CLOSED FOR REPAIRS—Despite the sign's welcome, Frankfort's "Old Capitol" will be closed to the public until next summer for extensive restoration. The oldest capital of Greek Revival architecture in America is being furnished much as it was when Kentucky's early legislators discussed dueling, the possibility of secession and Göebel's assassination.

will deliver the garbage to one of the dumpsters. If the Saddle Club comes by again and leaves their garbage behind, I will clean it up, but will deliver it to the president of the club and explain the problem to him personally and I will continue to do so until they become aware of the problem they are creating.

I would like them to understand that I am not the only person complaining about the Saddle Club. People who live near the big cave at the head of Crooked Creek report the Club has left litter near the cave when they camp there. People along Dry Fork Road are not happy with them. Several people have commented on the rudeness of the riders when trying to drive by them on the roads. Usually, when vehicles meet on the narrow roadways, they will back up or pull aside to let the other drives by and they smile and wave in a friendly manner. This is not so with some of the horseback riders who could so easily ride single file at the edge of the road to allow a vehicle to pass. Some people report they have simply had to stop until the riders passed by before they could move on.

But this is not so great a problem as the litter they leave behind. Until the Saddle Club becomes more considerate and thoughtful of local residents and our natural surroundings, they will not be a welcome sight in our part of the county.

If possible, will you please print this letter in your paper. If not, will you please forward this letter to the president of the Saddle Club, whose name and address I do not know. I have not meant to offend the members of the Club even though I am offended by their thoughtlessness. I would like them to accept this complaint simply as a reminder to be an asset to the county rather than a bother.

Trail riding on horseback seems to be a very pleasant way to spend a weekend and I would like to feel pleased to see them go by instead of dreading to see the litter they leave behind or dreading to have to drive a vehicle along the same road. I am asking them, please, to all go a little out of our way and clean up Rockcastle County. It's such a beautiful place to live in and the Saddle Club could contribute so much.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Oma Hamblin

CONSUMER COMMENTS

Serious hazards await the consumer who signs an offer to purchase a house without providing for certain safeguards or ascertaining certain facts. These dangers fall into two categories: defects in the building or lot itself and defects in the seller's legal title to the property.

Generally a buyer is partially protected against defects in the title to the house if the contract is subject to obtaining a new mortgage on the property, because a mortgage company will require that a title search be made to ascertain that the seller had title and that there were no defects against it.

Additional protection can be obtained in this situation by obtaining owner title insurance. The "mortgage title insurance" which is common in such transactions only protects the mortgage lender against loss on its loan due to the title defect, but does not give insurance coverage to the buyer-mortgagor.

No such protection exists in the case where a consumer either assumes an existing mortgage or pays cash. He should in all such instances make the contract contingent upon the seller having good title and there being no encumbrances or defects in either the title or the record of it. Prior to paying for the house he should make sure that the seller had a good title and had no other mortgages or other debts, such as back taxes or unpaid amounts for improvements of the property. These can be done by owner title insurance discussed above or by obtaining a title opinion from an attorney competent in property law.

The second area of concern is the physical condition of the house and the lot, for outside of certain situations where a new house is purchased, the purchaser takes the house "as is." This means that a prospective purchaser should check out all systems prior to signing an offer to purchase the house, or should provide in the offer that it is made subject to enumerated systems being operative. The specific features that should be checked will be discussed in next week's column.

For answers or suggestions to aid with consumer problems, Kentucky residents may call on the toll-free Consumer Hotline 1-800-372-2960, or write the Attorney General's Division of Consumer Protection, Room 34, Capitol Building, Frankfort, Ky. 40601.

Overnight Investment Produces $1 Million In Interest

State Treasurer Drexell R. Davis has announced that the state has earned its first $1 million in interest as a result of the overnight investment of state funds.

In mid-December, Governor Wendell H. Ford and Davis inaugurated a program of investing part of the state's operating cash balance overnight and over weekends in short-term U.S. Treasury Bills. In effect, this means that for the first time, Kentucky is earning interest regularly on its operating cash balances.

At the time the program went into effect, it was predicted that the program would mean an extra $2 million in revenues for the state. Now that the first $1 million in interest has been realized, officials are confident that, at the present rates, the $2 million goal will become a reality.

Ford and Davis cite the overnight investment of state funds as another reason that Kentuckians can be confident that their funds are being invested safely, efficiently and responsibly.

