Hunting & Fishing

Considering all things fall fishing may well be better than that of springtime. Maybe the catch won't be as great as in April, May and June but the conditions under which the fishermen works are often far better.

It's pretty hard to beat the harvest of black and white bass and crappie during the early spring, but the conditions under which the fisherman plies his trade are so much more inviting than in the spring months.

For instance the surroundings of the major lakes could not be more beautiful than in the fall, when the leaves of the trees and the vines have turned a myriad of colors. The water conditions are better in that there is not so much danger of high, muddy conditions as in the spring months. And the lakes are a quieter place in which to fish. This is not a blow at the boater but it's a fact that they do extend their liberties a bit in the spring and hinder the fishermen no end, especially if he is fishing near one of the more popular spots. So in the fall, when the children have gone back to school and the adrenalin has been drained from the bodies of some of the more rabid boat enthusiasts, the lakes are relatively quiet for the fisherman.

And while enjoying the quietude of the lakes and the joys and beauties of the fall month, the man who knows how will catch fish and in good numbers.

Thanks to the threadfin shad which has been introduced into many lakes by the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources, jump fishing for both white and black bass may continue right up until cold weather. This is possible because the threadfin upon which the basses and other fishes feed are midgelets in size, rarely reaching more than five inches in length, and as such are available as food for the greedy bass at any time of year.

Prior to the advent of the threadfin, jump fishing came to an abrupt end when the gizzard shad reached a size not palatable to the fishes. But now, especially about this time of year, the threadfin move into the heads of bays and sloughs in a water level and what follows them in -- the black bass, especially.

They may be caught in the early morning and late afternoon by a cautious fisherman who eases his boat quietly into such sloughs and throws a shad into the water. Comes the brighter part of the day and the shad move, still in schools, into the wider expanses of the lake. But there they create jumps of both black and white bass which may be caught right up until the heavy snows fall.

Fall is a feeding time for bass as they store up food for the long winter months, and live bait will be used to good advantage during these months. A crawfish fished on the bottom of a rocky point is most likely to yield big bass. The minnow and night crawler may be bethe-ed profitably at this same time in the same area. But the basses are not alone in activity in October and November. The crappie are schooled and ready for the taking, and the catfish is always vulnerable during these months. And, perhaps most important, think of the beautiful autumn that is the fisherman's setting at this time.

YOU AND THE DRAFT

Timing may cause a reader credibility gap. For instance, simultaneous statements from a superior and subordinate may appear to be contradictory, especially when reading adjacently.

Therefore, a careful re-viewing may prove the statements not to be in contradiction. One may have accentuated the positive and minimized the negative, while the other placed on the negative aspect.

Until the "presidential" talk has thoroughly convinced the extension and revision of the "draft" act and related laws, we will take care not to box ourselves into a situation that subsequently might necessitate retraction.

It is our understanding that new regulations issued under the act will be effective retroactive until 30 days after the date such regulations are published in the Federal Register. Some of the regulations that will be covered in this column at a later date include student deferments, high school students, conscientious objectors, sole surviving sons, procedural changes and allens. Registrants and others concerned with the act should watch their newspapers for news of action on the changes to the law. If they have any questions concerning the changes of their effect, we strongly recommend they consult their local boards.

It will recall that repeated emphasis of the long range goal is uniformity and equity. Revision of the "draft" act and related laws should assure each young man, whether he resides three miles up a hollow or in an urban area of affluence, that he has received the same treatment in the registration, classification, selection and induction processes.

Beginning in October we will have our training sessions for supervisory personnel and executive secretaries of the local boards. This will be followed by meetings with the uncomparative personnel of the local boards.

Hopefully, this eye-to-eye conversation will enable Selective Service personnel to good advantage with their registrants in a manner that will continue to favorably reflect well on how we administer this act.

been built in almost every county in the Fifth District pure water and sewage disposal systems have been constructed or are under process of construction in every one of the 24 counties, and many Bureau of Outdoor Recreation parks have been built.

Congressman Carter pointed out that the last country club and golf course to be built by Farmers Home Administration in the United States is under construction in the Fifth District at the present time.

"Without your active involvement, interest and support at the local level," continued Congressman Carter, "these accomplishments would not have been possible. I ask you for your continued involvement and support."

"If you survey the construction of worthwhile projects--hospitals, libraries, pure water and sewage disposal systems, recreational areas, roads, vocational schools--which have been completed in our District within the past seven years, you will see that there has been more accomplished in these seven years than in the entire history of our District. I submit that this is but the beginning. Let us work together to continue further development for the people of our area."

