1040 U.S. Individual Taxpayers Ask IRS

January 1 - December 31, 1974, or other taxable year

U.S. Treasury Department - Internal Revenue Service

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U. S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q. Is it true that the IRS will figure my tax for me?

A: Yes, but you must meet certain qualifications. On Form 1040, your income must be $20,000 or less on line 15 and be made up only of wages or salaries, and tips, dividends, interest, pensions and annuities. In addition, you must choose the standard deduction and file by the due date. Then the IRS will figure your tax for you. If you file Form 1040A, you may have the IRS compute your tax regardless of the amount of your income. The instructions for both forms explain what lines to fill out so the IRS can determine your tax. You will then receive a refund for any overpayment or a notification of the amount of tax due.

Q. When will I get my refund?

A: The IRS makes a special effort to send refunds back to taxpayers as quickly as possible. This normally takes from three to five weeks after the return is filed. Several factors can delay a refund, but you can avoid some of them. For example, be sure all the arithmetic on your return is correct, and make certain your Social Security number and your spouse's are right and that they are written in appropriate order in the blocks provided. Place the pre-addressed label from the forms package mailed to you on your return. Its use will speed the processing of your return. Finally, remember that the IRS cannot send you your refund unless you sign your return.

Q. How do I report my dividend and interest income for 1974?

A: Schedule B, Dividend and Interest Income, has been reinstated for those who have such income to report in detail. If you have $400 or less of dividend or interest income, you will not have to list it on Schedule B, but only include the totals on lines 10a, 10b, and 10c of Form 1040.

Q. How can I correct the information on my W-2 Wage and Tax Statement for 1974?

A: If you receive an erroneous W-2, you should ask your employer to issue a new W-2 to you, clearly marked "corrected copy." You should then file Copy B of the corrected statement with your Federal tax return.

KY. ABOVE AVERAGE IN SIGNING-UP WITH SELECTIVE SERVICE

Frankfort, Ky. - Kentucky is above the national average in the "signing-up" of its estimated eligible pool of males age 18 with selective service. This is the word of Colonel Taylor L. Davidson, State Director.

According to the selective service official, young men born in 1956 generally have responded in registering with selective service. "This timely response and demonstration of good citizenship has enabled the state to be approximately 12% above the national average," Colonel Davidson said.

"Our Washington Headquarters has projected that in the state through December there were 83,276 males born in the year 1956 who have the obligation to register with selective service. Approximately 91% of this estimated eligible pool have complied with the law," the State Director said.

He said "statistical there has been slight variations in registration input in the last quarter of calendar year 1974." The official attributed the minimal fluctuation to the fact that it has been more convenient for the young man to register within the sixty day period beginning thirty days before or thirty days after attaining age 18. This convenience was a result of the appointment of additional registrars including high school and college personnel, and use of a "mail-in" registration form.

Colonel Davidson stated his field personnel has intensified their registrar and school contacts to assure that every young man has been well informed of his obligation to comply with the Military Selective Service Act.

In the System's current "standby" status we are most grateful for the more than eight hundred public spirited citizens who now serve as volunteer registrars. Their civic mindedness has made it possible to provide a registration service in the 108 counties which do not have a full time local board office," the State Director said.

Colonel Davidson praised the media of public information, businesses, utilities, and elected county officials for their support. "They, too, have made our task easier through providing publicity." We value our contribution and hope the good relationship will continue," the State Director said.

FAIRVIEW

Eighty-nine persons at tended Sunday School at Fairview January 12th and a few more came for worship services. We thank God for people who will try to go to church regardless of the weather that is, if it's at all possible. Sunday was such a bad day, the temperature was in the middle twenties and snowed all day long with a gusty wind that was so chilly and cold. We received five inches of snow.

QUAM

Due to the weather our news is scarce as we got out unless they had to. It was a day for man and beast to be inside.

A baptismal service was conducted at the Fairview Baptist Church Sunday night. May God richly bless this young lady as she steps out to work for the Lord.

Jennifer Isaacs, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Luther Isaacs of Wildie, celebrated her fourth birthday January 1st with a supper given at her home. Helpmates to celebrate were her grandparents Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Pickle and family of Snider, Mrs. Belle Vaughn of Fairview and Mr. and Mrs. Lonnie Pickle of Berea. Many more happy birthdays Jennifer, we love you.

Charles Noland and son Jimmy of Independence were Sunday dinner guests of his sister Mrs. Cletus Peters. Mr. Peters and Beverly.

Mrs. Della Bullens of Macedonia spent last week in Paris with her daughter Mrs. Howard Lanter and Mr. Lanter.

Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Chasteen visited at the homes of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Adams and Mr. and Mrs. Junior Chasteen of Berea Friday evening.

Mike Peters was honored with a birthday dinner Saturday at his home near Fairview. Present for the dinner were his wife, Fayne and his son, Michael, his parents Mr. and Mrs. Cletus Peters, his sister Beverly, and his father in law and mother in law Mr. and Mrs. Henry Smith. They enjoyed a good time together.

Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Chasteen visited her brother and family Mr. and Mrs. Tip Reppert Thursday night.

Tip Reppert visited his mother Mrs. Liddie Reppert of Mt. Vernon Monday afternoon.

Please remember church and Sunday School. God is so good to us. We can never thank him enough for the many blessings of life. If we have the love of God in our heart we can love our neighbor and do him good instead of evil. If our heart is filled with love there is no room for anything bad. The Lord wants us to love one another and to pray for each other. If we did this the world would be a better place in which to live.

By-Mrs. Hubert Chasteen "FRIENDS ON EARTH"

Friends can be so helpful and so wonderful to know. If only when they take the time to call and say hello. Just the knowledge that they care, and that they think of you, can really help you do your best in all you strive to do. To know that you are wanted, and you feel that you belong, can banish any doubt you have, and make your life a song.

Friends are angels who give faith. And hope and strength to you. To carry on from day to day, and make your dreams come true. Only God can help you more, than all your friends on earth. As He created all of them. And He allowed your birth.

I thank God for wonderful friends and I know you do too!

Mr. and Mrs. Bishop Burton visited Mr. and Mrs. M. J. McMullin Monday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Rogers and Jill and Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Todd visited Mrs. Willie Todd Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Jess Norton visited Mrs. Maude Hasty Thursday afternoon.

Miss Rose J. spent Sunday and Monday night of last week with her sister Mr. and Mrs. Butch Carl and family at Versailles.

Sunday visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hayes and family were Rev. and Mrs. Edd Gibbs and Florence, Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Bowling, Lewis Whitaker and Mr. and Mrs. Donnie Whitaker and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Robertson and family of Lexington visited Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Chappelle and Scotty.

Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Perry of Michigan spent Thursday night with Mr. and Mrs. Rolla Perry.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hayes were at Lexington last Tuesday to consult his doctor.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Scott visited his mother Mrs. Mary Scott Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Anderson and Mrs. Flonnie Brown visited Willie Logsdon and Delta Brown Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. Robert Gentry and Mrs. Charlie B. Owens visited Mrs. Wise Noe Thursday.

A surprise birthday dinner was given for Jesse Taylor at his home Sunday and those to help him celebrate were Mrs. Taylor and family, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. Ronnie Payne and Stanley and Mr. and Mrs. Coy Taylor.

Councilman Virgil Alcorn told the Council that he had received a lot of criticism originally for agreeing to the $2,000 payment and that he was in agreement with Councilman Hallcom on the motion.

Councilman Chester Hellard also voted yes on the issue with Councilmen Bob Jasper and Conrad Parrett both voting no and Mrs. Robinson abstaining. The motion carried 3 to 2.

DEAR MR. TAX MAN:

The instructions say that you have to fill out a separate Schedule E for each annuity you receive. Isn't that dumb? That means that my husband and I have to prepare four Schedule E's. The whole thing sounds like an IRS boondoggle.

DEAR IRRITATED: List the annuities on one sheet of paper, attach the paper to Schedule E, and show the total amount of the annuities on Schedule E. There, now you can dry those hot little tears.

DEAR MR. TAX MAN:

Obviously you're not trying to make a profit on the rental. You are permitted to deduct interest costs and property taxes even if these deductions cause you to lose money on the rental. You may also deduct operating costs such as fuel, lights, depreciation, etc., but only to the point where these expenses equal gross rents received. No loss is allowed. But then, you're not trying to make a profit.

