HUBERT THACKER, COUNTY JUDGE - AND MEMBERS OF THE FISCAL COURT

providing financial assistance to manufacturing industries and local industrial foundations for the development of industrial subdivisions.

Since the establishment of KIDFA by the 1958 General Assembly, it has made more than 60 loans totaling in excess of $7.6 million.

Executive Director David Drake said loans may be made for establishing industrial building projects or for developing industrial subdivisions.

An industrial building project may include the site, site development, and structure, but not machinery or equipment. Under Kentucky law, KIDFA may make loans up to 40 percent of the cost of an industrial building project, and 50 percent of the cost of land acquisition for the development of an industrial subdivision. Ten percent of the cost of the project must be provided by the community, Drake said. "This is to insure local support for the project."

The remainder of the loan must be obtained from another source.

Before a loan can be made by KIDFA, certain requirements must first be met.

The prospective borrower must be refused by at least two private loan sources, such as a bank or loan association. Requests are screened before any application is allowed to be made. All loan applications are brought before an 11-man board of directors which makes the final decision as to whether a loan should be granted.

Any application to KIDFA should contain a general description of the project and project site, estimated costs, method of financing, proof of inability to obtain financing from other sources, insurance acquisition of land and construction as well as on the completed project, and a statement of the local development agency.

In the case of a building construction loan, a description of the proposed tenant, copies of lease or sales agreements, information estimating the number of jobs created, labor supply available, local zoning rules, date the loan will be needed, and, a schedule of construction must accompany the application.

An example of an industrial foundation loan is illustrated by that to the Marion County Industrial Foundation, Inc.

KIDFA provided a second mortgage loan of $55,000 to this foundation for the purchase of a 102.7 acre site to be developed as an industrial subdivision. Three local banks provided an additional $55,000 as a first mortgage loan.

In addition to these loans, the industrial foundation raised $14,000 to pay interest on the mortgage notes, property taxes and insurance. The foundation also raised $46,500 to be used in development of the Marion County Industrial Park.

KIDFA also has made industrial building loans to such companies as A. J. Bayer Company, a conveyor manufacturer in Shepherdsville, and Sargent and Greenleaf, Inc., a lock and security device manufacturer in Nicholasville.

STATE INITIATES NEW STUDENT LOAN PROGRAM

A $3 million appropriation to the Kentucky Higher Education Assistance Authority (KHEAA) by the 1974 General Assembly will allow the state to initiate a revolving student loan program.

Under this program the state becomes a lender to students needing aid with the loans guaranteed by the Federally Insured Student Loan Program (FISL).

The FISL allows a student to borrow up to $2,500 per academic year for educational financing from more than 200 private lenders across the state - banks, savings and loans associations, credit unions, private educational institutions and now, the state.

The federal government guarantees repayment of the loans and, while the student is officially enrolled, pays interest on the loan. Upon graduation or withdrawal, the student is responsible for the loan's principal and interest. He is allowed to repay in installments, and is required to pay a minimum of $30 monthly or $360 yearly.

If a student is unable to repay, the federal government will assume the responsibility. If he refuses, the government will reimburse the lender and collect from the student.

According to Paul Borden, executive secretary of KHEAA, "about $750,000 of the appropriations will be used for the 1974-1974 academic year." The remaining funds will be put in reserve to continue to support the recipients during subsequent academic years.

"An investment in a student's education is not a good investment unless you have the funds to help the student complete his or her education," he added.

Presently a student must file a need analysis to determine whether or not he qualifies for FISL assistance. But beginning June 2nd, a student whose family income is less than $15,000 per year will not be required to submit an analysis, but automatically will have a presumed need of up to $2,000 per academic year.

Borden explained that a student must apply for assistance from one of the private lenders first. If he can't secure a loan from this source, he can be considered for the state loan.

The FISL was introduced in Kentucky in 1968, and since then nearly $40 million has been loaned to Kentucky students.

The KHEAA was formed by the 1966 General Assembly, and before the FISL was available in Kentucky, the KHEAA guaranteed similar loans. There are various other programs available to students seeking financial aid, including the Higher Education and Vocational Opportunities programs. These closely related grant programs are administered by the Kentucky Dept. for Human Resources. Recipients are members of families receiving Aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC) or Foster Care (FC) payments. Under these programs the student receives $50 to $75 monthly as long as he remains a full-time student. He may also receive supplementary funds from institutional student aid programs and other state programs.