Perpetual Care Assn. Formed For Cemetery

On Saturday, September 4, during a meeting at the Marrett Cemetery and in the presence of several of the cemetery lot owners, "The Marrett Cemetery Association" was formed. A six member board of trustees was appointed consisting of Willis Johnson, Cecil Dalley, William L. Coffey, Brock Baker, Joe Dooley and H.C. McNew. Articles of perpetual trust have been agreed upon drawn up, signed and notarized and will be recorded in the county clerk's office. It shall be the duty of the Board of Trustees to hold and deposit on interest, all money which has been and will be donated, and to use the interest therefrom to perpetually provide for the care and maintenance of the Marrett Cemetery. The response to this cause is very encouraging since over $2,000.00 has already been contributed to the fund and is now on deposit at the Bank of Mt. Vernon. Several hundred dollars more has also been pledged. There will be an annual memorial service at the cemetery on Saturday preceding Memorial Day. At this meeting, members will, by majority consent, fill any vacancies that may or have occurred on the Board of Trustees and shall or may adopt rules and regulations from time to time which will govern the administration of this trust. Any interested person who would like to contribute may do so by contacting Cecil Dalley, R.R. 3, Mt. Vernon, Treasurer of the Board.

NOTHING BUT THE BIBLE

Everyone Invited and Welcomed

Questions and Answers

Q. I recently applied for social security disability benefits, but my claim was denied. I don't agree with that decision. Is there something I can do about it?

A. Yes. Since you do not agree with the determination on your claim for social security disability benefits, you may file a request to have your claim reconsidered. You must file such a request within 6 months from the date of the letter notifying you that you were denied. Call or visit any social security office to file a reconsideration request.

Q. My doctor doesn't accept Medicare assignments for direct payments to him. He has sent me a bill that I can't pay right now. What can I do about it?

A. You can send the itemized bill to Medicare before you pay it. You are responsible for the first $50 in doctor bills each year. After that amount is deducted, Medicare will pay you 80 percent of the reasonable charge for the services shown on the bill. Then you can turn the money over to the doctor and you will only owe him the balance. Q. I am 65 and about to retire. Since I will receive a company pension and some income from investments, can I wait 4 years and get the whole 4 years of social security benefits all at one time?

A. No. When you apply for social security retirement benefits, payments can be retroactive for only 1 year. Q. I am 64 and will be retiring soon. My 66-year-old husband, who has been unable to work for the past several years, collects a small social security benefit. I have been supporting him for the last several years. Could he be entitled to a benefit on my record?

A. Possibly. If he has been dependent on you for at least one-half of his life in the year immediately before you become entitled to social security retirement benefits, he could qualify as a dependent husband on your social security record. He can collect the larger of the benefits either on his own record or on yours. He cannot collect both benefits.

Fiscal Court Meets

Clifford Elliott and Attorney Carl Clontz met with Fiscal Court at their regular Tuesday meeting to discuss what could be done about the road leading up from Calloway Hollow. Mr. Clontz, speaking on behalf of Mr. Elliott, told the court that since Mr. Elliott had been ordered to remove a bridge which he had built over the county road that children were forced to wade a creek in order to get to school. Mr. Elliott was ordered to remove the bridge following a trial in county court between Mr. Elliott and some neighbors over his (Mr. Elliott) obstructing the county road.

That an employee of theirs, a licensed engineer, was qualified to perform the service the county needed and was available at the rate of $25 per hour. The court, however, asked the County Attorney to continue in his attempt to get an architect willing to act as an expert witness.

In other action, the Court hired Mrs. Ercel Cromer to do the sheriff's settlement; doubled the liability insurance on county trucks and the grader which they now carry with Farm Bureau and Judge Carter set the November meeting date for Wednesday, November 3.

BANKS PROVIDE MOST HELP TO FARMERS

Kentucky banks were providing farmers with more credit and other financial services than any other lenders at the beginning of this year, according to N.M. Smock, President, The Bank of Mt. Vernon, who represents the Kentucky Bankers Association as Rockcastle County Key Banker. During 1970, the banks maintained their leadership in agricultural credit services.

Based on the 30th annual farm lending summary of the Agricultural and Rural Affairs Committee of the American Bankers Association, Mr. Smock reported that at the beginning of the year, Kentucky banks were lending farmers with $348 million in loans, 7 percent more than a year previous. This total included $177 million in production loans and $171 million in farm mortgages. At the same time, $71 million in farm loans was held by life insurance companies; $142 million in the Federal Land Banks; $188 million by Production Credit Association, and $18 million in personal estate loans, plus $9 million in real estate loans by the Farmers Home Administration. About 49 percent of the production credit extended by lending institutions to Kentucky farmers came from banks.

