Homemaker Who Hires Household Help May Be Employer under Social Security

Many homemakers may not consider themselves employers, but if they hire someone to help them around the house—even on a part-time basis—they may be considered employers under social security.

Administrative Service officials here, a homemaker is an employer if she pays a household worker $50 or more in cash wages in any 3-month quarter—January-March, April-June, July-September, or October-December.

For the family in case the worker becomes disabled or dies.

Nine out of every 10 household workers are women, the social security official said. "If a household worker suffers a long disabling illness, social security benefits might be her family's only income until she is able to return to work," he said. "Even if that isn't the case, her children may be entitled to monthly checks."

Any employer who wants more information about making social security contributions for a household worker can ask for a copy of the leaflet "Social Security and Your Household Employees" at any social security office, the spokesman said.

allows the dropping of deferments, Dr. Tarr said, "Young men holding lottery numbers of RSN 125 and above can effectively limit their vulnerability to the draft by being classified into 1-A by the year's end. Since the law allows young men to apply for deferments, we believe those young men granted deferments should be able to drop them if they desire.

"Our purpose," Tarr added, "is to achieve fairness to all registrants by determining their priority status on Jan. 1 of the new year and to limit the uncertainty that young men with high Random Sequence Numbers face. Right along with student, occupational, paternity, agricultural, and hardship deferments will be eligible to take advantage of this policy."

"The memorandum also amends selective service policy on allowing record changes in birthdates upon submission of adequate evidence.

"Starting Dec. 10, if a birthdate change is submitted after the registrant has received a lottery number, the records will be changed, but the registrant will retain his original lottery number."

scenery and its trees, rocks and flowers.

For Nellie Meadows who in late 1968 decided to offer her work in limited edition prints, her growth in the field of art has been like the unfolding of one of the flowers she paints. It is when she tells about the "truly wonderful people I've met" that she gets breathless almost, for of her blessings she most of all cherishes her friends and the many people she has met in her visits throughout Kentucky.

CHILDREN AGENCY NOTES INCREASED SERVICES

Delivery of medical services by the staff of the Kentucky Commission for Handicapped Children to the state's physically handicapped children increased during the last fiscal year.

Some 1015 more young Kentuckians were diagnosed as having hearing or visual problems. Another 294 children were found to have heart defects, and 102 youngsters were found to have cerebral palsy.

Seventy-five children with cystic fibrosis received medical support through the commission's program for the first time this past fiscal year.

Seventy-two of Kentucky's 120 counties showed a numerical increase in children served by the agency's medical and rehabilitation services.

Statewide an 8.7 per cent net increase last fiscal year raised the total number of children receiving commission services to 11,000.

Altered Meaning

The meaning of "Merry Christmas" has changed somewhat over the years. Originally, "merry" meant "blissed, peaceful, pleasant."

As the saying goes, "If we would but light one candle, what a bright world this would be!"

How about it, men and women, the rich, the middle and the poor... of Christmas 1970?

You & The Draft

The name of the game is "high-low." This column should have "draft appeal" for young men born in 1951 or earlier, have a "lottery" number of 125 or above and are not a member of the Extended Priority Selection Group.

It may not have been intentional that on the day and hour of the 53rd anniversary of the World War I Armistice (11 a.m., Nov. 11) that Draft Director Dr. Curtis W. Tarr issued a press release that was good news for the thousands of young men above RSN 125 and, on the other hand, bad for the others.

Because our local boards are concentrating on getting the world to "draft"-eligible registrants who may wish to drop their deferments and thereby, reduce their vulnerability to induction, we repeat the full text of the director's release as follows:

"Young men who wish to drop draft deferments in favor of 1-A classifications may still do so. Local boards will continue to grant these requests even though the young men continue to meet the conditions for which the deferments were granted.

"Six categories are included: 1-S, high school students; 2-A, occupational deferments or vocational/technical students; 2-C, agricultural deferments; 2-D, divinity students; 2-E, undergraduate college students; and 3-A, hardship deferment.

"This policy was instituted in late 1970 and was of particular interest to young men with Random Sequence Numbers above the highest RSN called for induction. By dropping their deferments at the end of the year, they became part of that year's prime selection group. On Jan. 1, they were placed in a second priority position. Because of this, they are not subject to induction until the manpower supply in the First Priority Selection Group is exhausted—a development which only if a major national emergency occurs.

"The policy was reaffirmed in a local board memorandum sent this week by Draft Director Curtis W. Tarr to all 4000 local draft boards. Registrants who desire to take advantage of the policy in 1971 must have been born in 1951 or earlier, have RSN's of 125 or above, and are not a member of the Extended Priority Selection Group. Moreover, they must submit their request in writing. To be considered as part of the 1971 prime selection group, the requests must be postmarked no later than Dec. 31.

"RSN 125 has been set as the year-end ceiling for 1971 draft calls. Unlike 1970, when the year-end ceiling was not necessarily reached by all local boards, the authorization in the 1971 draft amendments of a uniform national call insures that all eligible registrants will be considered for induction. If they (1) are in class 1-A on Dec. 31, (2) are 20 years of age or older on that date, and (3) have RSN's of 125 or below.

"If young men meet these criteria but are not inducted during 1971, their liability for induction will be extended into 1972. They will be prime candidates for induction during the first three months of the year along with other men who are now in the Extended Priority Selection Group. Commenting on the continuation of the policy which

Questions and Answers

Q. I am 80 years old and enrolled in Medicare. Because of my poor health, it is impossible for me to go to the social security office. Can someone from the social security office come to my home to help me fill out a claim for payment on some doctor bills?

A. Yes, if necessary, a social security representative can come to your home to help you file your claim. However, in many cases you can get the help you need over the telephone. Call any social security office and ask them for assistance. They will complete your claim form and mail it to you for your signature. You can then mail the claim form and your medical bills to the Medicare office.

Q. I am 68 and collect monthly social security retirement benefits. But I also work part time during the year. How often should I ask the social security office to refigure my benefits based on additional earnings to see if I am due an increase in my checks?

