'Cat Girl' buys car from Berea dealer, and appears pleased

(Reprinted from the January 17, 1973 issue of the Madison County Newswatch.)

Christmas 1972 for the Glenn Penningtons was a double treat. The second treat began the day after Christmas when the Penningtons left for California to deliver the most exciting car sale he has possibly made in his many years in business. Some sale was closed on Thursday, January 4, when he delivered a Buick Estate Wagon to Miss Anne Francis, former Miss Kentucky, "Honey West."

Now one might ask how a Berea, Kentucky car dealer could sell a car to a Hollywood star? The answer might possibly be that he is a good salesman.

But Glenn Pennington tells the story a big differently. It seems that about six years ago, a man named Dick Miller, who once lived near Waco, came to the Pennington's Automobile Sales on US 25 north of Berea, and asked to trade a pickup truck for a car. Miller, who now resides in Madison County annually, has lived in Los Angeles the past 33 years.

You will be delighted with the new ideas you will get for gifts and remembrances. All of these many articles of jewelry so dear to the feminine heart are offered in a great profusion of attractive patterns.

The jeweler has spent many years of offering only quality merchandise at reasonable prices along with friendly honest service. It is suggested that you stop in and just browse around the next time you are in town shopping.

Wilson Motor Co.

SERVING SOMERSET SINCE 1937

Lawrence Wilson-Owner

This reliable used truck and car dealer is equipped to serve you and is among the most successful dealers in used trucks and cars of all sizes in this section of the state. They have been supplying the people of this area with quality used trucks and cars of outstanding values and have always taken great pride in the fact that their customers know they can always find a truck or car to meet their requirements.

At the same time get a unit that will pass a close inspection and check-up.

Don't take chances when you buy a used truck or car, regardless of the make, for the unit can only be as good as the dependability of the men you buy it from.

With their ever-increasing sales volume, it stands to reason that when you deal with these conscientious men you are not gambling.

The editing staff of this 1973 Town and Country Review remind our readers not to fail to look over the fine selection of quality used trucks and cars of all sizes and makes at the Wilson Motor Company. We commend the management of this dealership for their efforts to serve their customers with the best units at the lowest prices. Phone 678-8422, the finest. They are located at 229 W. Mt. Vernon in Somerset.

Mr. Pennington said the dog was very friendly, however, he had the feeling Smokey might react to the proper command from his master.

Miss Francis and Smokey examined the truck and wagon and "they really fell for it," Pennington said. The first thing Miss Francis wanted to do was drive it.

Since she wasn't familiar with some of the fancy equipment, Pennington drove some five or six miles out Sunset Boulevard, then they exchanged drivers.

"She's an excellent driver," Pennington said, "she grabbed that wheel like a New York cab driver."

On the way back, the party of five stopped by Brentwood Inn for a bite to eat since Miss Francis had arrived home late from her day's work. She is currently filming an ABC Mystery Movie of the Week, titled "Nightlife." The group returned to her home to conclude the paper work on the car sale transaction.

Christmas decorations were still sprinkled about the house. Of great interest to the Kentuckians were wall hangings and conversation pieces which Miss Francis had collected while Glenn and Vivian Pennington described as "something else."

The Penningtons and Millers arrived at Miss Francis' home at the appointed hour on that Thursday evening and rang the bell on the security fence surrounding the home. Miss Francis responded by intercom and opened the gate electronically. By her side was a sleek, black German Shepherd, called "Smokey."

world were dressed in costumes native to the particular country and were all in miniature size.

During the one-hour visit, the ten-year-old beekoned her mother to see if she had "time to tuck her into bed."

She told the daughter to brush her teeth and hair, and that she would be there soon to tuck her into bed. Mrs. Pennington was impressed and felt that Miss Francis was a mother to her children, although the family did have a housekeeper.

Miss Francis has appeared in a number of motion pictures, but she said she considered "Bad Day at Black Rock" her "Best Day." She was a child model, played Broadway in "Lady in the Park," and made her picture debut in "Summer Holiday." Since then she has been seen in "So Young So Bad," "Waltz at Eaton Falls," "Olympia Ballroom," "Openness," "Dream Boat," "Lion in the Streets," "Rocket Man," "Susan Slept Here," "Muggle Cop," "Battle City," "Black Board Jungle," "Scarlet Coat," "Forbidden Planet,"

"The Rock," "Great American Pastime," "Don't Go Near the Water," "Crowded Sky," "Girls of the Night" and "Satan Bug."

In concluding the visit, Miss Francis permitted a picture-taking session.

While in Los Angeles, the Penningtons walked along Hollywood Boulevard where names of famous personalities are written inside stars and incorporated into the sidewalk. There, they found the name of Red Foley.

MR. AND MRS. GLENN PENNINGTON OF BEREA AND MISS ANNE FRANCIS One Of The "New Breed" . . .

Leads Nation's Hospitals

An air of anticipation filtered through the small room crowded with reporters and television camera crews awaiting the beginning of the press conference. Suddenly all heads turned toward the door as the party of dignitaries entered.

In the midst of the group was a tall, lean, dignified individual, grayed-at-the-temple and dressed in a suit for whose benefit the conference was arranged. He was John Alexander McMahon, 51, who in a few moments would be introduced as the newly appointed president of the American Hospital Association, representing the nation's 1,000 hospitals and 18,000 health care professionals who are personal members of the AHA.

