Kentucky Afield

By Hope Carleton
Dept. of Fish and Wildlife

Fishermen are a strange lot. For example, there are those who will attest that trout is the only fish to battle. Others feel that black bass is tops while some choose crappie, White bass, catfish, Rock bass or others. There is a large segment of Kentucky's ardent anglers who swear there's no finer fish than the bluegill. In fact, every fisherman has a certain fish that is tops on his list.

Bluegill fishing is especially good during the spawning season, particularly in the shallows of some 60,000 farm ponds that have been stocked by the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources.

It is not uncommon to witness the saucer-like depressions in the shallows and see hand-size bluegill by the hundreds.

Angling methods are wide and varied. Possibly the most used outfit is the close-faced spinning rig, equipped with a casting bubble, small hook and a lively worm.

The fisherman casts over the nesting area, allows the worm to sink slowly and then carefully retrieves the bait over the nesting site. At times this method brings a fish with every cast.

Other methods that are quite effective include the open-face variety of spinning tackle and fly rods with small poppers or wet or dry flies. Of course, the cane pole is still good and will account for endless numbers of these fine pan fish.

Kentucky has some 40 state-owned or state-managed lakes that teem with bluegill and offer sportmen excellent fishing opportunities. Thirteen major lakes also offer fine bluegill fishing.

The Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources has an extensive farm pond stocking program throughout the Commonwealth. Black bass and bluegill are furnished to the landowner free of charge for new ponds.

In some areas of the state, nesting bluegill already have been reported. During the next few weeks bluegill fishermen should be having a "heyday" harvesting their top fish.

Those desiring to have a pond stocked should contact their local conservation officer, district wildlife director or Charles Bowers, director of Fisheries Division, Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources, Capital Plaza, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601.

Kentucky Will Seek Bicentennial Funds

RICHMOND, Ky. — Kentucky will be seeking part of the $600,000 recently allocated by the National Bicentennial Commission for pilot projects in a national bicentennial grants program.

The money has been distributed in three $200,000 inter-agency agreements with the National Endowment to the Arts, the National Endowment to the Humanities, and the National Science Foundation. It comes from non-appropriated funds available to the bicentennial from commissions on medalion sales.

"I am very hopeful," said Clyde Webb, chairman of the Kentucky Historical Events Celebration Commission, "that the detailed plans resulting from this conference might fit under one of the agency's listed existing programs." Webb was speaking at the conference on Kentucky Bicentennial Publications and Teaching of Kentucky History.

Over 300 historians, writers, and bicentennial enthusiasts attended the two-day meeting on the campus of Eastern Kentucky University.

"Kentucky's planning for the '74 celebrations puts us in the forefront with proven plans and expertise when federal monies are made available," Webb said.

"Kentucky has a good reputation in Washington for its bicentennial efforts. Plans for a bicentennial park have been well received. Our state's bicentennial planning booklet is getting the same reception," Webb told the assembly.

Webb stressed that the Bicentennial Commission staff is developing programs that will involve everyone across the State. He noted that "committees are being organized in every county to bring the bicentennial to every corner of the state. In July, Kentucky will be featured by the Smithsonian in a national program on American folklife held in Washington, D.C. The bicentennial will use the state's appearance there as the kick-off for an intensive publicity campaign to let others outside the state know about our Kentucky '74 plans."

Also at the conference, the University Press announced that although it plans a number of major works on Kentucky for the celebrations, its major effort will be devoted to a series of short books which will range over the whole spectrum of Kentucky's history and culture. Taken as a whole, the set will be intended to provide a library of immense resources for all Kentuckians and others interested in the state.

Many Insects Attack Tobacco Plants — Burley tobacco growers know that it is necessary to maintain a constant vigil against the insects which wage war on the tobacco crop.

Wesley W. Gregory, Extension Entomologist at the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture, has some tips on controlling some of the most common tobacco insect pests.

The flea beetle is a bothersome insect throughout the tobacco growing season. Gregory says the best way to control the flea beetle in the bed is to rake in two-thirds of a pound of Dy-Syston 15 per cent granular material into the top one or two inches of soil. If you didn't get this done before seeding the bed, you can sprinkle the same amount of Dy-Syston over the bed and then water the bed lightly but thoroughly to carry the material into the soil. Di-Syston is a systemic insecticide, which means it will be taken into the plant tissue to protect the plant. After the seedlings reach the seven-leaf stage, Sevin can be used to control flea beetles.

For cutworm problems in the tobacco bed, Gregory recommends Dylor bait. You can prepare this bait yourself by thoroughly mixing one-half pound of Dylor 80 per cent SP with 10 pounds of corn meal. Be sure to wear rubber gloves during the mixing operation. Scatter the material over the plant bed. A bath and a change of clothes should follow the preparation and use of the bait.

Slugs are especially troublesome during wet weather. They can be controlled with metaldehyde bait. This bait should be scattered on the soil around the base of the plants. Be sure not to get any of the bait on the plants, says Gregory.