In Loving Memory of Dear Mother
 In memory of my dear mother, Carrie Barton, who passed away one year ago the 14th of July:
 Mother, I'm sad and lonely ever since you went away. But, oh how sweet you were, Dear Mother, so unselfish and so true. Never tiring or complaining of so many things to do. Out of your suffering which you had borne so long. Into a great day of peace, joy, and song. So He called away your suffering. Came and took you by the hand. And He gave us the promise that someday we understand you are gone but not forgotten. Never will your memory fade. Sweetest thoughts will always linger. Even when I stand at your grave.
 Sadly Missed By Daughter, Mae Barron 44x1p

Dad and Mom have left us their sufferings are now o'er. In Heaven you are rejoicing. With the Dear Ones gone before. At the dear old home place no longer. Can we gather as of old. For our family is broken. They have found their Heavenly home. We have loved a loving Dad & Mom. They have bid us all adieu. They have gone to live in Heaven. And their person is lost in view. Their busy hands are resting. Their work on earth is done. Their trials are all ended. Their Heavenly crown is won. Today brings back sad memories. Of Dad and Mom that's laid to rest. But the ones who think of them today. Are the ones who loved them best.

McCauley Is Named Ford's Campaign Chairman in County

A press release from Ford for U.S. Senate Headquarters reported today that David McCauley, of Mt. Vernon, has been named Ford's Campaign Chairman in Rockcastle County. In making the announcement, campaign co-chairman James E. Gray praised McCauley's past efforts on behalf of the Democratic Party and emphasized that his was the initial appointment in a series of several that will eventually make up the entire Ford Campaign Organizational Team in Rockcastle County.

"Wendell Ford is a firm believer in the power of the combined efforts of people," Gray said. "It is his wish that every campaign organization in every county correspond with the overall campaign theme 'For the People.'"

"When completed, each county organizational team will be representative of all groups of people."

THE OSBORNE BROTHERS, well-known country music artists and regular performers on the Grand Ole Opry, are just one of the many performers who will be on hand for this weekend's Mac Wiseman's "Bluegrass Music Festival" in Renfro Valley. Plan now to attend the three-day event beginning at 12:00 Noon Friday with a performance by the Bluegrass Drifters.

1974-75 School Calendar Approved By Board

The Rockcastle County Board of Education approved the 1974-75 school calendar at their regular monthly meeting Monday night, July 1. The calendar is set up as follows: August 23 (Friday) - In-Service for Teachers; August 26 (Monday) - Student Enrollment; September 2 - Labor Day; October 4 - CKEA; October 11 - In-Service; November 23-25 - Thanksgiving Holidays; December 23, January 1 - Christmas Vacation; March 19, 20, 21 - Spring Vacation; April 17-18 - KEA; May 21 - Professional Meeting and May 22 - School closing.

In other business, the Board: accepted a bid from Mullins Refrigeration of $3,870 for a walk-in freezer at Broadhead Elementary School; refused to take action on a bid from Central Construction Company of Nicholasville for lighting the new football field when they felt the amount ($35,000) was exorbitant; approved a $15 raise for all regular school bus drivers and a 7% increase for contract drivers; employed Danny Bullock as custodian at Livingston Elementary School, effective July 2nd at a salary of $295 per month on a three-month trial basis; approved a change order recommended by the architect to increase the size of the drain tile on the football field from 8" to 15" at a cost of $5,000; employed the following school secretaries: Naomi, Mink, RCHS; Shirley Mullins, LES; Jerri Nunneley, MVES; Barbara Thacker, RES and Blanche Baldwin, EES and changed the date of the August Board Meeting to August 2nd due to a conflicting date with the KASA Conference scheduled for August 4, 5, and 6.

The Board also authorized the Title I ESEA project for 1974-75 school year although funds have not as yet been approved for the project through Congress. A motion was also made and passed to authorize the application for an adult education program with centers in Mt. Vernon and Broadhead schools. Mrs. Catherine Graves and Mrs. Verla Scott were employed as teachers for these programs.

FHA SUPERVISOR RETIRES

Robert C. Winn, County FHA Supervisor at the Stanford Office, has retired after thirty-seven years' service. Mr. Winn came to Stanford in 1938. In addition to Lincoln County, he has also supervised the Farmers Home Administration program in Garrard and Rockcastle Counties during the major portion of these years. Ronnie G. Caudill, who has been Assistant County Supervisor at the Stanford Office for the past eight and one-half years, will assume the duties of County Supervisor effective July 1, 1974. The Winn's will continue to live in Stanford.

Grant Obtained For Industrial Park

The Rockcastle Improvement Council has been granted $30,000 to extend the Mt. Vernon Water and Sewer system to the proposed Rockcastle Industrial Park west of Mt. Vernon, according to a recent announcement by Senator Marlow Cook and Fifth District Congressman Tim Lee Carter.

Ray Brown, president of the Council, said Tuesday that the Rockcastle Fiscal Court had agreed to match this amount with Revenue Sharing funds (when these funds are available) and that the next goal of the Council would be to exercise the Council's option on the property which will run out in December of this year.

Mr. Brown said that it was hoped that loan could be obtained from state government sources and from banks to exercise the $120,000 option and that there was a slight possibility that some grant money could be obtained toward the purchase price.

Of equal importance to the development of the Industrial Park, Mr. Brown also noted, is the routing of the new Highway 461 from Somerset to Mt. Vernon, presently in the planning stages. Mr. Brown said that one proposed route called for the road going over the railroad tunnel and the alternate route would put the road right through the Industrial Park. He said that this second route (the western alternate route) would solve the problem of access to the park while the first alternate route would cause an access road to have to be built to the Park. As of this date, the final decision as to the highway's route has not been determined.

