ORANGE BREAKFAST PIZZA SURPRISE

Time, diets, trains, buses and carpools wait for no one. As a consequence, breakfast, the most important meal of the day, is sadly neglected. Most of us tough it off with juice and coffee, or nothing. "Not good, particularly for children," we've been told. Finally, nutritionists are suggesting that we eat what we like for breakfast. If your children like pizza, let them eat it, it's good for them. It's not what you eat that tells the nutritional story, but what's in what you eat," says Dr. Paul Lachance, nutritionist from Rutgers University. A pizza can take the place of cereal or bacon and eggs. Much better that a child eat a good hearty piece of pizza, than leave a bowl of half-finished cereal. He's going to feel better and work better with the pizza under his belt.

Combine that Breakfast Pizza idea with your favorite fruit, orange, banana or strawberry, for an unusual, but delicious "day starter."

- ORANGE BREAKFAST PIZZA
- 1 package (15 3/8 oz.) Chef Boy-a-ree Complete Cheese Pizza
 - 2 medium oranges, peeled, sliced or sectioned.
- Prepare pizza according to package directions. Arrange orange slices in rows on top of pizza and bake in 425°F oven for 16-20 minutes.
- A) 1 package (16 oz.) frozen strawberries, thawed, and drained.
 - B) 4 bananas, sliced

Examining Trial Held For Floyd Knuckles

At an examining trial held Wednesday morning, Floyd Knuckles, about 30, of Orlando was held to the Grand Jury on a charge of Involuntary Manslaughter by County Judge Charles Carter.

Mr. Knuckles is charged in the shooting death of his seven-year-old daughter, Sarah Jane, on Thanksgiving Day at the Knuckles' home at Orlando.

According to Coroner Bill Dowell, the child was shot once in the left side with a .303 high power rifle, a British World War II surplus weapon. Mr. Dowell said the bullet entered the left side and passed through the body coming out the right side. She was dead on arrival at the Rockcastle County Hospital.

Mr. Knuckles was arrested by State Police on a complaint signed by his wife, Mrs. June Knuckles. Mrs. Knuckles told police that her husband, whom she said was drunk, shot through the front door of the house once, then the children went outside and he shot again this time through the wall striking the child who was playing on the front porch with her little brother, Alvin Floyd.

Judge Carter set bail at $5,000.

Besides her parents and brother, the child is survived by her paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Helton of Orlando; a maternal grandmother, Mrs. Elizabeth Dalton of Brodhead; her paternal great-grandfather, Jack Hensley of Orlando; six aunts and four uncles.

Funeral services were held Saturday afternoon, November 24th, at Dowell and Martin Funeral Home with Bro. Lester Arnold officiating. Burial was in the Briar Field Cemetery.

Over four inches of rain since Saturday caused normally docile Boundstone Creek to leave its banks Tuesday and caused scenes such as these at Conway in several places throughout the County. At one point, Tuesday morning, water completely blocked U. S. 25 near Conway and motorists had to detour through Seafoam Cane or use the overstate. Although the water was near the doorstep of several homes in the Conway section, there were no reports of water actually getting up into homes. The road to Wildie was also blocked Tuesday by flood waters.

KU Asks For Rate Increase

Calling its present rates inadequate to "continue providing reliable service to customers," Kentucky Utilities Company has asked the Public Service Commission for a 13.1 per cent increase in electric rates. The company serves about 278,500 customers in seventy-eight Kentucky counties.

Under the proposed rate schedule the average urban residential customer will receive an increase of less than 4 1/2 cents a day.

"During this period of restriction and shortages of many forms of energy, it is more important than ever to the customers that the company has adequate rates to be able to pay expenses and raise the money for building the power plants and other facilities needed to provide dependable electric service in sufficient quantity to meet rising demands," W. A. Duncan, KU President, said.

KU stated that the proposed rates would produce annual additional revenue of $13.4 million with two-thirds of it required to permit the company to realize the return which the PSC last year said KU was entitled to earn. The remainder of the increase is essential if KU is to pay operating and fixed costs, attract capital, provide a reasonable return to its investors and continue to provide reliable service to its customers.

