OPINIONS FROM OFFICE OF ATTORNEY GENERAL

Homestead Exemption Denied - M. Brooks Senn of Audubon Park requested an opinion concerning an application of the new homestead exemption provision. Three people occupying the same property as their personal residences have claimed homestead exemptions, but only one of the three involved is over 65 years of age. This person also holds legal title to the property. It is the opinion of the Attorney General's Office that every person filing for a homestead exemption must own, as well as maintain, the property for which the exemption is sought. That person also must be 65 years of age or older. In light of this, only the individual who is over 65 and is legal owner of the property can claim such an exemption, even though the others may help to maintain that property.

Poker Playing Illegal at Bars - Mott V. plummer of Newport asked if it were illegal for a bar to allow poker playing on the premises so long as the participants received only their personal winnings and the proprietor received no remuneration or fee from the gambling. It is the Office of the Attorney General's opinion that the Kentucky Revised Statutes prohibit the playing of poker for personal winnings on premises licensed to sell alcoholic beverages. 4x-

Unlicensed Hunting Qualified - Richard M. Rawdon, Jr. of Georgetown asked if it were permissible for tenants who work two separate farms to hunt on both without hunting license. It is the opinion of the Attorney General's Office that the tenants cannot be free to hunt unlicensed on any farm other than the one on which they reside. *****

COFFEY: John Coffey brought the name to America in 1837 when he came over from Ireland and settled in Virginia. His ancestry was said to trace back to the mission, an early King of Spain, coming through a son of O'Donnell, King of Ireland, A.D. 483. Many generations of the Coffeys were long residents of Ireland and of Scotland, the Rockcastle County Coffeys apparently tracing back to a John Coffey who came to America directly from Scotland.

The migration to Rockcastle County seems to have begun with Thomas Jefferson Coffey, in 1847. According to records, in the Bedford County, Tennessee Clerk's Office, of the Auction Sale of the effects of his grandfather, General John Coffey who died in 1848, Thomas Jefferson Coffey, then a young man of 24, purchased a good yoke of young oxen. This was no doubt the ox team which, yoked to a two-wheeled cart, was to carry him on his home, near Thornhill, Tennessee, through Cumberland Gap and down the old Wilderness Road to his destination in Rockcastle County, Kentucky.

Since he was my mother's father, I grew up on oft-repeated tales of his adventures on the week-long trip and his earlier days getting settled here. I was often shown the old cart, which stood for many years under a shed adjoining his barn and was preserved as a family heirloom until a tenant on the farm hauled it away and sold it for junk iron, when the Government conducted a campaign to gather up all such material to aid in the war effort. It was told that when Thomas Jefferson Coffey arrived here with his young wife, Paulina, a daughter of Harmon and Jenny Hayes, their worldly possessions consisted of their cattle and cart, a big iron kettle and their baby daughter. When he rented a farm, he and his wife both worked in the field, with the baby wrapped in a blanket and sleeping in the kettle. At no time he held the baby while his wife used the kettle for cooking the meal, which was eaten from a wooden bowl at the top of the kettle. After the kettle cooled off the baby was again cradled in it and the parents returned to their labors. Word got out of this ambitious, hard-working couple and Milton Miller, a prosperous merchant of Mt. Vernon, was so impressed with them that he offered them money to buy their first farm. Coffey got into the business of buying up mines and driving them to the southern market, sometimes as far as Savannah, Georgia, nearest seacoast town, and there were sold only for a few cents. Coffey was a big boy and at his death left a good farm to each of his surviving children: Lee, Eliza, Matilda, Bell and Ollie, each adjacent to his home place on the upper waters of Renfro Creek. Of the five children, Lee was the eldest, followed by Matilda, Bell, Ollie and Hattie, Jr. Their children were Boush, Arthur, Forrest, Ollie, and Justice Coffey; Matilda married Samuel Purcell. Their children were Eliza Bell and Hattie; Bell married Thomas Burke Lair. My sister, Ollie, and I were their only children. Ollie married to Robert Ramsey and died without issue. Thomas Jefferson Coffey was married four times. First, to Pauline Hayes, who was the mother of Jane, Eliza, Lee, Matilda, Alice, Ellen, Colabel, Bell and Ollie. His second wife was Martha Smith and his third was Betty Boon. There were no children by either marriage. His fourth wife was Ruth Carson, who survived him. They had one daughter, Paulina, who married Jeff Holman.