WHAT YEAR IS IT?? 70's or 50's? That was the question at Mt. Vernon Elementary School. As you recall back in the 50's when you wore bobby socks, skirts below your knees, and boys with slicked-back hair, well, that was the style. The 8th graders enjoy wearing outdated clothes, red lipstick, bobby socks and all items of the 50's to give remembrance of what people call the "Good Ole Days." The class in the picture is 8B. The teacher (far left) is Mr. Hansel who thoroughly enjoyed the "ridiculous" styles they wore.

WARRANT OFFICER LEADS DOUBLE LIFE.....

The Army is here to help educate you in addition to making you a soldier. Proof of that can be found in the person of Warrant Officer (W-1) Kenneth N. Bryant, Chief of the Production-Management Div. of the Directorate, Management Information Systems (DMIS).
Bryant, in addition to his normal duties as a computer technician, teaches courses for the City College of Chicago (CCC). And, all his expertise in the computer field, which includes a Masters degree (MBA) in Management, was gained in the past eight years he's been in the Army.
In addition to the MBA, which he obtained from the University of Utah while stationed at Fifth Army headquarters at Fort Sam Houston, Texas, Bryant has earned 480 semester hours in correspondence courses and has successfully completed the senior NCO development course.
Bryant was an NCO before becoming a warrant officer. In fact, USAMMAE is his first assignment as a warrant officer, and he has quite a large responsibility.
As a warrant officer, Bryant must be a technician. The technical aspect of his current job involves the scheduling of inputs to two 360-50 IBM computers, the distributing of output from the computers, the setting of computer runs, and the testing of the computer system at the Computer Systems Command (CSC) here in Zweibruecken. However, Bryant has the additional duty of managing seventy employees, including twenty-two keypunch operators in another building.
Since warrant officers are rarely expected to fill management positions, Bryant is actually pulling double duty.
Triple duty might be more appropriate, if you count his off-duty time as an instructor. Currently, he is teaching two courses, one at the Zweibruecken Air Base (ZAB) and two at Kreusberg Kasernen. He teaches two types of courses: data processing at Kreusberg, and mid-management courses (at ZAB) for people at that level of supervision, usually E-5's through E-7's.
Bryant hopes to continue teaching after he leaves the service, even if it's only part-time. He would like to earn a PhD in Management Information. And who says you can't learn anything in the Army?

Bryant is the son of Clarence R. Bryant of Negro Creek Hill in Brodhead. He is stationed at Zweibruecken, Germany. His wife, Ethel, and daughters Louise and Marcelle, are with him in Germany.

Saving Food In The Freezer
In Case Of Power Failure

Recent storm-related power failure in many sections of Kentucky caused a lot of homemakers to wonder what could be done about food in a freezer when the power is off for a considerable length of time. We certainly hope you won't need this information, but here's what you can do in case of prolonged power failure or if your freezer goes on the blink for any other reason. First, don't open the freezer door unless absolutely necessary! Food in a full freezer will stay frozen for about two days if the door is kept closed. In a half-full freezer, food will not start thawing for about 24 hours.

If you know the electricity will be off long enough for the food to start thawing, try to get some dry ice. Placed in a 20-cubic cabinet freezer, 50 pounds of dry ice will keep the food frozen for three or four more days.

If dry ice is not available, you can still salvage the food. If there are still ice crystals in the food when the electricity comes back on, it will refreeze safely. In fact, as long as the food is still really cold - that is, refrigerator temperature - it can be refrozen without danger, although the quality will not be nearly as good as it originally would have been. Refrozen food should be used as soon as convenient, since the quality will drop even more if the food stays frozen for a long period.

As a last resort, you can make jelly, jam or preserves from the thawed fruit, and the rest of the thawed food can be cooked and then frozen again. However, to guard against growth of bacteria, food should not be allowed to remain at room temperature very long either before or after cooking. Cooked-and-refrozen food will be of lower quality, but it can at least be eaten safely.

Food Clips.....

Fresh vegetables are generally highest in quality and lowest in price when in season - your best guide as to when to buy.

