

SCORES FIRST TOUCHDOWN - John Clantz, quarterbacking for the Rockcastle County Rockets, gallops for the goal line and the first touchdown of the season. The score came early in the first quarter last Friday night against MML. John, playing his second game of football, went 35 yards for the T.D.

In the above photo, John Clantz shakes off two would-be tacklers and goes on to score from about 35 yards out for the third touchdown of the game against MML. Clantz also scored two extra points, for a total of 14 for the game.

GANG TACKLING...The Rockets defense this year, in two cuttings, have not given up any points. In the above photo, at least seven Rockets are in a pile - all legal - no penalty.

WIN EXTRA HONORS - Glen Polly, head football coach, is awarding stars to the football players for games won or tied. The players will wear them on their helmets. For outstanding performances, Coach Polly is awarding extra stars and the two pictured above took first honors this year for their play against Russell County. They are Paul Travis, No. 74 and Tommy Smith, No. 24.

Food Freezers Can Be A Boon Or A Bust - The ingenious American housewife has found hundreds of ways to economize and still provide her family with protein in these days of higher meat prices.

Some have even gone so far as to substitute other protein-rich food for higher priced meat cuts or even meat itself. Substitution, however, is not always a welcome alternative to a family that is used to eating meat regularly. Many families have turned to home freezers, particularly in recent months, to be able to buy less expensive meats and other foods in quantity, for use in a wider variety of dishes over a longer period of time.

Freezer storage gives the buyer great flexibility. He or she can buy in quantity or buy when the price is down. By buying in quantity when prices are low, he can double up on savings. Freezers can be a boon or a bust, however, depending on how clever you are in selecting the right freezer, and preparing your food to be frozen properly.

Consumer research publications are a good guide to the selection of a freezer. These magazines are available at most public libraries. Remember, a freezer should be large enough to quick-freeze your food and keep it cold - in quantity you're likely to use. Where you put your freezer will have something to do with its ability to keep food cold. Don't locate it next to a hot water heater, the furnace, or where the sun can beat on it during the day. Leave enough space so that the air can circulate around it to dissipate any heat radiated from the refrigerator coils. Limit the amount of food you place in a freezer at any one time to the quantity that can be frozen in 24 hours. This usually will amount to two or three pounds per cubic foot of freezer capacity. Freezing slowly, above 0 degrees F., impairs the texture and appearance of meats, and they may lose liquids. Your supplier may wrap and quick-freeze your meat for you. Although the price is certain to be more, this will save you the effort of preparing and wrapping the food for freezing, and you won't have to risk over-loading your freezer during the process.

utensils. When finished cutting up one package of meat, wash the knives, forks and your cutting surface before starting on another package. This will prevent your cross-contaminating your meat or poultry. All meat should be wrapped in moisture and vapor proof packaging material. Aluminum foil is excellent for wrapping irregularly-shaped packages. The objective is to enclose as much air as possible. Air causes oxidation, impairing the appearance, flavor, and texture of meats. Frozen meats can be stored indefinitely according to USDA, if held at 0 degrees or lower temperatures. Eating quality and nutritive value do change, but very slowly at 0 degrees or below. Rate of change increases rapidly as the temperature and time food is held above zero. Meats can be cooked with or without thawing. Starting with a frozen piece of meat does not materially affect its taste or texture. But, insert a meat thermometer as soon as the meat is softened enough, so you can check on the internal temperatures to know when it's properly cooked. When thawing meats for cooking, thaw in the refrigerator at below 40 degrees to prevent bacteria contamination. All meats contain some bacteria, and become further contaminated during handling. Freezing and cooking meat at the proper temperatures prevents bacterial growth. If thawing in the refrigerator is too slow, place the meat in a tightly wrapped water-proof package in cold water or under running cold water. Follow these household hints and let your freezer help save money on frozen meats and poultry.

Helpful ideas from the latest National Lutheran Laymen's League HOW TO STAY MARRIED If your marriage is headed for the rocks, here are a few shipshape ideas for husband and wife to steer a new course by. FOR MEN ONLY: 1. Bring home flowers or candy often. Few investments yield quicker results. 2. Help her with her coat and open doors for her. Inexpensive and infallible methods like these make a woman feel more like a woman. 3. Ask her advice - and take it if it's good. There's no higher compliment. A noted marriage counselor reports that one of the primary grievances voiced by wives is that preoccupied husbands make them feel "invisible." 4. Compliment her when she has gone to special trouble to prepare a dish you like. Bread cast on the waters may yield French toast. 5. Lend a new joke occasionally. FOR WOMEN ONLY: 1. Make your home neat but not so neat that your husband feels like bull in a china shop. 2. If you have the space, set aside a den or workshop where he can scatter ashes or wood shavings to his heart's content. 3. Read the newspaper every day. Many women who complain that their husbands don't talk to them haven't much to say. 4. If you have children, make him feel he's just as important to you as the kids. The counterpart of the wife who feels "invisible" is the husband who thinks he's valued only a provider and "the father of her children." Both types are frequently found in counseling sessions and divorce courts. 5. Avoid reciting the trials and tribulations of your day as soon as he steps into the door. Give him a chance to unwind.

