COMMISSION CLOSES HARLAN INCINERATOR— Following several court actions, the Kentucky Air Pollution Control Commission (KAPCC) has permanently enjoined the city of Harlan from operating its municipal incinerator.

Harlan Circuit Court Judge Edward G. Hill ordered that for each day on which any future violation occurs against the permanent injunction Harlan will be fined the maximum penalty of $1000. The action was taken on July 11. In his ruling, Judge Hill said the city of Harlan had permitted operation of the Harlan municipal incinerator without the required permit for 14 days despite repeated warnings from the KAPCC staff, thus violating the state air pollution regulations.

Members of the KAPCC witnessed the operation of the incinerator from Feb. 4-17. The judgment said the pollutants discharged were in such quantities and such frequency it could cause or contribute to the pollution of the environment, detrimentally affecting the health and welfare of the citizens of Kentucky. Judge Hill further stated that unless enjoined or restrained from operating the incinerator, Harlan would continue the illegal operation, inflicting immediate and irreparable damage on the citizens. Harlan Circuit Court issued a temporary restraining order on Feb. 23 and an agreed order on March 14, temporarily enjoining Harlan from the operation. *****

VOLUME 83 - NUMBER 47

Rogers Asks Gov. Ford To Explain Passage Of Bill

Commonwealth Attorney for Rockcastle and Pulaski Counties, Harold Rogers, has asked Governor Wendell Ford for an explanation of his action in signing into law, rather than vetoing it, a bill reducing the penalty for selling marijuana from a penitentiary sentence to as little as one day in the county jail.

Mr. Rogers first letter to Governor Ford, dated July 21, charged the Governor with "licensing Kentucky's 'hot-potatoes'" by lowering the penalty for sellers of marijuana.

However, Rogers inquiry brought a response, not from the Governor but from an aide, stating that the inquiry was made for political purposes and that Governor Ford would not dignify the question with an answer.

This brought a release to the press from Mr. Rogers on July 31, asking once again the reason for his (the Governor) signing Senate Bill 274 into law.

Mr. Rogers stated, "The original law (KRS 217.995 (1)) punished publishers of marijuana with a penitentiary sentence of up to five years. The new law signed by Governor Ford (KRS 218A.040), reduces the punishment to a simple fine and county jail sentence of from one day to 12 months."

"I'm sure Governor Ford did not sign the bill without a reason. He apparently feels the pusher of marijuana deserves only a sentence of from one day up to 12 months in the county jail. I'm sure he has a reasonable explanation. That is all I asked in my letter and that is all I ask again. My inquiry is directed to Gov.

Wendell Ford who signed the bill, not to some hired publicity agent whose specialty appears to be political smoke screens and vicious personal attacks on those who try to inquire of their governor—seven questions by an elected public official."

"If Gov. Wendell Ford will not 'dignify' me with an answer, as his agent indicates he would not, I ask him to answer and 'dignify' the thousands of concerned parents and plain, hard-working citizens with an answer."

"This is their inquiry, as well as mine. This is not politics. This is the welfare of our children."

"I am requesting of Governor Ford his reasoning behind signing the bill, because alarmed parents of both political persuasions in the two counties I serve as commonwealth's attorney have asked me why he didn't veto such a law, if 'I don't know, I feel these deserve a thorough and proper response, not a personal attack upon me or anyone else, or a hiding behind the political smoke screen thrown up when I legitimately inquire by my letter. The welfare of our young people is not to be treated as a political football."

"I ask why Governor Ford apparently feels this easing up on the pot-pusher is needed, as a parent myself, as a citizen, and as commonwealth's attorney of Pulaski and Rockcastle counties."

"I am proud of the record of our drug cases in Pulaski and Rockcastle counties. These counties are relatively free of the pushers, compared to other places. This is because of the stiff punishment given by our juries in the cases tried."

"I hope Mr. Rogers has not received an answer from the Governor to his second inquiry.

Board Accepts Bids For Blacktop and Bleachers

J.C. Newland and son of Brodhead were the successful low bidder on blacktopping the area around the Harry Sparks Vocational School. Bids for the project were opened at Monday night's meeting of the Rockcastle County Board of Education.

Newland's bid was $28,800. One other bid was received for $29,700.

Madat Division of Louisville, who installed the floor level bleacher seats in the new gymnasium will also install the upper deck bleacher seats since theirs was the low bid submitted to the board Monday night. M-dart bid $16,628 for the project and said the seats would be installed within 90 days, which would be before the start of the basketball season.

Also during the meeting, five additional teachers were employed. They are: Mrs. Gloria Turner, English major, RCHS; Mrs. Brenda Chase Stringer, Elementary; Mrs. Lucetta Morgan, Math major, RCHS; Mrs. Nina Palmer, Masters Degree in Elem-nary Education and Mrs. Carolyn Garrison, Masters Degree, Reading, M/ES.

