1974 CENSUS OF AGRICULTURE IS SCHEDULED

By: Harold Ballinger

Once every five years the nation counts its chickens - and cows, pigs, crops, farm machinery and other agricultural items. The 1974 Census of Agriculture will be conducted by mail beginning in January, 1975.

When a farmer mails back the Census form, he can do so with the assurance that his answers are kept confidential. Agencies of the United States Department of Agriculture are cooperating with the Census Bureau to help farmers answer questions when the Census forms start arriving in the December or early January.

How long would our nation survive if food was cut off from going to market?

Many consumers and politicians do not really stop and consider wisely their brand and better ways around. Neither do they consider the cost, the long hours of hard labor, and weather conditions that go into the farming business.

If they did they wouldn't complain of high food prices, especially when the largest amount of the cost is after it leaves "Down On The Farm."

Down On The Farm

By: Roy G. Brown Assistant Vice President Cumberland PCA

Farming today, yesterday and tomorrow is everybody's business.

The whole world is dependent upon the soil, water, air and other elements that God has placed here for human survival. Today the people of America depend upon five percent of the population or one person to produce food and fiber for twenty other persons.

Kenny Burton, No. 13, moves for a long gain in Friday night's game between the Rockets and Whitley County.

Jerry Pensol, No. 20, set himself to block for quarterback John Clontz, No. 10. The Rockets lost the game but it was up for grabs until the last touchdown by Whitley just before the game ended.

The Rockets defense has pretty much been on its toes this season - except, last Friday night when injuries taking their toll of the team, the Rockets allowed Whitley County thirty-six points and the game. However, Whitley wasn't in much better shape as their defense allowed the Rockets twenty-eight points.

Tommy Smith goes over for a two-point conversion after being hit short of the goal line by three Whitley defensesmen and then going over by sheer willpower. Smith played an excellent game offensively for the Rockets.

Rockets Lose To Whitley; Face Mercer This Friday

In a free-wheeling game, that didn't speak well for the defense of either team, the ROCKETS were outlasted Friday night by Whitley County 36 to 28.

The Rockets, playing with five men either out of the game or not up to snuff because of injuries, received a blow at the first of the game when Whitley County returned their kick-off eighty yards for a quick eight point lead. The Rockets retaliated almost immediately with a scoring pass from quarterback John Clontz to Kenny Burton good for twenty yards and the touchdown. The conversion attempt failed and the end of the first quarter showed the Rockets behind by two.

The second quarter, Whitley got on the scoreboard while the Rockets managed another score. This time by way of Tommy Smith. Smith went over from the two-yard line for the touchdown and then, despite the fact that he was hit hard short of the goal line, made the two-point conversion. The score at the end of the first half was 22 to 14.

In the second half, the Rockets knotted the score at 22 all on a one-yard run by Jerry Pensol. Smith again made the two-point conversion. Whitley retaliated with a scoring drive and the Rockets were once again in the hole. In the fourth quarter, the Rockets came back on a one yard run by Clontz and, with the conversion attempt failing, trailed Whitley by two points. However, it was not to be as the Rockets could not capitalize on a fumble recovery and a fourth down pass play to Burton was incomplete and the Rockets turned the ball over to Whitley. Whitley then took it in for the final score of the night and the 36 to 28 victory.

Clontz was the leading ground gainer for the Rockets, narrowly edging out Burton with 54 yards in 18 carries. Burton picked up 53 yards in six tries. Smith garnered fifty yards in ten carries. Pensol got twenty-four yards in six carries and Freshman Billy Hackworth gained two yards in two carries. Total rushing yardage for the Rockets was 188.

In the passing department, Clontz completed four of eleven for sixty-nine yards. Billy Baker punted once for twenty-five yards. Clontz averaged thirty-nine yards with four kick offs, the Rockets had fifteen first downs to Whitley's eleven. Clontz recovered one fumble and the Rockets were penalized twenty-five yards.

Defensively, the Rockets were led by Shannon Franklin and Kenny Burton with three individual tackles each and Jim Browning, Mike Karr and Jerry Pensol were credited with two individual tackles each. In the assists department, Pensol led with thirteen; Wally Trebaho had eleven; Billy Baker, nine; Mike Karr, six; Ian Ivan Stevens, four and Larry Welch, five.

This Friday night, the ROCKETS host Mercer County at 8 p.m. *****

CONSUMER COMMENTS
By: Ed W. Hancock
Attorney General of Kentucky

It doesn't always pay to do that "homework"! Consumers should be wary of work at home schemes promising hundreds of dollars of weekly income in return for a few hours of cutting, pasting or sewing in their own living rooms. Homemakers, the elderly or those physically unable to leave home often are attracted by ads offering $100 per week for part-time work done at home, with no training or experience necessary.

The schemes usually require the consumer to send money for instructions or materials. Sometimes the scheme ends right there, with the consumer losing his fee. If instructions or materials are received, the consumer may find they are incomplete.

Earn-at-home schemes may involve such activities as addressing envelopes or writing form letters. The consumer may find out, too late, that he or she is expected to furnish envelopes or paper. After a mailing is sent out, a company may inform the homemaker that the worker will not be paid unless a mailing generates a good deal of business for the company.