What about insect control in the tobacco field? Gregory recommends the setter water treatment as a safeguard against attack from wireworms. This consists of adding 1.5-3 ounces of Diazinon 50 per cent wettable powder per 50 gallons of water. Preliminary results of University of Kentucky tests show this treatment to be as effective as dinking in granular materials. The water treatment has also shown no phytotoxic tendencies — it does not burn or distort the plants.

On land which has been in sod three years or longer, Gregory says it is a good idea to utilize soil insecticides. Spread on granular insecticide and disk three to five inches into the soil at least two weeks before transplanting. The UK specialist says that in most cases, preventive insecticides are not recommended. However, soil insects are difficult to detect before transplanting, and there is no good way to get at them after transplanting.

For insects which attack the leaves and stems of the plants in the field, such as flea beetles, budworms, hornworms,

DEDICATED FRIENDLY LAW ENFORCEMENT

Our primary election is now less than two weeks away. The time for a decision by you, the voters, has arrived.

It is my belief that the citizens of this county are entitled to feel safe as they go about their business and be free from attack and lawbreaking disturbance. The surest way to guarantee this right is to let lawbreakers know that they will be punished, and that justice will be swift and sure.

In addition, your County Attorney must be ready and able to give sound advice to the Fiscal Court and to the citizens of the county. No county can progress without dedicated and able officials.

I pledge to you that I will do all in my power to make Rockcastle County safe for law abiding citizens, and progressive, as good judgment shows us the way.

I humbly ask for your vote on May 29.

As ever, your friend,

Keep Cool in Summer the Electric Way with Central Air Conditioning

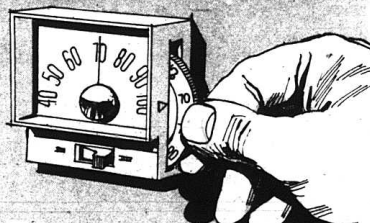

If you're thinking about building central air conditioning into your new home, take care with installation and operation.

- INSULATION. The proper amount is a must for efficient cooling. Have a professional advise you.
- SIZE. Big enough to do the job, but not so big as to waste electricity.
- FILTERS. Have them checked periodically. Clogged filters cut down on efficiency.

DUCTS. Make sure you provide for even air flow through your entire home so everyone can enjoy the comfort of clean electric central air conditioning.

Birthday Party For State Police

FRANKFORT, Ky.—The Kentucky State Police will celebrate its twenty-fifth anniversary on July 1. An event like that deserves a party and the state police is throwing a luau. It's a dinner to be held July twenty-ninth at Frankfort's convention center for the benefit of Trooper Island boy's camp.

A former Miss Kentucky, Robbie Lynn Holcomb, the Lakeside Singers (a group that tours Kentucky parks during the summer), and several unannounced celebrities will provide the entertainment. The principal speakers will be Governor Wendell Ford and former Governor Earle C. Clements, under whose leadership the state police was formed. Exhibits will include an early patrol car (1946 Ford) and one of the brand new state police cruisers. Another bit of nostalgia will be a mannequin dressed in an old Highway Patrol uniform alongside one wearing the current state police attire. There will also be a display of all state police equipment, each piece tagged with its price. Among the dignitaries receiving special invitations are all Kentucky governors who have held office since the founding of the state police, all former state police directors, state police commissioners and public safety commissioners. The state police was a separate department with its own commissioner until 1966, when Governor A. B. Chandler re-organized it under the Department of Public Safety. Since that time the state police has been responsible to the Commissioner of Public Safety.

A very special set of guests will be members of the Indiana State Police who came here in 1948 to help Kentucky put together its police organization.

It seems Indiana had undergone a re-organization in the mid-thirties similar to that visualized by Governor Clements in 1948. The Governor and Guthrie F. Crowe, first head of the state police, decided that Indiana had the best set-up in the nation and asked them for help with Kentucky's fledgling force.

Indiana's response was more than generous. For example, Major Robert O'Neal, executive officer for the Hoosier force, remained in Frankfort for 30 days helping to "shape up" the Kentucky State Police. Other officers offered invaluable aid in setting-up a training program.

Technical help from the Indiana State Police in the form of records keeping and engineering advice was essential in the smoothing over of many bumps for the young organization.

In the mean-time Kentucky troopers were visiting Indiana to observe operations at state police headquarters as well as the 10 posts throughout the state.

This spirit of neighborliness and co-operation has been carried on throughout the years in criminal investigations of all types as well as exchanges of technical information and advice.

To The Voters Of Rockcastle County

During this campaign, I have talked with many people regarding my candidacy for County Attorney. I want to take this time to offer the voters a list of reasons for running for re-election.

First, let me say that I am a YOUNG person with a young family but at the same time I have had the pleasure of serving as your county attorney for the past term thereby having received much valuable EXPERIENCE. This experience makes me QUALIFIED to continue representing the voters in this office.

I have been AVAILABLE AT ALL TIMES, particularly when needed most as during normal working hours for most people, also quite often after normal working hours. I have done this by KEEPING THE COUNTY ATTORNEY OFFICE IN THE COURTHOUSE OPEN. I feel that by my record I have PROVEN myself to be worthy of asking for a second term.

I have been FRIENDLY TO ALL and not just to get a vote but to try to better know the people I am working for and to better represent all the citizens of Rockcastle County.

