CARD OF THANKS

This is to say a very heartfelt thanks for the very many acts of kindness rendered me and members of my family by so very many friends, many whom we do not even know that did so much to help us in so many ways to assuage the grief at the untimely demise of my parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Storror of Bourbonville, Ky. For the beautiful floral offerings and lovely pot-plant, for the delicious food offerings and cars, the use of automobiles and visits, for all this we are deeply grateful. For your prayers and handclaps and smiles of friendship all these helped us greatly at this time.

We are most appreciative for your prayers, get well cards and flowers for my only daughter, Kathy D. Fluke who was seriously injured in the accident. She is now steadily improving at the De Paul Hospital here in Norfolk, Virginia. A special thank you to Mrs. Hazel Mullins and Mr. and Mrs. Arvel McQuire of Wildie, to Mrs. Lela Saylor of Mt. Vernon for the use of their homes, and the extra special care they gave us. To Dowell and Martin Funeral Home for their kind and efficient services, which I am sure went far beyond the regular line of duty at an extremely difficult time for us. Goodness and Wisdom chooses one of our loved ones it is always difficult for us to understand, but you wonderful people, by your many acts of kindness, helped us in so many ways, and for this we will be of his positions, especially McGovern's proposed welfare program, and believes many of his proposals are too liberal to be supported by the public.

He admitted the McGovern candidacy may take some votes away from the party's U.S. Senatorial candidate, State Sen. Walter "Doc" Huddleston.

"It could be that he will pull votes away from Democratic nomination," Ford said.

Have You Registered To Vote? You have until October 10.

It's time to check up on your status as a voter. If you've never registered to vote in Kentucky, if you've moved out of the precinct where you were registered before, if you've changed your name, or if you haven't voted recently, stop by the County Court Clerk's office as soon as possible. October 10 is the deadline for Kentuckians to register to vote in the November election.

Any U.S. citizen 18 years of age or older, who has lived in the state, county, and precinct at least 30 days before an election, is eligible to vote in that election. These new residency requirements resulted from recent Supreme Court rulings and laws passed at a special session of the Kentucky legislature.

If you have changed your name by marriage or otherwise, you must re-register. And, if you were previously registered, but have failed to vote for the past two years, you must re-register in order to vote in the November election. If you will be away from home on Election Day, you may apply for an absentee ballot. An application for such a ballot must be requested from the County Clerk. The application should be returned (signed by the absentee voter and sworn before a notary public) to the County Clerk at least 30 days before the election. The absentee ballot itself must be received by the County Clerk in time to be counted at the close of the polls on Election Day.

If you have changed your address within the same county, the address change can take place by mail if the statement is signed by all the voters in your family to whom the address change applies. Students have two options open as to registration. If they wish to vote in the precinct of their parents' home, they may file an absentee ballot if they cannot come home to vote. However, students can register to vote in the state, county and precinct where they are attending school if they are living there at least 30 days before the election.

Students who register to vote where they are in school should have their names removed from their hometown registration rolls if they had previously registered there. In fact, anyone who moves their registration should make sure his or her name is removed from the rolls where they were registered earlier. However, on December 1, Kentucky will put into a centralized computer system which will automatically file persons' registration rolls in one precinct if they register in a new precinct in the state. *****

Ford Says McGovern Welcome In Kentucky Would Be 'Cool'

By KAY CHRISTENSEN

FRANKFORT, Ky. (UPI) — Gov. Wendell H. Ford says he does not welcome Democratic Presidential nominee George McGovern to come to Kentucky during the campaign.

Ford, in an interview Sunday with a panel of news media representatives, said he would be seen with Sen. McGovern if he visited Kentucky but would just as soon not have him come.

"I disagree with some of McGovern's stands and I think a lot of other people do," that doesn't mean you leave him," the Governor said.

"I wouldn't say I would welcome him here," he continued. "But if he comes, I'm a Democrat. I was elected on the Democratic ticket and I'm not going to turn my back on the party."

Ford, who was an ardent supporter of Mittie Ross Edmond S. Muskie for the Democratic standard bearer, has never warmed up to the candidacy of the South Dakota Senator. Ford criticized many

YOU AND THE DRAFT

Here are some more questions and answers concerning you and the draft.

How long have we had the draft in this country?

