town requested an opinion regarding a proposal by a private individual, the owner and manager of a local radio station, that he provide dispatch service to the law enforcement units of Jamestown, Russell Springs and Russell County. The Attorney General's Office replied that the proposal was legal because of the general emphasis on such a dispatch service for the public safety of the citizens of Russell County.

To the Citizens of Livingston

Citizens of Livingston, it's time to take action! It's time to become involved! Something has to be done before it's too late. We need your help! As most of you know, one or two people can't move a mountain. It takes a number of concerned and willing citizens to help in a common cause. As you well know, the revenue of our town depends mostly on Police Court fines. Since we have no law, we have very little money coming in. Now, here is the main problem: With limited income, only a certain number of bills can be paid. If we don't do something now, we may possibly lose our street lights and then where would we be? Would you like safe walking down the streets of our town and doing it in total darkness? I know I would not. We believe that now is the time for action before this becomes a reality, instead of waiting for this to happen and then complaining about it. We all have a bad habit of passing the buck to someone else. Well, as of now, the buck stops here. We are headed in the wrong direction; and believe me, NOW is the time to change course. We hope that you believe as strongly as we do about this subject and a few others, mainly law enforcement. We will be around to talk to most of you about these matters and we will greatly appreciate your help and understanding. These ideas will be of great help and concern to all of you.

Sincerely,
Committee of Concerned Citizens for Better Law Enforcement (A project of the Livingston Woman's Club)

"Drunk In A Public Place" Defined - Paul M. Baker, prosecuting attorney for the city of Jeffersonville, asked for an interpretation of the words "Other public places" as it appears in Kentucky laws concerning drunkenness. His specific question refers to a case in which an intoxicated man was arrested in a parked automobile in a parking lot of an establishment which was closed. The Attorney General's Office found no Kentucky precedent which would be dispositive of the exact question, but a case in New York would be quite applicable. In a similar case, the New York Court of Appeals ruled that an intoxicated person found in a restaurant after closing hours was indeed in a public place. The Attorney General's Office concludes that a service station and the parking lot of a restaurant are public places and that a drunk person sitting behind the wheel of a parked motor vehicle in such a place is in violation of the law.

Inflation hasn't changed the price of ashes.

But it has changed the price of your home. For example, if you bought a $20,000 home in 1968 - today it's worth about $27,000. Don't let it be left with a costly pile of ashes. See me about a State Farm Homeowners Policy that will cover your home for all it's worth and keep it that way with automatic Inflation Coverage.

Many of the state's top-notch bass fishermen will agree that fall is one of the most productive seasons of the year for harvesting fine strings of black bass.

Generally the weather is far more stable than during the spring when heavy rains can keep the lake elevations jumping up and down like a yo-yo and when muddy waters can hamper most anglers' efforts.

But during the fall it is not uncommon for a fisherman to head to one of Kentucky's major lakes of 1,000 acres or larger and find ideal water conditions and during the course of a week-end, he may never see another fisherman or even another boat.

With the unseasonal early frosts and cool weather, the surface temperatures of these lakes are fast getting to the ideal water temperatures in the mid 60's.

It is during this period that black bass move in closer to the shoreline and go on a heavy feeding frenzy before the cold bleak winter months.

THE ROCKETS JAYVEE TEAM has had an extremely successful season, ending up with a 4-1 record. Their final game was Tuesday night at London when they defeated the London team 19 to 6. Their only loss had come at the hands of London earlier in the season when they were defeated 16-8. Members of the squad are, front row, from left: Jack Farthing, David Penol, Rick Anderkin, David Owens, Larry Smith, David Woodall. Second row, from left: Jackie McHargue, Billy Hackworth, Mike Polly, Mark Holbrook, Mitch Raines, Dusty Carlotta and Earl Lewis Hammons. Back row, from left: Danny Hunt, Robert Owens, Walter Browning, Brian Stokes and Todd Fields.

When the bass come into these shallow areas, they make themselves more available to the average fisherman. And the bass will feed over a longer period of time during the fall, which also enables a fisherman to harvest more fish.

Fall fishing, however, is like any other season in that the fisherman must find out what banks the bass are on and what type of lure they will strike. Usually this is done by casting a given type of bank for thirty minutes to an hour with various types of lures using different types of retrieving techniques.

After a while, change the type of banks and lures until the right combination of bank, lure and retrieve has been established.

Some of the other benefits of fall fishing may be when jumps occur and both white bass and black bass are found gorging themselves on schools of shad.

When these fish are feeding on the surfacing shad, it is not too difficult to fill a stringer or live box.

Fall fishing has many other exciting moments and one of these occurs in the headwaters of the large tributaries when small shad congregate in the warmer water of the "run-ins." By trolling small spinners and lures through the upper sections of the tributary, the fishermen will discover that large white bass also frequent these areas and may be harvested by trolling or casting.

Still, there are other hot-spots to fish in the fall, such as below the dams of those impoundments where trout have been stocked by the Dept. of Fish and Wildlife Resources. During the periods of low flow, many large rainbows are taken. Possibly the rainbow hot-spot of the state will be below the dam at Lake Cumberland. This tailwater affords outstanding fishing opportunities for more than thirty miles, from the dam to below Burkesville.

Still other tailwaters such as Kentucky and Barkley will offer sauger, crappie and white bass fishing right up into the winter months.

If you have not tried late season fishing, then this year may be just the time to discover for yourself just how wonderful fall fishing can be for those who give it a try.

REDISCOVER KENTUCKY

During this season of goblins, witches and warlocks, there is much to learn about ghosts, spirits and "haunts" and not all of it is something to laugh about.

One Eastern Kentucky family experienced moving objects a few years ago in a Western Kentucky home lived an attractive woman, with flowing hair and gown, but she was nothing but a willow, wispy ghost. A Floyd Countian remembers a disappearing tree. A Morgan County woman still is reluctant to discuss the galloping horse that made nightly runs to a tree that figured in a Civil War incident. She vows she heard the horse, but never saw it, even though she was at her window when it raced by.

Yes, this is the time of fodder shocks and jack-o'-lanterns a time when most people find someone to take along when they must go about after dark.

What family is there who does not recall dark nights when everyone sat around listening to ghost stories. Often, the subject was not intentional but would get started with someone commenting, "That reminds me of an experience I had about 20 years ago. It was a dark night and a slow rain had started to fall. I had been across the hill to call on a sick neighbor and was on my way home when I had to pass this woods near a cemetery. . . . In Lee County's Devil's Creek area, people still talk about the Evesole ghost. A man had been hanged, and when a haunt began frequenting the hanging spot, it was taken to mean the man was innocent and his spirit was not at ease. However, as it turned out, this ghost was aided and abetted by a man named Evesole, who took advantage of the stories by using a sheet on a wire to terrify the neighborhood.

