This Year Choose A Living Christmas Tree

This Christmas most of us are concerned with the environment, the ecology on which all living matter depends.

If you want to extend the joys of Christmas for years ahead, environmentalists recommend that you choose a living tree, set in a pot of earth, as a Christmas tree, and later put it in the ground outside your home.

Among the best varieties are the Douglas fir, balsam spruce, cedar, hemlock and a host of pines. Probably the most popular Xmas tree is the Douglas fir, with its dense green and blue-green needles.

A fresh tree is usually darker, and one way to test its freshness is to tug gently at the needles. If they come out readily the tree is not at its best for several weeks "imprisonment" inside a heated house. In a young tree, needles are about 1/2 inch long.

Another popular tree called the Silvertip is really the Red Fir. Silver-gray and green needles grow straight from its symmetrical branches making it a formal, stately tree. The bark is gray-white while that of other Christmas trees is usually brown.

The long needled Scotch Pine is a handsome tree, although its foliage is not quite so thick as other Christmas trees. Young Scotch Pines hold their pyramid shape, but as they get older become more irregular. Blue-green needles reach three inches in length and give a soft look to your living room.

Invest in a living Christmas tree, bring it inside during the holidays and enjoy its evergreen splendor in your garden for the rest of the year. Walk through the nearest nursery and check the Ponderosa Pine, which is very hardy Colorado Spruce, and loves conditions; Austrian Black Pine, a fine small tree for table-top. Monterey Pine, more irregular; and Alberta Spruce. The Aleppo and Japanese Pines are also recommended. After Christmas, when you are ready to plant your tree outdoors, check your local nurseryman to see what procedure is best for that particular variety. And then give it all the love it deserves.

COMMISSIONER APPOINTED-The state Department for Human Resources has announced the appointment of Norman Willard Jr. as Commissioner of the Bureau for Manpower Services. Willard, a former research director for human resources at Ft. Knox, had served as a senior officer at the First National City Bank of New York before his appointment.

In Memory of My Dear Husband, Bradley Sigmon, who passed away a year ago, December 4, 1972.

A place is vacant in my home that can never be filled. You are not dead and not lost, but gone on before. Yes, God has taken you home, Bradley, it was His will. The loneliness in my heart is all I can feel. But a star shines over your grave The one I love, and could not save.

Your Wife, Ella Sigmon

In Memory of our loving mother, Lena Mae Taylor, who departed this life three years ago, December 19.

Three years ago, dear Mother You were called away from us We didn't know the day This grief would come to us: We didn't get to hold you hand Or kiss your loving face. But someday we'll meet you there Where there'll be no sadness or heartaches.

Sadly Missed By Her Children and Grandchildren

Dr. Lewis To Relocate

Dr. Jack Lewis, a general practitioner in Mt. Vernon since 1961, will be relocating his office in the Skilled Nursing wing of Berea Hospital sometime around January 15.

The announcement of the relocation, which had been rumored locally for some months, was made official in last week's Berea Citizen by David Burgo, administrator of Berea Hospital, who called Dr. Lewis "a very excellent and knowledgeable physician," and added: "He should be a great asset to the entire Berea Community." Dr. Lewis will become Berea's fifth active general practitioner.

A native of Hazard, Dr. Lewis, 38, is a graduate of Berea College and the University of Louisville College of Medicine. He completed his internship at Wesley Hospital in Wichita, Kansas in 1961.

DARK PICTURE

Sandy Dewell, third from left, seems to be issuing a challenge to the men before the start of Saturday night's "Battle of the Sexes". In the bottom photo Bill Gregory, County Attorney, the one with the bloomers, watches the opening up-fur. Over three hundred persons attended the game, the proceeds of which went to the County Kindergarten. The ladies WON, but that might have been expected since the men were not trained to play basketball in a dress and carrying a purse.

Rockets Beat Laurel Lose To Knox Central

The Rockets continued their domination in basketball over the Laurel County Cardinals last Friday night by downing the much-taller Cardinals 60-46.

It was the Rockets' defense, which has been ragged at times, which forced the Cardinals into early foul trouble and several turn-overs. The Rockets also rebounded right with the Cardinals who are ranked seventh in their Region.

