In Memory

In memory of the Vessels Brothers, Robert and Bill, who passed away March 13, 1971.
You wished no one a last farewell, or even said goodbye. You were gone before we knew it and only God knows why. Two hearts of gold stopped beating, four shining eyes that rest. You broke our hearts to prove to us he only takes the best to dwell with him through eternity in that Heaven of rest. To some you are forgotten, to others a part of the past, but to us you loved and lost you, your memory will forever last.

Let's GO! TIGERS

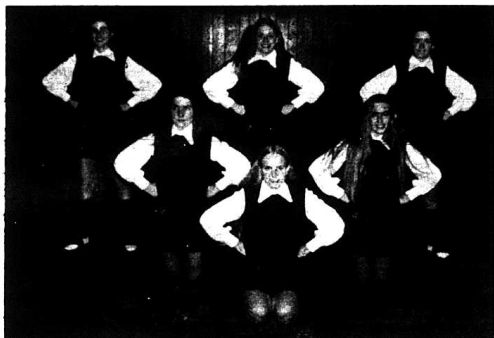

ALL THE WAY TO THE STATE TOURNAMENT

THEY'RE ON THEIR WAY-- This picture was taken in front of Brodhead School Wednesday afternoon just prior to the Brodhead Tigers leaving for Middlesboro to begin Regional Tournament play. Hope is running high in the county that the Tigers will get a shot at the regional championship game. Their first contender will be Knox Central tonight and if they win it will have to play the winner of the Pineville-Cumberland game. A win there would give them a shot at either Middlesboro or Clay County and don't think the fans in this area are Huddling with Coach Riddle are the members of this year's edition of the Brodhead Tigers. Coach Riddle has always seemed to be able to come up with a well-coached and successful winning team but this year has been one to capture the imagination of Brodhead fans all over the county. Their last season loss came January 4 at Jackson County when they were defeated by one-point. That was the first season loss since December 4 and the Tigers wound up with a 24-7 season. They beat out Oneida and Anyville in District tournament play and gave Clay County a good run for their money the second half of the district championship game.

Fiscal Court Accepts Hospital; Signs New 20-Year Lease

The Rockcastle County Fiscal Court Tuesday morning formally accepted the hospital back from the Rockcastle County Baptist Association who have operated the hospital since it was opened sixteen years ago.

The Association voted February 5 to give the county 120-days written notice of their intention to discontinue their operation of the hospital. During the interim time, four men, Bill Bailey, James Lambert, Wayne Stewart and Robert Cromer, have taken over operation of the hospital and have been engaged in bringing the hospital up to standards to get back on Medicaid and to get off of probation with Medicare.

Technically, a 20-year lease-contract was taken in the name of the Rockcastle County Baptist Hospital under a new board of directors (the four men mentioned above) with the provision that the Articles of Incorporation be amended to provide for a change of name to the Rockcastle County Hospital and such other changes as are set out in the lease or appear necessary. A motion was passed by the Fiscal Court in the above form.

Actually, there will be very few noticeable changes except that the hospital will be operating under the four men instead of representatives of the Baptist churches in the county and will not be church connected, thus the change of name.

However, Magistrate Danny Sargent did take issue with one clause in the lease-contract which was read to the Court by Attorney James Lambert which stated in effect that if federal funds, in the form of Medicare and Medicaid, should be cut off from the hospital then the corporation would have the right to switch the hospital's operation to a first-aid station and convalescent home. Sargent told the men that he was not in agreement with this clause since he felt that in the eventuality these funds were cut off the corporation should have to return the operation of the hospital to the county with due written notice and then the county would decide what would be done with the facility.

After some discussion, it was agreed that the clause would be deleted from the agreement. Wallace Ray of the State Highway Department also met with the Fiscal Court.