Day Care/Child Care Centers Now In Operation

(CONT. FROM FRONT) The program. The other children are paying either the maximum fee of $30 per month, then a child who cannot pay down to a very small amount. In fact, Gary Cromer, Director of the program locally, said that for each child paying the maximum fee of $30 per month, then a child who cannot pay his way at all can be serviced by the program. The fee scale, works out to the fact that there must be a $15 payment, in some form for each child. For example, if a paying child's fee is $27.50 per month according to the fee scale, then for only $2.50 per month another child can be enrolled in the Centers.

A typical day at the Centers begin when the first husband of children arrive around 8:10 a.m. When all the children enrolled in that Center are present, then a hot breakfast is served and then the children brush their teeth. From 9:30 to 10:15, a variety of activities are available in all areas to the children who take their choice as to what activity they wish to participate in. Then a morning snack is served, after which, there is a period of outdoor play or exploring walks. A hot lunch is served at noon and the children once again brush their teeth and enjoy a quiet time which can consist of singing, reading books, story telling, filmstrips or movies. The children then take an hour and fifteen-minute nap on their personal cots after which an afternoon snack is served. By this time, it is time for the buses to begin taking children home and while this is being done, weather permitting, the other children play outdoors until the buses are ready to take them all home. This usually is around 4 p.m.

The Centers are each set up on four educational concepts which includes sensory, large muscle, small muscle and creative expression. In the sensory area, children are taught to put together simple puzzles, flashcards are used and letters of the alphabet are taught by rote and by touch. The small muscle area includes small toys teaching coordination and color; the large muscle area stresses activity on the larger toys such as tricycles and scooters, and the creative expression gives children a chance to express themselves with water colors. And, as has been stated before, children may move from one area to another at their will.

The program was first set up in the county three years ago and had a 100% funded budget of approximately $400,000. At that time, the emphasis was on developing the children of parents on welfare. However, the interest for the program set up this way did not seem to be here so the program was changed this year to primarily a Day Care/Child Care concept whereby any child, ages 3 to 5, are eligible with 30 slots set aside for non-paying children.

Gary Cromer, Director, said that it seemed that there was still a lack of interest on the part of the county and he believed this might be due to the fact that most people thought the program still had its emphasis on children of welfare parents. While this is an important aspect of the program, Mr. Cromer emphasized that any child, 3 to 5, could be accommodated in this program plus children could be enrolled on a day-by-day basis whereby mothers make use of the Center for one day or so a week at a charge of $4 per day.

Mr. Cromer also said that if there were sufficient demand (8 or 10 children), a Center could be set up for children of parents who must be on their jobs very early in the mornings. He said that this type of Center could also be operated for twelve months a year rather than the ten-month program the Centers are now set up on.

Besides the local funding, the program must show a total of $26,000 in In-Kind Contributions. This is not actual money contributed, but rather such things as the contribution of time by volunteer workers or the donation of toys, food or clothes to the Centers.

Each Center is staffed with a Senior Teacher, Junior Teacher, Aide, Bus Driver, Cook and Family Worker. The Family Worker's responsibility is to get out in the community around each Center and make people aware of the Center's purpose and to work with welfare families involved in the program.

Under the program, each child enrolled also receives a free physical examination by the local health department and should any physical defects be picked up at this time, arrangements are made for the child to receive specialized services at other free clinics located nearby. Family workers in the clinics provide transportation for these services and transport the children there themselves. Each child is also issued a free dental card and has periodic examinations by dentists.

The Centers operate their kitchen with funds set up in the budget for buying food and with commodities received from the government.

The Centers are operated locally under the auspices of the Rockcastle County Economic Opportunity Council. This Council is made up of Roy Brown, Ed Hunt, Mrs. Luanne Mullins, James W. Lambert, Twelve children are enrolled at the Brindle Ridge Center where Mrs. Ona Coffey is the Senior Teacher. The Brindle Ridge Center was broken into Sunday night and a selection of groceries and meats were taken besides some silverware and a pressure cooker. Mrs. Wilene McCure, Bus Driver and Mrs. Rissie Anderson, Volunteer Worker, help the children participating in the sensory area. Junior Teacher is Mrs. Beatrice Reese; Mrs. Loretta Smith is Aide; Cook is Thelma Jordan and the Family Workers are Mrs. Pat Stokes and Mrs. Myrtle Smith. Transportation is provided each way for each child daily.

Brindle Ridge is situated perfectly to entice any child out of doors to romp in the fallen leaves; and in the above photo, Mrs. Loretta Smith and some of the children take full advantage of it.

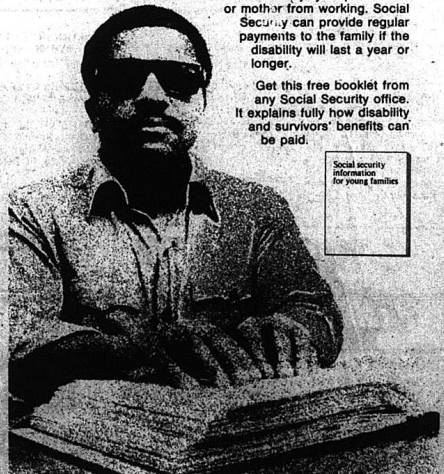

Judge Hubert Thacker, Ed Bowder, Jr. This Council is responsible for hiring the Director and for overseeing decisions concerning the program's guidelines. For further information, call 256-4614.

Applications to be Taken For New Grant Program

The Kentucky Department for Human Resources, Bureau for Social Insurance, will begin taking applications October 16th for the new Individual and Family Grant Program which is designed to provide financial assistance to victims of the April tornadoes.

To be eligible for a grant, tornado victims in Rockcastle County must demonstrate that despite the assistance received or applied for under provisions of other available Federal and State Programs, there remain necessary expenses or serious needs which have not been met.

In addition, identification documents, Social Security numbers, copies of insurance settlements and all prior disaster related applications, loans, and grants must be furnished when applying.

Individuals and families who think they may be eligible for a grant under this program should contact the local Bureau for Social Insurance Office, Jct. 25 at 150 in Mt. Vernon. The telephone number is 256-2481.

Applications will be accepted from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday. Deadline for making application is December 15.

Determination of eligibility will not be made locally nor by BRINDLE RIDGE CENTER BROKEN INTO Gary Cromer, Director of the Day Care/Child Care Program, reported Monday that the center at Brindle Ridge had been broken into sometime between Saturday night and Monday morning.

Mr. Cromer said thieves gained entry by prying off the door frame. The thieves were highly selective, taking an assortment of groceries and meats and a pressure cooker.

