

The Lancaster Green Devils won the Rockcastle County Jaycees Grade School Basketball Tournament held last week at the Mt. Vernon Elementary School. The Devils advanced to the Finals by defeating Berea and Livingston.

Eddie Hammonds, No. 24, is back in the Rockets' line-up and in good condition. In his performance in Tuesday night's home game against Pulaski County was any indication. Hammonds, who was sidelined several weeks by illness, scored six points in the game and played an excellent game defensively. The Rockets won 61-38 with John Clontz high-point man at 17. Last Friday night, the Rockets were defeated in overtime by two points at Madison Central.

People's Bank & Trust

J. Donald Hiles, President
Larry Harrison, Vice Pres.

This prominent bank is located at 118 Main in Berea, phone 986-3175, and at U. S. 25 North.

The People's Bank & Trust Company is an institution of financial strength and safety and may well be termed the "Friendly Full-Service Bank." The officers are members of the Kentucky Group of Banking to better serve you. They are open 7:30 to 6:00 p.m., Monday through Friday, and on Saturday, 7:30 to 4:00 p.m.

Founded in October of 1970 with assets of $6,000,000, it has now grown to the sum of $13,000,000+. In its short but eventful life, it has brought three new industries and many new businesses into the area, which has helped greatly with the growth of this entire section.

It was founded by men of character and integrity who were very prominent in business and commercial activities and has progressed as this section itself has grown and progressed.

Under the management of efficient and capable men, they invite accounts of business men and women, ranchers, laborers, and all people who desire profitable service with a modern banking institution.

At this bank you will find strength, seasoned judgment, dependability, accuracy in handling details and breadth of vision - all to be applied to the management of your personal commercial affairs.

In making this 1974 Review, we, the writers, wish to make the statement that at the People's Bank & Trust you may at all times bank with safety.

Rominger Funeral Home

"Quality Monuments Sales and Installation"

Maurice Dula and Frank Scudder - Owners

Time and service have honored the name Rominger Funeral Home located in Berea at 110 North Broadway, phone 986-3165.

For years this reputable firm has served the people of this section reliably and well. They relieve you of all worry and responsibility and by sympathetic cooperation bring comfort in the hour of distress. Their service supplies the consoling thought that the final tribute to your loved one has been both beautiful and fitting. When a funeral director must be called, may we suggest that you place this firm in charge. They will relieve you of all the many details that must be taken care of and at the same time do everything according to your desires.

In this 1974 Review we, the editors, unhesitatingly refer our readers to this reliable concern and suggest that you call them when in need of a funeral director.

Dairy Barn

Bill Miller - Owner

The Dairy Barn is located on U.S. 25 North in Berea. The seeker of good food will be satisfied here.

Whether at lunch or dinner in the evening, you will find their food of the highest quality, that will satisfy the most jaded appetite. Among the many things they are noted for is their superb service. They feature the famous 25 cent Mini Burger, and the larger Mint and Maxi Burgers.

Try their food and then you will know why it is the talk of the town. All the enticing foods on the menu and their fast service makes this a pleasant place to stop when in town shopping.

When you don't feel like preparing a meal at home and you don't feel like dressing up to go into a restaurant, they will solve your problems.

The drive-in restaurant suggests this is the area by the composers of this 1974 Review is the Dairy Barn. You'll truly enjoy their taste tempting food.

Berea Body Shop

Joe Anglin, Owner

firm fully understand body and fender work as well as auto painting. These men work the metal so as to require the least amount of lead or plastic and wet sand the surface until it's as smooth as glass before laying on the paint. They have gained a reputation second to none throughout this entire area.

So whether your job is a small crease or a roll-over, we know you will be entirely satisfied with their work.

And, please remember that most insurance companies now permit you to choose the body shop you like best to repair your car, so choose them to do all your insurance work.

And, please remember that most insurance companies now permit you to choose the body shop you like best to repair your car, so choose them to do all your insurance work.

We, the editors of this 1974 Review advise you to see Berea Body Shop for all your bent fenders or repaint work.

Dollins-Herndon Mercury

Billy R. Dollins, President
Ansel R. Herndon, Vice Pres.

Faced with gas shortages and higher priced fuel, consumers are implementing some new and timely ways to cut driving and home heating costs.

For full energy utilization, a well-insulated home is a must. Weather-stripping and caulking the cracks and crevices around windows and doors prevents heat from escaping.

Be sure filters and heating equipment are in good condition and level thermostats at an even temperature to further save fuel as well as dollars.