Mr. Smock said the "bankers in Kentucky are conscious of the large capital investments required in agriculture today and are making a concerted effort through improved lending programs to meet these changing credit demands of the state's farmers."

The increased use of credit by farmers, according to Mr. Smock, was accompanied by a substantial gain in the total assets of farm families. Therefore, in the aggregate, the equity position of farmers, contrary to public opinion, is being maintained at a satisfactory level. Nationally, farm families have $258 billion of their own funds invested in agriculture. This represents 81 percent of the total capital requirements of farmers.

Mr. Smock stressed the importance of farmers and bankers working closely together to improve farm financial arrangements. He reported that almost nine out of ten insured

The 1971 fund-raising Victory Campaign by the Kentucky Chapter of The Arthritis Foundation, which ended September 30 raised a total of $623.54, exceeding its goal by 123.54, according to Mrs. Charlie Hines, campaign chairman.

"The people of Rockcastle County have brought living hope to their ill neighbors with arthritis," said Mrs. Hines.

Speaking for the Kentucky Foundation chapter she thanked the countless individuals, organizations and volunteers for their generous response to the arthritis appeal.

"It has been a rewarding experience for me to serve on the Arthritis Victory Team here and to see the campaign go over the top," Mrs. Hines said.

Commissioner Deitz pointed out that the Program safeguards the health of the nation's low-income families.

School Board Requires Physicals For Personnel

The Rockcastle County Board of Education voted unanimously last Monday night to require every teacher and other school employee who comes in direct contact with school children to undergo a physical examination.

Superintendent Parsons has advised the Board that this was necessary since he had received instructions from the State Department of Education that a new ruling by the State Board of Health now required these examinations.

Teachers and other school personnel may avail themselves of any tests which the local Health Department offers free of charge but a doctor has to make the examination and sign the certificate. Supl. Parsons also said that since there is not a County Health Doctor in Rockcastle each individual must bear the expense of their own examination.

During the meeting, the Board also discussed the sale of about 12 acres of land in Livingston used previously as a ballpark for the school and community. Parsons said that the land had been in dispute for sometime and was rapidly growing up with weeds. The Board members were seemingly in agreement that the land should be sold but no definite plans were made.

The Board did however decide to sell several pieces of the equipment used in the machine shop equipment which they purchased several years ago from the surplus property division in Frankfort. The equipment was to go to Cass Metal for some time but about a year ago the State Department of Education required that the machinery be returned to school property. Cass Metal moved the equipment to the Harry Sparks Vocational School where it has been sitting unused since. Board member Kenneth Adams made a motion to sale the machinery by sealed bids which will be opened at the next board meeting.

A chagender on the new High School approved by the Board Monday night will probably save the school system some money. The chagender deals with the installation of some concrete block walls in place of the more expensive demountable partitions which had originally been planned for the industrial arts and agriculture shop areas.

$10,000 had been allocated for the installation of the demountable partitions in this section of the school and Supl. Parsons said that a contractor already working at the school had said that he would build one of the walls (30 feet long by 20 feet high) and pour the footers for other walls (those around the storage room and paint booth) for $1990.00. Of course, the partitions still be five counts to be bought plus demountable to be purchased for one long hallway where the floor had already been poured without being reinforced and therefore wouldn't support a concrete block wall.

Also during the meeting, the Board hired the county's first woman driver for one of the big yellow school buses. Mrs. Wabeleone Mullins was hired by the board (with all members voting) except Virgil Mullins who is kin to Mrs. Mullins to replace Charles Higgins on the Livingston route.

The Board also gave their approval for two house trailers to be located on school property sites in the county. Bennie Durham custodian at Livingston School had asked to set a trailer on the school grounds at Livingston between the remedial reading trailer and Poynter's Store below where the playground is used. Mr. Durham will bear the expense of hooking the trailer up to water and sewer. The Board approved Mr. Durham's request to live there as long as he is custodian at Livingston. The second trailer, belonging to Wilbert Russell, will be placed on the site of the Hope School on the upper side of the property where the children do not play. All the land around the school belongs to Mr. Russell's father-in-law to whom the land reverts whenever the school is discontinued. The Board also felt that the presence of the house trailer on the grounds would help to keep vandals away from the school which was broken into three times last year.