Some of the outstanding play of the game came from Ryan Riddle who delivered several sharp passes inside to Vanhook - who scored most of his twenty points with three men defending against him. Casey Carroll, a good outside shooter came through with several long baskets and Paul Travis pirated the ball from the Cardinals more times than they would like to count. The Rockets came back from a five-point deficit and saw a five-point lead evaporate in the first half to tie the first half in a 30 to 30 tie. The game was close throughout the third quarter with the Rockets ahead 44-40 at the end of the third period. But, in the fourth quarter, the Rockets broke it open.

The Rockets worked the zone better in the fourth but KC did even better when they again outscored the Rockets 20 to 18.

Vanhook was once again high man for the Rockets with 22. Clontz got 11, Carroll and Whitaker, 6 each and Griffin, 2. This Friday night, the Rockets take on Madison Central in an away game and next Tuesday night take on 3rd ranked, regionally, McCreary County there.

Rockcastle County In Five-Year Surge

Rockcastle County's economy continues to grow, year after year, despite inflation and despite rising taxes, deflation and international turmoil and the frequent forebodings of bad times ahead.

It reflects the fact that local families, armed with fatter pay envelopes, are still in the market place in force, spending as much as is necessary to maintain the standard of living to which they have become accustomed.

The reports show that they have been buying a record number of new cars, have been acquiring better homes and have been spending more for household appliances, clothing and leisure-time activities.

The progress made in the local area in the past five years is brought out in figures compiled by the Standard Rate and Data Service.

They show that the amount of business done by retail stores in Rockcastle County during the past year rose to a high of $11,948,000. Five years ago the total was $9,554,000.

It was a bigger increase than was recorded in many sections of the country. Much of it, of course, was due to inflation.

The advance that was achieved in the local area was due, basically, to the fact that the amount of disposable income in the hands of the average family increased greatly in the period, offsetting higher living costs.

The SRDS figures show that Rockcastle County residents had a net disposable income last year of $24,703,000, after deduction for taxes, as against $14,581,000 five years before.

The rise, 69.4 percent, compares with 46.6 percent in the United States and with 49.1 percent in the State of Kentucky.

Although most families are making substantially more than they did previously, they feel that they are in a squeeze - that even with their increased cash, they cannot buy as much with it as they could formerly.

However, as some economists see it, what they don't realize is that they have been steadily raising their sights over the years and have developed life-styles that are more sumptuous than ever before. Which accounts for the squeeze they feel when prices go up at an unusual rate, as they have been doing lately.

"Thank You"

At this time, on behalf of all the citizens of Rockcastle County, we would like to express our sincere thanks and appreciation to the three funeral homes in the County - Dowell and Martin, Cox, and Watson - for the fine ambulance service which they have rendered for many years.

We sincerely regret that new federal and state regulations brought on increased costs, in a service in which we are sure there was never any profit, to the point that it was not financially feasible for them to continue to provide this vital service to our community.

Never, in all the years that the funeral homes operated their services, have we heard of anyone who called for their help being refused for any reason.

We are also appreciative of the fact that when the funeral home owners saw they were going to be unable to provide the service any longer, they gave the governing bodies of the county eleven months' notice so that they might have time in which to formulate plans to continue ambulance service.

Of course, the County Fiscal Court set up of the three towns' ambulance task force setting up an ambulance service sponsored by the Civil Defense locally. This cooperation amounted to several pieces of equipment being donated to the Tri-City Rescue Squad by Cox Funeral Home and Dowell and Martin, and Dowell and Martin also sold the squad an ambulance at cost. Kept in mind that in all the years that ambulance service was provided to the citizens of this county, and they were under no obligation to do it - it was a service provided by them because they wanted to help the citizens of this county and because they were the only ones equipped locally to furnish this service.

So, once again, we say "Thank You" to the three funeral homes in the County and salute them publicly for the time, effort, expense and compassion expended in serving the people of this county for so long, so faithfully, and so efficiently.

Frankfort Watchline

There once was a time when ambitious Kentucky Democrats fell over each other in the scramble to become the party's U. S. Senate contender... to achieve the honor of being the first to crack

Republican grip on both seats in Washington. Now look at the situation. The election is next year and Lt. Gov. Julian Carroll is constantly being recommended by some "friends" for the post and is

A Great Loss...

Dr. Jack Lewis, a general practitioner in this community since 1961, will be relocating his office in Berea around January 15. With the announcement of his relocation, the medical needs of the citizens of this county have been struck a severe blow. Dr. Lewis is by reputation and by knowledge of anyone who has been treated by him, an excellent doctor and the loss of his services directly to our community will be untold. His reasons for the relocation are his own but, probably, once again, precipitate a medical crisis in our community.

