

Questions and Answers

Q. My wife recently had a stroke that left her with a severe speech problem. She's 66 now. If she gets through home health visits, will our Medicare coverage pay for it?

A. Yes. Medicare will pay for up to 100 home health visits each calendar year—if your wife needs speech therapy, if she's confined to her home, and if her doctor has determined she needs home health care and sets up and periodically reviews a plan for the care. Also, the home health agency must be one that participates in Medicare.

Q. I was handling all my mother's finances, including her social security check, before she died recently. What should I do with the money I had saved from her monthly social security payments?

A. All of her social security payments which you have saved or invested belong to her estate. You should turn this money over to the legal representative of the estate for distribution according to state law.

Q. My 65-year-old wife and I are both getting monthly social security retirement payments on my work record. Recently, my wife was offered a full-time job. I know her earnings may affect her payments, but will her earnings also affect my monthly payments?

A. No. Your wife's earnings will not affect your monthly retirement payments.

Q. I've been getting social security payments since I was 9. Next year when I'm 18, I plan to enroll in a trade school. A friend told me that my monthly payments will stop when I become 18 if I don't go to college. Is this true?

A. No. You don't have to go to college to continue to get your monthly payments after you're 18. However, you do have to be single and under 65. If you are a student at an educational institution, most trade schools qualify as educational institutions. You should check with your social security office to be certain the trade school you're planning to attend meets this qualification.

Q. I'm 62 and planning to retire within the next year or two. Must I wait until my birthday to apply or can I apply at any time during the next 2 years?

A. You can apply for retirement payments any time. If you decide to have your checks start before 65, your benefit amount will be permanently reduced. The amount of the reduction depends on how many months you get checks before you're 65. For every month that you are closer to 65, the reduction in payments is less. You should apply for Medicare 2 or 3 months before the month of your 65th birthday.

Q. I have a small business in which I employ five people. One person I just hired showed me two social security cards with the same name but different numbers. Which number do I use?

A. Have your employee call, write, or visit the social security office immediately. The people there will have his records checked and advise him which number he should be using. Then he can give the correct number to you.

With the Modern Volunteer Army concept scheduled to become effective next year, we are presenting a list of questions and answers for the information of those who will be affected by the draft during its remaining months.

Q. Are young men who are drafted sent to Vietnam?

A. Since June 85, no draftees have been sent to Vietnam unless they are in the armed forces. President Nixon announced that orders published on June 28 or later for assignment of draftees to Vietnam will be assigned and the draftees will be assigned elsewhere.

This policy is consistent with Congressional intent to reduce manpower levels and with the massive withdrawal of troops from Vietnam. Our force in Europe (with over 300,000) is more than seven times our current troop strength in Vietnam.

Will women be drafted? If so, when?

The Equal Rights Amendment which is the proposed 27th Amendment to our Constitution, was recently passed by Congress and now awaits ratification by all of the states. By its own language, the amendment would draft women two years after the day of ratification by the 33rd state legislature. Ratification would require more votes than some times next year, so the constitutional command of equality would not be binding until 1978.

The amendment states, "Equality of rights under the law shall not be denied or abridged by the United States or by any state on account of sex." It was decided by Congress that women will be subject to the draft.

The present Military Selective Service Act specifically provides for the drafting of only males. If the proposed amendment requires a change in the language of that act, the exemptions and deferments now provided presumably would apply equally to any persons subject to being drafted.

The President's authority to induct into the armed forces men who have not received a deferment will expire in July 1, 1973, when the Modern Volunteer Army is scheduled to begin operation. Since the Equal Rights Amendment would not require women to be drafted until 1978, the Selective Service System has not yet developed plans for the registration and induction of women.

When will we see an end to the draft?

The 1971 draft law extends the draft until July 1, 1973. It is hoped that by that date draft calls can be reduced to zero and that the modern Volunteer Force will be a reality. The President believes that to end the draft now would jeopardize the ability of the military to meet its manpower requirements. This in turn would endanger the security of the nation and could further delay an end to the reliance on the draft through the creation of an all-volunteer army.

How are local board members chosen?

Upon recommendation of the governor, local board members are appointed by the President. Members of local boards must be United States citizens, male or female, and must be residents of a county in which their local boards have jurisdiction.

A local board member is not allowed to be in the armed forces or in one of the Reserve components. In addition, the 1971 amendments to the Military Selective Service Act provide that after Dec. 31, 1971, no person shall serve on a local board after he has reached the age of 65 or has served on a local appeal board for a period of more than 30 years. The 1971 amendments also allow young citizens to be appointed to local boards at age 18.

Further, in 1971, the Congress "requested" the president "to appoint the membership of each local board so that to the maximum extent possible it is proportionately representative of the race and national origin of those registrants within its jurisdiction."

Only one day in each week had any sort of military connotation. Except for that day, members of the staff wore civilian clothing and references to rank were minimized.

Each week ended with a bang. Campers got a ride in an M-60 tank, saw a flyover by Kentucky Air National Guard RF-101's, and an army helicopter demonstration.

"We had a meeting recently to select new council officers and there was quite an enthusiastic exchange of ideas, not just about this year, but improvements for next year. Perhaps Sergeant Major Schiefer's attitude is typical: 'I wish we could have given all three groups eight weeks.'"

Who will decide whether my disability will keep me from doing any other work?