County Agent's Notes

By H. Lee Durham

What To Do In September
 1. Renovate the home lawn.
 Late September is a good time to de-thatch, reseed, and fertilize. Ask your County Extension agent for a copy of "Home Lawns in Kentucky," Circular 618.
 2. Spray established lawns to control broadleaf weeds. Fall is a better time than spring - you are less likely to damage dormant shrubs and trees.

 3. Clip hedges for the last time.
 4. Transplant and divide perennials.
 5. Check bottom leaves of roses. If red spider mites are present, spray with Kelthane.

Continue applying fungicide sprays weekly if you have an infection of Blackspot disease.
 6. Plant daffodil bulbs.
 7. Stake tall chrysanthe-mums as they start to bloom.
 8. Bring in houseplants. Take cuttings on tender annuals that you want to overwinter indoors.
 9. Transplant evergreen shrubbery. Transplant bare-root deciduous plants only after leaf drop.
 10. Begin watering shrub-bery under eaves and in dry places in preparation for winter.

 11. Select vegetables for winter storage.
 12. Harvest and store white potatoes and sweet potatoes.
 3. Sow lettuce in coldframe.
 14. Sow winter cover crops in vacant garden areas.
 15. Pull onions as soon as tops die down.

Take Care of Your Potato Crop - Many Kentucky home-owners go to a great deal of expense and work to produce a good Irish potato crop. But producing is only one aspect; storing the potatoes can be a bigger problem. Certain pre-cautions taken at harvesting time and shortly thereafter can do a great deal in preventing substantial storage losses.
 One of the first considerations is to make sure your potato crop is mature. Immature potatoes are subject to rapid breakdown. After digging, potato tubers should remain on the ground for an hour or two before handling. This drying helps to prevent skinning or peeling and subsequent disease infection. The best time for homeowners to dig potatoes is in the evening after the sun has gone down. At this time of the day there is no chance of sun scalding. Leaving the potatoes on the ground surface overnight also helps cool them down some.
 Temperature is a most important factor to consider when storing potatoes. When potatoes are stored in piles, the temperature may increase enough, and the aeration be so poor, that a form of injury called "blackheart" results. Storage temperature is between 35 to 50 degrees F. To facilitate air movement, store potatoes in baskets or boxes.
 Potatoes shrink the most during the first month of storage. This shrinkage is due mostly to excessive evaporation and a high rate of respiration through the injured surface of the tuber. Proper maturity, handling, and temperature in storage helps reduce this shrinkage. Later on in the storage life of the tuber, excessive shrinkage occurs as a result of sprouting.

Give the holder an option of charging small items, offer temptations to overspend on trivial items with the necessity of paying interest on them.
 Of course, in larger purchases, most people don't have an option and must use credit. But, in addition to financing through the store where purchases are made, consumers have the alternatives of using omnibus credit cards, credit unions, commercial banks, and small loan companies. These vary in cost and in convenience, but by shopping around, consumers can save a substantial sum each year in finance charges.
 If a consumer complaint or problem arises, Kentucky residents can call the Attorney General's Consumer Protection Division between 8:30 a.m. and 5 p.m., Monday through Friday, toll-free on the consumer hotline at 1-800-229-60, or write the Attorney General's Consumer Protection Division, 309 Shelby Street, Room 110, Frankfort, Kentucky, 40601.

Dam Inventory-The Kentucky Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection will conduct an inventory of all Kentucky's non-federal dams greater than 25 feet in height or with a water impounding capacity of at least 25 acre feet. The inventory, to be funded by $25,000 from the U. S. Corps of Engineers, comes as a result of disaster in Buffalo Creek, West Virginia and Rapid City, South Dakota, when dams collapsed. Of the 600 dams affected in the state, 300 have already been inventoried.
Miss Waste Bill Proposed-The State Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection plans to sponsor legislation in the 1974 General Assembly which places stricter controls on coal mine roads and on waste piles resulting from underground mines.

Set Evergreens Now

Those planning to replace an old evergreen or buy new ones to add to their present planting may do this now, as September is one of the best months of the year to transplant these. Also, this is the time when the buyer can get the best plants from the lot that has been growing all summer. If the home owner waits until late fall or next spring to buy the plants, they will have been picked over and the best specimen will be gone.

CONSUMER COMMENTS

 Interest rates on car loans are often quoted in terms of an installment rate per $100. This is the amount paid each year for every $100 borrowed at the beginning. This rate is about half of what the annual percentage rate is. For instance, a $5 per hundred car loan is actually almost a 10 percent annual percentage rate. So, in shopping around consumers should ask for the annual percentage rate, and should compare that with other sources of financing.
 Before using credit, consumers should first determine whether they want to use credit in the particular terms at all. Omnibus charge cards, which

Jackson County RECC

The Human Side of the Library

Charles F. Hinds, State Librarian

Despite objections from a few families and two lawsuits, the present Shelby County Library was erected in 1908 in the middle of an abandoned public cemetery in the downtown section of Shelbyville, Kentucky.

