Most of the past week was devoted to finding out all available facts about the Rockcastle County Court House - or Court Houses, since there have been three of them.

The first, of course, was built of logs. Mrs. Ralph Griffin, in an article included in "The History of Kentucky Courthouses," published in 1972 by the National Society of Colonial Dames of America, says that it was a two-story building, 40 by 20 feet, and was erected largely by volunteer community effort. She states that it was built in 1811, following the formation of the county in 1810.

This building served as the seat of justice for the county until 1873, when it was partly destroyed by fire, or at least so badly damaged that it was found necessary to replace it with a new one.

I had long been under the impression that the entire building went up in flames at one time, but further investigation shows that this was not the case. Records indicate that on the night of February thirteenth, 1873, the office of the County Court Clerk was destroyed by fire, together with all the records and the cases therein pending. J. K. McClary was appointed Commissioner and empowered to hear proof of the destruction, loss or mutilation of such records and papers. At the request of any person involved he was to hold trial, hear witnesses and take evidence relative to any record or paper so destroyed and report his findings to the Court so that destroyed documents might be rewritten.

On the night of August thirteenth, however, the clerk's office was again set on fire and additional records, apparently missing the first time, were destroyed, together with McClary's appointment as Commissioner which had to be re-issued.

It is not yet exactly clear whether or not the County Court Clerk's office was destroyed in one of these fires and the Circuit Court Clerk's office in the other, or if both fires occurred in one. I am inclined to believe, however, that both offices were consumed since I have found a court order setting forth that D. N. Williams, Circuit Court Clerk, was to make use of the County Judge's office and William Fish, Circuit Court Clerk, was to use the jury room until further notice. This arrangement would seem to show that the courthouse itself was not actually destroyed by either fire but it is reasonable to assume that it was considerably damaged, and it was decided to build a new one rather than to do over the old log house. It is even possible, by the way, that the clerk's offices were in a separate building, adjacent to the main court house.

It seems to have been the general opinion that arsonists had set both fires with the intention of destroying court records damaging to the reputation of one of them. This man, a member of one of the strongest political families in the county which furnished several county judges, including himself at a later date, was immediately suspected and was indicted by the grand jury but never brought to trial. In the May term of Court of 1877, all charges against him were dismissed at the instance of the Commonwealth Attorney. In addition to the records destroyed in the fire of 1873, court records show ten more indictments filed against him between that time and the blanket dismissal of all charges in 1877. Yet such was his popularity with his followers that special guards had to be placed around the county jail to prevent his delivery by his friends and he was ordered by the court that he be removed to the jail in Williams, a rising young attorney who was one of the very few democrats ever to be elevated to that position in Rockcastle County.

With tax money turned in by the sheriff and other county revenue there seems to have been no difficulty in keeping up payment on the bonds and the interest on them. It is interesting to note their method of deciding which particular bill to pay each time. It seems they would put a number of slips of paper, all numbered in a hat, shake them up vigorously and have somebody draw one. After a number was drawn, the bond of the matching number was the one that would be paid.

I have found the account books covering the building of the court house which shows all the bills paid; but not always specifying what each one covered. For instance, while they show the amount for lumber and some other building materials, I cannot find the bill covering the cost of brick nor from whom purchased. Mrs. Griffin, in her article previously mentioned, states that the brick for the court house came from Mullins Station and had to be hauled in wagons a distance of ten miles over very rough roads. I find the Winchester Granite Brick Company had a plant at that time at Dudley, near Brush Creek, or Mullins Station, and made what was known as sand brick. I don't know enough about brick to know whether or not that was the same as clay brick, which I thought were used in the construction of the Court House. M. Fish, the Winchester Company could not have brought clay brick in from somewhere else to their Dudley plant because the railroad had not been built through that section at the time the Court House was being built. Just another point to look into a little more thoroughly.

