

FEDERAL GRAND JURY INDICTS 3 TOBACCOMEN

The Federal Grand Jury in Louisville has returned indictments against three Washington County burley tobacco producers charging them with falsely identifying tobacco on their marketing card. John Coulter, Williamsburg, Ky., 920 pounds; Wendell Grifey, Williamsburg, Ky., 780 pounds; and William Martin Russell, Springfield, Ky., 582 pounds. Tobacco marketing cards are issued to individual farms depicting the quota for that marketing year. The above producers have been charged with selling tobacco on their marketing cards which was not produced on the farm for which the card was issued.

These men will be arraigned in Federal Court in Louisville, Monday, November 6, 1972 at 9:30 a.m.

CUMBERLAND STUDENTS ATTEND CONVENTION

Three Cumberland College students from Rockcastle County were among the 112 Cumberland students who recently attended the Baptist Student Union Convention in Bowling Green, Kentucky. The convention is held yearly so that B.S.U. members from throughout the state can meet in a week end of fellowship and Christian activities, and so that plans can be made for the coming year.

Cumberland, a Kentucky Baptist denominational school, with an enrollment of 4700, traditionally sends the largest student delegation to the convention of any school in Kentucky, including the much larger state supported colleges and universities. Again this year, Cumberland's delegation of 112 was the largest group in attendance.

Those attending from Rockcastle County were: Gail Abney, Sharon Abney and Linda Cummitza.

SS QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Q. My husband and I both get monthly social security retirement checks and have Medicare coverage. Last week, a woman who said she was from social security stopped in to see us and tried to talk us into taking out an additional health insurance policy. Does social security sell health insurance to supplement Medicare?

A. No. The Social Security Administration does not sell health insurance to supplement Medicare. The woman who visited you and your husband sounds like an impostor. Social security representatives have identification cards, showing their pictures and other identifying information. Always ask them for identification, and, if you are not satisfied, call any social security office.

social security QUIZ

How many people today get social security checks every month?

- A. Over 1 million
- B. Over 5 million
- C. Nearly 10 million

Questions and Answers

Q. Because I'm retired, my 40-year-old daughter, who has been severely mentally retarded since birth, gets monthly social security checks on my record. She has just been given a job in the institution for the mentally retarded where she stays. The job pays 60 cents an hour and she only works a couple of hours each day. Do I need to notify social security about her work?

A. Yes. You should call, write, or visit your social security office immediately and notify them about your daughter's job. On the basis of the information you give, it does not appear that your daughter's social security payments will be affected by her job, but the Social Security Administration must look into the situation carefully before a decision can be made.

Q. My mother, who's in a nursing home in another State, has most of her care paid by the Medicaid program. I would like to report some unsanitary conditions in the home. I heard that social security offices will accept such complaints. Is this true?

A. Yes. Local offices of the Social Security Administration now receive and report such complaints so they can be investigated. If you have any nursing home complaints, call, write, or visit any social security office.

Q. I recently heard something about monthly social security payments for adults who have been severely disabled since childhood. I'm 25, but I was severely hurt in an accident when I was 16 and I'm unable to work. Since my father is going to retire this year and get social security payments, will I be eligible for payments too?

A. You may be. Severely disabled adults who were disabled before 18 are eligible for monthly social security payments if a parent insured under social security retires, dies, or becomes severely disabled. Your father should ask about social security payments for you when he applies for his retirement benefits.

Q. I'm retired and getting monthly social security payments. My 30-year-old mentally retarded son, who never worked, was also getting monthly checks on my work record until his death last month. Can I get a lump-sum payment from social security to help with his funeral expenses?

A. No. A lump-sum payment is made only when the deceased person himself had enough work under social security to be insured on his own. Your son was getting monthly payments based on your work record under social security.