No arrests have been made in connection with the theft. ***

COUNTY RECEIVES MORE MANPOWER MONEY

County Judge Hubert Thacker was notified Saturday that an increase of $38,886 had been approved for Rockcastle County under the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA).

This money is in addition to a $15,849 increase received in September and also to the $37,308 originally approved for the 1975 fiscal year.

Judge Thacker said Tuesday that the monies from the last two allocations had not been received and would not be until a revised Title II program application had been submitted for approval. Of course, no hiring under the manpower program which these monies are set up for can be done until the actual funds are received.

the Bureau for Social Insurance, but will be made by a Review Board composed of representatives from the Dept. of Military Affairs, Div. of Disaster and Emergency services, which is administering the program; the Dept. of Finance and Administration; and the Dept. for Human Resources, Office of the Council.

Individuals and families must make their application in the county where they lived at the time the tornado struck. After applications are filed, they will be sent to Frankfort so any questions an applicant may have after filing his application should be directed to the following number: 1-800-372-2973.

TECHNICALLY CAUSES DISMISSAL OF RESALE

Charges of Possession of Alcoholic Beverages for Purpose of Resale were dismissed recently against Mrs. Rosella Hastly of Mt. Vernon by Judge Hubert Thacker.

The dismissal followed a Friday night raid at the residence of Mrs. Hastly when approximately two cases of beer were found by State Police. Mrs. Hastly was brought before County Judge Pro Tem Clyde Barnett where she pleaded guilty and paid a $100 and cost fine.

Mrs. Hastly then engaged a local attorney who, upon question of Mr. Barnett, found that he (Mr. Barnett) had not read the affidavit, as required by law, before issuing the search warrant. On this technicality, Judge Thacker reversed the decision, dismissed the charge and reimbursed Mrs. Hastly her fine.

Tuesday, Sheriff Manuel Shepherd and State Trooper Danny Coleman returned the beer, which had been confiscated earlier to Mrs. Hastly.

HALLOWEEN COUNTRY MUSIC PROGRAM...

The Livingston Lions Club is sponsoring a Halloween Country Music Program on Friday night, October 25, starting at 7 p.m. at the Livingston School Gym.

The Country and Gospel music will be provided by both local and out of county talent. The Lions Club is making a strong effort to provide a good interesting program for the enjoyment of everyone.

The admission price will be 50 cents for students and $1.00 for adults. All proceeds will go to the Rockcastle Athletic Boosters Club to help pay for lighting the football field at the County High School.

Everyone is invited to come and enjoy the evening and support the Lions Club and the Boosters. Concessions will be served.

City Council Hears Proposal For 201 Planning Project Survey

The Mt. Vernon City Council, at their regular monthly meeting Monday night, heard a proposal by the Schimpeler-Corrado Associates, Engineering and Planning Consultants to furnish the city with a 201 Planning Project - a study necessary for the city to obtain any federal funds for expansion or renovation of the city's water and sewer system.

Dr. Charles Schimpeler outlined for the Council the areas which a 201 survey would encompass and the benefits which the city would derive from such a study toward their planning of water and sewer expansion and renovation and toward the most efficient use of land surrounding the City.

Dr. Schimpeler told the Council that monies would be available beginning in the early part of 1975 and that it would be to the City's benefit to have a 201 planning project underway so that they (the City) might be ready to take advantage of monies available.

City Attorney Carl Clutz reminded the Council that such a study was needed badly since the Corp of Engineers had already decided that the City's present sewage plant was badly overloaded and that, in the Corp's estimation, a water disposal plant at Renfro Valley was also necessary to handle the effluence from the present water plant. Attorney Clutz told the Council that they really had no choice as to having a 201 planning project made since they (the Council) have no alternative as to coming up with funds from somewhere to construct the water disposal plant and expand the present sewage plant. With a 201 planning project approved, the cost of these projects would then (if approved) be paid with a 76% grant and 25% local money. Whereas, with no federal monies, the entire cost would have to be borne locally.

The cost of the 201 planning project would be approximately $30,000. But, of this amount, 75% would be paid by a federal grant and 25% or approximately $7,500 paid locally.

The Council took no immediate action on hiring a planning firm at Monday night's meeting, preferring instead to think over the proposal of this firm and two others which have also presented proposals and taking action at a later meeting.

In other action, the Council heard a committee report on a request by Mrs. Ruth Harper that the street in front of her house be widened, ditched and blacktopped. Councilman Dennis Halcomb told the Council that the Street Committee had not actually visited the location but that he, along with other members of the committee, would visit the street before the next meeting and make a more thorough report at that time.

The Council also approved the only bid received for the Utilities franchise - that of Buddy Cox, a member of the Board of Directors of Central Ambulance Service, was before the Council requesting that an area be furnished, somewhere in City Hall, where the ambulance drivers could stay while on duty, thereby cutting out the expenses of rent and utilities which the service now pays where it is located.

Most of the Councilmen were in agreement that they did not want the service to take a portion of the office area of City Hall for this purpose, but might be willing to allocate a portion of the area where the fire trucks stay for this purpose. It was finally agreed that no action would be taken on the matter until Mr. Cox had a chance to come up with a workable plan with the Fire Department for partial use of their area.

The Council also heard an offer from Constable Virgil Alcorn to sell them his 1973 Ford Brougham. Mr. Alcorn told the Council that the car had a 400 engine, 21,000 miles, and

Laurel County Man Dies In Bulldozer Accident

A 22-year-old employee of a Bell County Coal Company was killed instantly, apparently Tuesday night or early Tuesday morning at a coal strip mining operation on Trace Branch near Laurel in Rockcastle County. Daniel McQueen, a resident of Laurel County, and a bulldozer operator on the night shift, was found by day-shift employees when they came to work Tuesday. The dozer went over a steep, rocky incline, apparently throwing Mr. McQueen off and had run over the body which was found under the bulldozer. The Tri-City Rescue Squad was called in at about 8 a.m. Tuesday morning to aid in recovering the body from beneath the dozer.

Local Share Of National Debt Is $16,335,000

How much of the money that the Federal government collects annually from residents of Rockcastle County, via the tax route, is needed to meet the interest charges on the national debt?

How much will the local population be forking up during the current year, through their income taxes and through excise and other taxes, as its share of these interest charges?

The answer is - approximately $990,000. That is their share of the carrying costs alone. It will not reduce by a particle the debt itself, which has not reached the awesome total of a half trillion dollars.

For the nation as a whole, the present cost of carrying this debt is nearly $30 billion a year, the latest figures show.

Related to the average family in Rockcastle County, it means that some $250 of the amount being collected from them annually by the government is to pay the interest on the debt.