When repairs to heating equipment are needed, consumers should beware of door-to-door repair services that offer great savings. Hire only a reputable company or repair service which is licensed, local utility or rural electric companies can offer advice on the condition of home heating systems.

Fireplaces should be equipped with a damper or screen shield when the fireplace is not in use. Otherwise, it could devour precious heat.

Another area of great consumer concern during this energy crisis is driving costs. To cut costs and save gasoline, consumers are advised to drive as little as possible and within as short a range as feasible.

Keeping the car in good condition by periodic tune-ups can also avoid major repair bills later.

Many ways for saving energy are common and consumers in Kentucky are encouraged to join the bandwagon. It will help us all.

For answers or suggestions to aid in consumer problems, Kentucky residents may call on the toll-free consumer hotline at 1-800-372-2960 or write the Div. of Consumer Protection, 309 Shelby Street, Room 110, Frankfort, Kentucky, 40601.

KENTUCKY AFIELD

By: Hope Carleton

The time is fast arriving when Kentucky hunters will be cleaning and storing their hunting gear until the general hunting seasons reopen again this fall.

With the waterfowl season closing January 20th and rabbit, quail and furbearers, January 31st, the only remaining hunting season is for the ruffed grouse which will continue through February 28th.

The main range of ruffed grouse is east from the western edge of the Daniel Boone National Forest. Those who excellent trophy bird would be wise to seek the companionship of an experienced grouse hunter who has a dog trained especially for this sport. Grouse dogs are "close" hunters and stay in sight of their masters at all times. When the dogs first pick up the scent of the grouse they go on point and wait for the hunters. They also know that grouse like to run, and both dog and man will follow the bird until it is airborne.

Grouse hunting is demanding of both man and dog due to the rugged areas where the bird lives and challenging because of the almost uncanny ability of this bird to elude those who pursue him.

For those who would rather fish than continue hunting, there are several types of winter fishing that generally produce good results.

sunfish, catfish and suckers from the still pools.

For those who would rather wait until spring, now is the time to make plans for some of those special fishing events in the near future, such as the white bass and crappie runs, night fishing or casting surface lures for black bass.

German measles, which has caused cataracts, deafness and heart abnormalities in unborn children, may now be controlled. Pregnant mothers usually catch this disease from children in the family, but they may avoid it if these children are previously vaccinated against it!

News & Views From Your Rockcastle Co. Library

Are you planning a party for your youngster and his friends? Your Rockcastle County Public Library has a fine collection of books and phonograph records. They're just the thing to put over any children's party - and you can borrow them like books. Also dozens of books on how to give successful parties for small fry are available at your public library.

Few shelves at the Rockcastle County Public Library are more crammed with ideas than the so-called "how to" book shelves. The titles of several hundred books in the Library's card catalog begin with the phrase "How to." Why not stop in at the Library today and look over these helpful books on how to do things. Then say to the Librarian regularly - it pays!

Abraham Lincoln walked more than twenty miles for a book. Today, residents of Rockcastle County can get to the Library in minutes and find thousands of books - books even more important in today's complex world than they were in Lincoln's time. Use your Rockcastle County Public Library - read books for information, inspiration, relaxation. If you cannot get to the Library, call the Rockcastle County Public Library and ask for the Bookmobile to stop near your home. It will bring books to you. Among the books at the Library are:

Parents and Teen-Agers, by Margaret Albrecht.
Cosell, by Howard Cosell.
Clements, by Kal Wagenheim.

What Happens At An Animal Hospital, by Arthur Shaw.

Stryckow Dictionary, by Richard Scary.

Check the quality of bacon before you buy it. According to UK Extension Consumer marketing specialists, you'll find it easier to judge the quality of bacon than in the past because of recent packaging regulations. Bacon packages with windows must show at least 70 percent of one representative slice of bacon, and the window itself must be at least 1 1/2 inches wide. Top quality bacon has slices of uniform size, shape and thickness. Slices should be about 1 1/2 inches wide and about 1/2 inch thick with white fat streaked with bright, pinkish lean.

BIRD FEEDING IN WINTER

Feeding resident birds in winter is an interesting and humane pastime, but don't start it unless you have a firm intent to keep it up. Birds soon learn to depend upon a certain food supply and in a spell of severe weather, may starve to death if this accustomed supply is cut off.

Sunflower, sorghum, hemp, corn, and millet seed, supplemented by table scraps, serve very well as bird food, according to John Tuttle, Extension poultry specialist with the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture. A piece of suet wired to a tree limb will help out a lot, too. And don't forget that a little grit and sand, along with a pan of water, will be appreciated by the birds, especially when there is a snow on the ground and the creeks and rivers are frozen over.