BRUCELOSIS

According to Mr. Tom S. Maddox, State Veterinarian, Rockcastle County has been re-certified as a Modified Certified Bruceellosis Area. Information received from Dr. Maddox reads as follows: This is to certify that Rockcastle County has been declared a Modified Certified Bruceellosis Area by virtue of the fact that Bruceellosis has been reduced to not more than one percent of the cattle in not to exceed five percent of the herds as indicated by official testing and other approved procedures conducted under the cooperative State-Federal program. This certificate is valid for the period of January 13, 1972 to January 12, 1975.

INCOME TAX SCHOOL

Ten tax schools are planned this fall for people who prepare income tax returns for farmers. The schools that will be held close to Rockcastle County are as follows: November 14-15 Somerset Community College; November 20-21 Lexington Carnahan House; and December 11-12 Lexington, Carnahan House.

Ethanol Best for Removing Mold From Tobacco

Some Kentucky tobacco growers are experiencing problems this year with mold developing on their crops. George Everett, Extension tobacco specialist at the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture, says weather conditions this year seem to have made mold problems worse than usual. He says molded tobacco may bring losses for the growers of from 5 to 16 cents per pound.

Everett says some mold can be seen on stems of cured leaf almost every year, but is no cause for alarm unless the mold spreads to the lamina of the leaf.

Some growers have resorted to various materials to "treat" molded tobacco, and many of them have made the leaf useless to buyers. Bleach, antifreeze, vinegar, ethyl acetate, and rubbing alcohol leave undesirable residues or affect further processing, and Everett emphasizes that none of these materials should be used. Ethanol is relatively inexpensive. Two gallons will usually treat an acre of cured tobacco and the cost is less than two dollars per gallon, which is very important not to dilute the ethanol.

If mold is present only on the "tails" of tobacco, effective spraying can be accomplished while the tobacco is hanging in the barn. A fine spray mist should be used. When the ethanol comes in contact with the mold, dehydration of the mold occurs and the mold disappears.

If the mold has spread over a large area of the cured plants, the growers should remove the tobacco from the tier rails on the sticks and spray both sides of the plant. The finer the spray mist, the better the coverage will be. The alcohol spray must come in contact with the mold. Spray equipment used during the tobacco growing season is usually satisfactory, but smaller nozzles are needed.

Denatured ethyl alcohol leaves no objectionable residue and appears to have no significant effect on odor or fermentation of the leaf.

Tobacco has mold on leaf to the extent that it will not receive an acceptable grade on the sales floor, use the denatured ethyl alcohol as a spray treatment before stripping the crop. Once the tobacco is tied in hands, it is difficult to do an effective job of spraying and considerably more alcohol is required.

When spraying with the alcohol, it is important to keep it away from open flames, motors, or anything else which could cause it to ignite. The alcohol will ignite about as easily as gasoline.

When possible and economically practical, it is best to prevent mold from developing in the barn, supplemental heat will lower the humidity and dry the tobacco and usually prevent mold. However, during periods of prolonged wet, humid weather, it is neither practical nor possible to provide enough heat to eliminate mold in many barns.

Dr. Santo owns the famous "Sign of the Dove" restaurant in New York City.

Yield: 4
1 cup (4 oz.) grated Swiss cheese
1/4 cup light cream
1/2 egg yolk and 1/2 egg white
8 slices bread
2 slices boiled ham egg, lightly beaten
1/2 cup milk
1/2 teaspoon salt

CHEESE SAUCE:
1 tablespoon butter
1 tablespoon flour
1/2 teaspoon dry mustard
1 cup milk
1 cup (4 oz.) shredded Cheddar cheese

Combine Swiss cheese and cream to make a paste. Spread on each slice of bread. Place a slice of ham on each slice of bread. Close to form a sandwich. In a shallow dish stir together eggs, milk and salt. Dip bread into egg-milk mixture; fry on lightly buttered griddle or skillet until brown on both sides and cheese has melted. Serve with Cheese Sauce. To prepare Cheese Sauce: In a 1-quart saucepan melt butter; blend in flour and mustard. Remove from heat; stir in milk. Heat to boiling, stirring constantly. Boil and stir 1 minute; set aside. Stir in cheese until melted.