As the questioning began, Alex McMahon, as he is known to friends and colleagues, spoke clearly and deliberately in answering the barrage of questions from news media personnel.

"Doubting Thomases in the press corps were quick to realize that McMahon was 'his own man' and not beholden to anyone or anything in the new job he had just accepted."

The former president of North Carolina Blue Cross who serves as President Six on a Committee on Health Education and formerly on the Committee of the Health Service Industry, which was advisory to the President of the United States, and the President of the National Board of Health Planning and Stabilization Program spoke with a quiet confidence from presenting his case.

And well he might. McMahon, a graduate of Harvard Law School, the past president of public law and government at the University of North Carolina for 16 years, and general counsel for an association of attorneys, had served as a law clerk for a federal judge for a few more years equal to the task of answering the tough questions from reporters who knew how to dig. He quickly gained respect and has been gaining the respect of health care professionals all over the country since he took on his new job on November 1, 1972.

He had just introduced him to the press, and John Alexander McMahon stood straight and still to receive the questions. Where did they get him from, central casting? murmured the reporter, he looks like a president.

McMahon fits the mold of the "new breed" of health field executives. When he budgered about what he intends to do, he held hold down rising his hips, he responds quickly by listing his qualifications that the consumer is the one in the new breed who holds the situation because of always "demanding more."

He was born in Monroeville, Pa. in 1921. He moved to St. Petersburg, Fla. in 1934. He graduated magna cum laude from Duke University in 1942 with a Bachelor of Arts degree. Then attended Harvard Business School for one year. During World War II he saw action with the U.S. Army Corps in the South Pacific. He was in the South Pacific until his retirement in 1971 with the rank of Colonel.

In 1948 he received the degree of Juris Doctor at Harvard Law School. He joined the faculty of the University of North Carolina where he remained as a professor of public law and government and an assistant director of the Institute of Government until 1959 when he became general counsel and secretary-treasurer of the North Carolina Association of County Commissioners.

The Hospital Saving Association of North Carolina Blue Cross and Blue Shield named McMahon vice president for development in 1963. He has held countless other positions with Blue Cross and Blue Shield organizations. He was elected president in January of 1968 to become North Carolina Blue Cross and Blue Shield president. McMahon was elected as the new corporation's first president. He has held countless other professional and community positions.

McMahon is married to the former Betty Wagner of St. Petersburg. She is the daughter of the late Dr. J. B. Wagner. They have four children.

Rockcastle Recollections...

By: John Lair

Every inch of space in this issue of the Signal could be used in telling the story of John Swift and his fabulous Silver Mine but we are concerned only with that part of which touches upon the history of Rockcastle County. It might however, be a good idea to sketch in a brief background of its history, beginning with John Swift's activities as a trader with the French and Indians and the knowledge he gained of certain mines from which the Indians had secured silver ore. Later in the 1760's, Swift is supposed to have made yearly trips between his home in Alexandria, Virginia, and the Kentucky mountains with several men and a number of packhorses, one year numbering as many as 125 horses, all of which went home loaded with counterfeited silver pieces. He is supposed to have moved operations from time to time and many different sections claim to have been the site of one of his ore-smelting furnaces. I have been shown several of these spots by various parties searching for the mines and making use of old records I have been able to gather. One in Jackson County I consider the most likely, although Wolfe, Powell, Bell and Johnson Counties also present strong claims. In his greed, Swift is said to have killed some of his companions for their share of the treasure. When this became known a Mrs. Renfro, near Pineville, with whom he was boarding ran him off, keeping his journals and maps. Years later, when he was old and blind, he came back to Kentucky searching for his principal mine. Riding an old white horse, led by a boy hired for the purpose, he spent the remainder of his days in fruitless search. He died near Winchester, Kentucky, and is buried somewhere in that area. His dying words were said to have been "Never give up the search. There is enough to make all Kentucky rich." The search has never been given up, but I doubt if it will ever make anybody rich. It's a fascinating story, some truth but mostly fiction, and has influenced the lives of many men. James Harrod, founder of the first settlement in Kentucky, lost his life in 1792 while searching for Swift's Silver Mine, and James Renfro, near Pineville, Kentucky, was killed by lightning while hunting for the mine only a short time before. Several years ago I was visiting with the elder Jones Durham when he happened to mention a place in Rockcastle River he called the "Mundy Hole." I asked why it was called that and he told me it was so named from an Englishman who many years ago was run into that hole of water, horseback, and killed by the Indians. One of Swift's companions, a man named Mundy, was killed in that way, according to Swift's Journal. Also, according to the Journal, the crew was spending Christmas in Mundy's home when two of them fell out and agreed to fight a duel. Before the encounter each hid his share of the loot, amounting to several thousand silver coins, without telling where they hid it. In the fight one was killed instantly and the other so wounded that he died soon after without telling where his money was hidden. If Mundy's home was in Rockcastle County, somewhere near where he was killed, then these fabulous silver boards are buried within her borders. A mighty long shot, but a possibility.