A. You do not have to request the social security office to refigure your social security benefits. This is done automatically each year.

Q. I am not eligible for a monthly social security check, but I did sign up for Medicare. I am being billed every 3 months for my medical insurance premiums. Since I receive a Veterans Administration pension, can I arrange to have my Medicare premium deducted from it?

A. No. The premium may be deducted only from social security retirement and civil service annuity checks.

Q. Even though I am 66 years old, I am still working full time. My friends told me that I should find out about my social security retirement benefits. Should I do this when I'm still working?

A. Yes, for several reasons. Even though you are still working, you might be eligible for some social security checks. It all depends on your earnings. And you could be missing out on valuable protection under the Medicare program.

20 INTERNS PICKED FOR 1972 LEGISLATURE
Twenty Kentucky college students from 10 of the state's colleges and universities have been chosen as legislative interns for the upcoming session of the General Assembly. The selection was announced by Dr. Robert F. Sexton, director of the Office of Academic Programs, Kentucky Department of Personnel.

The interns, chosen after extensive interviews, will serve as assistants to members of the General Assembly for the 1972 session. "We think we have an outstanding group of young people coming to Frankfort," said Dr. Sexton. "The 1972 session should be especially interesting and should give our interns an excellent opportunity to observe and contribute to an intense lawmaking session."

The selected students are: Jim Edd Austin, Louisville; Robert Babage, Lexington; and Thomas Smith Winchester, Eastern Kentucky University; Barry Caldwell, Erlanger; and Gregory Hughes, Erlanger; Georgetown College; John Lester Crowe, Ren-

Hurried Xmas Shopping May Bring Problems

As the Christmas season draws closer, shoppers hurriedly select articles for family and friends that will delight each person.

But haste in making such decisions may result in unhappiness for the recipient (or purchaser) of the gift. The Kentucky Citizens Commission on Consumer Protection has listed several suggestions to save money and help avoid marring the joyful season with unpleasant experiences before and after the festive day.

Each season, fraudulent or deceptive schemes are employed by some unestablished business firms run by fly-by-night operators. Charitable organizations receive millions of dollars each year through generosity and good will. The good works performed by special charities, like the Salvation Army, Volunteers of America or the March of Dimes cannot be overestimated. Yet there are some unscrupulous few who capitalize on the season's spirit of giving to line their own pockets.

Robert L. Cummisar, executive director of the consumer commission, has asked shoppers to restrict their buying to reputable stores, the ones that will be around after Dec. 25. He says fly-by-night operators have been known to open stores shortly before Thanksgiving and close on Christmas Eve.

These same operators often cover the market with a mass mailing program promising free gifts and great savings on merchandise. Cummisar said that many times the merchandise is not shipped in time for Christmas, leaving the consumer holding the bag.

Sewing machines and stereos are the major products sold through mass mailing programs, he noted. Customers have lost down payments and lay-away deposits when the dealer's shop towns in other cases, consumers have been stuck with overpriced inferior products with no recourse against the disappearing seller.

Even worse than the stores that spring up just in time for Christmas are the street-croaker and back-alley peddlars. Besides the strong possibility that the merchandise is stolen, making the buyer an accomplice to crime, there is the possibility that the expensive brand name French perfume will turn out to be mislabeled water or the 'diamond' bought will prove to be a cheap imitation, Cummisar said.

"EQU FOOTBALL"

From management's point of view, letters of constructive criticism are welcome because that is one way of telling whether Kentucky's "draft boards" are doing a good or bad job. Even with smaller "draft" calls, we continue to receive letters written to the President, members of Congress, the Governor and other elected officials soliciting their help in keeping a young man about to be "drafted" in a deferred classification.

In some instances the writer is convinced the "draft board" is not attaching enough importance to a particular man's job, while noting others who, in their opinion, are not contributing to the betterment of the community and therefore should be in uniform. We do not question the sincerity of most correspondents but often they do not have the facts. Normally, we are not a paragraph picker because it creates a risk of a few sentences being taken out of context. However we hope that a

YOU AND THE DRAFT

Central Kentucky woman will not object to our quoting the final paragraph of her letter to the President, especially since it says very well what many others have written. The paragraph reads, "Why with thousands of eligible, responsible and able-bodied men to choose from must we suffer the loss in our community of such a good teacher and human being? You will, if you take this young man, be doing us a great disservice. He is, to us, indispensable."

In all fairness, we must remind this writer that the System of the process of phasing out occupational deferments. In the past, teachers have had to receive several deferments in order to complete the requirements for a degree and get and retain employment as teachers. While these men were enjoying student and occupational deferments, it was necessary for the board to "draft" one or more of their peers to take their place.

It has now become a "numbers game" with the change from "drafting" the oldest man first to the method of "draft" by "lottery" number, beginning with the January 1970 call. With men being selected by the numbers, obviously those with a high number are more fortunate than those who receive a low one by virtue of the draw.

It would not be unreasonable to assume that many of those men who the writer refers to as "eligible, irresponsible and able-bodied" have a high "lottery number" and cannot under current regulations be "drafted." Within the frame of our "lottery number" (the cut-off for 1971 is RSN 125), the "draft board" must screen the records of its registrants very carefully in order to assure that each young man receives the same fair and equal treatment.

This column may or may not place the writer from Central Kentucky. But hopefully we have given her, and others who have posed the same question, a much better understanding of why the Selective Service System cannot involuntarily defer a young man because of an alleged occupational contribution he might be making in his community.

Fruit cake Enjoyed by Old Romans

One of the most-favored delicacies of the holiday season is the fruit-cake.

Many a loving homemaker will start months in advance and make the cake from an old family recipe, wrap it in a rum- or brandy-soaked cloth and store it until the Great Days come.

Most of us envision a "dark red-brown cake so filled with fruit and nuts that it can hardly be cut... so aromatic with spices that we could stand over it all day and 'drink in' its residence.

However, the term "good fruitcake" has as many variations as the singers of its praises.