AN OPEN LETTER TO BURLEY GROWERS OF SOUTHEAST KENTUCKY

The management of the London Tobacco Market wishes to express our sincere appreciation to the tobacco producers of Southeast Kentucky who made it possible to establish and more importantly to maintain and expand a Burley market in London. Over the past twenty-five years we have had good crops and bad. During this time these crops have sold, grade for grade, quality for quality, as high or higher than on any other market in the Belt. This is true because London has buyers from all the major tobacco companies and many independents and exporters who come here to buy the type of Burley we grow. We have experienced management. We are here all year long. We give prompt courteous service. Grade for grade you will take home the top dollar.

To you who sold with us last year, our many thanks and welcome back this season; to you who sold elsewhere, come to London this year, you'll be pleased with the results.

Sincerely,
LONDON TOBACCO MARKET

OUR HEALTH

By C. H. Tracy, M.D.

White visiting my sister-in-law's new-born baby. I noticed an egg-shaped swelling on the baby's head. Is this the egg-shaped swelling that you mention does occur frequently with new-borns. It's usually caused by bleeding between the scalp as a result of pressure during the birth process.

How ever, this swelling will slowly be absorbed, leaving no after-effects, since it does not extend into the skull or involve the brain in any way. You might have noticed that most newborn babies are born with a peculiar shaped head, which will usually return to normal within one to three weeks, or sometimes longer. The reason for an elongated or irregular shaped head is "Molding" which also takes place during the birth of the baby.

With summer over, I dread looking in the mirror so hard to get. I've purchased a sunlamp on the recommendation of a friend. I wondered what the benefits are? Will it really help me keep my tan? There are no physical benefits derived from a sunlamp, however, using one to keep or produce a tan can give a person a sense of improved health merely because of the sunbathed skin. Sunlamps can be extremely harmful to the skin and eyes unless used carefully. It's recommended that you al-

INQUIRY POLITS UP SUCCESS OF IRISH IMMIGRANT

A chance remark by an American tourist in Ireland, to the effect that the Irish had years before emigrated to the U.S. as an indolent laborer, led an Irish immigrant who had emigrated to a short but illuminating research of fields in which Irish immigrants have achieved success in this country.

It soon became evident that myriad individual Irish-Americans have made their name in every business from acting to shipping, owing to the richness of their own U.S. and economy.

Says T. M. Coleman, director of Paddy's Irish Whiskey who made the study, "We've always felt that it was the good, sturdy middle-class Irish-American that the pride of our country is, rather than the occasional millionaire. Oh sure we're proud of the millionaires and the many politicians of Irish extraction, but the Irish have been a distinguished presence in the New World since Columbus in many other ways than money and politics. In fact," smiles Coleman, "they are somewhat parallel to our own Paddy's Whiskey which arrived in the U.S. without a fancy price tag, snooty rhetoric and has become popular and successful."

The first Irishman to land in America was one William Galway who sailed with Columbus on the Santa Maria. He could say he was successful just for surviving that trip.

During the Revolution many immigrant Irish rose to see the other class. Richard Montgomery became a general, the first general to die in action. Thomas Burke from Galway was a member of the Continental Congress and then Governor of North Carolina.

Benjamin Hanck founded America's first bell factory on his New England farm. James Arlington Bennett, an officer during the War of 1812, became both a lawyer and a doctor and made a fortune on books about bookkeeping.

During the Civil War Union regiments had the word "Irish" in their names, and Michael Corcoran from Sligo became an Union Army captain. He was private, led New York's famed 69th Regiment as a colonel.

President James Buchanan was a son of an immigrant, of course, but his father arrived in the U.S. from County Donegal in penniless condition. Immigrant William Grace founded the Grace Steamship Line. John P. Crowe, Catholic mayor of New York in 1858, was twenty years old when he came to America. Stewart owned vast real estate and a large department store in New York.

Continues Mr. Coleman, "Immigrant John P. Crowe from Bockroary perfected a system of shorthand. John Holland of Limerick built the first successful submarine in the U.S. James O'Farrel of Dublin laid out much of San Francisco in 1845. New York Mrs. Ellen O'Grady became the first woman deputy police commissioner."