Another type of homework scheme offers great pay for knitted garments. Later, consumers discover that they are required to buy an expensive knitting machine. When the consumers try to sell the garments back to the company, they are told that the garments are below company standards - just an excuse to refuse to buy the garments. The company makes a profit, of course, on the machine.

Naturally, there are many legitimate ways to earn money while remaining at home. To ensure that you deal with a responsible company, ask lots of questions.

Ask for names of others who have worked at home. Contact those people and see if they did, in fact, earn money as promised. Inquire if a major fee or purchase is required before you are able to earn money. Find out if you are assured of sales to the company or to clients. If you are assured of future sales, get that assurance in writing.

Remember, if there's little or no work for you to do, why would they pay you? If you know of any homework schemes like these write to the Attorney General's Office, Consumer Protection Division, Room 300, Capitol Building, Frankfort, Kentucky, 40601. Kentucky residents, use the toll-free consumer hotline: 1-800-372-2560. *****

JOHN NICHOLS'

Frankfort Watchline

Thank goodness this miserable U.S. Senate campaign is about over.

It's pretty safe to say that there will be a Carroll era in Kentucky state government.

No, not really. There will be a few sudden disappearances, but no open executions.

We can think of about a dozen folks at about the commissioner level who had better be packing their bags if they believe Wendell Ford's going to win the Senate race.

Just what kinds of promises Carroll is supposed to have made to Ford as the two men negotiated prior to Ford's getting into the Senate election.

Did he make it after getting pledges from Carroll? Did Carroll have that much influence in such a monumental decision.

Carroll could see the advantages and pledged his support to his Democrat factional foe.

But Carroll's the top dog in this arena, not Ford. Carroll's confidence in being the next governor of Kentucky must be extreme.

More important than retaining Democrats in key state jobs is, just how much of the Ford brand of state government Carroll will keep when he gets to be governor.

We may see the answer to that sooner than we think. Ford has said that Carroll won't mess with any of his programs, like reorganization.

Another? Okay... how about the centralization of computer services, a recent and rather foolhardy venture.

Having been asked by the Publisher of this newspaper to write a column, I have declined due to reasons of time; however, I have agreed to become an occasional contributor.

My primary reason for doing any writing is not strictly journalistic. I have often felt that many minor and occasionally major subjects do deserve some comment.

their attention... meantime if done right a special session's political potential is limitless, though it'll cost about 50 thousand dollars a day.

It may also be just the sort of thing Carroll may want to use to bolster his position as 1975 front-runner if he listens closely to those rather shallow rumblings off to the west...

By the way, did you know that we could well have had another special session this fall?

If Franklin Circuit Court had agreed with Republicans that Ford was abusing his powers in spending revenue surpluses, the lawmakers would have been heading back here so fast their heads would be spinning.

They would have been asked, first, to give specific approval to the programs the governor had funded with the money but, failing that, they would have had to rewrite the budget to take care of the spending gaps.

A tough job for 138 men who run for office on what they've done for their districts lately.

And, in preparation for that possible special call of the lawmakers, Ford scheduled those special elections for November 5th to fill five legislative vacancies.

It would certainly not hurt Democrat voter interest in the Fourth Congressional District where both Ford and Kyle Hubbard may be hurting to have another election going on... would it?

Whatever

While everybody else is raising their prices

Subaru is lowering its prices.

$400 OFF STICKER PRICE

The New Subaru 2-Door Sedan Fully equipped.

In today's economy, you put off buying some things and hope times will be better next year. At Subaru of America, we're making things better, this year. We just knocked $400 off the sticker price of our new 2-Door Sedan. And there are dramatic savings on all other Subaru models.

Front wheel drive, a gas-saving engine and built-in extras at no extra cost make Subaru a bargain at any price.

The Subaru 2-Door Sedan is loaded with built-in extras—that don't cost extra. Like an AM pushbutton radio, styled wheel covers, vinyl upholstery, white-wall tires, fully reclining bucket seats and tinted glass all around.

With front wheel drive, the Subaru is as agile as a car can be. And the unique Subaru Quadrator engine isn't a gas hog. Owners report over 27 miles to the gallon.

The Subaru Unlimited Mileage Warranty—count the months not the miles.

The Subaru Unlimited Mileage Warranty is good for one full year. No matter how many miles you drive. All good things must come to an end. Even this offer.

On December 10, 1974 this Subaru price reduction comes to an end.

So act now. You don't have to wait for things to get better next year. At Subaru, they're better today.

Burley Committee To Meet Today

The burley sales committee, representing the eight-state burley belt, will meet at 11 a.m. Thursday, October 31st, to set the dates for the upcoming burley tobacco sales. The meeting, which is open to the public, will be at the Burley Tobacco Growers' Association office at 620 South Broadway in Lexington.

While last year's sales started during the last week in November, Kentucky Agriculture Commissioner Wendell Butler said that this year's opening dates could be later due to a late harvest. The Kentucky Crop and Livestock Reporting Service estimates Kentucky's production this year will be 382.5 million pounds, which is approximately 75-80 million pounds above last year's figure. The total eight-state forecast is 564.4 million pounds. The burley sales committee consists of representatives from warehouses and state agriculture departments, burley producers, members of the Burley Tobacco Growers Cooperative Association and the president of the Kentucky Burley Auction Warehouse.

