there is always the possibility that at the very moment of impact, the pedestrian may have been leaning over the curb into the street.

One woman was struck by a bus while she was standing on the sidewalk between a fire hydrant and an electric light pole. Yet, even though both the hydrant and the pole were at the very edge of the curb, neither of these objects was even scratched.

In applying common sense, the court concluded that the woman herself must have been at fault. The judge said that, at least for a brief instant and a brief distance, she must have leaned out of her safety zone on the sidewalk, into the danger zone on the street.

Thought to Remember

By: Billy Dowell

Most everyone you see has a job—they go to work and do this job the greatest part of their lives.

Most of them live! That is a pretty big statement. If you are going to be doing something the most of your life—it should be something you love and enjoy.

I'm sorry for the boy or girl who picks a job simply for its monetary rewards. Pay is certainly important, but the job will eventually make the person. A person who finds the job that lets him feel he is doing something—gives him satisfaction—will be a happier and better individual.

If you are spending your days wondering about your "vocation," then very likely you have the wrong one.

Re-Discover Kentucky

Kentucky will be featured on the Voice of America's most popular program, The Breakfast Show, by co-host Pat Gates on September 30. VOA, a project of the United States Information Agency, is on the air 24 hours a day broadcasting radio programs in 35 languages.

Mrs. Gates was in Louisville during the State Fair, recording interviews with people from all sections of the Commonwealth. She sat on a wooden stool to talk to a dairy farmer while he milked his cow, and she talked with the owner of a champion blue ribbon winner to the background squealing of the state's finest boat regatta. "Our aim is to tell the rest of the world about Americans as they are, informally, with a personal touch," she said. She also cruised the riverfront in Louisville and discussed the details of his work with Jack Leeb, the executive director of Urban Renewal and Community Development. "People in other countries are interested in what American cities are doing to meet the problems of rapid growth and, most of all, what they are doing and what the young people are interested in," according to Mrs. Gates.

VOA broadcasts many different programs in different languages simultaneously, English being the language most listened to. The Breakfast Show broadcasts in English for two hours, seven days a week, in the early morning. It is considered to have the largest audience of any VOA program, with an estimated 40 million listeners.

VOA has 109 transmitters totaling 20 million watts of power and beams to all countries, including those behind the Iron Curtain. The USSR, Bulgaria and Communist China "jam" (intentionally try to interfere with) the VOA signal, but usually a station is able to get through by changing frequency.

Often, foreign visitors to the U.S. will come to the VOA studios in Washington hoping to meet the Breakfast Show hosts. Co-host with Pat Gates on The Breakfast Show is Phillip Lewis. They are also the show's producers, and they are kept busy filling it with a combination of world news, special features like the Kentucky interviews, and music. They like to explain their show to someone who has never heard it as being "in some ways an institutional version of the 'Today' show, covering every conceivable subject." The mail is heavy from all parts of the world and from people from all walks of life, bankers, doctors, housewives, secretaries and servicemen. They frequently get congratulations for America's space efforts which they pass along to NASA. Mrs. Gates has been heard on The Breakfast Show for almost all of its 10 years. Recently she was on loan to the White House for five months while she traveled with Mrs. Nixon, specializing in radio and television assignments. She has worked for NBC's "Monitor" and the American Forces network, and in a Washington television station. She is past president of the Washington American Women in Radio & Television, received its outstanding member award in 1969 and is listed in Who's Who in American Women. Mrs. Gates has broadcast from Soviet Russia, Hungary, the Middle East and almost every country in Western Europe. She traveled with President and Mrs. Nixon to Asian-Pacific countries, and to Romania in Eastern Europe.

Home for the Gates family is in Arlington, Va. She and her husband, an Army general have two children, a daughter Pam and a son, Larry, who is a student at the University of Virginia.

People who listen to The Breakfast Show feel like friends of her family because she talks about them. She also draws on incidents that happened during her travels, and conversations with people everywhere she goes.

As she boarded the plane in Louisville, these were her parting words: "I was very much impressed with the warmth of the people in Kentucky, and the tremendous interest and concern of everyone there when they knew I wanted to talk about their state. I hope I'll be able to come back some day."

