called Senator Cooper... the greatest U.S. Senator the Kentucky has ever had... The Fifth District congressman went on to say that Senator Cooper... has always been a very gentleman... a kindly, good man. He worked hard for the common, poor people of Kentucky... he walks uprightly.

Kentucky Court of Appeals Judge C. Homer Nelkin, Somerset, welcomed the senator on behalf of the people of Pulaski County.

"On behalf of all of us, to all of you and on behalf of Pulaski County, we welcome you and we welcome each other and we welcome the return of John Sherman Cooper." Judge Nelkin remarked.

Somerset Mayor Jesse E. Wilson presented Senator Cooper with a "key to the hearts of the people of Somerset."

"When you see this key it will remind you of how much we appreciate what you have done for us," Mayor Wilson told the retiring U.S. Senator.

"God gave Senator Cooper a talent of service to the people. He has used it to the best of his ability," the mayor said. He further noted that the large crowd at the park was present, "not that you can do for us in the future but because they love you."

The Rev. L.D. Fisher, pastor of the First Christian Church, Somerset, and conducted the ceremonies during the honor day program, said the people honor Senator Cooper for "his honesty, his integrity, his sincerity and his efficiency."

Rev. Fisher triggered applause from the crowd when he made this remark: "Had we the opportunity to send a representative to another planet which is inhabited and they wanted us to send the best representative we could from earth... honestly, sincerely, without equivocation, I would send Sen. John Sherman Cooper and Mrs. Cooper to go along and help him like as for be many, many years."

STATE POLICE REPORT COSTLY LABOR DAY

By Sam Hensley
State News Bureau

FRANKFORT, Ky.—The loss to Kentucky's economy from Labor Day Weekend highway deaths will be approximately $1.4 million. Most of us didn't know the 15 people who died as a result of accidents between 8 p.m. Friday and 12 midnight Monday, but in one way or another we'll all help to pick up the $18,000 an hour tab for the weekend.

That's what National Safety Council figures say. The average highway death, in terms of dollar loss to the economy, costs $40,000. The average property damage accidents costs us $380; an injury removes $2,500 from circulation.

Figures furnished by the state Department of Public Safety show 382 accidents during the holiday period, 293 of which involved injuries. Eight people died in single car accidents, three more in collisions with fixed objects. An additional three people died in collisions between automobiles, and one in a non-collision accident.

The victims ranged from two years of age to 71 years. All but three were Kentuckians; many were killed driving roads they probably knew well.

State Police issued 2509 citations for moving violations, made 248 arrests for driving while intoxicated, and gave out 3388 more citations for other miscellaneous offenses. They issued nearly 3000 warnings for minor offenses.

There were five more deaths than last year, 71 more accidents and 89 more injuries.

State Police feel their "We Care" safety program prevented many accidents and saved lives, but it was still a busy, costly weekend. You might have seen the black armbands they wore to show mourning. Now you know why.

SHOPPERS ANTICIPATE SAVINGS

FRANKFORT, Ky.—Emotions are mixed...feelings vary around the state but overall, shoppers and shop-keepers alike appear optimistic about Gov. Wendell Ford's removal of the sales tax on consumptinal food, scheduled to go into effect Oct. 1.

While many housewives admit some fear of, times consuming delays and confusion at check-out lines, the idea of saving $1.50 per week (statistics show the average Kentucky family of four spends $30 per week for groceries) generally appeals to the "save or sale" psychology of womanhood, overcoming any apprehensions that might exist.

A Wayne County homemaker reports that it will be great to get a tax break somewhere. We all like to save money.

"Everyone has to buy food," a Covington woman said, anticipating a $2 weekly savings for her family of four.

While others voice skepticism and fear of confusion, what fears remain basically reflect a concern for the economic climate itself. As a Henderson County shopper explains, "When even the President's price freezes has so little effect, I have little confidence in any kind of tax relief."

Surprisingly, those expected to complain most about the food tax removal—the merchants themselves—are saying the least. Instead, they seem to be spending more time preparing and adjusting for the Oct. 1 change.

Chain store operators, most of whom are already equipped with large detailed cash registers needed for taxable and non-taxable sales, anticipate only minor problems.

Rockets Get Second Loss At MMI 20-8

The Rockcastle County Rockets traveled to MMI at Millersburg last Friday and lost their second game in three starts 20-8.