In the backyard of the library there was (and still is) another cemetery—that of the original Presbyterian Church which had moved several years before. By the time the library was erected on the site, known as the Old City Cemetery, the two burial locations had long ceased to be active.

As far as it can be determined from the available records, no graves were disturbed in the library construction, but enough stones are standing today in the front and backyard of the old Carnegie Library to make the Shelby County Library unique in the annals of library science.

A heading of the stones indicates the burials are of the period 1810 to 1855. Over the years, several stones which have fallen have been carefully stacked against the rear of the library.

The present library was not the first for Shelbyville. Its initial site of production was located over the old fire department on the southeast corner of Fifth and Main and was opened on a budget of $500 a year prior to the formation of the City Council. In 1901 progressive citizens of Shelbyville successfully petitioned Andrew Johnson to contribute funds to build a new library building costing a total of $10,000, one of the small city Carnegies in the nation.

The Carnegie Foundation stipulated that the town fathers were to provide adequate financial support and the land upon which the library was to be built.

By 1900 the downtown section of Shelbyville was filled, and the only adequate central building site for a library, apparently, was the Old Cemetery.

The library trustees petitioned for this property, and the petition was granted on the condition that the library pay $500 for the actual building location. In return, the city council voted to use this sum of money to clean the graveyard and $1,000 a year to operate the new library.

When a few citizens protested the additional $500 a year city appropriation to run the library, although there was no real strength behind this opposition, a regional newspaper could not resist the following comment:

"Those Shelbyville objectors to Carnegie's gift of a library are evidently in far-luck with the late lamented Lawyer Baird that 'books confuse the mind.' They are afraid of too many elegies in one graveyard."

Contending towns and cities ultimately received fifteen Carnegie Libraries for a total amount of $796,300. Not until 1965, with aid from the federal and state governments, did local communities again receive outside funds for local library construction. The present program has already provided funds for half of Kentucky's local public libraries, costing in excess of five million dollars.

Zip Code All Mail

The Zip Code—the five-digit number following the state in United States addresses—appears on more than 85 percent of first class mail, according to Postmaster James O. Smith.

He said the coding of mail has become ever more important in recent months with a growing share of first class letters sorted on machines equipped with the Zip Mail Translator (ZMT).

"With this computerized unit, the letter sorting machine operator simply keys the Zip Code appearing on the envelope," Postmaster Smith said. "The Zip Code is then translated to the bin which will give it the best transportation," he said.

Previously, postal clerks were required to learn the local and regional sorting schemes that are now carried in the ZMT computer.

Postmaster Smith said that Zip Code usage is running about 86 percent on first class mail going from one business to another. "The mail from the average family to businesses is still low, however, with the percentage nearing 90 percent," he said. "This reflects the near universal use of Zip Code on business stationery, including return address, order forms, coupons, reply envelopes, etc."

He said that Zip Code use by other classes of mail includes Airmail letters, 91 percent, and parcel post, 96 percent. The use of Zip Code has been mandatory since 1967 for second class and bulk third rate rates.

Postmaster Smith explained the five Zip Code digits as a "telescopic sequence," focusing on successively smaller areas. The first digit points to a geographically large area, the second and third digits to one of 56 sectional center city post offices which serve 30 to 200 or more smaller post offices—or to one major city post office. The last two digits point for the post office or postal station of ultimate destination.

"For example," he said, "Zip number 21750 means that the letter is bound for the Middle Atlantic states—represented by the figure 2. The digits 17 single out the Frederick sectional center in Maryland. Accordingly, the letter deposits the letter into an outgoing 217 pouch."

The letter, together with all other 217 labeled mail arrives at Frederick, and other sorters re-route the letter to its destination—Hancock, Maryland, as specified by the digits 50.

THE TIME IS NOW

Although the Kentucky Apple Festival is still a month away, the time is now for the people of Johnson County to get ready for the October 4-5 event. Bands and majorettes practice for the competition and parade, musicians like 88-year-old Jimmy Fyffe loosen up their fingers for the banjo playing and fiddlin' and development clubs and civic groups peel apples to prepare all of the goodies that will be on sale.

LONGRIFLEMEN HAVE RENDEZVOUS

F R A N K P O R T

Ky. Kentucky's Corps of Longriflemen will hold a Rendezvous at Golden Pond in the Land Between the Lakes, Sept. 22-23 in support of Kentucky's Hunting and Fishing Day.

Hunting and Fishing Day, Sept. 22, was set aside last year for the first time by Presidential Proclamation to honor the hunters and fishermen of the nation.

More than 75 longriflemen are expected to attend the meeting to take part in shooting matches and other activities, according to Col. James M. Van Diver, president of the group.

The corps, whose organization is patterned after the old state militia, is composed of people who work with finklock rifles as a hobby and are interested in promoting Kentucky.

