Cong. Tim Lee

Carter Comments

Congressman Tim Lee Carter of Kentucky stated, "Last year it was a great honor and a pleasure for me to be a member of the Speaker's Committee which visited Korea, Hong Kong, Taiwan, and the Philippines.

"While in Korea," Congressman Carter continued, "our delegation was most cordially received. At that time, we made every assurance to the Koreans of our 'eternal friendship.' Kentucky's Fifth District Representative pointed out that Korea now has two combat divisions—40,000 men—in South Vietnam. "On April 26," he stated, "these heroic Korean soldiers, who are known as the ROCS, gained control of the ANKHE PASS. Four hundred of their fallen men were killed and three hundred were wounded. The action of the Koreans was in behalf of our country and at our request, they shed their blood for us. I submit that greater love hath no man than this, that he lay down his life for his friend. Indeed, the Koreans are our friends and our brothers."

Congressman Carter continued, "We are faced with countless problems in Vietnam, but I maintain that the United States of America owes the brave Korean soldiers the same protection and safe withdrawal that it owes to our own men. "Most Americans realize that our venture in South Vietnam has been a tragic and wasteful disaster. But we must 'calmness and wisdom prevail, as they certainly did not prevail when the Tonkin Gulf resolution was adopted. Let us now use every means possible to assure the safe withdrawal of our men and our loyal Korean allies."

IN MEMORY
 Loving memory of our dear mother and grandmother, Maude Purcell, who passed away May 15, 1971.

One year has passed, dear mother since you were called to go. We still the tears of memory start for oh, we loved you so. Oh smile upon us from above, ask God to lend us through the walks of life that we some day may find our way to you.

Sadly Missed by Sarah Frances, Conn, Jack and Brenda

IN MEMORY
 To most people, May is a month to be happy and gay, flowers bloom and birds sing and it is nice to see and know it's Spring. But it has a sad significance for me because I lost both my parents in May you see, my mother, Palmyra Frances Harper Nichols, May 22, 1926 and my father, Thomas B. Nichols, May 4, 1946; twenty years apart, but both still within my heart.

Subdivision Regulation For Rockcastle Co.

A regulation of the Rockcastle County Board of Health relating to the planning and developing of tracts of land into subdivisions and lots for the construction of homes or buildings intended for human habitation and imposing certain restrictions thereon for the purpose of protecting the public health.

Authority. This regulation is adopted and issued pursuant to the authority of Section 212,230 (1) (c) of the Kentucky Revised Statutes. Be it resolved by the Board of Health of Rockcastle County:

Section 1. Definition of Subdivision. As used in this regulation the term "Subdivision" means an area of land subdivided or intended to be subdivided, on and after the effective day of this regulation into not less than four (4) lots which are intended to be used for the construction of houses or buildings for human habitation.

Section 2. Submission of Subdivision Plat. No person, firm or corporation shall develop any tract of land as a subdivision within Rockcastle County without first having obtained the approval of the Rockcastle County Health Department. No subdivision development shall be approved unless:

1. The size of each individual lot is adequate to accommodate a private sewage disposal system with a minimum lot size of not less than 20,000 square feet.

2. A percolation test consisting of not less than four (4) holes is conducted in accordance with the standards of the State Department of Health per acre of land to be subdivided at such locations as are designated by the Rockcastle County Health Department.

3. The results of a percolation test meet the minimum standards of one (1) inch per hour in accordance with the method prescribed by the State Department of Health, and under supervision of the local Health Department.

4. The size of the septic tank and lateral field shall be determined by the rate of the percolation test and number of bedrooms to be serviced in accordance with "Manual of Septic Tank Practice" published by the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

5. Satisfactory evidence is submitted that the area in which the sub-soil drainage system is to be installed has a rock sounding of not less than six feet (6') in depth from finished grade.

6. The subdivision plat (together with a topographical map) is submitted in duplicate to the Rockcastle County Health Department.

Section 3. In the event a public sewerage system becomes available, connections shall be made and private sewage systems shall be prohibited.

Section 4. In the event a public water supply is available connections shall be made and private water systems shall be prohibited.

Section 5. Upon petition by an applicant and where there is evidence that undue hardship will result from the enforcement of this regulation, the Rockcastle County Board of Health may grant a variance to the applicant provided that, no such variance will result in a public health nuisance.

Section 6. Penalty. Any person who violates any provision of this regulation shall be fined not less than ten dollars nor more than one hundred dollars for each day the violation continues as provided by KRS 212,990, (2).

Section 7. Partial Invalidity. Effect of. If any word, clause, section or paragraph of this regulation shall be declared invalid, the invalidity of such word, clause, section or paragraph shall not affect the validity of any of the remaining provisions.