HEAVY SNOW CLOSES SCHOOLS - Rockcastle County Schools were closed Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and today of this week after a heavy snow fall Sunday and Monday night and Tuesday night, totalling 5 1/2 inches. The temperature dropped well below freezing. As can be seen in the above photo, roads were still coated with ice and snow on Wednesday.

Death Penalty Reinstated In Kentucky

By: Herb Brock

The first death sentence meted out under Kentucky's new penal code is likely to end up before the State Court of Appeals as a "jeopardy" case testing reinstatement of capital punishment.

That seems to sum up opinions of a number of state corrections officials, including Charles J. Holmes, commissioner of the state's Bureau of Corrections, as the death penalty returned to Kentucky lawbooks on January 1. How the death penalty fares in Kentucky courts - and courts in other states and the U.S. Supreme Court - will shape correctional policies and programs, not to mention court verdicts, for years to come, Holmes said.

Holmes added that a long, drawn-out series of legal battles over constitutionality of the death penalty could delay - perhaps for years - the electric chair at the state penitentiary at Eddyville.

The last execution in Kentucky took place on March 2, 1962. There have been a total of 162 executions since 1911, the year the electric chair first was used and electrocution officially designated as the only means of carrying out the death penalty. Capital punishment was revived for certain crimes by the 1974 Kentucky General Assembly as part of a sweeping revision of the state's criminal laws. Although 29 states have rewritten death penalty laws as prescribed by the Supreme Court two years ago, no one has been executed.

But North Carolina, one of the first states to reinstitute the death penalty, is being watched closely, as a prisoner there currently is testing the new law in court.

Under Kentucky's new penal code, the death sentence is prescribed for the following crimes:

"Murder for hire or jeopardy."
"Murder in direct conjunction with first-degree robbery, first-degree rape, first-degree arson and first-degree burglary;

"Multiple murders;

"Murder of a prison employee during his or her work hours;

"Murder using a destructive device (such as a bomb);

"Murder of a police officer, sheriff or deputy sheriff during their work hours;

"Kidnapping, and then harming the victim."

"I suspect that many defense attorneys will claim that the death penalty is too broadly defined, too hazy in spots," said a spokesman for the corrections bureau's legal office. "They'll have to use care in picking the charge against a defendant," he added.

That spokesman said that juries, in an effort to dodge enforcement of the death penalty, actually may elect to acquit defendants charged in capital crimes. Under the new law they cannot throw out capital charges in favor of others carrying less severe penalties.

There are now five men at the penitentiary who have been designated as "death row" inmates, although there is no "death row" as such and plans do not call for the establishment of a specific area to lodge inmates sentenced to death.

After the Supreme Court in 1972 ordered a halt to executions until death penalty laws were rewritten, sentences of four of the "death row" inmates were commuted to life.

The fifth man's sentence was reduced to life without parole.

The fifth man's sentence was more severe because of the nature of his crime - rape and murder. The other four men were convicted on murder charges, but received a lesser penalty over objections of a number of Commonwealth attorneys.

None of the five sentences will change automatically under the new penal code because the code is not "retroactive." That means that anyone charged or convicted of committing one of the new capital offenses before 1975, is totally immune from execution.

Capital punishment had been law in Kentucky since statehood in 1792. Before it was regarded inoperative two years ago, the death penalty covered fifteen different crimes. They included armed theft of a bank or bank theft, death resulting from obstruction of a road or private passageway, shooting or throwing a missile into a train, station or motor vehicle resulting in death, and willful murder.

Of the 162 persons executed in Kentucky since 1911, 144 were executed for willful murder, six for criminal assault, five for armed robbery and seven for rape.

A large percentage - 53.1 percent - of the 162 persons executed were blacks. The fact that the percentage of blacks being executed greatly exceeded their portion of the state's population - 7 percent - frequently was used as the basis for arguments charging that the death penalty was racist.

According to state and federal records, the death penalty was most frequently used in the 1930's. The peak year for executions nationally was 1935, when 189 were put to death. The number declined steadily until 1965, when only seven were executed. Of the total number of executions reported, 3,324 were for murder, 455 for rape and 24 for kidnapping.

There have been no reported executions of women in Kentucky.

Of the executions reported in Kentucky, 47 - or about one third - were from Jefferson County. Otherwise, the distribution represented a fairly even cross-section of Kentucky counties.

The last person to die in Kentucky's electric chair was Kelly Moss, a white mechanic from Henderson, who was sentenced to death on March 30, 1960 at the age of 45.

INSIDE TV

CONFIDENTIAL REPORT - DAVID CARRADINE's world is crumbling. Aside from court suits by neighbors who claim he rifled their home, and a young lady who claims he tried to rape her, Carradine, a popular showman, is about ready to get the axe. "Kung Fu," last year's top feature show, ranked 70 out of 74 shows in this fall's Nielsen ratings. But aside from professional problems, the latest shocker to come from the star was his split from his wife, BARBARA SEAGULL, the mother of his 2-year-old son, FREE. The reason: another woman, David is now professing undying love for actress SEASON HUBLEY, who he met on his show in a recent episode. "I've never loved anyone in show business! The wisecracking Army combat surgeon we've gotten to know and love on the popular TV series, "MASH," is literally burning the candle at both ends. Before, in between and after he plays the irresistible Hawkeye, the talented actor busies himself writing the script for his own new TV series. "It's something I've always wanted to do," explained Alida, "to write and see my own creating to completion." It's about a suburban New Jersey couple with three children. The pilot show, which was presented last spring, was about the family's oldest son, who accidentally discovered that he was born out of wedlock. "It's a wonderful opportunity," said Alida, who reportedly banks in $250,000 for his role in "MASH." "Unfortunately, everything came at the same time, and I have to do it all at once."

TV HOTLINE - SONNY BONO was more miffed to lose his partner than his lover, beautiful CHER! "I was more emotional about the show ending than the divorce," confesses Sonny. "We had worked so hard to get to this point in our careers. I've never loved anyone in show business! His first try to make TV history repeat itself is "The Sonny Comedy Hour," the star's first performance in years without Cher by his side. ... RUBY TYLER MOORE, a television superstar who owns a company earnings $2.5 million a year, is forced to scrimp along with an allowance of only $50 a week. When GRANT TINKER, her husband and partner in MTM Production Co., set the $50 limit, Miss Moore agreed. Longtime friends of the star believe her obsession with a man who was spanned by a financial disaster when she made her Broadway debut years ago.

HOLLYWOOD TV TICKET - Dr. Marcus Welby has saved a real live person from a fate worse than death! The venerable fictional physician emerged from his television role long enough to aid a helpless victim in one of the most unusual juve cases in history. Dr. Welby was kindly old gentleman played by ROBERT YOUNG, was the star witness in a recent Chicago murder case. ... Producer-director PETER S. TRAYNOR is probably the greatest friend the medical profession has ever had. The 35-year-old, 5-foot-11-inch millimeter has 1,500 doctors who back all of his movie-making ventures, and so far they have made back about $10 for every buck they have invested. Peter told MERV GRIFFIN on his TV program, "I know there are a lot of people in the movie business who claim they are it for art's sake. I'm not. I'm in it to make money for my people. I don't know who Art is, but I'll bet he is awfully hungry about now."

City Council Studies Plans For Addition To City Hall

Includes Remodeling - Will Make Final Decision Monday Night

The City Council discussed the possibility of building an addition to and renovating the present City Hall building at their regular monthly meeting Monday night.

Philip Gilbert, a graduate architect associated with an architectural firm in Berea, presented the Council with a sketch showing a 30 x 40 addition with basement which would be used to house the City's two fire trucks. The sketch also outlined a renovation of the present City Hall building which would utilize the space where the fire trucks are now sitting for office space, storage, and Council meeting room.

Mayor Roland Mullins pointed out to the Council that the fire trucks were now sitting in a building which was being held up mainly by three 4x4's and that something was going to have to be done about that situation soon anyway. And it was also noted that the City is cramped for space in its present building, which was reportedly built in the late 40's, since besides the fire trucks, it also houses the city clerk's office, the waterworks office, maintenance headquarters for city equipment in the base and ambulance and police offices.