Mr. Duncan also said that since the 1971 test year (used in the last rate case) KU has experienced significant increases in wages, other operating expenses and fixed charges. According to the statement, since the 1971 test year, KU has issued over $100 million in securities to finance construction costs of $140 million. For the three years, 1974 through 1976, KU must spend an estimated $260 million on construction including $42 million for environmental protection equipment, and anticipates issuing additional permanent securities to $175 million, including $40 million of common (stock) equity.

The KU filing sets out proposed new rates for residential, commercial and industrial services.

Comparison of typical electric bills for present and proposed (urban) residential rates set forth in an Exhibit in KU's application showed:

Minimum monthly bill: present $1.20 vs. proposed $1.33; 250 kilowatt hours: $8.00 vs. $8.88; 500 kwh: $10.85 vs. $11.83; 750 kwh: $15.05 vs. $16.52; 1,000 kwh: $19.15 vs. $21.12.

Several local state and federal dignitaries have also promised to be present to help open the Red Barn, according to Mr. Clark.

Crab Orchard Wins Holiday Tournament

The Rockcastle Rockets, outscoring their opponent in field goals, nevertheless dropped the championship game of the Second Annual Thanksgiving Tournament to Crab Orchard by seven points, 61 to 54.

The Rockets had advanced to the finals by downing a hard to put-down McKinney 62 to 58. Crab Orchard was in the championship game compliments of Williamsburg.

The Rockets didn't look real good either game. They had one good quarter against McKinney when they outscored them 19 to 4 to make up a 36 to 25 half-time deficit. Dale Whitaker came through at a crucial time for the Rockets with three long outside shots and was high point man for the game with 14. Vanhook and Travis got 12 each, Hammonds was next with 10, Riddle got 8, and Carroll put 6 points on the board.

In the championship game, the Rockets defense was ragged, although they held the Cubs big man (Johnson, No. 42) to 16 points. But, while they were outscoring the Cubs by three field goals, the Cubs were putting in 13 more free throws for the difference in the game. The scores at the quarter stops were: RCHS 12 to C.O. 8; RCHS 44 to C.O. 43; and the final, 54 to 61.

Vanhook was high point man for the game with 22 points; Hammonds and Carroll got 8 each; Whitaker and Travis, 6 each, and Riddle and Griffin, 2 each.

Tuesday night, the Rockets traveled to Jackson County and came away with a 74 to 62 win. They were down by 7 at the end of the first quarter (8 to 15) but came back in the second quarter to outscore their opponents by 9 points for a 2-point halftime lead. The third quarter came to an end with the Rockets ahead 51 to 45 and the final was 74 to 62.

Once again, Vanhook was high with 27; Riddle got 11; Glantz, 10; Carroll and Hammonds, 7 each; Griffin, 6; Travis, 5 - and Collins, 1.

This Friday night, the Rockets journey to Berea.

...Christmas Candy Making...

Christmas is a special time for your family. To make this Christmas special, make homemade candies for your family.

Homemade candy also makes special Christmas gifts. Nothing can beat the homemade taste and freshness. If you want to learn to make special homemade candies for your families and friends, a demonstration on candy-making will be given by Cheryl Witt, County Extension Agent for Home Economics. The class will be held Thursday, December 6th at 7 p.m. at the Home Economics Department of the Rockcastle County High School. Some of the confectioneries that will be demonstrated are old-fashioned hard candy, lollypops, fondant, mints, cream candy and lozenges. The meeting is open to all. If you would like to attend, call the County Extension Office at 256-2403.

REMINDER.....