Section 8. Repeals. All regulations or parts of regulations of County Board of Health in conflict herewith are to the extent of such conflict hereby repealed.

Section 9. Effective Date. This regulation shall become effective thirty (30) days after the date of publication.

The undersigned, Cora Lee Speer, states that she is Secretary of the Rockcastle County Board of Health and that the foregoing regulation was duly adopted by the Rockcastle County Board of Health at a meeting held at Mt. Vernon, Kentucky on the 24th day of April 1972.

Witness my hand this 24th day of April 1972.

Harvey Pensol and James O. Smith. Working to keep the auctioneers straight were Mrs. Joyce Baker, Mrs. Wanda Franklin and Mrs. Mary Craig. James Cox is the commercial announcer for the program. First night sales amounted to $475.25. Wednesday night, the auction will run from 6:30 p.m. to 9 p.m. and Thursday night, the hours will be from 5 p.m. until 7 p.m. due to graduation exercises scheduled for that night at Mt. Vernon. Also on Thursday night, the decision will be made about running the auction Friday night.

Census Counts 4,015 Housing Units In County

The 1970 Census of Housing counted 4,015 housing units in Rockcastle County, and 2,868 households had at least one television set (2,220 VHF-equipped), the Bureau of the Census, U.S. Department of Commerce, announced today. The figures are from the first report for Kentucky which presents detailed statistics on housing for each county.

The report shows that in the county:

There were 278 housing units with air conditioning (245 with room units and 33 with a central system), 3,681 units with a clothes dryer, and 65 with a dishwasher.

The 1970 population was 12,245 with an average of 3.4 persons per housing unit.

A total of 2,517 housing units were built before 1949, 576 during the 1950's, 287 during 1960-64, and 655 within the five years preceding the April 1970 census. Utility gas was used to cook the meals in 509 households, electrically in 1,654, and bottled, tank, or LP gas in yet another 1,369.

There were 2,707 housing units with complete kitchen facilities and 1,818 with complete bathrooms, both for the exclusive use of the households. The number of bedrooms in all housing units ranged from none (in 0 units) and one (in 1,715 units) to four or more (in 424 units).

Owners occupied 2,629 units, renters 987 units, and a total of 399 units were vacant year round with 21 for sale and 172 for rent.

by: perlina m. anderkin

Well, Derby week-end and all the excitement that entails in Louisville is over for another year. The Derby isn't all that exciting to me, we watched the race Saturday because my husband happened to flip channels as the race was being run. Anytime I see anything about Derby week-end, I get a bad feeling remembering my one experience with the Derby. This occurred in May of the year my husband and I married in September. We decided to take in the famous "Run for the Roses" and my mother, no natural lover of horse races, decided to accompany us.

Things got off to a bad start when we disagreed as to where to place our bets on the race, my husband going with a tip he had gotten on Veletian Way and myself wanting to play things safe and bet the favorite horse to show. During the brief exchange of words on the subject, to prove my point I flounced off in the opposite direction and immediately found myself separated from anyone I knew almost in a sea of utter strangers. It was a bitter, nasty day for May and as I wandered around the infield, the Derby began and I got a very close look at a horse in the race.

Anyway, things brightened up when I found out that the Veletian Way had won and I hadn't lost any money on my show bet and having finally gotten everyone back together, we started home. After we had passed through the tunnel which leads from the infield, Mother decided she would buy her a souvenir scarf. When she reached for her billfold in her flip-top purse, she found that someone in the crowd had already helped themselves to her billfold and she had lost about $70 in cash and all her papers in her billfold.

Needless to say, we were a despondent and frustrated threesome that began our journey home but that little episode soured me forever on horse races of any kind and particularly the Derby.

So, after that little tale of woe, we'll move on. Right off hand, I can't think of anything very bright to discuss however, I was shocked at the President's speech Monday night. My first thought was "It's about time," and then fear of what the Soviet's reaction might be hit me. I can't help but believe, maybe because I want to, that the President had an indication of what the Soviet's reaction would be before he made his announcement. His trip there hasn't definitely been cancelled and there is still hope for it and for ending the war with a settlement acceptable to both sides. I do believe that now may be the time to rally round our President and his policy and present a united front to the outside world because I definitely feel that if we had had a few less demonstrations that included burning the American flag and holding the Viet Cong flag, a settlement might have already been reached. Regardless of the outcome, you have to admire present Nixon for taking this great risk in an election year.

