was seconded by another committee member and the motion was unanimously accepted.
In case the decision is rejected by the committee, at large, the Color Committee would like to petition for the fight for an extension of time.
The mechanics of this project has been so delicate that we did not have ample time to develop an alternate choice.
Students serving on the color committee were: Alberta Hasty, Brohead High School; Darrell Proctor, Brohead High School; Glen Hammond, Livingston High School and Lori Stewart, Mt. Vernon High School.

On October 12, 1971 the color committee presented its decision to the committee at large. A motion was made and seconded to accept the color committee's decision. A secret ballot rendered a unanimous vote (12 to 0) in favor of the color committee's choice.

When railroads, trucks and water carriers work together

America is really on the move!

The Louisville and Nashville Railroad brings the products of America's farms and factories to your town. Working closely with shippers, they help hold transportation costs to a minimum while improving and expanding their service to meet the growing freight needs of our nation. Surface transportation companies like the Louisville and Nashville Railroad can't cope with soaring costs because income just hasn't kept pace. The problem is common to all three transportation modes: railroads, trucks, and water carriers. If the system should break down, you and your family would find yourselves paying more for everything you need. □ The problem demands immediate attention □ That's why the Surface Transportation Act of 1971 has been introduced in Congress by Senator Vance Harthe (S-2382) and Representative Brock Adams (HR-10148). Transportation must be relieved of burdensome, antiquated government-imposed restrictions which hamper the improvement of services essential to the public □ Many solutions are included in the proposal: a finance agency to assist in providing loans and guarantees; carriers need for new equipment; wider latitude in permitting railroads to relinquish unprofitable routes; new approaches for protecting grade crossing. There's more of course, but the end result will provide America with a sensible program upon which its vital surface transportation companies can grow □ The Louisville and Nashville Railroad, one of the Nation's great railroads serving shippers on 8,540 miles of track in 13 states, is solidly behind the proposed Act. The L&N urges you to write your Congressman and Senator to request its passage. May we count on your support? □

ramblings ...

Well, come Sunday, October 31, you can work it either way stay up all night longer of Saturday night or sleep an hour longer Sunday - because the nasty old daylight savings time comes Sunday morning, 2 p.m.

October 31, We, personally, are glad. It was alright back in the summer when it seems like the sun never sets in the middle of the night anyhow but now that Fall is here and daylight breaks so much later we'll appreciate that extra hour we get.

It gets kind of funny around our house because every year at this time we say that since we are late to work up at a certain hour that we will continue to get up at that time because it's always handy to have an extra hour in the morning but I'll give you three guesses how long that resolution lasts...

Well, you probably wouldn't believe it to look at her but diminutive Mrs. Adis Noe of Mt. Vernon recently won the championship flight of the women tournament held at Cedar Rapids Country Club, Mrs. Noe, who is a pretty good bowler too regardless of the fact that she steps up on the wrong foot, polished off four opponents to win the 100 flight.

Mrs. Carman Coldiron, by defeating Mrs. Peggy Bowling. There's also other interesting news from the Country Club, for male members that it seems that each Tuesday night, except the second Tuesday night of each month, by paying the small fee of $1.00, members can come out to the club, eat dinner and enjoy games. We suppose a stag night for the boys every now and then is alright but with the Women's Lib movement going so strong, now might be a good time for the women to get together and demand some time off. Of course, if you other ladies are like me it's been so long since there was a completely carefree night now if that you wouldn't enjoy it anyway...

Guess I should have had a story this week concerning the doings of the Rockcastle County Baptist Hospital but things are kind of in limbo at this stage. I'll pass on here the information I have and you can wait until later to hear all the details. It seems that at the last meeting of the Rockcastle Baptist Association, the Association voted to discontinue running the hospital and asked the Association Board to take the steps necessary to turn the hospital back over to the county. Judge Carter told me Tuesday that he had been verbally informed by members of the Association Board that the Baptist would be discontinuing their operation of the hospital. However, Judge Carter said that it took a written notice from the Board and 120 days thereafter before the county would either take over the running of the hospital or find another organization to do so. Late Wednesday afternoon, Judge Carter told us that he had not yet received official notice from the Baptist Board, so that's about where things stood when we went to press...

Also intended this week to write an editorial speaking my piece on combining all the different charity drives in the county into one combined effort as other committees do and call it The United Way. Didn't get around to it of course but you'll hear more from me later on this subject.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Norton, located on Highway 466 about six miles from Mt. Vernon, was completely destroyed by fire last Saturday afternoon. Posing motorists saw the blaze in an upstairs window and alerted neighbors but the fire could not be brought under control. Mrs. Norton and her two children were not at home at the time of the fire and Mr. Norton was at work on his farm on which the home is located. Most of the downstairs furniture was saved from the fire.