A benefit Gospel Singing will be held at Blue Springs School at 7:30 p.m., March 17, with the Rockcastle Gospelaires, Blue Grass Gospel Four, Junior Anglin and his Rockcastle Gospel Singers, and Wade Hopkins participating. All proceeds will go to our local Red Cross Chapter. Admission will be 50¢ per person.

ramblings... Riddle, Polly Are Named Head Coaches By School Board

Billy Riddle, coach for many years of the Broadhead Tigers basketball team, was hired Monday night as Head Coach of the forthcoming Rockcastle Rockets basketball team. The action came at the regular monthly meeting of the Rockcastle County Board of Education. Mr. Riddle is a native of Broadhead, a graduate of Eastern Kentucky University and has coached at Broadhead for the past 14 years. He is married to the former Carol Purcell and they have three children, Vicki Rae, a freshman at Somerset Community College; Cheryl, a sophomore at BIS and David, a fourth-grader. The board also named Glen Polly of East Bernstadt as Head Football Coach. Mr. Polly is a graduate of Whitesburg High School where he made all conference in football for three years and all-state his senior year.

Upon graduation from high school, he was offered athletic scholarships from eighteen colleges in the United States. He chose to attend the University of Kentucky and played there under Coach Paul "Bear" Bryant. After attending six semesters, Mr. Polly served for four years in the U.S. Navy during the Korean War after which he completed his education at Eastern Kentucky University. Upon graduation, he coached at Hiawatha High School in Barren County and during his tenure there was named Coach of the Year in that conference. From 1960 to 1962, Mr. Polly was Head Coach at Stanford High School and during his second year there led Stanford to a highly successful football season.

He is married to the former Louise Holbrook of Rockcastle County, daughter of the late Ben Holbrook, and they have two children, Mrs. Holbrook is a secretary at the Laurel County Board of Education. Named as assistant football coaches during the meeting were Larry Travis and Jim Cox. No assistant basketball coach was named. VOCATIONAL SCHOOL NOW PLANNING FOR 1972-73 There have been requests for a class at night in Radio & T.V. Repair at the Harry Sparks Vocational School. The class length is 2540 hours or 22 months as a full-time student. We can offer this course as a full-time class or one-half time class. Full-time is six hours per day - one-half time is three hours. The cost of the course is a $5.00 registration fee and $4.00 per month tuition or $2.00 per month for half time. If you are interested in this class, call or write the Harry Sparks Vocational School, P.O. Box 168, Mt. Vernon, or come to the school between 8 a.m. and 4 p.m. or phone 256-256-4346.

Other personnel hired by the board were Bud Parkers as principal at Mt. Vernon Elementary School; Bige Towery, Jr. and Kenneth Cornelius, as assistant principals of the Rockcastle County High School; Carl Cummins as principal of Broadhead Elementary School and E. Smith, principal of Livingston Elementary School. The board also opened bids for library furniture and school desks and chairs. Apparent low-bidder on the library furniture was Crown School Equipment of Paintsville who submitted a bid of $90,155.00. However, there were three bids submitted and the board, upon the recommendation of Superintendent Parsons, elected to hold off on awarding the contract until a library committee could visit sites where furniture from all three companies is located and make their recommendation to the board. The same decision was made concerning the bids which were opened for the school desks and chairs. The apparent low bidder for two of the seven items bid was School Supply of Lexington, Kentucky and equipment was low on four of them and Hadfield Film of Louisville on the seventh. In other action, the board opened bids for the school buses which were advertised for bid last month. There were two big buses and two panel buses put up for sale but bids were received only for the two big buses. High bidder for bus number 32 was Charles Hastly, who bid $106,000. Kenneth Waddle bid $100,000 for bus number 30. Also approved was the renewal of the board's contract with Superintendent Parsons. Mr. Parsons' old contract was scheduled to run out June 30 of this year. Mr. Parsons told the board that Kentucky Revised Statutes required a superintendent to leave the room while discussions were being held by the board concerning contract renewals. Mr. Parsons did so and while he was out of the room, board member Willie Taylor made a motion that Mr. Parsons' new contract was scheduled to run out June 30 of this year. Whether the State Department of Education will grant the "calamity days" this year is not known at this time. Superintendent Parsons asked the board for a motion requesting the days but also told the board that there had been no indication whether or not the five days would be granted. As in the past, since there have been only six days of school missed due to inclement weather, the board approved a motion that the five days be made up during Spring Vacation and at the end of the school year. The sending of applications to all certified teachers who are now teaching and those on leaves-of-absence was also approved by the board and one substitute teacher, Jerri Lynn Nunnelley, was approved subject to certification.