A box nailed to a tree, a piece of plywood tacked to a window sill, or some other kind of a shallow, open container will serve very well as a bird feeder.

Try to locate the feeding station on some protected spot with a southern exposure - and be sure it can be seen from a window in your home so you can stay watching the birds.

Whatever the kind of feeder, place it high enough above ground to prevent roving dogs, who also love table scraps and suet, from getting at it. A piece of tin about 12 inches wide, nailed around the tree or post about six feet from the ground, will thwart the designs of stray cats.

Although most birds are very fond of peanut butter, it is not a wise practice to serve it up just as it comes from the jar. Since peanut butter sticks in the beak and throat of a bird, just as it does in the mouth of a human, birds have been known to choke to death on it, Tuttle warns. To feed birds on peanut butter, first mix it thoroughly with corn meal, bran, or chicken feed until it is no longer sticky.

Birds that can be expected to take advantage of a winter bird feeder are: cardinals, chickadees, titmice, brown creepers, kinglets, downy woodpeckers, juncos, white-throated and fox sparrows, winter wrens, jays, goldfinches, and an occasional mockingbird.

Sometimes, if the feeder is located near a wooded area and there is nest available, it will attract the great pileated woodpecker that will make regular visits and help fight off the starlings. Sometimes, too, the nest supply will be visited at night by the tiny, eerie-voiced screech owl.

Two of the most active and friendly visitors to the bird lunch counters will be the chickadees and titmice. With a little patience and some sunflower seed or black walnut kernels, these birds can be trained to perch on and eat from the hand. It takes a little more time and coaxing, but the same thing can also be done with nuthatches and winter wrens.

Winter bird feeding can be a major contribution to wildlife conservation, Tuttle says. It is a lot of fun, too, and one thing for certain - when once established, it will be one unending round of interesting activity that will help brighten the dreary days of winter.

It's easier to remove hard-ended paint than you might think. Equal parts of turpentine and ammonia will remove paint from clothing even if the paint has hardened. Does your bathtub look old no matter how hard you scrub? It's not the tub, but the pipes that are old... and rusty. You can make your tub look like new again easily overnight. Fill the tub with enough water to cover the bottom. Then add lots of bleach. The stain will disappear when you pull the plug.

ROY BROWN of Cumberland Production Credit Association in Mt. Vernon, Kentucky, has been promoted from Branch Manager to Assistant Vice President, effective January 1, 1974.

Down On The Farm

By Roy G. Brown
Assistant Vice President
Cumberland PCA

Well, down on the farm in 1973, we had some very exciting things happen. Beef, hogs and dairy products set record prices along with feed grain prices. Consumers picked stores in protest of high meat prices and then, suddenly there was no meat at the markets for the consumer to buy. These were all brought about by Government Price Controls on beef.

Later in 1973, cattle and hog prices fell just as rapidly as they had gone up on the farm, although prices remained just as high to the consumer. This revealed, or should have, to the public that the farmer is not the source of higher food prices. The processor, laborer, transportation and middle-man all profit.

Thanks to the Government Living Cost Council, the price of most things farmers have to have to produce food and fiber in 1974 have almost doubled. For example, fertilizer, baler-twine, tobacco canvas, fuel oil and gas. All of these are essentials if the farmer is to produce an abundant supply of food.

As you can very well see, food prices will have to go considerably higher if we, the farmers, are to continue to make America "The Bread Basket of the World."

Chapter FFA is very proud of Gary. Congratulations, Gary!!!

FREIGHT TRAINS USED IN MAIL DELIVERY

Although most bulk mail still travels by highway truck, the U.S. Postal Service's fuel conservation program has resulted in an increased use of fast freight trains, according to Richard Koenigs, Director of the Logistics Division of the Postal Service's Central Region headquarters in Chicago.

"Prior to the energy crisis when volumes of bulk mail exceeded normal amounts hauled by highway contractors' trucks, truck runs would be used to handle the added load," Mr. Koenigs said. "Since the crisis, these loads are placed in vans and loaded piggy-back on fast freight trains," he said.

Bulk mail includes third contractor's trucks, trains used to haul preferential mail. In addition to first class mail, preferential mail includes newspapers, magazines, special delivery and special handling parcels.

"Generally, rail transportation uses 80 per cent less fuel than highway transportation for a given volume of cargo," Mr. Koenigs said. "Our use of trains saves fuel for the Postal Service, and we are committed to saving all the fuel we can."

SAVE! SAVE! YOUR BEST FOOD BUY!