A few years ago a man from Somerset, who I had never visited Crews Ferry with me. I had just bought the land on which the old ferry and tavern once stood and the section of old road leading down to it from the top of the hill, which is the only stretch of the Old State Road unchanged today. He told me a story I would like to verify before putting it in a book. He said that at about the time of the Wildcat Battle the country was overrun with soldiers prowling around and stealing or taking everything of value. Old man Crews was running the ferry and tavern at that time in partnership with a son-in-law who was then gone off on a long trip. Fearing for the safety of a considerable amount of money they had on hand, Crews had a slave take him across the ford of the river at low tide in a high-wheeled ox cart with a big chest containing his money. One across, he headed the slave back to the other side, telling him he would shoot him if he once looked back. Crews took the money up a little draw close to where he had crossed the river with it and disappeared. When his partner returned Crews refused to tell him where he had hidden the money and in the resultant quarrel was killed. It was known to the family that Crews had always said he wanted to be buried on top of the hill opposite the ferry so, as he said, he heard his bounds run. His wish was complied with and in digging the grave part of it had to be cut into solid sandstone rock. His grave vault is completely empty, although his tombstone is still there. Many people believe he was dug up by treasure seekers under the foolish impression that they would find some of it buried with him. Many readers of the Signal must have heard about the same story, or another version of it. One person has told me he had heard that Crews had, in his spare time, chiseled out the vault himself and that he later committed suicide by hanging. Some people tell that Crews and his partner ran the kind of stockman's tavern so common in earlier days and that they amassed their wealth by robbing, and sometimes killing, stock drovers on the way back with the proceeds of their sales. Jones Durham always said that the Crews living there and running the ferry when he was a boy was a good honest man and, so far as he ever heard, his ancestors had been people like that. What have you heard concerning this story? We want to get it right before it is published so we will not do an injustice to anybody.

The story about the Jesse James loot that was once buried in Rockcastle County but later removed is another that must be handled carefully. It was a very good one, as I got it, but here again it will have to be re-written because we can use it. I will run it sometime in the near future with full details, except the actual names of the participants, which will not be used later without their consent. One of them is now dead, but I believe the principal character is yet living in Pulaski County, and we will hope to hear from him when the story runs in the Signal.

Another buried treasure story we need to know more about concerns Liberty Langford. When I was a boy I used to pass his old log house on the hill above the tunnel at Sparks Quarry, or Burr, Quarry. I believe he was a son of Stephen Langford, generally considered as the first settler in Rockcastle County. Like others of the earlier Langfords, he was inclined to be very aggressive and figured largely in the Klu Klux fight on Sand Hill. It was said that dealing in slaves and livestock he acquired considerable money and buried it under some flat rocks, or low cliffs, near his house. He later became somewhat deranged and could not remember exactly where it was hidden. It was said that he would get up at all hours of the night and look for it, but never succeeded in finding it. If next week's Signal we start something about old schools and school teachers and hope many of you can contribute something to that very important subject.

Questions and Answers

Q. My wife and I both get monthly social security retirement payments and have Medicare coverage. We're planning a 20-day trip to Europe later this year. If either of us needs medical treatment while we're on our trip, will Medicare cover it?

A. No. Medicare cannot help pay for any health services you need while you're in Europe.

Q. My doctor told me that I have pernicious anemia and need vitamin B₁₂ injections on a continuing basis. Will Medicare help pay for these injections?

A. Yes, if you have Medicare coverage. When vitamin B₁₂ is given to treat an illness, such as pernicious anemia, your medical insurance under Medicare will help pay for it. When vitamin B₁₂ is given as preventive medicine, however, Medicare does not help pay for it.

Q. My wife died last month. I'm 60 and can't work. Since I was completely supported by my wife, will I be eligible for $162 in get social security payments on her earnings record?

A. You don't have to wait the law has been changed. A dependent widower now can receive reduced social security payments at 60 or full benefits at 65.

Q. My husband and I have both worked for many years, and we're nearing retirement age. My sister recently told me I won't be able to get social security checks on my own record because I'm living with my husband. She can't be right, can she?

A. No, your sister is wrong. A wife who has worked under social security has the same right to monthly benefits as any other worker. However, a wife can't get full benefits on her own work record and on her husband's at the same time. If a wife is eligible for benefits on more than one record, she will always get the larger of the two payments.

Q. My wife is 66 and a high school teacher. At last summer when she wasn't teaching she got monthly

A. No. Medicare cannot help pay for any health services you need while you're in Europe.

FAIRVIEW

Rev. Ray Dean filled his regular appointment at Fairview over the weekend with good attendance and the Sunday School attendance for the past two Sundays has been 105, for which we are very thankful. It's good to be able to be in the house of the Lord. We invite you to come and worship with us anytime.

Mr. Bob Barnett of Fairview is a patient in the Central Baptist Hospital in Lexington where he underwent surgery Monday. May God grant him a speedy recovery.

Mr. Willard Todd of Seaford Cane was hospitalized in the Berea Hospital Saturday. May God bless him also to be able to return home soon.

Sympathy is extended to the family of Mr. L. C. Towery formerly of Conway who passed away last week in Florida where he had resided for the past several years. May God bless and comfort his loved ones in their sorrow. Mr. Towery was a grocery man in Conway for many years and had many friends in Rockcastle County.

Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Chasteen attended the funeral of Mr. Bright Chasteen in Richmond February 2nd. May God bless his loved ones in their sorrow.

Stuart Noland of Georgia was an overnight guest of Mr. and Mrs. Cletus Peters and family last Wednesday.

Supper guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Chasteen Friday night were members of Mrs. Chasteen's Sunday school class. Mr. and Mrs. Ronnie Reppert, Mr. and Mrs. Luther Isaacs and daughter Jennifer, Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Cummins, Dottie Williams, Darleen Church and Tammy and Loretta Anderkin, Tim and Jamie. We enjoyed so much having these fine young people in our home. God bless them.

Darryl Logan of Paint Lick visited Gerlad Alexander Saturday.

Mrs. Barbara Ann Peters visited with Mr. and Mrs. Garrett Peters of Hamilton, Ohio at the home of Mr. Jesse Wren and Mrs. Hazel Dean in Berea Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Chasteen visited her mother, Mrs. Liddle Reppert of Mt. Vernon and her brother, Mr. Tip Reppert and Mrs. Reppert recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Willie Cope visited his brother George and family in Berea Saturday afternoon.

The Fairview Homemakers Club was held at the home of Mrs. Preston Anderkin Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Cletus Peters visited Mr. and Mrs. Benton Barrett and family in Winchester recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Smith of Clear Creek and Mr. and Mrs. Mike Peters of Berea visited Mr. and Mrs. Cletus Peters and family last Sunday. Other recent guests were Connie and Belinda Anderkin of Dayton, Ohio and Larry Thompson of Ft. Knox, Kentucky.

Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Chasteen visited Mr. and Mrs. Everett Todd of Berea and Mr. Willard Todd in the hospital Saturday.

Mrs. Helen Powell and son Dewey were Saturday evening guests of Mr. and Mrs. Willie Cope.

As so thankful as I'm sure you are for the release of our war prisoners held in Vietnam, I hope and pray they will all be coming home soon. It would be so wonderful if we could all love each other and have peace in the world. But real peace comes from within; we can't really love others without the love of God in our hearts.

Please remember church and Sunday School, and may God bless and keep you all in my prayer.

CHURCH NEWS

Sunday, February 18, is a very special day for Kentucky Baptist schools.

The Kentucky Baptist Convention has adopted a scholarship matching fund where the church, convention and college will give $300.00 each year beginning with first-year students. Every Baptist in Kentucky is being asked to make a worthy contribution to this cause, which will establish the fund in the convention that will enable it to match the fund which is given by the church and school.

ANNOUNCEMENT:

The Rockcastle Baptist Association will conduct a Sunday School Conference Sunday, February 18th at 2:00 P.M. at the Broadhead Baptist Church. Conferences will be offered for teachers and leaders of all ages.

The theme for the Conference is "OUTREACH". All teachers and officers from the churches which make up the Association are urged to attend.

Cracked or salted eggs may contain harmful bacteria. They should be used only in foods that are to be thoroughly cooked, such as baked goods or foods cooked for a long time on top of the range.

Baking powder is just a combination of baking soda and an acid ingredient that reacts in batter to form gas bubbles.

Freezing nut meats? Pack them in tightly closed containers or in plastic bags. Wrap chunks of fresh corn tightly to expel the air from around them.

Remember you can substitute any common nut except chestnuts and coconuts which are not considered common for use in a recipe.

Flour is always darker than wheat flour. Bleaching has little effect on the color, but improves the baking properties.

Sift no more. Generally speaking, there is no more need to sift flour because all-purpose and cake flour are finely milled. Whole-wheat or graham flour is milled from the whole kernel and contains the vitamins, iron and other nutrients naturally present in wheat.

Trim leafy vegetables, lettuce and cabbage sparingly. The dark outer leaves are especially rich in nutrients. Remove woody midribs from kale leaves, then slice nutritious leaf and kale cooks more uniformly.

Mix well - fat should be mixed thoroughly for cake baking. Through mixing divides the fat into fine particles to give the desired tenderness.

When making a cheese omelet, add the shredded cheese after it has been particularly cooked - just before folding.

Mix well - fat should be mixed thoroughly for cake baking. Through mixing divides the fat into fine particles to give the desired tenderness.

Using a double boiler? Start with warm, not hot, water in the lower pan so the thawing food won't stick. Reheating on top of the range is faster than in an oven.

Frozen gravies, sauces, may be somewhat thick after thawing than when freshly prepared, but suitable liquid can be added to give the desired consistency.

Vacant spot in your freezer? Winter months are the perfect time for make-ahead dishes for guests.

Should dry yeast be stored in the refrigerator? No, but it should be stored in a dry, cool place. It may be stored this way for several months normally.

If you freeze butter, it will still maintain its quality for two months.

Saving calories? Dust the top of a freshly-baked cake with confectioner's sugar instead of making a frosting. You could also serve sliced or diced fruit as a topping for cake instead of a rich frosting.

Shredding cheese? A good rule of thumb concerning cheese - one-half pound of cheese yields about two cups of shredded cheese.

How do you store cheese spreads? Store unopened jars at room temperature. After opening, refrigerate the jars and tighten covers. Store boxed or wrapped cheese food in the refrigerator and it will keep for several weeks.