The debt ceiling has been raised frequently in recent years. (Cont. to 14)

DAY CARE/CHILD CARE CENTERS NOW IN OPERATION

Three Day Care/Child Care Centers are now in operation in Rockcastle County and forty-two children are enrolled at the three Centers.

The program is set up and funded by the Appalachian Regional Commission (ARC), the Kentucky Youth Branch Center (KYBC) and Title IV-A and has a 1974-75 operational budget of $161,200. Of this amount, $6,900 has to be funded locally and to date, approximately $600 has been raised from local sources.

The purpose of the Day Care/Child Care Centers is (1) to provide children from the ages of 3-5 of working mothers with a safe, learning and enjoyable environment and (2) to help children of parents on welfare to be more able to compete with children from better economical backgrounds in school and social activities.

Of the forty-two children now enrolled in the three Centers, approximately thirty are from parents who are unable to pay for this service, but who qualify under the guidelines of

The Broadhead Center is the smallest in area of the three Centers; however, they have the second largest enrollment of nineteen children. Mrs. Jewell Parsons is the Staff Teacher there; Mrs. Joyce Cash, Junior Teacher; Kathy Bradley, Aide; Verna Burke, Cook; John Zupanec, Bus Driver, and Family Worker, and Mrs. Virginia Hensel, Family Worker. Mrs. Parsons comes to her job well-qualified since she spent 38 and 3/10 years teaching in the county school system.

JOHN NICHOLS'

Frankfort Watchline

Unless there's an abrupt turnaround, we expect that by the time you're reading this, 38-year-old Greenup House Democrat Terry McBrayer will already have announced his intention to stay on the sidelines during next year's gubernatorial race.

It's a tragic shame, too, because it's a classic case of a man's health problems slowing his progress in the prime of a political career.

It comes after McBrayer, both in his behalf and in the interests of whatever Democrat happened to be in need of his help at the time, had made nearly a hundred campaign speeches in recent months.

He had notched about twenty commencement addresses at high schools, colleges and universities across the Commonwealth. He took in barbecues, fish fries, garden parties. You name it, Terry McBrayer was there.

And McBrayer had built himself into one of the more well-recognized criminal lawyers in the state. Land developing was something else for which he has distinguished himself.

He bears a distinguished legislative background — eight years in the Kentucky House, a body for which he'll not run again next year. In 1968 he was House Speaker Pro Tem ... and the next session McBrayer was chosen majority floor leader.

Quite a record for a man just thirty-eight years old. He wanted to make a run at the speaker's job two years ago but something ... perhaps his friendship with Julian Carroll ... had gotten him a little bit crossways with Wendell Ford and McBrayer's political good sense steered that charge.

We at the Watchline have said several times that McBrayer is the man to beat for the job of Lt. Gov. We regret that he's going to have to put his political plans in a holding pattern for a time.

It seems as though fate has as much to do with blundering our lives for us as we do. Sometimes, though, we make our own fate. Few could have withstood McBrayer's hectic campaigning pace over recent months ... and he has at least a background of high blood pressure.

Campaigning? Yes, campaigning for Wendell Ford, of all things. Ford during the 1974 legislative session recognized McBrayer's value when the young lawmaker was asked to be a peacemaker between the governor and the "mountain boys" over that coal-tax sharing fuss. Meantime, it will behoove McBrayer to have some spot in state government during the next five years so that his name will remain well-known.

It's expected that he'll play some role under Julian Carroll, assisting everything else fans into place for the Democrats in Frankfort.

It means that Wendell Ford must leave the governor's office in January ... and that means that Julian Carroll must then fend off whatever political problems the Republicans have in mind for him next year.

Ooops. We forgot something. There may be some other Democrats who aren't all sure that Carroll is the fellow they'd like to see in the governor's office through 1979.

Who knows what former party chairman J. R. Milles' strengths will be? Will Wendell Ford still refer to support Carroll after Carroll's energetic efforts this year in Ford's behalf? And what are Jefferson County Judge Todd Hollenbach's plans? They seem to change with the weather.

We had Hollenbach pegged first as a solid entry in the governor's race for '75...then word around the big city was that he'd rather be Lt. Gov. ... then we heard his plans were changing again. But we'd guess that McBrayer's misfortune puts Hollenbach in the same frame of mind as ... oh, we'd guess about a dozen or so other Democrats who'd like a shot at the second spot on the ticket.

There's the already-announced state senator from Versailles, Tom Ward. There's Secretary of State Thelma Stovall. There's Ed Hancock, the attorney general. There's Parks Commissioner Ewart Johnson. There's Fayette County Judge Bob Stephens.

There are so many. Why, even one of our old pals whom we'd thought had lost interest, Lexington House Member Bill Kenton, is perking up again.

You see, if there was one among them who stood to have Carroll's blessing as a sort of unofficial running mate, it was McBrayer. And they all knew it.

Now, it could be wide open. All kinds of considerations come into play, not the least of which is geographic ... just where the candidate hails from and how that plays off against Carroll's deep Western Kentucky background.

So, though we're likely to be bedeviled for rushing things by both sides in the current Senate race, we're calling the 1975 governor - lt. gov. picture a whole new ballgame ... complete with some new rules changes.

Energy Conservation Tip

Stop That Leak - Believe it or not, a leak of about one drop of water per second adds up to about 650 gallons of water a year, and when it is a hot water faucet, you're wasting both water and gas. Replacing a bad washer promptly not only saves you money, but stops that steady drip, drip, drip....

Members of the Tri-City Rescue Squad have been quite busy recently. Early Sunday morning they were called out by the family, when J. L. McHargue, a patient at the Rockcastle County Hospital, wandered away about 4 a.m. Mr. McHargue was found about 10:15 a.m. at the old stone quarry at Burr. Members of the Squad shown above are, top row, from left: Paul Hansel, Captain; Jackie Cash, Assistant Captain; Gary Hansel, Secretary and Treasurer, and Sheriff Manuel Shepherd. Middle row: Wendell Reamer, Chaplain and Eddie Moore. First row, from left: Boyd Mullins, Wayne McNew, Alonzo Vanwinkle and Leon Frith.

SAFETY HINTS FOR HAPPY HALLOWEEN HAUNTING...

Tips To Make Costumes Safer As Well As Spooky - 1. Witch, or whatever, be sure the costume is flame resistant or, at least, flame resistant or, at least, flame retardant. If purchased, check to see if the garment-or box is so labeled.

2. Home-sewn costumes can be temporarily flameproofed at home by soaking in a special solution and letting them drip dry. Though almost all clothing fabrics will burn to some extent, avoid gauzy or synthetic materials that may flame rapidly.

