

$4.5 Million Paid Out In Highway Safety Funds

State highway safety programs officials say more than $4.5 million has been paid out in federal highway safety funds to finance traffic safety projects at state and local level in Kentucky since 1967.

Acting State Public Safety Commissioner William O. Newman, whose office is responsible for the administration of federal monies allocated to Kentucky under the National Highway Safety Act of 1966, said that the combined total of state and local expenditures represented about 88 per cent of all funds ($6.1 million) made available to Kentucky during the fiscal years 1967-72.

Newman also said he has been informed by the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration that Kentucky will get another $1.2 million during fiscal year 1973.

A breakdown of all expenditures reported over the past six fiscal years showed that driver education programs in local high schools received the largest amount of federal money. Over $1.5 million was spent to expand existing courses and to implement new programs in other schools where they had not been taught previously.

Little Newman "As a result of that effort, 141 out of 193 school districts in Kentucky now offer driver education training in their high schools as compared with only about 20 school districts in 1967."

Another $1.2 million was received by the Kentucky State Police to set up a computerized traffic record-keeping center at Frankfort which now serves all 16 state police posts and 21 local police departments by way of a high-speed communications system known as the Law Information Net of Kentucky.

Under separate funding through the Kentucky Crime Commission, LINK also provides police with almost instant access to criminal files maintained both at Frankfort and in the FBI's National Crime Information Center at Washington, D.C.

Included among the traffic-related data which LINK is able to transmit to police, are vehicle owner registrations, stolen vehicle descriptions and suspended or revoked motorist records.

Newman also singled out five other major traffic safety areas which have received federal highway safety funding. They were:

- $711,435.55 to purchase communications equipment and speed timing devices for the state police as well as 58 county and city police departments. A portion of those funds also were used to buy training aids for the state police and upgrade their training programs.
- $323,611.90 to improve emergency ambulance services. Thus far, 39 local communities have used funds under that program to buy fully-equipped ambulances. In addition, the state Health Department has organized a state-wide program to train some 2000 ambulance drivers and attendants in the proper care and handling of injured persons.

- $211,716.67 to establish a statewide program to train, certify and equip breathalyzer operators and technicians under the Implied Consent Law which took effect in June 1968. The training program is conducted by the Traffic Safety Institute at Eastern Kentucky University.
- $172,503.33 to implement Kentucky's motor vehicle inspection program which became law in early 1968.

- $138,932.28 to establish Kentucky's motorcycle operators' testing and licensing program and support out-of-state training costs for driver examination administrators and driver improvement officers. The 1968 Motorcycle Safety Act did not include funding to implement the testing program.

WATCHMAKING.

By Sam Hensley
State News Bureau

FRANKFORT, Ky.—Have you ever thought about being a watchmaker? According to

Jim Dodson, secretary of examinations for the Kentucky Board of Watchmaking, "the time is right."

During the last year, nine new watchmakers were licensed in the state. At the same time, 23 were lost from the trade to fill the increasing demand for their skills created by miniaturization in the aerospace and electronics industries.

The board was created in 1958 to set standards and license repairmen in Kentucky. Some 17 states now require licenses for watchmakers and 13 others are planning to require them soon.

"At one time," said Dodson, "there were as many watches being broken by incompetent repairmen as by people wearing them." Now watch repair is done by craftsmen who must meet standards set by the Board of Watchmakers in coordination with the American Watchmakers Institute.

There now are 500 licensed watchmakers in the state. To be licensed, they must pass a written examination as well as a practical test.

Five watchmakers serve on the board and each must have a minimum of five years experience.

"It's a fascinating field," Dodson said, "it's better than it's ever been. Watchmakers today are better compensated than ever before; they are in demand, and they still have an excellent opportunity for self-employment."

The getting "set-up" in the trade can cost little, or up to as much as $15,000, depending on the extent to which the craftsman equips himself, according to Dodson. About 65 per cent of the watchmakers in Kentucky are self-employed.

A newly-licensed craftsman can start at about $125 a week, but after a few years can make as much as an electrician or carpenter, or more.