Tigers Are Runners-Up In 49th District Tournament

The Broadhead Tigers just couldn't get it the first half of the 49th District Championship game with Clay County played last Saturday night at Clay County and despite a strong rally in the fourth quarter were defeated 56 to 51. The Tigers had to play comeback ball from the beginning of the game and were soundly trounced on the boards and by some costly errors on their part during the first half of play. The score at the end of the first quarter was 16 to 10 and at the first half 33 to 17. The Tigers looked a little better in the third quarter when they outscored the Clay County Tigers 16 to 12 but were still down by 12 (44 to 31) at the end of the third quarter. However, the fourth quarter was a different story altogether as the Tigers really seemed to catch fire and for a while there it looked as if Clay County might suffer an upset. However, it was not to be as the Tigers just couldn't get any closer than three points with seconds left to play and with one second left in the game, Clayton Cash committed a desperation foul which Clay County coolly nullified for the five point win margin. Things look relatively bright for the Tigers in Regional play however. They drew into the lower bracket against Knox Central, a team which they lost to at Knox Central on December 4 by only four points. The winner of that game will face the winners of the Cumberland-Pineville game. The two top contenders in the region, Clay County and Middleboro are in the top bracket and should have a pretty easy time with their first opponents. Middleboro was scheduled to take on Whitley County Tuesday night in the first game with Clay County playing Lynch in the second game. The winners of these two games will meet Thursday night at 7:30 p.m. and the lower bracket semifinal will be held Friday night at 7:30 p.m. with the championship game set for Saturday night at 7:30 p.m.

Cedar Rapids Corner

Tickets for the "Spring Preview of Fashion" to be held Saturday night, March 25 at 8 p.m. at the Clubhouse are now on sale at Jean Faye Fashions in Mt. Vernon and at the Clubhouse. In Broadhead, advance tickets may be purchased from Mrs. Oona Kay Owens, Mrs. Betty Ann Glorik and Mrs. Barbara Owens. Clothes for the review will all be from stores in Rockcastle County and the models will also be ladies from the county. There will be musical entertainment and refreshments will be served. The public is cordially invited to attend. Admission will be $1.50 per person with children under 12 being admitted free.

The Broadhead Tigers took home the runners-up trophy from 49th District Tournament held last week at Clay County. The Tigers were defeated in the championship game by a score of 56 to 51 by Clay County. The Tigers had advanced to the finals by defeating Oostia and Ansville. Clay County drew a bye for the first-round play and defeated Jackson County for a berth in the finals.

John Nichols' Frankfort Watchline

Quite a flap has arisen over remarks made during the highly successful — if you count the people attending — Jefferson-Jackson Day Dinner of the Democrats in Frankfort.

It seems that John Y. Brown Jr., the Kentucky Fried Chicken millionaire, received laudatory comments from state Democratic chairman J.P. Miller, no less. Brown returned the compliment in one of the few speeches made at the affair.

The significance? Well, hardly 10 yards away was former Gov. Edward T. Breathitt, who reportedly has the pledge of Miller and Gov. Wendell Ford of support for the U.S. Senate in 1974 — after bowing out this year in favor of state Sen. Dee Huddleston.

"You'll be hearing from him in the future," Miller said of Brown.

This was enough to set political tongues wagging and news media speculating.

Does it mean the administration is reneging on its reported promise to support Breathitt. Or does it signify some other types of political maneuver?

The Breathitt people are upset and assert that the Miller-Ford pledge, which we shall assume was made, still stands.