Thomas Jefferson Coffey was the son of Aunson and Matilda Dalton Coffey. Aunson's parents were General John Coffey and Elizabeth Rucker Coffey. Matilda's parents were Enmus and Rebecca Williams Dalton, Rebecca being a near relative of D. N. Williams. Aunson was a member of the Kentucky Militia and was a farmer and a contributor to this work. Aunson and Matilda were parents of twelve children: Eli, James Madison, Thomas Jefferson, Wiley, John, Tilman, Addison, Nancy, Betsy, Vira, Neesley and Rebecca.

Eli married Hannah Bullen and they also had a daughter. She was a daughter of Isaac Bullen, who took his second wife, Peggy Coffey. Eli and Hannah's children were: Isaac, who married Florence Hayes and, after her, Minnie Morris; Madison married a woman by the name of Stigall; his brother John married her daughter by a previous marriage and moved to Illinois; Emmanuel was killed by a stranger on an excursion train running to Berea, Kentucky to the Berea College and commonwealth exercises; Nancy married Joe Bullen; Jane married Tom Bullen; Vira married Chas Bullen and had six children: Joe, Manuel, Tommy, Dewey, Pearl and Willie; Joe married Eliza Nash; Emmanuel married Orla Dutton. Their children were: Eliza, who married a chivari, including a ducking in the creek for Emmanuel, from which he contracted pneumonia and died a few days later; Tommy married Minnie Ballenger; Dewey married Florina Wolf; Pearl married Tom Wolfe; and Willie married Minerva Caudill.

Madison and Lydia Wolfe were the family when they arrived in Rockcastle County. His father, Aunson Coffey, had come to Kentucky in 1792, and he was the first of his sons, for which they later repaid him. In the log house to which they moved they spent their remaining days. They raised a family of eleven children in this old home. Two of their daughters were born and died there. Emma at the age of 100; Ellen, 97. Their brother, John H. Coffey, who married Margaret Langford, lived to be 90. Their sister, Hulda, married George Ketron and died at 80 years of age; another sister, Addie, married J. D. Dotson and was 84 years of age at her death. Their mother, Lydia, lived to be 74. They were parents of Janie Ramsey, historian for the local DAR. Lydia Wolfe Coffey, their mother, was a daughter of Adams and Gemma Wolfe and was one of fourteen children born to them.

James Madison and Lydia and their little son, Jefferson, had come all the way from Grainger County, Tennessee, in 1863, with Ransom Coffey, his wife Delphia and their children. Jefferson, both families and their possessions in one big covered wagon. Their hired man, Henry Parkinson, brought their cattle along, riding a big steer all the way through from Tennessee. He claimed it beat walking. Ransom was a son of Benjamin Coffey and his wife, the former Nancy Hayes. They had one daughter and eight sons. The daughter, Elizabeth, married Talwell Coffey and remained in Tennessee. Of the eight boys, all went to Texas and Oklahoma, with the exception of Ransom and Marvel, who raised their families in Rockcastle, Kentucky. Marvel married Abbie Jordan and Ransom married Delphia Cox, as previously noted.

John A. Coffey, another son of Aunson and Matilda, married Mary E. Brannaman, sister of Henry and Harrison Brannaman. Their children were Milla, James, Netty, Hartine, Julia Neely, Joseph, Henry Sanford, Lucy and Johnny. Johnny burned to death when their house was destroyed by fire. Milla married Thomas Pettit and then James Aldridge. There was one daughter from each marriage. James Coffey married Sarah Langford. There were no children. Nettie Hartie Coffey married Thomas Green Reynolds. Their children were: Albert, Ethel, Maudie, Julia, James Harrison and Nellie, who died young; Julia, daughter of John A. and Mary E. Brannaman Coffey, married Carlos E. Menfies. They were parents of seven children: Joseph Coffey married Addie Adams and had four children; Henry Sanford Coffey married Lottie Bell Perry and they had eight children: Lucy, daughter of John A. and Mary E. Coffey, married Alvin Reynolds; their children were Everett, Ernest, James, William, Homer, Virgie, Cecil and Lois.