Want to add a new taste treat to that old family favorite, creamed onions? Next time, mix in some finely chopped salted peanuts as you make the cream sauce. Sprinkle more of the chopped peanuts on top of the dish as you serve. Onions are abundant now in contrast to the shortages of last spring.

Very little lean meat is found in "pig's feet." They are mostly bones and tendons which are sold either pickled or fresh.

Check the label to see if your meat should be "cooked before eating" or whether it is "fully cooked." Don't assume that it is fully cooked! Remember, pork products must be cooked thoroughly including the center of the meat) to prevent trichinosis.

Add some garden-fresh quality to your family's favorite canned vegetables - add an onion in a can of peas, or sliced fresh onion with canned tomato. Tired of blah-ho-hum meals? Add an onion.

Storing cooked meat? It keeps best if left in large pieces until used. However, to save storage space, you can remove meat from the bone. Wrap well to prevent drying.

What is "brick" cheese? It's made from cow's milk and is mild to moderately sharp. It's creamy yellow and sold as a loaf, brick, slices and cut portions. "Colby" is an American cheese made from cow's milk and is similar to provolone cheese, but is not smoked. It's a mild - or mellow type cheese, usually light or yellow-orange. Chilling cheese? You shouldn't. Most cheese should be served unchilled in order to help bring out its flavor and texture characteristics. Twenty minutes to one hour or more at room temperature is the best way to serve most cheeses. Cottage cheese and cream cheese, of course, are not in this category.

"Coldpack cheese food" may contain pickles, fruits, vegetables or meats - or may even have a smoked flavor. "Coldpack Cheese" does not spread as easily and it is somewhat stronger than the "coldpack cheese food." The label will tell you which you are selecting - if you read it.

On eared and smoked pork it requires refrigeration unless stated otherwise on the label.

Cured sausages should be wrapped and stored in the refrigerator.

If it's "country style" cured pork (with a high salt content) it can be kept safely in a cool, dry, dark place - or it can be refrigerated.

Remember that pork is high in nutritive value - it's an especially rich source of thiamine (vitamin B1). It's also a good source of protein.

What is a "pork cushion"? It's a square, flat piece made by removing the bones from the shoulder. It provides a pocket for stuffing.

Try raw vegetables for those snacks. Have a good supply of celery sticks, carrot sticks, radishes, or green pepper slices ready in the refrigerator to eat when "hunger" strikes.

Mature dry legumes - dry peas and members of the bean family including navy, pinto, and soybeans - are outstanding among the vegetables for the protein they contain.

Remember, most dark green and deep-yellow vegetables excel as dependable and inexpensive sources of vitamin A.

For a spring cookout, try barbecued whole turkey. The big bird rotating on a rotisserie is an attractive conversation piece that turns into a real taste treat for your whole family.

U.S. Grants To Local Area - $2,921,000

How well has Rockcastle County been making out, compared with communities in other parts of the country, in the amount of Federal funds received via grants-in-aid and revenue sharing?

Of the $42.5 billion that was distributed in the past fiscal year, how much went to the local area?

Based upon a state-by-state analysis made by the Tax Foundation, a non-profit research organization that watches over government taxation and spending, Rockcastle County collected a relatively large share in the year.

It received approximately $2,921,000 through the combination of revenue sharing and grants-in-aid, according to a breakdown of the Tax Foundation's figures.

The total amount allocated to the State of Kentucky as a whole came to $770,000,000, it reports, on the strength of data it obtained from the Treasury Department.

The grants were made to help the state and its communities with their expenditures for highways, education, urban renewal, public assistance, health care and the like.

Also considered in the study was the cost of these benefits to the communities. They are paid for out of Federal income and excise taxes that are collected in the area. In industrial site brochure for Mt. Vernon has been prepared by the Kentucky Utilities Company with the cooperation of the Chamber of Commerce, and the Development Council. This brochure has been distributed to people who work directly with industry seeking new locations.

Included in this brochure are top map of the area, showing site available for industry, copies of option on site, and other data of interest to prospective industries. According to Marvin L. Whitaker, service manager, Kentucky Utilities Company, this information has recently been brought up to date, keeping Mt. Vernon in a competitive position for new industry.