The group was founded in 1963. After a group of Pennsylvanians claimed the Kentucky longifle should have been named for their state since the gun was manufactured primarily in Pennsylvania.

The Pennsylvanians challenged the Kentuckians to a rifle match, demanding that if Kentucky lost to Pennsylvania, the name of the frontier-era weapon would be changed.

Kentucky won the match and most of those it has participated in since. The rifle remains named after the bluegrass state.

The longriflemen receive many invitations each year to appear and participate in parades, festivals and other events. This year, Van Diver says they are receiving so many requests because of the 1971 Bicentennial Celebrations that the group will have to split in half so that all requests can be honored.

EARNINGS AND SOCIAL SECURITY — Chart shows how earnings over $2,100 will affect social security retirement and survivors' payments this year. To find your approximate benefit for 1973, select figure in far-left column that's closest to your family's total social security benefit, then read across to amount under shaded block figure that's closest to your expected earnings for 1973. For example, if your monthly benefit is $200 and you expect to earn $3,000 for the year, your social security benefit for the year will be $1,950, a reduction of $450. You can be paid your full benefit if you earn $2,100 or less for the year. Over $2,100, benefits are reduced $1 for every $2 earned. No matter how much you earn for the year, you can be paid your full social security benefit for any month you earn $175 or less and don't do substantial work in self-employment.

STRETCHING Your good dollars!

You can sometimes save money by buying the larger cuts of meat and you may want to keep in mind that a larger cut doesn't always have to be cooked all in one piece. UK Extension consumer economists point out that many of the larger cuts - with a little help from the man at the meat counter - can be divided easily at home into smaller cuts to be cooked at different times.

Rockcastle Recollections

By John Lair

Jess D. Wilson is Director of Public Relations and Power Use for the Jackson County Rural Electric Cooperative at McKeen, Kentucky 40447.

He is the writer of a series of articles about happenings in the Coöperative area of Rockcastle, Jackson, Laurel, Clay, Owsley, Lee and Estlin Counties.

"It Happened Here" is published as an insert in the Rural Kentuckian Magazine and the Jackson County edition goes to every member in the Coöper area. However, it has attracted letters from twenty-four states as many members send their copies to kindfolks who have moved away. Many persons not members subscribe to the Jackson County RECO edition of the Rural Kentuckian just to read "It Happened Here."

I have asked Mr. Wilson to write us a few articles about the Civil War in Rockcastle County.

If you wish to obtain information about your grandfather's services in the Civil War just write to him at McKeen, Kentucky 40447. Give him whatever information you have as to company or regiment and if your grandfather was in the Union or Confederate Army.

Company "T" of the Third Kentucky Volunteer Infantry Regiment (Union) was undoubtedly raised in Rockcastle County. Captain Milton Frazer of Mount Vernon probably organized the company. The company was enrolled as State Militia July 30, 1861 and was mustered into United States Service on October 8, 1861 at Camp Dick Robinson in Garrard County as Company "T" of the 3rd Ky. Vol. Inf. Regiment, under Colonel Thomas E. Bramlette of Columbia, Kentucky.

Colonel Bramlette, T. T. Garrard of Clay County and Speedy S. Fray of Danville had been commissioned each to enroll and muster in a regiment of Infantry.

They had been so commissioned by Lt. William Nelson, a native of Kentucky on Sunday, July 16, 1861 at Crab Orchard. Nelson was a Lieutenant in the Navy and had been sent to Kentucky by President Lincoln to raise regiments of Infantry and Cavalry for the Union.

Other officers of Company "T" who were from Mt. Vernon were Captain John S. S. Maret (he replaced Captain Frazer who resigned March 21st, 1862), 1st Lt. Joseph J. Carson, 2nd Lt. George W. Roberts and 2nd Lt. Solon D. Moore. Other officers in Company "T" were Captain Norman R. Christie of Columbia, 1st Lt. John L. Gilmore of Lexington and 1st Lt. William D. Murrall of Columbia.

Enlisted men in Company "T" most of whom are presumed to have been from Rockcastle County:

With the rank of Sergeant: William Allen, Barnett Hayes, Aaron G. Lewis, Wade H. Merat, George W. Payne, Jr., David Stephens.

With the rank of Corporal: Shelton Ballard, George W. Bullock, James Cummins, Morgan Flemon, Alfred Hayes, John W. Moore, William E. Myers, Napoleon B. Price, John C. M. Redman, Nimrod Smith.

Larken Durman was enrolled as a Wagoner. The following were enrolled as privates: Solomon Abrams, Elijah Abrams, Elijah Ballard, Warren Benge, John C. Bloomer, Leonard Buford, William J. Brown, Wansley Baker, Peter S. Cable, John Cantwell, William P. Carpenter, John Carmichael, Linsey Cox, Mathew Cullen, John G. Cummins, Josiah Cummins, Blaford H. Cummins, John S. Cummins, Charles C. Rockets Whip MMI In First Home Game

The Rockcastle Rockets rolled to an easy 22-0 defeat of MMI last Friday night in their first home game of the season. Led by quarterback John Clontz, the Rockets stopped MMI's ground game effectively and MMI's passing game was unable to penetrate the Rockets defense.