Other children of Aunson and Matilda Dalton Coffey were Nancy, who married Colby Hayes and raised a family of four; Wiley, who married Sarah Nash and raised ten children, plus three that died young; Betsy, who married Frederick Spiers and raised five children, including twins; Tilman, who married Ann Snodgrass. He was murdered by her brother, Walter Snodgrass, and there were no children; Cornelia, who married Nelson Coffey and raised a family of eight; Becky, who first married Addison Wolfe and had three children and by her second husband, Nathan Dalton, she also had three. This is hardly a starter for the Coffey family, one of the most numerous in the county. It traces only the line of Thomas Jefferson Coffey and brothers and sisters and is by no means a complete record of this one branch of the descendants of General John Coffey and Elizabeth Rucker Coffey. There is more information in plenty. Only space is lacking to tell the whole story.

our church who did such a good job, and all the singers and chorists who participated in the book part in any way. We enjoyed having all our visitors and invite them back any time. God bless them all.
Our Sunday School attendance February 28rd was ninety-one. Thank God.

I'd like to thank all our relatives and friends for the love and kindness shown to us during the illness and death of our blessed mother, Mrs. Lizzie Reppert. Mom suffered total paralysis of the right side when she had a stroke Monday night January 27th, around seven o'clock while sitting in her rocking chair at the home of Mrs. Edna Mae Singleton of Mt. Vernon. Mom had made her home with Mrs. Singleton since July of 1927. She was admitted into the Rockcastle Co. Ho, where she remained until her death Thursday morning, February 6th. Bless her heart she was never able to speak a word to us which nearly broke my heart because Mom and I were very close.

She visited us quite often in our home and always enjoyed it so much, where she could be with our children and grandchildren. We had such good times together. God blessed her to be in our home the last few days of her life. We took her home on Sunday afternoon and she had the stroke the next night. She was so happy and more alert while here than she had been for some time and she remained that way for some time until paralysis struck her. My brother Tip visited her while here and sat with her while we "kissed" her.
I looked forward to seeing him every day. He was so good to Mom and I thank God for him. Mom and I had raised thirteen children (10 of whom are still living) and they loved everyone of them. She loved all thanks to Bro. Harvey Fennel and Bro. James Ir. Dean, Bro. Fennel was so close to Mom for the last two and a half years, she attended services at his church (Northside), as long as she was able, then he was so good to visit her and pray with her. She thought so much of him. I also thank the Cromer singers who sang so beautifully, the Dorell and Martin Funeral Home, who did such a good job and are some of the finest men I've ever known, Dr. Orson L. Arvill who did everything he could for Mom and was so honest, patient and kind to us. The nurses and other staff members at Rockcastle Co. Hospital, they were wonderful - the pallbearers, all grandsons, Ronnie Reppert, Wayne Chastain, (Cont. to 5)

"WHERE THE BOONE WAY JOINS THE DIKE"

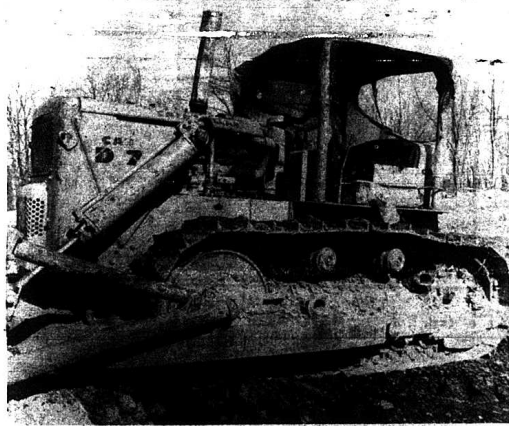

MOUNT VERNON, KENTUCKY 40456

VOLUME 88 NUMBER 25

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 27, 1975

Vandalism was apparently the cause of a fire which completely destroyed an unoccupied two-story frame dwelling on the farm of Matt Coffey, 7 miles east of Mt. Vernon. The house was the home of the late Johnny Coffey.