Such discrepancies arise, says an expert in bakers' matters, "because no one appears to have decided exactly what constitutes fruitcake." Not even a super-fussy Department of Agriculture of a certain state has attempted to define the delicacy.

It's not difficult to see why. Over the years, fruit-cake has had as many recipes as eaters. To the ancient Romans, according to a well-known cookbook, it was Satura, a mixture of a well known barley mash, dried raisins, pine kernels and pomegranate seeds "laced with condiments and honeyed wine."

To Elizabeth of England it was spice cake, containing, according to a recipe of the time, "good ale barme... eight eggs with two yolks... and seeds bruised... (and) a little rose water."

Most modern recipes appear to descend from the well known Pennsylvania Dutch cake and British plum pudding cake. The latter was notable for its considerable brandy content, an ingredient missing from many commercial products.

double trouble

Two social security accounts are not better than one... as Mrs. Vivian Hall Egan found out when she applied for monthly social security retirement benefits. As a Ziegfeld Girl, "Vivian Hall" got her first social security card and number. Later, Mrs. Egan left the stage and got a new card and another number under her married name.

When she applied for retirement benefits, she didn't have enough social security credit... until both numbers were discovered and all her earnings were considered. One social security number is all a person ever needs.

Farmers in Rockcastle County are coming up approximately 10% light on their tobacco weight quota, according to Harold Ballinger, office manager of the Agricultural Stabilization Conservation Comm. Mr. Ballinger said that from marketing cards being received in his office from warehouses, approximately 30% of the farmers were on an average of 10% under their quota.

However, Mr. Ballinger also said that tobacco from Rockcastle farms was selling exceptionally well with one farmer averaging $80.00 and almost all farmers averaging $75.00.

When a farmer comes up short on his quota of tobacco, he has one of two choices. He can either just wait until next crop year and grow the amount he was short this year or he can lease his unused quota to another farmer in the county who has an excess of pounds.

This transaction must be recorded with the local ASCS office and Mr. Ballinger said that to date there has been very little of this leasing going on in Rockcastle.

Gordy Coleman To Speak At EKV

Former Cincinnati Reds first baseman Gordy (Gordy) Coleman will be the guest speaker at the first annual Kit Carson District Boy Scouts of America Recognition and Awards Dinner on Saturday, Dec. 12.

The banquet will begin at 6:30 p.m. in the Student Union cafeteria on the campus of Eastern Kentucky University.

All Scouters and friends of Scouting are invited to attend. The affair is being held to recognize leaders in Scouting for 1971, to present Roundup awards to units that have met their Roundup objectives, and to present training awards to leaders who completed their training.

Tickets are $3 and may be ordered by writing Elmer Congleton, Box 655, Richmond, KY 40474, or Lynn Cobb, Winchester Sun, Winchester, Ky. 40391. Checks should be made payable to Elmer Congleton.

In Gordy Coleman, the Scouts have chosen a speaker as adept at the microphone as he was at bat. Now 31 years old, Coleman ended his active playing career in 1967 after spending 7 1/2 years with the Reds. He assumed his present position in the Cincinnati front office in January, 1968.

Six times during his career, Coleman finished hitting .300 or better, but it was a sub-.300 season in 1967 that Gordy remembers best. That year he socked 26 home runs, drove in 27 runs and hit .287 in helping lead the Reds to their first pennant in 21 years.

Coleman attended Duke University in North Carolina and was a member of the Phi Kappa Phi Honor Society.

Bro. Donald Roberts, interment was in Ottawa Cemetery. Arrangements were by Watson Funeral Home.

Benjamin F. Jones Receives 9 Months In Jail

Benjamin F. Jones of Rockcastle County was found guilty of negligent homicide and sentenced to 9 months in the county jail by a Rockcastle Circuit Court jury last Wednesday.

Mr. Jones was involved in a two-car collision last March near Broodhead in which Mrs. Glenna Mae Singleton and her daughter, Sherri Lynn Singleton, both lost their lives.

In other cases, the jury found Willie Thacker of not guilty on a Malignant Shooting and Wounding With Intent to Kill charge brought by Michael Callahan, Larry Thompson and Mike Peters.

The jury also found Eugene Collins and Leroy Collins guilty of damaging private property and were fined $100 each and cost. Both men had also been charged with shooting into a building frequented by people but this charge was dismissed.

DRIVER ESCAPES SERIOUS INJURY -- Cecil Powell, 25, of Whesling, West Virginia was trapped in the above tractor or for about 45 minutes Monday morning. According to Powell, he was traveling south on Interstate 75 when he attempted to pass another truck. He struck the truck causing him to lose control of his vehicle and ran off the road striking a rock wall. The truck was loaded with sheet steel.

Must Have Permit To Construct Park

Anyone planning to construct a mobile home park or enlarge an existing park in Rockcastle County must first obtain a permit from the State Department of Health in Frankfort, Herman Moore, sanitarian for the Rockcastle County Health Department, announced today.

"Due to the rapid increase in mobile home parks in Kentucky during the past four years, the public needs to be reminded of the state trailer coach park law and regulations," Mr. Moore said.

"Some parks have been unlawfully established and are operating without a permit. A 'trailer coach park' is defined by Kentucky Revised Statute 219.130 as an area of land on which two or more trailers are parked, either free of charge or for a fee.

The law states that a construction permit must be obtained from the Department of Health's Division of Environmental Services prior to construction of a new park or alteration of an existing park. Permits are issued when actual plans are submitted, along with an application and the required $25 fee to cover the cost of processing and reviewing plans.

The law also requires all mobile home parks to have an operating permit, which expires June 30 following the date of issuance.

"The purpose of the law is to insure healthy living conditions for the mobile home resident and for the community as a whole," Mr. Moore said.

"For this reason, parks must have approved water and sewage systems, solid waste disposal and proper spacing of trailers."

Stand by for the Republican walk.
Just as the Democrats did four years ago, Republicans will be busy for quite a while labeling every change by the incoming state administration as a terrible political maneuver.
It wasn't true then. And it won't be now.
The fact is that when someone charges his job is being taken away because of politics he's begging the question completely.