County Judge Hubert Thacker, Livingston Chairman Bertie B. Rice, Brodhead Chairman, Board of Directors, Johnny Wilcox have all personally written letters, which are included in this brochure, expressing the willingness of Mt. Vernon and Rockcastle County to cooperate with anyone interested in Mt. Vernon as a location for new industry. Also included is a letter from the Louisville and Nashville Railroad, expressing their interest in making facilities available for new industry.

The industrial development departments of the Kentucky Chamber of Commerce, Kentucky Department of Commerce, Railroads, and Utility Companies serving the area have received copies of this booklet for their use in contacting prospects for industry.

RADIO AUCTION RAISES ALMOST $2,700

According to James O. Smith, president of the Mt. Vernon Recreation Council, the Council's recently completed Radio Auction raised $2,680 for the summer recreation program at Mt. Vernon Elementary.

Mr. Smith asked us to express his thanks, on behalf of the Recreation Council, for the fine cooperation received from everyone in making the auction a success it was.

Locally, as in most parts of the country, the grants and the costs did not balance out equally. There was no attempt to make them do so. The only consideration, in awarding them, is supposed to be a community's needs and requirements, measured against the needs of the communities.

The wide divergence is indicated by the fact that, for 22 of the states, the grants were something less than a bargain. They paid more toward the programs than they received in aid.

Indiana came out worst. It paid $1.55 for every $1.00 that was returned to it.

RESCUE SQUAD ASSISTS IN DRAGGING OPERATION

JOHN NICHOLS'

Frankfort Watchline

Yes, we were expecting a comparatively quiet political year in Kentucky, and nothing really exciting has happened yet. But there are some oddities or ironies.

For instance, we have the spectacle of U.S. Senator Marlow Cook, a Republican, calling for President Nixon's resignation. And who opposes that? Why, none other than Democratic Governor Wendell Ford, the chief opponent of Cook in November.

Cook at least is consistent on resignation. But the stand of both candidates appears saturated with a political aura.

Ford is going along with the stance of leading national Democrats for a variety of reasons. Cook is trying to by cutting any ties, real or imagined, with the beleaguered president.

The word that filters through the Capitol, always a Democratic-oriented building, is that Cook is in trouble in his backyards: Jefferson County and the mountain 5th District in southeast Kentucky.

"It's no race, I can't get any money for Cook," one adventurous Democrat told us.

Well, maybe not now. And maybe not ever. But isn't it somewhat early? Remember, a few months has made the difference in many a Kentucky election.

We must establish Ford as a solid favorite at this time while advising whoever will listen not to count on Cook yet.

For openers, he is the incumbent, and they're hard to beat in this state in Congress.

Speaking of incumbents, the Democratic primary in Western Kentucky's first congressional district certainly is the most interesting - or lively - of the contests for May 29th.

State Senator Carroll Hubbard of Mayfield is challenging incumbent Frank Stubblefield, who has been around since 1958 when he unended Noble Gregory by a narrow margin.

We must say Hubbard is waging a spirited race, but then anyone serious about ousting an incumbent surely has to do so.

From what we gather, Hubbard basically is attacking the older order, slamming at Democratic establishment figures as often as he punches away at Stubblefield's alleged shortcomings.

Stubblefield seems to be responding with a lower-keyed rebuttal of various Hubbard charges, saying "I'm a doer, not a talker."

Hubbard is scoffed at in some circles as a publicity-seeking upstart, but even his enemies can't give a clear reading on the race.

We often heard at first that Hubbard actually was using the election as a test, not expecting to win this time but stepping up as the prime candidate in a couple of years, whether Stubblefield has retired or not.

We doubt it. We think Hubbard wants to win in November period, and without another wait.

Neither Gov. Ford nor Lt. Gov. Julian Carroll is an admirer of Hubbard. If they threw their weight behind Stubblefield - and there is no indication they are taking part - things could be sticky for the challenger.

The first district race won't make national ripples, but it bears interesting observation.

How Much Is It Worth? - Sen. Dee Huddleston has made his financial disclosures - net worth and income taxes - and Lt. Gov. Carroll, who may be our next governor, previously revealed his income taxes.

That leaves Cook and Ford conspicuously exempting themselves from this sort of thing. Both agree there is no compelling reason to let the public know.

Cook mentioned something about his doing so - if Barry Bingham of the Courier-Journal would. Well, now, Bingham is not a candidate or officeholder.