The Rockets opened the scoring in the first quarter when Mark Bray ran 20 yards with a blocked punt and Ronnie Brown scored the extra points. However, MMI went ahead in the second quarter when Billy Johnson scored on a 79 yard run and Stephens intercepted a pass and ran 40 yards for another touchdown. MMI scored their final touchdown in the fourth quarter on a 52 yard run off an intercepted pass.

gains on long runs. But, an intercepted pass gave the ball back to MMI and the clock ran out on the Rockets.

Friday afternoon, the Rockets travel to Lexington to meet a strong Sayre team. Coach Glen Polly has been working the team hard this week trying to correct a few mistakes made in the MMI game.

CEDAR RAZDS CORNER MENU

Friday Night: Hamburger-Corona Casserole, salmon croquettes, french fried peppers, scalloped tomatoes, hash brown potatoes, salad, corn bread, orange-pineapple dessert.

Sunday Dinner: Oven Baked Steak and Gravy, fried chicken. (Cont. To 12)

ROCKETS MISFIRE and how-- The above picture was typical of the Rockets all afternoon last Friday when their offense couldn't put anything together (witness the lone ball carrier surrounded by MMI tacklers) and the defense couldn't contain MMI. The final score, 20-8, was a combination of mistakes and unskillful plays by the Rockets. The Rockets journey to Sayre this Friday night for an 8 p.m. encounter with a tough team.

Sen. Cooper Honored By Pulaskians Sunday

MC BRAYER HERE SATURDAY, SEPT. 16

State Senator Terry McBrayer will be at the Rockcastle County Courthouse Saturday, September 16 at 2:30 p.m. All Democrats are urged to attend this meeting.

MOBILE HOMES SALES OPENS HERE

Twin Lakes Mobile Homes, with offices in seven towns in Kentucky and Tennessee, have opened a lot on U.S. 25 just south of Mt. Vernon.

The local lot will be operated by Lee Carmichael, who, with his wife and three children, is now making his home here.

The lot will be open from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. Monday through Saturday and from 1:30 p.m. to 5 p.m. Sundays.

"Perhaps no man has made the transition from small mountain town politics to the halls of the U.S. Senate, palace and courts of kings and the palace of queens as had Senator Cooper," the minister said.

Congressman Tim Lee Carter (Cook, To 12)

PLEASE FLY YOUR FLAGS

The Rockcastle Chapter DAR reminds citizens and marshals of Mt. Vernon and the county to please fly their flags during the week of September 17th - 23rd. This week has been designated Constitution Week to commemorate the writing of the Constitution of the United States in Philadelphia during the summer of 1787 and the completing of the signing of the document on September 17, 1787.

In his humble and halting voice, the 71-year-old senator responded: "I think it would have been much better if I could have done something today for the people of this county to thank you for your kindness and your support and your inspiration throughout these many years."

Rev. Munday, in an emotionally charged voice, proclaimed: "I'm reminded of his biggest as a person. Senator Cooper is a big man!"

The minister, now pastor of the St. John AME Church, Monticello, recalled the dark days of the depression when Senator Cooper served as county judge of Pulaski County.

"There was want, hunger and need...many persons in dire circumstances. Rev. Munday said. The judge's office was head with people, the minister recalled, pointing out that Judge Cooper "...didn't pass up anyone... he did whatever he could for them, sometimes at the expense of his own salary."

Mrs. Norma Eversole, DAR Constitution Week Sets Chairman, looks on as County Judge Charles Carter signs a proclamation setting aside the week of September 17 through the 23 as Constitution Week in Rockcastle County.

The Council discussed the matter and decided to authorize Mayor Ed Winstead and City Clerk Erceal Cromer to file forms with the Environmental Protection Agency and CVADD with reference to such project.

The Council also passed a motion to employ Crawford and Crawford Engineers to establish northern boundary lines of city limits.

But Shank, manager of Renton Valley Boat Dock, met with the Council also to discuss the leasing of the boat dock for a five-year period. Mr. Shank's present contract expires December 31, 1972. The Council took the matter under advisement but made no decision at the meeting.

The Council also decided to purchase all four city policemen a uniform consisting of one pair of pants and a shirt.

JOHN NICHOLS'

Frankfort Watchline

A valid question is whether Gov. Wendell Ford's health during his first year in office has had any effect on the pace of his administration.