No one has any vested right in a state job except those covered by the merit system, or those holding office for a set term.
The real question is whether someone doing a good job is replaced by someone not capable—or whether someone not producing is replaced by someone better.
The only vested interest in political jobs lies with the taxpayers, no matter what the politicians feel.

Medicare 'Carry-Over' Provision Is Explained

Doctor bills for October, November, and December may in some cases be counted toward the $50 annual deductible for both 1971 and 1972 under the "carry-over" provision of the medical insurance part of Medicare, according to social security officials here.
The deductible is the first $50 of covered medical expenses accumulated in a calendar year, a social security spokesman said.

"Before any payment can be made by Medicare," he said, "your records must show that you have met your deductible. So, as soon as your bills come to $50, attach them to a Request for Medicare Payment' form and send them to the carrier that handles your Medicare claims."
The "carry-over" rule helps the beneficiary who might otherwise have to pay the $50 deductible twice in a short period of time—at the end of one year and at the beginning of the next year, the spokesman said.
"Even if you have not met the $50 deductible before October," he said, "be sure to send in all the bills for covered services you receive in October, November, or December. They can help

And if Gov. - elect Wendell Ford can get more for the taxpayer's dollar by a change that all the justification needs.
It was true for Gov. Louie Nunn as he chopped away at Democrats' jobs. And the standard applies for Gov. Ford.
The governor gets the credit or blame for the result so he simply has to have the wants in the key posts.

The Ford administration got off to a good start with the Capitol press corps when William Wester was named the governor's chief administrative aide and Tommy Preston as press secretary and information commissioner.
Both are respected and liked in the press room. And both have the indispensable extra quality for their jobs—a sturdy sense of humor.

meet the deductible for 1972."
The medical insurance part of Medicare pays 80 percent of the reasonable charges for covered expenses after the first $50. The program is funded by individual premiums that are matched by the Federal Government. The hospital insurance part of Medicare is financed by regular social security contributions.

Medicare is administered by the Social Security Administration of the U.S. Department of Health, Education, and Welfare.
Some 105 more young Kentuckians were diagnosed as having hearing or visual problems. Another 294 children were found to have heart defects and 102 youngsters were found to have cerebral palsy. Seventy-five children with cystic fibrosis received medical support through the commission's program for the first time this past fiscal year. Seventy-five of Kentucky's 120 counties showed a numerical increase in children served by the agency's medical and rehabilitation services.
Statewide, an 8.7 percent net increase last fiscal year raised the total number of children receiving commission services to 11,606.

Frankfort attorney Edward Prichard is credited with labeling Democratic state chairman Mark E. Miller as "the man from Mississippi" during the primary race for governor.
Prichard obviously gives Miller credit for his strong role in both Ford victories. He told Democratic Sixth Congressional District nominee William Curtin.
"I have only one piece of advice for you—put your hand in the hand of the man from Mississippi!"

The Ford administration strategy on taxes may be deceptively simple.
The severance tax on coal is expected to be packaged with the sales tax exemption on take-home food. That would put the heat on those who wouldn't vote for the severance tax separately.
The same kind of approach may be taken if the expected decision comes to try for an increase in the gasoline tax. It could be lumped with a spending plan on an all or nothing basis.
Lobbies have a way of forcing quickly for such deals.

One witty Ford supporter admits he's looking for a soft job with a good salary, a job that won't really interfere with other work but carries full-time pay. He says:
"I like to think of it in terms of making my contribution."

SERVICES TO HANDICAPPED INCREASED

DELIVERY OF MEDICAL SERVICES by the staff of the Kentucky Commission for Handicapped Children to the state's physically handicapped children increased during the last fiscal year.

Capitol Digest

The Interim Committee on Agriculture and Natural Resources has approved in principle bills to create a separate department for controlling pollution and expand Kentucky's strip-mining law.
The committee asked both matters be drafted into bills along lines recommended by two of its subcommittees. If committee members do not object within 10 days the drafts will be prefiled for introduction in the 1972 General Assembly.

The proposal on strip mining would redefine surface mining to conform with the Interstate Mining Compact, extend the strip mine law to cover the logging industry, raise the cost of mining permits and increase the maximum bond required for surface mining operations.
The other proposal would create an environmental department to handle air and water pollution, solid waste disposal, septic tank cleaning and noise.

All of those except noise now are handled by the Health Department.
In addition the new agency would develop programs to manage air, land and water resources "to assure their protection and balanced utilization."

HEALTH BOARD TO ASK ENTO TO COMPULSORY SMALLPOX VACCINATION

A measure eliminating the necessity for compulsory smallpox vaccinations has been adopted by the state Board of Health.
State Health Commissioner William McEwain said legislation to that effect would be drafted and presented to the 1972 General Assembly for approval.
Whether to recommend selective vaccination for certain periods this would be left to the discretion of individual physicians, McEwain said.
The health board also adopted a regulation designating the amphetamine MDA a dangerous drug, making it subject to Kentucky's Dangerous Drug Act of 1968. The action marks possession of MDA a misdemeanor.
In other action the board

...accepted a series of rabies vaccines for dogs which would offer immunity for a three-year period.
...Voted to issue a position paper recognizing the jurisdiction of the University of Kentucky and University of Louisville medical schools in Eastern and Western Kentucky respectively.
...Decided to ask Dr. Paul Corum of Midway to show cause why his license should not be revoked. McEwain said Dr. Corum has been indicted for illegal sale of drugs and illegal use of the state's medicare program.

ed three changes in his proposal to provide health care insurance benefits to state employees, one of which will allow each employer to select his own insurer.

The governor announced his plan to give health care insurance assistance Nov. 5.

The changes would:

- Require the state to pay $5 per month as its share of the basic cost of the coverage, increasing the state contribution to about 68 per cent of the premium.
- Move the effective date up from Jan. 1 to Dec. 1

Governor Nunn said the decision to allow each employer to choose his own insurer was made after a special committee determined it would be impractical to spread out specific coverage and bidding specifications.

