Hi-Pro Juices
High-protein fruit juice powder may soon be a new item on your grocery list according to nutrition scientists. Experiments have shown that squeezing juice from "cull" fruits and fortifying it with soya, fish, or peanut protein (30-15%) can produce a delicious drink that should be acceptable because of their high quality.

Juice powder has many advantages - it saves weight and space because nearly 80% of the water is removed. It's economically good because it's easy to transport, store and pack - even to distant markets. The powder can be preserved for extended periods of time without refrigeration which makes it desirable to hikers, campers, explorers, and the military. High protein juices are flavorful and the fish protein concentrate is an odorless powder that is 80% protein. Milk protein powder contains 29% protein.

Powdered fruit juices, as such, are not new to the market place. During and after World War II, powdered fruit juices were first developed by the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Western Utilization Research Laboratory. At that time however, some of these earlier products lacked in flavor. Since that time, researchers have been engaged in further developing and fortifying fruits and vegetables with flavor, protein and vitamins. The fruit juice industry has had, in the past decade, increased demand in the quality of dehydrated products. Scientists, because of worldwide interest in malnourished people, are continually trying to develop new products which will meet adequate dietary standards yet that are tasty and culturally acceptable. Products such as the juice powders may be exported to, or produced in a foreign country for distribution to areas of low-protein availability.

Food Clips

What is self-rising flour? It is an all-purpose flour to which baking powder and salt have been added. 1 1/2 teaspoons baking powder and 1/2 teaspoon salt to 1 cup of flour. It is convenient for making biscuits and other quick breads.

Whole-wheat flour is higher in fat than white flour, so it should be stored in a cool place.

What is a "leavening" agent? Yeast, baking powder, baking soda, air and steam. For instance, air beaten in egg whites is the leavening agent for angel food cakes, in popovers, steam leavens the mixture.

Mix it right! Overmixing may result in a poor texture with large holes and tunnels in baked products. For example, muffins should be mixed only until the dry ingredients are moistened.

Enjoy rolls in a variety of shapes. Try twin rolls or lucky clovers, twisted rolls, crescents. Making bread? Yeast is a common leavener, it feeds on the sugar in the mixture and forms gas bubbles that raise the dough. Remember that yeast needs a warm temperature for growth. (Too low a temperature slows growth) and too high a temperature kills yeast.

Did you know that dark or dull pans absorb heat? Foods usually bake faster and crusts are browner in such pans - faster than in shiny pans that reflect heat.

If you use a "quick-acting" baking powder, it will require twice as much and the batter or dough should be baked immediately for best results.

Measuring off for baking? A one pound block of fat measures about two cups; a stick of butter or margarine measures 1/2 cup. Watch your measurements - they are very important.

Our Home Is Your Home

In the past 10 or 15 years, funerals have changed. Years ago everything was done in the home. The body was prepared at home, visitation was at home, the funeral was conducted at the home, and burial was just across the next hill or up the road.

Today, things are different. Funerals are held in a different kind of home. A home that has a staff of highly trained and dedicated men who work day and night to insure the family that no detail will be left undone or overlooked.

A home where directors conduct each service with Reverence and Dignity. A home that has warmth and is big enough to accommodate a large number of friends and relatives.

We want our home to be your home for as long as you like, because,
OUR HOME IS YOUR HOME!

A Look At Our Rockcastle County Hospital

Henry L. Owens, formerly of Rockcastle County, was awarded a contract for $155,250 on May 2, 1955 for construction of the Rockcastle County Hospital. But this is by no means the beginning of the story of the hospital in Mt. Vernon.

Plans for the hospital actually began in the early 1950's. A plan was worked up and a bond issue passed in 1952 for $100,000; however, after it was passed representatives of the Federal Government came to Rockcastle County, looked over the plans for the hospital and said that $100,000 would be inadequate to build the facility.

So, another bond issue was passed in 1953 for $175,000. Then another hitch developed and only $166,000 of the bonds were bought. However, this amount was matched by the Federal Government from Hill-Burton funds and the bonds were finally sold in August of 1954.

Land for the hospital site was purchased from Mrs. Carrie Baker and George W. Murphy, at less than market value because the site was to be used for hospital purposes.