A. You apply at your social security office, but doctors and vocational specialists in a State Agency (usually the Vocational Rehabilitation Agency) who have had experience in seeing the effects of disabilities upon peoples' abilities to work make this decision. They study all the facts you have submitted, the medical reports, and information about your training, skills, and education.

Questions and Answers

Q. When I went to the hospital earlier this year, I had to pay $68. They told me this was my deductible. I thought I met my deductible earlier when I had some doctor bills. Now I'm really confused. Can you tell me why I had to pay the deductible twice?

A. You didn't pay the same deductible twice. There is a deductible under each of the two parts of Medicare. For the hospital part the deductible is $68 for each benefit period and for the doctor bill part the deductible is $50 a year. You had met the $50 deductible with your doctor bills, but you had not yet met the hospital insurance deductible when you went into the hospital.

Q. I became disabled a couple of months ago and want to apply for monthly disability benefits from social security. I know I can't do my regular job any more.

2/3 of Retired Budget Is from Social Security

Monthly social security payments to the average retired worker and his wife are about two-thirds of the income they need to live according to the latest "intermediate budget for a retired couple" from the U.S. Department of Labor.

Social security payments replace part of the earnings a worker loses when he retires. The average payment to a retired worker and his wife—both 62 or over and both getting social security—is $271 a month, according to social security officials here.

"That's 68 percent of the Department of Labor's 'intermediate budget' for a retired couple, which calls for $398 a month," a social security spokesman said.

The intermediate budget is for a self-supporting retired couple who live independently in their own home, are in reasonably good health, and can take care of themselves, according to the spokesman.

The Department of Labor has also developed a "lower-level" budget for retired couples—$277 a month; and a "higher-level" budget—$620 a month. "The average $271 social security payment to retired couples is 98 percent of the Department of Labor's lower-level budget, and 44 percent of the higher-level budget," the spokesman said.

Recent guests of Mrs. Peirle VanWinkle were Lewis VanWinkle of Dayton, Ohio, Mrs. Sue Cromer and children of Richmond and Mrs. Brenda Harris of Berea.

A company spokesman recently explained the basic components of the data system to several LRC staff members and representatives from other state offices which also may use SIRS.

Costing the LRC approximately $75,000, the data base is stored in a Department of Finance computer.

SIRS works on the principle of "significant words," all words except very common ones such as "the" and "but." A computer program searches the data base for the significant words a researcher is looking for, determines their location in KRS, and then prints out in a chosen form the information regarding that particular subject.

A list showing the frequency of appearance of each significant word found in KRS has already been compiled. By checking this, a researcher can anticipate the quantity of information he will receive prior to his search.

By accurately determining what present state regulations exist, the new data process will assist the LRC in preparing data for the General Assembly regarding proposed new statutes.

Kentucky's county governments will also benefit from SIRS' information bank. In implementing their increased powers under the new "Home Rule" law, counties must make sure no local legislation conflicts with the state constitution or statutes. Under the direction of the LRC's Division of Local Government Services, SIRS will provide county governments with this information.

BOONE GUN SHOW WILL BE OCT. 6-8

NEW DATA BASE USED BY LRC

FRANKFORT, Ky.—The state Legislative Research Commission has placed into operation a new data information base which will expedite the Commission's research of various legal questions.

Fourteen From Here Enrolled at Berea

Fourteen students from Rockcastle County have registered for the fall term at Berea College. A recent pledge to the school will make possible an enlarged and finer educational experience for those selected from the many applicants.

The $2 million donation to Berea College was announced by Willis D. Weatherford, president of the school. Mr. and Mrs. Foster G. McGaw presented the gift for the purpose of establishing four professorships. Mr. McGaw is the founder of the American Lousville Supply Corporation. Mr. Karl Bays, chief executive officer and president of the corporation represented Mr. McGaw at the presentation. Mr. Bays is a Berea College trustee and a native son of Appalachia.

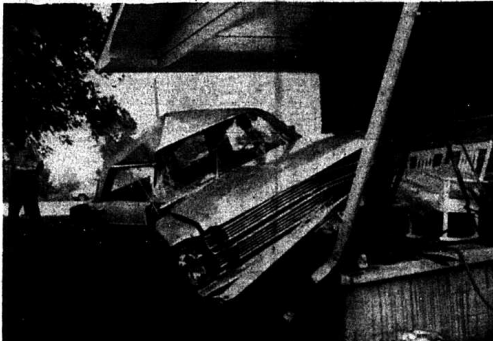

Professorships are to be established in the areas of nursing, religion, Negro history and music. The Foster G. McGaw professorship in nursing atests his interest in health care. The Francis A. McGaw professorship in religion commemorates his father, a zealous Presbyterian minister who influenced the school to be a hard-working Christian.

The professorship in Negro history is named for Carter Woodson, a Berea graduate known as the father of Negro history in America and founder of the American Journal of Negro History. The Mary W.

McGaw professorship in music honors McGaw's wife, whose family is exceptionally gifted in music. Berea College, founded in 1855, is a privately supported nondenominational liberal arts school. It provides educational opportunities to students from Appalachia who have high ability but limited economic resources.

Mr. McGaw said, "I have the highest regard for it (Berea College) and believe it is operating on a very sound principle of self-help. He feels that "the surest way to be enriched is to share freely what you have." A variety of institutions across the country share the benefits of his generosity. This $2 million pledge brings the total received to date for Berea College to just over $21 million. The goal to be reached by June 30, 1975 is $30 million.