Well, we're not going to extend ourselves on further speculation but this does prove one thing in politics: action now is worth far more than any promise for two years hence.

Breathitt had his chance this year, although the odds admittedly would have been against him — what with Huddleston having the administration and the money.

But the former governor's name still is well-known now ing hours — the seemingly insurmountable logjam of bills yet to be worked on, most of them doomed.

Wonder what became of the purported advantages from the new method of pre-filing bills well before the session got underway? *****

Water, Water, Everywhere — When Gov. Ford addressed the latest graduation class of State Police cadets in the Capitol Rotunda, one of his quips about "I understand the barracks were real clean last night" went past most of the press and onlookers.

Obviously, someone told the governor what happened on graduation eve in Frankfort. The new state troopers, deciding to have a party for one last time, had engaged in a massive water pistol fight.

Their superiors were furious and, you might say, put a wet blanket on everything by making the cadets clean up thoroughly before dawn. *****

the court to propose a supplemental agreement to the current county road aid program. This agreement will add 4 miles of the Cove Branch Road (CR 100) for maintenance beginning at Ky 1004 and extending 4 miles. The supplemental agreement was accepted by the Court.

Jerry Cox, representing the Northern Rockcastle County Water District, was at the meeting to request permission for water lines to be laid along right-of-way of county roads if necessary by the district. Permission for the laying of the lines was granted by the court.

The Court also turned down a request for $120 from the Cumberland Valley Area Development District. The request had come to the County in the form of a statement from the District stating it was for "financial responsibility" of the county. Since the bill was not self-explanatory enough, the Court refused payment on it.

GOVERNOR HALTS ISSUANCE OF STRIP-MINE PERMITS Governor Ford has directed the state Division of Reclamation to stop issuing new strip-mine permits for the first time in Kentucky history on an industry-wide basis.

A stop order was put on permits in Knott County two years ago after that county's fiscal court outlawed strip-ping there. It was lifted later after an opinion from the attorney general said the court lacked power to take such action.

William S. Wester, the governor's chief administrative assistant, said there is "no way to tell" how long the stoppage will last.

He said it is not, however, the beginning of a 60-90 day moratorium the governor had previously considered.

The stoppage does not affect operations under permits issued before Feb. 24.

LEARNING TO SEW—Rockcastle County women and girls are improving upon their basic sewing skills. Over sixty persons are participating in three sessions of a clothing workshop given by Cheryl Witt, County Extension Agent for Home Economics. The classes are meeting for eight weeks at the Farm Bureau building in Mt. Vernon. In the last class, each person who participated will "show off" the garment she made during the course. There will be advanced sewing classes given, sometime in the future, next fall or winter, as well as another class of basics. In the above photo are members of the Monday afternoon class. Mrs. Witt is demonstrating the proper method of putting in a zipper.

Consumer Will Benefit From New Labeling by F.T.C.

Consumers can look forward to more convenient information and added protection when they purchase wearing apparel in the very near future.

A recent ruling by the Federal Trade Commission will require that all articles of clothing, with a few logical exceptions, must bear permanent labels which clearly and simply disclose the washing and cleaning instructions for each item.

The new rule goes into effect on July 3 of this year. It means that all articles of clothing manufactured after July 3, must have labels with washing or cleaning instructions permanently attached to them rather than on throw-away tags which can easily be misplaced.

Thus, the consumer will always have at her fingertips the correct information to insure that she will not adversely ruin clothing by using the wrong method of cleaning.

Home sewers will benefit by the new rule too. All textiles and fabrics which are sold for the purpose of making wearing apparel must be accompanied by similar care labels which the home sewer can attach permanently to her article.

Manufacturers of both home sewing fabrics and wearing apparel are responsible for providing the labels for their products. The FTC specifically states that all labels must be designed to last as long as the articles to which they are attached, and must remain legible for the life of the garment.