LIBRARY RECEIVES GENEEOLOGICAL BOOKS

The Rockcastle County Library has recently been the recipient of a selection of genealogical source books from the private collection of Miss Nell C. Nicely of Springfield, Ohio. A native Rockcastle Countian and an avid genealogist, Miss Nicely has secured a number of well-known volumes, and among those contributed to the library are: Quisenberry's Revolutionary Soldiers in Kentucky; Kentucky Land Warrants; Tennessee Cousins; Kentucky Pioneers and Their Descendants; Survey of American Church Records; Kentucky Marriages 1797-1865; and from the Everton Publishers, A Handy Book for Genealogists.

With the combination of these books and those received in the past three years, a very good reference source of genealogical and historical material results. This area of the library has grown through the efforts of the Rockcastle Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, gifts of compilations of family geneologies; and the compilation of the 1890 Rockcastle Census Records by Mrs. Linda Ramsey Ashley, The DAR Genealogical Records Chairman, Miss Janie Ramsey, has copied all existing marriage records for Rockcastle County from courthouse records and these have been compiled and are in the library. Various groups and individuals have contributed to a compilation of cemetery records and some family Bible Records.

Each year the library gets numerous volumes and inquiries from people who are "hunting" their ancestors or other historical information. Rockcastle County is a familiar-sounding name to people all over the United States; as inquiries have been received from Washington, California, Texas, Iowa, and New York, to list a few.

With the addition of these new books, it is now possible for anyone to come in to the local Library, find a revolutionary soldier with a familiar family name; find marriage records from the 1800's; locate a grave and learn a birth date from the inscription; trace a family migration from Tennessee; and secure a long-forgotten great-grandpa!

If you have wondered about your ancestors, why let this Bicentennial of Kentucky pass without a personal search of your own family history? The Rockcastle County Library has a comfortable atmosphere, convenient hours, and a good supply of genealogical literature to get you started. It could be interesting.....

All time has stopped to greet
This moment of bright splendor
When Fall and Summer meet.

News and Views

From Your

Rockcastle Co. Library

Are you in need of ideas for a Christmas program schedule for your organization, church, or club activity? If so, let us suggest that you visit the Rockcastle County Public Library and look at our special collection of Christmas books and ideas.

Especially in our mind at this time is The Complete Christmas Book which consists of various ways of making unusual decorations, a number of plays, Christmas poetry, and other helpful suggestions for making Christmas brighter.

Another very interesting book is Christmas And Its Customs. This charming little book was written with reverence, affection, and delight by one of England's leading writers on folklore. It tells the whole fascinating story of Christmas the world over, from the beginning to the present day.

Aside from religious observations we Americans take Santa Claus, presents, holly, trees, carol singing, and all the other pleasant Christmas customs very much for granted. How intriguing it is to follow Christine Hole as she traces them to their origin. Few modern Americans could answer all the questions answered in this book, such as: Where did the Christmas tree originate? Who invented the Christmas card? How many faces has Santa Claus? and many others.

There are also a number of Christmas books especially for the children such as Christmas Time, The Story of The Christ Child, Lucy's Christmas, The Christmas Carol, How the Grinch Stole Christmas, and many others. Through these books children can learn more about their Santa Claus and also get an insight to the true meaning of Christmas.

Come into the Rockcastle County Public Library and see for yourself and choose the ones which would be most helpful to you.

Some other books from which to choose are listed below:

Planning A Career, by Clifford Allen. Basically an attempt to give unaided young people a psychological insight into themselves, so that they will be able to decide on a career which is most likely to give them satisfaction and success.

So You Want To Go Back To Work! by Nanette E. Scofield and Betty Claman. Here is a practical approach for the housewife about to embark on a new and satisfying second career.

Technology and Woman's Work, by Elizabeth F. Baker. An interesting and intriguing account of the effects of technological change upon the employment of women.

A Woman's Guide to Earning a Good Living, by Elmer Winter. A analysis of the best job opportunities for women in the United States today.

A Woman's Guide To Part-Time Jobs, by Joseph D. Cooper. A complete guide to where and how to get a part-time job and how to manage both a job and your home.

Women At Work, by Elmer L. Winter. "Elmer Winter, outstanding authority on employment for women, tells you down to the last detail everything you need to know to help you find, keep and enjoy the right job for you."

You and the Next Decade, by Adrian A. Paradis. "A preview and introduction to the job opportunities which will be open in the next ten years and to the "right" life which our technological advances will make possible."

Outlook Good For

Major

Agricultural Products

By: Gary Lahr

Kentucky can capture a greater share of both the domestic and world markets for agricultural products, a marketing specialist has told the legislature's sub-committee on agriculture.

Scott Sawyers, managing coordinator of market development for the Governor's Council on Agriculture, based his report on a study of present and future markets for Kentucky agricultural products prepared by the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture. The study was released last month.