This million is a five-year plan to strengthen the college to develop a finer, not a bigger, Berea. Students enrolled from Rockcastle are: Brenda Elaine Abney, Kenwood Lewis Abney, Gerald Lynn Alexander, Duane Kay Barnes, Michael Grant Crank, Larry Ann Carlin, Francis Crank, Larry Ann Kirby, Carolyn Clark Lohrert, Emery Duke Payne, Jr., Judy Jane Reese, Louis Lee Reppert, Joellen Marie Shunk, Audrey Jean Thomas, Kenneth Wayne Tyler.

Three Mt. Vernon women were seriously injured when the above car, in which they were riding, crashed Sunday afternoon, about 2:45 p.m., on U.S. 25 just south of Mt. Vernon. (See story elsewhere).

Three Injured In Sun. Afternoon Wreck

Mrs. Jean Elliott, 41, her daughter, Carol, 15, and Brenda Baker, 15, all of Mt. Vernon were seriously injured last Sunday afternoon when their car crashed on U.S. 25 about one mile south of the city limits of Mt. Vernon.

According to State Police reports, Mrs. Elliott, driver of the car, and her passengers were traveling north on U.S. 25 when their car ran off the side of the road and traveled 102 feet before colliding with a utility pole. When the car hit the utility pole, the gas feet apparently stuck and witnesses stated that Mrs. Elliott looked to be unconscious. After hitting the pole, the car veered sharply to the left across U.S. 25 and collided with a vehicle traveling south and driven by Frank K. Langford of Wheeling, W. Va. The Elliott car then bounced off the Langham car and traveled another 69 feet up the driveway of the home of Mrs. Marie Hasty, hit the rear of her car, which was parked in the drive way knocking it into the house, and finally came to rest on the Hasty carport striking one of the support logs.

All three women were taken to Central Baptist Hospital in Lexington. Mrs. Elliott reportedly suffered internal injuries, broken ribs and head injuries.

Interchange Lights, Sewer Project Discussed at CVADD Meeting

The need for lights on the Renfro Valley interchange was one of the topics discussed at last week's meeting of the Board of Directors of the Cumberland Valley Area Development District. The meeting was held at Holiday Inn in Cortina, Va. in introducing the subject Mr. Roy Brown stated, "The Renfro Valley interchange has become recognized as the crossroads for Southbound traffic to Lake Cumberland and is rapidly becoming commercially developed."

Also, Mr. Brown said he felt the interchange needed to be better lit for safety purposes and requested the CVADD Staff make an inquiry into the status of plans for same. The Board voted to comply with Mr. Brown's request and to add an amendment to the motion that all other interchange within the Cumberland Valley Area be investigated. The CVADD acts as a clearing house and an advisory board for municipalities or organizations seeking federal or state grants or loans for various projects. The CVADD either endorses an application, refuses to approve or suggests grants or loans for various projects. The CVADD either endorses an application, refuses to approve or suggests grants or loans for various projects. The Mt. Vernon-Retro Valley Sewer Expansion Program request for $50,000 grant, $170,000 loan made by City of Mt. Vernon was endorsed by the CVADD Board. The proposed project consists of a new treatment plant located at Retro Valley and a sewer trunk line serving Retro Valley and extending back to Mt.

Vernon. The project will open up needed new land for development in both Mt. Vernon and around Retro Valley. The project will also include either two or three pumping stations and some collector lines. Additionally, CVADD gave its endorsement to nine grant application being made for federal funds from the state of Kentucky area it serves and talked over two others for other changes or further discussion and investigation.

GAIL CRAIN, Executive Director of the CVADD, announced that money had been approved by the Appalachian Regional Commission and the Department of Health, Education and Welfare for Child Development Centers. The tentative starting date for the centers will be January 1, 1973.

Vice President Agnew At London Saturday

In a tribute to grass roots America, Vice President Spiro T. Agnew will make a surprise stop at the London airport Saturday morning, September 23 at 8:45 a.m.

The announcement came today from former Governor Louis B. Nunn who said a rally program will begin at 11 a.m. Saturday, September 23 and Cong. Tim Lee Carter in immediately set to work calling members of their staff at state headquarters in Lexington and making personal phone calls. "We are going to make this the greatest airport rally any vice president of the United States ever got," Nunn declared.

Nunn said he couldn't give any details today but said confidently, "this will be a real ability but limited economic resources. Mr. McGaw said, "I have the highest regard for it (Berea College) and believe it is operating on a very sound principle of self-help. He feels that "the surest way to be enriched is to share freely what you have." A variety of institutions across the country share the benefits of his generosity. turnout. We are proud of our vice president and know that he is going to be impressed when we show our admiration and affection for him."

Nunn and Carter revealed that they have been working this special appearance for days but couldn't say anything about it because the vice president had such a full campaign schedule. "When you consider that he is speaking in Louisville Saturday night, this decision to greet his well-wishers at the London Airport indicates his graciousness and regard for Kentuckians," Nunn said.

Agnew is speaking Saturday night in Louisville at the new Bluff Grass Convention Center at a $100 a plate dinner sponsored by the Friends of Louis B. Nunn Association of Kentucky.

Some of the speakers at the meeting were Edward Jenks, Governor of Farm Credit, Washington, D.C., J. Walter Brown, President of 4th Farm Credit District, Louisville, Lindsey Finch, Agricultural Director to Continental Bank of Chicago, Illinois and Coach Adolph Rupp, former coach of University of Kentucky basketball team.