According to the census of 1790, when this area was a part of the formation of Rockcastle. He shows up in the census report of 1810, but in none of those which follow, although there are other Langfords shown, including his son Liberty, and his father, Robert, in 1830. I have been unable to find a copy of any Rockcastle County census list between that date and 1870.

A review of land grants and deeds in Kentucky from 1791 to 1798 shows 5,840 acres of land assigned to Stephen Langford, none located closer to Mt. Vernon than a 2,000 acre survey on Skaggs Creek. Then from 1834 to 1849, mostly in Pulaski and along Rockcastle River, thousands of acres were taken up or purchased in the name of Stephen Langford. It struck me as very unusual that a man should remain active for more than fifty years taking up land over such a wide territory, covering several counties.

A possible answer to this came to light two or three years ago when a man introducing himself as a great-grand grandson of Stephen Langford called on me to compare notes. He told me that there were two Stephen Langfords and that they were cousins. He said that one of them, his ancestor, came to Kentucky from North Carolina and the other from Virginia.

In describing the Stephen Langford to whom he was related he said that he once owned sixteen acres of land where Mt. Vernon is now located and later willed it to his daughter, who had married a man named Anderson. He further said that he had taken on a total of ten thousand acres of land in what is now Rockcastle and surrounding counties and that he lived for many years on Rockcastle River. This was probably in the very old log house below Ft. Sequoyia which old-timers call the Langford House. My informant knew nothing as to the time he died or where he was buried. He further added that their common ancestor was Thomas Langford who came to America from Ireland at an unknown date. He had four sons who branched out over the country but this man did not know their names. He had only heard his father say that two of them had sons named Stephen who were cousins.

During our conversation my visitor told me that the Stephen Langford we know most about had come from Virginia and not North Carolina. He stated, correctly, that he was the son of Robert Langford and was the father of Liberty, father of James who was the father of Tip Langford of local memory. He said this branch of the family was considered "the fighting Langfords," whereas offspring of the other Stephen had always been peaceably inclined. He believes his Stephen fought in the War of 1812 and might not have come to Kentucky until around that time.

I am also in receipt of a letter from Leroy Anglin, of Detroit, Michigan, enclosing a comprehensive list of grants and warrants made in the name of Stephen Langford and copied from land office records in Frankfort. He also mentions, as has been previously reported, that when the Rockcastle County boundary lines are described the following appears: "thence to the dividing ridge between Skaggs Creek and Brush Creek where the road crossing Stephen Langfords to Brush Creek, etc." Anglin is of the opinion that it was Robert Langford, Stephen's father, who originally built the old Langford house at Mt. Vernon. An early and generally reliable historian of Mt. Vernon, D. N. Williams, himself an early settler, says that Robert Langford was in the county by 1790, but census figures do not support this statement.

Almost as much of a tangle exists over the identity of Langford's Tavern and its location. We have generally considered the old Langford house in Mt. Vernon as the original, but I have heard that certain older people in the county have claimed that the old Langford house on Rockcastle River was the one known as a tavern. In addition to these claims there is the fact that the old

It is presently my opinion that this change in the road was made in 1792 and if that is correct, then it was at Langford's Station at the present site of Mt. Vernon that he spent the night. I have hoped to hear from some of the older citizens who I understand favored the old Langford house on Rockcastle River and who may know something about it that I have not yet found out. Certainly it looks to be very old - much older than the Langford House at Mt. Vernon. This could possibly be explained by the fact that the Mt. Vernon house has been kept in better repair, having been considerably overhauled and improved when it was readied for a boarding house during the building of the railroad through Rockcastle County.

In the early formation of county government this old house is mentioned as being well-known and was set up as a temporary court house until a proper building could be erected to serve as a seat of justice. This does not entirely rule out either of the other locations, as either would have been near enough to be used, since there was at the time no considerable gathering of settlers to make the infant settlement, which later became Mt. Vernon, anything like a population center. Until this spot was selected as the county seat and the court house and other public buildings erected this was only a small cluster of log cabins settled around Spout Springs, which had drawn them here in the first place and the first of the houses built in the area of Rockcastle County had been along Skaggs Creek, Rockcastle River, Roundstone Creek, around Great Saltpetre Cave and in Singleton Valley.

We understand that the original Langford Tavern was first built as sort of a small fort, supplied with log holes for Indian attacks, and was later converted into a residence and tavern. If anybody knows more on either of the two Stephen Langfords or either of the three Langford houses, I sincerely hope they will let me hear from them. It presents quite a problem.

