We had a quick response from our last article's inquiry on Joe Cornell. Cecil Rimmel dropped in to tell me that he was of French, not German, origin, being as Cecil expressed it in the old-time way, "a full-blooded Frenchman." Since Cornell lived for many years on the farm of Cecil's father, Columbus Rimmel, he knew Joe quite well and had several amusing stories to tell about him which need not be gone into here. He does not know the exact date of Joe's birth or death, but says his unmarked grave is on his father's farm, near the old tenant house in which he spent so many years of his life. He believes, without being quite certain, that he died of tuberculosis. Cornell is the Americanized way of spelling the name; I do not know the French version of it. Rimmel tells me that only a few years ago he saw a write-up of this odd character in the L & N Magazine, accompanied by a very good likeness of the subject. Cornell, who was a stone mason, was apparently brought in by the construction company to work on the railroad as it came through Wilde. Rimmel says he is sure that the stone RR bridge just north of Wilde was built by him. After the railroad job was finished, Cornell seems to have decided to make his home here, where he lived by day labor, tending small crops and building chimneys for the neighbors.

Mrs. Leilamae O'Mara was the second person to call me about Joe Cornell. She remembers that he often rode or drove his cow into Mt. Vernon and would customarily tie her up to one of the hitching posts on the back street among the horses generally hitched there while their riders were going about their business in town.

Mrs. Etha Hays Coffey, whom I have asked to keep a watchful eye on this column for mistakes, calls attention to the point that in speaking in a previous writing about a school superintendent named Davis, we had the first name wrong and that it should have been W.A.B. Davis, whose wife Alice, became Superintendent of Public Instruction for Rockcastle County after his death. There was, of course, such a man but there were two school superintendents by the name of Davis; the one she mentions, and then another, Dr. S. C. Davis. My grandfather, J. B. Lair, who was Judge of Rockcastle County in 1888, brought Dr. Davis to Mt. Vernon and appointed him to fill out the vacancy which occurred when Dr. A. G. Lovett resigned the position of Superintendent of Schools to move to Louisville. This Dr. Davis was the father of C. G. Davis, for many years Mt. Vernon's leading druggist, and "Bill" Davis, later editor of the Mt. Vernon Signal. Dr. S. C. Davis himself is well remembered as a druggist by the older people in Mt. Vernon.

Incidentally, some of the old-timers used to get a big laugh out of a joke they once pulled on a thirsty stranger who was inquiring around as to where he might get a little "moon." Knowing of Dr. Davis' principals of strict compliance with law and order, they decided to have a little fun at the stranger's expense.

Pointing out the druggstore, which then stood on the sidewalk near the site now occupied by Jesse Cummins' Grocery, they told him the old man in there would take care of him if he went through the proper procedure to convince him that he was alright. They told him to walk in and, without saying a word, kick twice against the bottom of the big wooden counter. They warned him that the proprietor might pretend not to know what he wanted, just to try him out, but that if he didn't speak a word and just kept kicking the counter, a little harder every time, the old fellow would know that he was alright and would finally give in and produce the jug.

The man headed for the druggstore and the conspirators lined up across the street to see the fun. The strange man walked into the druggstore and being asked by Dr. Davis what he wanted followed instructions and planted a couple of polite kicks on the base of the counter. Doc was somewhat surprised, but again asked him what he would have. This time the two kicks were much more distinct and as they continued getting louder with each repetition, the boys outside could hear the doctor becoming more wrathly with his potential customer. The good doctor was never, famous for forbearance, and almost before the spectators were expecting, the stranger was piling out the door with Dr. Davis right on top of him, ready to finish on the sidewalk what he had evidently begun inside the store. While they were busy trying to explain and cool him off, the stranger made his getaway and apparently got out of town, with a very poor opinion, no doubt, of Mt. Vernon hospitality to thirsty but well-meaning visitors.

Even after Dr. Davis cooled down he had a hard time living it down. All that summer, boys, to show their daring, would go into the druggstore when his back was turned, kick the nearest counter and run down the street to a safe distance before, even slowing down and looking back.

IN LOVING MEMORIES of Eliza Jones:

As I this morning awaken, I feel the pain and fears. As I think of the day she was taken. To my eyes slowly comes tears.

It is the little things I miss, Her warning smile, our walks Her understanding of us, and precious talks. And most of all her loving kiss.

Since that day often I wanted to say,

Our termite inspection is on the house.

Unfortunately, you may have termites now. We can let you know with an inspection that's thorough, dependable and free. Call:

The lilies are blooming. Today I am hurt and sad. It is raining, my day dooming.

I think of the happiness past, My thoughts to God I turn. As I try forgetting that day, the last.

Thank you, God, for Grandma.

Committee Approves Cook
Runaway Youth Bill - A bill which had been introduced by Senator Marlow Cook to set up homes and other facilities for runaway youths in the United States was reported out of the Senate Judiciary Committee May 31.