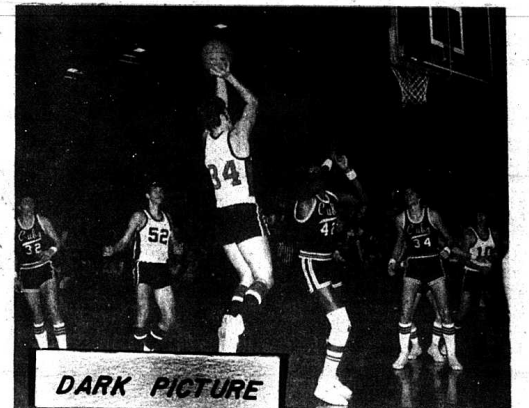

If you are interested in renting one of the low-income apartments in the new Rockcastle County, you should contact Tommy Parsons, director, by calling 256-4822 or going to his office in the Project Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.

REVIVAL AT BAPTIST CHURCH THROUGH FRIDAY

Revival services, which began Sunday night, November 25, will continue through Friday night, November 30 with services beginning at 7 p.m. nightly.

THE CRAB ORCHARD CUBS were victorious in last Friday night's championship game of the Rockcastle County Thanksgiving Tournament. They downed the Rockets to win 61 to 54, after a slip-and-tuck game all the way to the closing minutes of the game. The Rockets cheerleaders were awarded the trophy for having the best cheerleading squad in the tournament.

TRAVIS FOR TWO - Forward Larry Travis goes for two points in last Saturday night's championship game with Crab Orchard over the head of the Cubs' big center, Johnson, No. 42. Johnson was held to 16 points by the Rockets defense, but he was fast on the boards, pulling off many rebounds for the Cubs. This Friday night, the Rockets take on Berea in an away game.

Frankfort Watchline

Recent detailed news stories about state banking deposits and political fund-raising leave us with a sort of ho-hum reaction, despite the commendable effort. The bank stories tell us that politics have some influence on where the state plunks its time and demand deposits.

The gist of the fund raising story is that "residents" doing business with the state - or hoping to - do contribute considerably to the party in power.

So what else is new? Of course the state administration, whichever one is in power, will deny that it rewards its friends handsomely or holds a sword over a businessman's head. But we think the people of Kentucky pretty well know better. Or do we underestimate their native intelligence? And then there's the frank admission by Ford Administration officials that where the bank deposits are concerned - of course, they help their friends and supporters where there's an even choice to be made.

It's a slippery field to traverse, this attempt to mold down politics political extortion. The people involved won't talk freely, or if they do, usually in an anonymity. Even when you get an outright allegation of kickback attempts - witness the two who recently so alleged about state democratic officials - it's usually one man's word against another, and that's not good enough in court.

By the way, what has happened to the case being investigated by the FBI and supposedly submitted to the Federal grand jury in Lexington? Lots of rumors in the direction of indictment - or something - but no action yet.

Pardon us for going around the back way, but this relates to the Ford Administration's move toward ending the political solicitation of state employees. We're not paties for anybody's "likey story, but the Democratic regime here has accomplished this for real in most cases. There just are not enough rumors to stop otherwise.

That makes the administration look a bit heroic, and we'll credit them with sincerity. But wait! If the money doesn't come from state workers, it's got to be coming from somewhere, right?

We wonder if the gap has been made up by more of a squeeze on businessmen.

And again when the merchant service contract tells you that, honest, he likes the Democrats - or Republicans - and feels that he's doing a public service to boot.

So what's the difference? A point here is that it might be better, or at least a little better, to do a public service as a kind of privilege for the job than to do the same with special outside interests.

Why? Well, because the outsiders may view their gift as the prelude to seeking favors whereas the state worker would customarily see it as job insurance. State employees pose no threat to the morality of running government. We can't say the same for business and other interested parties who may be buying influence.

Words, Wits and the Wastrel - Are you ready for a couple more episodes in that continuing saga that finds two old buddies, Eastern University President Robert Martin and Parks Commissioner Ewart Johnson, each of whom claims the other is better, leveling, if you'll pardon this, broadsides at the other's broad sides.

Got a carbon the other day of a letter Johnson sent to Martin. Dear President Martin: I had the pleasure of meeting the new president of Murray. I don't want to disturb you in any way, but they are picking them much thinner and younger these days. Just a thought. Kindest personal regards, Ewart W. Johnson, Parks Commissioner.