The present American draft has its roots in the colonial militia system, which assumed that each man had the obligation to bear arms in defense of his colony. During the Revolutionary War the reliance upon a volunteer force proved ineffective. George Washington repeatedly called upon the states for militia, but received only token contributions.

He later admitted that the seven-year war might have been considerably reduced in length had the more effective procedure and use of manpower been available. The same unhappy experience occurred during the War of 1812.

Conscription, as such, was first used to raise armies in the Civil War by both the Union and the Confederacy. It was also utilized during the First and Second World Wars, and the Korean War. Contrary to popular opinion, induction provided far more manpower during World War II than did enlistment, at times accounting for fifteen times the manpower as did enlistment. Although the attempt is presently being made to convert to an All-Volunteer Army, the draft is currently necessary for the United States to be able to fulfill its worldwide commitments.

In an effort to achieve zero draft, President Nixon has announced his intention to create an All-Volunteer Force, July 1, 1973, is the target-date for the realization of this concept. To try to create this force sooner will jeopardize its chances of success. As you may have heard, President Nixon's current authority to induce expires on July 1, 1973.

Candidate Nunn Visits Rockcastle; States Views

Republican Senatorial candidate Louis B. Nunn campaigned in Rockcastle County on Monday, stating strong opposition to gun control and busing of school children to achieve a quota.

The former Governor said he would work in the Senate to continue the tobacco support program.

"Two years ago, when tobacco was being bought with Senator Cooper and Congressman Carter and spoke with President Nixon about the need to continue the federal support program.

"There is no question that the switch from acreage - to program saved the support program.

"But it did more than that. It gave the farmers of Rockcastle County the highest price for their crop than any previous time in history.

"I know there are those people in the Senate who would like to abolish tobacco. George McGovern has taken that position. And my opponent has endorsed McGovern.

"I want to assure the people of this county that when I go to Washington, I am going to stand up and speak out against the McGovern philosophy and work with the President to achieve the goals all of us in Kentucky desire: quality education and good job opportunities for our young people; continuation of the Appalachian Program that has meant good roads and good health care for all the people of Eastern Kentucky; and continued support for our military and preservation of a strong national defense.

"As Governor, my concern for this county was demonstrated through the construction of more miles of roads than any two previous administrations combined.

"And the schools here in Rockcastle County also received the highest appropriations in history.

"My opponent's disregard for the people of this county is reflected in the cutback of the road program and the unnecessary $225 million tax increase he and Gov. Ford pushed through the Legislature.

"Of course, it cannot be very encouraging to Rockcastle County that my opponent has endorsed McGovern.

"These are patriotic people. Like the rest of me, I am at a loss to understand why HUDLINGTON would endorse a man who has consistently shown a concern for our communist enemies that he has for our American fighting men."

Comments From The Coach

To the Fans, School Administrators and the Public at Large: As the coach of the Rockcastle County High School Football Team, I urge you to continue to support our ball club. We are in the early phase of a building program.

The coaching staff and team realize that we have won only one of five games but you must also realize that at least six boys have been injured most of the season. These type of injuries keep the boys from playing at their full potential.

Last Friday night's game with Georgetown showed the boys' courage and intentional fortitude which make for a good ball club. The Rockets played four quarters of good football - and 90% of those boys will be back next year.

Kenny Burton and Dale Carmack played an exceptionally good ballgame.

We feel that when all the boys are playing up to their potential, we will still have a fair season.

Your Coach,
Glen Polly

JOHN NICHOLS'

Frankfort Watchline

The issue of how much power a county government should have seems to have come full circle in just a few years. Earlier, much of the talk was that 120 counties were too many for Kentucky anyway, that they shouldn't get more authority than the little they have and that most of the counties should be abolished in the interest of economy and efficiency.

No longer. The correct political stance these days is to praise local rule as the "desirof a new era" promising great things for the people.

Well, maybe, it's true that the county unit is Kentucky's basic political structure. But that's where the votes are organized and that's where the everyday paperwork—fishing licenses to court suits—usually take place.

The idea that counties should have more power—cities, too, while we're at it—is the dearest theme of those who believe there is too much power in Washington and maybe even Frankfort.

The thesis may be basically sound. After all, if your leaders are as near as the telephone, you can call them and keep track of them. They're more likely to respond to you than a nameless bureaucracy, especially in Washington.