Vandalism was definitely the cause when two pieces of equipment, belonging to Elmo Anderkin of Mt. Vernon, were damaged by fire last Thursday night. The equipment was located at a strip mining operation on the farm of Roland Mullins at Sand Springs. The cab of the bulldozer was set fire, burning the seats, and an air compressor was damaged and then set fire. State Police and the Sheriff's Office are investigating the arson.

MVES BROKEN INTO

The Mt. Vernon Elementary School was broken into twice last weekend, once on Friday night and again on Saturday night.

Burford Parkerson, principal, said that the school was entered through a broken window in the basement and exit was through a library window.

On Friday night, the coin changers on two soft drink machines were torn out, but since this money is taken from the machines nightly, nothing was gained there. Nothing else was taken from the school on Friday night.

On Saturday night, the school was again entered and a transistor radio, belonging to Mr. Parkerson, was taken from the school. Also on Saturday night, a fire extinguisher was taken from the hall and the foam was sprayed on the floors and walls. Mr. Parkerson said this required about two hours to clean up.

MISS COFFEY NAMED TO 'WHO'S WHO'

Miss Vicki Ann Coffey, a Sophomore at Somerset Community College, majoring in the Legal Secretarial Program, has been selected by her faculty for inclusion in the current listing of Who's Who Among Students in American Vocational and Technical Schools. The basis for selection for inclusion in the publication is scholastic excellence in career courses, participation in career courses, participation and leadership in civic activities, citizenship and service to their school, and potential for future achievement. The publication includes the student's biography as well as a student's placement and reference service.

Four Injured In Week-End Accidents

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Brown of Brodhead are in serious condition at the University of Kentucky Medical Center in Lexington following an early Sunday morning accident on U.S. 150, four miles west of Mt. Vernon.

According to State Police reports, Mrs. Brown, driver of a 1964 Ford Mustang, was driving on the road. The car hit a dirt pile, sending the car airborne and the car then jumped a fence, went down a hill and came to rest across a gulch.

State Policeman Greg Eppis investigated the accident. Two truck drivers were injured, one seriously, as the result of an accident about 10:15 p.m. Sunday night on Interstate-75, three miles south of Mt. Vernon.

Clinton Lamb of Louisville was admitted to the Rockcastle County Hospital for treatment and John Wyrick of Newport, Tennessee was transferred to the University of Kentucky Medical Center in Lexington for treatment.

According to State Trooper Danny Coleman, who investigated, Wyrick was traveling north on the Interstate when he apparently lost control of his truck, slid into the median and then continued one hundred feet across the median and struck Lamb, who was traveling south on the Interstate. Wyrick then struck 150 feet of guardrail and his trailer overturned, blocking the Southbound lane. The tractor continued over a 100 ft. embankment.

Special Program at First Christian on Narcotics Misuse

First Christian Church on West Main Street will be the scene on Wednesday evening, March 5th, for a special program dealing with the misuse of narcotics. All the young people of this area are invited and urged to attend this special service.

Dr. G. W. Griffith, Joe Young, Jerry Cox, and Don Frye, an ordained minister and chaplain to the Lexington-Fayette Metro Police Department will all serve on a panel to lead in the discussion and answer any questions that the people might have. Absolutely, no one over twenty-one years of age will be admitted, and no parents will be admitted. There will be three question boxes located in the church building for the young people to place their questions, if they don't feel like asking any questions in front of their peers, and they will be read anonymously and answered by the panel.

Every aspect of drug abuse will be examined. The medical, moral, legal, and spiritual sides will all be discussed. This meeting will begin at 7 p.m. and refreshments will be served afterward by the young people of the Christian Church. There will be displays, and free literature to be given to all the young people attending.

Ernie Johnson is minister of the First Christian Church and he welcomes all parents and young people.

Mrs. Philbeck Dies Following Auto Accident

Mrs. Sarah Louise Philbeck, 38, of Berea died at the Patten A. Clay Hospital in Richmond as the result of an accident on Interstate-75, two and one-tenths miles south of Richmond, about 8:30 a.m. Tuesday morning.