The new addition would also include a full-size basement with a gravel floor. The Council did not take definite action on the proposal at the meeting but decided instead to study the matter and reach a definite decision at a called meeting next Monday night.

In other business, on a motion by Virgil Alcorn, seconded by Dennis Halcomb, the Council voted to hire Constable Sherman Donny as part-time city policeman, on a thirty-day trial basis and with the understanding that he will immediately resign his present position as Constable.

This action was taken following some discussion by the Council and the clearing of the Council room so that the members might discuss the matter in executive session. Mayor Mullins had suggested to the Council that the wiser course might be to appoint three councilmen as a committee to study the matter.

However, Councilman Alcorn said that Mr. Denney had been before the Council several times previously and he felt that at least a part-time policeman was needed since the Council was now paying Frank DeFolde to work one night a week to relieve Policeman Roy "Schooler" Lucas. Mr. Alcorn also said that he felt an additional policeman was needed in town on Saturdays. The motion was passed with Councilman Bob Jasper voting no and Councilwoman Kay Robinson abstaining.

Immediately following this action, City Policeman Roy Lucas submitted his resignation to the Council, effective January 15th and immediately left the meeting. The Council did not officially accept Mr. Lucas' resignation and expressed their desire to talk with him concerning the resignation.

The Council was also split on a motion made by Councilman Dennis Halcomb concerning the garbage situation in the city. Mr. Halcomb told the Council that immediately after the Council agreed to pay the

NEW CLUB TO MEET JANUARY 23RD...

A Progressive Women's League is presently in the process of being formed in Rockcastle County and all interested ladies in the county are urged to attend a meeting Monday, January 23rd at the Rockcastle County Library at 7:30 p.m.

The purpose of the new organization is two-fold: (1) to do things that the members will enjoy and benefit from and (2) to get involved in projects where by the community will also benefit.

According to Mrs. Julianne Harris, president, the League is a chance for every woman to become involved in an exerted effort. Mrs. Harris also helps promote more progress and growth for the community and herself. Mrs. Harris says this can be accomplished by the League through cultural exchange, arts and crafts, government, education and lending support in community affairs and organization.

One of the first projects of the organization will probably be a benefit in the Spring, featuring a well-known entertainer. Proceeds from this benefit will go to the County Kindergarten and Central Am bulance Service. This project will be discussed at the January meeting.

The Mt. Vernon City Council is now studying the possibility of adding a 30x40 addition to the present building which would house the fire trucks. The big doors would be moved into the addition. The new addition would be to the right in the above photo, and the front of the present building would be recessed and the inside renovated to provide much needed office and storage space. The Council will meet Monday night in a called meeting to decide definitely on the project.

Workshops Scheduled

Housing - Are you planning to build or remodel your home in the future or in the process of it? If so, then you might be interested in learning more about financing, floor plans, materials, wiring, lighting, and landscaping. The Cooperative Extension Service in the eight county Wilderness Trail Area will be sponsoring a housing school in cooperation with Kentucky Utilities and Jackson County RECC. The school will be held at the Kentucky Utilities Building in London, Kentucky on February 10, 11, 13, 18, and 20, 1975 from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. There is no charge for the sessions. State Extension persons as well as local resource persons will be presenting the program. The school is opened to the public and any or all sessions may be attended. The sessions will be:

*Monday, March 3, 7, 9 p.m. - Your Clothing Dollar.

All lessons will be presented at the Production Credit Association Building in Mt. Vernon. If you would like to attend any of these meetings, please call the County Extension Office at 256-2403.

Basic Clothing Workshop

A basic clothing workshop will be presented for beginners and those wishing to improve their sewing skills. The lessons will be one a week for five weeks beginning Thursday, January 6, and will be held at the Sunset Fabric Shop in Mt. Vernon from 6:30 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. on Thursday evenings. The first meeting will be on Thursday January 16, 1975. The classes will be taught by Cheryl Witt, County Extension Agent for Home Economics. If you are interested in participating, call

REYNOLDS FARM SOLD AT AUCTION

Dr. Russell BreDahl, Extension Specialist in Beef Animal Science, will be at the Rockcastle County High School Monday, January 20, 1975 at 8:00 p.m. for a very important meeting for anyone producing beef cattle.

Dr. BreDahl will discuss such topics as: Feeding and Management of Beef Cattle; Choosing a Protein Supplement including Nonprotein Nitrogen in Beef Cattle Rations; Feeder (Cont. to 14)

Wildie Christian Church Breaks Ground For New Building

The congregation of the Wildie Christian Church met Sunday in a field at Wildie to hold ground-breaking ceremonies for a new church building to be constructed on the site. The location of the church will be on the old Dr. Lewis property at Wildie between the residence of C. G. Stewart and Billy Wolfe.

The ceremony Sunday culminated approximately two years of effort by the congregation to raise the necessary funds for the 7,000 square foot structure. Upon completion, the church and grounds will cost about $140,000. A portion of the land was purchased from Shirley Smith with C. G. Stewart and L. N. Railroad donating the remainder of the 1.4 acre plot.

The 184-seat sanctuary with twelve Sunday School rooms plus an office and kitchen is expected to be completed in about six months. There will also be parking available for forty-two cars.

At the ground-breaking ceremony, Pastor Keriton Parkey gave a brief talk followed by prayer and responsive reading. Chairman of the Board Billy Hiatt then gave a short talk.

The church will be built by Goodman Church Builders of Joplin, Missouri. Following is a brief history of the Wildie Christian Church as compiled by John Lair, local historian:

"Back in 1872, almost 100 years ago, when progress was beginning to sweep through the lonesome hills and hollows of Rockcastle County, and big industry was reaching out greedily hands towards the wealth of coal and timber south of us, the Southern Railway obtained from the Kentucky Legislature a permit to extend their line from Cincinnati across the State to the southward. Work was begun at once.

In due course of time, their advance engineers sought a water level route through the Valley of the Roundstone that carried them by a point later to become a passenger stop under the name of Wildie.

"Part of the duties of the advance crew were to locate buildings, shops, and equipment centers to expedite the job of handling the many workmen who would be required for leveling the ground, digging the tunnels and laying ties and rails.

A commissary was needed to supply the necessities for the work crews, and naturally a building must be erected to house such a commissary. This building was on or near the property later known as the Aunt Sis Coffey place.

"During the ensuing years, the work on the railroad was finally completed and the commissary having served its purpose, was evacuated and abandoned. A small church congregation in that vicinity had been in existence for an undetermined length of time with no regular place of assembly. They were quick to seize upon the opportunity of using the vacant commissary building for that purpose. There is some record that prior to that time they had made use of an old log schoolhouse near what was later known as the Jess Proctor place. Bill Stewart recalls that this was known as Cedar Hill at a later time when he attended his first school there.

"We have it from Etna Hayes Coffey, a close student of local history for the past several years, that the commissary had been known as Shattans Commissary and the surrounding area as Shattans Community.

"We do not know exactly how long the congregation worshipped there. It is possible that the old building became unworkable and too small for the crowds; and certainly the

Gene Gray Prints To Be Auctioned...

Rockcastle County is fortunate to have three Child Development Centers to provide services not only for the development of children - ages three to six - but also to provide Day Care services for working parents. In order for the program to operate, money must be raised within our county to match governmental funds. The Brindle Ridge, Brodhead, and Maple Grove Centers have done various things to raise money for the Child Development Program. The Brodhead Center has been fortunate to have two autographed prints donated to them by the noted Kentucky artist, Gene Gray. The prints will be auctioned at the Rockcastle County High School January 24th during half-time of the Rockcastle County Madison High basketball game by the Ford Realty and Auction Company. All proceeds will go to the Rockcastle County Child Development Program.

The above is an architect's drawing of the Wildie Christian Church which will be built on 1.4 acres of land at Wildie between the property of C. G. Stewart and Billy Wolfe. The church is being built by Goodman Church Builders of Joplin, Missouri with Ivan L. McElwee and Kenneth H. Strich as architects.