Use less water! One-half to one cup water usually is enough water to boil for 6 servings of fresh young, tender vegetables. They need longer cooking and may require water to cover. Tomatoes usually can be cooked just in their own juice.

Left over egg yolks? Use them for baked custard, cakes, cookies, homemade noodles, mock hollandaise sauce, scrambled eggs. Whites are easier to add to the cakes, meringue, or souffles.

Left over pieces of fruit? Try adding them to the cake batter - or add to the meringue. They also are a taste treat when added to pancake mix.

Remember you can substitute any common nut except chestnuts and coconuts which are not considered common for use in a recipe.

"The Many Faces of Mexico" is a three-day program celebrating the art, music, dance, cuisine, history and customs of the Mexican people, will be staged at Callaway Gardens, February 15-17, 1973.

This event, the Garden's fifth annual international program, will feature programs to acquaint the visitors with the great wealth of Mexican culture. Distinguished speakers will give informative talks and exhibits of pre-Columbian and modern Mexican art will be shown. Mexican folk art will be displayed and studied. Mexican cuisine will be served exclusively and marachis will lend music to the festivities. A rare performance by the Grupo Folklorico of the University of Guadalajara will open Friday evening to introduce the visitors with a unique sample of Mexican folk art, people and culture.

The purpose of the annual international event is to promote understanding and appreciation of one nation's cultural contributions.

The festivities begin Thursday evening, Feb. 15, with a reception honoring the Embassy, the Ambassador of Mexico and Mrs. Jose Juan de Otilio.

A lecture series entitled "A Panorama of Mexico" by Helen Clifford, curator of painting and sculpture for the Philadelphia Museum of Art, is a highlight of the program. It will be an illustrated lecture depicting Mexico's history of years of art, customs, history and architecture.

Mrs. Diana Kennedy, presently residing in Mexico and author of the popular new

"The Many Faces of Mexico" at Callaway Gardens will bring many examples of pre-Columbian sculpture. A replica of the 16 ft. warrior from the Toltec tribe's famed Tula pyramid will be on display. The festival will take place February 15, 16, and 17 during the cultural period.

Other featured lecturers and artists will be Russell Hickox, director of the Jacksonville "Fla" Art Museum on "East Mexico" and "Today"; artist Miss Pilar Castaneda, American artist; Carry Bosch, Hugh and Suzanne Johnston, producers of the award-winning travel documentary "Viva Mexico"; and Hector Cardenas, counselor of cultural affairs for the Mexican Embassy in Washington, conducting a program on regional costumes. This is a unique fashion show featuring 20 wedding gowns the historical developments of the popular arts in Mexico.

Antonio Toussaint, director of the Mexican Section, Industrial Credit and an authority on Mexican architecture and historical monuments, will discuss changes in architecture

from Best Foods Kitchens

Give Stew
 Hungarian Accent
 "Paprika" is Hungarian for "red pepper." This condiment, is available in different grades. It is best to use the mild and is useful both as a water tenderizer. Remove onion. Hungarian cooks are especially imaginative in using paprika in their stews. This is a Hungarian type stew Americans will enjoy.

Veal Paprika
 1/2 cup cornstarch
 2 medium onions, sliced
 1 clove garlic, minced
 2 pounds boneless veal
 in 1-inch cubes
 2 cups water
 1/2 green pepper, cut in strips
 3 tablespoons paprika
 3 tablespoons chopped parsley
 2 teaspoons salt
 3 tablespoons corn starch
 2 tablespoons water

Hot noodles
 Heat corn oil in 4 quart Dutch oven over medium heat. Add onion and garlic; saute until tender. Remove onion. Add veal; brown on all sides turning as needed. Add onion, green pepper, paprika, parsley and salt. Cover; reheat and stir. Simmer 1 hour or until tender. Mix together corn starch and water until smooth. Add to mixture. Bring to boil, stirring constantly, and boil 1 minute. Serve with noodles. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

JOHN NICHOLS'

Frankfort Watchline

During an informal session of legislative leaders the other day, two topics came up which just never seem to get off the ground.

The first one really irritates the lawmakers. It is the tendency of some agencies to adopt regulations which go against the intent of the bills the Legislature has passed.

A bill is a fairly complicated thing. It must be drawn up, passed, and at least not vetoed by the governor before it survives.

A regulation is a simple matter. It is drawn up and attached to the relevant statute and that's that.

No public hearings, no debate. No sweat. The department head merely decides he wants it done that way, and, lo, the regulation is written.

What's that, you say? The Legislature surely has some control over regulation to its liking?

Not at all. When an agency files the regulation with the Legislative Research Commission it takes effect in 30 days.

The only mild obstacle the Legislature has been able to erect is a new law calling for a special committee to review the regulations.

The committee has no power to do anything except recommend that an agency change the regulation or drop it. The department need not listen to the committee. If it decides not to, it refutes the regulation and that's the end of the matter.

The lawmakers seem to have a right to be licensed. What, they reason, is the use of passing laws when state officials can return right around and in effect void the law by passing one of their own through the regulation route?

The other "bull session" subject was the role of the attorney general as the state's chief legal officer and—presumably—defender.