Sawyers told the sub-committee that by 1980, Kentucky, by fully using its agricultural resources - land, labor and capital - can increase its production of tobacco, corn, soybeans, wheat, milk, slaughter hogs and feeder calves. (See below)

He said, however, there was an immediate need to let farmers know that it is worthwhile for them to make long-term investments in expanding or improving their production.

"The producer is unaware of what the viable market demands are going to be. We need a better education network," Sawyers said.

He said the long-range outlook is good for all of the state's major agricultural products despite the economic problems currently facing certain kinds of farmers such as beef producers.

Sawyers also said Kentucky, particularly Eastern

Kentucky, had the potential for developing a relatively new agricultural field, supplying garden items such as perennial flowers and potted plants.

The following figures showing 1973 production and potential production by 1980

were prepared by the Marketing Study Committee of the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture for the Governor's Council on Agriculture.

arily, Potential 1980 Production

If you use aluminum foil in your oven, make sure it isn't blocking circulation from vents or you'll lose heat. It's a bad idea to put foil directly under a pan, because it will deflect the heat away from the pan.

Vespa G. Brown was the first Rockcastle boy to be killed in action; and when the local American Legion Post was organized, it was named The Vespa Brown Post in his honor. He was twenty-nine years old when he entered the service. After the customary training period in the states, he was assigned to overseas duty in June, 1918 and was killed in action on July 18th, 1918. His body was brought back and buried in Providence Cemetery, where he sleeps beside his father and mother. Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Brown, both of whom survived him for a number of years.

Thus far, I have been unable to locate any records on World War Two. Logan Bryant was chairman of the local Draft Board which I was for a long time a member. The same C. H. Frith who served on the Board for World War One also officiated on that for World War Two. I have been told that the records for Rockcastle County have been transferred to Richmond, Kentucky, but have not yet had a chance to check on this.

Also, there is a dearth of records for the Spanish American War veterans. I recall that Judge Sam Lewis was a Lieutenant during that conflict and I am under the impression that Jim Dillon was a Captain, but this is not verified. So far as I know, there is no list available of Rockcastle boys who saw service in Vietnam and related campaigns, but surely the information is somewhere available without prolonged research.

all watched with considerable interest, was James McKenzie Brown. He happened to be in London, England, at the outbreak of the war and joined the British Navy. He saw service in England and was later on the Tigris River for some time. He was advanced to Sub. Sgt. and later Officer in Charge of the Royal India Marine Ship with the British forces.

In February of 1917 he was transferred to the British Army; but before he left his ship, he had received the D.S.O. (Distinguished Service Order), especially awarded him, at the hands of King George himself, it was reported. This was for service in shell and rifle fire. Soon after being transferred from the Navy to the Army, he was made Captain. He served under Britain's famous General Maund and was with the forces that took Bagdad. In January of 1918 he was advanced to the rank of Major and was sent to Baku, Russia, on a very important mission. He was one of two officers selected from a list of six hundred considered for this post. There he advanced in rank to Lieutenant Colonel and was made Shipping Controller in which position he served for the rest of his history beyond this point, except that he married into a very prominent European family and never came back to Kentucky. It is hoped that some member of his family will read this and come forward with additional information on him.

James McKenzie Brown was born in Mt. Vernon, Kentucky, in 1888, the son of J. H. Brown and Cleo Williams Brown. His father was a prominent attorney in London, Kentucky, and following his death, when James McKenzie was three years old, his mother and son came back to Mt. Vernon to make it their home. She was a daughter of an early settler, D. N. Williams, and after spending some time in the military business became for a number of years, Mt. Vernon's Postmistress, in which position she exerted so much influence over my education as a country boy. She saved for me such magazines and papers as she could come by, and I rode into town every Saturday afternoon and carried them home to read through the following week. It always felt that I carried money from this early habit of general reading that I did from regular schooling.

A second cousin of James McKenzie Brown attained the highest military rank ever awarded to a Rockcastle native. Jake Swiney, whose name was later changed to Williams and still later to Bethurum, grew up in Mt. Vernon with his mother, after she was divorced from his father, and took the name of his grandfather, the original Jake Williams of early Mt. Vernon fame. She was later married to Judge B. J. Bethurum, who formally adopted her son and took them to live in Somerset, Kentucky, where Jake grew up. He was a brilliant scholar and had been one of the top students of the Tank Division. As a Lieutenant Colonel on Patton's Oxford scholarship when World War One came along and he enlisted as a private in the ranks. He re-enlisted in World War Two and was established a record for bravery and skillness under fire that led him eventually to service under the famous George Patton, hero of the Tank Division. As a Lieutenant Colonel on Patton's Oxford became his confidant and warm personal friend. In spite of his diminutive size, it was said that he would lead his men into battle, and he was a brilliant scholar and was one of the top students of the Tank Division. As may be seen, our records on Brigadier General Williams are also far from complete. A long search of State Military Records will bring them to light, but what we would like to have is something from his family and old associates about the man himself. I hope we will hear from some of them.

Dept. of Fish and Wildlife

If you enjoy hunting and fishing, there is a lot going on at this time of the year. First, there are a few more days left to harvest both doves and squirrels. The first phase of both seasons will close October 31st.