The list is long enough to fill a book. It is well known that famous, others highly noted in their fields, all adopted sons and daughters of the U.S. most arriving with only the clothes on their backs.

MRS. SOWLRS RECEIVES HOLIDAY INN AWARD

Mrs. Addie Sowers of Berres, the former Sadie Langford of Mt. Vernon, received the "Housekeeper of the Year" award during an international meeting of Holiday Inns held in Memphis, Tennessee last week.

Mrs. Sowers, who has been housekeeper of the Richmond Holiday Inn since it opened in 1966, received $300 in Holiday Inn Stock, a plaque and a specially designed award ring. The excellence in housekeeping was based on quarterly inspections and was judged on qualities such as efficiency, attitude toward guests and on Mrs. Sowers overall responsibility. Mrs. Sowers is the mother of two children, Mrs. Elizabeth Buchanan and Bob Johnson, who both live in Jacksonville, Florida with their families. Mrs. Sowers mother is Mrs. R.L. Langford of Stanford.

Basketball Season Opens Tues. Night At Ansville

The Rockcastle County High School basketball team hope to see a full house at their beautiful new gymnasium on Friday night, November 17 when they play Cookeville in the first basketball game ever played at RCHS. The new gymnasium will seat about 3,000 spectators and the school urges basketball fans throughout the county to make plans now to attend the game. During half-time the first home game the RCHS band will perform along with the majorette drill team composed of 12 girls. There will also be a concession stand open in the cafeteria. Don't forget, "Let's Fill the Gym" November 17 and continue our support of the Rockets throughout the season.

The season actually gets underway Tuesday night, November 14 with an away game at Ansville. Coach Bill Riddle has been working the Rockets hard in practice for the past two weeks getting the boys ready for their first game. Coach Riddle has said that he will be several weeks before the team will be in top form, as many of the players need to learn a new style of play.

ATTENTION VOTERS

County Court Clerk Clifford Bales ask voters who picked up new registration forms at the polls Tuesday, to please hold these forms until further notice from him through the paper.

Mr. Bales will be attending a meeting next week on re-registration and further details will be forthcoming after the law is clarified.

to learn the play of each other and then to work as a team. The coach feels his team will improve with each game and will certainly be an exciting team to watch.

Students may purchase tickets at the high school and at all elementary schools in the county for 50¢ for each game. Admission the night of the game will be $1.00 for all.

LIVINGSTON SCHOOL TO FEATURE BASKETBALL PANORAMA NOVEMBER 10

Livingston Elementary School will feature a Basketball Panorama on Friday, November 10. The action will begin at 6:15 p.m. with an intra-squad game between the fifth and sixth grade girls teams. This game will be followed by an intrasquad game between the middle and layover and the night-cap will feature the Berea Parker Seal Industrial Team against the Livingston Independents. These two teams are composed of former high school stars. Admission to the events will be 50¢.

Rockcastle County's allotment of Rural Secondary funds amounts to $284,400. Most of this sum has been committed to the program announced earlier.

REV. FINLEY AT BAPTIST CHURCH SUNDAY

Rev. Clyde Finley of Portsmouth, Va., will be preaching at the First Baptist Church, Sunday, November 12. Rev. Finley has conducted two revivals at this church. This is a trial message. Let us all come and hear him.

BOND SALES

Sales of Series E and H Savings Bonds in Rockcastle County for September were $9,062 while sales for the first nine months totaled $87,611 or 12.1% of the county's annual goal of $66,300. Sales a year ago were $68,936.

Kentucky's sales for the month were $9,062.

Rockcastle Gives Big Majority To Nixon; Huddleston New Senator

Rockcastle County, along with almost all of the nation, gave President Nixon a resounding majority in Tuesday's General Election over Democratic candidate George McGovern. However, the switch voting in the county and across the state, cost Senatorial candidate Louie B. Nunn his bid for retiring John Sherman Cooper's Senate Seat.