Colors Chosen For New High School

Organization of the committee for color, shield and mascot selection for Rockcastle County High School was arranged by Mr. Charles B. Parsons, Superintendent of Rockcastle County Schools on September 14, 1971.

As a first step, Mr. Parsons requested that the principals from the three county high schools select one member from each of the Freshmen, Sophomore and Junior Classes. In addition, a fourth member was selected at large by the three high schools.

As a result of twelve members were equally divided and a high school principal was added to each group to serve as counselor, making a total of five members on each committee.

At the outset the principal who served on the color committee made an appeal to the committee to render all decisions absolutely free from selfish and biased opinions. After the counselor's advisory remarks the committee proceeded to select its committee officers. Only students were eligible for these positions and each of the three high schools were represented.

The decision of this group was the outgrowth of four hours of deliberation which came at weekly intervals.

Items that were considered in choosing the school colors were: Athletic Uniforms, Band Uniforms, Yearbook, Diplomas, Classings, Invitations and etc.

The committee chose not to be restrained by the present colors of the three high schools; however, they left themselves the freedom of using the colors of one, two or all of the present schools.

The qualities which govern the committee's decision were appearance and ability to endure wear and time.

The committee utilized data gathered from a variety of sources, of which included Harrison Burdett Bles, Alter Short Lines, Harrison Jackson Burdette, of Route 3, Mt. Vernon, passed away Friday, October 15, at the Rockcastle County Hospital after a short illness.

He was born in Rockcastle County on January 6, 1887, the son of the late William and Martha Parsons Burdette and was a member of the Brindlee Ridge Baptist Church and a retired farmer.

He is survived by one son, Raleigh Burdette of Route 3, Mt. Vernon; one daughter, Mrs. Mattie Cummins of Middleburg, Ohio; one brother, William Burdette of Route 3, Mt. Vernon; seven grandchildren, nine great-grandchildren and three great-great-grandchildren.

Mrs. Sharon Burton Resigns Post

Mrs. Sharon Burton of Willilla has resigned as Rockcastle County Campaign Chairwoman for Ford. Mrs. Burton, who was named to the post in September after being active in Ford's primary campaign, said in an interview Tuesday that she resigned the post because she found that she was misled on party policies and as to her duties to the county and the state campaign.

Mrs. Burton said, "In the beginning it was told that it (the campaign) would be different than the way it turned out and felt that I could no longer continue to work as campaign chairwoman. I felt that I would be misleading Democrats in Rockcastle County and finally decided that it would be best to resign my post."

Mrs. Burton said she had no plans to participate in any way in the upcoming election.

MRS. LUCY F. OVERBAY DIES OCTOBER 17

Mrs. Lucy Francis Overbay, 56, of Livingston passed away Sunday, October 17.

She was born in Rockcastle County on October 9, 1915, the daughter of the late William and Martha Pruitt Milburn and was a member of the Livingston Christian Church.

Survivors are her husband, Willie Overbay of Livingston; two sons, Eliza Overbay of Hamilton, Ohio and Everett Overbay of Livingston; six daughters, Mrs. Viola Russell of Cincinnati, Ohio, Mrs. Wilene Smith of Homer, Ill., Mrs. Pauline Harris of Route 1, Stanford, Mrs. Rosette Cotton of Route 4, Versailles, Mrs. Louise Durham of Route 2, Livingston and Mrs. Lola Mae Barnett of Livingston; 16 grandchildren and one sister, Mrs. Mae Jones, of Livingston.

Funeral services were held Wednesday, October 20 at the Livingston Christian Church by Bro. Lester Arnold. Burial was in the Moore Cemetery.

Arrangements were by Cox Funeral Home.

Federal Work Project Planned For County

If all goes well, Rockcastle County will be the recipient of a $100,000 Federal Works Program which will get underway by November 1, according to County Judge Charles Carter.

Judge Carter said Tuesday that the program had been approved at the Cumberland Valley Area Development District office in London as part of a package program for the public works project, including Rockcastle and several other counties across the state, and had been forwarded on to Atlanta for final approval. Since, if approved, the program is scheduled to begin November 1 of this year work of its fate at Atlanta should be received within a short time.

Judge Carter said the program, which will run until September 1, 1972, would include maintenance and improvement work on any public property such as roads, parks, public buildings and the hospital. Materials for the maintenance and improvements will have to be furnished by other local government agencies such as Fiscal Court or the Board of Education but the labor costs will come under the program. Decisions as to projects to be included in the program will be made by Judge Carter.