There are about 37 schools in the country which offer courses in watchmaking and a few junior colleges offer watchmaking as an associate degree program. There is also the possibility of an apprenticeship.

Under a program approved by the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare, the apprentice can earn as he learns. There are 31 such apprentices now learning the trade in Kentucky.

Dodson says a prospective watchmaker should be interested in watches, but today's watchmaker also needs to know about mechanics, electronics and math. The schools and apprenticeships teach the basics.

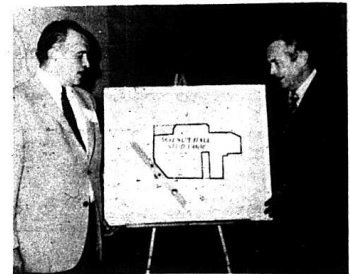

One of the Board of Watchmakers' services is the dissemination of technical information to watchmakers, and the public, across the state. They hold four seminars each year to help the tradesman stay in touch with new developments in jewelry, metallurgy and watch technology.

"I don't know anything better than having someone tell you that you have done a good job," Dodson said. "Besides, every watch has a different personality and there's always something new."

Make chef Jimmy Lee's Cheese Pie tonight

Jimmy Lee is a French cooking teacher and cookbook author.

- Buttered pie pan, 8-inch x 1 1/2-inch
6 servings
Preheat 375 oven
- PASTRY SHELL:
1 1/2 cups all-purpose flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon butter
1 tablespoon lard
1/4 cup water
teaspoon lemon juice
- FILLING:
5 slices bacon-cooked and crumbled
1/4 cup (3 oz.) shredded Swiss cheese
2 tablespoons packaged bread crumbs
1 egg
2 cups light cream or half and half
1/2 teaspoon dry mustard
teaspoon salt
teaspoon cayenne pepper
1 tablespoon butter, cut into small pieces
2 tablespoons chopped parsley OR scallions

To prepare Shell: In a bowl mix together flour and salt. Cut in butter and lard until mixture resembles coarse meal. Gradually add water and lemon juice mixing lightly with a fork. Roll out on lightly floured surface 7/8-inch thick and 13 inches in diameter; place in pie pan. Trim off excess dough around edge; decorate edge with tines of a fork. Cut waxed paper into a 12-inch square; butter one side and place buttered side down on bottom of shell. Flour 2 cups uncooked rice or beans onto waxed paper (this keeps pastry flat while baking). Bake 8-9 minutes. Remove waxed paper and rice. Return shell to oven and bake 10 minutes. To prepare Filling: Sprinkle 2 tablespoons cheese and bread crumbs over bottom of pastry shell. Top with 1/2 the cooked bacon. In mixing bowl beat eggs, cream, mustard, salt and pepper until well blended. Stir in remaining cheese. Pull out over rack, place pan on rack. Fill with egg mixture. Sprinkle remaining bacon on top; dot with butter. Bake 30-35 minutes or until a knife inserted near center comes out clean. Sprinkle over parsley OR scallions. Let stand 10 minutes before serving.

*1 tall can (14 1/2 oz.) evaporated milk plus 1/2 cup water may be beaten with eggs and seasonings in place of the 2 cups light cream or half and half.

96 Million Workers Earn Social Security Coverage

Ninety-six million workers are building protection under social security for themselves and their families, according to social security officials here.

"For the young worker and his family, there's continuing protection right now in case of a severe disability or death," a social security spokesman said.

Under the social security disability program, 4 out of 5 men and women between 21 and 64 can count on monthly checks if the head of the household is severely disabled and cannot work for a year or more. Ninety-five out of every 100 children under 18, and their mothers, can get monthly social security checks if the family wage earner dies.

For senior citizens, 93 percent of all the people reaching 65 this year are eligible for monthly retirement checks from social security, the spokesman said.

In addition, nearly all of the 21 million persons 65 and over are eligible for Medicare hospital insurance and most are covered by medical insurance as well.