Some lawmakers were curious about Ed Hancock's pronounced opposition to several acts passed by the 1972 General Assembly.

For example, Hancock has declared the laws granting work release for prisoners and "shock probation" for first offenders are unconstitutional.

Instead of defending them against legal challenges, he is challenging their validity in court.

A third instance is the act requiring certain state officials and newspaper employees to report all their income. Hancock said this also is unconstitutional.

The legislators weren't arguing about whether the attorney general was right or wrong, but just where he is supposed to stand in regard to the state's interest.

One House member pointed out that the attorney general routinely gives opinions on a wide variety of subjects and asked: If Hancock declares a law invalid, wouldn't it look odd to have him going to court declaring it constitutional in the event someone sues?

In a way the question is academic. When an administration finds an attorney general uncooperative or deems him not efficient enough, it usually hires its own lawyer anyway. The taxpayers bear the extra cost, of course.

GHOST OF A CHANCE—The Frankfort Cemetery is a private facility overlooking the Kentucky River and Capitol and is quite a tourist lure because of its attractiveness, view, and some of its inhabitants.

Like one summer night a few years ago, darkness was descending quickly and cemetery owner James Cozine was bidding the last tourist goodbye and shutting the gate behind him.

"Come back when you can spend a good deal more time," he called out from the eerie darkness of the graveyard.

The visitor stopped dead, stared back for a moment and then hurried to his car, mumbling something about Cozine's sense of humor.

is the latest misfire, from a federal facility at Springfield, Mo., is from "Dr." Yager who, if you're interested, is offering free marriage counseling from his new home.

"Write to him if you have a problem and receive his free advice," says the most recent letter.

An attached form note from the Medical Center for Federal Prisoners informs us among other things that "since there are a number of psychiatric patients at this facility, you might occasionally receive rather bizarre letters."

We're just wondering if Dr. Yager's marriage advice could be any more bizarre than some counselors in more comfortable circumstances.

Cross-Stitch Cookies Win Raves

This cross-stitchery wins a blue ribbon — the cross-stitch cookies that is. Rich with oats & spices and other things nice, the dough is shaped into balls and flattened with the tines of a fork. (Quick "needlework" that. They bake light crisp and crunchy, then win hearts as well as prizes. Handicrafts are "in" these days, but delicious homemade cookies — particularly the old-fashioned oatmeal type — have never been out!

CROSS-STITCH SPICE COOKIES
Makes 4 dozen

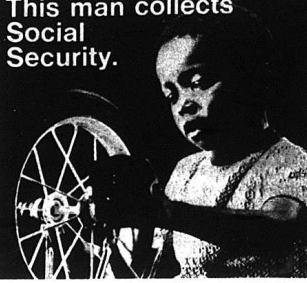

1 cup shortening, soft	1 teaspoon soda
1/2 cup firmly packed brown sugar	1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup granulated sugar	1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
1 egg	1/2 teaspoon nutmeg
1/2 teaspoon vanilla	1 cup quick or old-fashioned flour
2 cups sifted all-purpose flour

Heat oven to moderate (375 F.). Beat together shortening and sugars. Add egg and vanilla beat well. Sift together flour, soda, salt, cinnamon and nutmeg. Gradually add to creamed mixture, beating well. Stir in oats.

Shape dough to form 1-inch balls. Place on ungreased cookie sheets. With stem of fork press to flatten, crossing on each. (If dough sticks to fork occasionally dip fork in flour.) Bake in preheated oven (375 F.) 10 to 12 minutes.

ATTENTION FARMERS

If you don't lime it, why plant it

Why Soils Need Lime

Only a few crops grow well on acid soils because they require calcium and magnesium which are replaced by applications of agricultural limestone. This material not only corrects the soil acidity, but also supplies the plants with the needed calcium and frequently magnesium.

Soil pH, which is a measure of the acidity or alkalinity of the soil, affects the availability of all elements which influence crop production. An application of liming material to an acid soil increases the availability of plant nutrients which are important to crop production. Among these are nitrogen, phosphate and others. Liming reduces luxury uptake of potash by the plants and reduces the availability of aluminum and iron manganese which are harmful to plants if they are present in sufficient quantities in the soil. Liming also helps increase the number and activity of beneficial soil bacteria. It helps improve the physical condition of the soil by supplying the calcium needed by leguminous crops to increase their growth. It increases root development and permeability of the soil.

Lime is the most economical factor involved in crop production on most soils in the humid areas, as they are acid in varying degrees. The application of needed fertilizers is also one of the most economical factors in crop production. The wise use of water - both rainfall and irrigation - is still another factor involving crop production. However, the one which is most frequently bypassed is the application of agricultural limestone and this is the first step in a sound fertility program on most soils in the humid areas. Failure to apply this material limits crop production and wastes fertilizer dollars as well as the producer's capital investment and his labor in crop production.

by: perline m. anderskin

I'm back, and not to be smart-alecky, but I do think that the released POW's feel any more free than I do after the last six or seven weeks I've had.

You see, out typing, whom we had depended on body and soul for the past four years, decided she had had enough at the last of the year and quit. Needless to say, a replacement was hard to come by until we were fortunate enough to staff Mrs. Kathy Spomer to our staff. It was, guess who, for the typesetting, what little writing was done, the bookkeeping, etc. Things got pretty hairy, but with the expected daily arrival of our new Compagraphic typesetting machine and the efficient services of Mrs. Stalon, we expect to be more or less able to cope with things in general.