For years, Dr. Lewis and Dr. Griffith stood alone to serve the people of this community and did excellent jobs - hard-pressed though they undoubtedly were. However, things began to look up for them and for those they serve about a year ago with a decision by Dr. Orson Arvin to locate here. Now, this community of over 12,000 persons, is down to two doctors again and the Hospital Board will have to redouble their efforts to locate a doctor to replace Dr. Lewis.

At this point, about all there is left to say is that we do appreciate the many years of service Dr. Lewis has given this community and wish him well in his new location.

If a cynic were to disregard the polite rhetoric, political hypersties, the various red herrings, he might conclude Miller - himself making noise like a candidate for governor not so long ago - offered Hollenbach a shot at the governorship in 1975. And that's what the state administration is really concerned about.

The Senate matter is still mighty unusual. Normally, any Kentucky governor is looking toward the Senate to cap his career, and here we have a lieutenant governor refusing to run when Democratic chances were never looked better. There are a lot of Frankfort-oriented folks convinced that Carroll will ultimately make the Senate race.

"Where else can he go?" they ask, convinced that he'll not settle for a return to selling insurance in Owensboro. We think Carroll knows what he wants and what he's doing. We would be the last to say he is foolish for not stepping into a vacancy supposedly just waiting for him, especially if Republican incumbent Marlow Cook doesn't seek re-election.

The Miller-Ford combine has no love for Carroll. It's quite capable, if so inclined, of sending Carroll into the arena as a Senate nominee and then cutting off support or sitting on its hands and contributing to its possible defeat.

But, why would the administration pull such a stunt? Well, there's no percentage in doubling-over Carroll except for maybe a cover to P. and Ford team can proceed with its selections for governor.

The Freshman Sign - Always an encouraging sign before a legislative session is the collective independent attitude of freshmen House and Senate members, either too idealistic or raw to hurriedly fall into line with the way things are done.

At Kentucky, that was the group called for open meetings of the important rules committees in both chambers.

About a third of all the lawmakers are new to the process. The subject, you guessed it: Whether or not to open up the Rules meetings. Puts you in mind of a study of the LRC that was conducted by James L. HRC has had to conduct.

Open and Shut Case - Then there was the meeting at Kentucky Dam the other day of the freshman caucus. It was closed to outsiders, including reporters. The subject, you guessed it: Whether or not to open up the Rules meetings. Puts you in mind of a study of the LRC that was conducted by James L. HRC has had to conduct.

Tradition Has It That Yule Tree Began in Egypt

The Christmas tree, now almost a universal symbol, probably came to America from Germany, although tradition has it that Christmas trees originated in Egypt. The palm tree is supposed to put forth a branch every month, and a spray of this kind of branch, 12 months or so, was used in Egypt.

German writers mention the tree as early as 1605. The German prince Albert, consort of Queen Victoria, introduced the Christmas tree in England when he had a tree for his daughter.

YOUR HOT WATER SUPPLY

The places you use hot water in your house fall into two general categories - the laundry room and everywhere else. First, let's look at the correct way to use it everywhere else. In Bathrooms and Kitchens

Bathing: A shower uses considerably less hot water than a tub bath, and you get just as clean. Also, when you're shaving or washing at a basin, don't leave the water running. You're just wasting the hot water that you have to pay for.

Dishwashing: If you wash dishes by hand, don't leave the water running to wash or rinse each plate separately.

Automatic Dishwasher: Use recommended detergent to assure good washing action, operate dishwasher only when it is full, and use correct dishwashing cycles. If the controls allow, let dishes air dry.

Water Heater Location: Install your water heater as close as possible to the place where you will have the greatest use to eliminate long pipe runs. All the hot water left in the pipes when you turn off the faucet is wasted.

Faucets: Repair leaky hot water faucets. One drop per second adds up to about two hundred gallons per month. That's a lot of hot water down the drain.

Temperatures: Set the water heater thermostat between 150-160 degrees. This will give you the required water temperatures for dishwashers and the laundry.

Now Let's Check The Laundry Wash Full Loads: It saves time, hot water, and electricity. If you must wash a partial load, select the water level to fit the amount of clothes.