USE OF NEW SPEEDY BAGS beginning October 1 throughout the country will help this important mail keep its identity within the U.S. mail system, thus insuring priority handling and faster delivery. Bobbie Scott, a special delivery carrier at Chicago's Fort Dearborn station, shows how the special mail is prominently identified by the transparent bag. When placed in regular mail pouches, the word "speedy" is left exposed at the top, so the bag's contents may be removed first for priority processing and delivery. Made of flexible, transparent plastic film, the speedy bags are expected to be re-used at least ten times. The new procedure was successfully tested in 4,500 post offices in the West before going National.

County Agent's Notes

By: H. Lee Durham

ALFALFA POINTERS

Alfalfa should not be grazed or cut after September 10th. However, the forage may be harvested after the first killing freeze without causing injury to the stand. Yet, if soil erosion is a problem, leaving the fall growth on the ground will be helpful in slowing down the run-off to help prevent erosion.

LAWN

This has been a bad year for crabgrass in the lawn. In fact, many lawns appear to be completely taken over by it. However, the home owner should not give up because this condition has existed many times before.

Just what should be done is the main question, and can the home owner afford to do the things necessary? As a matter of fact, the expense is very little, but the work required is much more. The lawn should be kept clipped until about the first of November or until at least three heavy, the lawn should be raked after every clipping to remove as many of the seed heads as possible. It is a known fact that where the crabgrass is not kept clipped or even where it is clipped and clippings left on the lawn, there will be enough vitality in the seed stems to mature the seeds.

Of course, the bluegrass seed should have been sown in September but if it was not, it should be sown now. The seed may not germinate and grow until next spring, but it will still be there ready to start growth whenever conditions are favorable. It is much better to have the seed on the ground than in a bag to be kept until next February.

After the frosts have killed the crabgrass and wild grasses is the time to feed the lawn. Generally speaking, a good grade of complete fertilizer is the best to use. This fertilizer may have an analysis such as 10-4-4, 8-8-8, 10-10-10, or even a 14-14-14. The amount to use is 15 pounds to each 1,000 square feet of area.

The fertilizer may be spread from a pan or, if available, it can be sown by a small fertilizer spreader. The way does not matter as long as the fertilizer is put on the lawn, because the grass needs it; in fact, the lawn will never be as good as it should be unless it is fed regularly.

Regardless of the kind of bulb to be planted, with the exception of crocus, the soil should be prepared good and deep -- at least 10 inches for good results, and of course the soil must be well drained or the bulbs will rot. Bone meal should be used whenever bulbs are planted; 2 to 3 pounds may be used on each 100 square feet of area. This bone meal should be worked into the soil to a depth of 3 to 4 inches.

The bone meal may be scattered over the area and dug in with a hoe.

The depth to set the bulb will depend on the kind, but for the most part the top of the bulb should be at least 4 inches below the top of the ground. Depth of planting is so important because when the bulbs are planted at the correct depth they seldom start to grow early enough to be killed by a late frost or freeze. This may mean that these bulbs will not come into bloom quite so early as some that are planted shallow, but the difference will be only a few days and the chance of missing that first frost is worth the difference in blooming time.

In planting the bulbs, they may be planted in beds by the crocuses or mixed with flowers that will be growing in a flower border or bed. When they are mixed with other flowers it is best to plant two or three bulbs of the same kind and color in a circle about 18 inches across. A few tulips or jonquils scattered in a line in front of the evergreens seldom if ever show off for what they are worth.

HUO ESTABLISHES WARRANTY PERIOD
The Department of Housing and Urban Development announced today that, to further implement its policy of protecting the consumer, it has established a warranty period of one year from the date of closing for the correction of structural deficiencies in the home properties it sells. The policy applies to all homes sold by the Department in a fully repaired condition, and doubles the warranty period heretofore in effect.

The repair program for home mortgage properties includes all repairs necessary to eliminate existing or potential structural, mechanical, and other deficiencies, and to provide maximum sales appeal. In many cases such repairs will include upgrading the property because of the type of location of the property, or because such upgrading will stabilize or improve neighborhoods.

The Department further emphasizes that all acquired properties offered by it for sale in a repaired condition must be structurally sound, functionally adequate, worth the price, and suitable for long-term use and enjoyment. HUD's aim with respect to deteriorating or substandard housing is to create a structure in like-new condition with all components operable and with no major foreseeable expense for several years.