The President's Wage-Prior Freeze as it affects the county's bus driver's salary increases scheduled for this year was also discussed by the Board. Mr. Parsons said that some of the board members had reported that there

Butts Fined

Dave Butts was fined $100 and cost by Magistrate Hewitt Jones Monday, October 4 for possessing alcoholic beverages for the purpose of sale.

The arrest and fine followed a raid by Sheriff Billy Kirby and State Trooper Danny Coleman Sunday at Boone in an old store building. According to the complaint, taken by Coleman, seventeen one-half pints of 100 proof whiskey, two and one-half pints of 80 proof whiskey and ten 16-ounce cans of beer were taken in the raid.

MEETING AND BANQUET SCHEDULED BY FB

The Farm Bureau banquet and meeting will be held Tuesday evening, October 12 at 7 p.m. at Broadhead High School. The menu will include steak or ham, vegetable and cherry pie.

Tickets are $1.50 each and may be purchased at the Farm Bureau Office or from any director.

BANKS WILL CLOSE MONDAY, OCTOBER 12

was some confusion on the part of the bus drivers as to why they did not get their increase since teachers did. Mr. Parsons explained to the Board that under the ruling governing increases approved before the freeze went into effect, teachers were granted their increase if any personnel covered by the contract was actually at work before August 15 (the date the wage-price freeze went into effect). Mr. Parsons said that principals, guidance counselors and other personnel covered by the same contract which gave teachers their raise did report for work before August 15 but that the same was not true of bus drivers since none of the drivers were working before the freeze date. There is, also, a fine of up to $5,000 which can be assessed against anyone paying a wage raise illegally.

In other action, the Board approved David Hansel and Brent Laswell as substitute teachers approved the purchase of $100,000 worth of Certificates of Deposit from the Bank of Mt. Vernon and gave Board members Virgil Mullins and Billy Burdine authority to mark certain Walnut trees on the site of the new school for sale. The trees to be cut are ones which would be destroyed by grading at the site.

BOONE CHAIR

The Waveland Kentucky Life Museum on the Higbee Mill Road just outside Lexington, Ky., houses a remarkable variety of relics, utensils, tools, furniture from early pioneer pieces to exquisite antiques, Kentucky silver and other items. All of them have had significance in the history of Kentucky. The Boone chair, shown here by hostess Betty Laudeman, is a delightful relic. Strapped to the side of a packhorse, it carried two-year-old Rebecca Boone Grant (Daniel's niece) from North Carolina to Kentucky in 1779. Sixteen years later Rebecca received the chair as a wedding gift and it served her until she died at 79. An uncle the chair had belonged to Squire and Sarah Boone for 25 years before Rebecca rode it into Kentucky. The Boones came with them when they moved from Pennsylvania to North Carolina. It's still sound and sturdy enough to seat a full grown man. (Photo by Clyde Burke)

Tom Duncan's Frankfort Watchline

This campaign for governor may give new meaning to the term "junk mail."
The newspaper, television and radio advertising is being stepped up now for the final drive. But the race already has produced some of the most forgettable press imaginable in letters.
About as subtle as it gets is one from Gov. Louie Nunn to people connected with libraries across the state. It doesn't even mention the race itself, just saying that "the new spirit of Kentucky today is one of accomplishment and pride."

But somehow the phrase sounds familiar.
About as unskillful as they get is one the Democrats sent to sell tickets to their fund-raiser last month. It starts "Dear Vendor."
It doesn't really say "vendor to the state." But it does say, "Your response and participation will help Kentucky attain four years of outstanding government and will, we assure you, be sincerely appreciated."
Perhaps most interesting though is one from Chairman Jack Voigt of Insurance Agents for Emberton-Roost to "Dear fellow Agent."
It says, in part:
"We agents have a decision to make this fall. It may well have a material effect on our future...
"During this administration the Department of Insurance has been operated without regard to partisan politics... almost unheard of in Kentucky."
Voigt's agency has made non-partisan sales of 17 1/2 million dollars worth of fire insurance to the state in the past three years.
It all gives a citizen a warm, secure, grateful feeling. *****

A story by higher-education expert Richard Wilson probably hasn't received the attention it deserves among laymen.
He put together the tentative enrollment figures at the state colleges and universities--and came up with a problem.
Total enrollment--which seemed nearly stabilized the past two years--boomed 9.6 per cent, from 73,449 to 80,542.
That growth kills any real hope to hold the line on state aid in the 1972 Legislature--unless Kentucky turns its back on its long held philosophy of low tuition rates.
Complicating it all, the bulk of the growth is at the University of Louisville, its community colleges and Northern Kentucky State.
And topping all the regional except Western Kentucky was the University of Louisville despite its high tuition fees.
So the size of the pie is a problem for the next governor. And how to slice it may be an even tougher question. *****