Avoid Overwashing Clothes: It's just a waste. Use cold water and cold water detergents wherever they can do an adequate job. Get the most out of your dryer....

Keep It Clean: Lint traps should be cleaned after each load. A clogged lint trap or filter will reduce the dryer's efficiency.

Vents: A vent from dryer to the outside will exhaust heat and moisture. This can save on your air conditioning.

Drying: Don't overdry clothes. This wastes electricity and sets wrinkles in the clothes.

MORE ABOUT SAVING ELECTRICITY.....

Electricity is such a bargain that most of us forget to stop using it when we're through. We also tend to waste it while we're using it. It touches almost every room of the house and almost every activity that occurs there.

There are electric appliances that include everything from toasters to televisions; electric workavers that range from hedge trimmers to hair curlers. And, of course, there's the everyday convenience of electric lighting.

Electric Appliances: Items like electric clocks are low wattage users, and they don't contribute very much to your bill. Similarly, items that are used for brief periods, like carving knives, tooth brushes, and small tools, have very little effect on your bill.

But to get the most out of all electric appliances, they should be kept in good repair. When they don't operate efficiently, they require more power, and you don't get full use from them.

Also, be careful not to leave appliances on when they're not being used. This is especially true for items like televisions, electric blankets, and room heaters.

Try to schedule electrical-energy-using activities for early morning and late evening hours when heavy demands are not being made on electrical-distribution systems.

Power Shortages: In areas of heavy electrical usage, the difference between being careless and being thrifty can cause a "blackout" (no power) or a "brownout" (a reduction in voltage by electric companies to avoid a blackout).

YOU can adapt to the inconvenience of a brownout or a blackout, but your appliances may need help. Some, especially older models, are not designed with built-in protection against the changes in voltage due to a brownout. The strain placed on appliances' motors may cause damage that requires repairs or replacements. To avoid such damage, be ready to take the necessary precautions.

[Reference: "Be Thrifty With Energy - Help to Avoid Brownouts and Blackouts," Consumer News, July 1973]

Brownout: Possible indications of brownouts are a flickering, fading or "browning" of lights, the television picture will get smaller, or a loud droning or humming can be heard in the motor of your heavier appliances. Local radio and TV weather reports also warn of possible brownouts, turn off major appliances, avoid the use of small appliances, and turn off all unnecessary lights. When full power is resumed, appliances can safely be turned on.

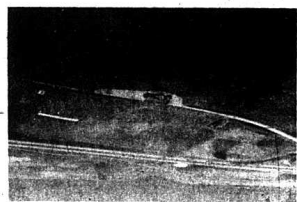

Blackout: If there is a blackout, turn off all appliances, except for the refrigerator and the freezer. The most important thing that can be done in the case of the refrigerator and freezer is to avoid opening them.

Freezing Thawed Food: Food in a loaded freezer will usually stay frozen for two days. If service cannot be restored within one or two days, use dry ice to keep the food frozen. You may safely refreeze frozen foods that have thawed if they still contain ice crystals, or if they are still really cold (about 0°F). However, even partial thawing and refreezing lowers the quality of food. Use refrozen foods as soon as you can to save as much of their eating quality as possible.

Lighting: Only five percent of the average annual bill comes from lighting. So it doesn't make sense to use bulbs that are too low in wattage and run the risk of eye strain or accidents. In the same vein, night lighting on your porch and in the house has been found to be the best protection against criminal break-ins. Considering that, the two or three cents a night these lights cost is a cheap price to pay.

Your oven's often a saving friend.

It may surprise you, but oven cooking is less expensive in the long run than cooking on top of the range.

Surface units stay on the whole time they are in use, but an electric oven is on for only part of each hour it's used. Its insulation holds heat in, so it "rests" part of the time. And you can warm foods and plates in the already heated oven without using more energy.

But don't use your oven as a kitchen heater. Such use wastes both electricity and money.)

Electricity is too good to waste!

If you missed the "Battle of the Sexes" at the Mt. Vernon gymnasium Saturday night, you missed out on one of the best laughs in this town in a long time.

The men came dressed for the occasion in women's attire and fought a losing battle with such calls from the referees as "you used two hands in making that basket..." "You used your right hand..." "You almost fouled her, turn the ball over..." So, the women, who were dressed in men's overalls, won.

I suppose a stranger would have been rather amazed to witness the event and had someone tell him that the big lady with the pink bloomers on was the County Attorney or that the lady with the flipped wig who, several said, bore a strong resemblance to "Geraldine" was a local furniture dealer.