Anyone out of work for at least a week is eligible to sign-up for the program and may do so by going to the school administration building on Richmond Street on Tuesdays from 9:30 a.m. until 12 noon or by visiting the State Unemployment Office at Corbin any day except Saturday. Veterans will have preference.

at his office in the Court-house. *****

Severinsen To Be At EKJ

Doc Severinsen and the New Generation Brass will appear Saturday night, October 23 in a Homecoming Concert at Eastern Kentucky University.

His program in Alumni Coliseum, which will begin at 8 p.m., will feature the Brothers and Sisters, General Admission is $2.00. Student admission with ID is $2.

Severinsen's advance publicity describes the response to his current tour of campuses as "tremendous" with overflow audiences at many universities, including Notre Dame, Illinois and West Virginia.

Severinsen, Johnny Carson's sidkick on the TV "Tonight Show," has assembled an act that leans heavily on the brass sound and emphasizes rhythmic instrumentation. His idea was to create an entertainment group that would bridge the generation gap. His success was attested by the more than 45,000 persons who came to hear him at the Milwaukee Summerfest last July.

His show, featuring compositions by big names in today's music, includes the singing and dancing of the Brothers and Sisters.

Severinsen is known for his flashy mod outfits and his trumpet style of glittering notes, dramatic trills and atmospheric high notes.

The performance at Eastern will be the same one that pulled a $10 cover charge and rave reviews at the Plaza in New York City and was praised by such people as Burt Bacharach, Ed Sullivan, and Earl Wilson.

Frankfort Watchline

Gov. Louie Nunn may bow out the way he came entering the Democratic guessing. His decision not to have the special election to fill the Sixth District congressional seat the same day as the biennial for governor puzzled many. And his statements that he's not thinking of running for the U.S. Senate next year is keeping people off balance at least. Then, too, his role in the current campaign has kept Democrats waiting for the other shoe to drop. But some of it may fit a pattern of keeping his options open. The delay in the special congressional election, for example, could leave the way open for James Host to be the Republican nominee if he loses in the lieutenant governor's race but shows strength in Central Kentucky. And Gov. Nunn's statements about the Senate race are designed first to keep GOP attention directed to the campaign for governor. Nunn actually may not reach a decision until he has a chance to interpret the results of the election which to great extent is being pitched around the record of his administration. The governor's campaigning for Tom Emberton, the former aide he chose to try to become his successor, has been in large part a defense of the administration. But, no matter what happens except for the chance that Senator John Sherman Cooper changes his mind and runs again, don't bet against Nunn's running for the Senate. President Nixon will be running for re-election next year. And ask any politician who he'd like to have on the ballot in Kentucky to help the Republican cause.

The race for superintendent of public instruction may prove to be the liveliest of those for Dr. Lyman Ginger anyway. Republican Jewell Hamilton figures much of the educational establishment will be for Dr. Lyman Ginger anyway. So she's wading in with some real attacks. But strategists for Lt. Gov. Wendell Ford's campaign for governor aren't too unhappy. They know that most of the school people were for former Gov. Bert Combs in the Democratic primary against Ford. And they figure that getting the superintendent's race stirred along partisan lines may ultimately be boost for Ford.

This campaign is destroying an institution. It isn't safe to line your garbage can with your metropolitan daily—at least until the next day. Otherwise you may not understand the correction. Big "we'll try to help with one. The next correction will surely point out that Emberton has not proposed establishing a Department of Urban Affairs no matter what your in-depth, super-duper analyst says.

Mrs. Hamilton's charge that the Jefferson County school office was being used to receive contributions for Dr. Ginger deserves attention. That kind of thing shows ignorance if nothing else. But even more questionable is the use of state employees for the campaign during office hours. One boiler-room type operation using a number of administration people especially during greater offense against the public.

The Legislature won't want to tangle with the property tax rollback law in 1972 any more than it has in the past. The Legislative Research Commission was getting a review of the various lawsuits Involving the 1965 rollback law when it came up that one case is in the Supreme Court. Senate Majority Leader Dee Huddleston remarked: "That's a good place for it."

Capitol Digest

Gov. Louie B. Nunn has announced the formation of a state Manpower Planning Council as an advisory body to him, in accordance with a federal initiative seeking more involvement by governors in manpower planning for their states.

The twenty-odd member council will advise and assist the governor and local groups in developing a statewide manpower plan for submission to various agencies of the federal Cooperative Area Manpower Planning System.