The Rockets have an excellent punter in Mark Bray who kept MMI backed up with several very high long punts. The Rockets struck paydirt in the first quarter on a 35-yard punt by quarterback John Clontz. Clontz also went over for the two extra points. Again in the second quarter, a blocked punt by Mark Bray resulted in the ball being picked up by a quick-thinking Paul Travis and run into the end zone for the second touchdown. Smith then carried the ball for the extra points.

Again in the third quarter, Clontz, warding off would-be tacklers all the way, went over for the touchdown. The extra points try failed this time and the game ended 22-0.

This week, the Rockets play Sayre School at home with the game beginning at 8 p.m.

"Why, he's not got that ball" seems to say the expression of No. 24 for MMI, who went for No. 10, John Clontz. But, as you can see, Kenny Burton, No. 14, is carrying the ball. The Rockets went on to an easy win 22-0.

The body is at the Dowell and Martin Funeral Home where arrangements are in complete.

50% In Local Area Drive To Work

Where do Rockcastle County residents work, where do they live relative to their places of employment and how do they travel to their jobs? That is the subject of a survey covering the entire county, undertaken by the Commerce Department and others as part of an overall study of the nation's transportation problem.

Involved in that connection, is the question of the rate at which our road building program should be pursued, the need to conserve gas and the matter of automobile pollution.

In Rockcastle County, the figures show, a considerable proportion of the working population, 58.3 percent, are employed within the county.

That is more than in some parts of the country and less than in others. The nature of such section, whether it is largely rural, urban, industrial or agricultural, and whether it is in close proximity to such counties, goes to determine where people work in relation to where they live.

Nationally, the government's figures indicate, the proportion of people who live and work in the same county is 74.8 percent. In the East South Central States it is 77.3 percent and in the State of Kentucky, 73.3 percent.

As for the means used in getting to work, the type of area is a major factor in determining the kind of transportation used. In the compact, highly-urbanized communities, it is

RCEA To Hold Dinner - Meeting

The Rockcastle County Education Association will hold a dinner meeting on Tuesday, September 18, at 7:30 P.M. The meeting will be at the Rockcastle County High School.

Speakers and items on the agenda are as follows: Ted Crosswaite, Director of the Teacher Retirement System; Bige Warren, Director of K.E.A. Unversity Unit Three; Blue Cross and Blue Shield representatives, and presentation of award plaques to members who retired last year.

Honoring our retired colleagues at a general meeting is a new idea and, as such, consideration will give to retired members who had devoted a lifetime of service and dedication to the children of Rockcastle County. It was felt that since this was a new idea we should begin the new program with those who retired the past school term and hereafter dedicate our first general meeting each year in honoring retired personnel, however, we cordially invite all prior retired teachers and administrators to be dinner guests of the Association. Those desiring to attend, please call 255-2125 during the day or 758-3611 at night so that we may determine the number to prepare for.

Local Man Killed In Freak Accident

James W. Boone, 71, of Route 2, Livingston, was killed instantly last Wednesday, September 6th, when a truck rolled backward over him.

State Police said that Mr. Boone, who had been at the home of Mrs. Lizzie H. Mink and her son, Andy Mink, also of Route 2, Livingston, most of the day, apparently laid down on the side of the road and fell asleep with his head under a parked truck belonging to Mrs. Mink. Police said the truck possibly either slipped out of gear and rolled backward or just crept backward.

State Police are investigating the death.

COLLISION INJURES TWO

A two-car collision early Wednesday morning on Highway 150 sent two occupants to the Rockcastle County Hospital with injuries.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Rush of Mt. Vernon were the occupants of one car, which was traveling West on 150 when they collided with a car driven by Earl Roberts of Route 1, Mt. Vernon, near the home of Frank Houston.

Mrs. Rush and Mr. Roberts were both admitted to the local hospital where their conditions were listed as satisfactory. Mr. Rush was not admitted.

Tony Hopkins, Rockcastle County Health Department sanitarian, is one of ten Kentuckians now qualified for the newly-created position of "Public Health Environmentalist." The new classification was created by the Merit System Council for Local Health Units, a five-member body that maintains the merit system solely for local Health Department personnel. To be eligible for the new designation, Hopkins completed a 14-week training program and passed a written examination. Local Health Departments must take formal action before the new titles are official.

JOHN NICHOLS'

Frankfort Watchline

It's time to return to some consideration of the woes of Eastern Kentucky's small coal operator. The poor guy seems to be crying in the wilderness a lot lately, doesn't he?

When you listen to these underground operators list their trials and tribulations, it's really tough to remain objective and think about the other side.

Talk to any of them for five minutes, and you'll learn a few things - mainly that the coal-mining business is no bed of roses and that government increasingly is interfering with their operations.

The operators indicate they could put up with a lot, but not with the heart of their problem: the requirement in federal law for permissive equipment as of next March. Permissive equipment is safer and it costs considerably more than the machinery most operators have on hand.

