Eggs in Your Easter Basket —

Eggs you hardcook for your kiddies' Easter basket or egg roll don't have to be written off as a playful expense. If they're properly cooked, not out of the refrigerator long, and eaten within a day or two, they can do double duty for the family and the Easter bunny set.

In plentiful supply and low priced, it would still be a shame to let this high-protein nutritious food either deteriorate in quality or end up in the garbage disposal. And so, here are some timely tips for cooking, storing, and eating them up while they're still in top condition.

To hardcook, cover eggs completely with cold water in a pan. Bring slowly to simmering, and allow to simmer 20 to 25 minutes. Do not let the water boil. (Or, cover pan and remove it from burner when the water for that Spring-time '72 wardrobe, there's plenty of new and not so new fashions to choose from.

The layered look and nautical look are both strong this spring. Helmines can be almost anywhere — within reason. And the natural look dominates all designers. As for coats, the short coat that is snug through the shoulders and flares at the hemline, is here in the coat department, as well as the short sleeved coat that can be worn over long sleeved dresses. Shirts and caps are also used for co-ord-inates.

Suits are popular in the layered look. The Safari suit is popular. Also popular are pleated skirts, cardigan jackets, blouses, and sleeveless jackets or vests.

Dresses are creating a stir. The newest shapes are the princess and bias-cut tent dresses. The romantic look is emphasized with soft fabrics, soft lines, flowing skirts, lace trims, bows, jabots, ruffles and flounces. The '30's look and the oriental look are both very popular. The hand-crafted look is seen with embroidery, crocheting, knitting and macrame. You may want to use one of these crafts to do a personal touch to your spring wardrobe.

For evening, the halter dress and off-the-shoulder look is darling and glamorous.

Sportswear comes in strong with the layered look and the nautical look being out in front. Pants are still 'in' with intricate detail on the wide legs. Red, white, and navy are popular, and fabric designs with symbols of fruits, flowers, animals, and people.

Accessories play a role in the complete ensemble. An outfit may be updated by adding a well chosen accessory. Gloves are short. Dress shoes continue to have a higher, slimmer heel with an almond shaped toe. Casual shoes have a wider heel and wider toes. Platform soles and wedge heels are reminiscent of the 40's and 50's. Handbags are leading in popularity with a combo of suede and smooth patent. Decorations are in tortoise shell.

Hats are coming back. They're being trying anyway. The rolled back brim hat is new.

Jewelry is of enamel pins of fruits, flowers and animals. The oriental look is important here too as well as the hand-crafted look.

Scarves are used in the layered look with nautical combinations of red, white and blue.

Colors for spring are the nautical — red, white and blue. Colors are softer leather tones and light pastels with white, brown, green, and sky blues blue s shown. Fabric emphasis is on gingham, seersucker, madras, denim, chino, calico and hopsacking for the sports look. Romantic fabrics are the soft, sheer fabrics — organza, voile, batistas, dotted Swiss, crepe, satin and tulle. Knits are still very popular with more variety in design, texture and colors.

hot places like radiators. Refrigerate eggs again as soon as possible and use within one or two days.

They'll keep either in or out of the shell. But if the shells are removed, protect the eggs with a film wrap. To remove shell, crackle it all over first, then start peeling from the large end. If shell sticks, peel egg under cold running water.

Cooked eggs are good in salads and sandwich fillings, deviled and for dips and canapés. They're useful and nutritious in many casseroles. They make a good luncheon or supper dish stirred up in white sauce, — alone or with tuna, ham, or dried beef, — and served over toast, crackers, potatoes or rice.

Easter Parade Fashions

Perhaps you have already purchased that "Easter Outfit" or maybe you will be doing so next week. If you are looking for that Spring-time '72 wardrobe, there's plenty of new and not so new fashions to choose from.

NATIONAL GUARD TO SOLICIT FUNDS FOR EASTER SEAL DRIVE

The Richmond National Guard will participate in the 1972 Easter Seal Telephone March 25 and 26 and be setting up road blocks to collect contributions for the Kentucky Easter Seal Society.

Roadblocks will be operated by the Richmond unit Saturday, March 25 from noon to 8 p.m. and Sunday from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. at Mt. Vernon, Berea and Richmond.

You may also call contributions to Mrs. Wayne Stewart, Mt. Vernon, Rockcastle County Chairwoman on these dates at 256-3528.

FBLA CHAPTER AT VOCATIONAL SCHOOL.

Future Business Leaders of America is a nonprofit organization. Students who are enrolled in business programs are eligible for membership in a local chapter. Most local chapters are under the supervision of a state chapter and all work within the framework of the national organization. Members of the business faculty serve as advisers of local chapters.

There is a local chapter of FBLA here in Rockcastle. It is at the Harry Sparks Vocational School at Mt. Vernon.

There are seven FBLA officers. Each officer should be competent, interested, and ambitious. Students seeking office in the organization should be aware of the responsibilities involved, be ready to cooperate with the advisor and the membership, and be willing to spend the time required to carry out official duties.