Further, I want to state for the record that I am ABLE TO WORK WITH ANY AND ALL OF THE OTHER CANDIDATES RUNNING FOR OFFICE. I am not interfering with anyone in their race because my interest is in running my own race. I am not taking part in other races and when re-elected I will not side with any groups or factions but WILL DO WHAT I BELIEVE TO BE JUST AND FAIR.

In these past few years, I have tried to build my record on GOOD LAW ENFORCEMENT AND TRIED TO LOOK OUT FOR THE BEST INTEREST OF THE COUNTY. I have proven that I will STAND UP FOR THE RIGHT THING EVEN THOUGH IT MAY NOT BE THE POPULAR THING for getting votes.

The above are just a few of the reasons I again offer my services to the citizens for a second term. I do want to add that all of the above are reasons that have been given to me as why I should run and why people are for me for re-election. There are many other reasons which I will not detail here. Please consider the above and on May 29, 1973, cast your vote to re-elect a man who will do all the above.

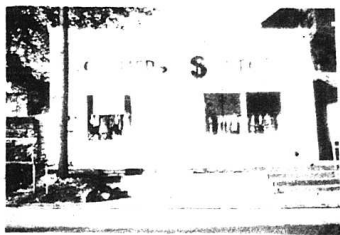

Thank You
William D. Gregory

"COUNTY AGENTS' NOTES"

and aphids, a number of materials are available in spray form. These are listed in a publication entitled "Insecticide Recommendations for Tobacco Fields - 1973" (Ent-15) available from County Extension Agents. Some materials which are generally effective against foliar insects are Thiodan, Lamate, and Azodrin. These and other materials are rated in the publication as good, fair, or poor in controlling various insects. They are also rated as low, moderate or high in being hazardous to humans.

Gregory stresses that foliar insecticides should not be used unless and until insect infestations reach economically damaging levels. Also, the effectiveness of the materials is short-lived, so make sure the insects are in the field and causing damage before applying an insecticide.

to apply the material too early, it may be too degraded to be effective at the time when infestation becomes serious.

Since many of these insecticides are highly poisonous to humans, Gregory stresses that it is very important to read and follow the directions on the labels carefully.

Don't Work Too Wet Soil - Working soil that is too wet is not a good way to catch up on field work. Tillage operations on wet soil will result in poor physical condition of the soil, warns Morris Bitzer, Extension Agronomist at the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture. This soil condition can't be corrected during the growing season, and the end result will be lower yields.

Following Kentucky's Lead - Kentucky Crime Commission Director Charles L. Owen has been asked to assist the Call-forma Council on Criminal Justice in a major reorganization of its procedures and priorities. Owen said the California state planning agency is interested in studying the priorities established in Kentucky which brought about an eight per cent reduction last year in serious crime in Kentucky.

MAILBOX IMPROVEMENT WEEK-MAY 21-26

The condition and position of mailboxes, both in cities and towns, will be noted during the week of May 21-26, the period set for Mailbox Improvement Week, according to Postmaster James O. Smith.

"The Postal Service designates a week during May each year when customers on rural, city motorized and contract delivery routes are encouraged to examine and improve, where necessary, the appearance of their mailboxes," Postmaster Smith said.

"The purpose of Mailbox Improvement Week is to call attention to the need for providing mail receptacles which are designed to protect mail from the weather and are neat in appearance, conveniently located, and safe to use," he said.

"Neat, attractive mailboxes make a significant contribution to the appearance of the countryside and the streets in suburban areas," he added.

Postmaster Smith said the placing of owners' names on the boxes is optional. "However," he added, "where box numbers are assigned, the box number must be shown on the side of the box visible to the carrier as he approaches, or on the door where boxes are grouped."

He said that in areas where snow removal is a problem, the use of a semiarch or extended arm type of support is suggested. "This allows snow plows to sweep near or under boxes without damage to supports and provides easy access to the boxes by carriers and customers," he explained.

Postmaster Smith said that as the lid opens, it falls even with the lowered window of the vehicle," he said. "This not only is for the convenience of the carrier, it increases efficiency by enabling the carrier to see clearly into the box when letters are to be picked up and helps

Farmland Value In Rockcastle Going Up

What is the price of farmland in Rockcastle County? How much have land values gone up locally, in the last few years? The competition for farm properties, as they become available, has become more intense than ever.

Farmers are bidding against one another in the desire to enlarge their acreage and attain better operating efficiency through the use of more sophisticated machinery.

Also, as pointed out by the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago in its recent Agricultural Letter, the large farms are able to achieve economies in the purchase of supplies and equipment and advantages in the marketing of their products.

It finds that the boom in farmland prices reached a peak nationally, in the past year. They were ten per cent over the previous year. It was the largest year-to-year gain since 1957.

per cent and, for the rest of the Appalachian States, 76 per cent.

The Federal Reserve Bank concludes: as a result of its survey, that the rise in farm real estate values was accentuated by 1972's record-high net farm income and the increase in farm mortgage funds provided by institutional lenders.

"The combination of high farm level prices, bumper marketings and a one-third increase in government payments boosted gross farm income to $66 billion - up $5.5 billion from 1971. Net farm income rose to a new record of $19 billion."