On the other side of the coin is the type of leadership you get on the grass roots level compared with, let's say, the brainy type in Washington. But, correct or not, Kentucky appears to be pursuing the course of home rule with exceptional fervor.

And home rule, as enacted by the last General Assembly, would appear to mean the county government has more say than the cities—to the extent possibly that its law can cover every city and town within the county.

Of course, we now have arrived at the Achilles' heel of the whole matter. Will the municipalities stand idly by and watch the courthouse crowd dictate their fate?

Obviously not without a court fight, such as the one looming in the Jefferson County-Louisville squabble over specific powers.

There was a major gathering at Louisville the other day on just such matters and several hundred county officials showed up to listen, question and argue about where the line of authority is supposed to be drawn.

To make it brief: On balance nobody knows until the courts rule, and in Kentucky they haven't done so.

When they do, that's only the first step. If, let's say, counties do obtain a cloak for various powers and move decisively, they're liable to arouse the cities to the point where a nominal clash will occur in the 1974 legislative session.

Then, puff will go the 1972 act and the clock will have been turned back to a decade ago, except that much more money, revenue-sharing, for instance—still will be available than before to counties.

The possibility that hasty action without tact could lead to the aborting of home rule before it really is tried was raised again and again by various speakers.

STAY OFF BOATS— Gov. Wendell Ford originally injured his back when keeping a woman from falling in the river at Owensboro months ago.

The other day, the governor injured it more—by breaking the fall of newsman Clay Wade Bailey from the upper deck of another boat, this time at Frankfort.

Ford preceded Bailey down the ladder and when Bailey slipped was able to "ride him down" somewhat. Nonetheless, Bailey, perhaps the best known newsman in Kentucky, broke a leg and will be quite awhile recuperating.

BLATANT DISCOVERY— A state audit report that a woman supposedly working in the National Resources Department for two years had hardly put in a day with the agency—in the previous Republican administration—is not surprising to Capitol observers.

In the regime of Gov. Louie B. Nunn, it was politely and cynically understood by many that the governor's office had some people technically hired by other agencies.

The practice apparently wasn't invented by the GOP, either, though the last administration did seem to use it widely.

On this particular woman's application, in response to what job she sought, was the notation: "Where I can serve to benefit my governor the most."

He said the Senate bill would virtually eliminate the department's Title IVA and XVI social service programs.

PERMITS—The state Division of Reclamation has suspended the permits of three more Pike County strip-mine companies for reclamation-law violations. The three firms were ordered to take remedial action within two weeks. A total of 10 Pike County permits have now been suspended as a result of an investigation by Natural Resources Commissioner Thomas O. Harris.

Color Your Second Vacation Autumn on Kentucky's Bittersweet Trail

Kentucky's "Bittersweet Trail" is Highway U.S. 25, where it now winds through brilliant autumn-fringed mountains from Berea to London. Along the trail are the famous Berea crafts, Renfro Valley's Barn Dance and Sunday Morning gatharin', the Great Saltpetre Cave, Fort Sequoyah's gunfights and riverboat rides, and, at roadside stands, the bright orange berries that give the trail its name. A New Day - A New Way

Rockcastle County's 4-H Program

"A New Day - A New Way" that's the theme of the 1972 National 4-H week observance, October 1-7. And, in Rockcastle County, it's a new day in 4-H.

with many new adults for young people -- and adults -- to take part.

As evidence of this, Cheryl Witt, Rockcastle County Extension Agent, gives a summary of this past year's 4-H program here.

Rockcastle County's 4-H membership for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1972 totaled 532. An increase of more than forty-five percent over the previous year. Although many people think of 4-H as an organization for farm youth, only 40.7 percent of Kentucky's 4-H'ers now live on farms. Nearly half of the state's 4-H'ers live in towns or in rural areas but not on farms, while 10.4 percent live in towns and cities with populations over 10,000.

Kentucky offers 4-H projects and activities in some 60 different areas, with more than one unit offered in most of the projects, and many 4-H'ers carry several projects each year. In 1971-72, Rockcastle County 4-H'ers carried a total of 844 projects, with clothing and knitting the most popular -- 163 were enrolled in the clothing and knitting units. Foods and nutrition projects were second in popularity with 121 enrolled. Horse and Pony projects came in third with 77 more girls than boys are enrolled in the 4-H program, which probably accounts for the larger numbers carrying home economics projects -- although boys may take part in these projects, too. Of the total Kentucky 4-H membership last year, 56 percent were girls.