The point that the operators make is that all their small mines are classified as gassy when in reality practically none are. But the classification is enough - it means they must have permissive equipment by a certain date. Our sources tell us that many small operators may be going out of business next year in the mountains.

Now, some can and will go to strip mining, which, though necessary, has dubious public benefit. But many miners and little family operations in the hillsides simply may fold.

The other side of this is, of course, that the small operator apparently prefers a policy of doing just what he wants to the land without any restrictions whatever - and, we might add, rolling over the roads in overweight trucks without being called to task for it.

On another matter - workman's compensation - the small operators seem to have a stronger case. Their insurance costs are skyrocketing to almost unbelievable heights and logically could exceed the salaries of the workers insured. Furthermore, it has been reported that the insurance company rates are considerably higher than they should be, though we can't engage confidences in one's future and it hasn't calmed fears of Department officials, employees and the board members. They just must watch and wait for whatever the new bureaucracy has in store for them.

We don't point fingers of blame; because all beginnings are hazy and fraught with the unpredictable... but what bothers us is that just as we commented about the small coal operator, the human element must not be forgotten.

Any Votes There? - We're told that a computer salesman purveying his wares in a section of state government did the wrong thing when, while bragging on his product, said it would do away with 400 jobs.

"Well then, forget the damn thing!" was the decision of the State Official with whom the salesman was dealing. The ruling followed the salesman's obviously helpless response to just one question put to him by the bureaucrat: "How many votes can this computer cast?"

judgment on such a technical matter.

It all adds up to a pretty crushing burden on a vital section of the state's economy and we'll be hearing plenty about it during the next session of the Legislature. The bloodless long-range view is that business in general is a matter of making it or not making it, and if someone's operation is too small, too marginal, too far behind the times it will fold naturally and all the better.

That's the theory behind agribusiness, the trend towards huge farming operations at the expense of the little farmer. If it's followed in coal mining, we'll soon have the gigantic, efficient operations and that's all.

If you like that future, fine. We don't. We'll opt for the human element in coal mining - consistent with preserving the ecology, maintaining good roads and keeping the mine workers as safe and healthy as we can.

Reorganization Stale - The first open rumblings over the administration's reorganization plans have emerged in the health area.

The brand new Board of Health, wondering whether it will stay in business much longer, put some tough questions to Laurel Taylor, secretary of the Cabinet of Human Resources. "What happens to the Health Department employees?" "What happens to the Health Commission?" Dr. McElwain? "What happens to the Health Department employees?"

True has a massive task and he didn't have answers for many questions. In a nutshell, what he told the board was that "we don't know, yet, all of what we're going to do... but we're not sure about how we'll do it... but we are confident that we'll do it better than it's being done now, and we'll do it cheaper."

That's not calculated to engender confidences in one's future and it hasn't calmed fears of Department officials, employees and the board members. They just must watch and wait for whatever the new bureaucracy has in store for them.

We don't point fingers of blame; because all beginnings are hazy and fraught with the unpredictable... but what bothers us is that just as we commented about the small coal operator, the human element must not be forgotten.

Any Votes There? - We're told that a computer salesman purveying his wares in a section of state government did the wrong thing when, while bragging on his product, said it would do away with 400 jobs.

"Well then, forget the damn thing!" was the decision of the State Official with whom the salesman was dealing. The ruling followed the salesman's obviously helpless response to just one question put to him by the bureaucrat: "How many votes can this computer cast?"

AN APPEAL - Mr. and Mrs. Walter Doan and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Lamb, both of Broodhead, are appealing to anyone who might have any information concerning the disappearance of their son and daughter, Mickie Lynn Lamb and Jerry Blain Doan. The two young people left their home April 29 and have not been heard from since. The parents want the young people to know that there will be no recriminations of any kind - they just want to hear from them and know that they are alright. Mr. and Mrs. Doan and Mr. and Mrs. Lamb both want their children to know that they have no intention of interfering in their lives - they just want to know if they are well and happy and would like to correspond with them. There have been deaths, much sorrow and illness in both families since the children have been gone that they would like them to know about.

Five New Volunteers At Local Church

Our Lady of Mt. Vernon Catholic Church has begun its fifth year in a program of social action initiated and directed by Reverend Ralph W. Betting, pastor. Working with Father Betting are Reverend Michael Seal and Reverend Thomas Lubbers.

This year, as in the past, the priests welcome the assistance of volunteers from various parts of the country. The five volunteers include Sister Sara Fredlock, a Sister of Bon Secours, from Piedmont, West Virginia; Miss Linda Paul from Sturgeon Bay, Wisconsin; Miss Cathy Sattler from Malone, Wisconsin; Miss Barbara Brady from Bourbonnais, Illinois; and Miss Karen Barberio from Haverhill, Massachusetts.

Residents of Rockcastle County are already familiar with Sr. Sara Fredlock who has served Rockcastle County Hospital as Director of Nursing and is presently working as a home health nurse in the county.