Consumer Comments

By: Ed W. Hancock
Editor, General Counsel of Kentucky

We've entered the golden era; consumers are allowed to buy and sell gold for the first time in forty years. But federal agencies have warned us: "Consumers may find that the purchase of gold is more of a minefield than a gold mine unless they are familiar with the risks."

Consumers who may know little about gold, bullion and ingots are certainly susceptible to any attempts by swindlers to take advantage of the public's fascination with gold. As this office has said before, "All that glitters is not gold."

To decide if gold is an appropriate investment for you, consult a brokerage firm, banker or financial advisor. And if you do decide to buy gold, remember to read the safe agreement thoroughly. If you don't understand it, don't sign it.

Be wary when agreeing to pay, in person or through the mail, before receiving either the merchandise or proof that the gold is being held on your behalf. Other states have reported that several firms selling silver this way went out of business and left unfilled orders worth hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Five federal agencies recently issued guidelines called "The Golden Rules," outlining some steps investors should take for protection against fraud:

"Be wary of unsolicited correspondence or calls from strangers offering to sell you gold;

"Be skeptical of promises of spectacular profits. Ask yourself why you are being offered this golden opportunity;

"Resist pressures to make hurried, uninformed investment decisions;

"Be suspicious of claims of new, secret or exotic processes to extract gold;

"Seek independent advice from a person you trust and who is knowledgeable;

"Consider the risks in relation to your own financial position and needs;

"Find out if the company has registered with the Securities and Exchange Commission or the Kentucky Department of Banking and Securities;

"Attempt to determine the seller's mark-up or how much the gold seller to purchase the gold;

"Ascertain what costs, in addition to the quoted price of gold, are involved. You may be required to pay a refining charge, assay fees, commissions, shipping and storage fees, insurance costs and sales tax;

"Demand a written guarantee concerning weight and fineness or purity;

"Attempt to make your purchases through local, reputable firms;

"Find out when and how the gold will be delivered and stored, including what security precautions will be taken to ensure that your gold isn't shaved or that counterfeit gold isn't substituted;

"Ask whether the gold will be segregated and stored in your name, not the seller's or supplier's. Make sure you receive a written receipt showing that the correct amount of gold is being stored for your account by a reputable concern;

"Ask whether there will be a ready market for the gold in the form being offered to you. You may have to pay to have your gold recast into a different shape or size or transported to a distant market before you can sell it.

ROCKCASTLE CIRCUIT COURT Civil Action File No. 2768

JESSIE WAYNE ABNEY, ET AL.

PLAINTIFFS

V. NOTICE OF SALE

ESTER POE, ET AL.

DEFENDANTS

By virtue of a judgment and order of sale of the Rockcastle Circuit Court rendered on December 27th, 1974, in the above case, a partition action, I shall proceed to offer for sale at the Court House door on Main Street, in Mt. Vernon, Kentucky, to the highest bidder, at public auction on the 18th day of January, 1975, at ten o'clock A.M., or thereabouts the following described real property, to-wit:

Located on the waters of Roundstone Creek in Rockcastle County, Kentucky, to-wit:

Beginning on a maple with a small white oak pointer, also on the south side of the branch being about 40 yards above a very high cliff; thence South 6½ East 42 poles to a large white oak stump with pine and dogwood pointers on a ridge; thence South 42 East 82 poles to a stone set up at a hickory stump with sycamore pointers by a branch; thence North 35½ East 57 poles to a white oak stump with two gum pointers by a branch; thence North 7½ West 84 poles to a white oak near a branch; thence North 81½ West 64 poles to a black oak and hickory; thence South 26½ West 41½ poles to the beginning, containing 56½ acres, more or less.

There is excepted from the above described real property approximately twenty-five (25) acres conveyed by William Poe, et al., on October 29, 1935, to Lester Poe and Lila Lee Poe by deed of record in Deed Book 60, Page 100.

The property shall be sold to the highest bidder on terms of ten percent (10%) of the purchase price in cash at time of sale, the balance in six (6) months, with the purchaser being required to execute bond with surety thereon to be approved by the Commissioner to secure the unpaid balance of the purchase price; said bond to bear interest at the rate of seven percent (7%) per annum from date of sale until paid. The purchaser shall have the privilege of paying all or part of the purchase price in cash, or paying said bond before maturity by paying the principal amount thereof together with all interest accrued thereon until the date of such payment.

Frankfort Watchline

Gary Auxler

Frankfort, Ky. - It's too early yet for any lasting judgments on what kind of government Julian Carroll is going to be.

But what can be said for sure, though, is that he has wasted no time taking the reins - and the whip - and charging full gallop into the bureaucracy.

He has also wasted no time in tackling some 11th hour actions Gov. Wendell Ford took for almost two months before becoming United States Senator a little early through the good graces of Sen. Marlow Cook.

Carroll hasn't been throwing the word "austerity" around yet, but that appears to be the direction he is taking.

In the long run, it may not mean any out-of-pocket savings for the taxpayers, but Carroll seems mainly to be interested in seeing to it that what is already coming out-of-pocket is wisely used.

It might be worth pointing out that to save one percent of the state budget would take the paring away of $40 million.

On a smaller but still significant scale, Carroll has ordered a hold on all state publications except those that are mandated by state law.

This includes everything from departmental newsletters to four-color magazines.

At one time or another, probably everyone in the state has seen one or more of these little gems.

They are geared, generally, to one of two directions: keeping other employees of the state informed as to who has retired or married or got to work on time two days in a row, and informing the public of what wonderful things are being done with your tax money.

What all of these publications neglected to tell you is that they are one of the wonderful uses to which your tax dollar is being put.

YOUR ELECTRICITY

MUST cost you more. Here's why.

There is no shortage of electricity in our service area. You can count on all you need for home, office, store or industry. But today you can also count on something of higher costs. Electric bills that must get bigger and bigger.

Why?

Inflation
Sky-high prices for everything we use to generate electricity and bring it to you. Wire, transformers, trucks, wages - the thousands of things that make up our "market basket." It costs more to bring you electricity...every day.

Environmental Controls

A clean environment carries a huge price tag. Money we must obtain from our customers. We will spend $10.3 million in 1975 for environmental control equipment, more than $50 million between '73 and '77.

Construction Costs

To meet your ever growing demands for energy, including demands for power caused by the shift to electricity from other fuels and by Kentucky's industrial expansion, we must spend at least $500 million between 1974 and 1978. And costs keep growing as inflation adds to planned expenditures.

Interest Costs

To serve those growing needs, we must borrow money to build - more than $300 million in permanent financing by 1978. The interest cost alone could be as much as $30 million a year. Bond charges that must be provided by our customers.

These are the reasons behind the rising cost of electricity. The more and more our costs go up, the more and more our rates rise. And the more equitably they go up now, the more competitively we can borrow the money we must have - and the less your rates will rise in the years ahead.

County Road Maintenance
 Ruling - A. R. Oliver, Allen County judge, asked if a magistrate on a fiscal court could authorize the spreading of gravel on a private road if the owner pays for the gravel and the county furnishes the truck and driver. This is a road travelled by a school bus and a mailman. It is the opinion of the Attorney General's Office that county road money is to be spent and equipment used only on county roads.

Floyd Knuckles of Route 2, Paint Lick ended the year right Monday, December 30th when he pulled in this big Walleye Pike from the Rockcastle River near the Indian Village. The big fish weighed 15 pounds, 6 ounces and Mr. Knuckles also caught a "smaller" Pike weighing only 6 pounds, 4 ounces which is being held by his son, Alvin, but it cannot be seen. Mr. Knuckles said he was still fishing with minnows.

Pioneers And Their Problems

(The article below is one of a series by members of the Kentucky Young Historians Association of the Kentucky Historical Society, "The Future Reflecting The Past")

By: Keith Bethel
Arlington School, Lexington

James Harrod led the pioneers' way in 1774. The pioneers didn't have any shelter from the Indians or heat. There were very few comforts. Sometimes there was little or no food or water.

The main danger of the pioneers was the Indians. The Indians ambushed pioneers because they were trespassing on their land. They used Kentucky as their hunting grounds. James Harrod bought land from the Indians at five cents an acre.

The pioneers came across the mountains in covered wagons, or on foot or on horseback. There were many difficulties crossing the Gap, like not enough food or water. They moved things down the Ohio River in flatboats or barges.