Any structural deficiency must be reported to the Department of Housing and Urban Development, P.O. Box 1044, Louisville, 40201, within the one year warranty period, for correction. The warranty does not ex-

Students Getting Social Security Are Reminded to Report Changes in Status

If you're one of the nearly 600,000 students 18 to 22 getting monthly social security checks, it's important to report any changes in your status to social security, according to social security officials here.

Students can get monthly social security payments when a parent gets disability or retirement benefits or has died. They can continue to get payments to age 22 as long as their student status does not change, a spokesman said.

Changes in earnings, school enrollment, attendance, or marital status can affect their payments, however.

"If a student 18 or over is getting social security payments and leaves school or starts attending on a part time basis, he should notify social security immediately," the spokesman said. "He is obligated to tell us of these changes so we can stop his monthly benefits as required by law."

A student's total yearly earnings from part-time or temporary jobs as well as self-employment can also affect his social security payments.

"Any student in the area who gets social security payments and knows his earnings for 1972 will exceed $1,680 should report this to social security," the spokesman said. "Otherwise, he might get checks which would have to be paid back later."

reduced by $1 for every $2 earned if the student beneficiary earns between $1,680 and $2,880 in a year. In addition, benefits are reduced by $1 for every $1 earned if he earns over $2,880 a year.

"But a beneficiary can get full benefits for any month he doesn't earn more than $140 or perform substantial services in self-employment, regardless of how much he earns in a year," the spokesman said.

"If a student beneficiary changes schools, he should report his transfer to social security. 'And if a student gets married, he should get in touch with us right away,'" the spokesman said. "Marriage stops a student's social security payments."

VOTE FOR KENNETH ADAMS

TO: VOTERS OF EDUCATIONAL DISTRICT NO. 5
CONWAY, ROUNDSTONE, EAST MT. VERNON

I am asking the voters of these precincts to re-elect me as School Board Member on November 7, 1972. During my past term on the board I have tried to fulfill my promises to the people. We have given you many improvements with higher taxes.

I think that you need only to look around you to see the improvements we have made. Not only have we built one of the best high schools in the state but we have closed all the one room schools in the county. Every child now has an equal chance to get an education.

Our high school curriculum is now broad enough that a student can be selective in choosing his career. We plan to complete the educational complex by adding a football field with seats and lights in the near future.

Since I have been involved in these improvements from the beginning I wish to stay on the board to see these things finished. I think that with time and finances we can have the best school system in the state. We can do this without raising your taxes.

Would you please give me a chance to finish the projects we have begun?

Your vote for Kenneth Adams will be a vote for a harmonious and progressive school system.

OIL MAKES NEWS IN KENTUCKY

Take a good look at the newspaper you're holding. Without oil, it might not be there. From the film in the press camera to the rollers in the presses—today's newspapers depend on products that come from oil. Even the ink comes from oil. To get a newspaper out takes a lot of energy too. And 75% of all our energy comes from oil and natural gas (including 40% of our electricity). But today, we're using those petroleum fuels faster than we are finding them. That's why America faces an Energy Gap.

We're your local oil companies. Working to bridge the growing Energy Gap. Because it shouldn't be news to anyone that a country that runs on oil can't afford to run short.

A NEW DAY - A NEW WAY October 1-7 is National 4-H Week. This year's theme, "A New Day - A New Way," has special meaning for the four million boys and girls enrolled in 4-H programs. Of these four million, over 800 are boys and girls in Rockcastle County. The 4-H program is reaching almost twice as many young people in this county in 1972 as it did in 1971. These young people are your sons and daughters, neighbors, friends, church members, or customers. These young people are learning new ways as they strive to make a better world for tomorrow.

Many people feel that the young people today are "dropping out" of society and wonder "what is the world coming to." The youth today have a far more complex world to conquer as they grow into adulthood than did their parents and grandparents. Today's youth are more concerned with their environment and the world around them than have previous generations been. They attempt to find gaps about their future, their goals, dreams, opportunities, and responsibilities... about misunderstanding between people with different views and backgrounds, people of different religious convictions and political viewpoints, different educational and experience levels.