During the remaining days, some fine fall dove hunting may be found over picked corn fields or other harvested grain areas. The daily limit is 12 with 24 in possession after two or more days of hunting. (A possession limit of any species may not be held in the field.) The shooting hours are from 12 o'clock noon until one half hour before sunset prevailing time.

If you would like to have some top-notch squirrel hunting, now is an excellent time to head to the woods. Since most of the leaves have fallen from the trees, it's easier to see the busy squirrels, which are generally active throughout the entire day. The season will close at sunset on October 31st. The daily limit is six with a possession limit of twelve after two or more days of hunting.

Now also is the time for those who intend to hunt rabbit, quail, grouse and waterfowl to get their gear, guns, dogs and themselves in top-notch shape. With the opening of the upland game season November 21 and the waterfowl season opening at 12 o'clock noon on November 22, hunters still have time to get ready for some wonderful days afield in the near future.

However, now also is a good time to catch fish and many Kentucky anglers are taking some fine strings of black bass and crappie, with white bass and sauger also being harvested from some hot spots.

Some of the best crappie fishing in the big lakes is by drift fishing over the channel drop offs and around the slakeups. In many of the major lakes, the water is being drawn down to winter pool and the black bass have moved into the stump beds areas, especially off points and drop offs. These bass are not hard to catch once their haunts have been located.

So it's a busy time for Kentucky's sportsmen during this season of cool weather and beautiful fall foliage.

OPINIONS FROM OFFICE OF ATTORNEY GENERAL

Among opinions released last week from the office of Atty. Gen. Ed W. Hancock were the following:

Indiana Driving Permit Valid In Kentucky - Mrs. Paul Holtman of Jeffersonville, Indiana asked the Attorney General if her son, who has a learner's permit from Indiana, may take a driver's training course at St. Xavier High School in Louisville. The Office of the Attorney General replied that a permit from Indiana is valid in Kentucky. According to state law, Kentucky usually refuses to recognize a driver's license from another state only when that state refuses to recognize a Kentucky driver's license. Since Kentucky and Indiana have a reciprocal agreement, the young man can take the class in Kentucky.

Prescriptive Right - Richard Wengert of the United States Forest Service requested an opinion on the status of a "prescriptive right" road. These are county dirt roads which are unpaved and unimproved, but used by the public. The Office of the Attorney General says that a prescriptive right exists when there has been open use of a passageway by a person other than the owner for fifteen years. The passageway must cross a property line, however. An owner can close the road if the road is entirely within the boundaries of his property. However, the roads which Mr. Wengert describes were served in the deed when the land was purchased by the United States and, therefore, the term "prescriptive rights" doesn't apply. Neither deed rights nor prescriptive rights expire after a certain period of non-use. Likewise, the county cannot maintain such a road without putting it on the county road system officially, because they would be maintaining a private road.

Project Independence

Lags; Greater Effort Needed

President Ford started millions of Americans recently when he remarked that results to date of Project Independence were "disappointing."

There is no question that the United States energy situation is deteriorating despite all of the actions which have been taken in the name of Project Independence - the concerted effort to reduce our dependence on foreign petroleum.

"Domestic oil production is not increasing. It has declined from 1970 to the present. And between now and 1977 it will, at best, hold constant and probably drift somewhat lower.

"Natural gas supplies are still very short. Consumption continues to outpace discoveries and curtailments may reach as much as 10 per cent of demand this winter.

"The nuclear industry continues to lag. Poor quality control is causing operational problems at existing plants, delays make the lead time nine to 10 years. Nuclear power today accounts for the same percentage of energy supplies as firewood.

"Coal production will be limited unless environmental standards are modified and new markets developed. Coal is our Nation's most abundant resource, but we cannot use all the coal we can produce.

On the positive side, it is possible to report that refineries are being built again. And, despite our dislike for the higher prices following upon the Arab oil embargo, the fact remains that this has helped to cut down on spiraling demand.

Project Independence has two facets - saving energy and increasing energy supplies.

For the short term, energy conservation holds out greater hope for reducing our dependence on foreign petroleum than does the potential for expansion of supply.

The problem is that the conservation ethic has not yet become a part of American life. This is why President Ford has so heavily emphasized the Arab oil embargo, and has delivered the kind of pep talk exemplified by his address October 15 in Kansas City to the Future Farmers of America.

We all know the answer, and the Federal Energy Administration has been pushing it - carpooling, using public transportation, reducing electric light wattage, lowering thermostats in winter and turning them higher in summer, and installing commercial and residential insulation.

In addition, FEA has begun a series of conferences on industrial conservation with the expansion in coal R&D - a five-fold increase from two years ago, including coal extraction and conversion into gas, liquids or clean solids for final use.

We are demonstrating better secondary and tertiary oil recovery techniques. The Ford Administration wants to decontrol the price of oil recovered by secondary means, such as flooding wells with water, in order to stimulate production.

We are pursuing a major expansion of solar energy research - 10 times larger an effort than two years ago. FEA Administrator John Sawhill reports that the Government hopes to put several solar plants into operation by 1985. We are considering, he says, a billion-dollar R&D plan to harness the sun's rays as a source of power.