Two groups are involved in FBLA at the Harry Sparks Vocational School. There is a morning group and an evening group.

The morning group officers are: Brenda Collins, president; Zella Rader, vice president; Gayle Kelley, secretary; Cathy Oliver, treasurer; Joyce Whitt and Cathy Allen, reporters; Lois Arnold, historian; Kathy Mink, parliamentarian.

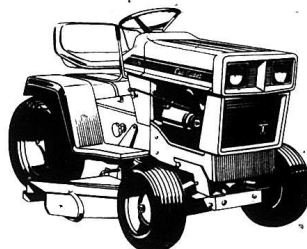

The evening group officers are: Brenda Almy, president; Paul Barnett, vice president; Debbie Coffey, secretary; Judy Hansel, treasurer; Gayle Sargent and Alberta Blasty, reporters; Louise Proctor, historian; Betty Cameron, parliamentarian.

Some of the FBLA purposes are: To strengthen the confidence of young men and women in themselves and their work; Encourage young persons to improve the home and community; Develop character, prepare for useful citizenship, and promote patriotism; Encourage improvement in scholarship and promote school loyalty; Improve and establish standards for entrance into business occupations; Develop competent, aggressive business leadership.

In carrying out these purposes, each girl should pledge: I do solemnly promise to uphold the aims and responsibilities of the Future Business Leaders of America and, as an active member, I shall strive to develop the qualities necessary in becoming a business leader.

BEFORE YOU CAN EVEN SAY "HELP" BILL LOWE IS THERE.

And you would have met him last April 10, if you'd been living at 80 St. Mark's Place on New York's Staten Island.

That night over 100 families were forced out of their apartments by a five-alarm blaze. And Bill was on the scene.

Not as a fireman, or a policeman, or even a fire buff. But as a Red Cross Volunteer. Rushing to find some beds for people in a nearby church. Rounding up sweaters and pants and shoes for people who'd lost just about everything. And passing around sandwiches and coffee to weary firemen and reporters.

That fire — and Bill's 7 hours on the scene — didn't make very big headlines in your morning paper. It wasn't that kind of "major disaster." But because there was a need for such assistance, the Red Cross was there to help. With volunteers like Bill.

Red Cross Volunteers — America's best neighbors — are the backbone of services like these, all across the country. People who give their time. And themselves.

Maybe you don't have a whole lot of hours to give to the Red Cross every month.

But think a little. Where do you fit in? The American Red Cross.

Liberalized Food Stamp Regulations In Effect

Liberalized federal Food Stamp Program regulations now are in effect in Kentucky, Garnet Johnson, Acting Commissioner of the department of Economic Security, announced today. "Persons already certified for Food Stamp participation will receive increased benefits this month," he said. "The Department is presently certifying persons that have become eligible because of the new regulations."

The new regulations redefine income and resources for recipients. A family of four will have an income exclusion of $160 as compared to $235 under the old regulations.

The allotment of food stamps has been increased for a family of four from $106 to $108. The cost of these stamps has been reduced and varies according to the amount of income the family has.

The new regulations establish uniform income and resource eligibility standards for all states.

Under the new definition of households, all members of a household under 60 years of age must be related by blood, affinity, or through a legal relationship sanctioned by state law for the household to be eligible for food stamps.

Stamps will be issued free to one and two-person households with incomes under $20 per month and to all other households with incomes under $30. The new Food Stamp law sets work registration as an eligibility requirement for all households containing an able-bodied member between 18 and 65, unless that member is responsible for dependent children under 18 or of incapacitated adults, a student enrolled at least half time in a school or training program, or working at least 30 hours per week. Elderly participants who are disabled or feeble now can use food stamps to pay for meals delivered to them by a non-profit meal delivery service, if available.

Estimates indicate that the liberalized Food Stamp regulations can result in at least a 35 percent increase in the number of Food Stamp participants. If realized, this would increase the number of eligible persons from 300,000 to 405,000 in the 73 counties where the program is in operation.

As a result of these liberalized regulations, the bonus benefits of the program that ran about $54 million during the last fiscal year could move to $90 million next year. After July 1, administrative arrangements will be made for implementation of the Food Stamp program in Carroll, Greene, Jessamine, Robertson and Webster counties.

Somerset Skate Arena

Harold, Arlee, Tammy, and Jody Dagley

The Somerset Skate Arena, located at S. Main Street in Somerset, phone 679-3554 is a social gathering place where you meet your friends and can enjoy skating as a pleasant pastime.

There are a few people, who yet think that skating is a child's pastime, but it has grown in popularity in the last few years, and especially with the young people, until today it is a favorite pastime, affording clean, healthful, invigorating exercise, keen competition and makes one enjoy life all the more. This rink is a favorite with the skaters in this part of the state. They have both afternoon and evening sessions and invite you to call them for reservations for groups and private parties. If you are giving a party and don't know quite what to do, make a reservation at the Somerset Skate Arena for a skating party. This Town and Country Review of 1972 and its staff give our compliment to this community minded concern.