Going over M. J. Miller's books on the construction of the Court House, I find another puzzling item. I find an amount of various individuals for iron in amounts of from two to one hundred pounds each and am at loss to know the purpose for which it was used. Also unable to find a bill covering the purchase of the court house bell, although there is an entry covering the transportation charges on it. Incidentally, the architect on the building was J. R. Carrigan and his bill for $225 represents one of the biggest payments made any individual for services. That he used good material I can testify, as I have most of the old beams and joints that came out of the old Court House when it was torn down. They are of sound yellow poplar and almost as good as the day there were put into the building, now one hundred years ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Russel Helton of Crab Orchard, Mr. and Mrs. Will Wynn, Mr. and Mrs. Lonnie McGuire of Mt. Vernon, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Chestnut and children of Maple Grove, were all recent guests of their parents Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Wynn.

It's tempting to note that the difference between USE and ABUSE is as simple as A-B, see? But with today's energy problems, there isn't a whole lot of room for funning.

Electric generating and delivery costs are skyrocketing right through the roof. Rising coal prices are part of the problem. Another complication is the short supply of gas and oil.

If there has ever been a best time to save electric energy, now is it. Call us. We can help you.

4 ROCKCASTLE TRAINING IN RECEIVING CAREERS -

Four Rockcastle Countians are among 69 students from 16 Kentucky counties who are receiving financial support this year for training in professional health careers at the University of Kentucky, Southeast or Somerset Community Colleges or the University of Louisville through the Southeastern Kentucky Health Professions Scholarship Program, administered by the State Board of Medical Education.

"AND MY WORLD" NOW PART OF 4-H PLEDGE

Kentucky 4-H'ers are now pledging their "head, heart, hands, and health" to the world, as well as to their clubs, communities and country.

The addition of "and my world" to the 4-H pledge represents the concern of 4-H'ers for the world as well as for their local communities and for the United States.

"Until these three words were added, the 4-H pledge had not changed since its official adoption in 1927. With the addition, the pledge goes like this: "I pledge my Heart to clearer thinking, my Heart to greater loyalty, my Hands to larger service, and my Health to better living, for my club, my community, my country, and my world."

Concern for the world is not new to 4-H. In more than 85 foreign countries 4-H programs are conducted, and 4-H'ers in this country have many opportunities to participate in international 4-H programs.

The change in the pledge, which is effective immediately, was recommended by 4-H'ers themselves and approved at the national level by Extension directors from throughout the nation.

KENTUCKY WATCHES ITS WATCHES

By: Rick Bubenhofer

It's a good bet that few Kentuckians realize how many consumer protection agencies there are in state government. There is the Alcoholic Beverage Commission, the Department of Banking and Finance, the Department of Insurance, the Board of Watchmaking...

That's right. There is a state Board of Watchmaking to insure that any dealings you may have regarding Father Time are strictly legitimate.

A watchmaker, by the way, isn't necessarily a person who makes watches. The state law describes a watchmaker as anyone who repairs, replaces, rebuilds or reconditions watches or winding mechanisms.

James Dodson, secretary of the Board of Watchmaking, said the five board members usually handle only four or five complaints a year and most of those are simple misunderstandings.

Mrs. Collio Scott of Berea and Mrs. Margaret Turpin of Akron, Ohio were guests of Mr.

and Mrs. Tip Reppert and family Friday night.

Please remember church and Sunday School.

Even though times look bad, with the energy crisis, let's try with all our heart to make 1974 a good year. God still lives and is able to take care of us if we will only trust Him. Speak words of encouragement to others. We still have hope and that means so much. Love and pray for others and let's all of us read our Bibles more this year. It will do us good.

May God richly bless and keep you all in this New Year as my prayer.

"THANK YOU"

The Rockcastle County Library Board and Mrs. Aylene Davis, Librarian, would like to take this opportunity to say "Thank You" to everyone who has helped make the opening of the new Library the monumental success it was.

Just to the Rockcastle County Jaycees and the Tri-City Rescue Squad for their help in the massive job of relocating the Library, to the volunteers who donated their time and effort to putting the books in order, to those who helped so much with the Open House and especially to County Judge Charles Carter, whose efforts were mainly responsible for the new building. Of course, we cannot mention everyone who helped with the task, but we do sincerely appreciate your efforts and assure you that you also have the appreciation of every user of the Library.