State Finance Commissioner Albert Christen estimated the project's cost to the state at $1.4 million per year and said it could rise to $1.5 million if all employees obtain health insurance.

PRISONERS SUE TO ALTER MAIL CENSOR POLICY

Five prisoners at Eddyville State Penitentiary have filed a suit in Franklin Circuit Court challenging the prison's right to regulate their mail.

The suit was filed against Corrections Commissioner John C. Taylor and Eddyville Warden John Wingo by inmates Charles Ring, Raymond Creech, Alvey Lee Dunn and Francis Hill.

It also questions the prison's right to punish prisoners without a court trial for escaping.

The mail regulations under attack allow prisoners to send uncensored letters only to the governor or corrections commissioner.

Each prisoner also is allowed an uncensored mailing list of seven persons who may be able to help him. However, the list must be approved by the prison's case worker, who can veto deletions and additions.

All other letters from prisoners are opened and inspected for contraband and incoming mail from persons "suspected of abusing the mail privileges."

The suit maintains the regulations violate prisoners' rights of free expression and cause delays in such legal steps as appeals.

KYS COLLEGES COST LESS, STUDY FINDS

A study by the State Council on Public Higher Education indicates tuition at Kentucky's state colleges and universities are below the average for comparable institutions in this region.

The disparity is greatest in the area of out-of-state students.

University of Kentucky fees were compared with 11 land grant schools in Indiana, Missouri, North Carolina, Ohio, Tennessee, Virginia and West Virginia.

Kentucky's regional schools were compared with some 32 regional colleges and universities in the same states.

The study shows out-of-state students at UK pay $390 less than the median of the 11 mentioned land grant schools.

Out-of-state students at Kentucky's regional schools are paying $329 less than those at the 32 regional schools used in the comparison.

The report also notes that while tuition in Kentucky appears to be a bargain, this may be erroneous because six of the eight surrounding states have higher per-capita personal income than Kentucky.

COAL FIRMS ASK DISMISSAL OF STRIP MINE PETITION

Coal company attorneys have asked the state Reclamation Commission to dismiss a petition brought against 30 strip mining companies operating in Eastern Kentucky.

The petition, filed by lawyers for the Appalachian Research and Defense Fund representing local citizens, charges the 30 companies have repeatedly broken state strip mining regulations without being fined or punished.

It asks that the mining permits of all 30 companies be revoked.

Hazard attorney Richard Cooper, speaking for the companies, attacked the petition on several points:

- He said the petitioners have never proven they are residents of Kentucky and have a right to assert such an action.
- He said the 30 named companies have not been served with any legal process or challenge to which they might reply or on the basis of which they might take action.

He further charged the petition has not been verified or supported by the inclusion of affidavits.

The commission took the request for dismissal under advisement and gave the coal company attorneys 20 days to file a written motion.

"A Responsibility"

In recent years, the cost of many things have increased. During a time of illness, medical and other expenses can become a great burden.

We, the Funeral Directors, have a responsibility to our community; to provide a funeral service for every person at a time of need regardless of their financial status. The Funeral Service profession is established on dedication and the highest degree of service, not finance. We consider it an honor and privilege to be requested at a time of need and to be given the opportunity to serve those left behind. Dedication and personal service is our concern.

If you are willing to spend a few hours each month helping a group of children, call the Extension office. BEGINNING CLOTHING WORKSHOP - Let me know if you are interested in a clothing workshop. I am planning to start one sometime this winter. This would be real good for anyone wanting to learn clothing construction. The class would meet once a week, for 2 hours, for 8 weeks. Again, let me know if you are interested.

The cookie workshop which was scheduled for December 3 has been cancelled due to lack of participants.

Its "tangerine time" Tangerines are available from late November until early March, with peak supplies in December and January. Look for: deep yellow or orange color and a bright luster as your sign of fresh, mature, good-flavored tangerines. Avoid: very pale yellow or greenish fruits, likely to be lacking in flavor.

How much is enough? One-half cup is the serving size commonly used for adults for most cooked vegetables. Small children and light eaters are often satisfied with smaller portions.

If you think your teenager is not eating properly, chances are you are right. Nutrition education experts took a long, hard look at the eating habits of U.S. teenagers and found them to be a dietary disaster area, composed largely of cookies, potato chips, skipped meals, greasy hamburgers, soft drinks and doughnuts.

Many teenagers have very strange eating habits. They may have the poorest nutrition habits in the United States. Close to one-fourth of a teenager's daily food comes from snacks, many of them full of empty calories.

When processing white vegetables, such as cauliflower, use a white vinegar to keep the vegetables looking white. If the white remains after sponging or soaking, work a soap of detergent into it, then rinse. Many stains that can be removed easily when they are fresh are difficult or impossible to remove later, particularly after they are set by heat.

Usual color changes in home processed pickles occur because of the acid. The higher the acidity, the greater the color change. And, when garlic is added to cucumber pickles, a more noticeable color change may occur.

Gerald Kuhn, Extension food technologist at Pennsylvania State University, says that this color change is not a sign of an inferior product. The color of pickles may be affected by the degree of softness in the water used for processing.