James Taylor Muncy, 47, of Route 1, Ansville was killed and a passenger injured at 1:30 a.m. last Sunday morning when the above truck, which Mr. Muncy was driving, left U.S. 25 and crashed. According to State Police reports, Muncy was proceeding north on U.S. 25 4.9 miles north of Mt. Vernon when he drove across the two southbound lanes into a ditch without applying his brakes. He then went forty feet into the ditch before climbing a cut-rock wall. The truck then proceeded 83 feet down the wall on its side and collided with a culvert. The force of the impact flipped the truck, throwing Muncy out and approximately 15 feet north. The passenger, Pearl Richard Casteel, 54, of Bond received Class B injuries.

JOHN NICHOLS'

Frankfort Watchline

It's time to separate the chronic bellyachers in Kentucky's coal industry from the reasonable operators who have something useful to say.

Too often the industry has, by some knee-jerk reflex, responded in mindless protest to every tax or government imposition.

The public sometimes gets the impression that the operators really want is permission to gouge the land, make a big profit and pay as little back to the people as possible.

There has been so much false crying of woe among coal operators, that, unfortunately, when he really arrives, nobody may be paying attention.

In this instance, we refer you to one of the more refreshing voices in the industry—that of Paul Patton of Virgil.

We don't know what his fellow operators think of Patton, but the public ought to be happy he is reasonable and articulate. Granted, Patton does express doubts about certain government moves to pry the mines from the lives and land of workers and citizens.

But he also admits without mincing words that the industry has been abusive in the past—and still is—to the land and the people.

For example, in a speech last week in Ashland, Patton denounced the overweight truck practices in Eastern Kentucky with a voice as loud as any critic—calling extra-heavy loads "sheer madness."

So, when he warns in the same speech about possible doom for the strip mining industry if certain congressional restrictions are imposed, may be the wolf really is in the vicinity.

If, indeed, operations would be banned on slopes greater than 50 degrees, that's the end. There won't be any strip mining in the mountains.

At this point, many Kentuckians elsewhere in the state are ready to say "good riddance."

The disclosures from the Ford administration about strip mining show under the Republicans, while politically-timed, still are factual.

Looking as some photographs do—like a strip of land and its consequences—citizen can hardly be blamed for not caring what happens to the coal mine.

But strip mining does provide many thousands of jobs to people in a chronically-underemployed area. It does provide badly needed fuel. It is, you might say, almost a necessary evil.

Short of an outright ban, careful supervision seems the answer, and we must say the new Democratic regime, despite some needless howling, is off to a promising start in curbing the worst abuses and making the coal industry pay its share of taxes.

Back-to-School-Duds—Maybe we're wrong, but the Democrats appear not to have been soliciting state employees for jobs that recent diners at Louisville for seasonal employees Dee Huddleston. And it didn't happen before the primary fund-raiser in Frankfort last spring, either.

Thus, they are keeping their promise about ending the traditional assessment game.

In fact, when approached by some disabbling state workers about where to send check, patronage and party officials have urged them to save the money and use it to buy the kids some clothes for school.

Which, by the way, may be one reason for the many vacant seats in Convention Hall when Huddleston spoke.

Wisdom and Youth—Mrs. Marie Turner can't be accused of being naive in the game of politics, certainly—not in her Breathitt County ballclub.

So, when she shows up at McGovern headquarters in Louisville—while in town for the Huddleston rally—you can hardly say she was trying to slip up on them from the youth with the grumpy glances.

Mrs. Turner, a devoted Democrat, simply wanted to see the operation, and not for just a few minutes. She planned to spend hours at McGovern headquarters.

Mrs. Turner's hair is white, but obviously her political vision is not encrusted with age or lack of outlook.

Double Take—One of our sources who watches political bumper stickers says he got confused this other day, mistaking a parked car from his rear view mirror which had the words "Hum" and "Ford" on it.

Deciding to find out who the driver really supported, he discovered that one sticker called for Hum's election as senator and the other said, "We Can't Afford Ford."

 State News Bureau

APPOINTED—Gov. Wendell Ford has appointed a 15-member Certificate of Need Board to supervise the development and implementation of health services and facilities in Kentucky under the Certificate of Need, Licensure, and Regulations Act of 1972. The law calls for an authoritative base for planning a single board to coordinate the siting and licensing health services and facilities, and a link between the planning and licensing authority functions.

IMPROVEMENTS—The state Department of Mental Health has scheduled improvements totaling $750,000 for one building renovation of the four mental health hospitals during the current fiscal year. Already underway is a $50,000 renovation of the Merritt Building at Central State Hospital in Louisville. Improvements to the building include new outpatient bedroom units and color coordinated furniture.

VALID—The state Attorney General's office says a 1972 state court tax law is constitutional, even though a justice of the peace will have to collect the tax on civil suits without getting any compensation. The law sets a $15 tax on each action in circuit court, and the same on each original action in other courts when the amount in controversy exceeds $50.

CHAIRMAN—Gov. Wendell Ford has been named chairman of the Boy Scouts of America drive to gain new members in Kentucky. The Scouts hope to add 6500 new Kentucky members. A Governor's Roundup Award, a patch bearing the Scout Symbol and the Seal of the Commonwealth, will be given to Scouts recruiting new members.

COUNCIL—Gov. Wendell Ford has appointed a 16-member Consumer Advisory Council to advise in "the development of preventive and remedial consumer protection programs and enforcing consumer protection statutes." The council is one of the provisions of the 1972 Consumer Fraud Law which prohibits false, misleading or deceptive sales practices.