ELECTION OFFICERS TO MEET MAY 19

County Court Clerk Clifford Hale asks that all election officers meet with him in the County Courthouse at 2:30 p.m. on May 19.

MAGISTRATES' SALARIES REPORTED INCORRECTLY

In last week's story concerning the salaries set by Fiscal Court for county officials, it was incorrectly reported that the Magistrate's salary was set at the same as before - $2,400 per year.

However, the Magistrates had been receiving $150 per month, and the salary was raised to $200 per month at last week's meeting, effective January of 1974.

The Signal apologizes for this error.

Frankfort Watchline

It won't get to be a habit, but we're going out on a limb this week and agree with the Ford Administration on one issue.

We don't like some points made the other day in a study of the Corrections System commissioned by the Legislative Research Commission.

First, it proposes that eight new community-based corrections centers should be set up to relieve some of the pressures at Eddyville and LaGrange and, secondly, to help finance the project, the state should sell all 64-hundred acres of state-owned farm land, much of which is being used by the institutions.

What's dumb about that? Well, there's nothing wrong with trying to thin out the overpopulated major institutions in the system. In fact, Corrections Commissioner Chuck Holmes supports the idea of community based prisons.

The problem is that the communities don't support them.

In fact, a couple of recent bad experiences in Owensboro and Bowling Green have convinced Corrections officials that they have one heckuva selling job if they're to create eight new centers like the successful Blackburn Complex at Lexington.

But about the idea of selling the farmland . . . that's bull, if you'll pardon a good-old agricultural expression.

Holmes says that to hope to raise $3 to 4 million dollars this way to provide a one-third match for Crime Commission money is futile. He says the Crime Commission and the Federal Law Enforcement Assistance Agency are without funds for this in the foreseeable future.

And why not hang on to some of the finest farm acreage in Kentucky? Especially, as Holmes puts it, when it's used to help feed the three thousand convicts for whom the state's responsible?

The study says that since most of the inmates come from the cities, and since farming's not a lucrative interest to be developing these days, the farmland on which some of the convicts work should be unloaded and those people given vocational training that will be more useful when they return to society.

Those arguing against keeping the land say it's not all being farmed and point to its drag on the economies of several Kentucky counties because of the land's tax-exempt status. But can't the same thing be said about a whole lot of government property that's tax exempt and on which little that's worthwhile is accomplished.

Meantime, the study alleges that Kentucky's Corrections System is brutal, abusive and non-corrective. Again, bull.

As Holmes puts it, the institutions he runs are not country clubs, and they're not supposed to be. He admits that much needs to be done to improve the living conditions of the inmates, but he's trying to fix in four years what it took 15 or 20 years to tear down.

On the other hand, the study praises Holmes for the efforts to make things better for the residents. And he says he appreciates it.

Then the study charges that beatings and knifings are commonplace. That just ain't so.

And the study insists that full-time doctors should be hired at both major prisons . . . when LaGrange has had one for several weeks and another is being hired now at Eddyville.

We're concerned that the reports seems to have leaned heavily on newspaper stories for some of its material, while those newspaper reporters were leaning heavily on the recriminations of former prisoners.

C'mon fellas, you might have asked around a bit more.

Right Road, Wrong Place—An embarrassing situation cropped up in Paducah not long ago, when Gov. Ford announced grandly that a four-lane highway was at last being built.

That was nice, and everyone in McCracken County thought he meant the long-sought Interstate 24 stretch from Metropolis, Ill. across the Ohio River.

Then, to the embarrassment of all, it turned out that the five-mile section of super-highway would be built in adjacent Marshall County. Shelby McCullum of Benton assured his McCracken neighbors, however, that they were welcome to use Marshall's four-lane road anytime they are in the Kentucky Dam area.

Demopublican—“The only thing I can figure,” grins Republican state senator from Glasgow, Walter Baker, “is that I must have been mighty soft on the Ford Administration during the last legislative session.”

Consider this. Early last month, Baker got a letter from State Democratic Headquarters, reminding him of the massive party fundraising effort . . . and a ten-dollar ticket for him to buy. Then, it was followed in a couple of weeks by a reminder letter.

He wrote acknowledgment of both letters and the ticket and said that “for reasons apparent to both of us” he didn't think he'd ant up.

Then came the invitation to Gov. Ford's Derby Breakfast.

But, silliest of all, he says, was the letter he got not long ago asking him to re-register as a Democrat.

MANUEL SHEPHERD FOR SHERIFF

Who Are My Deputies???

Rumors name more than twenty eight Deputy Sheriffs that have been chosen by me in the fourteen precincts of Rockcastle County.

I have named NO Deputies nor have I promised anyone a Deputy's position because:

- (1) Kentucky Law, (KRS 70.030) requires that the County Court MUST approve the elected sheriff's appointed deputies.
- (2) By Kentucky law, at the last Fiscal Court meeting, the County Fiscal Court fixed the number of Deputies the elected Sheriff may appoint at three.
- (3) By tradition in Rockcastle County, prospective deputies who announce with the candidate for Sheriff obligate that candidate to keep them for four-year terms, regardless of their abilities to fulfill the duties of their office.