This bill, which now will go before the Senate for a vote, would establish emergency centers for truant youths where they could be encouraged to work out their problems with the help of their peers and adult

A similar Cook bill passed the Senate last year too late to receive action by the U. S. House of Representatives.

JUNE IS DAIRY MONTH — AND WE WOULD LIKE TO SAY . .

CONGRATULATIONS TO THE Dairy Industry

This month is a good time for all of us to take a closer look at our Dairy Industry. One thing is certain, it has become big business and is getting bigger every day. And our dairy farmers have done an excellent job in increasing production to meet growing demands. They are using the most modern, up-to-date equipment in rigidly controlled modern plants. We salute them for a job well done!

County named in suit Filed by Public Defender

$80.40 is going to Court. The suit represents the amount of two bills turned in to Rockcastle County Fiscal Court by Rockcastle County Public Defender Jerry Cox for services rendered by his secretary as a court reporter during a murder examining trial held in April.

The Court refused to pay the bill because, as County Judge Charles Carter said, the county pays a court stenographer, Lois Reed of Somerset, $185 a month to perform such duties. However, since it is not Miss Reed's practice to be in County Court to take down the proceedings, she was not available the day of the examining trial and Mr. Cox called on the services of his secretary, Mrs. Cheryl Witt.

TEACHER AWARDS

The Rockcastle County Board of Education has recognized the following teachers for perfect attendance during the 1972-73 school term. These teachers did not miss a day of work during the year.

The following teachers received perfect attendance awards: Paul Holbrook, William Lynch, Glen Polly, Clarence Van Zant, Garlan Cummins, Linda Cummins, Hubert Hunt, Mabel Anglin, Edna Fain, David Hansel, Kathaleen Hunt, Mary Alice Hunt, Keith Singleton, E. J. Smith, Josephine Dickerson, John Hale, Robert Jerry Mink, Harry Lee Holland, Pauline Mullins and Virginia Holt.

The Board wishes to commend these teachers and principals for their punctuality.

LOCAL STUDENTS ON DEAN'S LIST AT EKV

Charles E. Bunch, Phyllis M. Noe, Vickie L. Smith, Judy M. Vanzant, all of Mt. Vernon, and Terri S. Daugherty and Dennis W. Lawrence, both of Brodhead have been named to the Dean's list for the 1973 spring semester at Eastern Kentucky University.

To attain the list, a student must take a scholastic average of 3.5 or better for 14 or more semester hours.

FARMERS ASKED TO REPORT FUEL SHORTAGES

To help assure that farmers don't run short of fuel this season the U. S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) is asking farmers to report any shortages to local Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) offices, and use fuel conserving methods with tractors, trucks, and other machine-driven equipment.

Since February the Department has been monitoring the farm fuel supply situation through its more than 2,800 ASCS county offices. Shortages are reported immediately through state ASCS offices to Washington where a regular farm fuel situation report is prepared for the Secretary of Agriculture every Wednesday.

Any problems that arise are forwarded immediately to the office of Oil and Gas, U. S. Department of the Interior, for solution under the William E. Simon, chairman of the President's Oil Policy Committee and Deputy Secretary of the Treasury, has pointed out that farmers and the food industry have priority in getting petroleum products.

LIONS CLUB TO MEET TONIGHT

Mrs. Cheryl Witt, County Extension Agent, will be guest speaker at the Mt. Vernon Lions Club meeting this Thursday, according to Joe Clark, president of the local club.

Mrs. Witt will speak on "4-H Clubs in the County and their projects."

The Lions meeting will be held at the Valley Restaurant tonight at 6 p.m., and all members are urged to attend.

ASCS SAID SOME SUPPLIERS HAVE NOT BEEN ABLE TO MEET FARM CUSTOMERS' NEEDS FULLY

ASCS said some suppliers have not been able to meet farm customers' needs fully. Officials said this is partly because independent and cooperative fuel producers and marketers have not been able to obtain enough supplies.

USDA has been working with the Departments of Treasury and Interior to encourage farm fuel conservation practices. They recommend that farmers use minimum tillage practices and that they keep their tractors tuned.

USDA officials further urged farmers not to buy more fuel than they need for the near future.

PUBLIC HEARINGS WILL BE HELD

Public hearings will be held June 11-13 in Washington by the Treasury Department to see how the voluntary crude oil and product allocation program is working.

Harold Ballinger, our local farm program official with ASCS, encourages any farmer needing information regarding the "fuel situation" to please call the Valley Restaurant practices. He further stated that as the (ASCS office) received information pertinent to the fuel crisis, it would be forwarded to local media for public release.

Re-Registration Drive Is Now On in County

"Now that the primary election is over in Rockcastle County, voters who have re-registered must do so by September 24 if they are to be qualified to vote in November," County Court Clerk Clifford Bales said today.