3. Hemlines should be several inches off the ground. Children can trip in long garments. Avoid costumes with flowing sleeves, voluminous skirts, long scarves or sashes. Anything that can catch on bushes, or burn near flames, is potentially dangerous.

4. Light, brightly colored costumes, easily seen at dusk or dark, are best. If costume is dark, trim with fluorescent or reflective tape that is highly visible to drivers.

5. Children should carry a white shopping bag to collect their "treats." This adds to their visibility and leaves their arms free. Make sure that "pirates" leave swords or sharp-pointed objects at home.

6. Masks or hoods can slip and obscure a child's vision. Be sure mask is secure and that the holes correspond to the child's eyes. A safer alternative, one which children find fun, is to use cosmetics. Allow older children to make up their own faces to suit their costumes. For easier removal of rouge, lipstick, eye shadows, have them first apply a thin layer of cold cream.

7. Never permit children to carry pumpkins with lighted candles. Give them flashlights and check to see that batteries are fresh.

Tips For Safer "Trick Or Treating" - 1. A parent should always accompany young children on their rounds. If a group is going out together, a responsible adult should follow to let people know that the youngsters are chaperoned.

2. The "cranks," people, who dislike children, are usually well known to the community. Children should be told to stay away from these particular homes.

3. Review pedestrian safety rules before they leave home. Dusk, the time when most children are out, is particularly hazardous. Remind them: cross only at corners; wait on the curb for the green light; look both ways before crossing; walk on sidewalks, not roads.

4. Urge children to stay in their own neighborhood where they are known. Tell them to avoid homes that are dark or dimly lit; people who welcome Halloweeners generally leave lights on for them.

5. Never put candle-lit pumpkins outside where they can be knocked over accidentally. If neighbors have placed such jack-o-lanterns outside in the past, suggest they move them to a safer spot indoors. Never use candles in paper-mache or plastic pumpkins or other such home decorations.

6. Set a time limit for trick or treating. About one hour is sufficient for ages up to 13. Older children also should be told when to be home. Let them know special refreshments await them when they do get home.

7. Emphasize to the children that they are not to eat any of the goodies they collect until they get home. Examine carefully everything they receive; discard anything un-packaged or with wrappings which seem to have been undone or are torn. Wash and cut fruit into small pieces. Unwrap packaged candies to check each piece.

Solution For Temporarily Flameproofing Materials - Mix three ounces of boric acid; seven ounces of borax; and two quarts of water. Saturate fabric or material and allow to drip dry. The material will resist fire until washed or wet by rain.

Remind Your Children - Mischvous or harmful pranks are potentially dangerous and destruction of private or public property is punishable.

RECEIVES SCHOLARSHIP - Casey Carroll is one of fourteen freshmen awarded math scholarships at Cumberland College. The scholarships are effective for the duration of Casey's studies as a math major and as long as an acceptable grade point average is maintained. Casey is pictured with Dr. Joe Early, head of the Math Department at Cumberland. Casey is the son of Mrs. Agnes P. Carroll of Mt. Vernon.

County Agent's Notes

WHAT TO DO IN OCTOBER

There is something in autumn that sets our zesty hook asir, something that is all but strictly American - the wonderful, varied colors of October foliage. The deep purple of the starry-leaved sweet gums, burnished gold and scarlet of maples, russet of oaks, bright yellow of hickories, and various other tints and hues of other trees - all attest to the glory of the American autumn.

The delightful, brilliant fall colors seen here in this country are the result of the swift transition from summer heat to autumn chill. The nature of the climate and chemical action within the trees as they shift from activity to dormancy - and not Jack Frost - provide all this seasonal beauty.

Actually, the sugar-related chemicals that cause autumn's brilliance are present in leaves before fall, but so much chlorophyll is also on hand that the leaves look green to us. According to L. P. Stoltz, horticulturist with the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture, bright, clear days of fall cause leaves to produce large amounts of sugar, but the cool nights slow down all living processes of the tree and movement of these sugars from the leaves to the roots for storage decreases. The sugars trapped in the leaves result in increased production of the chemicals which cause those bright fall colors. At the same time, this general slow up cuts down production of the other colors, and the countryside begins to take on a white new look.

Europeans, it is said, do not enjoy the beautiful outdoor autumns such as we have here, because of climate differences, trees in most of Europe go through a gradual transition to dormancy. Cooler summers followed by a long, slow change to winter do not permit the chemical processes that produce the fall colors Americans enjoy.

In order to provide summer shade, and autumn beauty around the homestead, October is a good month in which to transplant most deciduous trees and shrubs (those which lose their leaves each year). Fall plantings usually give better results than similar work done in the spring - except for a few varieties such as poplar, birch, dogwood, mountain magnolia, and others that have soft fleshy roots. Dwarf fruit trees can also be transplanted in October, but be sure to stake and wrap them with burlap or tough paper to protect against the ravages of sun, desiccating winds and bark-loving rabbits.

Before transplanting trees at this time, however, check with your County Extension Agent or nurseryman to be sure that the tree you have in mind is adaptable for fall planting. Also before transplanting, visualize how the tree will be some fifteen years from now. Don't plant it too close to a building or driveway where its size may later cause it to be in the way. Instead, set the tree along a boundary or in some place where, in the future, it can be appreciated without causing inconvenience.

Also in planting, set the tree or shrub so deeper than it formerly stood. Give it ample space to develop and plenty of water until it has become well established - but don't drown it. According to Stoltz, roots are living, breathing structures and must have oxygen; too much water can limit oxygen and kill the tree.

It has been written that, nothing a person can do in October will be of more worth, both tangible and intangible, to future generations than to plant a tree or trees. The tree may, in time, provide dollars, fresher air to breathe, restful shade on hot summer days, and beauty sufficient, to refresh the soul.

INCOME TAX SCHOOLS PLANNED FOR TAX PRACTITIONERS...

A series of Income Tax Schools will be held in Kentucky during November and December. The purpose of the schools is to assist those who help farmers prepare income tax returns, according to Stephen Q. Allen, Extension farm management specialist at the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture.

Instruction will be provided by the Internal Revenue Service, the Kentucky Department of Revenue, and the UK Cooperative Extension Service. Instruction on the preparation of farm returns will be emphasized, but tax information of a rather general nature will also be provided.

There are no fees or charges for those who attend the schools. The dates and locations of schools are as follows:

Nov. 14-15, Somerset, Community College; Nov. 19-20, Glasgow, Electric Plan Bld. Bldg.; Nov. 21-22, Elizabethtown, Nolan RECC; Nov. 25-26, Lexington, Garahan House; Dec. 5-6, Owensboro, Cataqua Park; Dec. 10-11, Hopkinsville, Community College; Dec. 12-13, Paducah, Courthouse; Dec. 17-18, Maysville, Community College; and Dec. 19-20, Ashland, Community College.