Young people, through 4-H, are learning to find new ways by creating unity through co-operation. They also learn that some gaps are natural and they should use them to their advantage. Through 4-H participants can reach others, understand and accept others, appreciate others, and learn from them. Thus, they can become stronger, more conscientious citizens... having gained strength and knowledge to bridge the gaps without conflict and discord, but with courage and dedication.

The national 4-H program is supported by approximately $72,000,000 annually from federal, state and local governments. But it still needs support from private sources to keep it operating. The 4-H program is co-ordinated through the Cooperative Extension Service who is committed to serving young people of all economic social and racial backgrounds, both rural and urban. But it is the local leaders, parents, and community who make 4-H the dynamic youth education program it is and it can be.

Anyone who likes young persons, who feels a responsibility for the future of their community and their nation is encouraged to become involved in the 4-H program. A group of concerned citizens and leaders in the county formed a body called a 4-H council. They work together and the committee within the county to plan and coordinate the 4-H program in the county. Concerned persons who enjoy working with youth can act as 4-H club leaders. Leaders are also needed to help within the schools for special events and projects. 4-H needs you -- now!

If you are interested in joining a 4-H club, contact the club leader or the County Extension Office. If you are interested in forming a 4-H club in your community, the county home agent will be happy to help you. If you are willing to lead support through involvement as a leader or to act on the 4-H council, drop the County Extension Office or call 256-2403. The youth of Rockcastle County need you. Remember that 4-H works with the most important crop in the county -- the young people.

NEWS SUMMARY

By Jim Warren
State News Bureau

PARK GOV. Wendell Ford announced the purchase of 963-acre Walnut Hill Stud Farm near Lexington as the site of a new state park honoring Kentucky's horse industry. The $27 million purchase includes barns, tenant houses, a half-mile training track and a lake. State Parks Commissioner Ewart Johnson said the new park hopefully will be open in time for Kentucky's bicentennial celebration in 1974.

MERGE. Franklin Circuit Judge Henry Meigs has approved a plan providing for the consolidation of three state-seized insurance companies into one firm--Western Pioneer Life Co. The merger now must be approved by a majority of shareholders of the three firms--Western Pioneer, Teachers National Life and American Businessman's Life.

PERMITS. State Natural Resources Commissioner Thomas O. Harris said his department's investigation of Eastern Kentucky strip-mining violations is continuing. Harris said he "doesn't know" whether more strip-mining permits will be suspended. The department has reinstated two of 10 permits suspended over the past month.

REGISTRATION. The state Court of Appeals has ruled that any qualified voter can register by mail for the November election without the necessity of a personal appearance. It was a statute that will apply only until Dec 1, when it will be replaced by a comprehensive new election law. Had the court ruled the other way, some 28,000 absentee voters registered under the current law would have to try again or forego voting.

IMPROVE. State Child Welfare Commissioner, Evans D.

Tracy says his department has already taken steps to improve some deficiencies recently criticized in a citizens' panel report. Tracy appointed the panel last February to investigate the death of a youth at the department's Woodburn Boy's Camp. He said Child Welfare's philosophy of care and treatment, which the report criticized, has been restated and reworked.

EVEN THE GOVERNOR NEEDS A DRIVERS' LICENSE. So Gov. Wendell Ford recently took time out to renew his license at the Franklin County Circuit Court Clerk's Office. Looking on are Circuit Court Clerk Jim Collins and secretaries Peggy Calvert (left) and Sheri Serafini. Governor Ford reminds Kentucky motorists to renew their licenses during their birth month. The funds are expected to be forthcoming sometime during October. They are an essentially no-strings attached basis. However the money cannot be used for matching federal funds and must be spent for "essential" items.

The Rockcastle County Fiscal Court is awaiting further details on the money before making any plans as to how it will be used.

Though written in 1883, the playwright has focused this drama upon the health and economic wellbeing of a town and its relevance is obvious.

It will be shown October 11 through the 14 in Edwards Auditorium of the Model Laboratory School.