In setting up the computerization of all registered voters, the Secretary of State's office in Frankfort, 1972 Legislature changed the voting law to require every voter in the state to re-register.

First, the clerk will receive a November election must register by September 24.

Secretary of State Thelma Stovall said her office has received only about 20 per cent re-registration cards of eligible voters, but several county court clerks across the state say they have from 30 to 50 per cent of their voters re-registered and some as high as 75 per cent.

"We sure don't have these re-registrations in our office," Mrs. Stovall said. She is urging court clerks to forward re-registrations to her office as soon as possible, and frequently as persons register. "We can't wait until the last minute and have them ready for the November election," she said. "We just don't have the facilities to do all of the work at the last minute."

Mrs. Stovall said she has not received anything from 28 counties-Bath, Bourbon, Butler, Caldwell, Carter, Christian, Clay, Elliott, Fayette, Floyd, Fulton, Gallatin, Graves, Grayson, Martin, Harrison, Knott, Knox, Nelson, Ohio, Owen, Owsley, Pendleton, Taylor, Todd, Trigg, Whitley and Wolfe.

Mrs. Stovall said county court clerks can take all the old registration forms out of their books after the election is certified within the next 10 days. However, she is advising clerks to keep the old records stored as references.

The new law does away with the requirement of county purgation boards to purge every two years. There will be no purgation for four years other than persons who move or die. The new law requires automatic

Det. D. Z. Moore Dies Suddenly June 1

State Police Detective David Z. Moore, 35, of Livingston, passed away suddenly Friday, June 1, at the Rockcastle County Hospital. He was born Harlan County October 31, 1937, the son of K. Caesar and Edna Zachary Moore and was a member of the Loyal Methodist Church and Oakshlad Lodge #640 F & AM in Mt. Vernon. Mr. Moore had been a member of the Kentucky State Police for nine years and a Detective since March, 1973.

Besides his parents, he is survived by his wife, Mrs. Jo Ann Moore of Livingston; one daughter, Cheryl, at home; two brothers, K. Caesar Moore III of Cleveland, Ohio and James Earl Moore of Raleigh, North Carolina; six aunts and one uncle.

Funeral services were conducted Sunday, June 3, at the First Baptist Church, in Mt. Vernon by the Rev. Harry Pensol and the Rev. Jack Bruce. Burial was in the Greenwood Cemetery in Knoxville, Tennessee.

First, the clerk will receive a November election must register by September 24.

Secretary of State Thelma Stovall said her office has received only about 20 per cent re-registration cards of eligible voters, but several county court clerks across the state say they have from 30 to 50 per cent of their voters re-registered and some as high as 75 per cent.

"We sure don't have these re-registrations in our office," Mrs. Stovall said. She is urging court clerks to forward re-registrations to her office as soon as possible, and frequently as persons register. "We can't wait until the last minute and have them ready for the November election," she said. "We just don't have the facilities to do all of the work at the last minute."

Mrs. Stovall said she has not received anything from 28 counties-Bath, Bourbon, Butler, Caldwell, Carter, Christian, Clay, Elliott, Fayette, Floyd, Fulton, Gallatin, Graves, Grayson, Martin, Harrison, Knott, Knox, Nelson, Ohio, Owen, Owsley, Pendleton, Taylor, Todd, Trigg, Whitley and Wolfe.

Mrs. Stovall said county court clerks can take all the old registration forms out of their books after the election is certified within the next 10 days. However, she is advising clerks to keep the old records stored as references.

The new law does away with the requirement of county purgation boards to purge every two years. There will be no purgation for four years other than persons who move or die. The new law requires automatic

Re-Registration Drive Is Now On in County

"Now that the primary election is over in Rockcastle County, voters who have re-registered must do so by September 24 if they are to be qualified to vote in November," County Court Clerk Clifford Bales said today.

In setting up the computerization of all registered voters, the Secretary of State's office in Frankfort, 1972 Legislature changed the voting law to require every voter in the state to re-register.

First, the clerk will receive a November election must register by September 24.

KIRBY NAMED DOG WARDEN

Sheriff Billy Kirby was fired Tuesday by the Rockcastle Fiscal Court as Dog Warden for the county. Sheriff Kirby will assume the duties of the office July 1.

Salary for the office will be paid from Revenue Sharing funds.

FARM SOLD

The 73.86 acre farm of Mrs. Maggie Herrin, located at Wilhalla, was sold at Public Auction Saturday, June 2, to Mr. and Mrs. David Purcell of Somerset for $37,000.

The sale was handled by Ford Realty and Auction Company of Mt. Vernon.

Stevens Youth Saves Life of Randall Miller

Randall Miller, 17, son of Mrs. Raymond Hurley of Route 3, Mt. Vernon, narrowly escaped drowning Monday when he was pulled from Roundstone Creek by Jan Ivan Stevens, 15, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jan Stevens of Wilde.