The answer must be "yes" although the impact of any lag could fall victim to exaggeration.

"We'll put it simply: Without Ford's back trouble and anorexia surgery, his blueprint for change would probably be on schedule.

The governor acknowledges he is about 60 days behind on completion of "vital" state government programs.

The pressing activity to him is reorganization, and he says it's moving along acceptably. But he feels he should be a year's going on.

That's what bothers his aides. They feel ought to rest and give his ailing back a chance to mend.

It was the back trouble, you may recall, which turned into a blessing in disguise, leading physicians to discover a dangerous aneurysm in the necking of an abdominal artery—which had to be repaired in Houston a few months ago.

For the governor, it's been one physical problem after another. He had to resume therapy his back at Lexington, but the doctor's order was to get plenty of rest and stay in the mansion during much of his "working" day.

Anyone who knows Wendell Ford knows his working hours aren't confined from 9 to 5, and that he does with little sleep. He's got that lean look and he's got to be on the move constantly.

Well, Ford celebrated his 48th birthday last Friday, as frustrated as ever at not being able to get fully involved in all the work that needs to be done.

For a political campaign, that restiveness is great. It keeps a candidate hopping, inspires aides and convinces voters that a dynamo is on the loose.

But as Kentucky's number one citizen—well, that's another matter. His friends and subordinates want to get the work back on the time track, which at the same time encourages Ford to take better care of himself.

And the governor does take an occasional opportunity for a few days' vacation with the first lady and his son Steve. Often, however, he is hunting or fishing or making a speech. Not very restful.

Ford walks quite a bit near the mansion for exercise and threatens once in awhile to challenge press row members to tennis on the court adjoining the mansion, but not even the duffers are taking him up.

Many an early morning he takes a few turns around the Capitol grounds. And, if he picks the right time in the evening, he can also stroll quite a way—provided he avoids the fast-walkers, the dog-walkers, the urtiety-seekers that naturally are drawn to a governor.

THE DOUBLE STANDARD.—Ford's aides have a continuing problem with people demanding to see his boss on "important" issues.

One supporter, aware of the governor's physical problems, telephoned the other day, admonishing the aide to see that the governor gets plenty of rest and follows doctor's orders—and that Ford receives fewer visitors on business.

"Oh, by the way, can I get in to see the governor tomorrow?" he asked.

One Strip Mining Benefit—With all the talk about more than $8 million in bonds outstanding from strip mine operators who are not reclaiming the land properly, one newsman at the governor's press conference the other day came up with what looks like an excellent suggestion.

If the bonds are forfeited, why not use the money to hire unemployed Eastern Kentuckians to reclaim the land in question?

That proposal would solve temporarily—the jobs problem while at the same time carrying out the meritorious goal of making the mined land fit to look at.

SECOND MAN IN.—Yes, 1976 is far off, but a governor and lieutenant governor will be chosen then.

It's understood, of course, that Lt. Gov. Julian Carroll is an unannounced candidate to succeed Ford, but what about a running mate?

Well, we ask this: What enterprising attorney from Eastern Kentucky is building houses and energetically laboring in his chosen field to bankroll his expected candidacy for No. 2 spot?

Sorry, even if you know the answer, it's a bit premature to publish it here.

Forgive my boo-boo last week in calling the football team Mt. Vernon instead of the Rockcastle Rockets. The error was called to my attention several times but at the same time, they failed to mention that in two other places in the paper I did call them the Rockcastle Rockets. Bear with me, it'll just take a little while to get all the new names squared away.

Not in a long time have I been so upset as I was last Saturday night while watching the championship basketball game of the Olympics be stolen from the USA. There's no other name for it and it is a shame and a disgrace. The last word that we had on the affair was that the appeals jury voted 3-2 to award Russia the Gold Medal and the three voting in favor of it were all Communist bloc nations. But the thing I really hate about it was that half of the beans I was breaking up while watching the ball game wound up in with the ends and strings. Anyway, I heartily applauded the USA team for refusing to meekly accept the Silver medal. The incident probably didn't make for too good relations between the countries but it gets a little stupid to kowtow to them over a basketball game...