SCENES FROM THE STATE TOURNAMENT

BRODHEAD VS. WARREN EAST

"KY. LEGISLATIVE REPORT"
(Cont. From 2)

Larry LaFavers, Brodhead's #44, junior goes up for a lay-up. It looks like there was a little hanky-panky going on by Warren-East's No. 24 but the referee must not have thought so because he didn't call it.

Senior Tommy Mullins going in for one of his lay-ups which worked so beautifully for the Tigers during the season and tournament play.

Getting a few pointers from Coach Bill Riddle is the junior Ronnie Brown. Brown will no doubt help form the nucleus of Coach Riddle's County-Wide team next year.

Brown going for a jump shot. As can be seen, there were very few vacant spots left for anyone else under the basket after Warren-East got their position and No. 42 for East, Johnny Britt, seen in the above photo, is only listed at 6'7 1/2" but could be jump for that rebound.

In case you missed it in all the action, the ball is behind No. 24's head. Mullins tried for a lay-up, was caught between two players and called for walking on the play?

Larry LaFavers goes up for two with a little company under the goal in the form of three Warren-East players.

bly a $100 per month raise in expense allowances and corrected a mistake it made earlier. As originally passed, House Bill 401 only granted raises for appellate and circuit judges, but the Senate added an amendment raising legislators' expense allowances also and sent the measure back to the House for approval.

The House passed the measure 46 to 30, although at the time no one realized the bill required 51 votes since the Constitution requires that number to pass appropriations bills. The measure was then brought up for reconsideration and, this time, passed 57-28, giving it the required number of votes.

The bill increased the legislators' monthly allowance from $300 to $400, increased the annual salary of Court of Appeals judges from $26,000 to $29,000 and added circuit judges' salaries from $17,500 to $23,500. Appeals Court commissioners salaries were also increased, from $22,500 to $25,000 per year.

House Votes 3-1 to Kill Off-Track Betting

A bill to allow off-track betting in Kentucky died quietly at the starting gate as it was tabled in the House on a 61-20 vote.

The measure was opposed primarily on moral grounds although its sponsors, Rep. Jerry Kleier, D-Louisville, and Rep. Bruce Blythe, R-Columbia, said it would provide a "gold mine" of needed revenue as well as license and control a flourishing illegal business.

To make the bill more palatable, a committee substitute was added that would return half the revenue from the licensing of bookies to schools in districts where they operate.

It also provided for legalization of off-track wagering on a local-option basis. Opponents still attacked the bill as having had effects on public morals and on the racing business.

State Will Pay Utility Relocation Costs

The Senate unanimously passed a bill requiring the state Highway Department to pay for moving poles, pipes and other facilities of publicly owned utilities when required in federal-aid highway construction.

Already passed by the House, the measure now goes to Governor Ford for signing. Payment for relocation of such facilities has long been a problem and some 52 publicly owned water, sewer and gas utilities now owe the state $437,168 for relocation work completed before 1970.

Relocations normally are done by highway contractors, who then bill the costs to the utilities. The measure would require the state to pay for relocations made only after Jan. 1, 1972.

However, legislators say its passage probably will enforce the Highway Department's current policy of not pressing for payment of past debts.

Two New Councils Signed Into Law

Gov. Wendell H. Ford signed into law 17 more bills passed by the General Assembly, including measures to establish a Governor's Council on Agriculture and revamp the current Council on Public Higher Education.

The later measure would allow the governor to appoint all new members to the council or reappoint incumbents at his discretion and increase the number of lay members to 10.

In addition the bill would add the state school superintendent as a voting member of the council and the presidents of state-supported universities as non-voting members.

It also would give university status to Kentucky State College. The agriculture council, to be selected by the governor, would be authorized to "develop and promote agriculture and agriculturalness at the local, state and national levels."

Other measures signed would protect endangered species of animals, grant compensatory time to state employes in supervisory positions and increase the membership of the state Public Service Commission.

MOUNT VERNON, KENTUCKY 40456

VOLUME 83 - NUMBER 28

THURSDAY, MARCH 23, 1972

HERE'S WHERE IT ALL STARTED— about a mile south of Mt. Vernon at the Big Hill Curve, 33 L & N Railroad Cars and 2 locomotives derailed Tuesday afternoon. The top photo shows the three locomotives pulling the cars. The first locomotive didn't leave the tracks, the second one tilted at about a 45 degree angle with a crew member riding in it and the third one completely left the tracks and is shown lying upon the embankment. The train was enroute from Louisville to Corbin when the derailment occurred. Railroad officials have not yet learned the cause of the derailment. Three of the cars contained sulfuric acid and one of the tanks ruptured when it left the tracks. The acid went underground and at present, the Rockcastle County Health Department is assisting railroad personnel in trying to learn where the acid will surface. Herman Moore, Rockcastle Sanitarian, said that he felt with the rain we received late yesterday afternoon and the fact that this is a limestone county, there should be very little if any damage from the acid. Railroad personnel are liming the area where the acid fell. One of the box cars, reportedly containing potatoes, caught fire after the derailment and the wreck was in such an inaccessible area, county fire personnel were unable to reach it to help extinguish it, however, the rain which arrived later took care of any immediate danger from the fire. The bottom photo shows some of the cars immediately behind the engine's first one loaded with steel.