Ford remarked that there's too much emphasis on a candidate's finances when other qualities count more.

He has a point. However, we think voters these days expect candidates and officeholders to lay it all on the line.

Unless Cook and/or Ford change their minds, the people won't have the opportunity.

Add Another Candidate? - At last count there were maybe a dozen informal candidates for lieutenant governor. Nobody announcing, of course, but all available for the right offer.

If we haven't mentioned James Gray of Frankfort, head of the state Bureau of Highways, we can't leave him out of the lot of speechmaking around the state.

Of course, the saying goes that nobody runs for lieutenant governor in the true sense. Someone is tapped and, presto, he's on the ticket.

Our antennae quiver the most when State Rep. Terry McBrayer of Greenup is mentioned; at least on a Carroll ticket.

It's enough to give you indigestion.

It seems like every week your money buys less than it did the week before. Food, gasoline, manufactured goods - everything seems to be going right out of sight. At your telephone company we understand this because our money is acting the same way. In fact, inflation hits us as hard or harder than anyone else. You see, to adjust our prices to inflationary increases we have to first request a price increase from the state regulatory commission. The commission grants us a rate increase only after we've shown them that we have been suffering financially. It takes time to review our case, and as you can imagine we can be hurting pretty bad by then, especially in today's inflationary times. But that's the way it is, and we just want you to know that we sometimes get a touch of indigestion too.

You can save money with washers!

The third greatest energy use in most homes is the heating of water. So here are some simple facts about saving: oversized water heaters waste energy by heating unneeded water.

Dripping faucets waste hundreds of gallons of hot water in a year's time, and this often can be corrected just by replacing faulty washers.

Showers use less hot water than baths. And washing clothes in warm or cold water costs less than when hot water is used. It all adds up... to waste, or to saving.

Electricity is too good to waste!

Among the new books are: "The Mount Vernon Signal" by Pelham Grenville Woodhouse. There is no explaining tastes - particularly tastes in love. Monty Bokin had for some reason fallen in love with Gertrude Butterwick, a beefy girl with large feet, who played on the All England women's hockey team.
Build Your Own Home, by J. James Hawenau. This book describes the different operations in sub-contracting a house, recreation room or addition, disclosing the short cuts and the various ways to accomplish them; what to look out for in advantages and disadvantages of some systems used in construction. He describes where lines are drawn between the tradesman, what they are responsible for and what is the next man's job. No attempt is made to tell how to pound nails or do a sub's job, only what work he should do, from a builder's standpoint.

In a previous issue of the Signal we listed ten Revolutionary veterans living in Rockcastle County in the year 1840. We have since gained additional information on some of them together with the names of other Rockcastle County veterans. To bring the list up to date we give it here as it now stands.

NICHOLAS HOUK. Oldest living veteran in 1840, being then 100 years of age. He was born in Bucks County, Pennsylvania in 1740 and died in Rockcastle County, Kentucky in 1841. With his wife, Sarah, he moved from Washington County to Rockcastle on January 23rd, 1819, settling on or near what was long known as the old Houk place. Here, on what is now known as the Oliver Dowell place, a grandson later built and operated the first horse mill in Rockcastle County. Nicholas Houk and his wife, who died in 1845, are both buried in the old cemetery at Renfro Valley.

GEORGE HARLOWE. Being 89 in 1840, he was next oldest to Nicholas Houk and must have come to Rockcastle County only a short time before, as we find no record of him in the census of 1830.

WILLIAM ARBNEY, 61. Enlisted in Albemarle County, Virginia, 1776. Died January 31, 1845. Wife, Judith Clark, 79, in 1853, when applying for his pension. They were married in Estill County, 1811. He was married twice. Had fifteen children by first wife, five by second. Children living in 1820 were: Dicey, 31; Charles, 26; William, 24; Jane, 22; Polly, 20; David, 17; Milly, 15; Elisha, 11; Joshua, 9. By his second marriage: Amanda, 8; Ammie, 6; Andrew Jackson, 4; Children, 2. Witnesses were: William Clark, Rockcastle County, 1863. James Chasteen, Madison County, 1818. James Busey, Bourbon County.