"This executive council will ... devise a continuing planning capacity clearly isolated manpower needs and priorities so the governor may be well advised in considering the allocation of these manpower resources," Governor Nunn said.

About $50 million in federal manpower funds flow into Kentucky annually through such programs as Neighborhood Youth Corps and Operation Mainstream.

State Economic Opportunity Director Lynn Fraser will head the council. Other members will include high ranking members of state manpower agencies as well as representatives of business.

ATTY. GEN. URGES COURT TO REJECT PHONE RATE HIKE

The attorney general's office has urged the state Court of Appeals to uphold the Public Service Commission's rejection of a $14.8 million rate increase for South Central Bell Telephone Co.

The high court is considering an appeal by the company from a Franklin Circuit Court decision last Dec. 30 which upheld the commission's rejection of the increase request. Assistant Atty. Gen. Laura Murrell filed a brief with the Court of Appeals disputing several contentions made by the phone company in its request.

"The company contended it 'has been in dire straits since 1967' and earnings would go to nothing if an attrition allowance was not made. However, Mrs. Murrell said, 'The company's plight was not quite as dire as it had indicated.' She agreed that the company's costs are rising but added the firm was showing only one side of the picture, ignoring 'the accompanying increase in revenue.'

NOTICE

People have asked me why I'm for Tom Emberton again. I had, having met Jim Host, Ken Harper, Dick Vermillion, Bob Miller, and Doug Mosley, although, I haven't had the pleasure of meeting Tom Emberton yet, when I look at his picture I get the feeling that I have known him for a long time. When you look at him, you know that you are looking at a man whose image will remain long after he is gone and one who will get the job done while he is there.

The good Lord has blessed the Republican Party by giving us such a team as this who is willing to carry on the straightening up that the Nunn group has started. After being under a Democratic regime for so many years it requires a good deal of cleaning up. I have had people to ask me why I want another Republican in Frankfort when Governor Nunn put the five cent sales tax on us or increased it to five cents. This seems to be the biggest gripe the people have.

Taxes, we paid them before Nunn, and we will continue to pay taxes in one form or another. I can't complain about the money that I've paid for taxes in the past three years. Why? Because I'm driving over a real blacktopped road. This road is known as the OLD STATE ROAD. It is one of the oldest roads in Rockcastle County anywhere in the state. In the old days this road was used as a cattle trail. I have heard old timers tell about herds of cattle and keys traveling this road from the South going to the markets North. Yet, under the Nunn Administration took over, it was just another gravel road. Now, it is blacktopped. Before this road was blacktopped, I spent a small fortune over the years keeping up an automobile. Now, this road will save me more than I will pay out in taxes.

Not only this road, but just take a look all over Rockcastle County. I have noticed the same thing in other counties. Everywhere you look there is a new blacktopped road. Rural roads, out of the way roads, roads that people didn't think they would live to see day when they would be blacktopped, now they are seeing it.

I believe Tom Emberton will carry on the good work that the Nunn Administration couldn't possibly finish in four years. His plan to remove the sales tax from food will help a good many people who need help. The old people who cannot work but have to live on a small pension, if my taxes will help them then I will gladly pay them. We have to have taxes. It would be disastrous if he would remove it from food and medicine, and doubtless on whiskey and beer. If people are stupid enough to buy it, they wouldn't mind the price.

I'm not a very good writer, neither am I well known, but I am proud to be a Kentuckian, a combat veteran, an American citizen, and blessed to be a Republican for Tom Emberton.

WHY DOES WENDELL FORD STILL REFUSE TO REVEAL THE SECRET SOURCES OF HIS INCOME???

Ford claims he hasn't been using public office for personal gain through the insurance agency owned by his brother and him:

"I have not drawn any salary since I have been Lieutenant Governor," Ford said. "At the end of the year, if there is a little profit, of course I share in that. I haven't drawn anything for 1970, nor have I drawn anything for 1971 so far." Courier-Journal - May 14

But Ford's own accountant admitted that during the last three years Ford's "little profit" was $70,000 and that FORD GOT $16,822 FROM HIS INSURANCE BUSINESS IN 1970 Courier-Journal, Oct. 11

Wendell Ford put at least $20,000 into his primary campaign. His brother put in another $30,000.

Mr. and Mrs. J.W. Dickerson of Dayton, Ohio visited his sisters, Misses Francis and Josephine Dickerson Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Argenbright, Mrs. Roger Robinson and Mrs. Nell Taylor were in Lexington Friday shopping.

Beef Gene Roundup, Oct. 29 Features New Cross-Breeds -- Maine-Anjou X Hereford, Simmental X Angus, and many other unusual crosses -- will be featured at the Beef Gene Roundup, Oct. 29, at Broadbent Farms near Gracey, Ky. (Trigg County).