School Board Refuses To Cancel Contract

At its regular monthly meeting Monday night, January 7th, the Rockcastle County Board of Education refused to relieve Chappell's Dairy of its milk contract with the Board as requested by Chappell's. The controversy has been going on for some time since Chappell's and Southern Belle requested a rise in milk prices which the School Board denied unless they (the School Board) were given more federal funds for their milk program. These funds were not forthcoming and since, according to Mr. Parsons, there is no escrow clause in the contract which the Board has with Chappell's, the School Board saw no reason why the contract should be cancelled. Southern Belle Dairy, the school's other milk supplier, has not requested cancellation of their contract but has been billing the schools at 8 1/2¢ per half-pint instead of the 7 1/2¢ contract price. Of course, the bill is refigured before being paid by the schools at 7 1/2¢ per half-pint.

DEWELL-MARTIN Accepted By Organization...

Dowell and Martin Funeral Home has been accepted for membership in The International Order of the Golden Rule for the fourth consecutive year. The firm has been notified of its reaffiliation by Roger Ytterberg, Executive Director of the Order, which has headquarters in Springfield, Illinois. The Order is an organization of carefully selected funeral directing firms throughout the world. Before being admitted, a firm must receive the written recommendation of families it has served and other professional people in the community. To remain affiliated, a firm must requalify annually.

Members attend regional and international conferences in order to share their knowledge and improve their service to the public. In addition, all information that comes into the Order's headquarters is made available to the entire membership through various programs. Founded as a non-profit organization in 1928, the Order is the world's largest controlled-membership organization for funeral directors.

NEW CLASS.....

The Harry Sparks Vocational School is offering a forty-two hour course in Office Practice (Shorthand, Typing and Office Machines) beginning Monday, January 14th from 8:30-10 p.m. The class will meet two nights a week and registration fee is $5.00. ### BANKS TO CLOSE JAN. 19TH & 30TH

Both the Citizens Bank in Broodhead and the Bank of Mt. Vernon will be closed January 19th in observance of the birthday of Robert E. Lee.

The banks will again close Wednesday, January 30th, in honor of the birthday of Franklin D. Roosevelt.

COUNTY RECEIVES RS FUNDS OF $28,767

Revenue Sharing funds were recently received by the County in the amount of $28,767 for the January through June, 1974 period. A good portion of the money went to clear up the remainder of the bills on construction of the new Library.

Work Complete On New Telephone Bldg.

Work is complete on the new central office equipment building in Broodhead, according to Jim Collins, District Manager of Kentucky Telephone Company.

Construction began in August on the building in Broodhead. Work has begun on installing equipment to serve five hundred future telephone numbers.

The other major item before the School Board Monday night, was a discussion on a football field at RCHS. Although funds are not available at the present time for constructing the field, the Board decided to authorize architect Donald Shelton to draw up bid specifications on grading and drainage in two separate contracts and the specifications will be advertised for bids right away. When the bids are received, the Board will re-evaluate their financial position at that time and see what progress can be made toward construction of the field.

In other business, the Board made their final settlement with Virginia Metal Products for the demountable partitions at RCHS. The Board received a rebate of $400 off the contract price because of minor items which were unsatisfactory and a $500 rebate was given to the general contractor because of special electrical outlets needed for the partitions and not called for in the original specifications for the general contractor. The Board also approved $4,000 in matching funds to the Vocational Rehabilitation program in the county and accepted an audit of the General Fund by J. Courtney Horton, Jr., which showed everything to do with the finances of the General Fund and a $500 rebate was given to the general contractor. A copy of the audit is sent to the Div. of Finance in Frankfort and a copy is on file in the Superintendent's office for public inspection.

DEPUTY CORONERS NAMED BY DEWELL

Rockcastle County Coroner Bill Dowell has named three Deputy Coroners to assist him in his office.

NAMES LEFT OFF RCHS HONOR ROLL

Four names were inadvertently omitted from the second six-weeks honor roll at Rockcastle County High School.

Omitted were: Michael Mason, Rhonda Berry, Dale Ann Hasty and Jennie Bussell, all eleventh grade students.

BROODHEAD TOWN BOARD APPOINTED BY THACKER

County Judge Hubert Thacker appointed a five-man Town Board for Broodhead Tuesday and swearing-in ceremonies were held Tuesday night.

Appointed were: Bobby Proctor, Lawson Whitt, David Cash, Johnny Wilcox and E. J. Smith, Jr. Mr. Wilcox was elected Chairman of the Board.