Perkins is Champion Fiddler; Festival is This Weekend

J. T. Perkins of Arab, Alabama repeated his championship performance of 1973 and was named this year's Grand Champion Fiddler at the 4th Annual Renfro Valley Fiddler's Convention held in Renfro Valley last weekend.

Mr. Perkins, who also won the Junior Fiddler Champion-

4th Annual Bluegrass Music Festival

The Old-Time Fiddlers Convention was the prelude to the big week of activities in the Valley which began with the Traditional Music and Old Times Reunion presented by Mac Wiseman July 8th through the 11th.

This year such well-known entertainers as the Bluegrass Drifters, the Country Gentlemen, Jimmy Martin and the Sunny Mountain Boys, the Lewis Family, the Shenandoah Cut-ups with Chubby Wise and Mac Wiseman, the Outdoor Plumbing Company, Doug Green, Boys from Indiana, Red and Fred Lulu Belle and the Second Generation will be on hand beginning at 12 Noon until Midnight each night.

JOHN NICHOLS'

Frankfort Watchline

Looks like a whole new ball game for the dozen or so - or maybe it's the scores - of people who want to run for lieutenant governor in 1975.

That word is out publicly from Lt. Gov. Julian Carroll. He says with finality that he'll not run with anyone if and when he announces for governor next year. We know he's running. You know he's running. He won't be running. But to keep step with the philosophy that the Democrats should have but not race to worry about at a time, he'll not announce until after this November election.

It's a meaningful thing Carroll is doing. There was a me not so long ago when the real major candidate for the next spot on the ticket made a lot of his strategy the lessons of one of the major opponents for governor.

Carroll says that day is gone. And from the other side - that cluster of Democrats who may oppose Carroll for governor - we think that the same is more or less true.

A couple of examples leap to mind. Everyone's aware that recent House Democrat Terry McBrayer is going to run for lieutenant governor next May - and an increasing number of Democrats are hearing that Jim Gray, who's helping Gov. Wendell Ford in his Senate race, has similar ambitions.

Apparently neither will be anointed candidates. Both will have to cut the mustard themselves - make some effort to convince their silent sponsors that they can win.

So you can see the prospects of Carroll saying a few friendly words for McBrayer at the right times (Carroll left that option open) - and if the other side comes up with a primary opponent for Carroll, that fellow might be giving some informal bid to Gray.

Meantime, we hear that Jefferson County Judge Todd Hollenbach is switching targets for next year. While once he had his heart set on the Senate - and then the lieutenant governor's job - now it's being whispered that he'd like to be governor. If J. R. Miller doesn't run against Carroll in May, could Hollenbach be the guy?

Stranger things have happened. We know there's no love lost between the Ford-Miller folks and Hollenbach. Check some of the judge's antics during the legislature for evidence of that.

But maybe the real question is: Who do they dislike the least, Carroll or Hollenbach?

But the point remains that whoever wants to be lieutenant governor will simply have to work at it, mainly on his own. We may even see the unprecedented situation where a lieutenant governor's candidates out of the woods - surely will lure some of the candidates out of the woods - surely.

"Insulation puts more 'home' in our mobile."

Mrs. Lisle C. McAfee, Elizabethtown

To the McAfees, there's nothing more homelike than their electrically heated mobile home. It's an oasis of comfort, cleanliness and convenience, including the convenience of no fuel ordering and storing. Electricity for all-around use means a single energy source, plug-in efficiency and worry free maintenance.

Proper insulation is the key to heating comfort, efficiency and economy. When you buy your electrically heated mobile home, insist on M-HMA insulation standards. Check with us. We'll be glad to tell you what these standards are and why they're essential to truly honey mobile home living.

July 13-14 - Land Between the Lakes.

July 13-14: Two-Day Ride - Salt Petre Cave; leave the Cave at 9 a.m. (alternate ride).

All members are urged to participate in these events. If you are interested in becoming a member of the Saddle Club, why not contact one of the members on the Saddle Club president Bill Norton.

And, DON'T FORGET!! The Horse Show at Renfro Valley is scheduled for July 19th. Make plans now to attend.

Toll Road Bond Fund - The Kentucky Turnpike Authority will reserve $48,899,327 accumulated from various toll road bond issues for future needs rather than current projects. Gov. Wendell H. Ford, chairman of the authority, said that the policy was necessitated by the threat of future gasoline shortages, which would greatly reduce toll road receipts and gasoline tax revenue.

Lowering The Cost of Education - Residents of five Tennessee counties will now be able to attend Murray State University and Western Kentucky University at Kentucky tuition rates. The Ky. Council on Public Higher Education announced that the decision was made to halt declining enrollment at both universities. The counties involved are Sumner, Robertson, Henry, Stewart and Montgomery.