According to the boy's stepfather, Raymond Hurley, Randall and several companions, including Jan Ivan, had returned to Wilde from hauling gravel on Bridge Ridge. Young Stevens led the boys at the creek and went home for a few moments, telling his companions that he would return shortly to swim.

Randall, who cannot swim, waded into the creek and was floating in water not over his head when the rapid current pushed him backwards into deeper water. His companions could not swim well enough to save him and the other boys thought that he had already gone under three times when Jan Ivan luckily appeared on the scene. Jan immediately jumped in the creek, without discarding any of his clothing, including the combat boots he was wearing, and pulled Randall to safety.

Frankfort Watchline

Clever, these chaps in the state administration.

First, Gov. Wendell Ford comes out with a statement that he's totally neutral in the legislative primaries. Okay, it's his ballgame if he wants to stay out.

Next, Ford inadvertently endorses one of the House leaders, is reminded of his previous neutrality and comes out with the explanation that, of course, he's going to support the leadership.

That was a bright course. After all, none of the leadership, it turns out, was in too much danger — although that almost turned out to be wrong with Rep. Bill Reynolds in Eastern Kentucky.

So, before the primaries, the governor could sit back and practically claim credit for re-energizing his loyal backers.

But wait, there was a primary last week, and it contained signposts of some significance.

How about the one that occurred right here in Frankfort? There's this friendly plumber, Hank Hancock, and he's making what looks like a futile fight against incumbent Kenny Wood.

But wait, Plumber Hancock runs an advertisement referring to an embarrassing moment in the last Legislature — embarrassing for the Ford administration. Remember that industrial loan bill which jacked up interest rates sharply for the workman and was offered under rather controversial circumstances?

Who introduced that measure? Why, Wood. Why? Why, Wood said he was asked to. And yes, the loan bill passed after an early failure and one could surmise that the administration . . . well . . . helped it along a little.

Hancock reminded Frankfort County voters of the recent past.

and we will say flatly that the industrial loan odor caused Wood's upset though we should also add that Wood probably didn't know what was in the measure to begin with, much less dream what a mess it would stir up.

Let's stay in Franklin County another moment.

There was a young fellow named Tom Easterly running for State Senate in the district, a newcomer from Frankfort. His foe was Stuart Kelly of Taylorsville.

On the surface, the administration was staying out of this race, too, but if you talked to Easterly and most observers you'd find administration weight heavily on Kelly's side.

Easterly, opposing the Ford people, won. To us, that has meaning.

Also with meaning are the defeats of Senate Democratic incumbents Nig Dillings and Wilson Palmer, both, from what we hear, backed quietly and privately by the administration.

On the other hand, let's break the apparent trend by acknowledging right now that Frank Miller, a Democrat in the Warren County area, won a five-way race with administration support — and one of his opponents was Joe Huddleston, a nephew of the new U. S. Senator.

You won't get any candor about the situation from the Governor's office, and who can blame Ford's aides for turning a smiling public face in our direction?

Press aide Tommy Preston, for example, laughed and said the Frankfort and Franklin County developments proved that the administration stayed out of the campaigns. Then, he said the governor is gratified — we like that word — that his leadership was renominated.

What we're trying to say is that Ford and his ally, state party chairman J. R. Miller, might have a few worries despite their high-riding successes up to last week.

The voters in a number of districts were trying to say something. We're not really sure just what at this point. But we believe that the outlook is less rosy than the administration would try to lead you to believe.

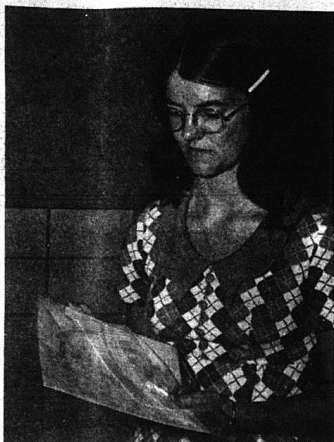

What's For Supper, Wendell? In the wake of that lavish Kentucky Derby Breakfast early last month at the Governor's Mansion, we've learned about something comical.

Frankfort-based Kentucky State University is involved in a Federally supported study on nutrition. Household interviews were needed and a computer was asked to come up with a random sampling of Frankfort area homes and heads of households to question.

You guessed it. The computer kicked out . . . the Governor's Mansion. Those running the study later agreed that the Mansion is not quite an average household, and that the Governor is not quite the average breadwinner.

But can't you imagine the governor answering such questions as "Do you use food stamps in the family budget?" and "How much do you spend on food a week?" There are others on family matters, budgeting, the number of cars in the family and salary.

One professor said that he noticed the Mansion in the list but said "I'm too scientific as an individual to have questioned this computer."