Was talking to Dr. Martin a couple of weeks ago and he tells me that Johnson went to Cincinnati to a ballgame and was standing in line at a weight machine in the Riverfront Stadium. Two little young ladies were ahead of him, and this machine was one that actually verbalized the results, rather than spitting out a card with one's weight on it.

"107 pounds," the weighing marvel said to the first young lady, "98 pounds" to the second. But when Commissioner Johnson jumped on the machine, eager to catch it, while it was still in a good mood, the device ground aloud and said so all around could hear, "one at a time please!"

That's it for now, and we're confident we'll be hearing from our Parks boss, real soon.

As all of you Mt. Vernon people know, we were plunged back into the dark ages Tuesday night when the TV cast went out about 7 p.m. After a moment of stunned silence, we all turned to stare at one another - for the first time at night in many months - and asked the same question aloud, "What are we going to do?"

It took a while, but we finally found something to occupy our time. The children got their homework for one with-out getting a crick in their neck from glancing up to watch television while they were doing it. I baked my first pie in a long time, my husband didn't really miss it until it was time for the usual - or something - but he has an eternal remodeling project going on at home anyway and the smaller children occupy themselves with watching through the house and going to bed about an hour earlier than usual.

I realized later that it was one of the most peaceful and quietest evenings we would have for a long time and wouldn't have been so tired at that point if it would stay out there we don't have enough will power on our own to turn it off and do other things.

I'm anxiously awaiting the night when both the television and telephone are out of commission - no telling what creative ideas might come to us then.....

The President's Message on the energy crisis Sunday night was a little scary to me, and I always agree with some editorial writers who insist that there aren't drastic enough measures being taken to combat the energy shortage. Of course, if I wanted to get technical about it I could tell them that my energy has been short for years and I have made out somehow as I suppose we all will now - but, seriously, there have been several good proposals made that there doesn't seem to be any action behind them. The one concerning no school in, say, January and February, and having it in 12 and July

Please come and enjoy a good Renfro Valley Jamboree on Opening Night at the Big Red Barn Saturday night, December 1st.

My sincere desire is to make new friends every day, but keep the friends that I have made the past two months since coming to Renfro Valley and this area. And, as the days unfold ahead, our friendship will mellow and grow riper. May I welcome opportunity for service to your community.

Dear God, I am thankful Thou has brought me to Renfro Valley and has given me a goodly heritage. May I prove my gratitude by forgetting myself in service to others. May I add to and not take away from this area, so that the area might go forward and not backward. Before my first business undertaking, known as the Big Red Barn or Renfro Valley Jamboree, can be a success, the County must benefit, the entertainers must benefit, and especially our customers must benefit. Each customer must be filled with joy and laughter; and when they leave Renfro Valley Jamboree, they will not regret visiting Renfro. Our sincere desire is that after the customers return to their homes, their message to all mankind will be for a joyful weekend visit to Renfro Valley.

Dear God, I pray Thou will grant willingness and enthusiasm to me to support any worthwhile project, with unselfish service, and my liberal giving of my time and talents and money so that the influence of Renfro Valley might grow and its service to the customers might be extended.

It is my sincere desire that I shall never regret the day I came to Renfro Valley, and likewise, I hope the good people of this area and Renfro Valley will never regret my coming to the area, Renfro Valley being my second earthly home; and the time that I am with you, it is my prayer to help your area go forward, not backward, and that I will be a success in your area and not a failure, and I will be a good and not an evil person, as I travel on life's highway with the good people in this area. As I travel on life's highway with you, may I keep my heart in constant repair, as stated in the great truths of the Bible, Proverbs 4 and 28: "Keep your heart in all diligence, for out of it are the issues of life."

I am proud to be a citizen of Renfro Valley and this area.

Rockcastle Recollections

© John Lair

A few more Rockcastle firsts to add to the columns of our last article.

First typewriter brought in by James Maret, 1899. First newspaper, the Mountain Signal, also started by Maret, 1887. (Mrs. Daisy Miller has two copies issued during the first year of its existence and I have several others, but none are the first issue. Is there one in existence anywhere; and if so, who has it?)