Well, UK begins their football season Saturday and once again we are getting the old line of "this is the year." I don't know, I'll have to be scrappy. The Rockets suffered another defeat last Friday afternoon at the hands of scrappy MHL. They were scrappy but the Rockets just didn't play any defense and their offense was negligible. It seems like that Russell County game really took their spirit! but maybe they'll get it together again before too long.

Watched my old favorite Bonanza last night and was I ever depressed at the end. It seems that just once something normal could happen to that family but no they had to go and kill off Little Joe's wife of four months in the very first episode. Of course, Joe hunted them down and took his revenge but looks to me like the story could have had a happy ending just as well as a sad one. After all, Joe has been on the series for fourteen years and isn't getting any younger he needs a happy ending.

You're all laughing at me for taking a show so seriously, you haven't heard anything until you talk to some of these women who watch the soap operas daily. My mother for example has been known to call me long distance to see how we are getting along and then to come up with some totally irrelevant statement like "did you see what Bob did to Alice yesterday?" While I sit there frantically wracking my brain trying to remember some old acquaintances named Bob and Alice, she goes on to tell me about the terrible problems they are having and finally it dawned on me that she's talking about characters on General Hospital or Search For Tomorrow. I've watched them on my days off when I had absolutely nothing else to do and I can tell you right now a week of them every day would be enough to give a nervous breakdown. Nobody ever laughs or is happy, they're too busy introducing new worries for their actors.

and your readers about a few of the things that made my visit most enjoyable.

During my short visit to Mt. Vernon I was fortunate to meet several people with whom I grew up in the past years, and at the same time I was able to talk with many of the younger people on the streets, and all seemed to be enjoying life just fine and believed they lived in a good town and that it was a good place to live. However, while in your fair city, we were saddened by news from the Olympic Games at Munich, Germany, where a tragic had fallen to some of the persons who were taking part in the games, and after listening to the details of what had happened, it made me feel good to be with people who set and talk in peace.

I was impressed by the police officers in your city, they appear to go the extra mile in assisting people who come into town for a visit. In fact, since I was visiting and driving my car, I inquired where I could park for a short time and was directed to the city parking lot, of which I did not know its whereabouts. The city parking lot in which I parked was the site of the old railroad depot and station. When I parked, I brought back many happy memories of the many train rides I took from the old L & N depot.

It also brought to mind how many people would often go down to the station to see who got off or on the train. Also, we often failed to mail a letter at the post office, and would hurry down to the depot to put our letter in the mail car of the passenger train.

THE BEAUTY OF THE JUMP

One of the most popular sports with Kentucky horsemen and women is jumping, which involves two classes of horse-hunters and jumpers. The hunter is usually judged on conformation as well as performance, and a braided mane and tail (above left), along with a shiny coat and clean hooves will catch a judge's eye. A portrait of ease and grace over field or fence (above), hunter and rider show little stress as they literally become one. The jumper (left), on the other hand, is all stress, he is judged on making the jump—nothing else matters.

Capitol Digest

Gov. Wendell Ford has released details of a new health program which he called "the most significant piece of health legislation in the history of Kentucky."

The governor made the initial announcement at the 38th annual Southern Governor's Conference in Hilton Head, S.C.

Part of the governor's Legislative Health Package enacted by the 1972 General Assembly, the program is called the Kentucky Certificate of Need, Licensure and Regulation Act. It will contain three major provisions:

VISIONS:

* An authoritative base for planning and development of health services and facilities under Comprehensive Health Planning.

* A single board, responsible for licensure and regulation of health services and facilities.

* A link between the planning function and licensure regulatory function.

Gov. Ford called the act, "an aggressive program where innovation and coordination will no more be shackled."

The governor noted that Kentucky now is one of only two or three states that combine the licensure of health facilities and health services.

Kentucky, like other states, implemented comprehensive health planning in 1967, but Gov. Ford said he has not been pleased with the results.

UNLICENSED HOME WINEMAKING BANNED

The state Attorney General's office handed down an opinion which apparently bans the sale of home wine-making kits to anyone who does not hold a valid voter's license.

The opinion, written by Asst. Gen. Jackson D. Conrad, said Bohlen cannot sell wine-making kits, supplies and accessories to anyone who doesn't hold a voter's license.