Judy Lane Reese, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard D. Reese of Route 3, Mt. Vernon, was elected to the Berea chapter of Phi Kappa Phi this year. This honor society was founded in 1897 as a national honor society and Berea College has had a chapter since 1953. Each year, the local chapter elects only 10% from the upper 12% of the senior class, students from the upper 5% of the junior class, the maximum of three faculty members and three alumni. Miss Reese is a graduate of Mt. Vernon High School.

To The Citizens of The 1st. District

I wish to take this opportunity to thank the voters of the first Magisterial District for your vote and support and especially for the young workers who worked at the polls, many who voted for the first time. I have never seen a more dedicated hard working group, old or young. All I can say now is I hope you won't be disappointed in my service to our County and District. Let's all get together, my opponents as well as my supporters, for a better District and County.

Thank you once again.

I remain Your Friend.

WE'RE ON THE MOVE; ARE YOU?

This organization, growing at the rate of 30 to 40 units per year, is a company that has been developing for 30 years following the same philosophy and basic concepts to insure sound, competent growth. We are operating restaurants, motels and lounges in five states and will continue to grow as far as people can take us. This is a company for ambitious, self-starting individuals who desire to coordinate, hire, train, motivate and supervise people. They must have some management or supervisory background. We have over 125 units in operation now; and because of the great expansion, there is GOOD SECURITY. PROFIT SHARING is available, and you will find almost all ADVANCEMENTS COME FROM WITHIN the organization. Each month and at the end of each year, the manager has the opportunity to share in the profits of his particular unit. Upon completion of the manager training program, relocation is necessary. We are a FULL-SERVICE, FAMILY-STYLE RESTAURANT whose managers earn in a range between $11,000 and $20,000 per year. ONLY YOU CAN DETERMINE YOUR FUTURE, BUT YOU CAN ALSO HELP US DETERMINE OURS. NEWS AND VIEWS FROM YOUR PUBLIC LIBRARY

By Aileen Davis

Every home has problems like removing coffee stains, stopping leaky faucets, cleaning silver and a host of other chores.

Helpful books at the Rockcastle County Library offer practical solutions to the many household problems that come up every day, according to Librarian Mrs. Phillip Davis.

One of the most useful manuals for homemakers is Jean Laird's Around The House Like Magic which gives some one thousand tips on decorating, cleaning, storing, gardening, cooking, sewing, entertaining, beauty, training, children, and other subjects.

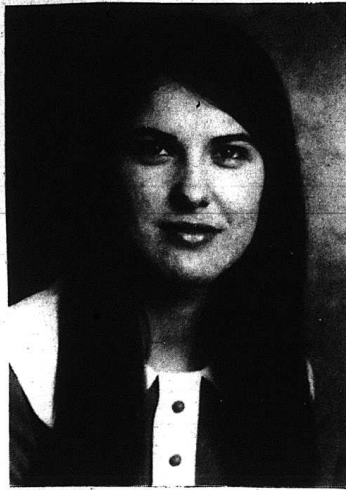

Other books which give practical information and advice on household problems include Heloise All Around The House by Heloise, Cruse, Fady's Homemaking by Pauline Cramer and Dorothy Rodgers' A Word To The Wives.

Hints on how to keep houses are given in Peg Bracken's The I Hate To Housekeep Book, Mary Gillies' The New How To Keep House and Guide To Successful Housemaking by the editors of Good Housekeeping magazine.

A number of textbooks on home management are also available, including Managing For Effective Living by Margaret Goodyear.

Alma Moore's How To Clean Everything describes how to clean just about every object and fabric found from basement to attic.

Also available at the library are such home magazines as "Good Housekeeping," "Better Homes and Gardens," "Ladies'

We have learned more about the old record book we are looking for, but, unfortunately, nothing of its present location. It is described as being made of hand-ruled sheets, enclosed in a home-tanned leather binding, something on the order of a large pocketbook, and sewn with flax linen homemade thread. It appears to have been a tax book that in some way escaped the fire in which County records were destroyed. It had possibly been replaced by a regulation tax book in the clerk's office and was being kept in private hands as sort of a keepsake. W. M. Poynter, "Uncle Billy," was the last person who owned it so far as we can make out.

At the time the book was made up the tax levy was ten cents on the one hundred dollars of valuation, with a poll tax for all men, free, white or slaves, over twenty-one years of age. First name listed was that of Phoebe Adams, with a horse valued at $30.00 and a tax bill of $3.03 1/2. Joshua Wilson, last name on the tax list, paid a tax of $2.62.

Largest taxpayer was William (Devil Bill) Adams, who paid $26.85 on a property evaluation of $18,600. This was on 2,500 acres of land, twenty adult slaves, ten horses, and ninety head of cattle.