I intend to provide Rockcastle County the service and protection to which it is entitled. I will employ deputies in compliance with Kentucky law, and I will not hesitate to discharge any Deputy Sheriff who does not or will not fulfill the duties of the office. As your Sheriff, I will not appoint or keep an incompetent Deputy Sheriff just to obtain your vote for the office of Sheriff of Rockcastle County.

"Your Support Sincerely Appreciated"

(Ed's Note: Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Robbins of Brodhead recently completed a tour of Europe. Mr. Robbins was kind enough to share his and his wife's experience with us through the article below.)

On recent freighter trip to Europe, we visited four countries: Morocco, Spain, Italy, and Yugoslavia. We stopped at Casablanca for two days and spent one day in Tangiers. We toured the old towns around which both modern cities are built. The highlight of Casablanca was a typical Moroccan meal. The inner city is old Medina, which is two thousand years old. The people there still wear in buckets and goat hides from the one hydrant in the center part of Medina.

In Spain, we had two days in Valencia and one day in Alicante. We toured Valencia for one day, visiting old churches and the city in general.

In Italy, we toured Genoa for two days. The birthplace of Columbus and the old cemetery were highlights here.

Venice was the most interesting city we visited. Riding the boats through the canals was a unique experience.

In Naples, the one thing I wanted to see most of all was the buried city of Pompeii - the city of twenty thousand people buried by ashes from erupting Mt. Vesuvius in 79 A.D. - last eruption during World War II. The city has been largely uncovered; Trieste was the last city in Italy which we visited.

Rijeka, Yugoslavia was the home port of the ship. From this city we toured Yugoslavia for eight days. The highlight was a five-day tour down the Dalmatian Coast of Western Yugoslavia. The food and motels were simply out of this world. Tito, and the Communist government, have built modern motels and hotels along this four hundred miles of the Dalmatian Coast that will rival anything in Miami. The government takes thirty per cent of the gross and leases some way to private businesses for operation. In Dubrovnik, where we stayed two days, food (three meals) and room for two costs ten dollars a day. This is off-season rates, of course.

Fellow Republicans And Friends

The day of election will soon be here and I know that all of you are planning to cast your vote for the candidates that you think are in the best interest of Rockcastle County. At this time, I remind you that I have described my position on issues from week to week in the newspaper. I will continue to do this in next week's paper. I will not have a lot of last-issue rumors to spread about my opponents and I believe that you should disregard those rumors that other candidates wish to start just before the election. I wish to urge all my fellow candidates to keep these last two weeks of campaigning on a constructive level. Remember! We must be friends both during and after this election as we must work cooperatively in the interest of our county.

I believe that there are several important ISSUES in this election. I have not hesitated to state my position on these outstanding county needs:

(1) I believe that our county government needs more cooperation with the towns and all agencies working in behalf of the county.

(2) I believe that we need more leadership and encouragement in getting more JOBS for our people. Our young people need a chance to stay in our home county and make a decent living.

(3) I, as County Judge, will feel a responsibility toward providing ambulance service. With cooperation between our hospital and interested citizens groups - this can be done.

(4) I believe that the County Judge should speak out in behalf of the educational opportunities for our children.

(5) I believe that the citizens of our good towns of Mt. Vernon, Brodhead and Livingston should feel that they are welcome to join with the county on a good garbage disposal plan.

(6) My position is that our agricultural efforts should receive more encouragement. A late survey shows that our county's income from farms is over seven million dollars per year. With help and encouragement, this could and should be almost ten million dollars a year.

HOW CAN WE DO IT?

Some candidates are saying that a tax increase would be necessary. I SAY NOT! Common sense tells us that we are being taxed enough already. If we were not, we wouldn't be getting money back from the government in the form of REVENUE SHARING. Indications are that our county, ROCKCASTLE, will get at least $140,000 this next year in REVENUE SHARING alone.

I say that if we manage our money wisely - we won't need new taxes.

I Believe That You'll Agree

Sincerely Yours
Hubert Thacker

POLICE TO RECEIVE INCENTIVE CHECKS

Charles L. Owen, executive director of the Kentucky Crime Commission, announced recently that many of Kentucky's police officers are going to have an additional "pay day" next month. At that time the first checks from the state's salary incentive program for policemen are to arrive.

Kentucky localities were given until April 30, 1973 to apply to the Crime Commission for the salary incentive payments.

Each local police department that met the deadline will earn as much as 15 per cent more in salary incentive payments by meeting six standards.

Each police department must pay each police officer at least $4,850 a year and require a high school education for all officers hired after July 1, 1973.

Each police department must require successful completion of 400 hours of certified training for all officers hired on or after July 1, 1972.

All police officers must successfully complete 40 hours of certified in-service training every calendar year.

Finally, each police department must participate in Kentucky's Uniform Crime Reporting System and cooperate with the Crime Commission in the administration of the program.

Owen stated that 144 local government units with 3,044 police officers had applied for the training incentive prior to the deadline.

"I'm delighted by the positive response we've received," Owen said. "Kentucky has established a unique law enforcement program that will attract better police officers in the future and train those presently serving on local departments."