All of the members except Mr. Smith were former members of the board; Mr. Smith replaces Preston Parrett, Jr.

The appointments became necessary when no one filed for the office of Town Board members for the November General Primary. These appointments will be valid until the first Monday in January, 1976 following the General Election in November of 1975, according to Henry Cox, attorney for the City of Broodhead.

DAR TO MEET FRIDAY NIGHT

The Rockcastle Chapter Dar will meet Friday night, January 11th at 7 p.m. at the Rockcastle County Library.

NEW COUNTY OFFICIALS were sworn in Tuesday in ceremonies presided over by Circuit Judge Lawrence Hall at the Rockcastle County Courthouse. In the above photo, are, from left: Judge Hall, County Judge Hubert Thacker, County Attorney

James W. Lambert, Sheriff Manuel Shepherd, Jailer Ivory Anglin, and Coroner Bill Dowell. County Clerk Clifford Bales was not able to be in the picture due to having to leave shortly after being sworn in for an appointment in Lexington.

New Fiscal Court Discusses Rec Center

Newly elected members of the Rockcastle County Fiscal Court and the two members re-elected met with County Judge Hubert Thacker Tuesday morning for their first meeting as a group.

The future of the Recreation Center in the Library building was the main topic of discussion at the meeting. Most of the Fiscal Court members, including Judge Thacker, seemed to feel that the Center would not be a paying proposition as it was now set up. However, after much discussion, the Court finally voted to leave the Center operating as it now is for a month and at the end of which, its operation would be analyzed and something definite done toward either changing the operation or leaving it as it is.

The Court did vote to leave the hours of the Center at 8 p.m. to 11 p.m. Monday through Saturday; and in doing so, eliminated the job of day caretaker which the old Fiscal Court had filled last Saturday, at their last meeting, by hiring outgoing Magistrate Hewitt Jones. The Court decided that since the hours of the Center would be only from 6 to 11 p.m., then the services of a day caretaker would not be required. Frank Henley was given the job which he now holds of night caretaker.

In other business, the Board authorized Mr. Henley to purchase needed supplies to operate the Center; approved the borrowing of $3,500 from the Bank of Mt. Vernon to pay rural road claims and to repay the money from rural road funds when received; and appointed Tommy Harold Mink as budget commissioner of Rockcastle County.

Several county employees were also hired by the Court. They are: Wendell VanWinkle as truck driver for District 4; Luther McKinney as truck driver for District 2; Keith Cromer as truck driver for District 2; Gilbert Thacker as truck driver for District 6; Aster VanWinkle and Clint Clark as grader operators and John Havel was hired temporarily as truck driver for District 1.

Magistrate Ernest Mason put a motion before the Court concerning the locating of a county highway headquarters in Mt. Vernon for all county trucks, graders and the like. Some opposition to this motion was voiced by Magistrate Danny Sargent who said he did not feel that it would be feasible for the county's trucks to be quartered elsewhere other than with the truck drivers themselves. However, with Magistrates Sargent and J. R. "Boone" Cromer abstaining, the motion passed. Mr. Mason said he felt it would be a good idea to approach the State Highway Department concerning the possibility of the county using the Old State Highway Garage in Mt. Vernon which they vacated when the new garage was built off U.S. 25.

Local arrangements were by Cox Funeral Home.

OUT-GOING COUNTY JUDGE CHARLES CARTER was the main speaker at Sunday's Open House of the new Library and Recreation Center. Judge Carter, who has served five terms as County Judge, listed his accomplishments while in office during the terms and weeks of the building of the new Library facility as being "one of the most important of those." Needless to say, I practically took my life in my own hands when I attempted to discipline him in front of them and he soon learned that his word was law around them so in a way the move here wasn't at all bad for him. At least I quit hearing "If you spank me, I'll call Grand-dad!".....

Oh, well, I don't even know how I got off on that tangent - seems it was something like "fast" time that started it, wasn't it?.....