Next largest taxpayer in that year was General William Smith, who paid a tax of $19.74 on 1665 acres of land, twelve slaves and other personal property. At the time he owned and lived in the big house later occupied by the D. N. Williams family and after that, through a succession of renters, was bought and demolished by Green Carpenter, who built and operated a motel there until recent years.

Solomon Row, Ashley Owens, Sr., and David N. Lewis, father of Judge S. D. Lewis, were on the tax lists before titles, or poll tax, was charged; Rowe and Owens were each taxed 5 cents, as each owned a horse. Lewis, with three horses, had to pay a total tax of $12 1/2.

James Maret, who saw and wrote about this old tax book around 1912, at which time it was in the possession of Uncle Billy Poynter, states that the total county tax for the year in which he wrote was 99 1/2 times greater than that for the year recorded in the old tax book with which we are concerned. Incidentally, it is not really as old as we had surmised. It covered taxes as late as 1839. Maret stated that J. Henry Fish was the only person yet living in the County who was here when this book was made up, being a child of four at that time.

Total Rockcastle County property then consisted of 312 slaves, 1300 horses, 1944 cattle, with hogs and sheep not listed. There were 638 taxpayers and they paid a total tax of $1,124,992, an average of less than $2.00 each. Maybe the old days were not so bad after all!

Among taxpayers listed were the Dysart families. The old Kentucky Long Hunter and Revolutionary Officer, John Dysart, whose burial place we have been trying to locate, seemed to head the tribe. After his death his sons and their families seem to have all left Kentucky. One son wrote about all we know of his father in a letter to a researcher many years ago. Dysart's sons seemed to have owned from two to several slaves each. Dysart's own slaves were valued at $6,000, but their number is not given. Dysart is said to have owned a most remarkable library for his day and time, but it is not given in on his tax list as a separate item. Incidentally, wonder what happened to all his books! If there are any of them left here in Rockcastle County, they are worth a considerable amount.

Among the more familiar names of Rockcastle taxpayers at the time this book was made up we find the following: Andrew Baker, David Bethurum, David Carson, Stephen Colyer, Abraham Chestnut, Reuben Elkins, Jesse Fish, Alexander Henderson, David Gentry, Barnaby Haley, Joseph Houk, William Peaslie Hiatt, Latten R. Kirby (supposed to have been tax collector for that year), Josiah Jopin, William Laswell, Robert Langford, Hobbes McClure (listed with 10,000 acres of land valued at only $1,000.), Marshall Moore, Andrew McClary, Mitchell Maret, Calloway Mullins, Alfred Owens (who made the famous remark about the great meteoric shower which visited Rockcastle County in 1833), William Parsons, David Proctor, William Riddle, Robert Rigby, Pleasant Ramsey, George Sigmon, Maret Singleton, Isaac Snodgrass, Solomon Tyree, Richard Williams, Isaac Whitehead, John Walker, and Madison Sowder.

These, of course, are not all the names in the old book but many of them are of families no longer represented in Rockcastle. As you can see from dates mentioned this old tax book is not as old as we had thought, being made up some 29 years after the county was formed. It is still valuable to me, however, and my offer of $100. for it still stands if found in good legible condition. It was last seen in the hands of Uncle Billy Poynter. Where did it go from there?

The Bullock heirs, children of the deceased Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Bullock, wish to announce that they have donated additional land for the purpose of expanding the McKinney Cemetery at Blue Springs, and that contributions are now being solicited and are needed for erecting a new fence surrounding the cemetery.

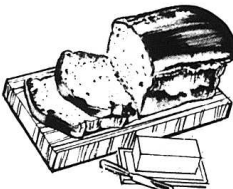

Those having an interest in the cemetery, either in making personal use of the grave sites in the future, or having members of their family already buried there, are urged to make every effort to contribute, as arrangements for the fence have already been completed and it will be installed as soon as sufficient funds have been collected. Donations should be made to Mr. Taft Bullock, and can be mailed to him at R. #1, Mt. Vernon. Any amount, large or small, will be greatly appreciated.

FROM THE OFFICE OF MARLOW W. COOK, GOVERNOR OF KENTUCKY

Cook Predicts New Action on DST Bill - Senator Marlow Cook stated May 31 that he anticipated his proposal for shortening the period of daylight savings time, from Memorial Day to September 30 each year, to be reported out of the U. S. Senate Commerce Committee within a month. Senator Cook added that he expected a tough floor fight against his measure to amend the Uniform Times Act, noting that last year an eastern state's Senator had held another time bill "hostage" to prevent debate on the Cook DST bill.

A. Ground beef, like other fresh meats, should be refrigerated or frozen as soon as possible after purchase. If you plan to use the ground beef within a day or two, it can be stored in the coldest part of your refrigerator - usually near the ice cube compartment or in a special meat keeper. Ground beef wrapped in transparent film can be refrigerated without re-wrapping. But ground beef wrapped in butcher paper should be unwrapped, placed on a platter and covered with wax paper before refrigerating.