Since I haven't had time to look at a daily newspaper or listen to the news, I missed what was probably one of the best news events in a long time for our nation, the return of the POW's. I have never experienced personally the importance of a loved one in time of war but I can half-way imagine the thrill of learning for certain that a son, husband or father, who has been on their way home. If President Nixon accomplishes nothing else in his term of office, this nation should be filled with gratitude for this achievement.

Now that I finally have time to sit down and write this column again, I really can't think of all that much to say. But, I do want to mention what I have heard talked about a great deal for the past few days - namely, the poor sportsmanship displayed at the recent Jaycee Grade Tournament. I wasn't there because I worked a couple of the nights and Saturday night. I just wanted to collapse on a free night off, but from what I have heard, the fans from all sides got a little out of line considering the basic idea of the game. Basketball is ideally a game whereby boys from young ages on up get together mainly for the exercise and to develop further skills in coordination and the skill of working together. The world doesn't rise or fall from who wins a game but fans have blown the importance of the final score all out of proportion. Don't get me wrong, I like for my side to win as well as anyone else and I cannot imagine watching any game without rooting for a favorite team. But, I draw the line at young players of an opposing team simply because they are ahead or I don't like the fact that things aren't going my team's way. No more than anyone else, I do not like to see a poorly officiated game, but once those referees are on the floor, we should try to reserve our comments for the adults who got them to work the game and not take it out on any player of either team. I suppose what I am trying to say, and not very well, is that we adults have taken a game that was meant to be just that and made it a seeming matter of life and death. During the Jaycee tournament, there were teams from out of the county who were guests of our county and we understand they were not treated very well. As I say, I wish as anyone else, I could just keep quiet but...

Speaking of basketball, things must have been pretty bad at Powell County last Friday night, also from hearsay. I wasn't there either. But, I was told by several different sources that the crowd was unfriendly and the refereeing left something to be desired. Not to mention the timekeeper with a heavy hand. But, there I go. The Rockets lost by two points and the sun came up the next day always.

Mrs. Alene Haxas, county librarian, has asked me to mention the fact that there are over 500 books available from the library, any of them are mine and that she would appreciate the return of them. With very little money to operate on, she has to have all the books as she supposed to be important and if you are one of the adults like me who has checked books out and not returned them, then like me you should spend a little time digging for them.

Have you had the "London" that if you haven't then you are fast becoming one of a small group. From what we can gather the bus comes in but just one member of the group just about every family in the county. Thankfully I knock on wood, it backs in our household yet not just about the time every one else is recovered look out.

I never did get around to listing the names of the individuals who contributed over $200 to the March of Dimes Telethon from this county recently. So, since I have seen all my records, I will try to do it from memory. Paul West Baptist Church Sunday School was the big donor again this year with a $100 pledge. Mrs. Melvin Kendall, $10; Mrs. Kit Thompson, $5; Mrs. Cora Lee Spier, $10.

Jack DeBorde and family, $25; Sue Hatcomb, $5; Ray Kirby, $4; Terri Roberts, $1; Bill Cass, $25; Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Carter, $10; Marion Hamlin, $10 and probably others that I cannot remember and apologize for...

Thanksgiving. After all these Year's, Independence Day, and Ingolf's birthday is February 22, it takes a while to realize the observance is on a different date," Mr. Hale acknowledged.

"ROCKETS"

ROCKCASTLE COUNTY ASCS OFFICE WILL BE CLOSED MONDAY, FEBRUARY 19

Because Washington's birthday will be observed as an official federal holiday on Monday, February 19, the Rockcastle County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) Office will not be open for program sign-up or other farm program business on that day.

Pointing out that this is the only holiday which occurs during the February 5 to March 16 sign-up period for the 1973 feed grain, wheat, and cotton programs, Homer Hale, Chairman, County Committee, says producers might want to circle the 19th on their calendar as a reminder that the ASC office will be closed on that day.

"A lot of us are still not used to the fact that all Federal holidays, by law, are now observed on a Monday -- except for Christmas, New Year's, Independence Day, and Brown canned four straight fade-away jumpers to help the Rockets maintain their rally and with seventeen seconds left in the game and the score 45-43, Clay County player was at the foul line for one and one.

He missed the first, big Dwayne Mink came off with the rebound and walked with the ball. On the turnover, Clay County was fouled again and the same player made the trip to the free-throw line once again for the one and one. He again missed the first one and Mink again brought the rebound down, threw it out to Cash and with one second on the clock, Cash attempted a desperate shot from must across the half-court line that didn't quite make it.

The Rockets lost that round but with the services of Troy McClure for District Tournament, regardless of the fact that David Stewart will probably also be ready, the Tigers had better look out.

Students May Get Social Security Checks after 22

Students who get monthly social security payments may now get checks for a time after their 22nd birthday, according to social security officials here.

Under a change in the law, an undergraduate student can continue to get social security payments through the end of the semester or quarter in which he reaches age 22, a social security spokesman said.

If the student's school does not use the semester or quarter system, payments can continue until he completes the course he is taking or 2 months after he reaches 22, whichever comes first.