Bob Roark Joins

Renfro Valley Cast

Latest to cast his lot with the Renfro Valley Folks is Bob Roark, for many years a featured singer and guitarist on radio station WHAS, Louisville, Kentucky. Bob's fine voice and pleasing personality will add much to the Sunday Morning Gatherin', where he will be featured, and he will also be heard on the Saturday Night Barn Dance, which is again being heard on radio stations around the country.

Bob has an important commercial job which takes up his time during the week, but he hopes to spend most of his week ends in Renfro Valley—and we hope he does.

DRIVER'S LICENSE CAN BE REGAINED

If you're wearing out shoe leather because your driver's license was suspended under Kentucky's financial responsibility law, state driver licensing officials want to hear from you.

According to Roger L. Wilhite, driver licensing director, you could be eligible to get that license re-instated immediately.

Wilhite cited a recent Supreme Court ruling, reached in the case of a Georgia motorist who appealed loss of his license under a similar law, as the reason why "as many as 10,000 suspended Kentucky drivers" may now be able to get their suspensions lifted.

The high court held that an operator's permit could not be revoked solely on the basis of a state law requiring that he show proof of financial responsibility to meet costs of any civil judgment that might later arise out of a court case.

Both Georgia and Kentucky required that a motorist involved in an accident where a death, injury or property damage of $100 or more occurred must prove financial responsibility, either by posting suitable bond or showing coverage under a valid auto liability insurance policy.

Until the new ruling was handed down, failure to prove financial responsibility was considered sufficient grounds for the suspension of a driver's license.

Wilhite said that any Kentucky driver suspended under the financial responsibility law should write his office, giving his name, date of birth and date of the accident which resulted in his suspension. Letters should be addressed to the Driver Licensing Div., Department of Public Safety, State Office Building, Frankfort, Ky. 40601.

"If, since that accident, the driver has been convicted of a traffic offense for which the law prescribes revocation or suspension, we will probably restate his license immediately," Wilhite said. Drivers who complied with the law by posting bond are also urged to contact Wilhite, if they execute an affidavit of the accident, no civil judgment is now outstanding against them, the bond will be refunded.

Wilhite said that, as a result of the court ruling, any further suspensions may not be ordered against a driver giving the driver an opportunity to prove that he was not at fault.

Modern Chapel

Office

Display Room

In the past two years the Dowell & Martin Funeral Home has undergone extensive remodeling and redecorating. Our chapel has been enlarged and redecorated, an arrangement and business office has been added where the family can have complete privacy. A complete new casket display room has been built in order to carry a wide range of caskets priced to fit every preference and need. A coffee lounge has been created and more recently, a ladies lounge. A new phone system has been installed enabling us to have two phone numbers, 256-2991 and 256-2997.

We have purchased a new 1971 ambulance, fully equipped, including oxygen, in order to provide better ambulance service and all of our attendants are Red Cross trained in First Aid.

All of this has been done to achieve one goal. To provide this community with funeral facilities comparable to the finest our profession can offer and most of all, Your Complete Satisfaction.

Yes, times have changed and so have we, including our service and facilities. We hope that our service is better today than it was a year ago, because we are always searching for new ideas and ways to improve. As evidence of this we have been selected as Rockcastle County's only member of the International Order of the Golden Rule. An organization of reputable and dependable funeral directors.

We know we aren't the oldest funeral home in the county, but we feel that our service speaks for itself, and besides, old-timers had to start somewhere.

Over Million Dollars Issued Here In 1970-71

During the 1970-71 fiscal year, an average of 280,000 low-income Kentuckians received food stamps each month with a total annual value of $76,982,030, Commissioner of the Department of Economic Security Merritt S. Dettz, Jr., announced today.

According to Commissioner Dettz, Kentucky's Food Stamp Program has experienced a fantastic growth rate during the most fiscal year.

Last fiscal year, food stamps with a total annual value of $38,769,299 went to an average of 158,500 low-income Kentuckians," he said.

Food stamps valued at $1,047,997.00 were issued in Rockcastle County during the 1970-71 fiscal year.

Commissioner Dettz said food stamps "help low-income persons increase their expenditures to help and upgrade the quality of their diets."

"Under the program, eligible families exchange the amount of money they have been spending for food for an allotment of food coupons of higher monetary value," he explained. "The family then uses the coupons to purchase food."