Some of the famous pioneers were Daniel Boone who led some settlers to Kentucky, George Rogers Clark who surveyed the land and John Filson and James Stewart who led them into Kentucky with Boone, James Stewart and Daniel Boone were on a trip and both were ambushed. They escaped, but Daniel never saw John again.

The main chores in spring were to clear the land, plow and plant food. The women had to do all the housework. They had to wash, spin, mend, knit and furnish the food, built the house and fought against the Indians. They had very little time to rest. When they did rest, it was when new people needed a house. The neighbors helped build the house. For supper they had lots of food. After the cabin was built and supper was over, they had square dancing. This was like a festival; it was called house warming.

They had simple food: corn, bread, beans and meat. They cooked in a metal kettle over an open fireplace. They had a small mill to grind meal. They wore animal skins for clothes. For shoes, they had moccasins.

The first pioneers lived in huts and caves. Later they lived in a cabin. It had four sides, one window and door. The logs were placed on top of each other until they had 7 or 8 feet of logs piled up. Some lived in a dugout. The furniture was made of wood. For lights they had candles.

The pioneers had to make their own candles and soap. There were many hardships to face: The pioneers had diseases like malaria, yellow fever and smallpox. They used strange compounds of herbs. Through 1800-1850 many diseases were fought and beaten.

It was very hard to communicate. They lived so far apart. They got to see each other at housewarmings.

The pioneers also had superstitions. One of them was when their corns hurt there was going to be a storm. They would go out and get some fruit and vegetables, because they didn't know how bad the storm was going to be.

For stories, they read out of the Bible or told legends and ballads.

Allen of Florence visited Mr. and Mrs. Bob Holt Saturday night.

Mrs. Goldie Brown Fields of Dayton, Ohio, daughter of Logan and Minnie Brown, has passed away in Dayton. Sympathy is extended to her family.

Authorization to Expend Funds for Exceptional Children
E. Preston Young, attorney for the Jefferson County Board of Education, asked if a county board of education is authorized to expend funds to send an exceptional child to an out-of-state institution - in this case St. Rita School for the Deaf in Cincinnati - when to school for this class of exceptional is provided within the district. It is the opinion of the Attorney General's Office that school districts should not pay the expenses of exceptional children at boarding schools or schools not accessible by daily commuting, such as the school in Cincinnati, which is more than one hundred miles away. Moreover, the Kentucky Constitution prohibits the appropriation or use by any church, sectarian or denominational school of any fund or tax levied or raised for educational purposes.

HIAIT: Although the Hiatts do not trace their origin back as far as many others, they share with the Houks, the Hayeses and the Adamses the reputation of having one of the most completely documented ancestral charts of any family in Rockcastle County. If it later develops that they are descended from Col. Just Hite they will acquire the antiquity for their line which is now missing.

The difference in the spelling of the name has heretofore discouraged extensive ancestral research, but it should be noted that such change of spelling had an even earlier origin. The important figure in early American history, Jost Hite, had already changed from Heydt to Hite soon after coming to America from his native Holland.

The Rockcastle Hiatts head their family tree with Abner Hiatt and his wife, the former Lucy Peaslee, who came presumably from Virginia and settled first in Singleton Valley near Great Saltpetre Cave. They are said to have come in with a group of several families traveling together for protection, most of whom were brought in as experienced powdermakers to operate the saltpetre works in the cave. While living in Singleton Valley, Abner was bitten by a rattlesnake, with near-fatal results.

The names of neither Abner nor his two sons, William Peaslee or Bennett appear in the Rockcastle census report before 1820, but it is certain that they were here well before that date, since a company organized for service in the war of 1812, under date of November 10, 1814, showed William Peaslee Hiatt, William Bethuram and Bennett Hiatt furnishing substitutes to take their place on the roster of the company in which Loftus Cook, of this county, was first lieutenant.

According to old deeds and papers in the possession of Jones Bennett Hiatt, of Renfro Valley, Bennett Hiatt in 1824 purchased from the Harmon Bailey heirs a part of the tract on which the Hiatts had obtained from Underwood's Virginia Grant, of 6750 acres, issued under the signature of Patrick Henry in 1781. The sale to Hiatt was dated in 1824, as noted above, and it is assumed that immediately thereafter he erected the big log house which still stands as a landmark in Renfro Valley. Bennett had married one of the Bailey sisters, and in this house they raised their family and spent their remaining days. A son, Jones, married Tabitha Ard, and they raised three children in the old home, Laura, Lura and Jones. Jones married Margaree Mary and they occupied the old house as long as they lived. Jones (Pappy) expiring there at 97 years of age. His sister, Lura, married George Fish and they made their home a few miles down Renfro Creek, on what I remember as one of the best farms in the county. The older sister, Laura, married Andy Barker. At her death in 1974 she was 108 years old.

William Peaslee Hiatt, who married first, another of the Bailey sisters, must have come to Renfro Valley before 1815, as the Bailey family was living here when they were married on that date. Instead of building a home, as did his brother, Bennett, he purchased in later years the immense log house formerly occupied by Col. William Fish. William Peaslee's second wife, Mary French, being much younger, outlived him for many years and the old house became known as "The Aunt Polly Hiatt Place." It is still preserved in excellent condition. I have had it moved to the corner of my yard and am still in the process of restoring it to its original state.

William Peaslee Hiatt's children by his first wife were: Milton, who never married; Lucy, who married John Crawford; Abner, who married Eliza Owens; James Peter, who married Rebecca French, sister of Mary French, his father's second wife. Peter James Hiatt was named for his uncle, Peter James Bailey, who died at the Alamo. Mary married James Crawford. Charlotte married William Hunt.

William Peaslee's second wife, Mary, was a sister of my grandmother, Ann French Lair. Their children were: Perander, who married Loretta McClary; Ross, who married Nannie McClary; Lawrence, who married Kate Hiatt; Ellen, who married Kate French; Allen; who married Eliza Fish; and second, Alice Proctor.

Members of the Hiatt family have been among the more substantial citizens of Rockcastle County. Albert Hiatt, son of Allen and Eliza Fish Hiatt, was for many years before his retirement president of Citizens' Bank of Brookfield. Peter James Hiatt was one of our outstanding ministers and married more couples than any other county minister, with the exception of Rev. Morton Owens. Charlotte Sommers Hiatt, who married Abraham Chestnut, was mother of three prominent ministers. Rev. James Monroe, Rev. Benjamin and Rev. Abraham Chestnut. Willie Hiatt, Sr. was long a successful merchant and his son, Willie, Jr. is following in his footsteps.

Four generations of the family have been born in and raised under the old Bennett Hiatt home in Renfro Valley. The only time they left it was in 1876 when Jones and Tabitha Hiatt set out with their family in a covered wagon in search of a new location. In Arkansas Jones died of swamp fever and his wife and children came back to the old home place. A few years later Jones' brother, William, married his widow and helped to raise his brother's family, one of whom was Jones (Pappy) Hiatt, the last of the name to occupy the old log house, which is still standing.

ANDERSON: There are several branches of the Anderson family in Rockcastle and we hope to be able to acquire information or more of them for this list of family histories. We are presently checking on descendants of William Parker Anderson, of the Seaford Cane community, and today, we run something of the history of Capt. J. W. Anderson, as recorded by his son-in-law, Jesse Fish, in connection with his account of the Fish family.

He wrote that Capt. Anderson came from Canada to the United States at a date unknown, but gives it an approximate time by saying that he was forced to leave Canada on suspicion of having given secret information to enemies of the British government. He was an Indian trader and when he left hurriedly during the night he was forced to leave all his belongings behind and never went back to reclaim them.

When he came to Kentucky he married a widow by the name of Stigall, who owned a vast acreage around present-day Brookfield. The settlement there being then known as Stigall's Stand, a stop on an early stagecoach route. Capt. Anderson was sheriff of Rockcastle County in 1822, the year in which Jesse Fish, who was serving as his deputy, married his youngest daughter, Evelina Anderson. Jesse was a very large man, weighing well over two hundred pounds, his wife less than one hundred. They raised a family of eight children. At her death in 1835 she was buried in Renfro Valley Cemetery, with twin babies, one on each arm.