If ground beef is to be stored in a freezer for two weeks or less, it may be kept in transparent film without moisture loss. For longer storage, it should be wrapped tightly in moisture-resistant material like aluminum foil, freezer paper or plastic bags. Ground beef can be frozen at 0 degrees F. for two to three months with little loss of quality.

Q. What is the best way to thaw ground beef?

A. Ground beef should be thawed in the refrigerator. Keeping the meat cold while it is thawing is essential to prevent growth of bacteria. For faster thawing, put the meat in a watertight wrapper in cold water or in a closed double paper bag at room temperature.

Q. Why does ground beef sometimes release a lot of "juice" while cooking?

A. In making ground beef, some retail stores grind the meat while it is still frozen. Ice crystals, which are incorporated into the meat, melt when the meat is cooked. The same thing can occur from home freezing. If large packages of ground beef are frozen, freezing will be slow, causing large ice crystals to form in the cell walls. The ice crystals break down the cell walls, releasing the cellular fluid or meat juices.

Q. What causes ground beef patties to shrink when cooking?

A. All meat will "shrink" in size and weight during cooking. The amount of shrinkage will depend on its fat content, the temperature at which the meat is cooked and how long it is cooked.

Basically, the higher the cooking temperature, the greater the shrinkage. Cooking ground beef at moderate temperatures (325-350 degrees F. in an electric skillet) will reduce shrinkage and help retain meat juices and results in more shrinkage and a dry, unpalatable product.

One tip: When cooking ground beef patties, wait until after they're cooked to season with salt. Salt draws juices out of meat.

Q. Is there any danger in eating rare or raw ground beef?

A. The U. S. Department of Agriculture strongly recommends against eating either rare or raw ground beef.

The PCA Advisory Council held its annual meeting Thursday, May 24 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roy G. Brown with 46 present for the meeting and cook-out. Special guests were Bob Russell in charge of Public Relations at the Federal Intermediate Credit Bank of Louisville, Mr. and Mrs. D.C. Sherman and son, Mr. and Mrs. Berkeley Colson, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Durham and Mr. and Mrs. J.D. Stringer, all of Somerset.

COUNTY AGENT'S NOTES
By: H. Lee Durham

Forage Field Day - A Forage Field Day is scheduled for Rockcastle County Friday, June 15, beginning at 10:00 A.M.

The itinerary is as follows: assemble at Edward Sowder, Jr.'s farm at Spiro, 10:00. Observe pasture renovation and alfalfa variety plots.

Visit renovated pasture field on W. I. Norton's farm at Ottawa, 11:15 A.M.

Noon meal, furnished by PCA at Roy Brown's farm at Qual, 12:30 P.M. See second year pasture renovation, red clover variety test plots, and no-till soybeans.

Dr. Russell Bredahl, Extension Specialist in Beef, University of Kentucky, will be with us on the tour, and has been asked to talk, briefly on the following topics: more beef and milk per acre through a good forage program, grass tetany, pinkeye, marketing, feeder calf production, feeding liquid protein and cross breeding.

Tobacco Plants - Storing burley tobacco plants in the tobacco barn during wet seasons has proven quite successful for many tobacco growers.

A few guidelines should be followed:

1. Gather some dry burlap sacks. (Figure about 200 to 250 plants per sack and about 9,000 plants per acre.)

2. The plants in the plant bed must be dry - free of dew or rain - before they are pulled.

3. Pull plants carefully.

4. The best place for storing the plants is on the dirt floor of a tobacco barn. The floor should be clear of large objects, but do not sweep out the loose dirt. If you do not have a little loose dirt, you should take a mattock and chip up a little dirt about 1/2 to 1 inch deep.

5. Get your plants to the barn as quickly as possible. Cover the load only in case of more rain or extreme sunshine. Remember, you are saving plants because of wet weather, so the plants need to be kept

What To Do In June - June is a month of undiminished activity both in nature and in the garden. During its long days, trees and shrubs reach their leafy best, flowers become most plentiful and richest in color, and usually there are more days of sunshine than in any other month.

Butterflies hover over roadside flowers and mother birds, with nests full of young, work unceasingly throughout the days to keep them well fed. Bees hurry from flower to flower gathering nectar for the hive and, without being aware of their good deeds, carry on the very necessary task of pollination so that both flowers and vegetables can be more plentiful.

According to Extension garden specialists at the University of Kentucky, the most important thing to do in the garden in June is cultivate. Cultivation helps disrupt the activities of ants and other garden insects. It conserves moisture in the soil and, more importantly, keeps weeds and crabgrass from taking over. Don't, however, cultivate too deep. Otherwise, plant roots that lie near the surface, may be injured and the plants stunted.