I'm not going to mention the "long, tall Sally" with the blond wig and red tent dress except to say that he was NOT wearing one of my old maternity dresses - you wouldn't have caught me in public in it. Proceeds from the event, between $300 and $400, went to the Kounty

Kindergarten, and I think they had better use it wisely because the most prevalent comment among the men which I heard afterwards was, "They had better make the most of this because I wouldn't do it again for anything." That's a shame, too, because most of us weren't aware that there was so many "Cute" men in the county.....

As I suppose most of you readers, with any awareness of the law, already know, I made another miscue last week. Bright and early Thursday morning, after the paper was already out of course, my husband informed me that in a front page article I had two men being convicted of Voluntary Manslaughter and sent to the federal penitentiary when, as he put it, "we don't send people to the federal penitentiary for that particular offense - just to the state penitentiary." Oh, well, sorry about that.....

Would you believe it dropped to seven degrees here Monday night and, worse of all, slick roads forced schools to close Tuesday? But, that's a silly question to any parent with schoolage children, right? I'm going to quit all the smartalecky comments about my kids, though, because I have begun to realize just recently how quickly childhood is gone and all of us with children had better make the most of it while they are small.....

Managed to get out and watch the Rockets wallo Lexington County Friday night and was amazed at what a defensive game the much-smaller Rockets played. They had Laurel County off balance from the beginning as witnessed by the number of fouls LG picked up fast and the Rockets took full advantage with some of the best free-throw shooting we have seen any Rockets team do yet. Come out when they are home and watch the Rockets perform. You'll get your money's worth.....

Bicentennial Lic. Tag Production Hits Snag

By Herb Brock

The First American Xmas Tree

Christmas traditions date back thousands of years... to the Druids and ancient Rome and beyond, but the first Christmas tree in America was brought into being comparatively recently... in 1847.

The place was Wooster, Ohio. A young German immigrant, August Ingard, a youth of 21, is said to have introduced the Christmas tree to America.

As Christmas drew near that year, it proved to young Ingard a season of some-what dismal anticipation. He missed the fund of entertainment and observance which marked the Day in his homeland. So he decided to have one like those in Bavaria.

Two other reasons, very personal ones, were his nephew and niece. He wanted to bring added joy to their Christmas, and make it one they would never forget.

Young Ingard went into the woods and chopped down a spruce tree. From the village tinsmith he obtained a twinkly tin star. The family made paper decorations, and thus the Christmas tree, as most of us know it, came into being.

The townsfolk gathered round to admire it. Before long, the word had been spread far and wide, about the beautiful tree in Wooster, Ohio. It became an American custom.

America honors August Ingard. His tomb stands on Madison Hill in Wooster. This year, as in previous years, a lighted Christmas tree will probably stand at its door, a tribute to the man who first brought to America the symbol of joy and peace and love that should be Christmas for us all, over the world.

JINGLE BELLS
A churchman, John Pierpont, composed the gay Christmas song, "Jingle Bells," which has been popular for over a century.

FRANKFORT, Ky.—Plans calling for a special bicentennial license tag commemorating the state's 200th anniversary have run into unexpected snag.

Philip Veno, director of Prison Industries for the state's Bureau of Corrections, said recently that a shortage of steel and paint, brought on by the energy crisis, has crippled production of a number of special plates at the state reformatory at LaGrange.

Despite the shortage, the special tags will be supplied to all 120 of Kentucky's counties by Jan. 1. Veno said, however, that each county will receive a reduced number of plates. In all, some 105,000 requests had been made statewide.

Jefferson County, for example, placed an order earlier this year for 10,000 of the special plates, but now is expected to receive only 2,000.

The special tags are to be sold through each county's bicentennial committee at $2 each.

The shortage of materials is not expected to delay delivery of the 1974 truck and passenger vehicle license tags. Although there has been a delay in paint shipments Veno said all regular plates will be shipped in time to meet the Jan. 1 sale date as set by law.

With all regular tags and a limited number of special plates being prepared for shipment, Veno said that he now is concerned about meeting state tag requirements for 1975.

"Bids for the 26-gauge steel needed to make the plates were sent out on Oct. 17 and Nov. 8, but we still have no replies and no suppliers," he added.

Veno has submitted a request to state purchasing officials for aluminum as a substitute for steel.