If you have missed the competition inter-county high school basketball games, be of good cheer - The competitiveness is still there and watered down very little. Tuesday night, I took the County 8th Grade Basketball Tournament at Brodhead and found myself every bit as excited as in the first of the long past. Brodhead Mt. Vernon games. In the first round, Livingston battled Brodhead to an overtime and with three seconds left in the overtime, Livingston was ahead by one point with Brodhead with the ball and the length of the court to go for a basket. Of course, a long pass came in and referee Brian Bussell called a foul on a Livingston player who went up for the ball along with a Brodhead player. With one second left in the overtime, the little fellow calmly sunk two free throws to give Brodhead the win and a chance at the championship. That was only the beginning, though, because the Mt. Vernon - Roundstone game which followed was a classic barn-burner to the end...of the third overtime, that is! With four seconds to go in the third overtime, Roundstone missed a shot and a Mt. Vernon and Roundstone player tied up for the rebound. The Mt. Vernon player was at the height disadvantage and the tip went to the Eagles who gave it to their big man and he promptly put it through the hoop for a two-point edge over the Devils who had just won one game all season long.

Thursday Night, the Consolation Game between Mt. Vernon and Livingston will be played at 6:30 and the Championship Game between Brodhead and Roundstone will be at approximately 7:30. Come on out and see our future ROCKETS in action.....

Have you had that feeling of becoming out of step with the rest of the world recently? Don't worry, I have, too. For some reason, I can't get adjusted to the 23rd national news coming on at 5:30.

Maybe I should do as my mother-in-law's friend once said, "She decided she'd see way she'd see going to miss her 'stories' so she set her clocks-up in order to be with television. After all, when both husband and wife are retired, time does become rather unimportant and can just as easily be set forward as back or felt the same. My dad has always had an inner alarm system anyway that told him when the sun was about one hour from rising seven days a week, no less. When we lived in Versailles, he was constantly affronted by our household's lack of "early to bed and early to rise" methods. One night I proudly recounted to them that we had overslept that morning and had arisen at 10 'til 8 and had a grand total of ten minutes to dress and get the baby to the sitter before getting to work on time at 8 a.m. We made it and I thought it was probably a world's record that we could accomplish such a feat and be fully dressed (not mentioning the fact that I was combing my hair with one hand and driving with the other). Dad didn't think much of it and commented dryly that the real accomplishment would be that if we arose at a normal hour and had time to do things "properly" before leaving for work. Of

FOOD CLIPS:

Cooking vegetables? To insure the best flavor, color, texture, and food value in vegetables, cook them only until they are tender.

Remember—The amount of water used in cooking (anything) is important. The less water, the more nutrients retained in cooked vegetables. But, don't use a high temperature. It can boil away fast.

If you are cooking root vegetables (that require longer cooking), you should use enough water to cover them.

On winter squash—bake acorn squash for thirty minutes, uncovered, but bake Hubbard squash about 45 minutes, also uncovered. Then continue baking until squash is tender—20 to 30 minutes. (The oven should be preheated to 400°F.)

French frying can be an art. For something different, you might french fry sweet potatoes, breaded green pepper rings, batter-dipped eggplant sticks, and zucchini.

Dehydrated onions may be added (without reconstituting) to foods high in liquid. (In stews, for instance). You must follow the directions on the package; however, different brands have different directions.

Don't use any food that shows signs of spoilage such as foaming or "off odors" during heating.

High temperatures and long cooking causes egg protein to shrink with an accompanying loss of moisture, making the protein in the egg rubbery or tough. Try lower temperatures—it's better.

A rule of thumb for adding spices— $\frac{1}{4}$  to  $\frac{1}{2}$  teaspoon of most dried spices and herbs is enough for two cups of vegetables.

Losses of vitamins A and C occur when vegetable tissues are bruised. To prevent bruising, use a sharp blade when trimming, cutting, or shredding fresh vegetables.

Vitamin A needed? Beef and calves' liver is a good choice.

Do you know your meat bones? They can help you choose a cooking method. For example, the T-bone, rib bone, pin bone, flat bone, and wedge bone indicate relatively tender beef—good for broiling or roasting.

A blade bone or an arm bone in your meat usually means it is tender and needs to be braised or pot roasted.

What is "aged" beef? High-quality beef is "aged" by holding it at temperatures of 34 to 38° for three to six weeks, or by holding it for two days at about 70°. Ultraviolet light is used to reduce bacterial growth in the second method. It is not practical to try to "age" meat at home—it requires controlled conditions.