Turning Back The Clock

By Bari Duncan
State News Bureau

WASHINGTON, KY.—This tiny Mason County town, where "Chew Mall Pouch" still is printed on many bams and where antiques are not just a business but a way of life, is rapidly becoming a living history lesson.

With more original buildings still standing than Williamsburg, Va. at the time of restoration, Washington has not only stopped, but turned back the hands of time.

The town's list of historical sites includes the Albert Sidney Johnston Home, the Patton Inn and Mefford's Store. Now, the Chew Mall Shop has been added to the number.

Recently purchased by the Kentucky Department of Parks, the shop is to be restored as a state shrine in honor of pioneer Simon Kenton.

The shop is one of 110 original log houses in the town that dates back to 1790, and was opened as an antique store in October, 1969.

At that time, the cabin shutters were painted red, part of the wooden floor was rebuilt and a refrigerator was installed to keep on hand a supply of Kentucky ham sandwiches and Kentucky transparent puddings—the shop's specialties.

Antique furniture, earthenware, pewterware, pioneer clothing and other utensils decorate the shop. Shoppers can choose from quilts, bonnets, afghans and other items made by Kentucky craftsmen; as well as antique chairs, trunks and spinning wheels.

In December, the shop may discontinue handling antiques. "We're not sure if the shop will still sell antiques once it has been restored as a shrine," said Mrs. John Henderson, who has worked at the shop since it opened.

Milton Thompson, chairman of the Kentucky Heritage Commission, said the prime goal of the project is restoration.

"We hope to restore the cabin as closely as possible to what it was when it was a going concern in the 1800's," he said. "For instance, the red paint on the shutters wasn't authentic. It was attractive for an antique shop, but the painters, didn't have red paint."

Other "re-oiding" projects will be undertaken after a year-long study of Washington and its buildings, Thompson said.

The Heritage Commission must get the ball rolling in regard to funding," he said. "We are expecting federal funds to match the amount raised by the Department of Parks, which will operate the shrine, and the commission."

The commission already has applied for federal funds under the Restoration Act of 1966. Thompson also hopes the private sector will become involved in the project.

"The purpose of the shrine is to honor Simon Kenton and to inform the public of the pioneer and Indian scout who made it possible for people to enter this area," said Mrs. Andrew C. Duke, vice-chairwoman of the Heritage Commission.

Simon Kenton surveyed and explored Kentucky with Daniel Boone in 1790 and was supposedly saved Boone's life on at least two occasions. He later moved to Ohio when Kentucky became too crowded for him.

An old statue of Kenton will be on display in the cabin when restoration is completed, along with furnishings from that period. In addition, plaques concerning Kenton and other pioneers will be erected on the site.

Mrs. Duke said the shrine will be a "local point of attraction" during the Kentucky's bicentennial celebration in 1974.

Commenting on the bicentennial and Gov. Wendell Ford's desire to help communities prepare for the celebration, Parks Commissioner Ewart Johnson said recognition of Kenton's contribution to Kentucky is long overdue and that Daniel Boone had a better press agent than Kenton.

"That might have been true in the past. But folks in Washington think it's time for a change."

HEALTH CARE BOARD NAMED

By Bari Duncan
State News Bureau

FRANKFORT, Ky.—On Sept. 5, Gov. Wendell Ford named those attending the Southern Governors' Conference of the "massive crisis" states, and the nation as a whole, face in health care.

"Report after report," Governor Ford said at that time, "isolates such problems as rapidly rising health costs, inadequate facilities, personnel shortages, and ineffective planning of health facilities and services."

Now Governor Ford has appointed a 15-member board, the Certificate of Need Board, to prevent the health care crisis from rupturing in Kentucky.

"We recognized that the vast majority of these difficulties are related to disorganization and lack of design and structure of our health care system," the governor said.

The Certificate of Need Board, provided under the Certificate of Need, License and Regulations Act of 1972, will be responsible for providing this organization, design and structure.

The Certificate of Need, License and Regulations Act of 1972 has three major provisions: an authoritative base for planning and development of health services and facilities under comprehensive health planning.

a single board responsible for license and regulation of health services and facilities.

a vital linkage between the planning function and the license-regulatory function.

Addressing the new members of the board, Governor Ford underlined the challenge of their task ahead. "You now have an opportunity to do something about the frustrations which have plagued Kentucky's health care workers and clients for years."

Persons appointed to the Certificate of Need Board were: Howard L. Bost, Ph.D., Lexington, chairman, James D. Collins, Owensboro, Sister

Dorothy Blenson, Nazareth, Ross Branch, Hindman, to serve for four years; Walter Cawood, M.D., Ashland, Harold Boyer, D.D.S., Louisville, Mackon Miller, Ph.D., Barbourville, and Eleanor Albrook, Ph.D., Louisville, to serve for three years; Paul W. Alameda, Louisville, Mrs. Nancy Versnick, Madisonville, Edwin J. Hengelbrot, Fort Thomas, and W.L. Shadon, Wickliffe, to serve for terms of one year.