First planing mill belonged to W. D. Dillon, in connection with his sawmill in Livingston, Kentucky, which was doubtless the biggest ever established in Rockcastle County.

Walker Newcomb owned the first organette and Mrs. John Chappell the first harmonium.

John Coffey had the first patented feed chopper and Albert or William Fish the first horse-drawn hay rake.

First commercial business venture was the saltpetre works at Great Saltpetre Cave, which in 1804 was the biggest operation in Eastern Kentucky. At that time it employed seventy-two men. I am not sure that any single business in Rockcastle County has ever employed a greater number of workmen at one time.

First business in Mt. Vernon was the tannery of Rev. James McCall, located near old Spout Springs.

First rock-sawing plant, and the largest in Southeastern Kentucky, was at the Langford Freestone Quarries, near Hummel. Charles Colyer made and sold millstone from native halite, 1840.

W. J. Newcomb had the first cherry stoner. First stone crusher and steam drill brought in by Hugh Miller and Company in 1894.

First turnpike in the county built by J. W. Rider in 1906. It began at the city limits of Mt. Vernon and ran across the hill by the old schoolhouse a total distance of one mile. Who knows the cost of this construction?

Manly Albright, of Brodhead, owned the first rubber tired buggy in Rockcastle - H. G. Howard of Brodhead brought in the first wooden water pump.

First commercial lime kiln built and operated by Fritz Krueger, who also had the first brick yard, and the first stone for making concrete was crushed by W. J. Sparks in 1906.

First burning gas well drilled near Gum Sulphur in 1860.

First sand brick made by Winchester Granite Brick Company at Dudley near Brush Creek. Who knows when?

First monumental works run by W. H. Colyer at Brodhead.

First ginseng nursery, S. C. Franklin, in 1896.

County elevations first established by Government astronomer in 1870. Mt. Vernon depot, 1113 feet above sea level; Brodhead, 903; Livingston, 859; Mareburg, 1127; Brushy Mountain, 1535; Linville Knob, 1575; Sutton Knob, 1515.

First whiskey made by steam, Ashley Owens.

First legal hanging was in 1841. A man named Davidson had stabbed Henry Langford to death, corner of Main and Church Streets, was tried and sentenced to be hanged. J. J. Miller and D. N. Williams were witnesses to the killing. The first gallows erected in the county, which stood back of present Emmet Roberts place.

First school in Mt. Vernon erected SE of old Krueger Lime Kiln. Robert A. Broadhurst was first teacher. Building burned in 1879.

Which was the first church house in Rockcastle County? Will try to have the answer in an early column. Will need help on this one.

The first visitor to Rockcastle County was also the first white man to ever visit Kentucky and keep a written account of his expedition. He made the trip from Albemarle County, Virginia in 1750 and only came as far as Rockcastle River before turning back. He was Dr. Thomas Walker.

Who was the first settler in Rockcastle? I am not yet prepared to answer that and may not be for some time, but am working on it. Colonial History says Stephen Langford was among the first, but does not claim that he was the very first. Kentucky's first census report shows that he was living in Lincoln County in 1790. When Rockcastle was formed in 1810, it took in part of Lincoln, perhaps the part where Langford was living, so we know he was in this area prior to 1790. D. N. Williams reported almost one hundred years ago that his father, Robert Langford, came to Rockcastle in 1790. Census reports, however, show him living in Woodford County before 1800. William Henderson and Frederick Akes are supposed to have been here in 1784, as settlers. Henderson is supposed to have been here on a hunting trip much earlier and claimed to have killed a buffalo near present-day Mt. Vernon in 1779. He took up a 1,000-acre land grant in 1794. Langford's grant was taken up in 1785.