I do wish someone would make up their mind. Just as I had laboriously put just all the winter clothing of my two and five children, I had to go back and dig out the long sleeved some Kentucky legislators will get back from the summer session in time to take care of the hay and tobacco on their farms. Things were relatively simple at first. Remember that bill that got lost in the hectic final days of the General Assembly last March? The one to create an agency for environmental control?

Well, after that happened, the spread of hope of conservationists was that Gov. Wendell Ford would rectify the situation by calling a special session.

But the administration never admitted that because of a clerical blunder it might have to call a session that costs the taxpayers about $50,000 a week. Thanks to the U.S. Supreme Court, the Democratic regime has been halted out.

The court told Tennessee and Kentucky they have no right to require new residents to live in the state a full year before they can vote.

And so Ford now has no official excuse for calling the session. Oh yes, he just might include that environmental matter on the agenda.

The governor also remarked privately weeks ago he didn't see real, as the session didn't take much more than a week. It is not recorded if his listener guffawed, but allow us to offer our cautions now.

We'll almost guarantee that if the Assembly bothers to come to Frankfort, it will be for at least two weeks and probably more—because everybody seems to be advancing a proposal on what else should be on the agenda.

Come to think of it, some of the ideas make sense. For example, Kentucky through legislative action could be one of the first states to go along with the recent congressional amendment to the U.S. constitution affirming the equality of women. There is, of course, a bit of boundary redrawing necessary for the congressional redistricting bill, as suggested by a federal court. Just a handful of precincts, but it will be done. And how about legislative re-arrangement? The Republican charge that most Louisville area districts are disproportionate does hold water, whether the discrepancies were deliberate or not, and that might have to be fixed up in the special session. Well, we're not through yet. Remember the savings and loan crisis that erupted at Louisville recently? There is a growing cry for some type of reform that can be offered during the special session.

And don't forget those unhappy coal operators, chafing under the new 4 per cent severance tax. One wrote Ford the other day, suggesting repeal of a measure which has just taken effect.

"We'll stop here, except for former Republican Gov. Louis B. Nunn's crack after Ford began vetoing some legislation.

"Well, I hear he's already planning a special session," Nunn said. "Why doesn't he fix all those bills he's been vetoing?"

FIND THE GOAT!—When legislative aide Danny Boggs (later fired) charged massive fraud on the Democrats' part in arranging Jefferson County legislative districts, bludgeoning the fox in the Legislative Research Commission.

But now, Republicans involved in the matter seem strangely silent, although Boggs' general outline is regarded as correct. That's because, although Democratic House Speaker Norbert Blume headed the Louisville re-mapping efforts, the Republicans stand alone in private discussions.

Furthermore, it seems some of the GOP legislators benefited from the plan attacked by Boggs.

BEARER OF ILL TIDINGS!—Democratic state headquarters was wondering during the recent county convention, why the presidential returns from a district in Daviess County, home of Gov. Wendell Ford, were taking so long to report.

Then the word filtered in. Although Ford wanted uncommitted delegates, the Legislative district has embarrassingly gone for Sen. George McGovern.

Letter To The Editor

Dear Mrs. Anderkin:
With Mother's Day just ahead, I thought you might like to share this poem, "Musings For Mother" with your readers.

The poem was written for my own mother, Mrs. Florine Brown, who lives in Shelbyville, Indiana, but I am sure it would be just as meaningful to every mother who reads it.

My mother is a regular subscriber to the Signal, as well as my husband and I, even though we have been away from our home town of Brodhead for over twenty years.

Sincerely Yours,
Andrey M. Payne

MUSINGS FOR MOTHER

Is there anything more beautiful than a rose?
Yes, a godly Mother with more beauty glows.
Can anything be softer than a rose's velvet touch?
Just the soft cheek of Mother, whom I love so much.
Has there ever been a fragrance, with a rose to compare?
Only sweet fragrant memories of love we share.

The state Consumer Protection Division is considering action against several questionable consumer practices when new business practices become effective in mid-June.

Asst. Atty. Gen. Robert Bullock, who heads the division within the attorney general's office, cited certain types of "door-to-door selling in which "free-merchandise is offered, and the making of claims that unproved appliances will help or cure health problems.

He also said action may be taken against some "get-rich-quick" promotional schemes, but declined to give details.

Bullock's division was granted new powers by the 1972 General Assembly, which passed new laws to prevent fraud and deception of consumers.

Now that his office "has the opportunity to do what we've wanted to for a long time," we will shirts and long pants again. But I have faith. I know that the day will come, right away probably, when I'll be griping because I worked up a little sweat riding care of the beans and corn that I was worried the frost would get to the roots of May...