News From Your Rockcastle Co. Library

Do you know what your Library has to offer you? The Rockcastle County Public Library is an information center. It has books that will answer almost any question you may have. It has many records and long-playing albums for you to take home just like books and enjoy in your own home. It has the newest magazines off the press just waiting to be read. But the Rockcastle County Public Library offers something else. It offers a pleasant Tuesday afternoon for anyone who would like to come to the Library. We have a Community Club which is FREE and open to any adult wishing to learn a craft, play Bingo, visit with other women and pass the time. We have made plaques with découpage, beautiful needlepoint pictures and pillows, and this week we made an octopus out of yarn. We have really had a good time.

Mrs. Davis, the Librarian, will be teaching crochet and knitting through the month of July. This class is FREE and for anyone wishing to learn how to make the things of yarn that are so popular now. Be sure and come in on Tuesday at 1:00 p.m. The circulation of the Rockcastle County Public Library for the month of May was 13,262 books in the Library alone, 152 records were checked out, 15 filmstrips were shown in the Library with 1,349 attendance, 29 films with 843 attendance.

The Library hopes to continue with the present service but with the minimum raise in effect now, we are concerned as to how long we can continue to give the service we are now rendering.

Now that school is out in most counties and the children have a breathing spell, do you wonder how much of their reading ability, their learning power will be lost through the summer months? Why not stop in at the Library and introduce your child to the world of books for pleasure. In this way, they will keep up their interest in reading and will have a great pastime for the summer. They will continue to learn through books and will enjoy every minute of it.

Below is a list of new books recently received at the Rockcastle County Public Library - for children:

Something Queer Is Going On (A mystery), by Elizabeth Levy. The mysterious kidnapping of Fletcher, the inert Bassett hound, leads Jill and Owen on a frantic search that ends up in front of a TV camera shooting a dog food commercial.

The Bad Bell of San Salvador, by Patricia Beatty. In the 1840's in California, a young Comanche refuses to accept the ways of his Mexican captors but wins their acceptance and admiration when he helps to cast the church bell and uses it to warn the villagers of approaching danger.

Me, Choley & Company: Apache Warriors, by Don Schellie. With the help of a thirteen-year-old Apache who becomes his best friend, a seventeen-year-old boy leads a small band of Apache children across fifty miles of Arizona desert.

Dorrie and the Fortune Teller, by Patricia Coombs. It seems doubtful that even Dorrie can save Witchville when a wizard forecloses a mortgage and a fortune teller behaves suspiciously.

Isabelle the Tech, by Constance Greene. When she takes over her brother's paper route, Isabelle finds an outlet for her excess energy and a way to make friends out of enemies.

Other new books are also listed below:

Thirty-Four East, by Alfred Coppel. The underlying theme - an unexpected superpower confrontation that hurls the campgrounds. Bro. Kenton Parkey, pastor of the Wildie Christian Church, was manager of this year's Junior and Senior Camps with Bro. Jim Wilkins, pastor of the Brodhead Christian Church, as assistant camp manager.

world virtually overnight to the brink of war - is as credible as it is chilling. And the fascinating cast - Americans, Israelis, Russians, and Arabs, among others - portrayed with consummate skill and convincing individuality, breathes life into every facet of this extraordinary adventure. You Are What You Write, by Huntington Hartford. What does a person's handwriting tell us about his personality? How does a trained graphologist analyze a writing sample? What signs indicate sickness rather than health? An aggressive character rather than a passive one? Creativity? Egotism? A generous spirit? These questions and many more are answered in this intriguing and authoritative introduction to the science of graphology.

Tuesday the Rabbi Saw Red, by Harry Kesselman. Rabbi David Small has had it with the constant bickering of congregational life, so when offered the chance to teach a course in Jewish studies at Windemere Christian College, he grabs it. He should have quit while he was ahead. His encounter with Windemere makes a temple board meeting look mild in comparison.

Don't forget! There will be a crocheting and knitting class in the Library during the month of July, beginning July 2nd at 1:00 to 2:30 p.m. and will continue every Tuesday through the month. Come and join us and learn a craft.

Dept. of Fish and Wildlife

By: John Wilson
Guest Writer

Rather than think of money paid for hunting and fishing licenses as an expense, think of it as an investment.

When you buy a license, you are investing in the future of the fish and wildlife resources of the state, since the money you pay is used to finance the programs of the Department of Fish and Wildlife. With the addition of federal funds (also supplied by the sportsman through an excise tax on hunting and fishing equipment) the Department is able to carry out research and management programs, lake and stream stocking, land acquisition, and the many various other activities designed to assure abundant fields, forests and waters for future generations to enjoy.

On a more immediate and personal level, the license fee is a small price to pay for the pleasure one can derive from its use. For just a little more than it costs to go to a movie, a license entitles its holder to an entire year's worth of outdoor adventure. A dinner for two at an expensive restaurant could easily cost $27.50, the price of "the works" a hunting license, fishing license, deer permit, trout stamp and federal waterfowl stamp, and a successful hunter and fisherman can enjoy many gourmet meals from the fish and game he harvests in the course of a year.