Christmas Season

The holiday tempo increases as the Christmas season gets closer. Sometimes it seems as if Halloween and Thanksgiving are almost neglected in the eagerness to start the Christmas season earlier. Whether it is proper or improper to use a Christmas theme for an early December party will depend on the party's nature. There is a theme for a club which needs but once a month, the theme is often desirable, hostesses need to use good taste and restraint in using the theme, just as taste and restraint are good for any occasion. Decorations for the Christmas season or a Christmas party can be simple or elegant, yet effective in both cases. Each person will need to decide where the difference between good taste and effectiveness lies. One good rule that you can follow is to use restraint to keep it simple. Thus you use only what fits the theme or effect without overloading and cluttering the decorations with negative, non-additive and/or an excessive amount of additive things. Evergreen boughs and branches of holly can be used in various ways for party and other indoor decorations, but if put up too soon, they will be in poor condition before the holiday season is over unless special efforts are made to care for them. It is difficult to keep early decorations of cut boughs or branches in good condition, even in water. It is best to plan on replacing early decorations at least once. December issues of magazines are full of ideas. One sometimes used is to make a miniature Christmas tree which is small enough to use on a card table or a dining table. These can be made larger for buffet or table centers or as a substitute for a small table-top tree. The "tree" is built on a "trunk" or on styrofoam fastened to a styrofoam base. Clippings of jumpers, yew, or spruce can be inserted in the trunk in a natural manner. Jumpers, such as Pfitzer (spreaders), can be held in good condition for nearly a month if the "tree" is sometimes kept out-of-doors overnight. Most spruce, however, will drop needles as early as 7 to 10 days after the tree is made. For small trees, use shorter clippings and a smaller trunk. Some small trees can be made of boxwood or Japanese holly. Medium-sized ones can be made from holly or Oregon hollyhedge. These foliage are best when used as fresh as possible. Usually their appearance is poor in about 10 days. Small twinkling light sets are in scale for the smaller trees. For the larger table-top trees. It is difficult to find a selection of small decorations which are in scale with the miniature trees. One that does well is the scale in miniature marshmallows hung like snowballs. A fine wire is stuck into each marshmallow and bent to hook on the "limbs." The marshmallows can be dyed with food coloring, and the trees can be frosted, but frocking is too coarse and overpowering. Fire Proof Christmas Tree

Four to six days before the tree is to be set in place, put the trunk in a bucket of ammonium sulfate solution, 1 1/2 pints of water to a pound of ammonium sulfate, which is available at garden stores. Divide the tree's weight by 4; the quotient is the number of pounds of ammonium sulfate needed. An 8 pound tree would need 2 pounds dissolved in 3 pints of water; a 12 pound tree, 3 pounds dissolved in 4 1/2 pints of water.

1/4 cut horticultural iron, 1 gallon hot water, 5 cups light corn syrup and 4 teaspoons of chlorinated household bleach. Mix the horticultural iron in hot water; stir in the bleach and corn syrup. The iron will not dissolve completely; it makes a bluish-green mixture, with particles that settle to the bottom. Saw an inch from the bottom of the tree trunk; pound or smash the base of the trunk with a hammer or ax to crush the fibers. Stand the tree in a larger holder, preferably one that will hold a gallon of the solution. Any warm tap water daily, as we need, to keep the container filled.

9 ounces of borax, 4 ounces of boric acid, a gallon of water, 1/2 teaspoon of low-sudsing detergent. Mix thoroughly, saturate tree and greens; let tree and greens dry thoroughly before decorating. Stand tree in water and add water as needed. A slight variation - 5 ounces borax, 4 ounces epsom salts in 2 quarts of water.

TV USED IN MENTAL RETARDATION AWARENESS

During National Retarded Children's Month (November 1970) the Kentucky Assn. for Retarded Children (KARC) has made wide use of television talk shows to inform the public of services now available to the mentally retarded in the state and services needed.

The effort is part of a nationwide information program designed to prevent and alleviate the ravages of mental retardation.

Mrs. Betty Tate, the association's executive director, has appeared on programs throughout Kentucky in an effort to generate more community involvement in the care and treatment of the retarded.

She said services are being provided for 14,000 (14.3 per cent) of Kentucky's estimated 98,500 retarded citizens. Of these 14,000 are in special education classes in communities and 3000 are in state institutions or private residential or day care centers and rehabilitation services.

"If we could get appropriate training services for the retarded, statistics show more than 83 per cent could be independent or semi-independent taxpayers citizens instead of being dependent on the state," Mrs. Tate said.

Proclaiming November National Retarded Children's Month in Kentucky, Gov. Louie B. Nunn urged citizens to lend their interest and assistance to ensure the right of retarded children to an opportunity for the fullest development of their lives.

MUSIC HERALDS THE CHRISTMAS SEASON

It's quite natural that Bardonia, Kentucky...hosting the home that Stephen Foster sang about in his immortal "My Old Kentucky Home"...would pay a special tribute to music during the Christmas holidays.

One of the most easily recognized musical strains the world over is "My Old Kentucky Home." It brings to mind traditional southern living, white columned mansions, hoop skirts and the folklore of plantation days. Stephen Foster contributed his talents to this great picture of Kentucky and to Americans' need to express themselves during trying times of the mid 1800's.

In honor of the great balladeer, citizens of Bardonia formed the Stephen Foster Music Club in 1938 with some 20 members, "to encourage the appreciation of music in the community and to perpetuate the name and work of Stephen Collins Foster." They meet once a month and most recently the members, now grown to 94, have been preparing for the open house.

About 25 musicians of all ages will actually perform, in a program of Christmas songs. There will be instrumental arrangements for flute, clarinet, guitars and harp, group singing of carols, special numbers on the oboe, piano, organ and violin. A brass group will add the joyous sounds of trumpets and trombones to the great swell that will ring out in Bardonia, heralding the oncoming of the Christmas holidays.

Families that will be opening their homes are: Mr. and Mrs. Harold Richards, 316 North 3 rd. Dr. and Mrs. P.L. Holt, 302 West Mulr; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hibbe, Jr., 309 West John Fitch Ave., Mr. and Mrs. Scott Cedarholm, 211 East Stephen Foster Ave., and Mrs. Ferd Rapier, 302 S. 5th. Refreshments will be served at Wickland, former home of three Governors.

Tickets, $1.00 each, may be purchased at the Chamber of Commerce office from Mrs. Harold C. Browning, president of the Stephen Foster Music Club, or she may be reached by phone at (502) 348-9545.

CHRISTMAS OPERA COMING TO EKV DEC. 2

A Christmas opera by Menotti, "Amahl and the Night Visitors," will be presented at Eastern Kentucky University, Dec. 2. Curtain time in Hiram Brock Auditorium will be 8 p.m.

Except for guest director, David Aiken, from Indiana University, and Sam Coleman, from Bloomington, Ind., who plays Amahl, the cast will be composed of EKV music students.