RICHARD ALLEN. Daughter, Drusilla Parker, filed in Rockcastle March 29, 1850. Was 68 and only surviving child. Obed Ramsey, 77, Rockcastle, said he was born in Cumberland County, Virginia, near home of Richard Allen. His father, Thomas Ramsey, served under Allen and got his pension in Garrard County.

JAMES ANDERSON. In Rockcastle 1832 and was 72 when applying for pension. Born in Lancaster, Pennsylvania, 1762. Died in Clark County, Kentucky, 1837.

WONSLEY BAKER. Applied in Rockcastle October 1, 1836 at age of 74. Born in Frederick County, Maryland, year of Burgoyne's surrender. After war moved to Virginia, then to Madison County, then Laurel. Basil Baker (no relation) 72, in 1836 was witness and had lived in Rockcastle. Both lived in Laurel at time of filing for pension.

HUMPHREY BATES. Applied in Rockcastle November 26, 1832, age 67. Born Lincoln County, North Carolina, January 18, 1765. After war lived in Rutherford County, North Carolina, then in Garrard, then Rockcastle. His widow, the former Rachael Mitchell, filed in Garrard County October 10, 1853. They were married in Rushford County, 1778.

WILLIAM CASH. Applied in Rockcastle February 17, 1834, age 81. Born in Westmoreland County, Virginia, 1752. After war lived in Wilkes County, North Carolina, moving to Rockcastle 1811. Married in Spotsylvania County, Virginia, 1782. Children were Nancy, Elizabeth, Rachael, Lewis, Jerimiah, Walter, Larkin, Jenny and Christian. Widow applied Rockcastle 1839.

JAMES CHASTEEN. Applied Rockcastle County September 7, 1818, age 57. Enlisted Albemarle County, Virginia. Moved to Rockcastle 1791, October. Widow, former Nancy Kennedy, applied Rockcastle 1842. Witness William Arbney, Rockcastle, November 30, 1842. Children: Elizabeth, John, Polly, Jesse and Nancy.

JACOB STEPHENS. Born in 1856, he was in Rockcastle by 1828. Nothing further has been learned of him.

GEORGE SIGMON. He was not closely related to the main branch of the Sigmon family in this county. His father, David Sigmon, seems to have come into Virginia from Pennsylvania and was of German extraction. George was born in Virginia in 1757.

REUBEN C. PEW. He saw a total of more than three years of active service in the Revolutionary War. Born in 1758, in Morris County, New Jersey, he died in 1847, in Rockcastle County, Kentucky. During his long service he fought at White Plains, Brandywine, Trenton and Monmouth Courthouse and spent one winter at Valley Forge. In 1803 he moved with his family from Rowan County, North Carolina to settle on Skaggs Creek. A veteran with a remarkable record. The site of his grave is unknown.

WILLIAM SWEENEY. He was 80 years old in 1840 and living in Rockcastle at the time. No further information on him. He is not shown in the census of 1830.

MOSES FARRIS. He was born in North Carolina in 1768, and had come to Rockcastle County, with his brothers, Hezekiah and John, before 1810. Ever since, their family name had been in Lincoln County and were later transferred into Rockcastle and Laurel when those counties were formed. They were active in Indian affairs and fought many battles with the savages along early trails into Kentucky before it became a state.

ELIJAH DENNY. He was born in 1769 but the place of his birth is unknown. He died in Rockcastle County at the age of 110. He fought in the Battle of Stony Point among other historic engagements. He was 110 years old at the time of his death in 1867. Two years later the last surviving veteran of the Revolution died, in New York, at the age of 109. He was Daniel Beekman. Elijah Denny's grave is near the borderline between Rockcastle and Pulaski Counties.

FRANCIS RAMSEY, SR. Born in Virginia, in 1764, at the age of fifteen he was enlisted as a drummer boy in the Revolutionary War. He fought at Gullford Courthouse, Camden, Siege of 96 and Eutaw Springs. Married in 1778, in Cumberland County, Virginia, he soon thereafter came to Rockcastle County in time to be in the first census, of 1810. He died in Rockcastle County on the day after Christmas of 1842, being then 78 years of age. He and his wife, who died in 1850, are buried in unmarked graves in the Renfro Valley Cemetery. His brother, Thomas, who was also a Revolutionary War Veteran, died in the adjoining county of Garrard.