In Kentucky, a fishing license is required of all anglers between the ages of 16 and 65, but anyone under 65 who hunts must have a hunting license. (Hunters under 16 should purchase a junior license, issued only with the parents' permission.)

Those over 65 should carry a card, which can be obtained free of charge from any county court clerk's office, which states their age and place of residence. This over-65 exemption applies only to Kentucky residents - senior citizens from out-of-state must purchase a non-resident license.

Landowners, their spouses and dependent children can hunt on their own land without a license (this exemption also applies to deer permits, but not to federal waterfowl stamps). The same exemptions are granted tenants, their spouses and dependent children who actually live on the land which they rent.

In addition, resident servicemen on furlough of more than three days may hunt or fish without a license only in the county of their legal residence before entering the service, but they should carry proper identification and papers showing their furlough status.

For licensing purposes, a resident is defined as one who has established permanent domicile and lived in Kentucky for at least six months. Students enrolled fulltime in educational institutions and military personnel who are under permanent assignment in Kentucky can obtain resident licenses after six months in the state.

Licenses are available at County Court Clerks' offices and at many sporting goods, department, or other stores where hunting and fishing equipment is sold. In addition, many docks and fish camps also handle licenses.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Dear Sir:

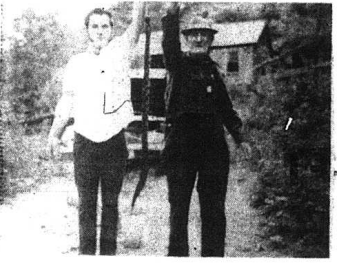

On the weekend of June 22 and 23 the local Saddle Club rode through our area at Poplar Gap. There were perhaps fifty or more horses with riders. On Saturday, June 22 they all stopped at a spring by the Poplar Gap Road and had a picnic lunch. The spring is an especially lovely place and I believe it is in the National Forest. The water is clear and cold, there is plenty of shade and it is always cool there even on the hottest days. I have a small farm on there and I plan to make it my permanent home in the near future. Since I have no water supply established yet on my farm, I get my drinking water from the spring. Many other people drink from this spring and occasionally a family stops there for a picnic.

The spring is on government land, but on three occasions in the past year I have pecked up litter left behind by people who have stopped. It has always been my impression that saddle clubs were especially ecology minded. I thought they were mindful of not polluting our environment. But our local saddle club is an exception. After the Saddle Club had their picnic on Saturday, June 22 they rode on and I went to the spring for the water. The mess they left behind was unbelievable. Now, horses do not leave messes.

Hoof prints, manure and corn cobs wash away or deteriorate, but the riders left plastic feed bags, aluminum soft drink cans, all sorts of plastic wrappers and bags, aluminum wrappers and cans, and a great variety of paper wrappers and bags. There was even a large plastic feed bag full of cans and wrappers partially crammed into the rocks just above the spring which would at the next high water wash right down into the Crooked Creek. This mess was not just around the spring but extended around, above and below the spring for nearly a quarter of a mile. You did not need to look for hoof prints to see which way the riders went. They left a trail of cigarette, candy and gum wrappers along the road.

I really cannot understand this because I know there must be many good citizens and local residents in the Saddle Club who are aware of the serious litter and garbage problem we have in Rockcastle County. How are we going to get around to clearing out the junk cars along the roadways when we don't even begin by cleaning up our own picnic litter? I am going to take several garbage bags to the spring and clean up the mess again and I

1. Start planning several weeks in advance of the canning season. Make a list of the kinds and amounts of canned foods you need and want in the months ahead. Instead of processing large amounts of one or two fruits and vegetables, can a variety of your family's favorite canned foods in smaller amounts.
2. Decide the sizes and types of jars you are going to need. Grocers seem to stock the ones preferred by their customers. Pints are best when canning for two or three persons. They are wonderful, too, for jams and relishes when a family is large.
3. Buy jars and extra fittings at a time when prices usually have ample supplies. Later in the season you may be disappointed when you are unable to locate your favorite size jar or the fittings you need. Check your steam-pressure and water-bath canners to be sure they are in perfect condition.
4. Examine your supply of jars, caps, lids, and rubber rings. Discard the unusable ones. Store the perfect ones with all other canning supplies.
5. Check your steam-pressure and water-bath canners to be sure they are in perfect condition.
6. It's more enjoyable if you plan to process a few jars every morning for a number of days rather than devote a whole day to canning. Watch the garden and the orchard and start canning as soon as the peaches, tomatoes, or beans, or other products reach the most perfect stage for table use. If you purchase produce at the market sort it for ripeness. Spread any underripe fruits and vegetables on trays or on a table to finish ripening. Immediately can and process all that is ripe.