The cast will be supported by the Chamber Orchestra, conducted by Roland Vamos; the Chamber Choir, conducted by Bruce Hogland, and choreography, directed by Jacqueline Morris, all of EKV. Joan-Lorna Bonnemant, of the EKV music faculty, will be coordinator.

The cast includes Mrs. Walter Odum, Berea; Rebecca Haywood, Prestonsburg; Barry McCauley, Richmond; William Owens, Danville; Thomas Rebillas, New Carlisle, Ohio; and David Steck, West Alexandria, Ohio.

The opera tells the story of the stovoper of the Three Wise Men, on the way to visit the Christ Child, at the impoverished home of Amahl, a crippled shepherd, and his mother. While they sleep, the mother, to feed her starving child, steals some of the gifts that they are taking to the Christ Child.

As a child in Lombardy, Italy, the composer of the opera, Menotti, who was crippled had promised God, "Lord, heal my leg and some day, when I am grown up, I will make you something very beautiful." The opera is the result of that promise.

"I know it's practically New Year's, Susan, but how about it?"

Everybody needs an extension telephone and now's the best time to give one. A bedroom extension for Junior or Sis. Kitchen phone for Mom. Garage or den for Dad. In their favorite color, too—there's a wide choice. Find out how easy it is to give a telephone for Christmas.

Eastern's Drinking Driver Course Attracts National Interest

By Judi Ledford
State News Bureau

Richmond, Ky.—At the recent National Safety Congress and Exposition in Chicago, officials of alcohol counterattack programs in other states expressed interest in the Alcohol Re-education Center at Richmond, according to the program's director.

"They like our program because we have a behavioral modification approach," Dr. Jerry L. Miller said. "We try to modify a person's drinking and driving behavior. We do not try to convince him to stop drinking altogether."

Officials also are attracted to the program because it is a non-profit self-supporting one, funded by offenders attending the center, he added. Many alcohol countermeasures programs rely on local and federal matching funds.

Persons convicted in Richmond, Winchester, Paris and Fayette County for DWI (driving while under the influence of an intoxicant) are referred by judges to the center.

Classes are held from 7-9:30 p.m. each Monday for four weeks in an Eastern Kentucky University classroom. A nominal registration fee is required of each person enrolled in the course. Those enrolled must attend all four sessions in order to obtain credit for the course.

Associate professor of traffic safety at EKVU, Miller says his "students," who have ranged in age from 16 to 72, are on the defensive at the first meeting. But at the end of the course they are open, friendly, talkative.

Miller begins the first meeting by explaining he and his assistant, W. Kent Jesse, are not going to lecture anyone or try to convince them that drinking is bad or wrong.

The course objective, he tells them, is to show them why they should not drive when they have had too much to drink.

At the outset he emphasizes that the center is not affiliated with Alcoholics Anonymous or any church or church-related organization.

Class members either registered at least .10 per cent blood alcohol concentration (BAC) on a breathalyzer test at the time of arrest or refused to submit to the test. Refusal automatically results in a six-month revocation of a driver's license under Kentucky's implied consent law.

(However, persons refusing a test are allowed 10 days to appeal the action before the state Department of Public Safety. Of all drivers refusing the breathalyzer test in 1970, only 2.5 per cent successfully appealed the revocation of their license.)

At the first meeting of each session Miller explains he knows class members aren't happy about having to come to his class for four weeks. He also notes they were not picked up for "drunk driving." Kentucky has no such law—but for driving while under the influence of an intoxicant.

He explains the breathalyzer measures the amount of alcohol in the blood as accurately as a blood test. It does not measure the amount of alcohol detectable on one's breath and therefore it is useless to gargle with strong mouthwash.

He distributes cards to class members so they may determine their BAC based on their weight, amount of alcohol consumed and length of time spent drinking.

At each meeting he explains this basic fact: one ounce of whiskey, four ounces of wine and 12 ounces of beer contain practically the same amount of alcohol.

He also points out that it is unwise to drink on an empty stomach and says bread and potatoes are the best foods to eat before drinking because they slow absorption of alcohol into the blood stream.

Miller, repeats these and other basic facts at subsequent meetings he says, to insure a thorough understanding of them.

A number of changes have been made in the course since it was initiated last March. At first classes were held in the Richmond police courtroom, but were moved to a classroom to change the atmosphere and facilitate the showing of films.

Students are encouraged to get involved in the meetings, ask questions and offer comments and suggestions.

Films shown include two on observing traffic and safety rules at all times and one on the driving behavior of professional racing drivers both before and after drinking. A class demonstration is given showing how a breathalyzer works.

Miller explains that a breathalyzer is only as good as the official operating it. He points out that policemen who operate the machine first must pass a course on the breathalyzer at Eastern's Traffic Safety Institute.

At the final session of the four-week course each student is asked to submit an unsigned written evaluation of the course, of some 500 people who have attended the center, 99 per cent said they benefited from the course, said it helped their understanding of alcohol and its effect on people and recommended the course be continued.

Identical programs have been established in Paducah, Mayfield, Murray, Elizabethtown, Lexington and Jefferson County, and "we're hoping to start one in Covington for Northern Kentucky," Miller said.

Officials in Corbin and Pikeville also have expressed interest in establishing such a program, he said.

He pointed out the courses are taught by college graduates trained in traffic safety. "It's strictly an educational effort done by professional people."

What tobacco means to you . . .

As Kentucky's leading cash crop, tobacco obviously is important to our state's farmers. What is sometimes overlooked, however, is that tobacco is equally important to the banker, the factory worker, the local businessman, the housewife, and to virtually every Kentuckian. While tobacco generates farm income of $300 million annually it worth some $1.5 billion each year to our total economy.

About 240,000 Kentucky families share in returns from the farm sale of tobacco, and with this income they buy new homes, automobiles, farm supplies, groceries, clothing, and other items. As a result, local businesses and labor are bolstered. In short, tobacco is vitally important to employment, income and economic growth in our Commonwealth. What does tobacco mean to you? A lot.

Hunting & Fishing

Even if it's a cold, blustery day—a day of rain and snow and ice and high winds—and you still just want to go hunting, then go right ahead and be very warm and comfortable.