In addition to the training incentive payments, the Kentucky Crime Commission will also pay up to $500 a year for college credits earned by local police officers.

To receive these educational incentive payments, Crime Commission contributions must be matched on a dollar for dollar basis by the local police department.

Applications from 31 local police departments for the educational incentive payments were received by the Crime Commission before the April 30 deadline.

Often you are told that the value of the "referrals" will more than cover your purchase and that you will end up paying nothing.

However, consumers are almost never able to pay for their product by referrals. They usually end up owing the full price for the same product or service they thought they were receiving free.

Now, however, there is a new law on referral selling. The new Referral Selling and Sales Law prohibits referral sales techniques by salesmen.

Our new consumer protection laws can protect you to a certain point, but to make our laws work to the fullest extent, you, the consumer, must participate. How? By notifying the attorney general's Division of Consumer Protection when you observe any violations of the consumer protection laws. Kentucky residents who complain or problems concerning these laws are invited to call the Consumer Hotline, toll free, at 1-800-372-2960.

CONSUMER COMMENTS

By Ed. W. Hancock
Attorney General of Kentucky

An alerted public and responsive government have effectively worked together to combat con-men, shysters, and disreputable businessmen who use deceptive sales techniques.

One such deceptive sales strategy is referral sales. This scheme is mainly used by door-to-door salesmen in the home improvement or appliance line. Here's how it works:

A salesman knocks on your door and asks if he may demonstrate the latest product in vacuum cleaners, for instance. Then, after what is usually a convincing demonstration, he tries to sell you his product.

You are promised a credit on your purchase price for each prospective customer that you refer to the salesman.

Statement Of Cong. Tim Lee Carter

It is clear that the Watergate incident has struck a raw nerve with most of the citizens of our nation. Without a doubt, the whole affair was foolish, unnecessary, and illegal. Further, it has cast a dangerous shadow upon public confidence in our political and governmental institutions.

It is my belief that we possess the most workable and remarkable form of government in the world. Our guarantee of civil liberties and representation in the decision-making process has made the fertile ground in which our growth and strength have flourished. I am deeply disturbed by incidents such as Watergate, for these are the weak and crumbling stones in the otherwise firm foundation of our country.

I regret that our President—who is basically one who tries to do that which is right for the nation—has been surrounded by men who would engage in such activities. An unhealthy environment breeds illness, and I hope that the time will soon come when fresh breezes can clear the air in this unfortunate matter.

In any case, most people have grown weary of hearing about this incident. I am reminded of the man who climbed a tree in order to rescue what he thought was a beleaguered kitten. When he took hold of it, he found that it was a wildcat. He said, "I was never so tired of one animal in all my life."

Similarly, I recall the story of the man wearing a Prince Albert and a high hat who entered a restaurant, ordered his meal, and started eating. His expression became quite sorrowful, so the waiter approached the man and asked, "Are you enjoying your soup?" The customer turned his head and eyes to the waiter and said, "I'm sorry I even stirred it."

Indeed, for the past several months we have been flooded with reports on Watergate. Despite this grave incident, I am confident that the people of our great nation will never permit our heritage and our basic foundation to crumble. I deplore the actions of those involved in this incident, and I trust that the Watergate affair will be relegated to ignominious oblivion.

YOU AND THE DRAFT

By Col. Taylor L. Davidson

As the draft goes into a standby status, records from more than thirty-five county locations have been moved to area offices. The change has made it necessary to use more volunteer registrars and to make provisions for registration locations other than Selective Service offices.

When the System could afford to maintain a local board in each county, there were fewer than 15 volunteer "draft" registrars to assure compliance with the "draft act." At the present time there are more than 240 individuals serving in this status and more will be appointed.

We are pleased to have these volunteer registrars, as they permit us to provide a reasonable service to young men in counties where it is no longer possible for us to maintain an office.

Many locations, young men reaching their 18th birthday while in high school can register at their school. Those not attending high school can register at the local Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) and other established draft registration locations.

If it is inconvenient for the young man to register in his home county, draft regulations permit him to register at any local board or office designated for draft registration. The address given at the time of registration determines the local board. Once this has been established, it cannot be changed.

60 Percent of Adults Getting Monthly Social Security Payments Are Women

Sixty percent of adults getting monthly social security payments are women, according to social security officials here.

"Twenty-three million adults are paid social security benefits," a spokesman said, "and 13.8 million are women. About 6 million women get monthly retirement benefits based on their own social security work records—20 times as many as in 1950."

About half of the women getting retirement checks become eligible on their husbands' earnings records, he said.

A working woman can retire at 62 and get reduced monthly payments on her own record. Or she can wait until she's 65 and get full benefits as well as Medicare coverage.