According to State Police reports, Mrs. Philbeck, driver of a pickup truck, was traveling north on the Interstate when she slid on an icy bridge. She and a passenger, Mildred K. Wilcox, 22, of Route 3, Berea, got out of the truck and were apparently attempting to flag traffic when a car, driven by Linda Abner, 25, of Manchester, slid on the same bridge and struck the pedestrians and the truck. Mrs. Philbeck died at 10:05 a.m. at the Patten A. Clay Hospital in Richmond of a fractured skull. Ms. Wilcox was transferred to St. Joseph Hospital in Lexington with Class A injuries.

Mrs. Abner, driver of the second vehicle, was also taken to the St. Joseph Hospital in Lexington with Class A injuries and two other passengers, Francis Brown, 48, of Manchester and Jennifer Abner, age 4, of Manchester received Class B injuries and were taken to the Patten A. Clay Hospital.

Five minutes after the first accident, a car, driven by Florence H. Rookard, 38, of Route 1, East Bernstadt, was traveling north on the Interstate when she slid on the same bridge, crossed the median and the southbound lane and struck and rolled in the earlier accident.

Three passengers in the Rookard vehicle, Stella Wiggins, 65, of London; Dorothy Rookard, 66, of E. Bernstadt and Ora Jane Holt, 75, of London were all admitted to the Patten A. Clay Hospital with Class A injuries. Another passenger, Florence Vickers, 72, of London was transferred to St. Joseph Hospital in Lexington with Class A injuries.

Mrs. Philbeck was born in Rockcastle County on February 9, 1942, the daughter of Ballard and Edith Barnes Rader and was a member of the Roundstone Baptist Church and a student at the Eastern School of Hair Design in Richmond.

Besides her parents, she is survived by her husband, Thomas Philbeck of Berea; three sons, Anthony, Michael and William, all at home; and one daughter, Flicia Gayle, also at home; four brothers, Earl, David and Roy Rader, all of Dayton, Ohio and Coleman Rader of Lancaster; four sisters, Mrs. Thelma Harding of Route 3, Mt. Vernon, Mrs. Bessie Wilder of Dayton, Ohio, Mrs. Geraldine Rader of Berea and

Mrs. Mary Pierce of Waycross, Georgia.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. Thursday at the Dowell and Martin Funeral Home with Rev. James Christman and Rev. Wayne Harding officiating. Burial will be in the Elmwood Cemetery.

Rep. W. Harold DeMarcus Files For Renomination

W. Harold DeMarcus has filed his candidacy papers for renomination as State Representative from Rockcastle, Lincoln and a part of Pulaski Counties.

Representative DeMarcus served this district for six terms in the Legislature. During four of the six terms, he has served as the leadership of the Republican Party; one term as Republican Whip and three terms as Republican Floor Leader, which position he presently occupies.

Mr. DeMarcus has been widely sought after by his party to run for the gubernatorial seat in this year's election. But he stated that he would rather represent Rockcastle, Lincoln and Pulaski Counties in the Legislature than run for a state-wide office.

Representative DeMarcus served on the three most powerful committees in the Kentucky General Assembly - Appropriations and Revenue, State Government and the Rules Committee and is the ranking Republican on each one. His seniority on these three powerful committees is invaluable to the citizens of this district.

Rentro Valley, Inc. Files Suit Over "Big Red Barn" Disagreement

Glenn Pennington of Berea, formerly General Manager for the Rentro Valley Barndance, has been named defendant in a $50,000 Civil Suit filed this week in Rockcastle Circuit Court. Plaintiff in the suit is Rentro Valley, Inc.

The suit stems from an allegation by the plaintiff that Mr. Pennington purchased an interest in "The Big Red Barn" a competing establishment set up in Rentro Valley for himself after entering into an agreement to attempt to purchase the "Big Red Barn" as an agent for

J. Hal Smith, president of Rentro Valley, Inc.

The suit also alleges that Mr. Pennington has wrongfully sought to hire plaintiff's employees and entertainers for said competing business and defendant has wrongfully used confidential information gained by him through his position of trust with plaintiff to further said efforts and defendant thereby breached his duties to plaintiff.