What's "cured meat"? The meat is treated with curing ingredients—primarily salt and sugar. Then the meat is heat processed.

Watching your budget? Cheese spread from a presurized can costs more than cheese spread from a jar. And—grated cheeses cost more than equal amounts of the same cheese in wedges or sticks.

What cuts of beef are frequently cured? Brisket (called corned beef when cured), the tongue, and some sausages and luncheon meats that contain beef. Dried beef is usually made from the round.

Fresh cabbage, potatoes and watermelon are inexpensive (usually) sources of vitamin C. Canned citrus juices—canned sauerkraut, and tomatoes also are important sources—and relatively inexpensive.

Don't overlook some of the advantages of using instant nonfat dry milk. It prevents waste, requires small storage space, is high in protein and low in fat and needs no refrigeration in dry form.

Do you know that you can freeze cranberries? Choose firm ones that have deep red berries with glossy skins; then stem and sort, wash and drain. You may pack them into containers without sugar.

Brown eggs or white eggs? The color does not affect the nutritive value, quality, flavor, or cooking performance.

What does cloudiness or milkiness in eggs indicate? Merely that carbon dioxide which is naturally present in a fresh shell egg has not yet escaped through the shell. The white becomes clearer as the egg ages.

Did you ever wonder why the egg white sometimes sticks to the inside of the shell? Basically this is just because the eggs are fresher and the white is thicker.

Use older eggs (not the one you purchased today!) if you are preparing hard-cooked eggs for salad or for slicing. Why? They are usually easier to peel.

No, the slowly or slightly milky white substance occasionally found in eggs does not affect the use of the eggs—as above note indicates, it's a normal characteristic of fresh eggs.

Remember—Vitamin C is more easily destroyed than other food values, conservation of Vitamin C is often used as an index to the retention of other nutrients.

How do you conserve food values? Trim, store, and cook

Judy, who plays the organ at Faith Tabernacle Church, speaks in 'tongues' in the premiere of "Religious America" Sunday, January 6 at 8:30 p.m. ET on Kentucky Educational Television (KET). The series explores unusual and intense religious experiences of varied groups of Americans.

vegetables with care. One example is to keep in mind that the core of the cabbage, as well as the leaves is high in Vitamin C.

If you're looking for something different for company—why not stuff a breast of lamb or veal; pork; lamb or pork crown roasts, spareribs, and tenderloins.

Don't forget the old rule of thumb—generally speaking—if there is less than a 1 cent price spread per dozen eggs between one size and the next smaller size in the same grade, your best buy is the larger size.

EIA TEST REQUIRED:
Dr. Tom Maddox, State Veterinarian, says, "All horses entering the state of Kentucky or going to sales or exhibitions (shows or racing) must be tested for EIA after January 1, 1974." All horses must be accompanied by a Certificate of Health Certificate issued by a state, federal or licensed, accredited veterinarian. The Health Certificate must state that the veterinarian examination showed the animal to be free from symptoms of any infectious or contagious disease or exposure to any infectious or contagious disease.

In addition, the EIA test must be shown on the health certificate with date of test and the name of the Federally approved laboratory conducting the test. Health Certificates and EIA tests conducted for the purposes of Exhibition, Racing and Entry into the state are valid for six months. In other words, a horse for the show circuit was tested and found negative to the EIA test the 15th of April, the Health Certificate and EIA test would be recognized as valid until the 15th of October. If the animal became sick with a contagious or infectious disease during this six-month period, of course, the Health Certificate would become invalid.

Horses going to public sales in Kentucky must be accompanied by an official Health Certificate issued by one of the recognized veterinarians listed above, listing the Health Conditions above and showing a negative EIA test by the Federally approved laboratory and the date of test. This Health Certificate on horses going to sales is valid for sixty days.

Horses having a positive EIA test should be seriously considered for destruction. EIA positive horses will be permanently quarantined unless owners' promises and it kept alive will be a possible source of infection for other horses.

POSSIBLE CURE FOR CANCER EYE IN CATTLE:
Stockmen have hailed as "A Major Breakthrough," the announcement of a cure for cancer of the eye in cattle. A malady which causes an estimated $8 million annual loss to the cattle industry. Announcement was made by Dr. Van Kampen, director for Intermountain Laboratories, Inc., Salt Lake City, Utah. He said "cure consists of a single injection of an extract prepared from the tumorous material itself." Tests have shown that within thirty to sixty days, the afflicted animals recover completely.