Ministers Charged With Vagrancy

Two non-denominational ministers have been charged with vagrancy and lodged in the Rockcastle County Jail pending trial March 28. In quarterly court, a strange tale of events led up to the men's arrest Tuesday, March 14 in their apartment at Mt. Vernon Tourist Court by Sheriff Billy Kirby on warrants obtained by Jim Brown and Robert Sigmon.

The men, Dugley Zinke, 20, of Cincinnati, Ohio and Paul Clark, 26, of Baltimore, Maryland, were traveling on Interstate-75 Wednesday, March 1 when their 1963 Volkswagen bus broke down. They had been taken the outskirts of London by a couple also traveling on the Interstate. After reporting their breakdown to State Police at London, the men walked on into town and were promptly picked up by City Police men and taken to county police headquarters. They were not charged but, according to them, were "harassed" by the police. To make a long story short, their time in London was very brief. The police contacted a minister with offices at Marymount Hospital and after the men had been treated to a meal, they were taken to the bus station by the minister and put on a bus for Mt. Vernon. Their car had been picked up earlier from the Interstate by a wrecker from here.

Upon their arrival here, late Wednesday evening, the men attended church services at the Mt. Vernon Christian Church and when the congregation learned of their troubles promptly secured a room for them for the night at a local tourist court.

According to the men, the next morning they went in search of a place where they could shelter until they could find work to get money to live on and to fix their car. They finally decided to stay in some woods on U.S. 25 just north of the Renfro Valley exit of Interstate-75. From there, the men walked back toward town asking for work at various business places along the way. They were turned down at all the places and spent Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights, March 2, 3 and 4, in the woods.

On Sunday, March 5, they returned to the Mt. Vernon Christian Church and at this time, the congregation decided to pay for a week's lodging at Mt. Vernon. They then got talking during that night. The next day, the men acquired work and money enough to get their car out of the nature of the complaint for Mrs. Clark at the tourist court, during their time off in the evening, they said they went to county police headquarters and those who answered their knock about Christ.

Evidently, some of those who answered the men's knock, didn't like being disturbed by them because according to County Judge Charles Carter, several of them called him to lodge complaints about the two men. This brought on a visit to them by Sheriff Billy Kirby Saturday, March 11, telling them that Judge Carter wished to talk with them in his office at the courthouse.

Upon their arrival there, Mr. Zinke and Mr. Clark were told by the Judge that he had received several complaints about them, but, according to the men, the nature of those complaints, and that they would like to quit "preaching." Mr. Clark told this reporter that at no time during their evangelizing did they beg for money or ask

MIDGET BASKETBALL TOURNAMENT IS APR. 7 & 8

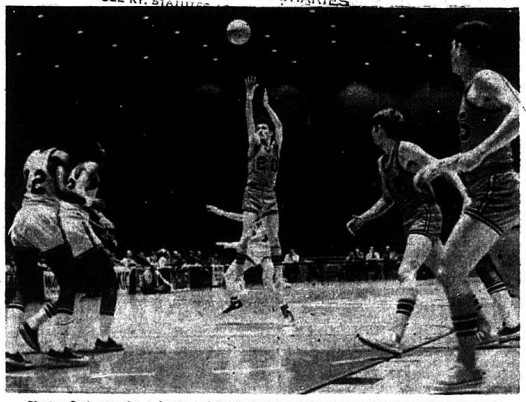

The Livingston Lions Club will again sponsor the annual Midget Basketball Tournament on Friday and Saturday nights, April 7 and 8, at the Livingston Gymnasium.

Game time will be 7 p.m. and admission will be 50c for students and 75c for adults.

The four county schools will participate in the tournament, the proceeds from which will be used to buy glasses for needy children.

You have seen a lot of good basketball this year, but you haven't seen the little boys play. Come out and support them.

Clayton Cash goes for a free one at the charity line during Brodhead's state tournament game with Warren-East last Thursday night in Louisville. The Tigers bounced back from a six-point deficit in the first half and at the end of first half play, the score was knotted 29-29. Cash tied with Tommy Mullins for high-point honors of 19 points each in the game which ended with Brodhead being 69-59. The Tigers were playing a tough team, one of Warren-East's players, Johnny Britt, (No. 42) scored 29 points against Brodhead and was later named to the all-state tournament team. You can't say too much however in the way this year's Tigers handled themselves on the ball floor during the season and tournament play and we are looking forward to seeing another fine basketball season from some of the returning Tigers and other players at the two high schools when they are all reconvened at the Rockcastle Rockets under Coach Bill Riddle next year.