Research into geothermal energy production also has increased tenfold within the past two years.

Are we making progress with our efforts to increase energy conservation measures and end our dependence on foreign petroleum?

Eric R. Zusner, FEA assistant administrator, says he is drafting a Project Independence blueprint to be submitted to the President, predicts that other energy supplies - notably oil and natural gas from the Outer Continental Shelf - might cut import requirements to zero by 1985.

Meantime, our best bet is energy saving. And you can be sure that if the President's program of voluntarism doesn't work that he will be back before Congress with an array of mandatory measures.

like this in a space of forty-five miles, you begin to try and figure out some way of unhooking the back of the pick-up and driving off in blissful silence. Now, don't get me wrong, the kids enjoyed the trip thoroughly. After all, it's not every day a kid gets to hit every ice cream parlor, drive-in restaurant and restroom South of Mt. Vernon to the Smokies. It's also a little disheartening, when you realize that your idea to get the children out and let them see the beauty and majesty of our world wasn't so hot because you are pointing all this out to them - you suddenly realize that the only thing they have realized is that they can add ten more gray hairs in your head by standing close to the edge of the overlook as possible with the baby by the hand.....

As a way to end this silly article, let me get serious for a moment and welcome a new guest columnist to our paper. William D. "Bill" Gregory has graciously consented to furnish us with occasional articles. Mr. Gregory is an excellent writer and we think you will enjoy his articles thoroughly. Had some fun out of him when I told him he would have to come up with his own heading for the article.

After giving the matter some thought, he said his first leaning had been toward "An Occasional Thought" until he thought about the ramifications a head such as this could have - there were others but since they were even worse, I'll not repeat them. Anyway, we do appreciate his time and effort in this and feel sure it will be a welcome addition to our paper.....

TOPSTITCHING

Topstitching is an elegant technique used by many couturier designers to accent the design lines of their creations. Buttonhole Twist, with its subtle luster and extra thickness, is the choice of designers for this distinctive fashion look and should be yours as well. Topstitching may be functional as well as decorative, as when it is used to sew on patch pockets or flaps.

Topstitching is a valuable technique to master as it can be used to add interest to a garment which would otherwise be dull and ordinary.

Topstitching is really not difficult but there are a few "Tricks of the Trade" to insure perfect results.

1. Change your needle. A size 14 or 16 needle will allow the thread to feed through the eye of the needle without breaking or fraying. In most cases Buttonhole Twist is used only on the top threading of the machine. In those instances, however, where the bobbin thread shows while the garment is being worn, it is necessary to thread both the bobbin and the top with BIT.

2. Loosen the top tension. Good topstitching does not require a perfect balance between top and bobbin-tension but is actually an unbalanced stitch which to float on the top of the fabric.

3. Lengthen the stitch. Longer stitches will make the row of topstitching appear more pronounced.

Always test your stitches before working on the actual garment to be certain you have the proper combination of tension and stitch length.

Remember to include as many layers of fabric and interfacings as you will eventually be stitching through.

Even, straight stitching is the key to professional looking topstitching. Special adhesive sewing tape was designed to make straight topstitching easy to achieve. This tape separates up to three-fourths of an inch (wider widths can be achieved by combining two pieces). You simply separate the tape at the desired width and place one edge of the tape on the seam or garment edge and use the opposite edge as a stitching guide. Be careful to stitch along the edge of the tape and not through it.

There are certain additional elements of topstitching which you will need to consider to insure that your results are as professional looking as you want them. One of these is grain line.

Be especially careful that the grain does not shift when you are topstitching. If you are topstitching on both sides of a seam, each side should be stitched in the same direction to avoid shifting the grainline.

When you are topstitching around faced edges, it is a good idea to quickly hand baste the layers together to hold them and prevent shifting.

Again, stitch with the grain.

The number of layers of fabric you stitch through will affect the appearance of the topstitching... the more layers, the more padded the effect. Be consistent throughout the garment. The seam allowances may or may not be stitched through.

TIPS FOR CARE OF INDOOR PLANTS....

There is no doubt that live plants are impractical in some homes. However, the majority of homes can sustain live plants if sound cultural practices are followed and the plants' needs are met. Homeowners generally choose plants to fit interior decor and want them to be the desired size when they bring them indoors. Indoor culture, therefore, is most often not to make plants grow vigorously, but rather to keep them healthy and maintain them as they are. Cultural practices best suited to these needs are briefly discussed below.

Watering: Improper watering practices are a common source of trouble. The general misconception seems to be that since foliage plants are usually tropical, they should be kept very moist. Nothing could be farther from the truth. Most often a plant needs water depends on the potting media, the size of the container, and the location in the home. Plants should never follow a religious schedule for watering, such as every other day or every three days. Plants should be watered only when the soil is dry to the touch, even if it is only once a week.

Relative Humidity: Since most foliage plants are tropical, they will grow much better in a room with high relative humidity. But high humidity is difficult to maintain in most homes. Setting plants on a tray of moist sand or pebbles can help. Always avoid placing plants in drafts or in front of forceful heat exhausts.