"The change means students will no longer face the problem of having their benefits stop in the middle of a school term," the spokesman said.

About 500,000 students are now getting monthly checks because a parent insured under social security retired, became disabled, or died. Checks for dependent children normally stop at age 18, but payments continue to 22 for young people who are in school full time and remain unmarried.

Under previous law, social security payments stopped when the student reached 22.

There are quite a few service stations in the area. What makes one stand out above all others? It's not so much the gas they sell, although Chevron products have proven their excellence over the years for your car, but it's the extra-friendly service that this station provides along with their fair prices that has given them a reputation well thought of by the people of this area. They are conveniently located at East Hwy. 80 in Somerset, phone 678-4212. While you're there, do like so many other people do and let their friendly attendants fill the tank, check the oil, and just in general give your car the once over to make sure it's safe to travel. The authors of this 1973 Town and Country Review take pleasure in presenting our complete commendation to the management of the Holt's Standard Oil Service for the fine service they render to the people in this area. We suggest you stop in soon and fill up the tank and while you're there select the necessary groceries, snacks, and beverages you might want. We know you'll be glad you did.

Alton Blakeley Ford & Lincoln Mercury

In the Roaring Twenties the "Tin Lizzy" took grandfather where he wanted to go and that's about all. Cars then were drab and uncomfortable, and there were no options available to make things easier or more convenient. But today people have a wide choice of options, colors, makes and models and often wonder where to go to buy their new car. In this community, we are fortunate to have a firm in our midst that can help the average car buyer make up his mind. The firm to see in this area for old-fashioned courtesy, and modern-as-tomorrow service before and after the sale is the Alton Blakeley Ford, located at South Hwy. 27 in Somerset, telephone 678-5181. They are dealers for the all-new 1973 Ford and Lincoln Mercury automobiles.

Stop soon and test drive one of the new models. See their choice selection of previously owned automobiles and tour their up-to-date service departments where they have the latest diagnostic equipment and skilled automotive technicians to service any make or model car. You'll soon see why we, the composers of this 1973 Town and Country Review, regard this fine firm as a leader in their field. Call 678-5181 and ask for KEN REXROCK, AUSTIN WHITSON, JOE LOSER or KEN PHELPS for the finest in sales.

McAlpin Chrysler Products, Inc.

Used Car Mgr.

In this day and age when every car maker has such a wide selection of models to choose from, it is really difficult for you to decide where to go for a new car. All the companies advertise that their cars are the best, but who is to say which car really is? Obviously all the cars on the market today must have their good points or they wouldn't have survived the ups and downs of the business. We, therefore, can conclude that the real difference in buying a car is the dealer you buy it from. The ideal dealer to buy a car from offers a fair price on the new unit, as well as an honest dollar for the car you trade in. However, the most important factor is the service that you receive on your new car year after year. The writers of this 1973 Review would like to point out a dealer that considers the most important part of selling a car the quality service he can offer you after the sale. We are talking about the McAlpin Chrysler Products, Inc. at South Hwy. 27 in Somerset, phone 679-1188, dealers for the famous Chrysler-Plymouth automobiles. See them today for a new or quality used car, and you'll see why we say "Customer Consideration" is their byword.

Industrial Machine and Tool

BOB PING - OWNER

Regardless of what your machinery problems may be, you can consult the Industrial Machine & Tool, located at South Richardson Drive in Somerset, Phone 679-3342. Somerset Scrap Metal Company

DEXTER BURTON AND PAUL HALL - OWNERS

The Somerset Scrap Metal Co., located at the south end of Ferguson Street in Somerset, phone 679-2448, buys all kinds of scrap metal. Here they also feature an extensive selection of new and used steel.

Scrap metal is worthless to us when it is just cluttering up our yards, but with little effort it can be converted into dollars in our pockets. It would be wise to take inventory of your yard today and gather up all scrap metal and bring it in to the Somerset Scrap Metal Company where it can be put to good use.

Almost all metal can be sold as scrap metal, so why not have the money in your pocket instead of the junk lying around. This firm has a reputation for being fair in all their dealings so you can be sure that you are doing business with a reliable firm when you come here.

Remember their location for phone consultations and information. Call them and they will be glad to assist you. The compilers of this 1973 Town and Country Review suggest you take advantage of the services offered by this trustworthy junk dealer.

To be efficient, a piece of farm machinery must be built to stand the rough use necessarily involved in the working of farm lands. The Central Motor Company features the famous ALLIS-CHALMERS line of farm machinery which has stood the test of years of rugged usage and has proven satisfactory in every phase to the farmers in this area. They also feature a complete parts and repair department so that when your equipment needs repair, they can give you the best service in the shortest time at the least possible expense to you. They are also a "full-line" sales and service McCULLOUGH CHAIN SAW DEKOR.

Be sure and contact them first when in the market for any type of farm equipment. Just call for information or stop in the next time you are in the area and one of their representatives show you the advantage of using ALLIS-CHALMERS equipment to put your farm on a really paying basis.

In this 1973 Review we, the transcribers, suggest you depend on the Central Motor Company at West Somerset (P.O. Box No. 7) for all your farm equipment purchases, repair, and service.