The suit demands judgment against defendant as follows: (a) for the sum of $50,000 interest and costs, (b) that defendant holds his interest in the business known as "The Big Red Barn" as a trustee for plaintiff, (c) enjoining defendant from interfering in any manner with plaintiff's employees and entertainers and from hiring said persons to compete with plaintiff, (d) enjoining defendant from disclosing any confidential information gained by him by reason of his position of trust to any competitor of plaintiff, (e) for such other relief as plaintiff may appear to the Court entitled.

"Billy is a real gentleman. You don't find many like him anymore," said Thelma Stovall around while Johnson walked into Mrs. Stovall's office to file his candidacy papers.

As a fine lady, Thelma Stovall is a "fear lady," said Sullivan.

And as Edward Johnson walked into Mrs. Stovall's office to file his candidacy papers, there were hugs and kisses all around.

Sounds more like a mutual admiration society than a campaign for Lieutenant Governor that may come down to these three by the time the May Democratic primary rolls around.

But the Dick Tuck style dirty tricks have already begun among these friends.

Just last week, as former Parks Commissioner Johnson

Stovall around the state while she conducted her election seminars, Johnson was surprised to find, via the rear view mirror, a Stovall campaign sticker on the rear window of his station wagon.

The gut wrenching horror of such a foul deed was somewhat relieved by the certain knowledge of what Mrs. Stovall's troops were finding about them on their windshields.

Johnson leaflets.

While this "old buddy" style of politicking will hold for these candidates, three others may not be so gentle.

Atty. Gen. Ed Hancock and State Sen. Tom Ward are not adverse to raising a few eyebrows to charity and leaving feet first into most any controversy, while Pike County Judge Wayne Rutherford will play heavily on coal issues and remind the governor that local officials will not be threatened.

All in all, it is a long but surprisingly strong field of candidates for the Democratic nomination. Each has pluses and minuses that cannot be discussed. Here is one view, in something of an order of possible finish at the current stage of the game.

1. Thelma Stovall - the giant plus is name recognition, years in the political eye and in political office, followed up with powerful labor support, a reasonably strong Jefferson County power base and a good if not spectacular record. On the minus side is her health (she suffered a stroke a year ago) and the up-in-the air question of whether Kentucky is ready to accept a woman as lieutenant governor.

2. Bill Sullivan - name recognition through his years in the state senate and last year as chairman of the party, and a fairly strong Western Kentucky power base rank as his major pluses. His main minus has to be his alignment with the non-Carroll faction of the party, although his strong allegiance to the party could overcome this.

3. Ed Hancock - a strong county courthouse organization built up over his three years as attorney general, which, along with his publicity from controversial cases, has also served to boost his name recognition. On the negative side, he seems to have no regional power base, and is name recognition is not what it needs to be for a successful campaign.

4. Ewart Johnson - A string of smaller pluses, including banking and business support, a powerful, back

With very little going on that has not been covered time and time again, I have been relatively inactive regarding my column. This Sunday the situation changed. The government, in all its wisdom, has once again made a needless change which disrupts everyone. My reference is, of course, to the time change.

Each morning I look out the window to try for a first hand glance at the weather conditions: Now each morning since Sunday, I have had to go outside to even get an idea of what might be happening. I watch the school buses go by. (I guess it's school buses by their shape and lights) and marvel that such a dangerous situation as having school children on the roadways before there is any light at all is considered in "the people's best interest. Mornings are now spent drinking misery coffee and looking outside to wonder just what is the reason for moving the time at all.

From what I can gather, Benjamin Franklin was supposed to be the guiding light (or person who changed the guiding light). Ben apparently had the "bright" idea that if everyone got up an hour earlier then there would be an extra hour left when the working day was over. I did not know he was responsible for this situation when I studied how brilliant Ben Franklin was. Had I known of this scheme my admiration for him would have dimmed. In my own mind I feel the situation of fast time is closely akin to taking a string and cutting off a part of one end and putting it on the other end. You will still wind up with the same thing.