Fertilizer: If the main concern is maintaining plants and not stimulating additional growth, a little fertilizer is necessary. Fertilizing twice a year should be enough to prevent soft or spindly plant tissues. The liquid formulations available in most garden stores are usually simplest to use. But if you decide on a water soluble fertilizer, like 20-20-20, 23-21-17, etc., and apply it at a rate of one teaspoon per one quart of water. Dust may become a problem with indoor plants, and cleaning the foliage periodically is advisable. You can clean plants by wiping the foliage gently with a moist cloth. Effective commercial sprays are also available, but you may find that some give an unnatural waxy appearance.

Light: Some foliage plants can do well in low light intensities; others must have high intensities to survive. You should know the light tolerance ranges of your plants and place them where their light requirements will be satisfied. The source of light is also very important. Ficus Elastica Decora, will lose its leaves if it grows exclusively under fluorescent light.

seent light. Apparently fluorescent light lacks the longer wave lengths that the plant needs to maintain its own integrity. To avoid loss of foliage, move the plant to a location where there is enough light of longer wave length, or install a high intensity incandescent bulb to complement the fluorescent light, or use a less susceptible cultivar of the plant.

WHAT TO DO IN NOVEMBER -

With temperatures in the mid-fifties, usually only the most avid gardener spends time in the yard during November. But all gardeners would be justly rewarded next year if they spent time this month raking leaves, wrapping trees, mounding roses, watering plants under eaves, and rewiring labels. And when they have completed these chores, they might consider visiting a good nursery or garden center for ideas, advice, and a look at winter plants.

In November your nurseryman and his personnel have more time to show you plants; hopefully, they'll have some fruiting and evergreen plants that look good even during this draft time of the year. Possibly you'll be impressed with the fruits of Possum Haw, Ilex, Decidua, Winterberry, Holly, Box, Verticillata, or Winter King, Crataegus sp., "Winter King," and the bark of the Red Stem Dogwood.

Central Siberia, will lead you to consider fitting that plant into just the right focal spot. Depending on what nursery you visit, you might even see a few plants in bloom. Witchazel, Hammamelis Virginiana, is a good fall-blooming plant. It is most effective in late October.

Your nurseryman may tell you that you can plant several plants even in midwinter if the ground is not frozen. Winter-planted deciduous plants have much better chances than those set during the heat of the summer.

Winterize Plants: Unfortunately, many plants are located beneath the eaves of homes and do not receive regular rainfall. We remember these in summer but tend to forget that they may dry out in the fall. Be sure to deep water them now so that they'll have a better chance of making it through the winter without tissue desiccation. If you freeze rabbits in your neighborhood, take no chances. Place tree wrap or wire around all plants you suspect they like. Apples, Peaches, Pears, Hawthorns, Raspberries, Blueberries, Quinces, Euonymus, and some of the Vitaceae are all potential targets for hungry rabbits. One-inch mesh chicken wire two feet high placed at the base of the plants should prevent damage. Remember, the most crucial time to protect against rabbits is when snow is on the ground.

Wrap young trees to prevent injury from frost cracks. These cracks occur when there are sudden changes in tree temperatures. Usually, the cracks appear on the southwest side of trees, where the bark is most susceptible to the sudden temperature changes that result when the sun slips behind clouds, trees, or buildings.

Protect Roses: If you only have a few roses, mounding with eight inches of soil. Usually roses will over-winter with little or no protection, but after last winter most of us are a little afraid of taking chances. Plants originally set with the graft two inches below the ground will generally have plant shoots in the spring from the graft and from the desired cultivar. If you have a large planting and it is impractical to mound soil, use three to four-inch mulch of coarse straw.

Feed Trees: Young trees will benefit from November feedings. Fertilizers with 1:1:1 or 2:1:1 ratios are recommended. Apply twenty pounds of 10-10-10 fertilizer for every one hundred square feet under the drip line.

depending on your preference. For a self-corded seam, trim one seam allowance narrower than the width of the topstitching, press the other seam allowance over it, and topstitch enclosing the narrower seam allowance. Topstitching may also be corded either by drawing soft yarn or cable cord through the channel between the topstitching and the seam or by enclosing a cord when topstitching. In the latter case, topstitch with a zipper or cording foot. For a very heavy effect on edges, trim both seam allowances narrower than the topstitching so that they will be enclosed between the topstitching and the seam. It is important to secure the ends of BBT. The thread is smooth and slippery and knots can pull out. The best knotting method is to pull both thread ends to the wrong side of the garment (or between the fabric, and the facing), thread the ends through a hand needle, and securely work a knot into the fabric by taking several tiny stitches on top of one another. Cut the thread, leaving a 2" tail. The knot should be placed in the seam allowance but close enough to the seam so that the knot is not trimmed off when the seams are graded; corners clipped, etc. If it is ever necessary to stop topstitching in the middle of a row, knot the thread as described, then resume stitching by inserting the machine needle into the precise hole of the last stitch. Later, draw these thread ends inside and knot.

Inflation hasn't changed the price of ashes.