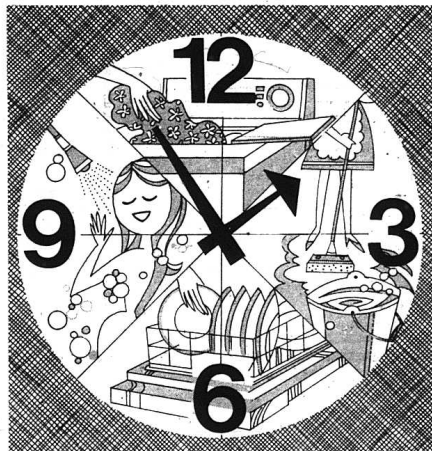

"But if she's entitled to higher benefits as a wife or a widow on her husband's record," the spokesman said, "she'll be paid the higher amount."

"The working woman has both disability and survivors protection from social security," he said. "If she becomes severely disabled and cannot work for a year or more, she and her family may be eligible for monthly cash payments from social security. And starting July 1, 1973, workers of any age who've been getting social security disability payments for 2 years or more may be eligible for Medicare."

About 460,000 children get monthly social security payments based on their mothers' work records. "A child who is entitled to monthly social security payments based on the mother's record can get them even though the father may be working at a full-time job," the spokesman said.

Rockcastle Co. Library

By Allegra Davis

Springtime is garden time. Your public library has many books on vegetable gardening. The organic way of gardening is explained in the Sunset Guide to Organic Gardening and Jack Kramer's The Natural Way to Pest-Free Gardening. Herbs of some sort are used by most cooks. Adeline Simmons' Herbs to Grow Indoors tells you how to grow different herbs for their fragrance and beauty as well as for their flavor. Peaches, pears, apples, and berries can all be grown in the home garden. Dwarf fruit trees make it possible for the smallest child in the family to pick a plump peach. Ken and Pat Kraft's Fruits for the Home Gardens gives information on selecting, planting and pruning trees and berries such as raspberry and strawberry. The Care and Feeding of Trees in general is explained by Richard Murphy and William Meyer. Planting, transplanting, disease treatment, fertilizing, pruning, shaping and other information to make you a tree expert is given. Tom Stevenson's Pruning Guide gives procedures for trees, shrubs and vines. Flowers make a garden complete. Books on roses, geraniums, African-violets, bulbs, wildflowers and other flowers are available either at your public library, the North Cumberland Valley Regional Library or the Dept. of Libraries. The New York Times Book of Lawn Care and A Perfect Lawn the Easy Way can tell you how to have a smooth, weedless yard. Many people love to look at and eat gourds. John Ogan's book Gourd Decoration and Edible tells how to grow these plants. Films and slides on flowers and gardening are available from the Dept. of Libraries through your local public library.

we can limit the use of excessive impoundments.
"Congress has made clear to the executive branch that while it respects the President's right of executive privilege, it will not allow that right to be expanded and extended to cover up illegal activities like those related to Watergate."
By these and other actions, Congress is moving to reassert itself and regain some of the responsibility it has relinquished in the past. I think Kentuckians and the American people support these developments, because they want a system of separation of powers - not a system in which all power is concentrated in one branch of government.

Senator
Dee Huddleston

REPORTS TO THE PEOPLE OF KENTUCKY

I believe this country is at a critical stage as far as its time-honored and tested system of separation of powers is concerned, because Congress has abdicated and forfeited so much of its power and responsibilities that it is in danger of being overwhelmed by the executive branch.
However, Congress has taken several actions this session which indicate that it is ready to reassert its Constitutional responsibilities and regain its role as a co-equal branch of government. Let me cite a few things that have been done:
"For many years Congress indulged itself in what can only be called an irresponsible approach to federal spending. Authorizations and appropriations have been made on a piecemeal, program-by-program basis - with little or no consideration of the impact of total federal spending or the correlation between spending and anticipated revenues. This fact, along with excessive spending by the executive branch, has led to a series of huge budget deficits which have contributed to problems with prices and inflation.
Congress is now working to correct this problem. The Senate adopted a spending ceiling which is $700 million less than the administration requested. A joint congressional study committee has recommended the establishment of a permanent mechanism to set an annual ceiling and enforce it. (Incidentally, this legislation will come before the new Senate Subcommittee on Budgeting, Management and Expenditures - of which I am a member.)
"The administration has proposed numerous budget cuts. Congress cannot responsibly oppose these cuts unless it is willing to make alternative budget cuts so that the overall budget stays within spending limitations. Work on alternative budget proposals is now being done by the Senate Appropriations Committee, the Senate Democratic Policy Committee, and individual members of Congress.
"The Senate has already passed legislation which will prohibit the President from impounding or refusing to spend funds duly appropriated by the legislative branch without specific congressional approval. Congress has been in a weak position to oppose impoundments in the past because it exercised no control over spending. But now that we are moving toward an annual budget ceiling,

TO THE VOTERS OF THE FOURTH DISTRICT AND TEE COUNTY AS WELL

I want to take this opportunity to thank you for the kind attention and the friendliness you have shown me in my campaign for Magistrate.
I have worked long and hard to bring to you the issue, which I think is the kind of Magistrate we all need.
As I previously stated, I believe in honesty and fairness with all the people.
If elected, I pledge to work for the interest of all the people and, if necessary, I will work from the grass roots to the White House. I will work for better roads and with the county's lawmakers in every respect for industry or any means that will move toward progress for our county.
We have a county aid and revenue sharing program and your Magistrate plays an important part in the way they are used, for he is one of the large-keepers too.