Frankfort Watchline

It's an axiom of politics that every new Kentucky administration finds itself rather unpopular after the first few months.

Hence, the allies of Democratic Gov. Wendell Ford, who succeeded the first Republican regime in a generation, profess no great worry about reports and rumors that Ford has become unpopular.

Time, they say, will heal the wounds stemming from patronage matters, misunderstandings about commitments, the imposition of unexpected new taxes.

And it's true that after the unity and good fellowship involved in winning a gubernatorial election, especially for Ford who at first was an underdog—the bickering inevitably begins.

Moreover, a new governor is prone to make many more mistakes than one seasoned by a couple of years in the big chair and with a legislative session behind him.

Even so, we're guessing the Ford administration is more unpopular than would have been anticipated after inauguration day last December.

But wait, that does not necessarily mean it is more unpopular, say, than the Republican administration of Gov. Louie B. Nunn was at the corresponding time in 1968.

Nunn promised no new or added taxes, but he imposed them. Ford promised no new or added taxes except for the severance levy, but imposed others anyway.

That's just one reason for the grumbling of unknown proportions against Ford. The others range from vague misgivings about legislation such as the industrial loan bill, which the administration pushed rather than, to patronage matters, which always plague a new governor. True patronage this time is being handled from state Democratic headquarters. But the link with the administration is unavoidable. And if many of the party faithful are not getting the job they expected, Ford cannot avoid absorbing the sour fallout.

Session of Miracles—It's a safe bet that the three months of lawmaking hubbub just over here will be stuck in the minds of many for a long time for several reasons.

May we offer this as one motive for giving the '72 session a place of honor: Though we have no records to prove it, we've probably been through a legislative term that's produced more successful attempts to revise controversial legislation than any other.

Bills that were tabled, gutted, recommitted or killed in any other of the various methods that lurk deep in the recesses of parliamentary ambush were given miraculous new life time after time.

A classic example is the much-argued industrial loan bill. It seemed buried, and then sprang alive. And there was Louisville Home Rule. That, too, seemed to have died an early death, but was resurrected.

Behind much of this mind-changing was a forceful administration which was able to overcome, through either a subtle tug or a forceful arm twist, some unexpected rays of independence.

Looking back on this aspect of the three months, Minority Leader Harold DeKamers labeled it "the session of the walking dead."

COLONEL HONORED—Gov. Wendell Ford presents Colonel Harland Sanders of fried-chicken fame a certificate designating him a "Kentucky Goodwill Ambassador." Lt. Gov. Julian Carroll and Sanders' wife, Claudia, look on. The presentation followed the adoption of a Senate resolution proclaiming March 10 Colonel Sanders Day in Kentucky. (Karen Tam Photo)

What About us?—I'll be a while yet before we can turn in grades on the just-past legislative performance. But what about the lawmakers' attitude towards the news media?

That may be a while in coming too. But there are clues:

• Succumbing to temptation and keeping reporters out of a previously-announced open hearing on the turkey incident, after being almost three months in the House without closing one committee meeting; running out of engraved invitations for reporters to the traditional Assembly Return Ball, for the first time in ten or so years; and in a classic example of overreaction, restricting use of the House floor to reporters, after a photographer snapped a picture of a lawmaker asleep at his desk.

And, of course, there was the death of the bill that would have opened public meetings to both the press and the taxpayers.

Ky. Legislative Report

Environmental Agency Vain Senate Approval

The state Senate took a major step in governmental reorganization with the passage of a bill creating a centralized Department of Environmental Protection.

Such an umbrella agency for controlling environmental affairs was one of Gov. Wendell H. Ford's major campaign promises.

The bill, which already has passed the House, now goes back to that body for concurrence in some amendments adopted by the Senate. If the House concurs, expected, the bill then goes to Governor Ford for his signature.

The new department, to begin life Jan. 1, 1973, absorb the duties of the air and water pollution control commissions and the Division of Reclamation, as well as certain environmental responsibilities now handled by the Health Department.

It also permits any citizen to sue for enforcement of any environmental law or regulation. The environmental protection commissioner will be empowered to adopt regulations, issue abatement orders or grant exemptions from such regulations.

An amendment added by the Senate would bring truck and automobile noise under the new Public Defender Measure Goes to Governor.

The state Senate passed a bill to Governor Ford to bring Kentucky its first state-wide public defender system.

defense of needy persons serious criminal cases. It would allow the governor to appoint a state public defender who would then select district defenders for Kentucky judicial districts.

Also, districts would be set up to establish their own defense programs, in which case local circuit courts would appoint defenders.

Counties with judicial districts containing 10 or more districts judges would be required to establish a public defender office and smaller judicial districts may establish a plan appointed counsel.

Costs of the program would be shared by both state and local governments.