Dr. Ginger said that he "liked very much" the school's design and was highly impressed with the fine attitude of the students and the enthusiasm of the faculty. Interchange Lighting Plans Are "Tentative" Pryor Says

Ed Hunt, local President of the Rockcastle Chamber of Commerce, has received a letter from Charles Pryor, Jr., Commissioner of Highways, concerning lighting plans for the two interstate interchanges in Rockcastle County.

In his letter to Mr. Hunt, Mr. Pryor said, "All plans for these lighting arrangements are in the design stages and therefore tentative. So far the design calls for full lighting of the Radnor Valley interchange and partial lighting of the interchange south of Mt. Vernon."

I cannot give you even a suggested date for the actual installation of the lights. Experiments are underway with a new type of high-mast lighting; this new equipment may be used on the Rockcastle County interchanges. In any event, much time and thought will be given to these lighting plans."

PORK PRODUCERS MEET

According to Dr. Jack D. Whitaker, University of Kentucky, the federal pig business looks very good now in spite of the recent hog cholera outbreak and quarantine imposed on swine producers in Kentucky. Dr. Whitaker made this remark to those present for the annual meeting and pork barbeque held at Roy Brown's farm on October 3.

Mr. Brown, president of Rockcastle Livestock Improvement Association, emphasized the importance of feeder pig program for Rockcastle County and how farmers can make money from such a program.

Approximately sixty people were served barbecued pork chops with all the trimmings with S.P. Powell Jr. serving as chief cook.

New System Added To U.S. Mail October 1

A system to speed up first class delivery of airmail and special class letters, flats and small parcels will be added to the U.S. mail on October 1.

Mt. Vernon Postmaster James O. Smith said postal authorities recognize the need to improve special delivery service. He noted that Postmaster General E.T. Klassen recently told a press conference in Washington, D.C., that "special delivery service for many years has been a disgrace."

At that time Mr. Klassen announced plans to install a nation-wide improvement program based on the use of self-identifying plastic "speedy bag." The speedy bags will be used within the mail system to keep special delivery mail from losing its way among millions of other pieces of mail.

Postmaster Smith noted that a six-month test program executed at 4,500 post offices in the West "has shown a reliability rate in the high 90s." Speedy special delivery bags are made of polyethylene and are 20" by 30". The Postal Service eagle and the words "speedy" and "special delivery" are imprinted in green. "All special delivery letters, flats and small parcels normally dispatched in mail pouches will be placed in speedy bags," Postmaster Smith said. "The speedy bags then will be placed in a mail pouch or loose pack in such a manner that approximately four inches of the green imprint on the speedy bag is exposed when the pouch or loose pack is closed."

"Upon arrival at the destination or next processing office, pouches containing speedy bags are opened first and the speedy bag is removed and immediately taken to the distribution area for priority processing." Postmaster Smith explained. He said that studies have shown special delivery mail to be delayed within post offices.

New Operating Structure Introduced By Ky. Tel.

A new operating structure that places increased emphasis on local service operations is being introduced by Kentucky Telephone Company.

W.W. Thomason, Area Manager for the Continental subsidiary, said that the plan will broaden responsibilities for district managers and give them greater authority in serving the needs of telephone customers.

Thomason announced the following changes for the Southern District which serves the company's operations in Laurel, Clay, Knox, Rockcastle, and Pulaski Counties: Don Parritt, District Manager; John Wallace Black, Commercial Manager; Glenn Cobb, Outside Plant Superintendent; Ray Harris, Inside Plant Superintendent; Mrs. Phoebe Jervis, Traffic Supervisor; Mrs. Treva Rudder, Administrative Assistant.

The appointments were in keeping with a new operating structure being introduced by Continental Telephone System. Under the plan, the district managers will supervise all operations required to serve local telephone customers on a day to day basis.

Cong. Carter To Hold Open House

Rep. Tim Lee Carter today announced plans for an open house on the occasion of the official opening of his new District Office in the Hotel Beecher in Somerset.

The open house will begin at 2:00 p.m., Sunday, October 8, 1972. Congressman Carter said that he hopes as many residents of the Fifth District as possible would attend the gathering.