But it has changed the price of your home. For example, if you bought a $20,000 home in 1968 - today it's worth about $27,000. Don't be left with a costly pile of ashes. See me about a State Farm Homeowners Policy that will cover your home for all its worth... and keep it that way with automatic inflation coverage.

FAIRVIEW
By: Mrs. Hubert Chasteen

Eighty-nine persons attended Sunday School at Fairview October 27th and several more were present for worship services. We thank God for each and every one.

Baptismal services were conducted Sunday afternoon at the church. Our new building hasn't been completed as yet, but the baptistry has been put in and was used for the first time. Around seventy-five persons attended this service and enjoyed it so very much. It's wonderful to see our people step out for the Lord and we pray God's richest blessings upon these two fine young men who were baptized. We can't ever thank and praise God enough for the wonderful blessings of life. Several people from around Fairview attended the Revival at the Roundstone Baptist Church last week and enjoyed it so very much. We thank God for the ones who have been saved in the many revivals held this fall. Our sympathy is extended to the ones who have lost loved ones recently. May God bless and comfort them in their sorrow.

Mrs. Eugene Alexander, Gerald and Jewell, and Mrs. Albert Powell visited Mrs. Ann Deaton and daughters and Morton Jett, all of Jackson Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Chasteen visited her brother and family Mr. and Mrs. Tip Reppert of Scaffold Cane Tuesday night of last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Cletus Peters spent last weekend in Gatlinburg, Tennessee. On Sunday they attended our worship services at the West End Baptist Church in Newport.

Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Chasteen and Mrs. Darlene Clifton and two daughters visited Mrs. Chasteen's mother Mrs. Liddie Reppert in Mt. Vernon Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Baber and daughters of Cincinnati, Ohio recently visited her parents Mr. and Mrs. Sylvester Cope. They also visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Willie Cope while here.

Other guests of Mr. and Mrs. Willie Cope were Boyd Wren and Clarence Hall and son David.

Sunday afternoon visitors of Mr. and Mrs. John Vaughn were Mrs. Janet Adams and Ricky of Berea and Jewell and Kenneth Alexander of Fairview.

Mrs. Hubert Chasteen and Mrs. Janet Adams and two children visited Mrs. Liddie Reppert Sunday evening in Mt. Vernon. They took Mrs. Reppert and enjoyed a nice drive through Livingston and the Red Hill section.

Mr. and Mrs. Tip Reppert visited Mrs. Mable Reppert and family of Reno Valley last Sunday.

Charles Noland and children of Independence visited his sister and family Mr. and Mrs. Cletus Peters Friday and Saturday.

Sunday afternoon guests of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Smith of Widge were Cletus Peters and Mr. and Mrs. Mike Peters and son Michael.

Mr. and Mrs. Buddy Goodard and daughter Gail Lee recently visited his sister and family Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Baird of Winston Salem, North Carolina.

The Gabbard family also recently visited his grandmother Mrs. Dora Hurley of Red Lick.

Tip Reppert visited his mother Mrs. Liddie Reppert in Mt. Vernon Thursday morning.

Mrs. Della Bullens of Macedonia spent last week with her daughter and son-in-law Mr. and Mrs. Howard Lanter (Nancy) of Paris.

Visiting Mr. and Mrs. Frank Mullins of Roundstone Monday evening were Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Chasteen.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Clark of Snider visited Mrs. Edna Singleton and Mrs. Liddie Reppert Sunday evening.

Please remember to pray for Larry Alexander, son of Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Alexander of Macedonia and the other persons who were injured in a car wreck near Boone Sunday night. They are now in a Lexington hospital. We all hope and pray they will continue to improve and be back home soon.

Please attend church and Sunday School regularly. All children need to be brought up in the house of the Lord. There is no prettier sight to me than a house full of people worshipping God. But it is sad, too, to see how far people have strayed away today. Our nation as a whole needs to come back to God and once again be a Christian nation.

If you aren't attending church somewhere, won't you please think about it? God bless you.

"Just A Thought"

Did you ever stop to think What makes a day seem bright? It isn't just the bright sunshine, Though, of course, that helps all right.

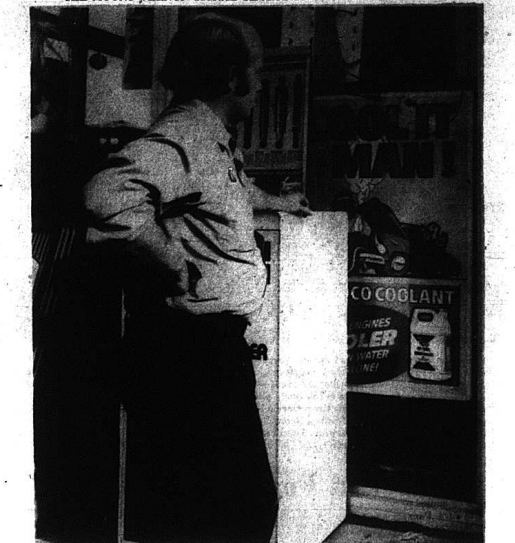

It's not just meeting friends you like Exchanging news and jokes No, sir, it's the little thoughtful things You've done for other folks.

"Let's always remember to thank God for our family, relatives and friends who mean to much to us in this world."