Out of 6,217 registered voters in the county, 4,405 went to the polls. Nixon, who polled 3,072 votes here in the 1968 campaign, bettered that total Tuesday by getting 5,437 votes to McGovern's 908. Democratic Senatorial candidate Walter "Doc" Huddleston did considerably better in the county, polling 1,376 votes to Nunn's 2,972.

In the only local election, incumbent Fifth Division School Board member Kenneth Adams outpolled challenger Larry Burdette 636 to 399.

In other unopposed races in Rockcastle County: Johnny Clinton Taylor running to fill an unexpired term of Constable, received 618 votes; Isabel "Cookie" Mason, received 249 votes for School Board member from Division 4 and Willie Taylor, received 338 votes for another term as School Board member from Division 2.

HOSPITAL AUXILIARY WILL MEET NOV. 11

The Ladies' Hospital Auxiliary will meet at the Rockcastle County Hospital Cafeteria Monday, November 13 at 7:30 p.m.

DON'T BURN LEAVES ON STREET, CITY ASKS

Mt. Vernon Mayor Ed Winstead and the City Council has requested citizens not to burn leaves on the streets in Mt. Vernon. Mr. Winstead also requested that citizens do not sweep their leaves into the street for the street sweeper to get. Instead, leaves should be put in plastic bags and put in front of homes. These leaves will be picked up on Saturday mornings for the next two or three Saturdays.

WEATHER

Warmer Thursday and Friday with temperatures in mid 50's to low 60's.

Willis Johnson of Mt. Vernon is shown as he leaves the voting booth after voting in his 75th General Election. Mr. Johnson, 96, has always voted in Rockcastle County although his voting has been split up over three precincts: the old Tinsard Precinct at Clear Creek, Orlando Precinct and his present precinct at the Mt. Vernon City Hall. Mr. Johnson said that he first voted in 1897 for President William McKinley. He has also been a Mason for the past 70 years.

Faith Reans of Brush Creek is shown with the calf which was shot and partially butchered apparently some time Sunday night while in a pasture on Mr. Rean's farm. The calf, which weighed between three and four hundred pounds, was shot in the head. Local sheriff officers and State Police are investigating the crime and a $200 reward has been offered for information leading to the arrest and conviction of those responsible.

JOHN NICHOLS'

Frankfort Watchline

Where the state treasury and federal dollars are concerned, the Ford Administration is enjoying the best of both worlds right about now.

It's been a real good time, those several days since State Government learned that some phase-changing in some Treasury Department revenue sharing-regulations would allow Kentucky its 52-million-dollar state government share without another special session.

That was accomplished thanks to some timely contacts with a Treasury attorney by Finance Commissioner Don Bradshaw and Jim Fleming in the Governor's office.

Meantime, with administration forces still in a euphoria over the good news, what should pop up at the capitol building, but some more good news?

Good news for state government that is... had news for some Kentucky communities.

It turns out that some cities, towns and counties have not qualified for all their shares of revenue sharing... that the entire two-thirds of Kentucky's $7.3 million-dollar total won't be going to them.

The amount that will be allocated to 9.2 million dollars, it will go to Frankfort for the time being. It will be deposited in a separate trust fund, to gather interest while awaiting qualifying by various city halls and courthouses.

Governor Ford says he feels the formula that's preventing all the money from going to the towns and cities is unfair. That's why, he says, he's ordering two funds set up... and is hopeful that some recommitting will help solve the problems.

But, what if the two years in which the money must be spent pass... and some of it's still there? You guessed it. The state keeps it.

And meantime, as the 9.2 million is qualified for in bits and pieces, who gets the thanks from the local government leaders? You guessed it. The best of both worlds.

VOTING MACHINE PLOT

Republicans were hiding during the Senate campaign that some Democrats were up to shenanigans in the voting process.

What Louie Nunn had in mind as he mentioned that possible irregularities would be watched was, among other things, the rumor that there was a definite vote machine fixing process in the works.