As a continuing critic of the Kentucky Education Association, we want to go on record supporting its joining in a suit to clear up some wage freeze issues.
No matter what the outcome, the KEA has every right to go to court to see if any of its members is being denied a justified raise. *****
Statistics are wonderful. But watch out for that first step.
The KEA reports that the average salary for Kentucky's classroom teachers last year was $7,197.
But it says, "Averages can be misleading."
It notes that only 26 districts paid above the average and 166 paid below. That's districts, of course, not numbers of teachers.
But the conclusion is, "It's clear that the statewide average would be quite a bit lower if classroom teachers in Kentucky's three largest school systems (which are also the three most urban systems) were not included in the calculation."
Now if the new math would let us not include about 33 other systems we choose we might catch that mythical national average. *****

EMPLOY THE HANDICAPPED—In proclaiming Oct. 3-9 as Employ the Handicapped Week in Kentucky, Gov. Louie B. Nunn said "we can bring all of our handicapped fellow citizens into the mainstream of life." He added that we must offer new hope to the handicapped by providing increased opportunities for rehabilitation, training and employment. Shown here with the governor are Arthur M. state Health Department. Now all premarital blood tests have to be so reported.

DELINQUENCY TREATMENT PUTS KY. "IN FRONT"

An official of the National Council on Crime and Delinquency said Kentucky is "out in front now" in its approach to treatment and prevention of juvenile delinquency.

Sherwood Norman, director of Prevention and Youth Correction for the council, said a major factor in the state's improved delinquency program is the closing of Kentucky Village in favor of regional centers. Gov. Louie B. Nunn recently announced that Kentucky Village, the state's 73-year-old institution for juvenile delinquents, will be closed next. By the time the institution is closed Kentucky hopes to have some 15 centers, homes and camps in operation, housing about 50 juveniles each. "KY" said the national council long has advocated abandonment of large institutions in favor of smaller, more manageable local units. "Balancing the public interest is a local one, and it doesn't help to remove the child from the community," he said. "We put Kentucky first in having achieved a statewide program."

STATE'S JAILS ARE "POOR," REPORT SAYS

Some 64 per cent of Kentucky's 120 county jails are either "poor" or "very poor," according to a 20-month study authorized by the state Department of Corrections.

The Kentucky Jail Consultant Services, a state and federally sponsored program of the Corrections Department, made the study. Three consultants made 391 visits to all county and many city jails in gathering data for the report. Only six per cent of the jails were rated "very good" and 10 per cent were rated "good." "Some 38 per cent were called "very poor," 26 per cent "poor" and 20 per cent "fair." The report noted 61 per cent of Kentucky's county jails were more than 50 years old and 19 per cent are more than 100 years old. One possible solution is bringing the jails under the jurisdiction of the Corrections Department, allowing regular inspection by state officers with the power to require improvements. "A total of 783 people have However John W. Shaffer, chief jail consultant, said the Corrections Department probably lacks funds to expand its jurisdiction.

303 MORE OFF WELFARE THROUGH JOBS PROGRAM

An additional 303 welfare recipients in 28 counties have found employment during the fourth month of operation of the Department of Economic Security's Community Resources for Employment and Training Effort (CREATE) program.

The 203 were in the Aid to Families with Dependent Children category, the state's largest group of public assistance recipients. An additional 17 cases were discontinued during August because the recipients are able to support themselves, according to Economic Security Commissioner Meritt S. Deltz. "CREATE is an effort to involve citizens on the local level in finding employment for welfare recipients," Deltz said. "Private citizens have made outstanding efforts to get welfare recipients back into the working segment of society during the program's first four months of operation." A total of 783 people have now been employed full or part-time or placed in employment training since CREATE began May 1.

CREATE is now in operation in 31 counties. The program will eventually be expanded to all Kentucky counties.

They are: president, Brenda Abney; vice-president, Paula Barnett; secretary, Debbie Coffey; treasurer, Judy Hansel; historian, Louise Proctor; parliamentary, Betty Cameron; senior reporter, Gene Sargent and junior reporter, Albert Hasty. Committees were also chosen. The meeting was adjourned at 2:45 p.m. and refreshments were served by Judy Hansel and Donna Hunt.

Gov. Louie B. Nunn suggested state recruiting and training of unemployed volunteers as a possible remedy for the severe farm labor shortages in the Kentucky burley tobacco industry.