7. There are no safe short-cuts in canning. Avoid all "trick" methods such as "blanket," "aspirin," "cold water," "vinegar-sugar-salt," "canning powder," or other unreliable methods. Follow up-to-date recipes.

8. Before preparing fruits and vegetables: (a) Read the recipe and check the manufacturer's instructions for filling and sealing the jar. Taking for granted that all home canning caps are alike and are used exactly the same way is a common cause of sealing failure. (b) Set out all equipment and clean, sterilized jars. Put everything not needed out of the way. (c) If canning fruit or tomatoes, pour a little water into the water-bath canner and set it over the heat, then add more water to fill canner about half full. (You may need to add more hot water after jars have been put in the canner.) Place cover on canner.

(d) Wash jars and rinse well. Treat caps and lids. Jars should be clean and hot when filled. They do not need to be sterilized if they are to be processed in a water-bath canner or a steam-pressure canner. However, if the jar is not sterilized, it should be sterilized (boiled for ten minutes). (e) If you are canning fruit measure sugar and water for sirup into pan and heat. If recipe calls for it, prepare vinegar-salt water. (f) Follow instructions for use of pressure-canner.

9. Wash, drain, and prepare only enough produce for a canner load.

10. Process by the recommended method and for the correct amount of time for the specific food being canned.

11. Set jars upright, far apart and out of draft to cool. 12. How to test for seal of two-lid cap. (a) Press center of lid. If lid is down and will not move, jar is sealed. (b) or tap center of lid with teaspoon. A clear ringing sound means a good seal. (c) or tilt jar slightly. If there is no leakage, remove band and store.

Remove band about 24 hours after canning.

13. Store the jars - without bands - in a dark cool dry area. 14. Home canned foods will keep for many years. Some foods hold color, flavor, texture and food value longer than others. But, whether the food is canned at home or in a factory, natural chemical changes are usually noticeable within a year. The cooler the storage space, the longer the canned food will retain its freshly cooked color and flavor.

WATER-BATH METHOD

Water-bath method is a way of processing foods at a temperature of 212°. This method is recommended for processing fruits, tomatoes, pickles, and relishes and other acid foods.

Enough heat is supplied by the boiling water to destroy the bacteria, enzymes, molds, and yeasts which cause spoilage in acid foods. Butters, conserves, jams and preserves should be processed at simmering (180°-185°F) for ten to twenty minutes in a water-bath canner.

STEAM-PRESSURE METHOD

Steam-pressure method is a way of processing foods under pressure at a temperature of 240° F. This method is recommended for processing beans, beets, corn, meats and all other low-acid foods. A steam-pressure canner, or cooker is the kitchen utensil which supplies enough heat to destroy the spores of bacteria which cause flat-sour, botulism and some other types of spoilage.

OPEN-KETTLE METHOD

Open-kettle method is recommended only for jellies. In the open-kettle method the food is cooked in an uncovered kettle and poured boiling hot into sterilized hot jars. Each jar is quickly sealed before another one is filled.

If you're really cool, you'll save cold cash!

By simply setting your thermostat carefully and thoughtfully, you can save up to 15%. And that doesn't mean making big changes. As little as two or three degrees will do it.

For instance, if you set your thermostat at 79 degrees instead of 78, you can save about 5% on the cost of operating your air conditioner. Save 10% at 80 degrees and 15% at 81. That's worth thinking about. . . . if you're really cool.

Rockcastle Recollections

As previously stated, prior to the coming of the railroads, Rockcastle transportation had been limited to wagons and teams, both oxen and horses and mules, with the oxen coming first. A good horse could be used for many purposes and was consequently more expensive to acquire than the ox, which was merely a draft animal. Another thing that made ox teams more practical for the pioneer was the fact that they were better rustlers and could live off the land as they travelled through it. Another advantage was that an ox team required no elaborate set of harness, but could be worked with a simple home-made yoke anybody could make.

In rare instances, the ox might be pressed into service as a beast of burden. Prior to the Civil War one of the Coffey families moving into Rockcastle County brought along a hired man by the name of Ketrus who put a saddle on a big brindlee steer and rode him all the way through from Tennessee to their new home near Wildie, Kentucky. And, of course, many old-timers in the county used to see eccentric Joe Cornell riding and driving a milk cow instead of a horse.

But without doubt the most primitive means of moving smaller items about the country was the packhorse. For several years after the opening up of the Kentucky frontier, there were no roads other than mere paths, and wheeled vehicles could not be brought over them. Almost every early pioneer moving into Kentucky depended on the packhorse to move in his family belongings, as well as some smaller members of the family. It was no unfamiliar sight to see a pack animal with a load topped off by two big baskets, one on each side, carrying the children not yet able to walk and keep up with the cavalcade. Pack saddle trees were made from tree forks of the proper shape and size and many in pioneer days as he traveled along was constantly searching the woods on each side of the trail for a forked tree, or limb, that would be suited for that purpose.