By the way, it looks pretty darn hard to carry out. Here's the theory: The voting machines can record only one thousand votes each. If someone could get away with it he would, for example, roll the vote count number up to 950 before the voting started so that in a strong Republican precinct, 50 votes would not be counted.

When the machine hit a thousand, the count would start from one again.

If the matter were discovered, the irregularities would seem to come from the voter being sabotaged and the other party's vote would be left alone.

Well, someone we know did some checking and he concludes that it would require an expert to manage such a stunt and how many experts are there when you're thinking of three thousand precincts?

Something else: Does anyone imagine that either party would be asleep at the precincts and not catch such tomfoolery? *****

WELCOME--Governor Ford gave Senator McGovern a pretty enthusiastic welcome last week as the Democratic nominee touched down in Boone County for a few minutes.

It brought to mind the semantics game which some writers were playing with the governor over whether he would welcome or simply greet his party's candidate at the White House if he should ever come to Kentucky.

That was back when he was less than overjoyed about Dee Huddleston's chances with McGovern on the ticket.

Anyway, some wag last week surmised that the Governor wasn't going to welcome McGovern to Kentucky... he was going to welcome his departure. *****

BIG COMPLIMENT --

A Frankfort civic club officer whose property got caught in that Revenue Commissioner's assessment flap got in a verbal jab at Revenue Commissioner John Ross the other day.

It was at Ross' order that Franklin County property was reassessed and the dollar figures jumped about 25 per cent.

A little bit rambled about, the Kwanian told Ross that the reassessment had been the biggest compliment he'd had since he's been in Frankfort. *****

Letter To The Editor

Now that the election is over, of which there was a winner and a loser, there is no time to sit back for complacency. We in this great county of ours must begin to think about our local elections and who we want to represent our county to the benefit of all its citizens.

I have heard the names of many men that will be possible candidates for our local government positions, I am sure that all of the people members are good, substantial and solid citizens and would probably make good administrators for us, but all of them cannot be elected. It therefore behooves us, as voters and citizens, to try and select the most qualified to fill the positions. I personally look for the following traits in a man whom I would consider as a public official for my county government: Integrity, industriousness, intelligent, courteous and above all enough knowledge to operate his public office for the benefit of his fellow citizens. Although I have been away from Rockcastle County for many years, I look upon the county with tremendous pride in the progress and growth it has accomplished these past twenty five years. Now that I have returned to my home, I want to see it continue to grow and be a better place to live in than it ever was before. I have traveled around the surrounding counties many times recently and often question myself on why we cannot have some of the industry that has been built in these counties, here in Rockcastle. I am sure all of you readers have asked yourselves the same thing many times. I am also sure that much time and effort has been spent on the obtaining of such industry by our leaders and public officials. So again, we cannot be complacent and must continue to follow all possible leads that we too can obtain some type of industry for our wonderful people.

Now, some of you readers are going to say what is he raving for! Absolutely nothing, my

New Women's Record

Paula Murphy, nationally known as "Miss STP", broke an international speed record at Bonneville Salt Flats in Utah for the third time recently, flashing across a quarter mile "dragstrip" course in two directions for an average speed of 134,168 mph. Her terminal velocity, developed within a quarter-mile was more than 250 mph. She drove the "Pollution Facker" rocket car of Tony Fox, at right. Dave Anderson, left, also set a new world speed mark for men in the same car. In recent years, Paula has broken women's land speed records for STP Corporation, both in a passenger car and a jet-powered speedster.

Electric clothes drying for sunshine freshness means one set of clothes will do the work of two.

No need to tie your family's wardrobe up in knots waiting for a sunny washday. With an electric dryer every day brings sunshine freshness to your family's clothes. Your clothes spend more time being worn because they spend less time being laundered.

Automatic, odorless, even heat - on selected tumble dry cycles - makes sure all your family's clothes come out fresh, crisp and neat. Permanent press materials need little if any ironing touch-ups. To keep your family's clothes being used instead of waiting to be laundered, see your dealer today for a sunshine-fresh electric dryer.