Hosiery is included under the new rule. Exceptions are shoes, gloves, and items used exclusively as headwear. The Commission is also considering the possibility of exempting some low-priced items—probably those selling for $3 or less—but these must be completely washable in order to qualify for an exemption.

Imported apparel will be required to comply with the new rule as fully as clothing and textiles made in this country.

Consumers will benefit from the Commission's belief that technological advances in the apparel and cleaning industries have made clothing care a complex subject, easy to misunderstand. The FTC states in its ruling: "The large number of products on the market, each with different care performance characteristics, has made it almost impossible for consumers to be informed about any one product, much less an entire range of products."

The new rule will remedy this situation. Future labels must fully explain to the buyer of the article just what regular care and maintenance is necessary for the everyday use of the item. And, equally important, labels must state any treatment which could harm clothing.

Thus, consumers will know exactly what NOT to do, as well as possess the proper techniques to insure a long, good looking life for their clothing.

Here are two examples of how the new tags will read, according to FTC instructions: "Machine wash warm. Gentle cycle. Do not use chlorine bleach." Or this: "Hand wash cold. Do not twist or wring. Dry flat and reshape. Do not dry clean."

Of course, the consumer will have the responsibility of following instructions. If a blouse label calls for hand washing, but it gets tossed into the washing machine on a busy day, then the less-than-happy results can't be blamed on either the blouse or the manufacturer.

On the positive side, the consumer will no longer have to rely on memory when detachable tags have been lost, or resort to often-disastrous guesswork when tags or labels were incomplete, vague, or non-existent. Moreover, she'll no longer need to have instincts of a pack rat to collect, hoard, sort out and jot down identifying information on an unwieldy bundle of loose tags assembled over a period of months or even years.

Actually, it was a case where too much was not enough. Most labels in the past have been specific about listing content and finishes of various fabrics used in clothing, but tell little about how to care for them to keep them looking good longer.

Only one last problem remains for the consumer, once the new permanent labels are in the stores: how to read the new tags correctly. With the proliferation of fibers and fabrics, it can be confusing, and a misread tag is as useless as no tag at all.

Control Alfalfa Insects

The most important insect pest of alfalfa in Kentucky continues to be the alfalfa weevil although the seriousness of the pest has declined in the past few years. Weather conditions and weevil parasites have contributed to the decline, but diligent efforts on the part of growers to control the pest with pesticides probably account for most of the decline. Through judicious management and planning of spray schedules and cutting times, growers have succeeded in growing alfalfa profitably despite the weevil. The use of insecticides for weevil control involves several concerns. These include effectiveness of the material, harvest restrictions on the material, safety of use and cost of the material. No single insecticide ranks first in all these concerns. The choice of pesticides a grower uses depends on these concerns.

Relative to these concerns, an evaluation of the insecticides recommended by the Department of Entomology for alfalfa weevil control is as follows: Alfatox is a combination of diazinon and methoxychlor and keeps the weevil below economic limits 8 to 12 days. Despite this relatively long residual effect, as far as alfalfa pesticides go, it can be used as late as 7 days before cutting. It approaches the range of toxicity of azinphosmethyl, but does not require that the applicator wear a respirator. Its effectiveness remains good in the early season when temperatures are low. It is more expensive per treatment than some of the other insecticides.

Azinphosmethyl has relatively long residual effect lasting 8 to 12 days. It is moderately priced. Although it is not as hazardous as methylparathion, it requires application by a trained operator wearing a respirator. Many growers find it a good compromise between Alfatox and methyl parathion when considering cost and safety. It can be used only once per cutting and requires a 16 day wait from application to cutting.

Malathion is one of the least toxic insecticides to humans and can be used up to the day of harvest. It has a relatively short residual effect on weevils lasting 3-5 days. This combined with its effectiveness below 60 degrees F makes it a poor choice for early season control. It is a good choice near harvest time when poor haying conditions do not allow the alternative of cutting early.