DEMAND FOR HANDICAPPED CARE INCREASING

By Sherrin Scholl
Special Writer
FRANKFORT, Ky.—The demand for health care services for handicapped children is growing tremendously, according to Dr. Robert G. Howard, medical director of the state Commission for Handicapped Children. "Illness, birth defects, developmental disabilities and accidents continue to leave thousands of our young citizens with handicaps," he said. "Each year the commission's medical staff is diagnosing more new youngsters with handicaps such as vision or hearing loss, cerebral palsy, epilepsy, cystic fibrosis, heart disease, orthopedic problems and birth defects. The commission took in 3800 new children last year, Howard said, 6 per cent more than in 1970. The increase was highest in the state hospital by the agency during the polio epidemic years of the forties and early fifties. "There is now a total of over 12,500 children in Kentucky's program," he said.

Questions and Answers

Q. I just hired a cleaning lady to come in 3 days a week. I pay her a salary and give her a non-daily meal on each day she works. Should I include the value of her meals as wages on her quarterly wage reports?
A. No. Only cash wages—not room, board, and meals—are reported for household workers.

Q. My husband was getting monthly retirement payments when he died. He had also been supporting a friend's 13-year-old girl and was planning to do the same. Since my husband's death, I've gone ahead with the adoption. Can my adopted daughter now get payments based on my late husband's death record?
A. Generally, if a child under 18 is legally adopted by the surviving spouse within 2 years after the worker's death, the child can get monthly checks. However, since there are certain other requirements that must be met, you should call, write, or visit any social security office for a specific answer to your question.

Broiler-Fryers For Your Budget

Trying to trim your food budget...or your waistline? Go ahead and take the chicken way out. A 3-ounce serving of broiled chicken contains only 115 calories—lower than for most meats.

While warm weather is still here, try broiling chicken halves or quarters over a charcoal fire.

After the fire gets hot, space the coals so that no two coals touch. And be sure the broiler racks are the right distance—6 to 8 inches—from the embers for an even heat without too much intensity. If the poultry gets too hot, just raise the grill away from the heat.

And, remember, chicken always tastes best when broiled over hot coals, not in flame-or smoke.

Brush the chicken with melted butter or margarine or your favorite barbecue sauce. Then broil, turning occasionally, for 1 to 1 1/2 hours, depending on

Time to Winterize Our Homes
Against Insects and Their Kin
 Cooler weather may mean new insect problems for Kentucky homes. This season is just around the corner and it may cause such pests as chiggers, fleas, crickets, ants, spiders, millipedes, cockroaches, etc. to seek shelter. These pests may happen upon our cozy homes and decide to settle in for the winter. Let's not allow this invasion of our privacy. We can establish a good residual barrier against the creepy crawler by spraying the inner and outer foundation walls of our homes with a 2% chloroform mixture. This will provide continuing protection.

Application of this spray in September, before the exodus begins, can pay dividends on those cold winter afternoons when we are inclined to settle back with a good book, watch football, or tinker in the workshop. Believe me, it is easier to treat now than when the thermometer is hovering around 20 degrees F.

A special pest that caused quite a lot of headaches this year is the cluster fly. The cluster fly or sedge fly is about twice the size of a house fly, rather sluggish in its movements, and produces an annoying loud buzzing sound. With the approach of cool weather, large numbers of adult flies collect on the sides of dwellings and quickly find their way into attics through cracks, un-screened vents and louvers. On warm winter days, they will become active and can often be heard buzzing in the walls. Sometimes they are attracted by light into the living areas of the house. Cluster flies are pests only in the sense that they are annoying.

The best solution to the cluster fly problem is to prevent their entrance into the home by good screening. If this is impractical or if they have already entered, control can be achieved by treating the attic area. Use one of the following control practices: (1) hang 20% dichloro (Vapona, DDT) resin strips in the attic at the rate of one per every 1,000 cubic feet; (2) apply a five percent malathion spray to rafters and other areas where flies cluster; (3) for a quick knockdown of flies that enter the living quarters, use an aerosol bomb containing pyrethrins. Spray must hit flies to be effective.

Day For Home Plant
 Enthusiasts to be held at UK
 Grass and trees and flowers hold an interest for almost everyone these days. Home-grown fruits and vegetables are enjoying an upsurge in popularity. Many people today have an interest in growing plants in and around their homes, and these people will have a day of their own at the Horticulture Fall Festival at the University of Kentucky, October 4-7.

Friday, October 6, has been designated as Home Horticulture Day at the festival which is sponsored by the UK College of Agriculture. A program for home plant enthusiasts and aspiring green thumbs will be conducted at the UK Agricultural Science Center, with presentations by members of the UK Department of Horticulture and horticultural experts from outside the university. Visitors to Home Horticulture Day will also be able to view many exhibits and tour the Landscape Garden Center, which has extensive displays of flower, vegetable and landscape plants.

 Topics to be discussed on the Friday morning program include organic gardening, pesticides, fruits and vegetables for the patio, home landscaping, plants in the landscape, and landscape illumination. The afternoon program will include presentations on plants and the environment, indoor plants, designing with seasonal materials, types of ground covers, and lawn development and care.

 Exhibits will show visitors such things as how to identify troublesome weeds, what causes a plant disease, how to recognize plant insects, how plants are propagated, how ornamental plants are grown in containers, how to improve the aesthetic quality of a patio, and how to arrange dried flowers and plants. Visitors can also see a bobby greenhouse, fall grown vegetables, and an originally grown vegetable garden. They can see different

A Hog Cholera Primer

By Sam Hensley
State News Bureau

FRANKFORT, Ky.—If you're one of the 13 Kentucky farmers who lost large herds during the recent epidemic, you already know a great deal about hog cholera. For the rest of us, here is some general information which may help us to understand what's been happening.