In Kentucky, the Food Stamp Program is administered jointly by the Department of Economic Security and the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Economic Security's administrative responsibilities include certifying applicant households, accepting, storing and protecting coupons after their delivery to receiving points within the state and issuing coupons to eligible households.

Fiscal Court Meets

Business matters to be brought up by the Rockcastle Fiscal Court at their last Tuesday meeting were light.

During the meeting, a motion was made by C.W. Phillips and seconded by Sherman Sargent to authorize the county treasurer to issue a check to pay the $20,000 note plus interest due the Bank of Mt. Vernon.

Magistrate Cleith Thacker also made a motion, seconded by Hewitt Jones, to give County Attorney William D. Gregory power to investigate possible expert witnesses for the courthouse suit and make a report to Fiscal Court.

Both motions carried unanimously.

Red Devils Lose 52-8

The Mt. Vernon Red Devils took the first Russell County last Friday night looking like a completely different team than had played Mercer County the previous week.

The Devils took the ball at mid-field from Russell County after they (Russell County) had failed to make a fourth down and two. They marched the ball to the eight yard line where Russell County was penalized half the distance to the goal line which gave the Devils a first down on the four. However, at this point, the Devils suffered an offensive penalty which set them back five yards, and they were unable to score on the drive.

The first quarter ended with neither team getting on the scoreboard. In the second quarter, Russell County came back with two long runs of approximately eighty yards each to break out on top with a three touchdown lead at half-time.

Then, in the fourth quarter, Mt. Vernon had a touchdown called back after Hackworth intercepted a pass and ran eighty yards for the score. The penalty was for clipping which had occurred at the line of scrimmage. Mt. Vernon did finally score on another intercept by Larry Carter which he ran back about seventy yards for the touchdown. The Devils also got a two point conversion on a run by quarterback Kenny Burton and the game ended.

by: perlina m. soderkin

Where are our candidates? The period for filing for city offices in Mt. Vernon, Livingston and Broadhead is from September 9 through September 20 and to date, according to County Clerk Clifford Bales, no one has filed as a candidate for these offices. I know it's a tough job but it looks like someone would be interested in the positions for a good fight with the trash pick-up, entry over high water bills, road repairs and the thousand and one other things that go toward making the jobs of city councilmen and mayors such things of beauty...

Well, the news is certainly light this week and since a call from an intruder last week of this column in dispute with some of my remarks I think it will probably be shorter than usual. Was it a collective sigh of relief heard quite plainly? It seems the good issue with my remark concerning a 12-month school program. Of course, I wasn't serious, I wouldn't really like to pack lunches every day for 12 months. No, all kidding aside, this column is written, I think, with tongue-in-cheek and readers should read it in the same vein because if I had to quit writing it as scarce as regular news is right now you might find yourself looking at a blank column out of the eight which stare me in the face weekly...

Looking around the streets of Mt. Vernon recently a news item I had read came to mind concerning the town of nearby Harrodsburg, I think it was. Anybody who can remember the article dealt with the fact that several civic organizations in the town had decided to designate a clean-up day for the area and on this day, church bells and fire sirens were sounded periodically to remind residents and businesses of what day it was. From the account, the day was a success. Don't you think this might be a good idea for our area. On the particular day that I was reminded of the article, someone was burning trash near Main Street and the debris and smoke were rolling through downtown, the sidewalks and streets were pretty badly littered and the general appearance was one of neglect of course, you'll probably notice, we got the weeds cut down in front of the office before I dared bring this up. Anyway, we would be willing to help out with a clean-up campaign of this type and think it would raise the moral of the entire town to clean-up and fix-up our area at least once a year...

Peter Pan To Be Shown In Berea

There will be a special performance of the children's play, Peter Pan, Sunday, September 12 at 5 p.m. at the Indian Fort Theater on Highway 21, three miles east of Berea.

This performance by the Summer Areas Theater is being given to benefit the Madison County Association for Retarded Children. Donations of $1.00 per adult and 50c per child under 12 will go to support the MCARC's training class for severely retarded children.

Concession stand serving hot dogs, cokes, baked goods, etc., will be open at 4 p.m. and for one hour following the performance for those who wish to have a family picnic in the beautifully wooded area.