WILLIAM LAWRENCE. William Lawrence, son of William Lawrence and Charity Cornell, was born in 1745. He had a son born 1764 who entered Revolutionary service in 1781 and joined his father in the founding of Lawrence's Station, just outside Danville. He served as a private in Dixon's Company, 10th Regiment, North Carolina Line. His sister, Rebecca, in 1785, was the first white child born in Danville. Both she and her sister, Charity, married and moved to Rockcastle County, where they were living in 1834 when William Lawrence was in Rockcastle County, at the age of 70. It seems highly probable that he was visiting, or living with, one of his sisters at the time.

COL. JAMES DYSART. Born in Donegal, Ireland, 1744. At age 18, was given passage money by grandfather and came to America. Travelled down the Valley of Virginia and became a frontiersman, going with party of Long Hunters, headed by Skaggs and Drake, in 1770. Was Spain at Battle of Kings Mountain, after which he was promoted to Major. He owned a distillery and lost all signing notes for friends. Came to Kentucky in his old age, taking up 1000 acres of land. Lived in Rockcastle with wife and six children. Died May 26, 1818, age 74. One of the most unusual men Rockcastle County has known.

Federal Contract with EWU Provides On-the-job Training

Laurel W. True, Secretary of the Department for Human Resources announced today a $48,622 federal contract with the Electrical Workers Union that will provide on-the-job training for 70 jobless or underemployed Kentuckians.

Kentucky and fourteen other states share in a $432,000 contract to train a total of 650 persons. The Commonwealth ranks second in the number of trainees and allocated funds. The Bureau for Manpower Services will administer the project.

The one-year contract with the International Union of Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers, AFL-CIO (IUEM), will develop subcontracts among employers with whom the union has collective bargaining agreements. The companies will train persons for jobs in electronics, electrical, and allied manufacturing industries. The wages for participants will range from $2.50 to $5.50 per hour.

All trainees will receive full fringe benefits, depending on the collective bargaining agreements between employers and the union.

Approximately 75 percent of the 650 or 486 of the new openings will be for persons from minority groups and the disadvantaged, a total of 243 from each category. The remaining 164 persons will receive upgrade training to enable them to enter higher paying, more skilled jobs, with increased stability of employment.

Candidates Get Five-Day Grace Period To File Spending Reports - K. P. Vinsel

Executive director of the Kentucky Registry of Election Finance announced that late-filing candidates will be put on a grace period before being put on an official delinquent list. Although Monday, May 13, was the deadline for receipt of campaign spending reports required by state and federal law, Vinsel said his office would not turn in an official delinquent list until next Monday, May 20th. The recent session of the Kentucky Legislature passed a law that allows a five-day grace period for persons late in filing campaign-spending reports.

Although that law doesn't take effect until June 21, Vinsel said the grace period is clearly the intent of the legislature and "we'd have trouble prosecuting any candidate who is a few days late."

Energy Conservation Tip: Conserving Kilowatts With the Clean-up Crew

If you don't need dry dishes immediately at the end of the cycle, like after dinner, turn your dishwasher off when the wash portion of the cycle is finished and open the door slightly. This can save about one-half the power consumed in a normal cycle. When using your disposer, always use cold water. Disposers are designed to work with cold water. Remember, hot water is a big user of residential energy.

FARM PROGRAM SIGN-UP STILL IMPORTANT IN 1974
 "Although there are no farm set-aside payments, farmers can still benefit from sign-up this year," said Harold Ballinger, Executive Director of the Rockcastle County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS).
 Farmer sign-ups and certification can be completed in one step. Sign-ups have begun and crops must be certified before harvest. The cutoff date is July 15th.
 Acreage certification in the wheat, feed grain and cotton programs makes farmers eligible for benefits that include allotment preservation and eligibility for commodity loans.
 The program also offers a new disaster payment provision. The Department of Agriculture, under certain conditions, will make payments for prevented planting and for yield losses due to bad weather or other natural disasters. Disaster payments cover wheat, feed grain and upland cotton only.

 Skipping regular meals and excessive snacking on calorie-rich, nutritionally poor foods can help contribute to an insufficient intake of essential nutrients. Because of diet inadequacies, many physicians recommend a vitamin supplement such as Poly-ViSol for both children and adults.