My husband insists I say something about the front page pictures that were switched in last week's paper. I really don't know why, I'm sure all our readers are accustomed to this sort of thing by now and would be surprised if one week absolutely everything in the paper was as it should be. It does get a little aggravating though when we try as hard as we do to get things right, then send the paper to Dayton to have it printed and the printers there can't find the right hole for the right picture. All you have to do when you read the Signal, most of the time, is use a little imagination...

HOW TO MAKE A HAPPY HOME HAPPIER!

HOT WATER THE FLAMELESS ELECTRIC WAY!

Happier? Certainly - because a flameless electric water heater is so easy to live with. All the hot water you need - that's easy, too. No pilot, so when it's off it's off. Nor are there flues or vents, so you can locate it virtually anywhere you want it! This also eliminates heat loss due to long pipe runs, provides more efficient operation. Safety, convenience, efficiency - you'll love being in hot water the flameless electric way. See your dealer today.

Time to Clean and Test Steam Pressure Canner

It's time for homemakers who plan to put up vegetables or meat and poultry this summer to give their pressure canners a check-up and a good cleaning. The pet-cock and safety valve openings should be cleaned before the steam pressure canner is put back into service this season.

To do so, draw a string or narrow strip of cloth through them. Thoroughly clean the canner, but do not immerse the cover, instead, wipe it with a soapy cloth, then a damp, clean cloth, and dry it well. You do not towel-dry it, and during use, always prop the lid so that water drains away from the pressure gauge.

The gauge itself should be checked for accuracy, if it tests as much as 2 pounds over or 2 1/2 pounds under, replace it. If the gauge is old and you cannot have it tested locally, you'd better buy a new one, for safety's sake. You must be able to trust your pressure gauge to register the proper processing temperatures needed to make your home-canned food keep.

Pressure canning is the only method recommended for preserving meat, poultry, and most vegetables. Tomatoes may be safely canned in a hot-water bath canner. If directions are

Ornaments in the home and Garden

This year plan to grow annuals that will create an attractive display in your garden as well as provide cut flowers for your home. There are many attractive garden annuals that can be used effectively in flower arrangements.

Before selecting which flowers to grow, consider what type of flowers are required for most flower arrangements. Generally, the material used in arrangements can be classified as line, spherical, and filler and background material.

The line material is used to delineate the overall shape as well as height and width of the arrangement. Flowers that have many blooms along the stem and form a point at the top are usually used for this purpose.

The spherical shaped flowers are used in the interior of the arrangement. These flowers are round in shape with usually one flower per stem. They are used to create stability and interest in the arrangement.

The filler and background material may be either many small flowers on a stem or it may be foliage. This material will be used behind and between the line and spherical flowers. It will fill in open spaces and give a background so that the arrangement of the material will be more attractive.

Listed below are a few selected varieties of annuals that could be classified into the above three groups. All these flowers grow best in full sunlight.

Line Material: Snapdragon, Celosia, Blue Salvia, Larkspur

Spherical Material: Bachelor Buttons, Daisies, Gomphrena, Marigold, Zinnia

Filler and Background Material: Dusty Miller, Coleus, Ornamental Basil, Jewel of Opal, Candytuft

Make sure tobacco has enough water, nitrogen

Be sure to water your tobacco beds during dry weather. Growing plants evaporate large quantities of water from the soil.

Therefore, in dry weather, beds must be watered to maintain growth. After the plants are up and growing, a thorough watering every four to five days is better than a light watering every day.

To provide an inch of water for a bed nine feet long, you should use one barrel for each nine running feet.

Tobacco plants also need adequate nitrogen to grow properly. When tobacco plants turn yellow during reasonable weather, and if the plants have a good root system, the yellowing is probably due to nitrogen starvation. Nitrogen-starved plants should be treated with some form of nitrogen. Dissolve five to six pounds of nitrate of soda or two or three pounds of ammonium nitrate in water and sprinkle the nitrate solution evenly over the bed.

To prevent burning, wash the solution off the leaves with clear water. If you use a tobacco plant top dresser, you should follow instructions on the bag.

Don't Let Termites Cause you to Panic.

This is the time of year when you may see termites swarming around your house. Termites may quietly eat away at your home throughout the year without giving much notice of their activity. However, around this time of year, larger colonies will give away their presence by leaving large numbers of their winged brothers and sisters to start new colonies.

The winged termites resemble flying ants which are also swarming at this time of year. The easiest way to tell the difference between flying ants and termites is to check the waistlines. If the insect has a constricted or narrow waist - which is the area of the body just behind where the wings are attached - it's a flying ant. If there is no constriction at the waist, it's a termite.