As previously mentioned, James Proctor, who was living in a pole cabin in the Cove locality when the closest store was in Logan's Fort, now Stanford, Kentucky, settled in Rockcastle in 1803. Three of the Long Hunters, who were here before Daniel Boone, came back to this county to make their homes but at dates unknown. They were Col. James Dycart, John Baker and Valentine Harmon. Both Harmon and Dycart are buried here, but in unmarked graves. Both died soon after the county was formed. Thomas Fish had settled his family on Clear Creek, near what is now Wildie, Kentucky, by the year 1800. Three of his sons settled on Renfro Creek and at one time owned more than one thousand acres of land, including what is now called Renfro Valley. They were the first settlers in the Valley after Johnny Renfro, who came in 1788.

The Mullins Brothers, Terry, Mordacia, Spencer, Champion and Gardner, settled on White Oak Branch in 1788. Jackie Sowder is said to have been here in 1800, living on land including the present-Caleb Sowder place. Colonel, later General, William Smith had considerable land grants and what is now Rockcastle County before 1800. Col. Gary and McClure families were early comers, but definite dates not yet known.

Since the trail from the South, leading through Cumberland Gap, was the one travelled by a great majority of the early comers to Kentucky, and since both branches of the trail crossed what is now Rockcastle County, we may say that practically all those connected with the early settlement of the state were here at one time or another, if only passing through. It would be hard to name, a famous Kentuckian who did not leave so footprints on Rockcastle soil. It is easy enough to name the first visitors as well as those who immediately followed him, but to definitely name one man as the first to settle here is at this late date practically impossible. We will continue to work on it, however. I am combing the rare book sections of libraries in this and other states, reviewing old manuscript journals gathered up years ago in Kentucky but now, unfortunately, housed in Wisconsin and Chicago. I have free access to old records at Frankfort, as well as the files of the Kentucky Historical Society and the Filson Club, at Louisville, and if the information we're looking for is anywhere in print chances are we will eventually come across it. Already I have stumbled onto a few things that will make perhaps minor changes in our accepted history of the earlier days in the settlement of Kentucky, as well as in the annals of Rockcastle County.

I have made one or two investigative trips out of the state and need to make more. I can only hope that people in a position to tell me some of the earlier happenings here in the county will take the responsibility of furnishing me with information needed so I won't have to dig it all up myself, but can devote more time to outside research.

And remember! It isn't all a question of the remote past. Things have happened in recent years, and are happening now, that should be mentioned in a history of the county. I might find myself so involved in more remote occurrences that I will miss some of the later activities. I would really appreciate letters from anybody suggesting what should go into the book. Remember, we can't change it once it is in print, so let's have it as near complete and as nearly accurate as we can before it goes to the printers.

CONSUMER COMMENTS

By Ed W. Hancock
Attorney General of Ky.

Are you getting proper nutrition each day? Or are you one of thousands of Kentucky residents eating empty calories, devoid of all, or most, nutrition.

Recent regulations of the Federal Food and Drug Administration require that nutritional information appear in standard format to the right of the main label on certain foods.

By 1975, all fortified foods and all foods with nutritional claim must display nutrition information on the labels.

Until such time as all fortified foods will require this labeling, there are some things you may need to know.

USRDA (United States Recommended Daily Allowance), are the amounts of proteins, vitamins, and minerals that a adult should eat every day to keep healthy. These allowances are listed on the labels in percentages. These percentages should add up to approximately 100 percent per day in each category.

All labels must carry the net contents or net weight and the medium, such as water, in which the food is packed. The name and the place of business of the manufacturer, packer or distributor is to be visible on the label along with description of the product listing ingredients in descending order of predominance by weight.

Many foods carry a grade or label. The term "grade" may be misleading, as it is NOT based on nutritional value, but is based on the appearance.

Grade A milk, for example, does not mean the milk is good, milk nutritionally is above B, but that the sanitary conditions for production and processing of the milk are higher than some other conditions.

A recent series of articles in a leading newspaper showed that different grades of meat are not judged by nutritional value, but by the conditions of cleanliness in which it is prepared. At this time some companies are already beginning to do nutritional labeling. The new nutritional labels tell how many calories, protein, fat, carbohydrates, etc. are in each serving and the percentage of USRDA of minerals and vitamins present.