The state Alcoholic Beverage Control Board issues such licenses, which cost $500 per year. Conrad quoted two state statutes referring to the manufacture of alcoholic beverages. KRS 243.020 (1) says, "No person shall do any act authorized by any kind of person with respect to the manufacture, storage, sale, purchase, transporting or other traffic in alcoholic beverages unless he holds the kind of license that authorizes such act." KRS 244.170 says, "No person shall buy, buy in, sell, loan, own, possess or knowingly transport any apparatus Designed for the unlawful manufacture of alcoholic beverages."

STATE TO HELP HANDICAPPED

The state Department of Parks says it has come up with $800,000 to launch a pilot camp for handicapped children at Rough River Reservoir, despite cancellation of federal financing for the project.

To be built near Madras in Breckinridge County by the Kentucky Easter Seal Society, the camp will accommodate 70 campers at a time. Plans for the camp were announced last October.

At that time, part of the $2.6 million cost of the camp was to be paid by U.S. Department of the Interior, with the Easter Seal Society providing funds to purchase the land. However, the federal financing was recently cancelled.

James E. Owens, deputy commissioner of Parks, said the federal arrangement was cancelled for several reasons. Originally, Bureau of Outdoor Recreation funds were to be used to match local money, but this was found to be impossible under existing federal regulations because use of the park would be limited to the handicapped. Such federal funds can be used only on projects for the general public.

Owens said the financing cut-back will not greatly alter construction plans for the park. The new financing arrangement calls for the Easter Seal Society and the state to share in the cost of constructing the camp. The Parks Department provided the state contribution from accumulated capital-construction funds.

HIGHER RETIREMENT DENIED TEACHERS

Retired black teachers in Kentucky can't be paid higher retirement benefits than whites to make up for past inequities in their pay, according to the state Attorney General's office.

Asst. Atty. Gen. J.T. Frankenberger said present statutes and regulations do not allow for such payments, even though black teachers admitted were paid less than whites in the early part of this century.

Frankenberger said there is no fund from which such payments could be made. The opinion was requested by Charles Wasley, representing the Kentucky Education Association's Commission on Human Relations.

Wasley said an increase would create disproportionately high allowances compared with the amount paid into the retirement fund. That could weaken the present teacher retirement system, Frankenberger said. He added that it would be "most difficult, if not impossible" to determine now how long and how much black teachers in various years were paid less than whites.

Salaries have been uniform for teachers of both races since 1964 as a result of action taken then by the state Board of Education.

STATE GRANTS KU REHEARING

The state Public Service Commission has granted Kentucky Utilities Co. (KUC) a rehearing in its case seeking higher electric rates.

Last month, the commission granted KUC a rate increase that would raise the company's revenues about $3.8 million annually. However, KUC had sought rates that would produce about $13.8 million in new revenue each year. The company sought rehearing on the matter, complaining the commission had not included "stricter" allowances in its decision.

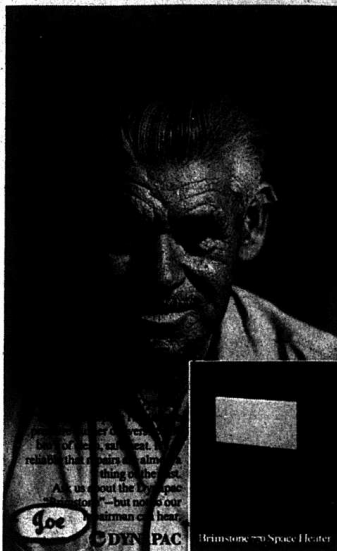

Attrition is an arbitrary increase in the rate base of a utility, taking into account expected increases in costs due to inflation. The elimination of attrition is a reversal of usual policy used by the commission in rate matters since 1970.

ATTY. GEN. OKS CLOSED MEETINGS

The state Attorney General's office says the Pendleton County Board can close its meetings to the public and keep its routine records secret.

The opinion was requested by Warren J. Shonert, publisher of The Falmouth Outlook, a Pendleton County weekly newspaper, who asked if the board (Cont. to 7)

ROCKCASTLE DAR MEETS SATURDAY, AUGUST 27

The Rockcastle Chapter DAR met Saturday, August 27, at the home of Mrs. Elijah Cummins and Mrs. Walter White in Lexington. In the absence of the Regent, Mrs. Robert Huff, the ritual was conducted by Mrs. Wanda and assisted by Mrs. Lafe Owens, Chaplain. Mrs. Roy Green read the message of the President General and Mrs. White gave the National Defense News. Miss Janie Ramsey reported plans for the Genealogical Workshop to be held September 30th. Mrs. Wilberna Walker, Fund Raising Chairman for the Duncan Tavern, the State shrine at Paris owned by the Kentucky Society DAR, told of plans for the Homecoming Festival to be held at the Tavern on November 1st and 2nd.