At the time construction began, the hospital committee was made up of: O.V. Hilton, chairman; Ernest E. Bullock and W.S. Stewart, W.W. Sowder was County Judge; T.J. Nicely, County Attorney and Clarence Carter, County Court Clerk.

Ground breaking ceremonies were held for the hospital on Saturday, June 18, 1955. McClorey and McClorey were architects for the project and, as previously stated, Henry L. Owens, son of Thomas Owens of this county, of Richmond, Indiana was awarded a contract for construction of the building for $155,250.00.

At the time work was begun on the hospital, there were five doctors in the county: Dr. N.M. Garrett, Dr. R.G. Webb, Dr. Walker Owens, Dr. J.F. Pennington and Dr. G.H. Griffin; three dentists: Dr. J.D. Henderson, Sr., Dr. Jack Henderson and Dr. Joe Henderson and two pharmacists: Marcus Maggard and Gordon Graham.

Mrs. Jenay Payne, LPN, is shown with the Electrocardiographic monitoring machines which allow a constant observation of patients in the cardiac care unit by nurses at the nursing station.

Vicki Sims, Lab Technician, looks over the IL Flame Photometer which is one of three new pieces of equipment recently purchased by the Hospital Board. The Photometer is used in determining the sodium and potassium content of the blood. Other new additions to the Laboratory include an Oxford Titrator, which determines the chloride content and bicarbonate reading of the blood, and the Blood Refrigerator for the storage of blood in order to keep a good supply available at all times.

Mrs. Joyce Brown, R.N., is shown with the Uni/Use Medication Control Unit, which has been added to the hospital equipment within the past few months. This unit enables the nurse to make medications available almost instantly. Each patient's medication is stored in his own separate drawer. This unit ultimately frees the nurse for more patient care since the entire unit goes with the nurse, allowing her to give most all drugs without making unnecessary trips back to the nursing station.

were: G.H. Griffin, Matt Jones, Urban Hamm, Henry Cromer and J.S. Swinford. Mt. Vernon city officials were: Roy Cummins, mayor and John P. Allen, city attorney. Floyd L. Owens was the hospital's first administrator.

In 1956, the building was completed and dedicated in a dedicatory service. Operation was begun under the leadership of the Rockcastle Baptist Association and continued that way until the latter part of this year when at a meeting of the Executive Board of the hospital, a motion was made and passed that a recommendation to the Executive Board of the Association be made to relinquish all rights of ownership, control and operation of the hospital to the Fiscal Court of Rockcastle County.

It was at this time, that the present board was formed. It is made up of Bill Bailey, James W. Lambert, Wayne Stewart and Robert Cromer.

Under this board's leadership, the hospital has taken on a new look as far as general appearance is concerned. And, the board also has made several structural improvements with the aid of men working under a federal work program directed by County Judge Charles Carter.

In addition, there were over 500 items which had to be corrected, changed or brought up-to-date in order for the hospital to once again be approved by Medicaid and Medicare.

These goals were met and plans for continued improvement have already been made and are being carried out.

Gov. Wendell Ford has named three members to the new state Probation and Parole Board.

Governor Ford made the appointments from his hospital bed in Houston, where he was recuperating from arterial surgery.

The three new members constitute a quorum for the board, which regularly consists of five members. They will now be able to act on parole applications, some of which have been waiting for parole approval since June 16, when the old parole board was abolished by a new state law.

The new members are: Mrs. Lucille Robuck, a social worker from Anchorage and a former member of the board, named chairman.

Charles Williamson, Lexington, assistant dean of the University of Kentucky College of Law. Newton McCravy, Louisville, a teacher at Bellarmine College in Louisville.

The other two members of the board will be appointed at a later date, the Governor's office announced.

WILL ENFORCE POLICY AGAINST "DISCOUNT" INTEREST

State Banking Commissioner Lervil R. Hall says his department will follow a recent attorney general's opinion that industrial-loan companies may not use a "discount" method of computing interest on certain loans.

Atty. Gen. Ed Hancock has indicated his opinion applies only to loans in which the borrower actually receives between $4875 and $7500.

Hall's decision conflicts with a position on interest computation taken recently by several Kentucky industrial-loan firms.