Those who wish to attend one of the schools should contact Allen at the Department of Agricultural Economics, Agricultural Science Building - South, UK, Lexington, Kentucky, 40506.

ALMOST, BUT NOT QUITE - Even though quarterback John Clontz was trying for all he could get at the goal line and No. 60, Billy Baker, was signaling touchdown, the referee didn't buy it - not that time, anyway. The next play brought the score. No. 00 visible in the picture is center David Hunt who broke a finger in the game and will be out for the rest of the season.

Rockets Defeat Trimble County; Face Estill Co. This Week

The ROCKETS, looking shaky at the first of the game on defense, gave up a quick six points to Trimble County Friday night but immediately regained the lead and went on to smash Trimble 44 to 12.

Trimble County looked sharp in the first plays of the game and the Rockets seemed to be caught flatfooted. However, they quickly regained their composure and took an 8-6 first-quarter lead on a 40-yard run by Kenny Burton and the extra two points by quarterback John Clontz.

The second touchdown by the ROCKETS in the first half came on a 63-yard run by Burton and Clontz again made the extra points. Also in the second quarter, Clontz went over from the 13-yard line and the conversion attempt failed. Trimble County also scored six points in the second quarter and the ROCKETS went to the dressing room with a 22 to 12 lead.

In the second half, Clontz led things off with a touchdown from the one-yard line and also made good the conversion. Burton then scored from thirty yards out and the conversion attempt failed. The last touchdown of the game with mostly freshmen on the field for the ROCKETS and they did their job - opening up a huge hole for Burton to scamper ten yards for the sixth and final touchdown of the game. The conversion by Burton was also good.

Burton had quite a night for himself with eight carries and 160 yards; Clontz was credited with 17 carries and 130 yards; Joe Clontz was two for 18; David Owens, two for four; Earl Lewis Hammons, one for 13; Tommy Smith, one for three; and Billy Hackworth, one for two. The ROCKETS rolled up 326 yards to Trimble County's Kenny Burton's (in white) luck wasn't all like this last Friday night when the ROCKETS soundly defeated Trimble County 44-12. This pass to Burton, which he evidently grabbed for too soon or too late and the ball bounced off his chest, was just prior to John Clontz going over for the touchdown from the three-yard line. Burton himself had quite a night, scoring four touchdowns for the ROCKETS and gaining 160 yards.

164 but garnered only eight first downs to Trimble County's 19. Penalties again racked the ROCKETS with 80 yards assessed against them as compared to only 36 for Trimble County.

Defensively, the ROCKETS were led by Jerry Pensol, who was credited with four individual tackles and 18 assists; Clontz was three and three; Tommy Smith, two and nine; Burton, two and seven; Billy Baker, two and three; Shannon Franklin, two and three; David Hunt, one and five; Larry Welch, one and four;

and John Teater, one and one.

In the kicking department, Jerry Pensol kicked-off seven times for an average of 36 yards each and Billy Baker punted three times for an average of 29 yards.

Again this week, the coaching staff gave special mention to Kenny Burton for his offensive play and Jerry Pensol on defense, along with David Earl Nee and Jimmy Hale.

This Friday night, the ROCKETS take on Estill County at home in an 8 p.m. game.

Friday night was Parents Night at the Rockcastle - Trimble County game and most of the players' parents were on hand for the occasion. The parents were given special seating with their son's name and number on the back of the chair. In the above photo, No. 76, Shannon Franklin's grandmother, Mrs. Mattie Sowder, and mother Mrs. Wanda Franklin, enjoy the game while Sharon Baker and Mrs. Cletus Baker, mother and sister of No. 60, Billy Baker, look on. Mrs. Willetta Owens, mother of David Owens, No. 12, is also in the photo.

Zoning Ordinances Require Rebuilding Classifications - Phillip R. Hodges of Owensboro indicated that the city of Calhoun presently is drawing up a new zoning ordinance, but the City Commission has not felt that an ordinance with strict ruling on the rebuilding of nonconforming uses is required. He asks whether a city with a low rate of growth, still is required to include any certain level of restrictive rebuilding classifications. The Attorney General's Office answered in the affirmative. Kentucky law states that when cities and counties exercise the power to zone, the regulations must contain, among other things, a provision for nonconforming use of land and structures.

If Kentucky Can do it... America Can do it.

There are millions of Americans who believe our government can't stop inflation. Millions more are frustrated by a federal government which costs more to run every year ... a government that puts more people on the payroll every year.

Wendell Ford believes in America ... its past ... its present ... its future. He knows we can fight inflation. As Governor of Kentucky he did it. He took the sales tax off food, medicine and farm machinery.

Wendell Ford knows, too, that Washington can do more than it's doing. He knows government doesn't have to get bigger and more expensive every year. Kentucky's government under Wendell Ford has proven that. There are fewer state employees this year than last ... this year's budget was underspent by $25,000,000.00. Wendell Ford's program of consolidation and efficiency is working.

Think about the kind of government you want in Washington. That's what this year's race for United States Senator is all about. We've got a choice between the Wendell Ford kind of government, or the kind of Washington government we have now. Think about it ... if Kentucky can do it ... America can do it.

For Kentucky... For America Wendell Ford for United States Senator

Paid for by: Committee for Wendell H. Ford for United States Senator, P.O. Box 1974, Frankfort, Ky. 40601, Larry M. Greathouse, Treasurer.

In 1838 an act of the Kentucky Legislature set up a state school fund, to support a system of free schools in each county. The handling of the system was largely in the hands of the county court, which upon the application of the school commissioner would direct the county surveyor to divide the county into a convenient number of districts, each to contain not less than thirty nor more than one hundred children between the ages of seven and seventeen. The court would then call a meeting of the residents of each district, who would elect five trustees from among themselves to handle such business affairs for their district as selecting a place for a school building and seeing that a suitable building for the purpose was erected on it. They were also to levy a tax on the inhabitants of the district for the support of such school, hire and pay the teachers, furnish school supplies and otherwise conduct the business of their district school. When all these requirements had been met, and properly reported, they were to make application to the state school fund, from which they would draw an amount of money each year to which the number of students in the district entitled them.

Rockcastle County was one of the first counties to meet all requirements to fully comply with all provisions of the act of 1838. In 1839 State Sup't. of Public Education, J. J. Bullock, requested the school commissioners of all counties to conduct an illiteracy survey in their schools. Rockcastle County was the only county in the state to comply with his request. The percentage of illiterate among children of school age in Rockcastle was slightly over fifty three percent.