There are 525 retarded school age children in Madison County. Of these, 87 are severely retarded and need the special training provided by classes for those who wish to be raised. Last year, it had a class of 13 in Richmond and hopes to have another one in Berea this fall. In event of rain, Peter Pan will be held September 19.

Frankfort Watchline

Battling over control of community colleges won't stop short of the 1972 legislative session.
And it's one of those controversies that probably will require some closed-door headmooching by the next governor.

It's simply the type of issue Kentuckians just can't settle outside the political arena.
Operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of intoxicants, $100 fine, Roy Shafter.

Because the fight between the University of Kentucky and the regional universities will spill over into other areas—like money.

And when it comes to money some university presidents make a Major League school like a church plate-passer. But the debate over whether UK should continue to control the community colleges eventually has produced one glimmer of light.

They're beginning to talk about the students and their needs instead of institutions and bonded debt and power bases.

The students may be the last consideration when it comes to the real budgetary in-fighting. But at least they're being noticed.

They just don't make brain-washers the way they used to. Morehead University President Adron Doran and Eastern Kentucky University President Robert Martin say UK uses its community colleges as a feeder system for the Lexington campus.
But this bill only about 150 students transferred from the colleges to the main campus, a drop of 200 from last fall.

If anyone comes up with fuzzer thinking this politician it has to be those of us who comment on them.

The Ivory Tower now is endorsing the idea that Jefferson Community College's Attorney Edwin Schroering should resign or take a leave of absence to campaign for attorney general.

The kick is that it apparently would be acceptable for him to stay in office to run for reelection—just for another office. The difference escapes some plebeians.

And as for taking a leave from an elective office, you're either it or you aren't as far as responsibility goes.

Maybe there ought to be a law, but there isn't.

Western Kentuckians used to have a sure-fire way to tell who the politicians were at the summertime rallies and barbecues and fish fries. They were the ones with their coats on.

Now Senate President Pro Tem William Sullivan is giving us an absolutely guaranteed way to tell if a fellow is a candidate for the legislature.

board and restored the II-A classification.
Readers of "You and the Draft" may know that occupational deferment must not exceed a year. That does not necessarily mean it cannot be reviewed and changed at any time during the 18 months provided a new set of circumstances warrant.

Prior to the end of the 1970-71 school year the local board reviewed Lem's file and reclassified him I-A. Again Lem elected to go the appeal route. However, the out-of-state appeal board by a unanimous vote upheld the local board's I-A. Unanimity by the appeal board hardly ended the registrant's right to appeal to the President.

Because of a congressional stalemate the authority to induct expired last June 30. However, Lem knows that when inductions are resumed, with an RSN that has been reached he can expect to receive his induction order within a short time.

This young man now is gone the "full nine yards" writing to the President. His letter was referred to our National Headquarters for attention and reply. We have a copy of the Washington reply to Lem.

Assuming that other young men in the same situation might be interested in a key statement about the phasing out of teacher deferments, the reply stated, "Since issuance of the executive order (April 23, 1970) unemployment among the nation's elementary and high school teachers is described by some educational officials as a national emergency."

The preceding may or may not make involuntary military service palatable to Lem. However, some other young industrial arts instructor, who has fulfilled his military obligation, has a high RSN, or is over 26, will hopefully be interested in applying for Lem's job while he is performing military service.

YOU AND THE DRAFT

Recently some of the State Selective Service Headquarters staff had the opportunity to view a film that has had extensive screening in government and non-government training centers. The film title is "Eyes of the Beholder." Peggie a columnist about the "draft" to the title of this film may seem far fetched—quite to the contrary.

To the eye of the beholder an experience is either pleasing or displeasing. Some young men with a low Random Sequence Number (RSN) who are classified I-A take a very dim view of losing a previously earned deferment, especially since they continue to be a winding down of hostilities in Vietnam. Quite frankly these registrants will go the "whole nine yards" to prove occupational essentiality. In the eyes of these beholders you don't equal expertise with uncertainty. Lem has been assigned an industrial arts instructor with no exception to this "draft" rule of thumb.