"It takes 1.5 million pounds of steel to produce 2 million license plates, but we would need only 400,000 of that each county will receive the same number of tags," he said.

He said that aluminum might be more readily available, however, it also cost more than steel, a factor which must also be considered in planning for 1975 production deadlines.

COUNTY AGENTS NOTES
By H. Lee Durham
County Extension Agent

YOUR NEXT WINTER'S JOB
Now that most of your corn has been picked and your tobacco stripped, grassland re-ovating time is here. Here is how it's done.

Step 1. Graze the field you plan to renovate while the grass is still tasty. Keep livestock confined to small areas so they can eat the top growth quickly, thus making tillage easier. Five to ten cows, or twice that number of young stock per acre, will graze a heavy growth fairly clean in a week to ten days.

Step 2: Pull a soil test and apply needed lime, phosphate, and potash. Don't use nitrogen on fields to be renovated. (The nitrogen tends to favor the established grass and causes undue competition to new legumes.) Winter liming and fertilizing is easier to do than in the spring, and is just as productive.

Step 3: Tear out half or more of a good sod by using a field tillage implement, or disk harrow. On rolling land, till on the contour. Leave the ground rough until just before seeding in February or early March. Don't worry too much about extra heavy tillage. Most people tend to under-till rather than over-till.

Buy your legume seed now to assure getting what you want instead of "what is left over." If you're seeding red clover and ladino, it will take four to six pounds of Kenland red clover seed and one to two pounds of ladino white-clover seed for one acre. When you are using alfalfa, plan to use fifteen or more pounds per acre. While you're buying seed, get your inoculate, too.

STRAWBERRY PATCHES SHOULD BE MULCHED
Strawberries are a favored fruit crop with many Kentuckians, both as an extra source of income and as a delicious treat for the table. A 1971 survey by County Extension Agents in Kentucky counting all fields, one-fourth acre or larger showed there were about eighteen hundred acres of strawberries in the state. In addition, thousands of small, garden-sized patches of strawberries are grown in the state each year.

If you are one of the many Kentuckians who raise strawberries, this is the time of year when you should mulch your strawberry patch. Mulching will pay off in a bigger and better crop of berries next summer, according to W. D. Armstrong, Extension Fruit Specialist at the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture.

Armstrong cites the following benefits from mulching strawberries: (1) Helps prevent winter injury to the plants if applied before heavy freezing. (2) Helps retard blooming, sometimes preventing injury from late spring frosts. (3) Helps suppress spring weed and grass growth. (4) Helps conserve moisture. (5) Helps keep fruit and pickers clean.

Armstrong says the most widely used and probably the best material for mulching is clean wheat straw. Leaves pack down too tight, sawdust often sticks to wet berries, and pine needles, though useful, are not plentiful. To help sprout weed and grain seeds in straw, break apart and spread bales in the early fall so the straw will absorb fall rains. When is the best time to apply mulch? Armstrong says it should not be applied before several hard frosts and light frosts have hardened off the plants. However, if possible, mulch before the temperature goes lower than 15 to 20 degrees. The time between Thanksgiving and Christmas is usually a good time to apply mulch.

Usually one and one-half to two tons of straw per acre is considered a good amount of mulch to apply. Armstrong points out. A small plot of one-hundredth of an acre would require thirty-five pounds of mulch to equal one-and three-fourths tons per acre. For a four-foot row spacing, 110 feet of row would be one-hundredth of an acre. A plot two rows wide and 55 feet long would also be a hundredth of an acre.

An act of the Kentucky Legislature was passed for the setting up of Rockcastle County in 1809 and was approved on the eighth of January, 1810. It is given in full below, as copied for me from state records at Frankfort by Judge Charles Carter.

AN ACT

Erecting a county out of the counties of Lincoln, Pulaski, Madison and Knox, approved January 8, 1810.