Methoxychlor is the least toxic of the alfalfa insecticides but also has a short residual effect lasting 5-7 days. It does not lose its effectiveness like malathion does at lower temperatures. However, a spray program which only includes methoxychlor would raise the cost of control because of the number of times it would have to be used. There are 7 waiting days from last application to harvest.

Malathion and methoxychlor, commercially formulated, perform better than either of the ingredients used separately. It compromises cost, safety and effectiveness very little. The harvest restrictions require a 7 day wait.

It Will Pay To Renovate In 1972

Seldom in the history of agriculture in Kentucky has there been a greater need and opportunity to improve pastures and hay fields. With the open winter to date, and the excellent grazing season that has just been experienced, most Kentuckians have been able to leave animals out for longer than normal periods of time. Thus, pastures have been grazed closer than they have been at this time in the past decade. Conventional renovation by liming and fertilizing, mechanical tillage, smoothing and seeding to legumes in these fields is going to be easier in the spring of 1972 than in past years.

In other areas, labor and equipment are not available. Also time will be short to renovate as completely as most farmers would like. Because of close grazing, especially that of orchardgrass, timothy and bluegrasses and in many cases fescue, many farmers can seed the fields to legumes following fertilizing and liming, and tread the seed into the soil with animals.

A legume combination of red clover and ladino will work best in renovation or tramping. In conventional renovation, six to eight pounds of certified Kentucky red clover seed and one to two pounds of ladino clover should be used per acre. In top seeding and treading by animals, the seeding rate should be increased at least 20 to 25 percent.

For best results, these seedings should be made between February 10 and March 20.

Pesticide Emergency Information

Kentucky has a pretty good pesticide safety record. We haven't had any cases that have gained national attention but we have had some accidents that could have had serious consequences.

This winter a farm supply store burned, but two strokes of luck helped keep the danger down. First of all, the store was low in stock at the time of the fire, and secondly weather conditions carried the smoke high into the air over the town that was in the smoke's path. The fire and police departments were ready to evacuate the area in case the smoke blew into the town. In cases of warehouse fires or accidental spills of large quantities of dangerous pesticides, emergency squads should be aware of the extreme

Letter To The Editor

This is really not a letter to the editor but to all of our cheerleading squads in the county, past, present and future. I recently read an article in the Lexington Herald about cheerleading. I cannot remember exactly what was said but it was about cheerleaders not being appreciated and for people to remember the next time they went to a ballgame to think about what these girls had to do in order to be a cheerleader. They have to first of all keep their grades up to a certain standard. It takes a girl willing to work and work hard. They attend summer camps, practice every spare minute even during their summer vacations, and many other things that would take too long and too much space to go into. I thought about this Saturday night as I watched Clay County High School walk off with not only the first place trophy in basketball but also in cheerleading in our 4th district tournament. I was not a very good sport about it. I did and said some things I should not have said and for this I am sorry, but it is very hard for me to accept defeat the way it was handed out to the cheerleaders Saturday night. It is not only my opinion but the opinion of many others that say one of our three Rockcastle cheerleading squads was far superior to that of Clay Co. The judges were supposed to be done by impartial judges. This sounded like an ideal way for it to be done. The judges were to be sent out by K.A.P.O.S. The cheerleaders were to be judged the first night of competition only. I was there on Tuesday night when Livingston and Jackson Co. were to be judged so I spotted the judges and being "cheerleading fan" from way back I could not keep from watching, so naturally the next night when first Brodhead then Mt. Vernon was to be judged I watched for the judges again. They did not "show up" until about two minutes before the half of the Brodhead game. Well, a lot of cheers have been done by the time. Again on Friday night when Clay Co. was to be judged I was watching for the judges to make their appearance at the half they did just that, not knowing what had gone on before they got there, I mean as disrespect to the girls themselves only to the fact that they were voted as superior cheerleading squad. I would like to say here that Jackson Co. was second place winner, is an excellent group of cheerleaders.