Lem has enjoyed an occupational deferment (067-70) because his file was well documented to show a "critical" need for an industrial arts instructor in an out-of-state consolidated high school. From the December 1969 "hot-terry yard" he was assigned RSN 62. This number had not been reached in his local board at the time of issuance of executive order April 23, 1970, phasing out occupational deferments. Shortly afterward the board informed Lem that all occupational deferments were being reviewed to comply with the spirit and intent of the executive order.

In June 1970 the local board reclassified Lem from II-A to I-A. He made a timely appeal. In his appeal Lem requested that his file be transferred to the appeal board having jurisdiction over his place of employment. This can be done under Selective Service regulations. The out-of-state appeal board reversed the local

Capitol Digest

Gov. Louis B. Nunn announced Kentucky's initial share of funds from a $7 million federal program to boost employment will be used for hiring bridge repairmen and extra state troopers.

He said the state already has applied for some $14 million under the grant and is awaiting Washington's approval of the application.

The first phase calls for $840,720 in federal funds for 387 new jobs in the state Highway Department to repair bridges and construct low-water fords across the state.

Other funds will go for a new 50-man state police cadet class and the hiring of 63 civilians to replace troopers in giving driver's license exams. Also to be hired are five new technicians for the state police crime laboratory.

The cost of the new positions will be $385,677.

Other funds will be used to hire additional personnel for the School for the Deaf in Danville and the School for the Blind in Louisville.

Governor Nunn said the programs outlined are designed to bring into the work force "those who are the temporary victims of technological change and others who by lack of training or opportunity find themselves out of work."

HEALTH CHIEF FORESEES DROP

State Health Commissioner William McElwain has predicted a dramatic reduction in new cases of tuberculosis in Kentucky although the state currently has one of the nation's highest TB rates.

U.S. Public Health Service figures show Kentucky's 870 new cases of active TB in 1970 rank fourth in the nation behind Hawaii, Alaska and Alabama.

But McElwain said Kentucky so far this year has about 25 per cent fewer cases than last and predicted the commonwealth will have no more than 700 cases this year, plus culosis treatment and control over the past two years.

NEW LEGISLATIVE PLAN WOULD EASE COURT OVERLOAD

The Legislative Research Commission has developed a temporary plan that would ease Kentucky's overloaded circuit court system if adopted by the General Assembly next year.

The plan would reduce circuit court districts from 31 to 19 while increasing the number of judges from 76 to 102.

This would lower the annual caseload from the current $97 per judge to about $60.

According to the commission this would require interpreting the state constitution to permit multi-judge and multi-county court districts.

OFFICIAL WOULD PREVENT REDUCING CHARGES

Arthur E. Beard, executive director of the Kentucky Traffic Safety Coordinating Committee, has recommended changes in state traffic laws to prevent judges from reducing drunken driving charges.

He made the recommendations while preparing for a regional alcohol re-education workshop at Jenny Wiley State Park.

Beard recommended the revocation of license period for first-time drunken driving offenders be reduced from six months to 90 days while the current fine ($100-$500) be retained.

He said the current six months revocation is reportedly considered too severe in the courts, leading some judges to reduce charges.

STUDY ASKS NEW ALIGNING OF WORKMENS COMP LAWS

The results of a recent study by the Legislative Research Commission indicate Kentucky's Workmen's Compensation Laws are in need of a wholesale revision.

Commission Director James T. Fleming reported the need in a memorandum to a special State Compensation Study Committee.

He noted the "Special Fund," which finances second injuries and dormant diseases, is being disproportionate in "paying-in" and "pay-outs."

The memorandum said the coal mining industry pays only about 10 per cent into the fund, while receiving about 90 per cent of the benefits.

It recommended new laws be developed to correct the situation.

DESIGNATION MAY PROTECT WOODS

Lilly Corbett Woods, in Letcher County, has been added to the National Registry of Natural Landmarks.

The announcement was made in Washington by Interior Secretary Rogers C. Morton.

Now owned by the state, Lilly's Woods is thought to be the only surviving virgin timber forest of significant size in the Cumberland Mountains.

Botanists estimate some 100 species of trees grow in the woods, many up to 400 years of age.

Landmark status will not guarantee the forest any special protection, a federal spokesman said, but may be of help if the tract is ever threatened.