In 1940 our county school commissioners were John B. Dysart, Charles Wilson and Charles C. Carson. The school report of 1942 listed 829 pupils in the county, the school term was for three months of the year, one new school district had been added during 1942 and fourteen during 1941. The county's share of state school money was $331.60. To teach in the public schools, each teacher must hold a certificate, secured by examination held by qualified examiners, who issued first, second and third class certificates based on grades made by applicants. As late as 1975 teachers' salaries averaged $24. Qualifications were measurably low and in 1886 Dr. A. G. Lovell, acting Sup't. of Schools for Rockcastle County in a special report to the State Superintendent's office advised the hiring of good normal school teachers to conduct seven-week courses in special courses for teacher improvement. Since there were no free schools of this type at the time, Teachers' Institutes were set up in each county and conducted by outstanding educators of that county. These institutes were still popular in the early nineteen hundreds when I taught a few terms in the schools at Livingston and Mt. Vernon. My salary, by the way, on a first class certificate in 1916 was $40.00 per month.

While we have no way of definitely establishing what was the oldest district school in the county, we are inclined to believe that

Oak Hill and Buckeye were among the oldest. It would seem logical to conclude that one of the first would have been along Skaggs Creek, since some of our earliest settlement were along that stream and the trail paralleling it. The first school of any kind in the area which later became Rockcastle County, was near Buffalo, long before the setting up of a county free school system. The student body was composed of eleven boys, of various ages, and classes were held in the shade of a huge sycamore tree with a cavity large enough for all the students to crowd into in case of rain, leaving only the teacher outside to get wet.

Until recent years there had been preserved an arithmetic textbook, made entirely by hand by a man named Dollins, which he used in conducting classes in one of the earliest schools taught at Oak Hill.

Of all the district schools held in Rockcastle County, a list of eighty-three of which were published in a previous article in this series, it is my understanding that not one is now in use. The oldest original district school building left standing, and certainly the oldest log school house in good condition - is Redbud. This building I removed from its site about thirty years ago and brought it to Renfro Valley, where it was set up in a location closely matching its original setting. Here it is preserved, just as it was when my father attended his first school term during the Civil War period. It is hoped that it will continue to be preserved and cared for. If not presently the only one of its kind in America, it soon will be.

During the years when one-room district schools flourished, practically all records were kept by the county, and in 1873 went the way of all other county records. Consequently, for what little we know about them we have to depend on the recollections of their older students. These, if gathered together, would fill a book much larger than this present volume.

A well-remembered private school in the early days of Mt. Vernon's history was the Mt. Vernon Academy, sometimes spoken of as the Whitehead Academy, because it was once operated by John L. Whitehead. In an old letter from Mr. Whitehead, then living in Johnson City, Tennessee, he recalls that in 1875 Professor Sherman, of Tenn., bought the old James McCall home and converted it into a private school. Professor Sherman seems to have become dissatisfied and sold the building to Mr. Whitehead, who Whitehead who chartered the school under the name of the Mt. Vernon Academy. He employed as Teachers Professor John Rogers, Jr. of Danville, Kentucky, and Professor A. G. Lovell of Indiana and a Miss Dora Spillman, previous to 1873 not remembered. The school was well attended, but Mr. Whitehead said that after five years he gave it up for want of bigger quarters and better equipment and opened a drugstore in Mt. Vernon.

Another early private school I am able to secure but few facts about - it was conducted by Miss Rosie Nesbitt in her home, the old C. C. Williams residence, formerly occupied by the Nesbitt family. I remember hearing an aunt of mine, Carrie Lair, daughter of Judge J. B. Lair, speak of attending classes there and somewhere I remember to have seen an old picture of a number of the students gathered on the front porch of the Nesbitt home. Can any reader help be out on this? Also, has anybody preserved a copy of Miss Rose's novel, the first and probably the oldest, by a Rockcastle Author? I would like to buy or borrow one, or at least get a glimpse of a copy to allow me to represent it in this book.

Stories on Level Academy, Livingston Academy and Welch-Morrow School, the other private schools carried on in the county have appeared in this column, in part, and will appear complete, in the finished book.

SCF Closing Appalachia Program

Save the Children Federation (SCF) this week announced the closing of its oldest project, the clothing program in Appalachia.

David L. Guyer, Executive Director of SCF, worldwide child help organization with headquarters in Norwalk, Connecticut, said that the Federation, which has been highly pleased with the program's accomplishments over the past few decades, has decided to close this pioneer operation "because of the increased availability of low-cost new and used clothing, increased operating costs and new SCF priorities in the area."

Mr. Guyer went on to say, "In the future, SCF will concentrate on expanding the sponsorship program in the Appalachia Region." The agency now sponsors over 3,000 children in the area and has launched many health, education and productivity projects involving the self-help concept for which it is widely known. SCF was founded in 1932, originally to help the disadvantaged people of Appalachia, and its clothing program was one of the first self-help efforts instituted by the Federation.

The clothing centers in Appalachia and in the Cherokee reservation in North Carolina at one time numbered well over one hundred, and at the time of the closing of the program there were sixty clothing centers operating throughout the Southern Mountains. During the more than forty years of its existence, more than 120 million pounds of clothing were distributed through the SCF outlets. Because of the closing of the operation, no further clothing donations can be accepted.

Harry Anderson, Director of SCF's clothing program, which has had headquarters in Knoxville, Tennessee, stated, "We wish to thank the many thousands of loyal friends who have supplied us with new and used garments and shoes throughout the years." For a number of years, one of the principal sources of supplies of the clothing centers operated by SCF was the Bundle Days conducted in schools throughout the nation. In addition, thousands of individuals, organizations, and business concerns have sent serviceable garments to Knoxville for processing and distribution to the centers.

Mr. Anderson added, "Mothers who had to clothe whole families on an extremely limited budget depended upon SCF's clothing centers to meet their needs and still leave them with funds for other necessities."

Mr. Guyer added that "SCF was proud of its role as administrator of this vital people-to-people program which has helped thousands of needy mountain families over the past four decades. It has been a memorable chapter in the annals of SCF history."

measles and rubella, are becoming a problem once again. The statistics are really pretty frightening. In 1963, eighty-four percent of the children between the ages of one and four were immunized against polio. Last year, only seventy-eight percent of Kentucky's two-year-olds had completed their oral vaccine series. Nationwide, it's even worse - only sixty percent. That simply isn't enough to prevent epidemics. Anyone who remembers the polio epidemics of the '50's, when thousands of children were permanently disabled, knows how serious this disease can be.

Polio isn't the only problem. The statistics for rubella or German measles show that twenty-two percent of Kentucky's two-year-olds have not been immunized. Ten years ago, we had a rubella epidemic - and now, Kentucky must spend over $3.6 million every year, to cover the cost of treatment, special education and institutional care for children whose birth defects were the result of their mothers' contracting rubella during pregnancy. Then the vaccine was developed and, because of an intensive state-wide immunization program, the epidemic predicted for 1970 or 1971 was prevented. But now we face the threat of an epidemic again because not enough children are being immunized.