CRANBERRIES .. Let Them Add Bounce to the Feast

Consider the pilgrim maidens laboring over that first Thanksgiving menu. In addition to the pilgrim colony of 55, Chief Massachusetts and some 40 Indians came to dinner, bringing gifts for the turkey feast.

Did they bring cranberries, the non-traditional accompaniment? No one really knows, but it's possible. Cranberries were available in the Bay Colony and would have been in season.

The Indians knew about them and used them for food, dye, and to treat wounds inflicted by poisonous arrows. The called "bi-bim" or "bitter-fruit."

The description is apt since cranberries are basically sour. But they add real bounce to a meal when prepared as sauce, relish, juice cocktail or when used as an ingredient in cakes, pies or cobblers.

Cranberry "bounce" is more than a figure of speech. A good cranberry bounce had one doesn't. But don't make the bounce test on the floor of your market...the cranberry that makes it in the market has already passed the test.

The cranberry plant is a evergreen that thrives on marsh land or bogs. In the old days harvesting was done by men crawling through the vines collecting the berries with a wooden scoop.

Since mechanization took over, the wooden scoop is an article for antique collectors. Now the berries are collected with machines pushed through the bogs like lawnmowers. In some places, the bogs are flooded and the berries float to the top, making collection easier.

From the fields the berries are taken to a packing plant where they are cleaned and given the bounce test. Here they are fed over a series of "baffle boards" and are divided according to how well they bounce off the boards. The least lively of the lot drop out and are discarded. Survivors are then checked for quality, color, size, shape and freedom from defects.

Although today's homemaker doesn't need an introduction to cranberries, she may need a little help in picking them out.

This year in addition to the familiar fresh and canned cranberries, the consumer will find fresh frozen berries in 12 oz. or 16 oz. packages. These are berries frozen with no processing, no sugar added. They can be used exactly like fresh berries.

Canned cranberries are available in jellied or whole berry forms, in relish combined with oranges and nuts, and as whole spiced cranberries. The fruit is also marketed in cookies, bread, candy bars and juice cocktail. Ready-to-serve cranberry juice cocktail is a diluted, sweetened beverage.

Sometimes it comes mixed with other fruit juices, such as apple juice.

In order to pass muster fresh cranberries must be clean, mature and firm, and free from damage. They are usually packaged in one-pound film bags or in boxes with windows for viewing. Since quality grades are not usually marked on the package, look for plumpness, good color and uniformity in size.

Cranberries don't bruise as easily as some fruits but crushed berries and those that are leaky should be avoided. These may be off-flavor.

U.S. Grade A or Fancy is the top quality for canned cranberry sauces. These should have good color, consistency, texture and flavor. Lower grade sauces are good and are often a thrifty buy. However color may not be as bright as in the Grade A sauce, or the consistency and texture may not reach Grade A requirements.

A top quality jellied sauce should be tender but firm enough to hold its form for serving. There should not be too much evidence of liquid separation. In whole sauce, the skin particles and the sealant portions should be reasonably tender and the fruit, seed, and skin particles dispersed uniformly.

Although frozen cranberries are relatively new in the retail market, people in the business have known for years that cranberries can be frozen successfully. Very often they have been frozen at the peak of the harvest to be processed at a later date.

The variety of ways to serve cranberries is even better than ways to buy. Put them in bread, pies, pudding or combine them with other fruits for salads, or molds. Some people even put them in the turkey dressing.

The pilgrims might have skipped cranberries with no one noticing. Today, no sauce for the goose (or turkey) will surely cause comment.

Try this simple cranberry relish for everyday treat.

Cranberry Relish
4 cups raw cranberries (1 lb.)
2 oranges, quartered and seeds removed
Chopped Nuts
Celery

Grind cranberries and oranges in food chopper or use blender for 2-3 seconds. Add 2 cups sugar. Mix well. Let stand in refrigerator for 2 days before using to permit flavors to blend. Excellent with meat or poultry. Freezes well. Chopped nuts or celery can also be added. Use unflavored or