Mrs. Elbert Eversole, State Constitution Week Chairman, spoke on the subject "Our Constitution." She told of State and Chapter plans for the celebration of Constitution Week and displayed the Constitution Week Booklet compiled by her daughter. She concluded her program by reading a prize winning essay of 1971 written by Brian L. Haskins, then a senior at Broadhead High School. The following paragraphs are taken from this essay:

"The Constitution consists of certain distinct parts; it begins with the Preamble, a short, concise paragraph, that is often called the Heart of the Constitution. That is followed by the main body of the document - that part which cites our civil liberties, sets up the foundation for our democratic form of government, and gives that government the right to pass laws and levy taxes. The third and final part of the Constitution is that part which contains the amendments."

"The amendments are corrections and ideas believed in and expressed by the people of our country. They have been added to our Constitution at times when the document itself was inadequate. The first ten amendments, known as the Bill of Rights, were initiated into the Constitution even before it had become fully effective and were the basic civil liberties the people wanted assured."

"There is a total of twenty six amendments that have been added to the Constitution. If you consider that the first ten were the Bill of Rights, and were added to the Constitution when it was first written, you can say that there has been only sixteen instances since the birth of the Constitution nearly two hundred years ago, that the Constitution has failed to live up to the standards of the American people. That record, plus the role the United States has come to hold in world affairs, proves to us that this Constitution is the greatest document ever developed and followed by mankind..."

"I believe very strongly in the Constitution. Not because of its age, or its heritage but because of the job it has done. I believe in it because of the problems it has solved, the arguments it has cleared up, it is the fact connected with the document, not the fantasy, that makes it great..."

VOWS SAID— Mr. and Mrs. Zade McClure of Mt. Vernon announce the marriage of their daughter, Lois, to Jackie Sewell, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Sewell of Shopville. The marriage was solemnized Friday evening, August 25 at the home of the bride's parents with Bro. Lloyd Sewell officiating at the double-ring ceremony. After a short wedding trip to North Carolina, the couple are making their home in Shopville.

I don't like a man, whether he be a ditch digger or the President of the United States, I can tell him so without fear of losing my job of life. I can work at any job I wish - I am not categorized and placed in a certain slot for the rest of my life. I can sing, laugh, cry, shout or remain silent. I can do as I please, that is what the Constitution is all about....

There are certain things that you can not do in this country. But it is nothing that infringes on your rights. They are things that keep you from destroying the rights of others, as well as other people destroying yours. Above I have said that I can do as I please, but that is not the whole truth. I can only do those things that neither hurt another person, nor destroy that person's personal property. Certain rules have been set up to keep you from committing acts that will hurt your neighbor. But in the long run they also help in making your personal freedom more secure....

I have a personal philosophy, that if followed by every American in this country, would continue to make this country the best ever known, or to be known in the future. It can be summed up in the Preamble of the Constitution, if rewritten in this manner:

"We, the citizens of these United States, in order to abide with this Union, advocate justice, work toward domestic tranquility, support the common defense, promote the general welfare, and secure the blessings of liberty to myself and my posterity, do hereby support this Constitution for the United States of America."

could legally prevent him from attending its meetings or from inspecting routine hospital records. Ass't. Atty. Gen. Charles Runyon, who wrote the opinion, cited a Court of Appeals ruling in the case of The Court, Journal and Louisville Times Co. vs. Judge L.R. Curtis in which the newspapers sought unsuccessfully to examine a confession delivered in the judge's chambers in a murder case.

Runyon noted that the high court applied the common-law rule, since Kentucky has neither constitutional nor statutory provisions for public inspection of judicial records.

The common-law requires the person wishing to inspect such public records to show he has an interest "therein which is such as would enable him to maintain or defend an action for which document or record sought can furnish evidence or necessary information."

Runyon said he could find no statute requiring the hospital board to open its meetings to the public, and unless a statute expressly requires meetings to be public, they do not have to be public.