Fiscal Court Meets

The County Fiscal Court meeting Tuesday was a routine one with nothing out of the ordinary up for discussion. The Court did approve the division of checks for $979.04 from the forestry tax between the five magistrates and the County Judge voted to accept a settlement of $101.57 from Kentucky Utilities for the county's claim against the failure of the air conditioner line; approved the employment of Mrs. Ferial Cromer to prepare the Sheriff's settlement and allowed the County Treasurer to mark off all checks outstanding against county accounts over two years old.

THREE MORE KENTUCKY HISTORIC PLACES. FRANKFORT, Ky.—The Kentucky Heritage Commission has announced the listing of three more Kentucky historical sites on the National Register of Historic Places.

Named to the register were the Mordecai Lincoln Home near Springfield, the Administration Building at Centre College in Danville, and the newly-discovered archeological site at Standford Field Airport in Louisville.

Accidentally discovered by construction workers, the Standford Field site reportedly dates back approximately 5000 years. Preliminary investigation by University of Louisville scientists indicates the discovery is representative of an aboriginal hunting and gathering pattern known as late Archaic.

Federal funds are being sought to finance an extensive investigation of the area in order to secure and preserve artifacts from the site.

The Centre Administration Building is believed to be the oldest college building in the south, west of the Alleghenies, still in continuous use.

The original structure, built in 1819, was a simple two-story rectangular building of the Georgian style. Later additions, erected prior to the Civil War, included portico which changed the character of the building to Greek Revival.

The original log portion of the Mordecai Lincoln House was built in 1797 by the uncle of the sixteenth President of the United States. The later two-story, Federal style frame portion dates from 1816.

It is the only house in Kentucky still standing largely intact on its original site known to have been owned and occupied by a member of the Lincoln family.

The house stands near the Lincoln Homestead Park which contains the cabin in which Nancy Hanks and Thomas Lincoln were married.

Now owned by the state, the house is slated for restoration by the Department of Parks.

These additions bring to 117 the number of Kentucky sites now on the National Register of Historic Places.

JOHN NICHOLS'

Frankfort Watchline

The education lobby's attempt to void the so-called tax rollback legislation of 1968 has failed, and maybe it doesn't matter very much now.

A federal court the other day upheld the tax freeze—which simply means that with a few exceptions, no district can collect more taxes in a given year than it did the previous year.

The teachers' groups, frustrated at every turn in their attempts to get higher pay and improved facilities, went to court kind of as a last resort.

However, failure does not have the impact that it might have had a few months ago, for something else is happening around the nation that inevitably will affect Kentucky school financing.

The plausor is "equality of education" and federal court rulings have caused several states to take the matter to the U.S. Supreme Court, which begins hearings this month.

The issue is simple, yet complex: Should every schoolchild get an equal opportunity at education even if a state has to throw in some extra funds to obtain the balance?

If the nation's highest court says yes, then Kentucky's operation must conform. That could mean the end of the local property tax as we know it—or endure it.

It could mean a statewide property tax. If so, and you live in a fairly prosperous district, you may be paying even more than now to help the poorer districts.

It could mean keeping the current local property taxes, but with the state making up the difference itself for the poorer districts.

If the last eventually comes about, don't celebrate yet—your property taxes still may be higher.

After all, where is the state going to get this extra money? We'll give you just one guess. An interesting situation, anyway you look at it. Mark this subject as one of the most important Kentucky will be grappling with in the next few years.

And don't be surprised if a special legislative session results after the Supreme Court rules on the equality issue.

THE GOOD OLD DAYS—In the year 1900, National Guard units from Kentucky and Texas squared off in some lively competition— marksmanship and such.

Texas, or so the story goes, won the match, and a $4,000 purse—for which a promissory note was signed by a Kentuckian named John Underwood.

But the money never was paid, or so the story continues.

Now we'll bring you up to date, Texas Gov. Preston Smith thinks it ought to be paid.

For this purpose, he has been in contact with Gov. Wendell Ford's office.

Ford's press secretary, Tommy Preston, said the note—which someone is supposed to have discovered in Austin, Texas, not long ago—is not viewed by the Texans on the basis of its original face value.

"Texas wants interest," Preston said. "The whole thing would amount to more than $127,000. And they sound a little serious."