Calves from 14 different sire-dam combinations can be seen at the Roundup, along with performance records on some 400 calves. This is one of the first events in North America where such cross-breeds and their performance records will be on display, according to Dr. Curtis Absber, beef specialist with the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture's Cooperative Extension Service.

Beef industry representatives from several states, as well as Kentucky beef breeders, are expected to attend the Roundup, which is sponsored by the UK Extension Service, Broadbent Farms, and the Curtiss Breeding Service.

Calves to be shown at the Roundup include crosses from Angus and Hereford cows by bulls of the following breeds: Angus, Brown Swiss, Charolais, Hereford, Holstein, Maine-Anjou, Milking Shorthorn, and Simmental. Simmental is a Swiss breed and Maine-Anjou is French, Absber points out.

The Angus and Hereford cows were bred by artificial insemination on the Broadbent Farms, he continues. UK Extension beef specialists have worked with the Broadbents -- Smith, Jr. and his sons, Smith III and Robert K. -- on their beef breeding program and on collecting and processing data about the cross-bred calves.

The Roundup program starts at 9:30 a.m. (CDT) with farm tours to see the cows and calves and view other aspects of the Broadbent beef operation. According to Absber, breeders will be especially interested in equipment for storing forage in the field, allowing cows to feed themselves during the winter.

Following lunch at the farm, the Roundup participants will hear discussion of the performance records, comparing the 205-day weights of the calves by the various sires; the role of the new beef breeds; crossbreeding and cow management programs; and the Broadbent

You And The Draft

Looking back three decades, the number of Kentucky registrants to be delivered for induction during November 1947 was 899.

At present, our local boards are mailing out Notices of Induction to young men who will fill the November 1971 call. Nationwide, 10,000 men are scheduled to be "drafted" during the remainder of the calendar year. Based on past experience we anticipate that our local boards will deliver their proportionate share of the total call.

Although the authority to induct terminated on June 30 and was not restored until late September, the goal for an all-volunteer armed force remains unchanged. But at this time, there appears a need for the "draft" motivator for both the regular and reserve components.

The "draft" has come a long way since 1940. It is assumed that many of those who fulfilled their military obligation through involuntary selection will disagree.

From the inception of the 1940 act until 1970, registrants were trying to convince their local boards that they should be deferred from military service. In the latter part of 1970 figuratively the "tables were turned." Local boards made an all-out effort to convince young men with an unrequited Random Selection Number that it would be in their best interest to be in I-A at the end of the calendar year. This would enable their being moved into a lower selection group at the beginning of 1971. In lay language this action reduced their vulnerability for military service under existing regulations.

What was described in the preceding paragraph was known throughout the nation as the year-end closing policy.

FIGHTING MEASLES-RUBELLA-Representatives of the state Department of Health and public health representatives discuss plans for large-scale measles-rubella immunization programs. The new combined vaccine provides dual immunization against rubella and red measles. The representatives, from left, are Dr. Donald B. Thurber, director of the immunization program; Harry Rice, Corbin, public health representative; Wade F. Underwood, program coordinator; Frank L. Burson, public health advisor; Clarence Marshall, Frankfort, and Larry Webb, Bowling Green, public health representatives. (Richard Upchurch Photo)

It is assumed that this policy will continue in effect as the need for registrants born in the year of 1951 with a RSN about 125 (1951) will not be required.

Very shortly registrants born in this particular year with a RSN above 125 will be receiving a communication from their local board which will inform them that it will be to their best interest to voluntarily request that they be placed in Class I-A in order that they might be moved into a lower selection group at the beginning of 1972. It is hoped that all Kentuckians with a high RSN will heed this advice from their local board.

organize for collective bargaining and would provide for arbitration to settle grievances.

TRAINING JOBS FUNDED WITH 41.7 MILLION GRANTS
The U.S. Department of Labor has approved a package of grants totaling $1.7 million for 18 Neighborhood Youth Corps projects around Kentucky.

Neighborhood Youth Corps provides jobs for potential school dropouts, encouraging them to stay in school and giving them experience that will enable them to get permanent work.

Louisville and Jefferson County will receive more than $400,000 under the federal program to provide jobs for 570 young persons from poor families.

The program will make available a total of $184,010; Floyd, $75,430; Knott, $124,700 and Clay, $131,430.

be visited include Boone, Fayette, Franklin and Jefferson. The visitors also will tour the Russell and Georgetown independent schools, University of Louisville, Kentucky School for the Blind, and various Educational Television studios.