One out of five - or twenty percent - of Kentucky's two-year-olds have not been protected against measles.

Some people still regard measles as a harmless disease and aren't too concerned about having their children immunized. But before vaccines were available, hundreds of children died each year from the disease. Encephalitis with permanent brain damage is a common complication of the disease. Measles had been brought pretty well under control. In the past few years, however, we've begun to see outbreaks of the disease once again, and the possibility of an epidemic is becoming greater and greater.

The Rockcastle County Health Department urges parents to check their records to make sure their children are fully protected. Children should be immunized against polio, measles, rubella, diphtheria, tetanus and whooping cough. Parents whose children have not completed their immunizations, or parents who aren't sure whether their children have received all their immunizations should check with their doctors or here at the Rockcastle County Health Department right away. Seeing that every child is fully protected will help prevent epidemics.

October has been designated as Immunization Action Month in Rockcastle County. The Rockcastle County Health Department schedules immunization clinics on the first and third Fridays of each month from 8:30 to 12:00 and from 1:00 to 4:00. ****

Health Department Says Not Enough Children Protected

Last year, there were over four hundred cases of measles and of rubella or three-day measles here in Kentucky. The real tragedy, however, is that not enough children are being immunized to assure that epidemics will not occur on a broader scale.

One of the main problems is that many parents wait until their children approach school age before having them immunized. This leaves the child unprotected during the first four or five years of his life, when some diseases are most serious and most likely to strike. Moreover, this means that if an epidemic occurs, it is most likely to spread quickly among children of this age group.

By the time a child is two years old, he should be fully protected against polio, measles, rubella, diphtheria, tetanus and whooping cough or pertussis. However, statistics from the Center for Disease Control, U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare, indicate that the percentage of young children immunized against these diseases has been declining at an alarming rate in recent years. As a result, diseases that were once well controlled, such as polio, Agriculture Hearings To Be Held.....

William E. Burnett, executive director of the Governor's Council on Agriculture has announced that the Council will hold a series of hearings around the state in coming weeks in hopes of aiding farmers in producing and marketing their products.

The Council hearings are slated for - Mt. Sterling on October 17; Madisonville, on October 18; Mayfield on October 24; Somerset, November 14th; and Franklin, November 15. The hearings will be at the county courthouse in each town from 10 a.m. to 12 noon and from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m.

According to Burnett, "the council has two responsibilities. First, we act as an advisor to the governor and second, we are designing a comprehensive program to help increase the net income of Kentucky's farmers."

The council consists of twenty members - five ex-officio members and fifteen regular members. Among the ex-officio members are Gov. Wendell H. Ford, Lt. Gov. Julian Carroll, Commissioner of Agriculture Wendell P. Butler and the deans of agriculture and home economics at the University of Kentucky. The fifteen other members are farmers from throughout the state.

The council has been in existence for nearly two years and has completed studies on both Kentucky's production potential and its marketing potential. It is made up of committees which submit recommendations to it. But in the overall development of the program, the council has reached the point where it must go out into the state and personally speak with the farmers.

"This is just part of the program to obtain information," said Burnett. "We are inviting everybody. We're concerned about farmers of all types - tobacco growers, livestock, dairy, grain - everyone.

"What we're trying to do is get out there to reach the man who isn't heard and find out what his problems are. By the first of the year, we hope to be able to go out into the state again and this time carry out our own recommendations based upon our studies and hearings."

CONSUMER COMMENTS

By: Ed W. Hancock
Attorney General of Kentucky

For persons trying to fight rising building costs and inflated interest rates, a mobile home may seem very attractive. But before sinking thousands of dollars into a mobile home, take some precautions.

It is very important to do business with a dealer who will honor a warranty or guarantee when and if repairs are needed. To find out about these things, you may check with the Consumer Protection Div. and the Better Business Bureau. Ask the dealer to give you the names of some of his customers; their experiences might be very helpful in making your choice.

When you inspect a mobile home, check for damages or faulty workmanship. Check the exterior for dents or for joints which do not fit tightly. On the inside, look for water spots on the ceiling or on the floors that might indicate leakage. And while you are inside, look at the appliances. Check each one, making sure they all work properly. Notice the brand or brands of the appliances so that later you may find out if servicing is available and convenient. Ask the dealer if all items within the home are included in the purchase price. Shoppers frequently compare mobile homes by length. If you do this, take care that the length of the hitch or an awning or any overhang is not included in the length stated by the dealer.

As in all consumer purchases, it pays to study the contract very carefully. If there are any terms you do not understand, don't sign the contract until you have discussed it with someone who does understand it. Insist that any oral promises made by the dealer are put into writing and will not be excluded by the general warranty on the contract.

Study the warranty to determine what the actual coverage is for the mobile home. Does the warranty become void if the mobile home is ever moved from its original location? Will damages that occur during the delivery be repaired by the dealer? Depending on your answers to those questions, you may decide to insure a mobile home for damages such as these.

Where are you going to put your new mobile home? Consider the location before you buy. Check several sites in a desired area. Ask others who live there about the conditions. Investigate the possibility of flooding, high winds or other locational hazards. Inquire about entrance and exit fees, fees for garbage disposal or utility fees.

And as long as you are comparing, compare the various financing arrangements which can be made in the purchase of your mobile home. Ask the dealer, your bank or savings and loan institutions. Find out if you are eligible for any federally guaranteed loan programs.

If you have suggestions to aid in consumer problems, or if you wish to make a complaint, Kentucky residents may write to the Attorney General's Office, Consumer Protection Div., Room 24, Capitol Building, Frankfort, Kentucky, 40601 - or call the consumer toll-free hotline, 1-800-372-3860.

years, chiefly to cover deficit spending. President Ford has asked Congress to help eliminate such deficits in the future by reducing governmental expenditures.

Since 1960, according to the Treasury Department, the interest on the national debt has soared from $9.2 billion a year to the present level of $30 billion.

The net effect, for Rockcastle County families, is that they are paying more than three times as much in carrying charges as they did then. Just how large these interest costs have become may be realized by comparing them with the outlays for other governmental operations, as detailed in the 1974 budget.

The $30 billion required for interest this year is three times more, for example, than the government is spending for education and manpower training combined.

It is over four times the amount that is being spent in the field of health care and five times as much as is going into general revenue sharing.

The only way to wipe out the debt would be to pay off a total of $495 billion, which is actually impossible and is seldom suggested.

Rockcastle County's share of the repayment, based upon local incomes and population, would be over $16,888,000.