Legislative, Judicial Compensation Measure Gains Final Approval

After some early problems the House passed a bill giving members of the General Asser

Pussy Willows have tiny velvet balls about the size of a new kitten's paw and japonica bushes are sprouting pink buds. Even the casual observer can notice nature's way of announcing spring in signs and tokens, though snow could spit in the air and nights remain clear and cold. It is a time to get outside, take a drive through the country on a Sunday afternoon or spend a day in one of Kentucky's state parks. Even better would be to camp in a state park area some week end soon and forget the cold of winter, slush of snow, glitter of ice. Such a week end would allow you to unwind like a ball of yarn, the kinks working their way out until finally you are as relaxed as a clod of fruit tree blossoms resting lightly on the waters of Greenbo or Dewey Lake. It is a time to fish, a time to boat, a time to hike. It also is a time to walk a crooked path up a hollow and marvel at the surety of spring, of warmth, wildflowers and a country turned green. Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Ray Cobb

Bowling - Cobb

Miss Alice Precia Bowling, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kermit Bowling of Mt. Vernon, and Kenneth Ray Cobb, son of Mr. and Mrs. Burnam Cobb, also of Mt. Vernon, were united in marriage Friday night, February 25 in a double-ring candle-lit ceremony at the First Baptist Church in Mt. Vernon with Rev. Ray Cummins officiating.

Mrs. Ray Cummins presented a program of wedding music at the organ.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was attired in a floor-length gown of white crepe with a front lace panel and her bell-shaped sleeves were also of lace. The floor-length veil was held by a crown of seed pearls and she carried a bouquet of white carnations, baby's breath and greenery.

Mrs. Vincenta Howard served as matron of honor. She wore a salmon-colored floor-length gown with matching hair ribbon and carried salmon colored carnations.

Judy Fain of Mt. Vernon was the bridesmaid and was attired in a gown identical to that of the matron-of-honor.

Cassandra McCauley served as flower girl. She was also attired in a salmon-colored floor-length gown and carried a basket of white rose petals.

Larry Howard of Mt. Vernon served as best man and Dwight Hoskins, brother of the bride, was usher. Chet Bowling, brother-of-the-bride, was ring bearer.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held in the basement of the church. The bride's table was decorated with a bouquet of white and salmon colored carnations and was centered with a three-tiered wedding cake. Serving at the reception were Mrs. Hazel Owens, Mrs. Terry Burdette and Mrs. Russell Robbins. The guest book was kept by Eva Jean Cobb, sister of the groom.

After a short wedding trip, the couple are making their home in Mt. Vernon. Mr. Cobb is employed in construction work and Mrs. Cobb is a sophomore at Somerset Community College.

Live Totally Modern with "Total Electric"

Let's face it, flameless electricity is the modern way to live! Electricity is the cleanest, safest power you can buy. What better reason to buy a total electric home? Every aspect of home life takes on a clean, healthy, enjoyable atmosphere when your home is totally electric.

If you want clean, flameless efficiency in your heating and central air conditioning system, kitchen appliances, laundry equipment, and water heater - electricity is your only choice! And you don't have to fret about fuel lines, pilot lights, combustion chambers and unworkable fumes.

Whether you are buying a new home, or remodeling your present home, be sure to include clean, flameless total electric living in your plans. Your Rural Electric system can help you "live modern." Ask them for details on living electrically.

Electricity — the cleanest energy you can use.

Spring Time - Clean Up Time

Springtime is clean-up time. Those who care about the beauty of the countryside, especially the beauty of the new life in grass, leaves, and flowers, will try to clean up the litter and trash that people have dumped along the roadsides since the last clean-up. Each year it gets to be a bigger job because people are discarding more waste each year. Every county road has a roadside dump and most of them are real eyesores.

An engineering firm in Lexington has developed a plan for a solid waste collection system for Rockcastle County. If this plan could be put into operation, there should not be any need for an annual clean-up because the county should stay clean.

The plan calls for metal containers to be located at convenient points throughout the county where people could leave their waste. These containers would be emptied weekly and the waste taken to a sanitary landfill. The equipment needed for this system could be purchased at a cost of less than one dollar per family per month.

This plan was prepared for the Appalachian Environmental Health Demonstration Project and it was financed through a grant from the Appalachian Regional Commission.

The plan includes a list of the containers to be needed, the location of the sites for the containers, the routes that trucks would use to service the containers, the number of workers that would be needed, and a breakdown of the operating costs. There is a possibility that the Appalachian Regional Commission would make a grant of eighty percent of the cost of the equipment for this system provided the county would agree to put the plan into operation.

At a meeting of the people in the county willing to pay a small fee for a system that everyone could use and thus stop the roadside dumping? The people who have house-to-house pick-up could continue to have this service if they wish to pay for it. But many people living in a rural area cannot afford a house pick-up service. The container system does provide for a convenient method of solid waste disposal for everyone at a very reasonable price. Roadside dumping will probably continue until such a system is put in operation. Wouldn't it be nice to clean-up and stay clean.