After the death of the Stigall woman, Capt. Anderson was married again and had one son, Wilkerson Anderson, who married Almada Mershon of Mt. Vernon, Kentucky. They later separated and there were no children. Wilkerson served a number of years as Chief Guard at the Penitentiary in Frankfort, Kentucky. He was known as one of the handsomest men in Kentucky. He died in Mt. Vernon, in 1840, at the home of a half sister, Mrs. Eliza Moore. Capt. Anderson had died in the same home in 1839 - the night the stars fell. He is said to have died of the infirmities of old age.

There is no record of the date of his arrival in Rockcastle County. If his daughter, Evelina, youngest of three, was old enough to be married in 1822, he must have married the Stigall woman well before the erection of the county, in 1810, although his name does not appear on the census report of that date.

Fertilizer Outlook In Kentucky...

During fiscal year 1974 which ended June 30, 1974, 905,452 tons of fertilizer were used in the State of Kentucky. This is an increase of seven percent over fiscal year 1973. The outlook for U.S. supplies is up but will be tight for 1974-75, so states Harold Ballinger, CED, Rockcastle County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service.

Use of the three main plant nutrients used in Kentucky fertilizers during fiscal year 1974 totaled 356,531 tons. Broken down, NITROGEN represented 121,178 tons; PHOSPHATE, 107,964 tons; and POTASH, 127,489 tons. Thirty-one states and Puerto Rico increased their use of plant nutrients during fiscal year 1974 over about 2.4 percent. Nationally, total plant nutrients usage was up seven percent. Outlook for U.S. Supplies of the three plant nutrients for the coming fertilizer year ending June 30, 1975, are expected to total about 23 million tons. This figure is up 1.8 million tons over the last year's ending June 30, 1974. Supply prospects for the three types are:

Nitrogen - For domestic use probably will be about 10.8 million tons, 8 percent higher than the 1974 fertilizer year. This increase could be reduced or even wiped out if severe winter weather forces curtailment of natural gas. Natural gas is the source of hydrogen for making ammonia. Nitrogen will be tight to short through 1977. Phosphate - is expected to be about 5.3 million tons, also eight percent higher than the last fertilizer year. This amount could be reduced somewhat if there are delays in building new manufacturing plants. Phosphate will be tight to short through 1976. Potash - should be about 6.3

million tons, ten percent more than last year. During the 1973-74 fertilizer year, Canada supplied 72 percent of our net domestic supply. This year potash from Canada is expected to be up another eight percent, but total U.S. supplies also will be tight to short through 1976. Mr. Ballinger said prices are likely to remain high until supply and demand are nearer a balance. U.S. Government efforts to help alleviate the tight fertilizer situation is being coordinated by the Interagency Fertilizer Task Force which emphasizes that the industry should distribute available supplies as equitably as possible.

Remember that buttermilk and home-soured whole milk can be used interchangeably for baking. And - sour half-and-half can be used in place of sour cream in many recipes.

A festive dessert often begins with ice cream balls. Scoop ice cream into balls and place on a tray covered with waxed paper and return to the freezer until firm. You can roll the frozen balls into tinted coconut, into crushed fruit, mince meat, nuts or whatever - try a new idea.

If you're calorie-watching, you can still make ice cream by using chilled evaporated milk (not diluted) in place of light cream. This brings the calorie count down to about 140 calories per serving.

Check your label and you'll see that "skim milk" is not the same as "lowfat" or "fortified skim" or even "2 percent." Each one is different.

If you're packing flour in bags for your freezer, just make sure that the air is pressed out of the unfilled part of the bag first, then seal immediately.

What is "enriched" or "purpose flour"? It's usually the kind sold for home use and is suitable for most home baking. It's a blend of hard and soft wheat flours, but it can be milled entirely from soft wheat, too.

If you're using double-acting baking powder - it reacts and produces gas bubbles twice - first during mixing, and again during baking. Quick acting baking powder (cream of tartar type) reacts to form gas bubbles only once - as soon as the batter is mixed.

Why are eggs important in baking? In addition to adding color, flavor, and nutritive value - beaten eggs act as leavening agents, and the protein in eggs coagulates when heated to strengthen the framework of batters and doughs.

If you must cook pasta ahead of meal time, keep it hot in a strainer over hot water. The steam will reduce sticking.

cream ranges in milkfat from 18 percent for table or coffee cream to 40 percent for heavy whipping cream.

Cultured sour cream usually has about 18 percent fat.

Mixed fruit cocktail is one of the best known canned fruit mixtures. It contains five fruits; dried yellow peaches, diced pears, pineapple slices, green-white seedless grapes and red maraschino cherry halves.

Evaporated milk is prepared by removing about 60 percent of the water from fresh milk. When mixed with an equal amount of water, its nutritive value is about the same as the milk from which it was made.

Turkey is an excellent source of protein, iron, thiamin, riboflavin, and niacin.

Watch for bargains in the smaller-sized eggs. If the price difference is more than 7 cents - remember you get more for your money by buying the smaller sizes.

Savers-tips: whole fruits or halves or slices of similar size cost more than mixed pieces of various sizes and shapes.

Energy Conservation Tip

Keep dampers closed or fireplaces blocked off when not in use. Otherwise, a lot of heat goes right up the flue.

QUALITY WORKMANSHIP AT LOW PRICES

Kentucky Afield

By Hope Carlston
Dept. of Fish and Wildlife

Possibly more people - young and not-so-young - enjoy fishing than any other outdoor activity. The tackle can be as simple as a cane pole, a line and a few hooks or can include equipment - rods, reels, boats, trailers and lures - worth thousands of dollars.

Whatever equipment is used, it must be in good condition if the angler is to enjoy his sport, and now is an ideal time to check the equipment out and "winterize" or repair it, as needed.

Most of the things that need to be done can be taken care of by the average fisherman without too much effort or a great deal of mechanical know-how.

The outboard motor should be winterized, especially if it is stored outdoors. The lower unit should be drained and refilled with a proper lubricant. Grease seals should be inspected and if faulty should be replaced. Propellers need inspecting and if warped or chipped should be removed. The cylinder walls should be oiled so that the cylinders won't freeze to the cylinder walls. New spark plugs should be used and the gap adjusted to the factory specifications. Finally, the outside of the motor should be cleaned and an oil cloth used to polish the exterior.

If this is more than the fisherman wants to get into, he should consider taking the motor back to the dealer and having him not only winterize it but tune it up as well.

The boat needs a good cleaning, too, both inside and out. The bottom shouldn't be overlooked either, if it is to plane well come spring. If it is stored outside, on a trailer, and it is impossible to cover it, then be sure that the drain plug is removed. Then the boat should be set into such a position that it will drain and not allow water to freeze in the bottom and possibly cause damage.

The trailer needs working, too. Check and inspect the lights, the resting area where the boat is supported and the wheel bearings. They will more than likely need repacking. A paint touch-up will help prevent rust damage. Last but not least, check the wench, cleat and trailer hitch. Generally, a good

THE BEAUTIFUL SISTER...

HIALEAH, Fla. - (En route to Superbowl [X]) If you take just one fabulous feature of all the race tracks in Maryland, Kentucky, New York and California, and include the hundreds of others that dot the entire shrinking planet, and weave them into a continuity, you have the beautiful sister, Hialeah. At a party NO ONE would notice the others. Her dance card would be full. She would be Queen of the Ball. And, where on God's earth can you find a sweeter sounding name than Hialeah?

HIALEAH PARK - for years Florida's No. 1 tourist attraction - is 50 years old this week. The "beautiful sister" opened a 40-day meeting on January 17 and it will continue through March 4. During this session upwards of one million racing fans are expected to be on hand to root for their favorites. There will be a continuing parade of the nation's finest thoroughbreds in a series of 17 added money events, totaling $750,000, and highlighted by the $100,000 trot - the Widner Handicap, the Flamingo Stakes and the Hialeah Turf Cup.

THE SOFT BEAUTY of the race track on the edge of the Florida Everglades is truly something to behold... the magnificent clubhouse-grandstand, the beautiful infield, the lush paddock area... and the overall spread of hundreds of stately and swaying Royal Palm trees. The American Flamingo has become synonymous with Hialeah and the largest domestic colony of these rare pink birds (some 400) loiter around and play in the infield lake. If you listen, you can hear the multiple hummings of that old-time favorite song, "Down Among The Sheltering Palms."