Cong. Tim Lee Carter Carter Comments

The House of Representatives recently passed H.R. 10201, the Noise Control Act of 1972. "Several days before passage," said Congressman Tim Lee Carter of Kentucky, "I was trying to get clear in my mind on the way to work, just what I would say to my colleagues on the floor of the House to convince them that passage of this measure was essential."

"I cannot think of a better or more important piece of legislation for the health and emotional well-being of future generations than this one. It is a comprehensive, well-drawn plan that covers a problem too long left to its own noisy devices."

pose of his bill is to offer an alternative to capital punishment-life without parole-in the face of recent court decisions calling the practice unconstitutional.

COURT REMAP MEASURE FILED
 A bill to remap Kentucky's seven Court of Appeals districts was introduced in the House Representatives by Hopkinsville Democrat John Harkin III.

Louisville lawyers recently brought suit in U.S. District Court calling for reapportionment of the high court to conform with one man, one vote guidelines.

Measures already have been introduced to realign the state's congressional and legislative districts.

Harkin said the incumbent judges on the court have agreed to his plan which contained no population figures.

The U.S. District Judge Mac Swinford has ruled that three per cent deviation from the ideal population level would be acceptable.

BILL WOULD REPEAL MEDIA DISCLOSURE STATUTE
 Rep. Stanley Searcy, R-Jeffersonville, introduced two bills that would strip the news media of protection from disclosing sources of information and the right to examine court proceedings and write about them.

Searcy's first measure would repeal Kentucky Revised Statute 421.00, which prohibits compelling a person to reveal the source of "any information procured or obtained by him and published in a newspaper or by a radio or television station by which he is employed or engaged."

The other measure would eliminate KRS 432.240 which prohibits courts from prosecuting persons who examine court records for publication.

The statute relating to news sources was enacted in 1952 and now is part of a suit before the U.S. Supreme Court.

AMENDMENT GETS APPROVAL
 A cluster amendment that would relieve an old legislative problem concerning the number of constitutional amendments that can be submitted to a vote of the people was favorably reported by the Senate Elections and Constitutional Amendments Committee.

The state Constitution allows only two amendments to be placed before the people at one time but the measure reported would group several amendments under one proposal.

Grouped under the Senate bill are:

- * An amendment allowing sheriffs to succeed themselves.
- * A proposal to elect a seven-member state Board of Education which then would appoint a state superintendent of public instruction.
- * An amendment to abolish the Railroad Commission.

The House is expected to pass a second amendment calling for judicial reform.

The House bill and the Senate measure then would form the two amendments that could be submitted to the voters next year.

MEASURE SEEKS TO ENCOURAGE GENETIC
 Other measures signed include one allowing certain types of activity, including trade, on Sunday and permitting local governments to enact their own ordinances concerning Sunday activity.

Also signed was a congressional reapportionment bill, a resolution authorizing the Legislative Research Commission to study a new Uniform Habit Code and a resolution authorizing the state unemployment compensation laws.

I feel like the judging was unfair to them too. Was all this important judging??? If so, why should we send our girls to camp, let them see all of their time and energy practicing, knowing to worry about every little detail being just right, crying their eyes out over a lost ball game, trying to keep "crowd control" when the squad that walked off with first place in our tournament does none of these things. Yet we cannot give up on this (it these things) which are making our cheerleading squads superior even if our "judges" do not agree. So have faith girls, we'll be back in there trying twice as hard next year.

"Cost of electric heat?"

Mr. Dennis Kirby of London, Ky.

I spend more for gasoline!"

A man and his car! But as Mr. Kirby admits, a comfortable home for his family comes first. So the Kirbys converted to the best — flameless electric heat. Yet their annual bill of $175 is less than keeping their car on the road. Electricity spends nothing up into the sky either! And as any car owner will appreciate, electric heat means farewell to maintenance costs.

There are several types of electric heat. But your present ductwork makes it especially easy to convert to an electric furnace. Contact our nearest office for a free cost estimate.

Electric heat... for a cleaner home, a cleaner world!