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly, that from and after the first day of April next, so much of the counties of Lincoln, Pulaski, Madison and Knox, as are included in the following bounds, to wit:

Beginning at the mouth of the Horse Lick fork, and running down Rockcastle to where the Madison State Road crosses the same; thence with that road to include John Pearl's at the Hazle Patch; thence a direct line to where the reserved line crosses Rockcastle; thence with the reserved line, to where the Crab Orchard Road crosses the Bee Lick Branch; thence a direct line to the mouth of Noans Creek, about one-half mile above English's old station; thence a direct line to the nearest part of the Garrard line, to Edward Mason's; thence with the Garrard line, to Copper Creek; thence up the same to the head; thence a direct line to the Roundstone Lick; thence a direct line, to Moses Battarsons; thence a direct line to Thomas Hotter's, so as to have them in Madison County; thence a direct line to a point on Horse Lick Creek; one-half mile below the double lick, on said creek, and thence down Horse Lick Creek to the beginning; shall be one distinct county, called and known by the name of Rockcastle.

SECTION 2. The Justices of the Peace for the County of Rockcastle shall meet at the dwelling house of Stephen Langford, on the first Monday in April next, and after taking the necessary oaths of office, and qualifying their sheriff agreeable to the Constitution for the United States and this state, and as required by law, they shall proceed to elect a clerk, to whose permanent appointment it shall be necessary for a majority of all the justices in commission, for said county to concur; but if such majority cannot be obtained in favor of anyone, then the court shall appoint a clerk pro tempore.

SECTION 3. The County Court in Rockcastle, shall commence on the first Monday in each month, except in the months in which the Circuit Court for Rockcastle on the first Monday in August and February; and may, if necessary, continue to set six days.

SECTION 4. The Circuit and County Courts and Justices of the Peace in their respective counties, from which the County of Rockcastle is taken, shall have jurisdiction over all matters instituted prior to the commencement of this account and brought forward before them, as if this law had not passed.

SECTION 5. It shall be law, for the sheriffs, constables, and collectors, in their respective counties, from which Rockcastle is taken, to collect all fees and money, to execute all process, writs and executions as the law directs, shall put into their hands for collection or execution, previous to the commencement of this account, and shall be the same as if it had passed.

SECTION 6. The County Court of Lincoln shall appoint a commissioner of tax in Rockcastle County for the year of 1810, who shall execute the duties and be governed by the laws regulating the Commissioner of the Tax in this state; and the clerk of Rockcastle County, shall in like manner, perform his duties in relation thereto.

SECTION 7. The Justices of the Peace and assistant judges for the County of Rockcastle shall fix on a place for the permanent seat of justice in said county; but a majority of the whole number of them shall be necessary to concur therein - paying a just regard to the most central, convenient and eligible spot in the County, for that purpose, and the County Court of Rockcastle, shall as soon as may be possible, cause the necessary public buildings to be erected and in every respect lay off, and do what may be necessary, or required by law, in the general establishment of towns. The courts at said County, shall be held at said Langfords, until the place for the seat of justice shall be fixed on.

SECTION 8. The County of Rockcastle shall be an election precinct of Lincoln County, and the votes taken therein, shall be compared at Stanford, on the 6th day from the commencement of the election by the sheriffs of Lincoln and Rockcastle, and in case of electing a senator, then by the sheriffs of Casey, Lincoln, and Rockcastle, who in either case shall certify in favor of the person for the greatest number of votes, as required by law. The County Court of Rockcastle shall appoint a clerk and judges of election, as is required by law, regulating that subject throughout the state. This act shall be in force from its passage.

The first important change in the boundary lines of Rockcastle County was made in 1825, when Laurel County was formed out of parts of Rockcastle, Clay, Cox, and Whitley, its bounds being set up as follows:

Clay County line, with said line to Widow Bunches, "including her," and said county on Rockcastle River; thence westerwardly with said line to Rockcastle line; thence with the same to Rockcastle River; thence down river to State Road; thence with said road to the White Oak Branch; thence down the same to The Little Rockcastle River; which is the shortest river in the world, approximately two or three miles long; thence down the same to Big Rockcastle River; thence down the same to the beginning, shall be one distinct County, called and known by the name of Laurel County.

I have heard, but without positive verification, that another change was made in the line between Rockcastle and Laurel Counties at a now undetermined date. The story is that a member of the Legislature from Rockcastle whose home was along the line had the change made for personal reasons. It seems that one of the counties was wet and the other dry. Wanting to sell liquor on his property, he is said to have had the line changed so that he would be living in the wet county. Some of the old-timers who read the Signal might know about this. If they do, I would like to hear from them. Since our county records were destroyed by fire years ago, there would naturally be nothing about it in courthouse files.

Another thing: Who knows the names of any of the first county officers who went into office with the formation of the county government?