The retainer fee of Forbes-

Morris Contractors on the new high school was dropped from 10% to 5% a $7 retainer fee amounts to $90,000. The board received a letter from the contractor's bonding company approving the lower fee.

The sale of public auction, July 29, of Red Hill School to Robert Ruppe was approved by the board. The school and one-half acre of land sold for $1,425.00.

The controversy over who owns Cove School will be hopefully solved at the next meeting of the board. About three parties are claiming the school, so the board, upon recommendation of board member Virgil Mullins, voted to give the claimants until the September board meeting to show evidence of ownership of the property or the property will be sold and a quit claim deed issued.

The board also granted a military leave-of-absence to Robert Calvin Webb.

SCHOOL LAW AND THE NINTH GRADER

The Rockcastle County High School is expecting 275 ninth grade students this year. They are urged to start school the very first day to ensure a good start.

Most parents and children have the idea that attendance is not compulsory after a student has finished the eighth grade, but this is not true. Law 169.00 in Kentucky Revised Statutes sets age limit for compulsory attendance at age sixteen regardless of educational attainment.

So all the 9th and 10th graders under sixteen years of age should plan on joining the other high school students at the new Rockcastle County High School, August 25.

Frankfort Watchline

The smoke has just about cleared from Kentucky's last special legislative session—a session designed to correct mistakes of the previous session and put the commonwealth in line with the demands of the federal courts.

But, alas! What's that on the horizon? Why, it's a request for yet another special session!

This time it's Atty. Gen. Ed Hancock asking Gov. Ford to arrange something to keep the death penalty, which the Supreme Court recently overturned as a method of punishment.

You know, the official phrase for a special session is "extraordinary" session.

In view of the fact that there have been more special sessions since 1849 than regular sessions—14 versus 12—we wonder if the "extraordinary" hasn't been worked to death.

The record for calling such sessions, by the way, is held by former Gov. Bert Combs. He believed they were the means of keeping the state up to date with the needs of the people and he called no fewer than five.

Of course, this is the argument used by proponents of annual legislative sessions. By the way, you'll be seeing that constitutional amendment proposal on the November 1973 ballot. Other such proposals have failed in past years.

Anyway, back to Hancock. He wants to keep the capital punishment laws in Kentucky. And so, it appears, does Ford. But the governor has a couple of problems. He wants no more special sessions until "well after" November, because of "the ing the Democratic convention at Miami Beach.

Thanking the lieutenant governor for his services as acting governor, Ford said, as a couple of hundred faithful followers applauded: "We took care of everything in Florida, Julian." *****

BUD DID HE?— However, some adherents of Sen. George McGovern in Kentucky privately vowed to remember Ford's obstinacy in refusing to switch to the eventual Democratic presidential nominee when he was obvious that his was over but the shouting.

Which raises the occasionally-asked question of how tall Kentucky would stand if McGovern actually won.

Or, as one newsman put it bluntly to Ford's press secretary, Tommy Preston: "How will you fare Ford and Kentucky going to be if McGovern wins?" Preston, we'll acknowledge, was not fazed. His quick reply: "Better off than if Nixon wins." *****

TEMPORARY HOUSING?— The subject of housing came up the other day when Carroll was holding a discussion with the Citizens Advisory Committee on the Legislature.

There was talk about the need for a new mansion and courts building and Carroll, who might have his eye on the 1975 governorship, was asked if he and his family were comfortable in the old governor's mansion—built in 1924.

Carroll said he liked his current residence just fine—"for the time being." *****

Capitol Digest

Another special legislative session, this one possibly in 1973, has been predicted by Lyman Glager, state superintendent of public instruction.

Basing his assumption on possible Supreme Court rulings before September 1973 to uphold lower courts which have thrown out the local property tax as a revenue source for schools, Glager said his department would employ outside experts in the field of school finance to suggest means of changing Kentucky laws to continue, if local taxes are invalidated, school financing.

Court decisions did not invalidate the property tax completely, he said, but just made it a state tax imposed, collected and distributed in a uniform manner.

Local property taxes last year accounted for 30 per cent of the revenue for public elementary and secondary schools, with the state providing 53.7 per cent and 16.3 per cent from the federal government.

Anticipating the 1973 ruling by the Supreme Court, Glager said the outside study may be completed by next summer with interim legislative committees being advised as the study progresses.

Other matters mentioned by Glager at a news conference included a favorable four-quarter plan for all public schools, allowing students to be in school year-round if they choose; and a plan to divide Kentucky into 17 educational districts within three years, allowing individual districts to join together for purchasing supplies and other services.