SOCIAL SECURITY QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Q. A couple of months ago I had my first heart attack and my doctor isn't sure I'll ever be able to go back to work. If I apply for monthly social security payments, how will social security determine if my condition is severe enough to keep me from working?

A. The medical report from your doctor will show the severity of your condition—to what degree you are unable to do such things as move about, handle things, hear, speak, etc. The medical evidence, together with other information about you—the kind of work you have done in the past, your education, your training, and other abilities is the basis on which a decision can be made as to whether your condition prevents you from doing any "substantial gainful" work.

Sales Tax On Food To Be Removed Oct. 1

FRANKFORT, Ky.—The final phase of Gov. Wendell Ford's tax package—the removal of the sales tax on food as enacted by the 1972 General Assembly—goes into effect October 1.

With this bill in effect, Kentucky's shoppers can expect to save an extra nickel on every dollar of consumption food—a nickel previously marked for the state Revenue Department.

Revenue officials point out that only foods and cooking materials sold for use or consumption in the home are to be exempt from the tax. The exemption will not apply to such items as candy or soft drinks.

Cooking chocolate, ice cream and ice cream toppings and fruit-based drinks will be non-taxable, but chewing gum and cocktail mixes will be taxed.

Household supplies, paper products and pet foods will be taxable, while health foods and vegetable juices will be nontaxable.

Plain or salted nuts and plain popcorn will be tax-exempt, but chocolate-covered nuts and caramel-coated popcorn will be taxed.

Basically, officials are taking the position that fruits, nuts or popcorn preparations including chocolate, honey or other confectionery will be taxable unless they are sold for cooking purposes. Packaging and distribution methods of the preparations will be considered in determining their primary use.

Food sales by retailers who ordinarily sell for consumption on or near the premises are to be taxed even if they are take-out orders. That would apply even to pints or quarts of ice cream and quantities of such items as doughnuts or hamburgers.

On the other hand, certain foods that has been prepared for immediate home consumption will be tax-exempt if they are sold in a store that is engaged principally in selling non-taxable food. For example, chickens roasted on a rotisserie in a supermarket will be tax-exempt.

If, however, a store has facilities for eating prepared food on the premises, such food will be taxed whether it is eaten there or sold on a "to go" basis.

A combination business at one location, such as an eating place having a doughnut or pastry shop or grocery line, will not have to charge the sales tax on food sold for home consumption, Revenue officials say.

Sale of prepared meals will continue to be taxable whether the meals are served on or off the premises of the retailer.

Home Line

By Cheryl Witt

It's that time of year again. School's started and the leaves will soon be falling. It's time to start thinking of 4-H again. September is the month when 4-H'ers enroll in new projects and complete the records of projects they took last year. September is the time for reorganizing 4-H clubs and organizing new groups.

What is 4-H? 4-H is an educational program to help the young person grow mentally, physically, socially, and spiritually by developing new skills, participating in activities and learning to be effective leaders. The 4-H's stand for head, heart, hands and health—all areas of development. The program is sponsored by the Cooperative Extension Service — a joint effort of the University of Kentucky, the U.S. Department of Agriculture, and Rockcastle County.

Work in 4-H is carried out under the guidance of adult leaders. Adult leaders work with the young people in their projects, in planning programs, and in the youth's overall development. Parents of 4-H'ers, teachers, or anyone who is interested in youth can serve as leaders. The cooperation of parents is necessary in the 4-H program since parents help their children by encouragement, support and assistance in their 4-H work.

Any young person ages 9-19, boy or girl, farm or city, is eligible to be a 4-H'er. The 4-H'er enrolls in a project or activity. Some 4-H'ers work as a group on the same project; others learn by doing in such individual projects as clothing, electricity, entomology, foods, forestry, bicycle, dog, gardening, horse grooming, knitting, home-furnishings, photography, woodworking, leadership, tobacco, beef or dairy, and money management. Projects may be carried year after year in order to improve skills and learnings. Parents and project leaders help the 4-H'ers with their projects.

There is a special place in 4-H for teenagers. Projects for teenagers include automotive, American Private Enterprise System, leadership, and community pride. Community and environmental improvement are also concerns of 4-H'ers.

Each 4-H'er is encouraged to participate in at least one activity each year. A 4-H'er can enter in as many activities as he or she wants. Activities for 4-H'ers in Rockcastle County include poster contest, variety show, talk meet, demonstration contest, style runs, Kentucky 4-H Congress, camp, fairs, and horse shows.