THIS YEAR'S golden anniversary finds the leading stables of the East and Midwest assembled at Hialeah, bringing with them the nation's outstanding thoroughbreds and jockeys to participate in the track's finest program of racing in years. In addition to the three $100,000 attractions there's the $25,000 Jasmine on February 3, the $25,000 Camelia on February 19 and the $50,000 Poinsettia on March 3. To make it more juicy there are three other stakes with a $50,000 price scheduled during the meeting.

OVER THE YEARS Hialeah Park has been described as a number of things - "America's most beautiful race track," "the showcase of thoroughbred racing," "the track that made Miami famous," "South Florida's No. 1 tourist attraction," "a tropical paradise" according to the likes of the observant Army or all of those who visit the place and are well deserved for there is plenty to do and see at Hialeah. It's a good place to be, if only for a while to relax. That's what your sportstalker is doing - on a mini-vacation, en route to New Orleans and the Superbowl, where the Vikings should clobber the Steelers by 10 points or more.

FOOD PRICES A CONCERN OF ALL -

Why have food prices increased? Simply stated, there are three major reasons - First, costs have increased markedly at the farm, processing and retail levels. Second, the world has had a reserve food supply. Adverse weather, excess rainfall in the midwest, followed by a drought in parts of the cornbelt, cut wheat production in 1973 and in 1974. But this isn't all - unfavorable weather in recent years has sharply cut feed and production in Africa, Russia and in parts of Asia. Two other factors have contributed to the world's limited food supply. They are a rapidly expanding world population, especially in nations where food production has never kept pace with population growth, and the improvement and expansion of diets in the developing nations of the world.

The disappearance of our reserve stocks of soybeans, wheat and corn has had a double-dedged effect on food prices. When the export demand pushed prices up, the prices of bread advanced. However, generally speaking, farmers' profit margins have not kept pace with those in other segments of the food industry.

The production inputs that farmers buy have increased 82 percent since 1967. Prices of farm machinery, fertilizer and feed have increased 182, 212 and 204 percent respectively during the same years. In the 1974 cattle feeding areas of the nation, the cost of cattlemen nearly 50 cents per pound to put a desirable amount of finish on yearling steers. Prices of early summer, cattlemen were losing from $45 to $50 a head on each animal that came out of the Panhandle feedlots. This situation forced feeder calf and yearling prices to drop sharply. Kentucky feeder calves are selling for less than half what they did just a year ago. Also, prices paid Kentucky farmers for beef and meat animals have declined. The USDA Statistical Reporting Service says that Kentucky farmers received these prices for eggs, milk and meat animals in mid-September of 1973 and 1974: beef cattle, per cwt. 1973 - $4.05; 1974 - $32.90; hogs, per cwt. 1973 - $44.10; 1974 - $38.60; milk, per cwt. 1973 - $7.50; 1974 - $7.91; and eggs, per dozen, 1973 - $4.25; 1974 - $4.68. The increase in the price of milk doesn't offset higher feed prices.

High wages per unit of output, at times, in some cases, are widening the spread between farm and retail prices. An example is the spread in beef prices. In 1970, the total value of retail cuts of beef from a 1,000 pound steer was $483, or $183 more than the price of the live steer. In the second quarter of 1974, supermarkets were selling the retail cuts from the same weight steer for $591, or $232 more than the price of the live steer. In the second quarter of 1974, the average retail price of beef would have been four percent less than it was last spring.

However, it should be noted during 1974, prices of all food items have increased at a slower rate than the cost of other items. Why? A major factor is that farmers have increased their output per man-hour. Today, production per man-hour on the average American farm is 86 percent greater than it was in 1960 and 27 times that of 1930. No other major segment of our economy can match the efficiency of the American farmer.

TOBACCO BARN PLANS -

Are you planning to build or remodel a tobacco barn? You probably won't want to build one which will be outdated as soon as it is finished, says George E. Duncan, Extension Agricultural Engineer at the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture. Duncan says tobacco producers, farm carpenters, builders and lumber suppliers can get the latest plans and recommendations of ag engineers and tobacco specialists at UK. To obtain these new barn building facts, contact your local County Extension Office.

Rockcastle Co. Saddle Club Holds Annual Meeting & Banquet

A PORTION of the 275-300 Saddle Club members and their guests who attended Monday night's meeting and banquet held at the High School. The Club, with 211 members last year, is one of the largest and most active in the state. Forty trail rides were held by the Club last year and over 52,000 miles were ridden.

Shari Martin, left, was named Queen and Tracy Lyons, Princess, at the recent Saddle Club Banquet and Meeting held at RCHS. The girls won the awards in their age groups for participating in the most rides held in 1974.

The Rockcastle County Saddle Club held its annual meeting and banquet last Monday night at the Rockcastle County High School with around 275 members and guests present.

Following the meal the business meeting was held with the election of officers and directors and presentation of awards.

Bill Norton, who has served as president of the Club since its organization seven years ago, was re-elected president; Bobby Taylor, vice-President; Sue French, secretary and Norma Lyons, treasurer. On behalf of the Saddle Club, each officer was presented with a coat by Bobby Taylor.

All directors were re-elected with the exception of Paul Gentry who was replaced by James Allen and R. B. Wolfe who was replaced by W. E. Thomas.

Members in the Club rode a total of 52,800 miles during 1974 on the forty trail rides held. Receiving the Trail Boss Awards, presented by Norma Lyons, were: Clarence J. Brown, a total of 173 riders, first place; Alton Bradley, 135 riders, second place; and Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Phillips and Pauline Thurman, 115 riders, third place. Mr. Brown has held the first place for four years, with the largest number of riders.

Shari Martin, a freshman at RCHS, was named Saddle Club Queen for making 37 out of the 40 rides scheduled, and Tracy Lyons succeeded herself as Saddle Club Princess for making the Trail Rider Award, 18 years and over, went to Earl Roberts for 37 rides; the Female Trail Rider award, female 18 years and over, went to Norma Lyons for 36 out of 40 rides; the Male Award, 18 years and under, went to Jeff Lyons; and the Female Award, 18 years and under, went to Tracy Lyons.

The Directors' Award was presented to Jeff Lyons, Norma Lyons, Shari Martin and Tracy Lyons. This award is earned by making all the directors' rides and one of the overnight rides, there and back.

The Top Hand Award went to Sue French and Norma Lyons, in recognition of outstanding performance in the Saddle Club.

Jack "Onionhead" Owens was named the Rider of the Year and was presented his award by Bill Norton.

Winners of the Endurance Ride Awards are as follows: Speed Award - Regina Taylor, first; William Guy, second; Karen Humphrey, third and Mark Reed, fourth. Condition Award - Regina Taylor, first; Karen Humphrey, second; Tom Nichols, third and William Guy, fourth.

Youngest Rider award was presented to Mark Reed and the Oldest, to Jack Owens. Presented a belt buckle for making the Endurance Ride in ten hours or less were: Shari Martin, Jack Owens, Tom Nichols, Mark Reed, William Guy, Cecil Humphrey, Karen Humphrey, Regina Taylor, Sandy Korman and Roger Gayheart.

Anyone interested in becoming a member of the Saddle Club and participating in the upcoming trail riding season should contact Mr. Bill Norton, president of the Club, or any of the officers.

PUBLIC INVITED TO PLAY WITH EKV ORCHESTRA

Richmond, Ky. - Residents of Richmond and surrounding communities are invited to play with the Eastern Kentucky University Symphony Orchestra.

The orchestra, also including students and faculty members, will begin rehearsing Tuesday, January 14 at 8:30 p.m. Further information may be obtained from Earl Thomas, director, telephone 623-7819 or 622-2006.

Thomas said rehearsal times for the orchestra will be on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 8:30 to 9:30 p.m. He said one of the purposes of the orchestra is to provide opportunities for the EKV family and people of the surrounding communities to take part in performing orchestral masterworks.

The orchestra's first concert will be February 18, at 7:30 p.m., in Hiram Brock Auditorium.

McClure, and one son, Ova McClure.