A lot of effort at weed control can be saved by mulching. Properly applied, mulches reduce weed growth, maintain good soil structure, and conserve moisture. For best results with organic mulches, spread to a depth of two inches or more. For thicker evergreens, prune back as much as two-thirds of the new growth in early June, UK horticulturists recommend. Flowering trees and shrubs, such as azaleas, rhododendrons, weigela, and broom lilac, should be pruned as soon as their blooms are gone. And cut off the flower heads of delphiniums after they bloom.

When chrysanthemums reach a height of 6 inches, pinch back the tip growth to help make the plants lower and bushier. Continuing into early July, new branches should be pinched when they reach a length of about 4 inches.

Start looking for signs of insect damage and disease problems early in June and take appropriate action. Precautions taken now may avert an epidemic of both later in the season. Your County Extension Agent can give you helpful advice on these and other garden problems.

Spray ants with chlordane if they start throwing up hills on the lawn. Also give the spray treatment to the foundation if they start coming in the house. Use traps to control moles. If their runs and hills start figuring the lawn, tramp or roll down and then set mole traps in the reopened runs. Small windmills and pinwheels may be ornamental and interesting to watch, but pest experts say they are useless for mole control. If you no longer want to be bothered with caring for house plants indoors, remove them to the porch, patio, or garden. Fertilize, check for insect pests, and water the plants regularly. And be sure to keep begonias, ferns and other foliage plants out of the direct sun.

June is the month of roses and indeed a busy month - a month in which, as it says in the Bible, "Man goes forth to his work and to his labor until the evening." But despite this, some time should be taken out to go pond fishing; to make some homemade ice cream; to take some color photos of the flowers for next winter's enjoyment; to eat some strawberry shortcake; and to listen to the song of the whippoorwill at twilight and to that of the wood thrush at dawn.

All these delightful things are a part of June and should not go unnoted or undone.

VOTERS

I want to say this, Praise God and thank you good people that voted for me Tuesday. I was like the writer John that spoke in the Bible, and he said he saw a two-horned beast rise out of the sea, that its horns had been bruised, and I thought of these words on the election day. But I overcame those two powers by the good and religious people that voted for me. I am not saying it was those who ran against me.

I am going down to the Jail and do my best to make a sober, honest, hardworking jailer, with respect to you who supported me.

Thank you a million.

Kentucky sports-fishermen should have some of this spring's most outstanding fishing during the next couple of weeks.

Bluegill are on the nest and large spawning areas are to be found in the majority of the state's smaller impoundments such as Beaver, Guist Creek, Malone, Carpenters and other similar areas. Farm ponds are just a matter of time until a basket of fine, hand-size bluegill are harvested. (There is no size or creel limit on bluegill on a statewide basis; however, special regulations apply on some of the smaller impoundments. Be sure to check these before fishing.)

While the bluegill are active during the days, white bass and crappie are taking over at night, especially on the major lakes. Night fishing at Cumberland, Nolichucky and Herrington has already started and at the other major impoundments it is expected to get underway soon.

Night fishing for white bass generally takes place along the deep banks and points. Lanterns and minnows are two main items used by night fishermen who, as a rule, will stay out all night in quest of those two fine game fish.

The daily and possession limit on both white bass and crappie is 60.

Black bass activities are possible at peak when the nesting bass have finished their spawning spree. Those casting or fly fishing with surface lures or big bass bugs should have some exciting action as these lunkers hit surface lures, many should harvest limits.

Early mornings and late evenings are prime times and the quiet waters of the inlets and bays are choice spots.

The daily limit is 10 per day with 20 in possession after two or more days of fishing.

The size limit is 10 inches. Again, special regulations apply on some smaller bodies of water - so be sure to check before fishing.

Now is the time for peak spring sport fishing; if you don't give it a try you may miss some of the outstanding fishing of late spring.

ESTATE AUCTION

of the late Mrs. Betty Parsons

57 ACRE FARM

SATURDAY, JUNE 9th-10:30 A.M.

Located near the Restro Valley Lake. Turn off Lake Road at The Boat Dock. Watch for auction signs.

The heirs of the late Mrs. Parsons have authorized our firm to sell this good farm at public auction. This farm contains approximately 57 acres and has 1973 tobacco allotment of 602 lbs. The farm has a good tobacco barn and a house which is not livable. Of the 57 acres, approximately 20 acres is cleared cropland with the balance in woods. There is a good stand of white and black oak timber. The farm is watered by three good springs. The entire 57 acres is fenced; however, the fence is in need of repairs in some sections.

If you're in the market for a farm, then look no longer. Just attend the sale and bid the last bid.

TERMS-20% down day of sale, balance due in 30 days upon delivery of deed.

POSSESSION: Immediately.

For additional information, contact Mr. Jack Parsons at 256-2288 or 256-2470 or