Four 4-H members meet once a month in a club meeting.

Dream Power.

Every person that lives has some kind of dream. The day he doesn't, he's dead. The ability to imagine is one of the most precious powers we have.

Dreams change things. Some dreams may call for money. U.S. Savings Bonds are the safe way to make sure some of your dreams come true. And, they're easy to buy. Your bank sells 'em. Or, you can probably buy them through the Payroll Savings Plan where you work. Bonds build you a sizeable nest egg. While you build a dream.

Bond power. That's real dream power.

New U.S. Bonds pay 2 1/2% interest when held to maturity of 5 years. 10 months after the first year. Bonds are replaced if lost, stolen, or destroyed. When needed, they can be cashed at your bank. Interest is not subject to state or local income taxes, and federal tax may be deferred until redemption.

Take stock in America. New Bonds are on in less than six years.

FLY SEASON IS HERE
August and September are the months when cattle flies become most problematic.

Chemical Treatments For Bagworms are no Longer Effective
Don't waste your time and money spraying for bagworm control. It is too late in the season—the worms are full grown and very difficult to kill.

As you know, bagworms live in spindle-shaped bags on juniper, cedar, arbutus, and various shade trees. They are voracious eaters, even though the caterpillar never leaves the bag in which it dwells.

The bagworm, in a few weeks, will enter the over-wintering stage. Females will soon lay many eggs in the bags. Next spring these will hatch and small caterpillars will start feeding on the foliage of the host plants.

One of the practically control left at this time is to hand-pick the bags off the trees or shrubs. These should then be burned.

In early spring you can use malathion, Sevin, diazinon and other sprays for control by treating in June you are making control difficult by attacking the insect at the weakest link in its life cycle.

First, remove pony top, leaving only enough of the stem for a convenient handle. New recommendations, in digging the stems, are to dig the stems to the shovel's edge, not to keep as much of the plant root as possible.

Use plenty of water to settle the soil around the newly-planted root. New suggestions, you may use a light-mulch of leaves or weed-free straw to help keep the newly-set root moist during the fall and to protect against alternate freezing and thawing during the winter.

You & The Draft

For the information of all draft registrants, we have compiled a further list of questions which are frequently received by our office. Some of the questions and their answers follow.

Are graduate students eligible for student deferments? No graduate students deferments have been granted since Feb. 15, 1968, except for graduate students in medicine, osteopathy, dentistry, veterinary medicine, agriculture or podiatry. Also, graduate students who have received induction orders while in school have been postponed until the end of their current academic year.

The new law changes this policy. As a result, graduate students who receive induction orders will be eligible to have their inductions postponed until the end of their current semester of school. If they are in their last year of graduate studies, they will be able to receive a postponement until the end of the academic year.

If the Army is releasing some men early, why do they keep drafting other young men? The Army's policy of releasing some men early while continuing to draft other young men seems to be something of a paradox. It actually does not seem to be a paradox.

The first group served in either Vietnam or Korea, and could not be profitably re-assigned. This group's induction is consistent with the intent of Congress to reduce the manpower strength of the armed forces.

Secondly, new men are needed to fill the lower ranks of the Army since older, more experienced men cannot serve in the same capacity due to their training. This way the Army has been drafting young men while releasing others early.

Why does Selective Service use a lottery? The lottery system was instituted in December 1969 for two main reasons. First, under the lottery system a young man has a prime vulnerability to the draft of only one year, usually calculated as the year of his 20th birthday. This age was chosen as the most appropriate for vulnerability because at this time men normally have few occupational and military responsibilities and, as a result, induction causes less disruption to their lives.

These young men then know their military obligations at an early age, and are in a position to plan their futures with certainty. Under the old system, men were drafted on oldest-to-youngest basis, from 18 to 25 years of age. Under this system, some men were drafted and therefore uncertain of their futures, for seven years.

Secondly, since only 35 percent of those who normally register draft age actually enter the armed forces, the lottery system is considered the fairest and most equitable way of selecting men for service, since not all are needed.

How long does a young man have to carry his draft card? As a result of the DRAFT amendments to the Military Selective Service Act, registrants are required to carry their identification and classification cards only until the end of their liability for military service. This is age 26 for those who never had any military record and age 35 for those who did have a deferment.