Rockcastle Co. Forest Ranger Attends Tree Planting Conf.

Stephen C. Bullen, Rockcastle County Forest Ranger, attended the Kentucky Division of Forestry, recently attended a Southeast District Tree Planting Conference at the Division's District Office at Pineville.

According to Bullen, the day long Conference was intended primarily to plan a comprehensive tree planting program for the Southeastern District in Kentucky this spring.

"In Rockcastle County there are over 200 acres of idle land which should be planted in tree seedlings," said Bullen. "We hope to get landowners to plant 65 acres of this land this year." Bullen explained that this is a realistic goal since over 40 acres were planted by Rockcastle County landowners last year.

To encourage reforestation of eroded, idle, and submarginal land the Division of Forestry

Pine, Scotch Pine, Black Locust, White Ash, Cottonwood, Sycamore, and Yellow Poplar. Seedlings may be ordered by phoning Bullen at 256-2957 or the District Office at Pineville, 337-3011.

FARM MACHINERY

SAT., JAN. 26th, 10:30 A.M.

LOCATED - 6 miles South of Crab Orchard, Kentucky on Highway 39. Watch for auction signs in the yard.

Having sold her farm, Mrs. Martha Simpson and her partner Mr. Gary Ferrell have decided to sell their Grade A dairy herd and excellent farm machinery at public auction. The owners have built this herd through careful selection and breeding, keeping only the best cows for their herd. Twenty-two of these cows are being milked now with the remaining four cows due to freshen between sale date and March. All cows have been tested and have necessary health papers. The following is a list of the cows and heifers to be sold:

COWS: Three 4-year old Ayrshires, one 4-year old Shorthorn, twelve 5-year old Holsteins, four 5-year old Brown Swiss, three 5-year old Guernseys, two 6-year old Holsteins, one 6-year old Ayrshire.

HEIFERS: twelve Holsteins ranging from 2 months to 16 months; one 18-month Ayrshire; three Brown Swiss - 3 months, 14 months, and 16 months; one 5-month Shorthorn, two 3-week old calves - Brown Swiss and Holstein. All of the heifers are open. In addition to the heifers we'll sell four baby bulls.

Don't blow your top, insulate your ceiling!

The ceiling area is the easiest place to install insulation. Yet, it's the greatest area of heat loss or gain in most homes.

Insulation keeps a home cooler in summer, warmer in winter. An uninsulated home loses up to twice as much heat as one that is properly insulated.

Your greatest opportunity to save energy and money is through improved insulation. Your Rural Electric system will be happy to advise you about the right type for your needs. So call us.

Electricity is too good to waste!

Notice

The Cumberland River Mental Health Center will soon open an Intermediate Care Program in Brodhead, the purpose of which is to enable those enrolled to function more independently on a daily basis.

To implement this program, many ordinary household items, arts and crafts items and recreation equipment are needed. Although the Center has purchased many items, there is still a need for equipment.

Therefore, the Center would be most grateful for donations of any of the following items: pool table, ping-pong table, record player, radio, lamps, kitchen utensils and other items too numerous to mention.

Anyone wishing to make a donation, please call 256-2129.

"High blood pressure, a leading cause of disease and death in this country, is a major risk factor in heart attack."

The Heart Association president explained: "Only your doctor can tell if you have high blood pressure. A simple test can detect it, and with treatment, the risk of heart attack is reduced."

High blood pressure, once thought to be an "adult disease," has also been found in children and teenagers, Mrs. Smith said. "Control of this disease as early as possible can give you and your family a longer, healthier life."

This "silent killer" - high blood pressure - is just one of several risk factors which can result in heart attack and stroke. Mrs. Smith cited other factors you should be aware of: high blood cholesterol, cigaret smoking, a diet high in saturated fats and cholesterol, stress, a lack of exercise and having regular medical check-ups.

By modifying these factors, the risk of heart attack and stroke decreases significantly, she said. "You can improve your heart-health by having regular medical checkups. Reduce your risk this New Year by resolving to:

"Stop smoking, or smoke less.

Control high blood pressure.

Eat foods low in cholesterol and saturated fats.

Exercise regularly and moderately.

Maintain normal weight.

Alter your lifestyle to maintain a more stress-free life.

A Consumer Tip from Extension Specialists at the UK College of Agriculture

When you stop at the produce counter in your favorite grocery, don't pinch and squeeze those fresh fruits and vegetables, recommends Extension foods specialists at the University of Kentucky. Rough handling of produce causes spoilage and waste, and such losses to the consumer—that means you eventually pay for the damage.