The recommendation was one of several made by the governor in a statement prepared for the 22nd annual convention of the Burley and Dark Leaf Exporters Assn. in Louisville.

Governor Nunn said labor shortages have been the tobacco industry's "perennial problem" and continue to pose a serious threat.

He said volunteers from the welfare rolls could help fill the shortages with state training and proposed tax credit incentives for farmers to encourage use of the workers.

"Such an industry-wide plan would benefit far more of our burley families than would a migrant labor system importing problems from beyond our borders," Governor Nunn said.

He also proposed "positive, aggressive research" to combat the tobacco industry's second major problem—high production costs.

The governor said such research already underway at the University of Kentucky.

HIGH COURT REAFFIRMS IMPLIED CONSENT LAW

The Court of Appeals has again upheld Kentucky's implied consent law which is designed to combat drunken driving and promote highway safety.

The statute at issue requires a suspected intoxicated driver to submit to a chemical alcohol test upon request of police officer or lose his driver's license for at least six months.

The high court rejected an appeal by Wesley T. Craig that officers failed to make the correct required request and overruled his demand that the law be voided because it violates due process and equal protection under the state and U.S. constitutions.

"Balancing the public interest with the entitlement of the individual to operate a motor vehicle, we hold the procedure provided is a valid exercise of the police power," Judge Sam Steinfeld said.

But Judge Earl Osborne, the lone dissenter on the court, said the law "violates every known constitutional concept of due process."

Osborne said the crux of the controversy is whether evidence can be legally obtained under duress—"a statute which would take one's driving privilege away unless he consented to the test."

HEALTH OFFICIAL SEEKS REPEAL OF VD LAWS

Dr. C. Hernandez, director of epidemiology for the state Department of Health, has called for the repeal of certain Kentucky laws relating to venereal disease.

Dr. Hernandez told the Legislature's committee on Health that Kentucky's VD rate has reached epidemic proportions—about 39,000 cases per year. About 75 per cent of these affect persons under 25.

He called for the repeal of state laws which require condoms be sold only when a registered pharmacist is present. He added that condoms should be readily available to help alleviate the VD epidemic.

Hernandez also called for repeal of a law providing fines of $50 to $500 for anyone convicted of distributing or publishing information on VD treatments.

He noted that he could be fined under the law for the statements he made to the committee.

Legislators also were asked to amend the law on premarital blood tests for VD so only positive test results would have to be reported to the News About Ky.

State's Commerce Commissioner Paul W. Grubbs has labeled the lack of sewer and water facilities the number one roadblock to economic development in rural areas of Kentucky, and urged that priority be given to financing of such public utilities projects.

Grubbs' remarks came at a meeting with the U.S. Department of Commerce officials in Washington.

He also recommended that language used in future legislation regarding funds for increasing employment opportunities in "urban slums and depressed rural areas" be broadened to include multi-county districts. This could provide job opportunities in contiguous counties for people living in depressed rural counties, Grubbs stated.

He suggested that consideration should be given to recreational as well as industrial opportunities for furthering economic development. Grubbs pointed out that many areas of Kentucky and rural America the greatest development opportunity lies in the growth of the recreational or travel industry.

He also stressed the importance to local land-use planning of the purchase and development of land for commercial, recreational and industrial purposes, including provision for utility services, access roads and transportation services to the sites.

Financing a system of commuter roads in Appalachian counties to facilitate travel to jobs in nearby counties was recommended. Construction and maintenance costs would be borne by the federal funding agency, the Bureau of Roads, and state highway departments. Programming could be handled through the Appalachian Regional Commission, he said.

Grubbs told the Commerce officials, "The best development occurs in new towns, or growth centers is immaterial to me... the key here is to place the trust in the direction where the potential lies."

In areas where research and development projects are feasible, Grubbs proposed provision of long-term financing through local development groups. He pointed out that the Kentucky Department of Commerce and the Kentucky Science and Technology Commission have at least 10 such projects under consideration in the fields of energy and ecology, several based on utilization of coal.

Tied in with the research effort would be funding for the entrepreneur system, so that when proven results of test projects need capital for production and marketing, such funds would be available. He pointed out that the Stanford Research Institute's $2 billion industrial complex evolved from such an entrepreneur base.