So many people were on the trails into the new Kentucky frontier that many enterprising men organized packhorse trains and were constantly engaged in the business of carrying loads for hire. It is a matter of record that they vigorously opposed the idea of building and improving the routes into regular roads over which wagons could be moved, claiming that their business would be destroyed thereby. When the roadways finally were widened sufficiently for wagons, little was done to improve them otherwise. Beyond routing off the tops of the stumps where big trees had been cut from the right-of-way so that the wagon wheels could roll over them with less discomfort to passengers and less damage to their loads. Loose rocks were generally thrown out of the road, but where it was crossed by immovable ledges the road partook more of the nature of a stairway. In some more remote sections of the county, such conditions had changed but little when I was growing up and I can well remember many a bumpy ride over them.

It was not long until the wagoners had justified the worst fears of the packhorse men and completely replaced them. In the beginning, some roads had been so difficult to traverse that it required a four-horse team to haul these ponderous big wagons with no more than a ton of merchandise on them, but they were gradually improved until wagoning became a big business, with many small stores to supply out of such centers as Louisville and Lexington. Until the coming of the railroads, several local men were engaged in hauling to and from such centers. They included John and Syd Meyers, Granville Allen, William Christopher and E. W. Hance, and the round trip to Louisville usually took about six days, although it was once completed in forty hours for a special consideration.

All the time the transportation of merchandise was receiving special consideration, the convenience of the travelling public was not overlooked. Saddle horses were very much in use, and a few among the wealthier families could afford private carriages. Along sizeable watercourses various craft, and especially steamboats, met the demand, but for inland travel the stage coach furnished about the only organized and dependable way to get from place to place with any regularity.

I have been unable to determine just when and where the first stagecoach route crossed Rockcastle. As early as 1860 there was a regular run, on alternate days, between Crab Orchard and Cumberland Gap. One of the drivers on this route was a brother to Thomas Marshall. An alternate route was run by Lovelace and Hardin, between Crab Orchard and Rockcastle springs during the summer season, connecting the favorite resorts which occupied these two places. In 1881, this same staging firm established a short stage line between London and Livingston, Livingston being then the terminus of the L&N Railroad.

The principal stage coach route to cross Rockcastle County ran along the Madison Branch of the Wilderness Road, between London and Milford, then the county seat of Madison County, before it was changed to London. We do not know the date of the opening of this route, but it would have been possible at a very early date, as we find a record of a stage being established on it as early as 1798, which indicates that it had been finished and was open to traffic before that date. This was known as The Old State Road and followed, for much of the way, the present route from where the Cruise Ferry road intersects with it to Berea, Kentucky. Several of the drivers lived in the Red Hill section and are well remembered by older citizens. The date of the discontinuance of this stage route is presently unknown, but must have been soon after railroad travel became common.

There seems to have been several stage coach stops, or taverns, in the Red Hill and Salt Petre Cave area, the only one now standing being the home occupied by Wally Phillips and family, formerly known as the Old Ballard Place. This tavern had several proprietors, the best known being the Ballard family. There is a tradition that it was once operated by a family with several descendants yet living in or around Berea, but this I have not been able to trace down. Wally Phillips also relates that, according to what his mother used to tell him, it was occupied and run as a tavern by Devil Bill Adams before 1840. It will take further research to establish the actual history of this old place from first to last; but regardless of its occupancy, it seems certain that this is the last early stage stop in Rockcastle County, and one of the last in the state, yet remaining in its original condition.

Transportation of livestock to distant markets was carried on even before the advent of the railroads and trucks. From earliest times, Kentucky produced a surplus of livestock, with no good market this side the seacoast - in our case, Savannah, Georgia, because it was the nearest to us. In the beginning the cattle, mules and horses going to market were driven along the road on foot, thus furnishing their own transportation. A little later, great numbers of sheep and hogs - and even geese, ducks and turkeys - were driven through. Rockcastle County being on the direct line of travel between the Bluegrass and the southern markets, practically all the surplus stock from the rich interior of Kentucky came this way, greatly overshadowing our local product, much of which was purchased en route and added to their bigger droves and herds.

Favorite overnight and rest stops on the Madison branch of Wilderness Road within the confines of Rockcastle County were Ballard's Tavern and Cruise Ferry, where big stock pens were provided into which the animals could be turned and fed and held until ready to continue their journey. The Rockcastle taverns did a thriving business, especially Cruise Ferry, where during high water the proprietor could collect for ferrying the stock across Rockcastle River, in addition to overnight and feeding charges.

But while the stage coaches served the travelling public, individual families who could not afford a carriage, (which included most of the people in this county) had shorter distances to cover, depended largely on the ever-present farm wagon for mass transportation. Most of us past middle age can remember when a farmer took his family to town, to church or to the annual Broodhead Fair in his wagon. The women and girls and older people would be seated in kitchen chairs placed on the bottom of the wagonbed, while younger folks were happy to ride on loose hay.