Linda Paul is also a familiar face as she has managed the Attic in Mt. Vernon for over a year.

Newcomers to Mount Vernon are Cathy Sattler, Barbara Brady, and Karen Barberio. Cathy Sattler will be working as a registered nurse at Rockcastle County Hospital. Barbara Brady and Karen Barberio will open and operate a Day Care Center at the Church Hall three days a week. They will be teaching approximately twenty to thirty children between the ages of three and five.

In addition to these full time occupations, the volunteers will be visiting families and senior citizens in the county, teaching Bible School to non-Catholic children and religious education classes for Catholic children. For any additional information concerning these programs, please call Curly of Mt. Vernon Catholic Church, phone 256-4170.

LABOR DAY WEEKEND SAFEST IN A DECADE

FRANKFORT, Ky. - As the record now stands, it appears that state and local police have earned a pat on the back for helping Kentucky motorists enjoy their safest Labor Day Weekend in nearly a decade.

According to a report released recently by the Kentucky State Police, the traffic death toll for Labor Day Weekend, 1973 now stands at nine which, barring any change caused by late reporting, will go on record as the lowest figure reported since 1964 when an identical number of deaths were recorded.

Only in 1966 and 1971 did the body count even approach the previous record low set in 1964. In both those years, it stood at 10 dead. Last year, it reached 16 and, in 1969, it climbed to 25—an all-time high.

The report also showed that only one of the deaths reported this year occurred on an interstate. In that case, the victim was a 40-year-old man who died after his car overturned on the eastbound I-64 ramp off I-75 at Lexington.

Interestingly enough, this also was the first time that wrecking motorists on our interstates also found themselves being eyeballed from above by a greatly enlarged state police air patrol," said State Public Safety Commissioner Ron-L. Johnson.

Johnson was referring to the four helicopters which were obtained earlier this year from the U.S. Army, were put into service by state police just in time for Labor Day Weekend duty.

Backed up by two conventional, fixed-wing aircraft—which until now comprised the entire state police "air force"—three of the newly-acquired choppers spent most of the holiday weekend hovering over some of the state's busiest and most dangerous interstates. Among them were the Kentucky Turnpike, I-65 and I-75.

While hovering over a stretch of highway, the chopper pilots tried to position their craft so as to cast a shadow over the roadway. The effect of that tactic was almost immediate, Johnson said.

"In almost every case where it was tried, the pilots said they could almost see drivers easing their foot off the accelerator and onto the brake," he said.

In addition to the attention given interstate traffic over the weekend, state police also placed an increased emphasis on the patrol of many secondary, two-lane roads. Most of those roads singled out for increased patrol were considered potential trouble spots because of a high accident or traffic violation history, said Lt. Col. James D. Hayes, who heads up the state police field command.

Hayes said that while reports from the field on ground patrol activity were still coming in, early indications are that the troopers put in a record-breaking weekend.

Between routine patrolling and roving roadblocks, the troopers reported some 3,000 traffic arrests, including more than 200 drunk drivers, nearly 300 accident investigations and about 1,200 warning citations.

Hayes also said that incoming reports show what seems to be a significant hike in the normal amount of weekend criminal enforcement activity reported by uniformed personnel.

"Some 75 criminal arrests were made, while the number of stolen vehicle recoveries is expected to even out somewhere between 10 and 15 when the final reports are in," he said.

A chameleon can roll its eyes independently in any direction, so that one eye may be looking at a fly in front of it, while the other keeps watch over the animal's shoulder.

If a person is an ardent hunter or fisherman, he is also likely to be well versed in the proper cleaning and care of the mammals, birds and fish that he harvests. However, there are many new-comers to the sports of hunting and fishing who may not be aware of some of the do's and don't's in the handling and preparation of game and fish for the table.

One of the common complaints of many squirrel hunters is that in the cleaning of this fine table treat it is almost impossible to keep some of the hair from getting on the flesh.

The simple trick to avoid this situation is to soak the squirrel carcass thoroughly in water before starting the skinning procedure. After the body hair has been wetted down, simply shake off the excess water and start to skin. This method works well with rabbits, too.

Doves are also excellent treats for the table and are very easy to clean. First, dry pick each bird and scrape off the body fat as you would do in cleaning a chicken. Remove the wings and feet and open up the body cavity by making a cut through the thin bone along either side of the back. Then clean out the body cavity.

Quail and grouse are usually skinned and cleaned just like a chicken. They may be cut up like a frying chicken or left whole. Always wash the cleaned game well and make a final inspection to be sure that the game is completely free of hair, feathers or foreign objects.

The big secret in good tasting game or fish is to clean it as soon as possible and keep it fresh.

With the freezing months, a good trick is to catch in an ice chest instead of on a fish stringer. Another hint is keep the drain open so that the fish will not lie in cold water which seems to make the flesh soft and soggy. Lead spoils. Game that has been frozen that may occur when a successful hunter or fisherman returns home with his limit of game or fish and that is how to store the cleaned product for future use. Many have found that frozen burn can occur in a short time and this spoils the delicate flavor of the meat.