According to Dr. Tom S. Maddox, state veterinarian, hog cholera spreads naturally, but because hogs have no natural immunity to it. Very little contact with the virus is necessary to contract it and an epidemic cannot be controlled without stopping the shipment of hogs.

When hog cholera is found on a farm, herds within a radius of five miles are usually quarantined. Dogs, buzzards and other animals can spread the disease, although only hogs and owners do the suffering.

Hog cholera does not affect humans and eating the pork is not harmful. The reason hogs must be destroyed is to isolate the virus. When a diseased hog is butchered, scraps and bones are likely to spread the disease.

The symptoms of hog cholera are a high fever, wobbling, coughing, and loss of weight. The symptoms can be confused with other diseases, so a laboratory analysis of tissues is necessary to confirm the disease.

Indemnity payments are given to farmers to relieve financial loss and as an incentive to report possible hog cholera immediately.

During Kentucky's outbreak, farmers have been paid market value for destroyed hogs which were alive when veterinary inspectors arrived on the scene. If a farmer delayed in reporting the disease, he risked financial loss. If there are further outbreaks, indemnity payments will be on a 50-50 basis.

Federal authorities paid out $160,000 in indemnity funds to Kentucky farmers and the state paid an additional $18,000. Some 3696 hogs were destroyed.

Prior to Aug. 17, when the first outbreak was reported in Breckinridge County, there had not been a case of hog cholera in Kentucky for three and a half years. However, Kentucky has fared relatively well, since some states are almost never free of the disease.

Quarantines and restrictions last as long as they do because the incubation period of the virus is 14 to 21 days. Also, it takes some time to compile information because inspectors spend long hours in the field, they do a great deal of driving and are often far from telephones.

There were 80 state and 30 federal inspectors involved in isolating the Kentucky epidemic.

The best defense against hog cholera is not to forget it's around. Farmers must be on the watch and catch it quickly to prevent its spread.

About 75 per cent of the police have volunteered to work a six-day week. They get overtime pay provided by a federal grant which was attracted in part by the "We Care" program. The effect is much the same as an increased state police force, an additional 1115 man-days per month.

Concentrated patrols are being used to prevent accidents in hazardous areas, four- and six-man teams move from county to county to spot offenders.

Patrolmen are keeping local officials informed of ways they can help, and making more use of radar- and VASCAR speed timing devices. They're using everything from stickers that say, "We care, what about you?" to air patrols and moving traffic surveillance.

And it's working. Before the "We Care" program started, traffic deaths were running 70 to 80 above last year's totals.

Just before Labor Day that figure dropped back to 42. The rate began dropping when

The Week At Livingston

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Mullins and Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Waddle and daughter of Louisville spent

It's 1973, and Chevrolet roofs are opening, seats are swiveling, bumpers are retracting, hatches are flipping up.

Did you ever have so much to talk about that you didn't know what to say first?

We're happy to report that's us for 1973! But since everything just begins somewhere...

Isn't it romantic?

You see that rectangle beaming at you from above? That's a moonroof. Not to be confused with a sunroof. (Although many people will undoubtedly be caught using it like one.) A power roof is available on Chevelle and Monte Carlo, a manual one on Nova.

Bumpers are exciting!
This year's are something to get stirred up about. One of our new bumpers, for example, is built around twin hydraulic cylinders. So on minor impact, the whole system retracts to its original shape.

It's standard on all big Chevrolet, Chevelle and Monte Carlo

New Nova Hatchback Coupe.

Look what we hatched

You know us for our little Vega Hatchback. Now dependable Nova has one. Which literally makes it half trunk with the backseat down. It's a feature as practical as Nova itself.

We've been thinking about your legs

One of the few things people asked us to improve in our popular Chevelle was leg room in the backseat. Well, your knees will be pleased with the '73s. There's almost 3 3/4 more inches in the sedans.

So what else is new

Naturally this is only a taste of what's new for '73.

Among other things, we're introducing larger gas tanks for longer cruising range, a new Exhaust Gas Recirculation system, a hatchback for wagons, and a highly refined flow-through power ventilation system.

Plus a reading light for front seat passengers, improved suspension systems, engines that give you performance combined with gas economy, reclining seats and scores of dramatic styling changes.

We invite you to see it all at your Chevrolet dealer's.

GUARDSMEN GOT A WORKOUT ...

By Sam Hendley
 State News Bureau

FRANKFORT, Ky. - "We really got a workout. I have five daughters and they're pretty active, but this was harder than training camp." The speaker, Sergeant Major Fred D. Schaefer, was describing the challenge of keeping up with 60 energetic 15-year-olds boys. Sergeant Schaefer took part in the Kentucky National Guard boys' camp program this summer.

The camp is located at the guard's weekend training site in Muhlenberg County near Central City. In all, 180 boys 13-15 years of age were selected to attend the camp by National Guard Units around the state. They attended in groups of 60 during three week-long sessions.

The volunteer staff of 20 guardsmen who served as camp counselors was kept busy. "During the three weeks the boys drank $500 worth of soft drinks, and they drank eight gallons of lemonade during one ball game," said Schaefer.