Disabled in Childhood, over 300,000 Adults Get Social Security Payments

Over 300,000 adults get social security payments because they were severely disabled in childhood, according to social security officials here.

Monthly benefits are paid to severely disabled adult sons and daughters of workers getting retirement or disability payments from social security—and of deceased workers whose families get social security survivors benefits.

Childhood disability benefits were previously paid if the disability began before 18. Under a recent change in the social security law, the age limit was extended to 22.

"Of the 137 million adults in the United States," a social security spokesman said, "over 300,000 were severely disabled in childhood. They get over $31 million a month in social security benefits."

About half of these people are under 25, according to the spokesman. More than half are mentally retarded. Three out of 10 are in institutions.

"They generally haven't had a chance to work long enough under social security to get disability benefits for their own," the spokesman said. "In many instances, their social security benefits help ease the financial and emotional burden on their families."

family may be eligible for monthly social security checks.

For more information call, write, or visit any social security office.

Disability Benefits

If you become severely disabled and it looks like you won't be able to work for a year or more, you and your family may be eligible for monthly social security checks.

Restoration Of Old Capitol Begins

FRANKFORT, Ky.—Pain and Johnston, Inc. of Lexington has been awarded a $2,187,000 state contract to restore the Old Capitol and to remodel the Old Capitol Annex, according to the State Department of Finance.

W. T. McConnell, director of the department's Division of Engineering, said that the project, scheduled to begin May 6, is to be completed by October 29, 1974.

The U. S. Department of Housing and Urban Development is providing $83,163 for the beautification of the old capitol grounds. The U. S. Department of the Interior's National Park Service has granted $110,000 for the restoration of the Old Capitol. The remainder, $1,993,837, is being paid for by the state.

DARK PICTURE

GOVERNOR'S ALLIANCE—Donald Lewis, left, 23, began working at Ellington's Farm Supply Company only ten days after his initial interview with Charlie Meade, veterans' job developer for the Governor's Alliance Jobs For Veterans Program. Lewis, a navy veteran, said when he first came to Maysville, he had a hard time getting a job. "When Mr. Meade found out I was interested in this kind of work, he brought me here for an interview and I started to work a couple of days later."

STRETCHING Your Food dollar..

A Consumer Tip from Extension Specialists at the UK College of Agriculture

Next time you buy bananas at a special price, don't throw away those two or three that become overripe.

Instead, mash them and freeze them for later use in banana bread. Two large or three medium bananas will make one cup of mashed bananas—just the right amount for a loaf of banana bread. The freezing process will darken the bananas somewhat but this makes no difference if they are to be used for bread. The cup of frozen bananas will defrost while you are measuring the dry ingredients, preparing the bread pan, and heating the oven.

"The main objective of the project is to restore the Old Capitol to its early condition," said Keith Ashby, associate director for planning, Division of Engineering. The building served as Kentucky's capitol from 1830 until the early months of 1910.

Site improvements, such as new, brick-paved walks and exterior lighting, are included in the contract. Most of the parking lot will be repaved, although a portion of it will be removed and planted in grass.

New heating, air-conditioning, and electrical systems will be installed in both the Old Capitol and Annex. Both buildings will be made accessible to the handicapped by ramps.

The Kentucky River Marble of the capitol's first floor will be removed for repair and re-installed in the same location, "supplementing the existing stones with new marble where necessary," Ashby said. "The second floor will be carpeted, as careful investigation has indicated that it originally had carpet."

The seats in the visitors' gallery of the Senate chamber will be arranged in pews.

The Old Capitol's windows will be replaced with smaller panes. A photo obtained from Mason Parker of Frankfort shows the original appearance of the windows and verifies that they have been changed since the building served as Kentucky's Capitol.

The first floor of the Capitol Annex will be remodeled for use at the Kentucky Historical Society Museum. The Historical Society administrative offices will be on the second floor of the annex, built in 1869. The third floor will house the society's library.

"A new mezzanine floor will be inserted in the third floor because of an unusually ceiling," Ashby said. "It will be used as additional stack space for the library."

CHAS. C. CARTER

CANDIDATE FOR COUNTY JUDGE

To The Voters of Rockcastle County

One of my opponents has been making statements concerning Federal Revenue Sharing that I don't believe he would make if he and his advisers were acquainted with the federal law, rules, regulations and priorities set out in Revenue Sharing Funds.

As to ambulance service, at this time, is premature, as that law does not become effective until January 1, 1974. I have been told by members of legislature research that the law will be repealed or at least modified so we can have ambulance service as at present.

I want to say while I have been County Judge that we have always met any emergency that has come up and we will again, if and when necessary.

As to the towns of Mt. Vernon, Brodhead and Livingston, they have town boards, elected by the people to look after their affairs, that are competent and able, and I don't believe they would want a County Judge to be telling them what and how to do things concerning their duties as officials.

All of the above subjects come under the category of qualifications and what you can and can not do.

On primary day, go to the polls and vote for qualified candidates for all offices.

RE-ELECT
CHAS. C. CARTER,
COUNTY JUDGE

P.S. I write my own articles.