Mr. and Mrs. Gary Wayne Ramsey

Rucker - Ramsey

The Conway Baptist Church was the scene of the candle-light, double-ring wedding ceremony of Miss Karen Rucker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dick Rucker of Route 3, Berea, and Gary Wayne Ramsey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Billy Ramsey of Route 3, Mt. Vernon, Saturday evening, September 25 with Rev. John Zanic officiating. The altar was decorated with a basket of large yellow mums and white palms and two seven-branched candelabras. Wedding music was presented by Mrs. Fainela Cummins of Mt. Vernon.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother-in-law, Roland Isaacs, was dressed in a white floor-length gown of satin brocade with empire waist and fitted long sleeves. Her chapel train was satin, trimmed with lace and buttons and was attached at the neckline with a satin bow. Her shoulder length veil of illusion was attached to a satin bow with flower petals carried in a basket. The bride carried a bouquet of cascading daisies with a corsage of yellow sweet-heart roses in the center with long white streamers.

Mrs. Roland Isaacs, sister of the bride, served as matron-of-honor. She wore a floor length, sleeveless, yellow tulle dress with an overlay of yellow chiffon. She wore elbow length white gloves and carried large yellow mums with blue streamers. Valorie and Jerry Isaacs, nieces of the bride, wore flower girls. They wore floor length pink dresses with long puffed sleeves trimmed with white lace. They carried white flower petals in baskets with pink ribbons.

Misses Joyce and Bonnie Isaacs and Miss Darlene Ramsey, sister of the groom, were bridesmaids. They were all attired in floor-length blue silk crepe dresses with empire waist line and long high cut, puffed sleeves with matching ribbon sashes. They each carried a long stemmed large yellow mum with yellow streamers.

Billy Ramsey served his son as best man. Carl Isaacs served as candle-lighter and ushers.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Billy Ramsey. The bride's table was decorated with a white lace cloth and a three-tiered wedding cake. Mrs. Mary E. Carson, aunt of the groom, and Mrs. Ruby Adams served at the reception.

Questions and Answers

Q. I had doctors' bills while I was visiting a friend in another State last spring. I filed a claim with the Medicare office in that State and they took out the $50 deductible. I now have bills from my own doctor. How do I notify the Medicare office in my home State so they won't take out another $50 deductible?

A. You don't have to worry about paying the deductible twice. All Medicare claims are coordinated through Medicare's central office in Baltimore.

Q. My husband, who served 20 years in the U.S. Army, was recently killed in Vietnam. My 9-year-old son and I now get monthly payments from the Veterans Administration. Could we also be eligible for monthly social security benefits?

A. Yes. Since service in the United States Armed Forces is covered under social security, you should call or visit any social security office immediately to apply for survivors insurance benefits.

and he has been ever since his father died.

If something should happen to you, your family is protected, too, under social security's survivor program. It provides regular monthly checks until children reach the age of 18. Or 22 if they stay in school.

After having settled into the dorm, I find that I am surrounded by talented Eastern newcomers and upperclassmen like you would not believe! My roommate, Jeanne McClure was State Tennis Champion of Indiana and my roommate, Cindy Newcom, is really super in track. Not only athletes but a very cool core day enforcement major, the delightful Rosetta Lucas and the drama major Eloise Garner who starred in "The Boyfriends" and "John Brown's Body," occupy a room down the hall.

If you can get permission from the dorm mothers and you want to see some shocking, out-of-the-way interior design, just peep into Burnham Hall and I assure you that you will get an eye full! Everything from fringe-stool sitting to chimes to love balls to bottle collections to 5 1/2" Teddy Bears with beanie caps on top of the masterly head, can be found here with a variety of personalities making our rooms glowing with tender, love, care, and the sloppiness that goes with it.

Unlike Telford and Walters Halls, the other dorms do have the restricted hours for freshmen and upperclassmen. The dorms have their own mothers, who are concerned and provide the residents with any assistance necessary. The lobbies are spacious and pleasant for the girls and their dates. Air conditioned rooms and phones are not available in all the EKV dorms to our misfortune, but the central location of Sullivan, Burnham and Case compensates for these factors.

When asked the question, "What do you dislike about dorm life at EKV?" a freshman girl replied, "I really like my dorm, but where are all the shelves?" All in all, the women's dormitories are well-equipped to provide their residents with the comforts of home and yet the reality of being on our own. It is an experience with laughter, meeting new friends, sharing pizza with your dorm mother at 3 a.m., and most of all—your fun won't be complete until you live among varied people for a while!

Officials of the Emberton-Host campaign said that speakers would appear in every county at approximately the same time to outline the many reasons for supporting the Emberton-Host ticket.

The Victory Squad rally is scheduled for 7:30, at the Courthouse.