Now I realize that some people may like to have more daylight in the afternoon hours. This may be well and good for them. It seems that if these people want the extra light in the afternoon, it would be possible that work hours and schedules could be arranged for each of these people on an individual basis. The way the government has approached the matter is to legislate time changes for all. However, the national time keepers failed to explain to my eighteen month old daughter that meals are now an hour before she's hungry and bedtime before she's sleepy.

My avid golfer friends seem willing to put up with the change with little complaint now, feeling that the extra time for golf this summer will be well worth it. Yet, I have some acquaintances who refuse to go along with the time change. These people simply live by asking the question "My time or your time?"

I know that in years past some large corporations have refused to go along and have operated their business by keeping their clocks on the same time in spite of the time change by the government. Maybe the executives of these corporations did not like the idea of ~~operating their business on their own time.~~

Each person has his own likes or dislikes, but it seems that the simplest way is to abide by the government edicts and move the clocks up an hour. This way we can't complain about late being dull and monotonous we can always look forward to gaining the extra hour back in the fall.

slapping campaign style, and moderately good Central and Northern Kentucky support are his assets. On the negative side are his association with the now infamous Cumberland Falls charity and a lack of widespread name recognition.

5. Tom Ward - he is finding his strength in organizing the student vote, the environmentalists and the church groups, but his reputation as a quick-tongued, freewheeling liberal is likely to hurt him with the rank and file.

6. Wayne Rutherford - he has good support from Eastern

ramblings.....

by: perlina m. anderkin

It seems that I messed up my story last week on fast time and the local school hours royally since there seemed to be some confusion on whether or not the schools would be on fast time. Actually, what I was trying to do was to keep it as simple as possible and to simply say that the school hours would remain the same except on fast time. My husband's father misinterpreted it and so did several others and I began wondering so I went back and read the story and found that perhaps it wasn't quite as clear as I had intended. Some schools did change their beginning time to a later hour because of the fast time and I was trying to say that we weren't going to do that we were simply going on fast time and the school hours would remain the same. Oh, well, the more I talk, the worse it gets and I'm sure everyone knows by now to send their children to school at the regular time except on fast time.....

And, speaking of fast time, I don't know about you but it's killing me. Monday morning when I went to get the children up for school my son refused on the grounds that "Quit kidding, it's the middle of the night." Even though I privately agreed with him I had to insist he get up. I wish they would quit fooling around with time in the middle of the winter. It was proven last time when this was tried that the saving in energy was infinitesimal and what it costs me in energy to drag is the increase in the cost of coal we burn to generate the kilowatt hours you use. When the Fuel Adjustment charge causes your electric bill to go up, remember it is not a change in your electric rate. It simply reflects an increase in the cost of coal used to generate the electricity you use.

Every day we burn thousands of tons of coal to generate the electricity our customers need. And the average cost of coal purchased has gone from $9 to $20 in a year or so. (We're able to keep it that low only because we buy most of our coal under long-term contracts.)

A base fuel cost has been approved and set in our rate. The Fuel Adjustment charge is only the additional cost above that base cost that we have no choice but to charge to our customers. We pass along precisely and only the increase in the cost of coal used to generate the electricity you use. We do not make one cent of profit from the charge.

Buying in huge quantities, stockpiling and obtaining long term contracts are only some of the ways we combat the rising cost of coal. But all our efforts can only partially offset the huge price increases. The difference must come from the Fuel Adjustment charge.

Electricity... use it wisely

Small Electrical Appliances

Your Tireless, Willing Helpers Properly and imaginatively used, small electrical appliances can go a long way toward simplifying your work. They can save electrical energy too. Many small appliances use only half or less than half as much electricity as one of the surface units on an electric range. The smart array of silent, tireless, modern electrical housewares can free you from the long, draw-out, traditional techniques in food preparation and other household tasks. Many of these small appliances have automatic-timing controls to free you from clock and potwatching. Others free you from space limitations and permit you to cook and serve anywhere that there is a proper convenience outlet, indoors and out.