The dispute stems from different interpretations of the 1972 industrial-loan law, which says firms may "lend money and receive interest therefor at a rate of 7 per cent per annum on the principal amount of the loan not exceeding $7500.

According to Hancock, a company may apply the 7 per cent rate for five years, a total of 35 per cent, or $2625 interest on $7500. On such loans the in-

Interest rate is applied to the full principal for the entire duration of the loan, not just the unpaid principal, as in mortgage loans.

Hancock said a company could collect interest in advance, in which case the borrower receives $4875 and repays $7500 over five years. Or the interest may be added on, with the borrower receiving $7500 and repaying $10,125.

However, several Kentucky industrial-loan companies have proposed interest tables based on "discount interest" computed on the "total payments."

The tables assume that the borrower receives up to $7500 with 25 per cent interest "discounted" or collected in advance.

OFFICIALS PLAN LOOK AT CAMP SAFETY REGULATIONS
State Health Commissioner Dr. William E. McElwain and Public Health Director Dr. Newman say they plan to take a closer look into the need for stricter safety and sanitation controls over summer youth camps in Kentucky.

The state now has no laws covering such camps, although it does have Health Department regulations.

Increased interest in stricter camp regulations has resulted this summer from a Connecticut father's campaign for national camping laws after his 15-year-old son was killed in a canoeing accident while at camp in Connecticut.

McElwain said he feels current health regulations are "strong enough to do the job" if local boards of health and sanitarians will enforce him.

Newman said he could see a need for requirements covering swimming, boating, riflery and horseback riding, and also a need to set up qualifications for camp directors and counselors.

He said he will undertake immediately to determine where his department, dealing with most highway, water and fire safety programs, might fit into a camp safety program.

McElwain said he will confer with other Health Department officials.

"It might be that the local health boards and sanitarians are not doing their jobs," he said. "Maybe that is where we should start, at the local level."

ment, according to Corrections Commissioner Charles J. Holmes.

Each of the prisoners is charged with either murder or willful murder. One of the men has been lodged on death row since 1960, awaiting execution. The last execution in Kentucky was at Eddyville in 1962.

Holmes said he personally is opposed to the death penalty and the application of capital punishment has become so slow in recent years "it has lost most of its deterrent value to society."

He said he was not surprised by the Court's decision or by the closeness (5-4) of the vote because of the "amount of objective study conducted on the subject in the last ten years."

The Court ruled the death penalty violates the Eighth Amendment to the U.S. Constitution, which prohibits "cruel and unusual punishment," and, in the words of one Justice, that it is applied "so wantonly and freakishly" that those who are sentenced to death receive excessively harsh treatment.

Holmes said he does not believe the Supreme Court's ruling will end the long-running debate on capital punishment.

HIGHER STRIP MINE FEES IN EFFECT

The state attorney general's office says new, higher strip-mining fees should be charged for permits issued after June 16, even if they were applied for before that date.

The opinion, requested by acting Reclamation Director Buddy A. Beach, said, however, that if any fees for applications had been accepted before June 16 and the permits were issued after that date, no increase should be charged.

Authorized by the 1972 General Assembly, the new fees became law June 16. They raised the basic strip mine permit fee from $50 to $150 and the acreage fee from $25 to $35.

The new scale also raises the required bond from a minimum of $100 to $200, and the maximum from $500 to $1000.

Assistant Atty. Gen. Jackson D. Quarrens, who wrote the opinion, noted that permit applications take time and that some applications taken before June 16 might not be granted until after that date, and that the new fees should apply.

Rockcastle Hospital Board Holds "Appreciation Dinner"

The Rockcastle County Hospital Board held an appreciation dinner Tuesday night on the hospital grounds to show their gratitude to those who have helped them in the past few months with the myriad details required to bring the hospital up to federal standards.

The dinner actually had a two-fold purpose. The second purpose was also to show the board's appreciation to those who are currently helping, financially, to air-condition the hospital.

Over 200 guests were present for the country ham dinner, prepared by Board member Robert Cromer, and the meal was delicious.