Grass Tetany Poses Threat to Cows

Grass tetany is a killer which can strike cows without warning. And it occurs most frequently when they are grazing lush grasses such as those common in the early spring. Grass tetany is a metabolic disorder characterized by low levels of magnesium in the blood. It often hits cows which are nursing very young calves. The malady strikes rapidly, and a cowman may not know it is present until he finds one of his best cows dead. It may be the same "we" which looked okay only a few hours earlier.

Tetany is a particular danger at the time of the year when the grass has just started to grow but there is not yet enough of it to satisfy the nutrient needs of the cows. The cowman sees the grass starting to grow and slows down or stops feeding hay. That seems to be the time when cows are most susceptible, although tetany can strike at any time.

The best cows in the herd are often the ones which are stricken. Symptoms of grass tetany include nervousness, irritability, frequent urination, and hypersensitivity. The heartbeat is rapid and loud. Affected cows will appear ill at rest and walk at a stiff gait, and may go into convulsions. Ewes can also be victims, and are affected in the same way as cows.

The tetany problem is growing as cow numbers increase and pasture fertilization becomes more common. The metabolism of the grass seems to be involved, and cows grazing on high potash soils or on ground which has been heavily fertilized with potassium and nitrogen are more likely to become victims.

Temperature change also affects grass and can trigger a tetany outbreak. The danger period comes when a sudden spell of cold, cloudy weather comes after several warm days.

There are two recommendations to ward off the tetany problem. One is for herds which have never had a tetany problem. In this case animals should be self-fed mineral salt bonemeal supplement. This can be put together with the basic ingredients or purchased as a commercial mineral supplement. Vitamin A should also be included at the rate of 30,000 I.U. per ounce of mixture.

The other plan is for cowmen who have previously experienced a tetany problem. They should feed two pounds per head per day of grain which has magnesium oxide mixed in at the rate of about one ounce per pound. This can be hand-fed or put together in a grain-mineral-salt mixture. Adding salt at a level of 25 percent will allow self-feeding. The rate of Vitamin A should be 15-20,000 I.U. per pound.

For additional details and information on rations for combating tetany, stop in at the Rockcastle County Extension office.

Buy Quality Seed for Best Results

No one would buy a new car or tractor without comparing models and specifying accessories. Yet each year many people buy run-of-the-mill seed and expect maximum returns. This is the time of the year when many farmers and urban dwellers are buying seed for planting farm crops as well as home lawns and recreation areas. Too often they buy seed on cost alone without concern for quality.

How can the average buyer check for quality when purchasing seed? The best way is to read the label. Kentucky law requires that all seed bought, sold or offered for sale in the state carry a label. The label provides a means of comparing several important factors, and the buyer must know and understand these factors to determine the best seed buy.

The seed buyer should use the label to check and compare these items: 1. Kind and variety. It is important to select the kind (such as Kentucky bluegrass) and variety which is best adapted to the area and has the highest potential yield and resistance to disease. A list of "Recommended Crop Varieties for Kentucky" available at the County Extension Office provides information on varieties recommended for this area.

2. High mechanical purity. A high quality seed lot will have a high percentage of crop seed and low percentages of objectionable weed seed, other crop seed and inert material. It will also be free of noxious weed seeds, which are indicated on the seed tag. 3. Germination. To produce an adequate stand under field conditions, the seed lot must be high germination so that seedlings will develop into healthy, vigorous plants. 4. Adaptation and origin. The origin of the seed lot is listed on the tag and denotes the state or country where the seed was grown. This helps determine what area a seed is adapted to. In most cases, locally produced seed with high germination, mechanical purity and genetic purity is superior to imported seed.

All lots of seed bearing the certified "Blue Tag" have been field inspected and seed inspected for genetic purity.

No one was injured in the derailment of 33 cars and 2 engines which occurred early Tuesday afternoon just south of Mt. Vernon. The cars were loaded with sundry items including potatoes, refrigerators, law mowers, steel and sulfuric acid. Railroad detectives are investigating the derailment and local health officials are keeping a close eye on the outcome of one tank car, full of sulfuric acid, rupturing and the contents soaking into the ground.

Essay Winners Announced

The Mt. Vernon Women's Club sponsored its annual essay contest in the county schools and were very pleased with the response from all the schools. The title of the essay for this year was "What is Right in the U.S.A."

First place winner in high school division was Marcia Gail Lamb, 9th grade, Mt. Vernon School, Terry Burton, 12th grade, Broadhead School won second place. In the elementary division Vicki Blair, 8th grade, Roundstone, won first place and Carolyn Delores Lamb, 7th grade, Roundstone, won second. Other students reaching the finals of the contest were Eddie Hamm, Marian Gentry, Patricia Ann Mink, Broadhead School; Britta Miss, Livingston School; Alicia Dick, Debra Noe, Marjorie Thomas, Mt. Vernon; Earl Buehle, Well Hope; and Kay Carpenter, Cave Ridge.

daily life. We can choose what religion or belief we want. We also are not forced to attend church even though it would be nice if everyone would attend church services.