For answers or suggestions to aid in consumer problems, Kentucky residents may call the Division of Consumer Protection on the toll-free consumer hotline at 1-800-372-2960 or write the Attorney General's Consumer Protection Division, 909 Shelby Street, Room 110, Frankfort, Ky., 40601.

Clothes are Cleaner, Neater, when They are Dried Electrically

An automatic, electric clothes dryer could be the most convenient appliance you'll ever buy. Consider these big "pluses" for you and your family when it's new dryer time.

- CLOTHES LAST. There's less wear and tear, fading, and deterioration when you dry clothes indoors electrically rather than with sunlight.
- PERMANENT PRESS cycles are available in many models. Garments come out neater.
- CONVENIENCE. Clothes dry in minutes, regardless of the weather. It saves steps too.
- CLEANER. When you dry electrically, clothes are fresher, cleaner, because your electric dryer produces no odor.

Electricity is too important to waste. Consult your Rural Electric system for money saving, electric efficiency hints.

The electric way is clean.

 instead, seemed a pretty good one to me except that I know it would work hardships on families who need their children at home in the summer to help with work on the farms. But, if something isn't done to resolve the energy crisis, it wouldn't surprise me at all to see this country go into a severe recession, so maybe in the long run a little personal sacrificing would be best.

ENERGY CRISIS - Nation's Fuel Bill - The nation's fuel bill is going up. The cost of electricity is expected to rise 34 percent in the next five years. Natural gas prices may have to rise two percent a year for several years, but the National Petroleum Council says that they might leap as much as 250 percent by 1985 with oil prices jumping as much as one hundred twenty-five percent. Drastic measures must be taken to curb the output of energy. Will drastic measures help? A study prepared for the House Committee on Science and Astronautics concluded that demand will drop 1.5 percent for each one percent increase in the price of electricity.

Fuel Reserves Forecast - How long will our fuel reserves last? According to the U. S. Geological Survey's "Proven Recoverable Reserves" figures, here are the estimates:
OIL - 82 billion barrels, ten years.
NATURAL GAS - 3,000 trillion cubic feet, eleven years;
URANIUM - 450,000 tons, thirteen years.
SHALE OIL - 180 to 600 billion barrels (recoverable only if crude oil prices rise 150%), thirty-five to one hundred twenty years and.
COAL - 1.5 trillion tons, five hundred years.

Nine Facts About Energy -
 1. American households use thirty percent of the energy consumed in the nation.
 2. The United States has only six percent of the world's population, but consumes thirty-three percent of the world's energy.
 3. The average American family uses twelve times more energy per day than the average daily world energy consumption.
 4. The public demand for energy in the United States is expected to grow rapidly through the end of the century. Based on a 3.6 percent annual growth rate, a recent study by the U. S. Department of the Interior projects almost a tripling of energy consumption by the year 2000.
 5. The energy bargain in America has been fantastic. The average price for a gallon of gasoline in the U. S. in 1972 for example, was just 37 cents vs.

99 cents in Italy, 81 cents in France and 77 cents in West Germany.
 6. Although the share of total energy consumed is supplied by each fuel may change, the actual amounts of each energy source which will be required to meet these demands will be far more than current levels.
 7. The era of energy abundance and cheap fuel has ended. Factors such as environmental costs, rising labor and equipment costs, and the need to attract venture capital, will be reflected in prices.
 8. An effective means of helping meet the growing energy demands of the American people is to make the most efficient use of energy in our society and to waste as little as possible of human and fuel resources.

9. The crucial period is rapidly approaching - It is not readily available and so cheap that Americans have given little or no thought to the vast amounts of energy being used, the amount of supplies, and the amount of waste. It is reported that the U. S. wastes fully 50 percent of all the energy it burns. Economies in energy consumption can be achieved in homes, transportation, agriculture, business, industry and government.
EVERYONE can stop using unnecessary energy. How can YOU help? - Use your car less. Drive no faster than fifty miles per hour. Form car pools. For short distances, walk, go by bicycle or public transportation when possible. - Take a bus, plane or train instead of your car on a cross-country trip. *****