Heading the delegates is Pham Ding Nam, director of 245 private schools in the Saigon area.

PANEL ENDORSES WAGE-RAISE BILL
A subcommittee of the Interim Legislative Committee on Labor and Industry endorsed bills to raise the Kentucky minimum wage to $1.50 an hour and allow collective bargaining by public employees.

The minimum wage bill is essentially the same as one passed by the House during the 1970 General Assembly. However, that measure never was reported out of the Senate State Government Committee.

Kentucky's present minimum wage is 75 cents per hour in Louisville and 65 cents in the rest of the state.

The subcommittee removed from the bill an exemption for funeral homes that had been added in the 1970 session. It kept exemptions for farm or domestic workers and for firms regulated by the Public Service Commission or whose pay consists partly or wholly of tips.

The collective bargaining bill also is identical to a measure which never was reported out of the Senate State Government Committee during the 1970 session.

It would ban strikes by public employees but allow them to

FACING SADNESS

The things that are too hard to bear. God does not bid me weep. I never yet have walked along through dark hours of despair. And always He has kept His word: The promised strength was there.

And so today, my heart, be still. He knows that you are torn. He also knows that even this Great sorrow can be borne. His voice still speaks across the years: "Blessed are they that weep."

— Grace Noll Crowell

Each one of us will at some time be faced with a crisis situation that seems insurmountable. Death as a family crisis will at some time strike every family and cause an emotional trauma that demands some major adjustments. The awareness of the possibility of death, and the preparation for realistically facing the situation when it occurs can make a great difference in the way we emerge from the crisis.

One of the most common sensations following a death in the family is a feeling of numbness. This is essentially the emotional inability, for a time, to accept in a realistic way the fact of death. This "numbing effect" has a real purpose, for if we had to face all at once the full emotional impact of the loss, it would be too overwhelming. Thus, with the waking feeling of disbelief, this numbness helps to cushion the full knowledge that death is very real, and that the loved one will not return.

Some find it difficult to express their grief through weeping. For others, weeping is a natural response to this heartache. Although no one can tell someone else how to handle his feelings, it has been pointed out by mental health educators that too much suppression of emotion can have harmful effects. They suggest that the person who can give vent to grief through weeping is fortunate. It's very important to express feelings freely during this period of grief. Trying to "hold back" feelings for fear of showing "weakness," or because you may feel disturbed by "unworthy" thoughts, may well be a reason for sharing these feelings with an understanding friend, a relative, or a professional counselor. Death is never easy, but it is an inescapable fact that must be met in the best possible way. It is remarkable the power we have to accept reality. We all have a great deal more strength than we sometimes imagine. Strengths that have built up through the years because of good interpersonal relationships help us to move through this crisis.

BUYING A CAR?
Buying a car, and even a second car, seems to be a necessity for many families today. Whether it is a new car or a used one, it is a major purchase for most families. And it's hard to make a choice among the styles, sizes, colors, prices, and the maze of ads and promises made by the dealers.

"Be wary," says Time-Life of these come-on signs, such as "Best buys in Town," "We understand all buyers," "Never a dissatisfied customer," "No down payment and easy credit."

Time-Life Book of Family Finance gives precautions and rules to follow when shopping for a used car. Always shop with an established dealer and try the car before you buy. Solicit the services of a mechanic friend, if at all possible. He can detect certain problems which the amateur cannot. Certain on-the-spot inspection points should be considered. Be your own detective and search for clues indicating a car or other damage.

The following is a check list for the amateur car sleuth from Time-Life editors. (Some of these ideas sound pretty athletic; a good excuse to take along one of your teenagers to give you a hand.)
1. Be suspicious of new paint. What does it hide? Rippled areas or grainy patches suggest an accident. 2. Check for rust spots around body edges, behind bumpers and inside the trunk. Test with a finger to see if the rust is only on the surface or is working through from beneath. Avoid cars that are excessively rusty. 3. Look to see how well the rear wheels line up with the front ones. Better still, have the salesman drive the car slowly away from you. If it seems to move crabwise, that means a bent frame and a car to be skipped. 4. Few dealers leave tires untouched, but it is easy to spot recaps; the tread is new while the sidewalls look old. 5. Grab a front wheel at the top and give it a good shake. If you hear clunking noises or discover unexpected looseness, the wheel bearings and ball joints may need replacement.

6. Hop up and down on a bumper, then jump off. If the body oscillates more than once you can bet the car will need shock absorbers soon. 7. Operate all switches and controls. Try door handles, wiper flow cranks, vents and seat adjustments. Such minor items can be costly to repair. 8. Check for signs of wear on "rubbing points"—seats, floor mats, pedals. Wear is a better clue to mileage than the odometer, a most untrustworthy gauge. 9. Press the brake pedal down hard. If it continues to sink instead of stopping, there is a lead—most likely in the master cylinder.