"Extra! Extra!" Read all about it." This is a cry heard in our cities everyday. A paper boy uses this cry to tell that he has the daily paper. Without the freedom of press we could not hear of what is happening our country and world. Our papers and magazines are allowed to print things that are true. Without this freedom we would not be living in such a great nation. When someone commits a crime we do not catch him and hang him. First we catch him, then we have a trial in which the evidence is produced. He is judged by a jury consisting of a panel of twelve citizens and a judge. The jury decides the evidence. If he is proven guilty, the judge decides and passes the sentence. So the importance of the right to a trial by jury is to decide whether a person has committed a crime.

The freedoms that we have today are considered luxuries by some people. People are beginning to take advantage of many freedoms that we have. They are not stopping and considering how life would be without these freedoms. I think everyone should stop and think how important our rights are, maybe then people will stop taking our rights for granted.

Vickie Blair, 8th Grade Roundstone School

What's right in America? Unless we are truly narrow-minded, it wouldn't take long to compile a long list of glorious American freedoms.

We Americans have more redoms.

We are sometimes inclined to take for granted our right to criticize our government actions. We elect our own officials and if they become unjust or commit crimes while in office, we can put them out again through impeachment.

We can publish any truth as long as it doesn't invade the boundaries of other person's rights.

If anyone accuses us of a crime, we have the right to a fair trial by jury. A man is innocent until proven guilty.

As long as we remain orderly, we can assemble publicly.

An education is ours if we want it. We can choose our career, and as long as there's an opening and we qualify no job can be refused us.

If we are financially able, we can own our own property and do with it as we please.

It's a long list of "we can," but there are numerous others that are equally important.

We are free and each of us interpret that word a different way and all of us are correct in our interpretations.

America, how do I love thee? Let me count the ways.

I'm proud to be an American, with this great heritage of freedom, and I'm more than glad to say so!

Brodhead Observes FHA Week March 19-25

March 19 through 25 has been designated National FHA Week. Members of Future Homemakers of America will carry out special activities and observances designed to share their experiences and achievements with family, friends and neighbors.

The theme chosen for this year's National FHA Week is "Profiles of Youth" to focus attention on what over half-a-million Future Homemakers of America are doing to improve personal, family and community living.

Mrs. Agnes Foster, State FHA Adviser, points out that several million young people have been challenged by the unlimited opportunities offered through membership in Future Homemakers of America over the 26 years since its establishment as a national organization for home economics students in the secondary schools. "They have an opportunity to grow as an individual," she stated, "to contribute to home and family living, develop leadership and cooperation, open doors of service to others, prepare for a vocation or profession, make new friends, find new experiences, gain an understanding of others, make creative and constructive use of leisure time and most importantly, be a part of a national organization of teenagers concerned with people, families and communities."

The 83 members of the Brodhead FHA Chapter has scheduled a number of activities for this week. Plans outlined by June Stevens, Adviser includes special honor for the Brodhead Tigers, Teacher Appreciation Day, and activities that will inform others about FHA.

Officers of the Brodhead Chapter are: president, Cindy Whitehead, first vice-president, Vickie Lear, second vice-president, Wilma Baras, secretary, Paula Holbrook, treasurer, Brenda DeBorde, reporter, Debby White, parliamentary, Elaine Price, recreation leader, Benedetta French, historian and Debby Silcox, song leader.

NOTICE

NO BURNING BEFORE 4:30 PM LOCAL TIME

149.400 Fire hazard seasons; fires prohibited; exceptions. (1) The periods commencing on March 1 and ending on May 15 and commencing on October 1 and ending on December 15 of each year are hereby declared to be and established as the fire hazard seasons. During the fire hazard seasons, even though the precautions required by KRS 149.375 shall have been taken, it shall be unlawful for any person to set fire to, or to procure another to set fire to, any flammable material capable of spreading fire, located in or on one hundred fifty feet of any woodland or brushland, except between the hours of 4:30 p.m. and twelve o'clock midnight, central standard time or when the ground is covered with snow.

(2) This section shall not apply to fires which may be set for the purpose of burning tobacco plant beds, nor to fires which may be set within the corporate limits of any city, nor to the burning of weeds, high grass and decayed timber under the supervision of a competent railroad employe on any railroad right-of-way that is being cleared of such material in compliance with subsection (2) of KRS 149.385, provided any such fire set by any railroad employe shall be extinguished before the employe leaves the vicinity of the fire.

"Timberland" means any land which has enough timber or woody brush, standing or down, to constitute a fire menace to itself or adjoining lands, but does not include lands under cultivation or entirely in grass, nor land that is an isolated fire risk unless a fire on it would imperil the lands of an adjoining landowner.

"Flammable material" shall include but is not limited to refuse, debris, waste forest material, brush, stumps, logs, rubbish, fallen timber, grass, stubble, leaves, slash, and grain. (1964, c. 158, 2)