NEWS SUMMARY

LEGISLATIVE LEADERS ELECTED - Kentucky legislators recently elected their leaders for the 1974 General Assembly - during a pre-legislative conference at Kentucky Dam Village State Resort Park. Senate leaders are

Sens. Tom Garrett, Paducah, majority leader; William Sullivan, Henderson, re-elected president pro tem; Joe Stacy, West Liberty, majority caucus chairman; Eugene Stuart, Louisville, minority leader; Joe Graves, Lexington, minority caucus chairman; William Gentry, Bardotown, majority whip.

House leaders are Rep. Norbert Blume, Louisville, re-elected speaker of the house; Billy Paxton, Central City, speaker pro tem; John Swinford, Cynthiana, majority leader; Harold DeMarcus, Stanford, re-elected minority leader; W. J. Reynolds, Allen, majority caucus chairman; Larry Hopkins, Lexington, minority caucus chairman; George Harris, Salem, majority whip; Art Schmidt, Cold Spring, minority whip.

PREFILED BILLS - Among those bills recently prefiled for consideration by the 1974 General Assembly were the following:

-House Bill 69, which would require partial public financing of gubernatorial campaigns and set limits on campaign spending. Contributions of $100 or less would be matched by state funds (to a set limit), and maximum spending of $300,000 in the primary and $500,000 in the general election would be allowed each candidate participating in the program.

-House Bill 70, which would require all employers to list the amount for which deductions are made on each employee's paycheck statement. Presently, a similar law applies to employers of 10 or more workers.

-House Bill 72, which would require public notice and a permit from the state Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection before constructing a landfill for solid waste disposal.

-House Bill 75, which would permit city or county officials to control traffic on public off-street parking facilities and to impose speed limits of 15 m.p.h. in public parking lots.

ENERGY CRISIS WARNING - Gov. Wendell Ford recently urged Kentucky legislators to use caution in planning future state programs. Ford said the energy crisis had brought a "frightening chill" to a previously warm economic atmosphere in Kentucky.

Unemployment, curtailment of road funds, restricted business activity and other difficulties may arise due to the energy shortage, he noted.

Survivors are: his wife, Mrs. Billie Lewis Cox of Houston, Texas; one son, Byron Cox; one daughter, Mrs. Sharon Black, both of Houston, Texas; one brother, Henry Cox of Mt. Vernon; one uncle, John D. McPerron of Mt. Vernon; three aunts, Mrs. Rose Miller of Asheville, N.C., Mrs. Christine Delano of Chula Vista, California, and Mrs. Amy Cox of Mt. Vernon.

Services and burial were in Victoria, Texas, Wednesday, December 5th, 1973 at 2 p.m.

NELL MARIE BADER

Mrs. Bader was born in Mt. Vernon, the daughter of George and Maggie Scarborough Frederick. She had lived in Hamilton, Ohio for the last eight years. She married Joseph R. Bader January 23, 1943 in Jacksonville, North Carolina.

Besides her husband, she is survived by: three sons, Joseph Bader, Jr. and Billy George, both of Hamilton and Durwood of Hickory, North Carolina; two brothers, James M. Frederick of Albany, Georgia and William Frederick of Mansfield, Ohio; two sisters, Mrs. Tom Harp of Hamilton, Ohio; and grandchildren.

Shake out the straw and spread it evenly over the width of the strawberry rows. Some straw will soon be blown to the row middles to cover the bare soil there. If strong winds hit before straw settles, some areas may be blown free of mulch and the straw will need respreading. When green, pale leaf growth begins in the spring, it is time to rake some of the mulch off the row tops and add it to the material between the rows. Do not remove all mulch from the row tops, since the plant leaves and bloom clusters will push up through a light straw covering. The light covering will help keep the berries clean.

A clean, well-grown and well-mulched strawberry patch is really a joy to behold, notes Armstrong. And, he adds, it is often the most profitable area on the farm.

Unless a child who wears braces brushes his teeth carefully after every meal, bacteria can get in the wires of the braces and cause periodontal problems, a Public Affairs Pamphlet on teeth explains.

However, many individuals who wear orthodontic appliances, including braces, find that the touch of most toothbrushes makes brushing hurtful.

A new toothbrush recently made available by Block Drug Company may prove helpful. The new brushes, called Sensodyne Gentle, have ultra-soft, gentle bristles and are designed to make it possible to reach into difficult areas to maintain preventive brushing.