But this was not always possible. Times that with bad weather wildlife had had day off since the hunter would not venture out.

It's not that hunters are tougher today than they were in the past but that the clothing manufacturers have produced garments now that will repel even the bitter cold on the most disagreeable day.

One would think that an amount of clothing necessary to keep a person warm on a frigid day would be a real action problem for the hunter and that the necessary footwear would tire out a person.

The manufacturers have taken care of this, too.

Thermal underwear, covered by lightweight but water-repellent shirts and trousers, plus the usual lined hunting coat or vest is about all a hunter would need on a very bitter day. And these things would not be in the least cumbersome because of their trim cuts, snug fits and light weight.

A cap or hat that weighed down the head of the hunter in the old days is replaced today by a light affair that is a guard against the cold and yet is easy for the hunter to get along with.

Formerly the hunter was required to wear heavy boots or shoes and overboots that were a burden to move. This was necessary if the feet were kept warm and dry.

But today lightweight insulated footwear, used over cold resistant, sheer socks means ease of maneuverability and allows the hunter to walk

File Claims Promptly For Medicare Payment

To avoid delay in Medicare payment, patients should file claims promptly after they get their doctor bills, according to social security officials here.

"Many people let their medical bills accumulate until the end of the year and then file their claim. This tends to create a clerical backlog that can cause delays in payment," a social security spokesman said.

Claims are filed on "Request for Medicare Payment" forms available at most doctors' offices and at any social security office. Your Medicare Handbook tells where claims forms should be sent, the spokesman said.

In most cases, physicians submit claims for their services under Medicare themselves and are paid directly by the Government.

December 31, 1971, is the deadline for filing Medicare claims for services rendered October 1, 1969, through September 30, 1970.

"Under the law, Medicare can pay medical insurance claims only within a certain time after treatment or other service," the spokesman said. "After December 31, 1971, Medicare cannot pay for services rendered October 1, 1969, through September 30, 1970," he said.

Medical insurance is the voluntary part of Medicare. It is available to almost everyone 65 or over and helps pay for doctor bills and certain other health care services. It is funded by individual premiums that are matched by the Federal Government. It pays 80 percent of reasonable charges above the $50 annual deductible for covered services.

Medicare hospital insurance, funded through regular contributions to social security, requires no premium payments. It helps pay for hospital care and certain related services for people 65 and over.

Medicare is administered for the Department of Health, Education and Welfare by the Social Security Administration.

Medicare now pays more than $7 billion a year in hospital and medical bills for 20 million people over 65.

Don't let your medical bills pile up. As soon as your covered expenses reach $50 (the Medicare deductible) this year, send in any medical bills as soon as you get them.

My friend fought in a battle in which he lost his leg. My son it hurts to say this but my answer must be "no." Your father and I would have no Medicare, a boy who is crippled so.

Some months later a letter came saying their son had died. When they read the cause of death the letter said "Suicide."

Sometime later when the casket arrived draped with our nation's flag.

They saw their son lying there, Without an arm or leg.

Scenes of The Thanksgiving Tournament

Re-Discover Kentucky

It seems only a short time ago that the attractive brunette with the breathless, little-girl voice that speaks sedulity called me aside during an art show at Natural Bridge State Resort Park and said, "Guess what my Christmas present is going to be this year?"

It was October and a warm, sunny Sunday afternoon with much of autumn. Halloween, Thanksgiving and snow yet to go before Christmas, but Mrs. Nellie Meadows had made up her mind, and with cooperation of Mr. Meadows had decided to reproduce her water-color paintings of Kentucky wildflowers into prints. She had been painting for several years and had come to the realization that she wanted to move into a broader field with her work.

"My husband Roscoe has already told me he would make the prints my Christmas present."

But also present that day was Beattyville writer Nevyle Shackelford who wrote a piece about Mrs. Meadows' plans. And he caused Mr. Meadows to have to look around for another gift, for an art print company soon had the artist under contract.

Since then the Clay City artist has visited with hundreds of clubs, schools and libraries and has made numerous personal appearances to promote her prints and as a result has endeared herself to countless people, young and old.

In her first print series were eight wildflowers — violet, chicory, spiderwort, goldenrod, dandelion, thistle, cattail and partridge pea. She then came out with larger prints of the tulip poplar and Kentucky cypress.

Recently in Hemlock Lodge, Natural Bridge State Resort Park, she unveiled her first in a series of prints which shows her interpretation of the upper Red River Gorge. Unlike her other prints, the gorge scene was done in oils and features still another dimension to the artist.

Prior to the showing in Hemlock Lodge, she had called to tell me about the written print and an essay that accompanies each one. "Nevyle has written the most beautiful essay I ever read."

The popular writer from Mulberry Hill—his farm is in Lee County—and Mrs. Shackelford was present for the reception at the park near Slade. The artist and writer blend the print and the essay into a true collector item.

Knowledgeable about botany and nature, Shackelford, who is with the University of Kentucky Cooperative Extension Service, has written an easy-to-read piece that is packed with information.

Both artist and writer live in a scenic area that encompasses Red River and the gorge, Kentucky River and its tributaries, the land of Boone, Jonathan Swift and Indians who once roamed traces in the cliff and canyon country ... and the land of more than 1000 wildflowers and shrubs.

The Powell County artist devotes most of her time to painting and guest appearances, but enjoys bowling with her husband, a Clay City businessman, and helping oversee Red River Historic Museum located in Clay City.

Her son, Larry Meadows, is an authority on Red River and the gorge which includes Swift's Camp Creek. He has hiked throughout the region, rappelled the cliffs, canoed the rapids, explored the caves, studied plants and geological formations and researched the legends and languages of rocks, trees and the Indians who left their mark in the gorge.

The new Nellie Meadows print shows huge boulders that in some past had tumbled to the canyon floor. The slope is a canoe and fishermen and on the other a green background of trees.

The Meadows family of Clay City and the Shackelfords of Beattyville make a talented combination, especially when the painting of one and the writing of another are revealing of Kentucky's magnificent