Personal development, as well as the "learning by doing" of special skills, is stressed in all 4-H work with 17 older 4-H'ers helping younger boys and girls with their projects, and activities as teen or junior leaders. Career exploration projects were popular, too, with 27 enrolled. Ranking as popular projects were woodworking and electricity, two projects that are popular with both city and farm youth. Enrolled in woodworking were 49 young people, while the various units in the electricity project attracted 32.

Other projects and activities that ranked high in popularity in Kentucky 4-H'ers during 1971-72 were: plant sciences, conservation projects, photography, food preservation, automotive safety, home management, health, bicycle, dog ownership, small engines, safety, beef, rabbits, geology, safety, and forestry.

In addition, 4-H'ers took part in a wide variety of activities such as camping, demonstrations, talent shows, and public speaking. For example, 23 Rockcastle County young people attended 4-H camp this past summer and 14 took part in 4-H Talk Meet (public speaking) activities.

Local volunteer leaders play a major role in making the Rockcastle County's 4-H program a success and, in this past year, 57 adults gave their time as volunteer leaders to advise and assist 4-H'ers in their communities.

The outlook for 4-H in Rockcastle County for 1972-73 is even brighter, 4-H Club membership is available to almost every youth in the county between the ages 9-19. 4-H Clubs are being formed in classrooms of all elementary schools in the county, Roundstone, Brodhead, Mt. Vernon, Livingston and Blue Springs. A club has been formed at the Rockcastle County High School as part of the school's activities with special interest in all possible.

The automotive program. There are also community clubs at Wildie and Conway, Loyal Clover, which are actively participating in 4-H. The 4-H membership for the coming year is expected to increase by 150%. The support of principals, teachers, parents, leaders, and the Rockcastle County 4-H Council has made this all possible.

Apply Early to Get Your Social Security Number

People getting a social security number for the first time should apply at least a month before they'll need it, according to social security officials here.

"Applications from people who don't recall having had a social security number before generally are screened by computer to make sure a second number isn't issued to the same person," a social security spokesman said.

"Screening takes time, so apply for your social security number early and you'll have it when you need it—when you get a job covered by social security," he said.

A worker builds retirement, disability and survivors protection for himself and his family by work and earnings credited to his 9-digit social security number.

"Your social security number is yours alone and remains the same for life," the spokesman said. "Using more than one number can mean you're not getting full credit for your work and earnings."

"When you get a job covered by social security, you should make sure your employer copies your name and number correctly from your social security card to his records," he said.

Gabby Gabbard Gabs.....

By Linda Gabbard
A life-long ambition is finally being realized by Donna Jones, a senior from Montgomery County majoring in elementary education with a minor in special education at Morehead State University.
While enrolled at MSU, she not only assumes a minimum of sixteen hours per semester, but is very active in extra-curricular activities. During her freshman year, 's was a charter member of Campus Gold, an advanced level of Girl Scouting. Other activities include being an active member of the honor's program, secretary of Cardinal Key, a National Honor Society for Junior and Senior girls; member of the Student National Education Association; member of Gamma Beta Phi; president of Kappa Delta Phi, and Honor Society in Education and president of the Student Council for Exceptional Children.

In an interview with Donna, I asked what significant role Morehead State University was playing in her future?
"Morehead has truly contributed a great deal to my life. Intellectually, it has provided me with the opportunity to be exposed to a variety of educational experiences, both in the classroom and in extra-curricular activities. Socially, it has given me the opportunity to come in contact with many diverse individuals, students and faculty. Associations with these people have been an important part of my total education. Most important, however, MSU has provided me with the chance to become prepared for the vocation which has been my life-long dream - to work with mentally retarded children. My ultimate goal is to someday work in a center or clinic for mentally retarded children."

In 1968, Donna was chosen Granddaughter in the Kentucky Junior Miss Pageant in Louisville.
Along with her busy schedule, she still finds time to work at Belk's on weekends and summers.
Donna, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Jones, will graduate in May, 1973 with a B.A. degree. She is the granddaughter of Mrs. Gertrude Hilton of Mt. Vernon and the late O.V. Hilton.
She is a 1969 graduate of Montgomery County High School.