The site of the injection is immaterial so long as intramuscular penetration is achieved. "We don't know what exact reaction takes place," Dr. Van Kampen said, "We are still in the process of determining the proper amount necessary." "We do know," he reported, "that we have administered the biological substance to sixty-two cows with cancer eye and have observed in each case a regression in fifty-eight days." Intermountain Laboratories has applied for a license to produce and market this anticancer vaccine, and its scientists now are in the stages of necessary testing to meet the government's licensing requirements.

THE GUARDIAN OF WILDERNESS ROAD

Visitors to the William Whitley House at Crab Orchard may immediately perceive that the first owner was no timid man for two prominent W's of white stone emerge from a background of red brick above the front door.

Further inspection reveals an equally large "EW" on the back of the house for Esther, his wife.

He migrated with his family from Virginia in 1776 after being awarded 10,000 acres for military services. Construction soon began on his home, which is reputed to be the first brick house west of the Allegheny Mountains.

William Whitley was as colorful and eccentric as the house he built.

Whitley built his first floor windows six feet above the ground so Indians couldn't climb in.

For many years the Whitley home was the first private residence travelers encountered after leaving Virginia. Whitley thus saw himself as the guardian of Wilderness Road.

Especially sheltering neighbors, Whitley would immediately gather a few men and rush off after hearing of a local Indian raid. He would not return without captives.

The house even contains a dungeon for those Indians who persisted in trying his patience.

Whitley refused to accept standards other than his own. He once received news of a migrating couple losing their child to the Indians. He dutifully set off to get the child back. However, he then refused to return the little girl to her parents saying they had not defended her properly.

The mother's grief was so extreme that Esther intervened on her behalf. If she had not done so, the Whitley household would have probably gained another child.

Whitley was not an indecisive man. Indian attacks persisted while the government did little to curtail them. Whitley and another military man thus gathered some men and raided Indian settlements in Tennessee, killing 32 warriors and capturing many women and children.

Whitley's party lost only one man. Believing that he had done the government a favor, Whitley asked for reimbursement.

Although payment was denied him for the Indian raid, Whitley never expressed bitterness. His patriotism was reflected throughout the house.

Proud of the thirteen original states, he built the same number of steps to the second floor. Each displays a carved eagle's head with an olive branch in its mouth.

His refusal to accept "Tory" customs was illustrated when Whitley built the West's first race track. Previously, all horses raced in a clockwise direction, a British tradition. Anyone desiring to enter a horse on Whitley's track had to race counter-clockwise. It eventually set a precedent which still holds true in America today.

The house contains a secret stairway leading from the second floor to the basement, but it is difficult to imagine Esther ever covering there during an Indian attack. She was the perfect wife for Whitley.

During one of the many sporadic periods of peace with the Indians, the Whitleys were visited by Cherokees. When their ceremonial visit was wearing thin, the chief challenged Whitley to a shooting contest.

Whitley declined, saying his wife was a better shot. Esther promptly accepted the offer and soon outshot everyone present. The astonished chief asked how she had learned to shoot so well and was told "it might become necessary if Indians ever at-lacked." The chief and his tribe soon departed.

Whitley was fond of boasting of his wife's dauntless nature. He often told of an incident at Logan's Station where Esther and several other women were outside the fort when a raiding party appeared. Esther's hat was shot off her head, but she calmly stooped to retrieve it before racing for the fort's safety.

Whitley accordingly inscribed Esther's initials with his own on his rifle as a tribute to her bravery.

For many years Esther anxiously watched as her husband pursued those who dared threaten his family. He never failed to return until the War of 1812 when the Indians and British again combined forces.

Although he was 64, Whitley refused to sit at home while his old enemies were about. He promptly disregarded his former rank as colonel and enlisted as a private.

Many historians believe that he killed Tecumseh, a renowned Indian leader, during the battle of the Thames, although another Kentuckian, Richard M. Johnson, has been credited with the deed. After the battle Whitley's body was never found.

His reputation as a courageous fighter has led to a theory that he was buried with Tecumseh because Indians honored brave men, regardless of their race.