Board member Bill Bailey served as Master of Ceremonies for the evening and the invocation was delivered by Cletus Peters. After the meal, Board member James Lambert welcomed the guests and interspersed his comments with recognition of those present who had helped the hospital through its dark days several months ago when the hospital was notified that it had been cut-off from receiving Medicaid and was in the process of being cut-off from Medicare. The present hospital board took over officially in March of this year and began the Herculean task of bringing the hospital up to federal standards, a task which has resulted in the hospital being approved to treat Medicaid and Medicare patients again.

Danny Price, Hospital Administrator, was then introduced by Mr. Bailey. Mr. Price had been asked to speak on the hospital's progress and although Mr. Price did mention the new equipment that had been added and the improvements that had been made to the building, he dwelt mainly on the unity which had been achieved among the personnel over the past few months. He told the group that the cooperation and willingness to help that the staff had displayed had been tremendous and almost unbelievable and at the same time very much appreciated. He also mentioned the fact that the hospital had been fortunate to have four board members guiding the hospital the past months who were "willing to stand up for the hospital and work in the community for its betterment."

Board member Robert Cromer was the next speaker on the program and he told the guests a little about what the Board's future planning for the hospital involved. Mr. Cromer talked about their plans to pipe oxygen into each room in the hospital, a much more efficient and medically improved plan than the one presently used. He also spoke about their plans for a doctor's lounge, a feature required by

Frankfort Watchline

Some motion should be made, now that Gov. Wendell Ford is on the mend from his recent surgery, on the role of Lt. Gov. Julian Carroll, who served as acting governor for weeks during Ford's absence in Houston and Miami.

Let's remember, first, that Carroll may be with—but is not of—the current administration. Yes, he's a Democrat, too, but was aligned with former Gov. Bert Combs, who Ford defeated in a bitter primary last year. Having been on the outside, the temptations perhaps were numerous for Carroll.

For example, when the state Parole Board was left memberless for a time because Ford had not made appointments to the new group, Carroll could have legitimately—and some observers believe rightly—chosen the five members to his liking.

Of course, this might have been undone by Ford when he got back to Frankfort, but still it would have been an embarrassment to the permanent governor—and Carroll did not choose that route.

Likewise, he kept his hands off the Council on Public Higher Education, which also needs new blood to function. Moreover, Carroll appears to have cooperated to the fullest extent with Ford's office carrying out the routine when necessary, but never interfering with the important machinery of government.

Does it mean? Maybe that discretion is the better part of valor—Carroll knows well how powerless a lieutenant governor can become in that permanent role.

Maybe nothing. But we refuse to accept this simplistic explanation.

Maybe that a rapprochement is in the offing? Ah, there's food for thought.

Look at it this way: Carroll wants to be the next governor, but won't get his opportunity until 1976. Why should he necessarily form another Democratic faction—at least at this early stage? Why shouldn't he accept the possibility that if circumstances are similar in a few years, the Ford clan might endorse and push him for governor, forgetting about who was on which side.

We're not privy to what goes on in Carroll's mind. We just know that he has been playing it cool and not making enemies. And that's politically wise.

EVERYBODY BREATHING CLEANER

Commerce Commissioner Damon Harrison seems to have emerged as a continuing enthusiast of luring industry, despite the trend in many states of avoiding any additional plants because of pollution and population problems.

In Northern Kentucky the other day, Harrison was heard to remark that "clean air and empty stomachs aren't compatible."

Frankly, we'd hate to make the choice.

CONFUSING GAS PRICES—If anyone predicted that the administration would be attacked or disliked when the 2-cent added gasoline tax took effect July 1, he did not figure on the wild and woolly gasoline business.

The plain fact is that few motorists know at any time what the "average" gasoline price is anyway—the tab changes so often.

Thus, the fact that Kentucky's 7-cent per gallon tax now is 9 cents per gallon appears to have aroused no one to anger.

THE CONVENTION CIRCUIS—We have leaders out in the Democratic national convention, but since this is written just before that event, it's risky to say much.

The assumption is that Ford will be there plugging away for Sen. Edmund Muskie or against Sen. George McGovern—more likely the latter.

Let's face it, Kentucky's 47 delegate votes don't matter much in the over-all picture.