With any of the above mentioned game or fish, a simple way of freezing is to put the meat in a container such as a milk carton, cover with water, then freeze. This method will allow the cook to prepare game and fish meals in the future that will taste as if they were just freshly harvested from the out-of-doors.

At one time it was virtually impossible for the average consumer to determine the true interest cost of charge accounts, car loans and other kinds of financing. The new law requires that the effective annual percentage rate be listed on the contract. By looking at this consumers can Trees' lives and men's lives are inextricably intertwined. Without trees, man would never have advanced from savagery; indeed, he might never have existed at all. Our complex modern civilizations rest on trees as solidly as a house rests on its underpinnings. Most of us are aware of the usefulness of trees and many of us appreciate their beauty, but not all of us realize that they need to be cared for intelligently and systematically, quite as much as automobiles or teeth or children.

Thousands of homeowners sadly neglect the valuable trees around their homes; as a result, the trees suffer from malnutrition, thirst, sunscald, fungi infections, insect attacks, and a host of other evils that might be prevented by careful planning and thoughtful care. Here are scores of practical hints and step-by-step procedures for training young trees, and for pruning deciduous trees and shrubs, conifers, broadleaf evergreens, woody vines, hedges, fruit, and nut trees, as well as such plants as roses, azaleas, camellias, boxwood, and holly.

Pruning Guide for Trees, Shrubs, and Vines, by Thomas Stevenson. This is a complete, authoritative handbook which can be used with all types of trees, shrubs, and vines and which contains the latest, most professional information, much of it hitherto unpublished in book form.

The Care and Feeding of Trees, by Richard C. Murphy. This book offers easy-to-understand information to all those people who want shade, comfort, beauty, and safety, as well as the luxury of fruits and nuts growing on their grounds. It enables the layman to know more about his trees, from planting to feeding to spraying to pruning - thus saving time and money as well as his favorite trees.

Flowering Trees, by Robert B. Clark. Loveliest of ornaments for the home garden in areas of cold winters are the familiar flowering trees - dogwoods, crab apples, flowering cherries, magnolias, and a host of other less well-known, medium-high growers with very beautiful and lavish displays of flowers, as the red bud, golden-chain, fringe-tree, dove-tree, and snowbell. All of these trees are easy to grow. The author gives exact information as to color, height and spread for more than one hundred flowering trees.

Basic Color Photography, by Andreas Feininger. A concise, detailed guide to all elementary aspects of color photography.

The Biology of the Ten Commandments, by Wolfgang Wickler. The author points out the biological foundations in natural law to show that the Ten Commandments are more than polite formulas and calls special attention to commandments four and ten.

Borrower of the Night, by Elizabeth Peters. A romantic adventure story involving the hunt for a medieval treasure.

The Broken Key, by Mary Linn Roby. A gothic suspense novel.

The Buckleys, by Charles Lam Markmann. Based in part upon personal interviews with some members of this well-known family, this is a first rate study of a family in action, living its beliefs.

CIA: The Myth and the Madness, by Patrick McGarvey. The author, a former intelligence agent, shatters the myth that the CIA is a super-human organization. For the first time we see the human side of intelligence work.

The Common Insects of North America, by Lester Swan and Charles Papp. Covering more than 2,000 species, this book provides for each a full description of habitat, appearance, habits, and other vital information.

The Complete Book of 8MM...Movie Making, by Jerry Yulsman. In this book the amateur movie maker, whether a hobbyist or a serious beginner embarking on a career, will find the information he needs to produce 8MM films.

The Creeper, by John Creasey. Another intriguing Gordon Ashe suspense story.

The Curse of Kings, by Victoria Holt. One of the world's most popular current authors blends romance and suspense with the adventure of a search for ancient treasures in the land of the Pharaohs.

A Detective's Story, by George Hatherill. Mr. Hatherill was closely involved with the solution of some of Scotland Yard's most difficult and sensational crimes. His story of how many of these crimes were solved shows the reader how a detective really works.

A Dictionary of Drugs, by Richard Fisher and George Christie. A valuable book which describes the uses, effects, chemical makeup and side effects, of the broad spectrum of medicines in common use.

Divas, by Winthrop Sargant. Impressions of six opera superstars - exploring their art and personalities.

Mississippi steamboat days that are no more.

Miss Boston Slugs, by Heron Carvin. A cheerfully amusing mystery concerning forged Bank of England notes, a Greek millionaire, and lots of gadding about Europe.

The Merre Castle, by Hal Burton. Eyewitness reports from living survivors, records from logs of the steamship company, and testimony given at hearings give us a compelling account of one of the great maritime disasters of American history.

Mrs. Dixey, by Mollie Hardwick. The story of Mary

Anne Dixey. "Mrs. Dixey," wife of one of England's greatest statesmen, is an almost perfect love story.

Mrs. W.'s Last Sandwich, by Edwin Denby. The setting for this romantic novel is the island of Mallorca where a spirited American girl is caught up in an adventure involving the location of her missing inheritance.