Services will be held Friday, January 17, at 1 p.m. at the Blue Springs Church of Christ. Interment will be in the High Drive Cemetery. Arrangements are by the Cox Funeral Home.

Bill Norton, right, was re-elected president of the Rockcastle County Saddle Club for 1975. Mr. Norton, who was instrumental in organizing the Club, has been president since its organization seven years ago. Re-elected vice president was Bobby Taylor, left.

ASK YOUR TAX MAN

BY SAUL SILBERT

DEAR MR. TAX MAN:
I have a problem concerning the sale of my house which I bought eight years ago. The room in the house was set aside as my office, and I used to claim the office expenses as a deduction on my tax returns. Does this affect the way I report the sale of my house?

TEACHER
The sale of any property used for both business and personal reasons is complicated as though you had sold two different pieces of property. In your case the office at home is the business property to which you allocate its share of the costs, selling expense, selling price, etc. The remainder of the house is treated like the sale of a personal residence.

DEAR MR. TAX MAN:
This property I own was on the market for $98,000. In fact I almost had it sold when a violent windstorm did a lot of damage about a half mile away from my place, and the buyer backed out of the deal. Now the broker tells me that I'll be lucky to get $50,000 for my place. Do I have a claim for a casualty loss?

DOWNHEARTED
The reduction in value of property because it's in a disaster area is not a casualty loss. The loss is only allowable for the actual physical damage to your property resulting from the casualty. The price may have dropped because business conditions are bad and not all because of the windstorm.

DEAR MR. TAX MAN:
Is it true that alcoholism is a sickness that qualifies for sick pay exclusion? I don't think that's right.

WCTU-er
DEAR WCTU-er: It may not be right, but it's a fact. The next thing you know, military pilots will qualify for flight pay by getting high on marijuana and businessmen will claim an expense deduction for their "tips" on LSD. It's a changing world.

Questions of widest interest will be answered in this column. Send them to ASK YOUR TAX MAN in care of this paper. Sorry, no personal replies.

"WILDIE CHURCH"

good folks must have longed for a church house with a better name than Shattahana. Some time prior to 1880 they found that better name and location in the new community of Wildie, which had grown up around the railway station. The community had been named Wildie in honor of two brothers, Will and Dee Albright, for reasons not now remembered. In that year of 1883, Uncle Isaac and Aunt Ann Phillips deeded to the congregation the spot of ground on which the church still stands and work was begun toward the building of a new church. Now, more than 70 years later, the congregation is engaged in raising money to build a new and bigger house of worship. If you think the task is hard, think what it must have been back then when the community was smaller and money was more scarce. But, where there's a will, there's a way, and everybody pitched in and got the job done. I am told that Bro. James Lunsford, whom many of us remember, was a pretty good carpenter and did much of the work himself.

"They built a good church building. I can remember coming here as a child and marveling at how big and fine it was. Quaintly furnished church services at the Methodist school house, a log building, still standing, and at the Buckeye Church, also a log building. When we visited Aunt Eliza and Uncle Harrison Brannaman and came with them to the Wildie Church, it was quite an experience. "I cannot say that for me it was always a happy experience. I would sit on a big, long, slat bench in the back; wearing long, ribbed, black, cotton stockings and Sunday shoes. I would get along pretty well for the first hour of the sermon, but after that my feet would get to burning and itching and switching till I could scarcely keep them on the floor. Even today when I see a small boy squirming and twisting in church, I would exactly what he is going through.

"I am sorry that the earlier records of this church have been lost. The church book that Brother (Aster) McNew showed me, kept by Uncle Henry Fish, is dated 1907 and mentions a previous record from which certain names have been taken. There is no record of the preachers who served here prior to that date, but I myself, remember some of them and Bill

Stewart and Ransse Coffey could help or other names I personally remember Brother Lunsford, but I cannot remember whether it was Bro. Lunsford or Bro. Belew who baptized me in a little pool over here in Roundstone Creek in late summer, when the creek was almost dry. I remember Bro. Masters. Both he and Bro. Lunsford raised sons who became ministers and preached here in time. I well remember old Bro. Combs, who, when pushing for converts, would sometimes tell such scary tales of sudden death and tragedy that we kids would be almost afraid to get out and start for home when services were finished. He as a man of great firmness and principle, with a long full beard and a determined eye. I once heard him tell of a niece of his who went to a dance in the mountains where they lived. He gave her such a convincing lecture about it that in a repentant mood she said, "Uncle Shade, if I ever go to a dance again, I want you to take a switch and just wear me out."

Well, in due time she was remonstrated full and well, and she never danced. When he found it out, he said that he cut a long, keen switch and complied with her request to the best of his ability.

"They were pretty strong characters, those old-time preachers, with very little foolishness about them. When in the pulpit, they hauled their coats and wrestled with the devil for the souls of their congregation. They meant business.

With records lost and all of the real old-timers gone on, we cannot say just who preached here in the beginning years. I can imagine that old Bro. Barnes must have been one of the exhorters in the old commissary building. He was a noted evangelist in this area and all through the mountains, preaching all over Kentucky, later in Europe and around the world. He left records of his experiences in county seat towns over the country. Of the Christian Church in Mt. Vernon he wrote,

"How hard they are in Mt. Vernon," going on to say that with the possible exception of Mt. Sterling, the Mt. Vernon congregation was, in the beginning, the oldest under the collar of any he had ever seen. He added that they earned out the work before the close of the meeting and more than a hundred converts were made.

Brother Barnes does not mention smaller churches, but since he set out to preach to every congregation in Kentucky, and since Rockcastle County was his original home, I am sure he must have thundered from the pulpit in behavior building your church body occupied at that time.

"Of the many pastors and evangelists duly recorded, we are able to name some of the preachers of the earlier days of this present building, beginning with Brother J. S. Lunsford, who helped erect it. I understand that he preached here for around fifteen years. There was Brother Peel, who preached here for thirty five years, continuing after he was no longer able to stand and delivering his sermons while seated in a chair. But of all the early ministers, Wildie probably owes most to Bro. Gentry, who brought the most converts into the congregation, with a record number in 1924. He preached on through the thirties and forties, making his last appearance here in 1951.

Time does not permit the naming of all the messengers of God who did his work here, but we have made mention of a few that were outstanding.

"I only wish I could name for you today all the good old families who have belonged to this congregation. Principal among them would be the Stewarts, the Coffeys, the Fishes, Brannamans, Hayes, Reynolds, Parsonses, Woodses, Hiatts, Phillips, Marets, Frenches, Joneses, Signons, Proctors, McNews, Lewises, Butters, Ramseys, Browns - all good people, many gone to their reward, but leaving descendants who are good God-fearing people, who keep Wildie, and the Wildie Christian Church as it was passed on to them. I wish I could picture for you some of the scenes these four walls have encompassed. I wish we could see and hear again some of the old-time preachers - from Bro. Combs and his ghost stories to Bro. Masters, who pounded the pulpit with his Bible and sometimes stuttered as he roared out his message; or Bro. Green Fish, who never raised his voice above a conversational tone, but was no less earnest in his pleadings. I wish we might see again the grave and solemn faces of the older members of the congregation as they found their thoughts upon the Great Change, which they knew for them was very near; the young courting couples whose thoughts were all on the present as they held their hymnbooks together; the little girls in pigtails and starched Sunday dresses; the little boys, some of them maybe with itchy feet, their thoughts upon the shady pleasant shallows of Roundstone Creek as they wondered when in the world that old preacher was ever going to stop; the hymn singing, the offering of prayers, in which they tell me my grandmother, the one on Coffey, led all in length and loudness; the gaiety and neighborliness when the meeting broke and the preacher and most of the congregation was going off to the home of some one family for the big, big dinners that are a thing of the past, but find a pleasant echo today in the picnic spread in which the good neighborhood cooks have taken part.

"I have said to others and might as well say it to you that I have always considered the little community of Wildie an outstanding example of the way folks used to live and still should - short on crime and disorder, and long on honesty and neighborliness and the old-time virtues of plain living. I am sure that being part of this old church house has had a lot to do in shaping your community image. I hate to see the old house go, and I'm sure most of you do, too, but the time has come when you feel that a change is necessary. I hope that the building itself is all that will be building it.