10. Grab a wheel and turn it. Listen for clunking or grinding or grating noises. Don't be fooled by a sleek-looking engine; most dealers steamclean the engine. Some even repaint it. Check for leaks in the radiator and connecting hoses. 11. Race the engine and have a friend check the exhaust. Blue smoke means burning oil. (Make sure there is oil to avoid smoking. Some unscrupulous dealers have been known to drain the crankcase dry, then give a very fast engine demonstration.)

When you road test the car: -listen for odd noises; -go forward and backward several times from a full stop to make sure the transmission works smoothly; -the car should gain speed smoothly without sputtering when accelerated rapidly from 20 to 60 miles per hour; -at 50 miles per hour, brake hard. Brakes should hold equally on all four wheels, without grabbing or causing the car to pull to one side or the other; -drive at a medium speed over a rough stretch of road to check for looseness in the steering mechanism; the bounce and sway that reveal worn shock absorbers.

If the dealer doesn't want to let you drive the car before you buy, or wants a down payment before you test it, leave immediately and go to another dealer.

EGGS
Eggs are often on the plentiful list and are a good buy. Eggs are quick and easy to serve for breakfast, lunch or dinner. Store eggs in the refrigerator right after purchase with the large end up. This helps to keep the high quality. Cover leftover yolks with cold water and refrigerate in a tightly covered container. Refrigerate leftover whites in a tightly covered container. Use left-over yolks or whites within 1 or 2 days.
For best eating quality, eggs should be cooked with low to moderate heat. If cooking temperature is too high, or the egg is cooked too long, the white becomes tough and the yolk mealy.

Heat a small amount of fat in a fry pan. Bacon or ham drippings give a good flavor. Break eggs, one at a time, into a saucer, and slip them into the fat. Sprinkle with salt and pepper. Cook over low heat, basting with the fat, until whites are firm.

For less fat use this method. Melt a little fat over low heat, just enough to grease the bottom of the skillet. Add eggs one at a time, pour in 2 or 3 tablespoons of water, cover pan tightly, and steam until eggs are done. Season before serving.

APPLESAUCE DROP COOKIES
1/2 cup shortening
1 cup sugar
1 egg
1 3/4 cup sifted flour
1/2 teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon soda
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 cup applesauce
1/2 teaspoon cloves
1/2 teaspoon nutmeg
1 cup rolled oats (not cooked)
1/2 cup raisins
1 cup applesauce
1/2 cup nuts (if desired. May increase raisins and not use nuts.)
Cream together shortening and sugar. Stir in egg. Stir together dry ingredients; Mix raisins, oats and nuts (if used) into dry mix. Add about 1/3 of the dry mix to creamed mix. Stir. Add about 1/3 of the applesauce, mix well. Continue adding dry mix then applesauce until all is used, beating well each time. Drop dough by teaspoonfuls onto greased baking sheet. Bake in a moderate oven (375) about 15 minutes.

MINI PARKS-- For Many People

With the advent of fall and winter--and school--the folks who made the best use of Kentucky's growing chain of community parks, the children, have a dwindling number of opportunities to use their facilities. But this group, photographed recently in Taylor River Bend Mini Park near Glendale in Hardin County, had succeeded in coaxing Mum to bring them back once more. Although community parks are by no means a new concept, only in the last few years has state government been able to secure federal funds to aid towns and counties develop small, scenic recreational parks like Taylor River.

During the administration of Gov. Louie B. Nunn, 121 applications requesting $3,923,818 have been submitted to the federal Bureau of Outdoor Recreation to aid playground and mini park development in 53 Kentucky counties. Through the grants, the commonwealth now has over 5300 additional acres for community-style recreation.

Congressman Tim Lee

Carter Comments

For the past several months, the Subcommittee on Public Health and Environment has been working on the Conquest of Cancer Act, Senate Bill 1068, and House Bill 1068, Attack on Cancer Amendments. The Subcommittee has now completed its work.

Congressman Carter said, "According to the present rate of incidence of cancer, fifty million people out of the two hundred million in our country can expect to develop cancer, and thirty-four million can expect to die from this disease. New methods have been developed for detection and treatment of cancer, and from these improved methods of diagnosis much more cancer is found, and found earlier than previously. The fact remains that this dread disease causes more deaths than any other illness except heart disease and stroke."