PLANS ANNOUNCED FOR NEW LRC DIVISION

Plans have been announced for establishing a Division of Local Government Services within the state Legislative Research Commission (LRC). The division will aid local officials in implementing the new "Home Rule" law, which broadened local governments' police and governing powers. Announcing creation of the division, Lt. Gov. Julian M. Carroll said the LRC is complying with its responsibility to encourage and assist state officials and employes in developing and maintaining personal contact with departments, agencies, officials and employes of local governments. The lieutenant governor, chairman of the LRC, said the division will help local government understand and implement state law and in drafting and enacting resolutions and ordinances under the Home Rule statute; and inform and assist General Assembly members in regard to legislation passed under the new law.

Price Control Amendment Defeated

The Senate recently defeated by a voice vote the amendment by Senator Frank Moss (D-Utah) to eliminate all price supports for tobacco, to prohibit government grading, to end export assistance for tobacco grown by U.S. farmers, and to end sales of U.S. leaf abroad under P.L. 480.

Senator John Sherman Cooper (R-Ky) held the Senate during debate, "This amendment has nothing to do with health. Its effect would be to destroy the livelihood of more than 500,000 farmers in this country."

It was Senator Cooper's amendment, with the late Senator Alben Barkley in 1947, which secured ninety percent price support for tobacco as a permanent provision of the law.

In 1960, he joined with Senator Everett Jordan (D-N.C.) in sponsoring the amendment which further stabilized the guarantee of ninety percent price support for tobacco.

In 1971, Senator Cooper initiated in the Senate a bill to shift production controls for burley tobacco from farm acreage allotments to farm poundage quotas. Farmers overwhelmingly favored the poundage program by a vote of 96.8 percent in referendum.

Senator Cooper stated that tobacco farmers deserve chief credit for the failure of this attempt to destroy the tobacco program.

Senator Cooper said, "Tobacco growers have made tremendous efforts year after year to control production so that their program could operate without great loss to the Government or cost to taxpayers." Senator Cooper pointed that last year the cost of the tobacco price support program was less than $100,000, adding, "I think it is fair to say that no farm program is working better today than the tobacco program—for farmers, for the Government, and for the public. That is a great tribute to the knowledge, experience, determination, and cooperation of tobacco farmers and to the hard work, patience and unity of their leadership."

None of the cows have been bred back. They're all approximately 27-30 months old, and are good size heifers. They would make ideal replacement or additional cows for a dairy herd. In addition to the heifers, will be selling two-two year old black Angus bulls. All cows have been tested and have necessary health papers.

inside the plants to active growth sites. Contact chemicals are not absorbed by plants and must be used so as to contact the suckers directly. The systemic chemicals contain maleic hydrazide as the active ingredient. MH is available in two forms, diethanolsalt and potassium salt. Maleic hydrazide used at the proper rate does not kill suckers, but prevents additional growth. Normal growth of small upper leaves also may be retarded, and therefore, plants should be topped, leaving upper leaves at least six to eight inches long.

When using a systemic sucker control chemical, Smiley suggests topping when 60-60 per cent of the plants have at least one flower open. Any suckers present should be removed when the plants are topped. Smiley says sucker control effectiveness is not reduced when untopped plants are sprayed with maleic hydrazide and then topped within 24-48 hours. Smiley says to add one pint per 1,000 plants of the diethanolsalt form of MH or 1.5 pints per 1,000 plants of the potassium salt form to 20-40 gallons of water per acre. Spray as a fine mist onto the upper portion of the plant. It is not necessary to spray the entire plant when using a systemic chemical.

Growers should be careful not to exceed the suggested rate of maleic hydrazide, says Smiley, because excessive residue on the cured leaf may create problems in selling burley, especially to foreign manufacturers.

The contact-type sucker control chemicals contain "fatty" alcohols as the active ingredient. When using a contact chemical, Smiley suggests topping when plants are in the button to early flower stage. The contact chemical must be applied as a coarse spray so that it contacts the young sucker buds. When using power equipment, a three-nozzle arrangement with TGS full cone or equivalent should be used, and pressure should not be more than 20-25 pounds per square inch. The center nozzle should be directed straight down and the side nozzles should be 8-10 inches to each side and directed in toward the upper part of the plant. If a back pack or knapsack type sprayer is used, direct coarse spray toward the upper portion of the stalk. It is not necessary to cut off the spray between plants.

Two or three gallons of contact chemical in 40-50 gallons of water are sufficient for one acre of tobacco, says Smiley. The amount needed differs according to the formulation used, so be sure to check the label for the manufacturer's recommendations. Do not mix contact sprays with insecticides and do not and do not apply them to plants that have been treated with insecticides within the previous two or three days. A contact-type chemical can be applied immediately before or after topping or within two days after topping. Suckers longer than one inch should be removed before spraying. Plants that are leaning or have crooked stalks may cause poor sucker control with contact sprays, Smiley notes, because the chemical will not come in contact with all the sucker buds. If possible, straighten leaning plants before spraying, advises the UK specialist.

State Corrections officials are still uncertain about the future of Kentucky's 24 condemned prisoners.