One of the first things Preston pointed out to Smith's office is that only the Kentucky General Assembly ever is authorized to obligate the commonwealth for any expenditure.

Besides, he added with tongue slightly in cheek, the story is doubtful anyway, since it's not likely a Texas Guard unit could whip a Kentucky outfit.

state buildings last week.

As one reporter calmly caught up on his copy in the empty Capitol, a young state trooper—apparently one of the searchers—poked his head in the office.

"Looking for anything?" the newsmen asked. "The trooper shrugged. "Oh, something that might go boom, boom," he said.

He departed without checking further.

WHOS ON FIRST — Sen. George McGovern's presidential campaign may not be too well organized in Kentucky, judging from a few slips in routine communications with Gov. Ford's office.

Several letters asking for funds, cooperation and moral support have been addressed to "Gov. Louie B. Nunn."

KIPP Helps Children In 16 Appalachian Counties

A great deal has been learned about early childhood development in recent years, and the state, through the Kentucky Infants and Preschool Project (KIPP), is attempting to apply that knowledge to programs for Appalachian children.

KIPP is designed to deliver comprehensive child development services to preschool children and their families in 16 Eastern Kentucky counties. There are five major areas of service provided by KIPP. These are: child learning, nutrition, family planning, pre- and post-natal care, and delivery and referral services.

In addition to these, the program recently received a grant to implement Child Development Centers in the 16 counties.

Child learning will be accomplished through a home visitation program and KIPP social workers will make weekly visits to homes and teach infants and preschoolers through a structured program of stimulation.

Education in the area of nutrition will be done by KIPP workers in an effort to help stretch the family's food dollar and furnish a more adequate diet to family members. Through clinics, private physicians and home visitors, family planning services will be offered to families participating in the KIPP program. Families will be given the opportunity to select those services which they feel are needed.

Services may range from fertility counseling to voluntary sterilization. Clients will be given the opportunity for and encouraged to receive pre- and post-natal care. In certain emergency or hardship cases, KIPP may be able to pay hospital delivery costs.

Certain medicines and supplemental foods such as infant formula, vitamins and iron drops also can be provided to KIPP eligibles.

Referral of clients to agencies not directly involved with KIPP also is an important aspect of the services provided.

According to Randy Bacon, KIPP supervisor in the Department of Economic Security, "this is done in order to

NAVY HAS NEW OPTIONS FOR ENLISTMENT

According to Chief Holbrook, the Navy recruiter for Rockcastle County, the Navy has opened some new options under the 3 year enlistment program. One of the new options is choice of overseas area. You may choose between duty in the Mediterranean, Japan or Guam. The other new option is choice of "type command." You may choose the type of ship which you desire for duty. Some of the type ships available are aircraft carriers, cruisers, destroyers, amphibious ships and many others. This is in addition to selecting the coast of your choice.

For additional information, see Chief Holbrook any Tuesday at the Selective Service Office in Mt. Vernon between 10 and 12 noon. Or call Richmond collect 623-4210.

Bacon said the new Child Development Centers will be to relieve the emotional, cognitive and physical development of 1910 Appalachian children. About 1800 of the children will be three to five years old with the remainder being three years of age or younger.

Planning for the Kentucky Infant and Preschool Project (KIPP) was initiated in 1970 under the auspices of the Appalachian Regional Commission.

The project is being funded by the Appalachian state and federal government under Title IV of the Social Security Act. Funding is approximately 25 percent ARC and 75 percent federal.

What chance does a young man born in 1953 have of being drafted? If a young man received his random service number in the 1972 drawing, he will be come vulnerable to the draft during calendar year 1973, unless he receives a deferment or an exemption.

It is important for us to tell what the draft situation will be next year because there still are too many unknowns. The few facts we do know—that the draft law is extended only until July 1, 1973 (the target date for zero-draft calls); that the Department of Defense is trying to establish an all-volunteer force; and that there is a continuous withdrawal of U.S. troops from Vietnam—lead us to believe that the call will be relatively low.

However, then, as now, the call will be determined by the manpower needs of the Department of Defense.