The Fifth District Representative continued, "There has been an increase in the number of cases of Hodgkin's disease and also of leukemia throughout our country. Hodgkin's disease, a condition involving the lymph glands, usually of the neck and later throughout the body, can now be controlled in 80% of those it attacks. The life of leukemia patients can now be prolonged."

At the present time, the Congressman pointed out, there are only about six centers in the United States where early detection and the most modern methods of treatment can be employed to give to the people of our country an opportunity for detection and proper treatment of this alarming condition. It is necessary that more of these large centers be constructed. At the present time, the nearest centers to the Fifth Congressional District are the Cleveland Clinic in Cleveland, Ohio and the M.D. Anderson Hospital and Tumor Institute in Houston, Texas. "I submit," explained Congressman Carter, "that to secure the benefits of centers capable of early detection and the most modern treatment of these cancerous conditions, that at least fifteen more Ken Harper has gone right to work as your Secretary of State.

Important records -- yours and mine -- used to be pushed into cellars and dirty corners.

His streamlined ideas are preserving them properly for you, your children, and their children. His new methods are saving money too -- and saving time for your County Clerk.

Hunting & Fishing

It was early October. The first frost had not yet dipped its magic onto the trees, the bushes, the shrubs and grasses. Yet the foliage had begun to tint with a myriad of colors as far as the eye could see alongside the expansive shoreline of Lake Cumberland.

The air was crisp. There was scarcely any wind and only faint ripples stirred the surface of the water. Two fishermen took off from the dock and headed for their favorite fishing spot. The smooth surface permitted the boat to glide bumplessly over the quiet waters and in no time the desired location was approached.

It was a long point, formed by a tributary that angled off at a 45-degree angle. The point, or hogback, extended far into the lake itself, but because of the low water, a wide surface had been left high and dry -- a place large enough for them to camp out, to erect their tents, to cook their food, to hang out a wash and to enjoy the greatness of the great outdoors.

The boat glided slowly onto the point, hardly rippling the waters. They planned to fish from the point, casting out the live bait right into the center of the hogback, and hoping that some of several varieties of fish would be encountered as they fed off the ledgy decline.

As the boat touched the shore, an anchor was tossed onto the bank and the fishermen stepped onto the rocky, yet sandy shore.

No finer morning could have been ordered, if orders were taken. The hillsides could have been no more beautiful. The green-blue waters of the lake could have been the setting for a beautiful color picture, as the men looked back across the lake.

But as they turned around, looking onto the bank, the fishermen saw the most disgusting sight -- a condition that was wholly out of place in this wonderful setting.

There, heaped under aquatic pine trees, was the refuse from this animal called man.

There was an empty can that had contained fuel for a lantern. Milk cartons and other cartons and plastic bags had been tossed helter-skelter into the dump. The remnants of a dirty T-shirt were much in evidence. Beer cans were everywhere.

A fire had been allowed to burn out and sections of blackened small logs were all that remained.

This had been an inviting camping area and had been used many times over. Maybe someone had started this dirty trend by tossing away only his leftovers and maybe succeeding campers had followed suit. What ever the thinking of those whose privilege it was to use this area, it was not good. A beautiful place had been destroyed, desecrated by the animal called man.

"We have been fortunate," continued the Fifth District Representative, "to witness many advances in the treatment of this dread disease. More than likely a cure for the whole spectrum will not be achieved at once, but only over a period of several years. It will require much study, in-depth research, and dedicated work by our many fine scientists and physicians. I want to say that passage of this bill will do much to hasten the day when cancer will no longer be the appalling killer it is today."

Without an effort to clean up his gigantic mess, man had camped here and here remained his leftovers. There were heaps of half-empty tin cans. There were bottles from which most of the catsup had been

GOVERNOR OUTLINES PROGRAM TO PREVENT SICKLE CELL ANEMIA

Gov. Nunm announced a $164,000 state program to combat Sickle Cell Anemia, the hereditary disease which afflicts only Negroes.

The disease affects red blood cells causing them to clog blood vessels and produce painful swelling of limbs and abdomen. It leads to a wide variety of other illnesses and premature death.

Gov. Nunm told a capitol news conference the new program, "Operation Sickle Cell," will be aimed at preventing the disease, one which has no cure.

Under the program a six-member detection team will tour Kentucky administering free tests and counseling those carriers detected.

Dr. Ian Shine, an internationally known expert in genetics, will direct the project. State funds for the program will be matched at the three-to-one ratio by the federal government.

Gov. Nunm also announced he is committing $100,000 from his Contingency Fund to implement a program guaranteeing treatment to every Kentuckian suffering from chronic kidney disease.