The guardsmen kept the boys busy too. Each week's program included a football workshop with Western Kentucky University coach Jim Felix, a basketball clinic presented by the Kentucky Colonels, and a drug-abuse lecture and police dog demonstration by Sir Lexington Police Department. There was no cost to the campers and the guardsmen on the staff of counselors each donated a week of their vacation time. Costs were paid with the proceeds from a series of "Bean Soup Feasts" held at

Glorify Pot Roast With Shaker Ingenuity

Long live Shaker quality! Whether in furniture-making or food-preserving, the Shaker name is synonymous with the best. To "exalt the world" was their aim, and their cuisine was a good example of their success. Often, seven kitchen sisters cooked for more than 80 people - yet they ate delightfully appetizing, nutritious meals.

Dishes like Hancock Pot Roast with Gingersnap Gravy brought raves from the "World's People" who were often invited to share their marvelous table.

The flavor twist is in the gravy. Start with a can of Brown Gravy with Onions and add the zest of apple juice, the zip of cranberry sauce, and the spice of rosemary. Simmer with the roast until serving time, then stir in the crushed gingersnaps. Ingenuous!

The use of canned gravy follows the Shaker aim of making tasks easier and life simpler while maintaining the highest quality - and the results are worthy of a dinner feast in the best Shaker tradition.

HANCOCK POT ROAST WITH GINGERSNAP GRAVY

- 3 to 4-pound rolled boneless pot roast
- 2 tablespoons shortening
- 1 can (10 1/2 ounces) Brown Gravy with Onions
- 1/2 cup apple juice
- 1/2 cup jellied cranberry sauce
- 1/4 teaspoon crushed rosemary
- 1/2 cup finely crushed gingersnaps (about 10)

In large heavy pan, brown meat in shortening; pour off fat. Add gravy, apple juice, cranberry sauce, and rosemary. Cover; cook over low heat 2 1/2 to 3 hours. Stir now and then. Remove meat from pan; keep warm. Skim fat from gravy. Stir in gingersnaps; cook until thickened, stirring. Serve with meat. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

It's "Snake Time" In Rockcastle Co.

Edna Cameron of Crooked Creek will probably look her tobacco patch over carefully the next time she goes into it because the last time there was a 39 inch rattlesnake with 8 rattles and one button lying in wait for her. Her husband speedily dispatched it and Mrs. Cameron posed with it for the above picture (after it was stone cold dead of course and we don't blame her).

Roman McFerron, left, and Bill Pennix, both of Mt. Vernon, were on a fishing trip at the Rockcastle River recently and they don't know how successful they were catching fish but they did come home with a huge rattler. The snake measured out at 42" long.

And, finally, to end the snake stories for this week, Robert Fields of Chestnut Ridge killed this 42 inch copperhead at his home Tuesday. I sometimes think that from a reading of the signal it looks like all we raise in the county are vegetables and snakes, mostly snakes.

In a Stew?

Use Plentiful Chicken

Piping hot Brunswick Stew, served with collie and thick slices of homemade bread, makes for some mighty good eating. And since the U.S. Agricultural Marketing Service reports the main ingredient—broiler-fryers—is in plentiful supply, now's a good time for budget-minded homemakers to include this dish in their menu plans.

Pull out your own favorite recipe. Or try the one below, recommended by USDA home economists.

- BRUNSWICK STEW
6 servings, 1 cup each
3 pounds chicken, whole
3 cups water
1 1/2 teaspoon salt
1 cup potatoes, diced
1 3/4 cups, lima beans, fresh or frozen
1 3/4 cups tomato sauce, canned
2/3 cup onions, chopped
1 3/4 cups corn, fresh or frozen
1 teaspoon sugar
1/4 to 3/4 teaspoon, as desired salt
1/8 teaspoon pepper
1/8 teaspoon oregano
1/8 teaspoon poultry seasoning
Few grains cayenne pepper

Simmer chicken, corn, and seasonings. Cook 10 to 15 minutes more, until vegetables are tender. NOTE: Fat can be skimmed from broth more easily if the broth is first chilled enough to solidify the fat.

Food Clips

Lightly brown fresh mushrooms in butter or margarine before using them in combination with almost all foods.

Basting meat? Try something different—during the last 30 minutes of roasting, try basting with grape juice, apple cider, cranberry sauce, or sweet-sour sauce. You can even use maple syrup for a different taste treat.

Brown rice has more nutrients than white rice—but not the sales appeal. Brown rice does not cook up as fluffy as white rice, so does not have its eye-appeal. But converted rice or par-broiled rice ranks next to brown rice in nutritive value.

Rye flour is always darker than wheat flour. Bleaching has little effect on the color, but improves the baking properties. Pumpernickel is an example of an all-rye flour bread.

Whole leaf herbs generally lose their freshness in a year or two. Color often fades sooner.

Frosted cakes should be placed in a cardboard box before freezing. This keeps the frosting from chipping or being smashed in your freezer. When thawing, the cakes should be wrapped to prevent stickiness.

Remember, well-heating sour cream—it reacts as milk does to high temperature, and it may curdle. Like a tangy flavor to your meat patties? Add a teaspoon of salt per pound of meat and a little barbecue or Worcestershire sauce to the pan before cooking is completed.

GUARDSMEN FORM ENLISTED MEN'S ASSOCIATION

FRANKFORT, Ky.—A total of 56 men from National Guard units around the state have met here recently to begin formation of a enlisted Kentucky's association will be affiliated with the national organization and delegates will be sent to the national conference in Sioux Falls, S.D. Sept. 24-30.

Membership is open to all enlisted men in the Kentucky National Guard.