UK To Make Refunds

The University of Kentucky plans to refund increases in football ticket prices, even though it has not received official orders from the Office of Emergency Preparedness. Dr. Glenwood Creech, vice president, said the refunding will present some difficulties since some tickets were sent to other schools and others were sold over the counter. He also said the decision might cause the Athletic Department some hardship since its budget for the year was based on the increased ticket prices.

The decision to raise the price of bench seat tickets by one dollar was made by the board of trustees last January, but did not take effect until Kentucky's first home football game Sept. 7.

TEN GOOD REASONS WHY YOU SHOULD OWN A HOME

- 1. SECURITY
A feeling of safety comes with owning a home and the knowledge that your home is a safeguard against inflation. As prices go up, so does the value of your property.
- 2. INVESTMENT
Payments on your mortgage mean you are acquiring a major possession; instead of rent, you keep owning more and more. Time and money spent on home improvements become permanent investments!
- 3. TAX ADVANTAGE
Your real estate taxes and the interest on your mortgage or land contract are deductible from your income tax.
- 4. FINANCIAL INDEPENDENCE
More people have started on the road to this goal by home ownership than by any other way.
- 5. STANDING AND CREDIT
Home ownership makes you a solid part of the community and gives you a substantial credit rating.
- 6. ENVIRONMENT
Your children grow up in a good neighborhood. Your neighbors are responsible homeowners with backgrounds much like your own. You establish roots.
- 7. CASH EQUITY
A well-bought home is better than a savings account. And your hobbies can increase the value of your home.
- 8. CHARACTER DEVELOPMENT
The responsibilities of home ownership develop self-reliance, business acumen and appreciation of financial independence.
- 9. PEACE OF MIND
You provide security for your family and they share in your pride of ownership.
- 10. SATISFACTION
Home ownership offers special advantages that make life more enjoyable-backyard barbecues, large family gatherings during holidays...a home workshop...a chance to enjoy your family's companionship in the privacy of your own home.

Students To Compete For $3,825 In Bonds

Land use -- an increasingly important subject in conservation is the topic this year as Kentucky elementary and high school students compete for $3,825 in U.S. Savings Bonds in the 1971 Conservation Essay Contest.

The subject for this year's essay is "Land Use -- Its Effect on My Local Environment." This is the first time the subject has been used in the contest.

Now in its 28th year and probably the largest conservation essay contest of its kind in the U.S., it is sponsored by The Courier-Journal and The Louisville Times in cooperation with the Kentucky Department of Education and the Kentucky Association of Soil and Water Conservation Districts.

Last year's winner was Jimmy Murphy of Liberty in Casey County. Murphy's essay was picked best from a record number 98,177 essays written on the subject "Pollution -- Its Effect on My Community."

Again this year, the writer of the top essay in the state will receive a $500 bond. The second place winner will receive a $200 bond, and third place will earn a $100 bond.

The three top winners, their parents and teachers will be guests of honor at the annual Prizes Awards Luncheon in Louisville next February. Prizes will be awarded at the luncheon.

Winners in the state's 121 Soil and Water Conservation Districts will each receive a $25 bond and a wooden plaque. Certificates will be awarded to the runner-up in each district. Certificates will also be sent to the writer of the best essay in each school in the state.

The deadline for schools to submit their winning essays to their local school superintendents is December 1, 1971.

All school superintendents and principals throughout the state have been sent complete details and reference material for the 1971 competition. Included are contest rules, special subject reference material, and teaching guides for classroom teachers' use.

Contest material is also available from soil conservation district supervisors and conservation district offices, state and U.S. foresters, county agricultural extension agents, county libraries and bookmobiles, and Fish and Wildlife junior conservation education supervisors.

In addition, materials are available from the Division of Soil and Water Conservation, 209 St. Clair Street, Frankfort, Ky. 40601, and from the Public Service Department, The Courier-Journal and The Louisville Times, Louisville, Ky. 40202.

The Making of a Governor, 1971

As pieces of a jigsaw puzzle are combined to form a picture, so experience and ability must be combined in a man qualified for the governorship.

Wendell Ford has this experience and ability. He has been an important State Senator and a working Lieutenant Governor. Wendell Ford has been national president of the U. S. Junior Chamber of Commerce. He was described in a magazine article along with the late President John F. Kennedy as an "Outstanding Young Man of America."

Wendell Ford's leadership has brought many improvements to Kentuckians: his efforts removed the harsh tax on prescription medicines, and got the oppressive sales tax off farm equipment. He has supported tough consumer protection and anti-pollution legislation. Wendell Ford says the only reason for the existence of government, at any level, is to serve people.