Termites are social insects that live in colonies which may contain thousands of individuals. The colony is a complex society made up of workers, soldiers and reproductives. Workers and soldiers are wingless and stay within the colony. They are seen only when the colony is broken into. Winged termites are mature males and females.

The swarming of termites indicates they have been present for some time. However, this does not mean there is reason to panic. If you sight a termite swarm, that doesn't mean that you need to get an exterminator in the next day. Termites work slowly, so there is time to investigate the extent of damage and plan a course of action. You may be able to treat the problem yourself or you may need the help of a pest control operator. Since pest control companies offer different guarantees, prices and service programs, call several to get the one that best suits your needs.

If termites are a common problem in your neighborhood, it would be wise to inspect for them even if you haven't seen swarms nearby. Probe timbers and other wood near the ground with an ice pick or screwdriver to see that the wood is solid. If the wood is easily probed, you will probably see the cream-colored wingless termites at work. Drift-line chimneys plastered against the sides of basement or crawl-space walls are another sign of termites.

For detailed information on controlling termites yourself, pick up a copy of University of Kentucky Misc. 375, "Termites" (Continued on page 7)

The fishing has been extra good on Lake Cumberland the past few weeks as evidenced by the 66 White Bass shown in the above photo caught by Kenneth Pillion, left, and Robbie Robinson recently. The boys were fishing on Buck Creek when they made their big haul. According to reports, the boys' fathers went along for the boat ride.

Another fishing expedition was quite successful recently when Rick Anderkin, left, and David Mullion, on a trip to Lake Cumberland, hauled in 52 White Bass and one Wall-eyed Pike. That trip was their most successful to date and I have it on my very good authority that the boys' fathers also went along for the ride.

The local fishing "holes" aren't to be outdone as proven by Jess Baker and Stanley Moore, who caught this nice mass of Red Horse out of the Rockcastle River recently.

Mt. Vernon Beats Berea: Loses to Somerset

With Troy McClure pitching a strong game, MVHS shut-out the Berea Pirates 8-0 Tuesday afternoon at Berea. McClure allowed only three hits and struck out seven batters.

Casey Carroll had three hits for the Red Devils and Paul Travis got two doubles to lead the Mt. Vernon hitting attack. Last Thursday afternoon, the Devils took on a strong Somerset High School team and lost 7-2 in an interesting game.

Johnny B. Saylor pitched an outstanding game for six innings and with the score tied at two all in the sixth, Somerset scored three unearned runs when the Devil's holding support broke down.

Somerset scored two runs in the first when after there were two men out, the third and fourth hitter hit home runs. Mt. Vernon came right back and tied the score in the second when Casey Carroll hit a single with the bases loaded.

In the six innings pitched by Saylor, he allowed the hard-hitting Somerset team only three hits and struck out eight batters by using a good curve ball. Mt. Vernon ends their season Friday afternoon when they face one of the best teams in South-eastern Kentucky in Jackson County. Brent Gay, the basketball star for Jackson, will pitch for the visitors and Johnny Saylor will probably start for the Devils. Mt. Vernon's record now stands at 7-5. District Tournament play will get underway next week at Somerset at Sun May 17, 18 and 19.

Sweet pickles start as sour pickles from which the vinegar has been drained. They are finished in sweet, spicy liquors which are added from time to time until the desired sweetness is attained.

Making pies and applesauce? Select the tart or slightly acid apples such as Gravenstein, Grimes Golden, Jonathan or Newton.

Fresh blueberries will soon be on the market. Look for the dark blue color with a silvery bloom - that's your best indication of quality. They should be plump, firm, and uniform in size.

It's time for sweet cherries, too. From May until August you can look for the small and delicious dessert fruit. Good cherries should be bright, glossy and have plump-looking surfaces.

Shop carefully if you're planning a fruit compote. Don't ruin it by buying damaged fruit, even if the price is low. Remember - fresh fruits are perishable and must be used before there are signs of decay.

Overripeness in a cantaloupe is usually shown by a pronounced yellow rind color, and a softening over the entire rind. Inside it may be soft, watery and have insipid flesh. Mold growth on the cantaloupe is a sign of decay.

For safety's sake! Follow the manufacturer's directions when using over-bag-and-wrap cooking products. These products were designed to allow foods to baste themselves while cooking. Pans should always be at least two inches deep and sturdy enough to support the weight of the food being cooked.

Iodized salt and seafoods are reliable sources of iodine. Regular use of iodized salt is the most practical way to assure enough iodine in your diet.

Yes, magnesium is important in your diet in the body's use of food for energy. It is found in good amounts in nuts, whole-grain products, dry beans, dry peas, and dark-green vegetables.