County Agent's Notes

By: H. Lee Durham
Agricultural Extension Agent
for Rockcastle County

Fertilizer Improved Pastures For Top Production in 1975:

The number of beef cows continues to increase in Kentucky.

The total milk production has increased. With improved prices for beef and milk, farmers in this county will continue to shoot for higher livestock production. More and better pasture, hay, and silage will be needed to get the job done.

One sure way to keep pastures and hay crops in top production is to topdress with lime and fertilizer this fall.

Use the following checklist to help set up a fall fertilizer program:

(1) Pull soil samples now to determine lime, phosphate, and potash needs. Take soil samples on established stands to a depth of four inches in at least ten to twenty locations in each field. Now is the time to get your samples tested.

(2) Check your past field records to see if your soil test levels are getting lower, staying the same, or increasing. If fertility levels have lowered increase fertility rates before stands start thinning.

(3) Topdress the required amounts of lime, phosphate and potash this fall. If your stand consists of 25 to 40 percent clover or alfalfa, don't use nitrogen. However, if it is mostly grass and you do not plan to renovate, topdress with up to 80 pounds per acre of actual nitrogen in addition to lime, phosphate and potash as soon as possible. If you plan to renovate grass stands, reduce topdressed nitrogen to 25 to 50 pounds so that grass will not overly compete with clover seedlings next spring. In this case, be sure to nub-grass this fall and winter.

(4) If you plan to allow a legume grass stand to go to seed production or to re-seeding, or if you plan to fertilize alfalfa and grass, be sure to use a fertilizer containing enough boron to provide two pounds actual boron per acre.

Work on Fruits, Vegetables and Flowers to be shown by UK 7/26
You can check firsthand on many different experiments with fruits, vegetables, and flowers conducted by UK College of Agriculture by attending UK's Horticulture Field Day on Friday, July 26th.

The field day is intended to be of interest to home gardeners, plant enthusiasts, and commercial fruit and vegetable growers, according to C. E. Roberts, UK extension horticulturist.

The field day will be divided into two sessions. The morning session will begin at 8:30 a.m. and will take place at UK's South Farm, located south of Lexington, one and one-half miles from New Circle Road on U.S. 27. The afternoon session will take place in Lexington and will consist of a tour of the Landscape Garden Center on Cooper Drive and the UK greenhouses. The afternoon tour will begin at 2 p.m.

The Landscape Garden Center and the greenhouses will be open to the public for informal tours on Saturday and Sunday, July 27th and 28th.

A demonstration of a mechanical cucumber harvester will be a highlight of the morning session of the field day July 28th at the South Farm. Harvesting with a machine greatly reduces the amount of hand labor involved in raising cucumbers for pickles, and could make it possible to greatly expand cucumber production in Kentucky. There will also be demonstrations on trickle watering and the mechanical laying of plastic.

Also at the South Farm, there will be a tour of research plots on peach breeding, peach borer resistance, apple and insect control, pepper disease and insect control, pepper breeding and pepper variety evaluation. Other plots will show watermelons, squash, and pumpkin breeding; cucumber and cantaloupe breeding; dwarf vs. vine watermelons; weed control in vegetables; and minimum tillage for vegetables.

Different varieties of grapes, the peach orchard, blackberries and nut trees can also be seen by visitors to the South Farm.

In the afternoon tour of the Landscape Garden Center in Lexington, you can see the All-American Tests of Annual flowers. You can also see roses, flowers for drying hanging baskets, woody ornamental plants, ground covers, perennial flowers, vegetable gardens, and the All-American Tests for vegetables.

There will be displays at the Landscape Garden Center on plant propagation, control of insects and diseases which plague plants, and chemicals which produce flavor in fruits.

On the greenhouse tour, you can see plants being used in growth regulator studies, foliage plants and orchids, tissue culture, and terrariums. Researchers and Extension Specialists from the UK Department of Horticulture will be on hand at both field day sites to answer questions and discuss the studies which are being conducted on the plants.

State Jobs for College Professors - In response to a question from Charles D. Wickliffe, attorney for the Executive Department for Finance and Administration, Attorney General Ed W. Hancock said that college professors may seek other employment with the state. The director of purchases and the Department of Personnel may employ a professor under a personal service contract to perform professional technical or artistic services if there is no practical conflict between the professor's regular employment and the performing of the contract, Hancock said.

or straw with which the bed was covered. The combination of springless farm wagon, stiff, unyielding wooden chairs, and the average rocky road, made these trips anything but comfortable - but we were riding, weren't we? Anyway, none of our friends had anything better, so we were content, and looked hopefully toward the day when things would get better on the farm and we might even own a buggy or surrey.

And then came the big change! Then came the automobile, the first big improvement since the railroads. I have asked Logan Bryant to write of this phase in transportation, for the very good reason that he and his two brothers, Oscar and Emmett introduced the automobile to the people of Rockcastle County and made it possible for many of them to own one. It is my hope that Logan will forget his usual modesty and really tell us how it all came about and the part Bryant Brothers played in it.