But Ford has made a reputation of sorts nationally as a diehard Muskie fan who is jockeying fiercely to stop McGovern. In this light, what he does—or does not do—may in the end become more important than the delegates' votes.

THE LAST NAME'S CORRECT—Lt. Gov. and Mrs. Carroll were among dignitaries at the opening performance of Wilderness Road, the Civil War drama running this summer at Berea.

Before Act I started, an off-stage voice noted the presence of several celebrities. All went the usual way to the stage, but the final ones were introduced.

"We are pleased to have with tonight," the voice intoned, "the lieutenant governor—Carroll Carroll."

Make chef Jimmy Lee's Cheese Pie tonight

Jimmy Lee is a French cooking teacher and cookbook author.

- Buttered pie pan, 9-inch x 1 1/4-inch
 Servings: 375 oven
 Preheated 375 oven
- PASTRY SHELL:
 1 1/2 cups all-purpose flour
 1/2 teaspoon salt
 1 tablespoon butter
 3 tablespoons lard
 1/4 cup ice water
 1 teaspoon lemon juice
- FILLING:
 9 slices bacon cooked and crumbled
 1/2 cup Swiss cheese
 2 tablespoons packaged bread crumbs
 2 eggs
 1/2 cup light cream or half and half
 1/2 teaspoon dry mustard
 1/2 teaspoon salt
 1/2 teaspoon cayenne pepper
 1 tablespoon butter, cut into small pieces
 2 tablespoons chopped parsley OR scallions

To prepare Shell: In a bowl mix together flour and salt. Cut in butter and lard until mixture resembles coarse meal. Gradually add water and lemon juice mixing lightly with a fork. Roll out on lightly floured surface 1/4-inch thick and 13 inches in diameter; place in pie pan. Trim off excess dough around edge; decorate edge with lines of a fork. Cut waxed paper into a 12-inch square; butter one side and place buttered side down on bottom of shell. Pour 2 cups uncooked rice or beans onto waxed paper (this keeps pastry flat while baking). Bake 8-9 minutes. Remove waxed paper and rice. Return shell to oven and bake 10 minutes. To prepare Filling: Sprinkle 2 tablespoons cheese and bread crumbs over bottom of pastry shell. Top with 1/2 the cooked bacon. In mixing bowl beat eggs, cream, mustard, salt and pepper until well blended. Stir in remaining cheese. Pull out oven rack, place pan on rack. Fill with egg mixture. Sprinkle remaining bacon on top; dot with butter. Bake 30-35 minutes or until a knife inserted near center comes out clean. Sprinkle over parsley OR scallions. Let stand 10 minutes before serving. *1 tall can (1 1/2 oz) evaporated milk plus 1/2 cup water may be beaten with eggs and seasonings in place of the 2 cups light cream or half and half.

What to do in July

Glorious summer which begins in June reaches its maturity in July. Dog Days set in: vegetables ripen in the garden: Mimosas, trumpet vine, Rose of Sharon, hydrangeas, St. Johnswort, and sourwood bloom. Katydid's begin calling from the trees and in the intense heat and languor of the season, there is a tendency to slow down just a little.

But still, there are many things to do in July. Roses, for instance, need weekly sprays to control blackspot and powdery mildew. Ornamental shrubs should be checked for scale and spider mites. Old flower spikes of delphiniums should be cut back, bearded iris divided, and evergreen hedges such as taxus, euonymus, and Japanese holly should have some mid summer pruning.

For blackspot on the roses, Daconil 2787, phaltan, or maneb, if mildew is a problem, it can be checked with benlate, actidione PM, or karathane. Aphids often attack roses also. If found, they can be eradicated with a malathion spray.

For cleaning up scale on euonymus species use three sprays with malathion at weekly intervals during July. If spider mites are discovered on the evergreens, spray with a miticide such as kelthane.

In cutting back the old flower spikes of delphinium, leave a few basal leaves until shoots start from the base. Then remove the entire old stem. In dividing iris for replanting, incorporate one-half cup of soil. Iris usually show up better if three to five fans are set out in each spot. Space the fans 12 to 15 inches apart and place them so that they will face outward from the clump.

Pinch out the tips of late blooming chrysanthemums for the last time about July 15. Early blooming varieties (those blooming in late August) should not be touched.

July is a month that will raise a thirst, not only in the gardener, but also in his lawn. If rainfall is insufficient, water once a week, leaving the sprinkler in one spot from one to three hours to deliver at least one inch of water. Daily sprinkling makes grass roots develop too near the surface where they cannot take advantage of soil moisture. Shallow, frequent watering helps weeds more than grass.

In doing the things that must be done in July, we may grumble about the heat, but one thing to keep in mind is that at least we don't have to shovel it off our walks.

Economics Information
The center of attention is currently on food prices. While food prices or at least prices of some food items are higher than they were last year. Historically food prices at the farm level have not increased greatly.

Food prices at retail has increased about 44 percent from the level of 20 years ago, while wholesale food prices have increased about 21 per cent, and food prices at the farm have increased 6 per cent.

The major concern of many people centers around the rising trend in meat prices. The basic reason for increasing meat demand for meat by the consumer and the relatively slower increase in meat supplies. If permitted, meat prices will rise sufficiently to attract more resources into meat production and thus increase supplies and slow down the rate of increase in meat prices. This is one of the basic functions of prices.

Short-run reaction to relatively high food prices, particularly red meats has brought about a removal of import quotas on beef, through Calendar 1972 and considerable discussion about the possibility of freezing food prices as a further step in the overall effort to control inflation.

During the past two decades the percentage of disposable income spent for food in the U.S. has declined from about 23 per cent to about 16 per cent. The English spend approximately 24 per cent of their disposable income for food, the Russians 45 per cent and the Chinese 76 per cent.

Even with somewhat higher prices for meat and some other food products, food is the best buy in the consumer market today.

Many people are wondering what effect the removal of beef import quotas will have on beef prices. One thing for sure, supplies of some of the lower grades of beef will increase and as a result prices of some of the lower grade beef animals at the farm level will soften. However in view of the relatively short world supply and the relatively strong demand for meat products throughout the world prospective increases in beef imports will have little effect on the farm price for beef. There will however be relatively greater impact on the price of cow beef and other low grade beef animals which are utilized in processed beef.

Tobacco

As a result of the smaller burley tobacco crop in 1971 (472 million lbs.) stocks of burley on April 1, 1972 showed a decline of 94 million pounds from the same date a year earlier. Government loan stock of burley declined even more during the year ending April 1 when loan stocks were 344 million pounds compared to 485 million pounds on April 1, 1971. Government stocks currently represent 22 per cent of the total whereas a year ago 30 per cent of total stocks were held under loan.

YOU AND THE DRAFT

In the eyes of his peers, Norton was an offensively beautiful young man. With a self-style bravado, he had told his fellow classmates that he would never be "drafted" and repeated it several times.

Through numerous signed letters, Norton's draft board had been alerted to this statement. The source of Norton's reasoning was the fact that his aunt by marriage and a business partner of his father were members of the draft board.

Apparently, he was not aware that board members are disqualified in acting on certain cases.

Draft regulations say, "No member of a local board shall act on his own case or on the case of a registrant who is his first cousin or closer relation, either by blood, by marriage of adoption, or who is an employee or employer, or who is a fellow employee or who stands in the relation of a superior or subordinate in connection with any employer or his partner or close business associate of the member."

If, because of these conditions, a majority of the local board cannot act on the case of a registrant, the board must request the state director to designate another board to which the young man will be transferred for classification purposes.

You may remember that, since January 1, 1970, young men have been inducted into the armed forces by lottery. Norton was born January 31, 1952. His lottery number is 239.

The Acting Director of Selective Service has announced that the "cut-off" number for registrants born in 1952 is 200.

With lottery number 239, Norton is now eligible for consideration for classification as I-R. This is a holding classification.

Should the trend continue to an all-volunteer force and a stand-by draft, Norton, as well as others born in the year 1952 holding a lottery number above 200, are figuratively "home safe." This is assuming that at the end of the calendar year they would be eligible to be moved from the prime age group to a reduced selection group.

Norton may appear to have some degree of clairvoyance in that he had the ability to perceive that he would not be drafted. He did not have to possess this gift because of the facts we have presented in detail.