Today's modern homes are equipped with many small electrical appliances and the variety of jobs they can do is almost endless. Some are well used, some are misused, and others are not used at all. What's happening at your home?

Your Wiring - 1. Use small appliances on grounded convenience outlets wired with No. 12 wire on a circuit with a 20-ampere breaker or circuit breaker. Be sure you have enough 110 or 120 volt circuits without using extension cords.

If you have many small electrical appliances, consider installing a power panel at the most convenient kitchen or dining area location for their use.

Some appliances such as a roaster, fry pan should be on a line of their own. They should be plugged into recommended-voltage circuits, not used with extension cords.

2. In recently constructed homes, the National Electric Code requires that the appliance circuits have 3-prong plugs. In older homes, an adapter that enables you to use a 2-prong plug in a 3-prong outlet. However, unless this adapter is attached to a metal ground, it does not provide the safety feature of the grounded 3-prong outlet.

3. When you connect or disconnect an appliance, grasp the plug, not the cord. For safety's sake, use the "tag" routine.

TO CONNECT: (1) turn control pointer to "off"; (2) attach plug to wall outlet; and (3) set control pointer.

TO DISCONNECT: (1) turn control pointer to "off"; (2) disconnect at wall outlet; and (3) disconnect at appliance.

4. Clean probe-type connector and thermostat with a damp cloth, never immerse them in water. Allow connection to cool before storing. If it is removed from the appliance as soon as cooking is completed, remember that it is very hot. Place it on a heat proof surface and out of reach of children.

5. Avoid twisting and sharp bending of cords. Keep them away from sharp edges. Protect plastics plug to avoid cracking. If it cracks, replace it before using of the cord again.

6. Before filling any electric appliance with water from a faucet, disconnect cord completely from outlet-coffee maker, skillet, teakettle, saucepan and so on.

In case of fire (there should never be one!) pull plug from outlet immediately. Use appropriate methods to quell fire. It's always a good safety precaution to have a fire extinguisher in a handy location and to be sure each person in the family knows how to use it.

General Care and Cleaning Tips

1. The manufacturer knows best concerning the care of his electrical appliance. Instruction booklets are published to give helpful hints on successful cleaning and operation. Read that little book and keep it handy for easy reference.

2. Wash appliances carefully after each use. Some can be completely immersed in water; some only partially; some not at all. Know which kind you are using. Teflon finish should be washed with warm suds and rinsed. If staining occurs from overheating or improper washing, boil 1 cup water, 1/2 cup of bleach and 2 tablespoons baking soda in the appliance or pan for 10 to 15 minutes. Wash in sudsy water, rinse well and wipe with salad oil before using again. To clean nickel or chrome, rub gently with a soft cloth dipped in alcohol and whiting. Or use cream silver polish. Or use liquid wax. Never use gritty abrasives on these soft, fine surfaces. To remove burned-on toasters, rub gently with finest grade steel wool. To remove hard-water stains from aluminum interior, use a spongy cloth or just it in a solution of 2 tablespoons cream of tartar to 1 quart water.

3. Remember that overheating shortens the life of appliances. Allow any small electric to cool before you try to clean it. Guard your appliances against being dropped or knocked over. Store them soon after use, or keep them free from dust with a protective cover (making sure to unplug them and let them cool down first).

"Ms. Bonner and Edsel Moore, supervisor of the Pesticide and Consumer Product Safety Program in the DHE conducted an immediate field investigation along with the staff of the Rockcastle County Health Department.

The cans of methyl bromide were stored in a room adjacent to the family sleeping quarters. The room was warm enough to turn the liquid into a poisonous gas, which leaked through the defective seals of the can.

Dr. Hernandez says that once symptoms appear, there is no specific treatment for bromide poisoning. Typical symptoms include dizziness, headache, nausea, vomiting, abdominal pain, slurred speech, staggering gait and other more severe nervous system problems. Preventive drugs can be given to someone who is exposed to the toxic material but who has not yet become ill. Anyone who suffers such an exposure should see their physician immediately.

Charles Noland, Lloyd Reppert, Charles Reppert, Eugene Alexander, Johnny Reppert and William Alexander. Mom loved them all. All those who sent such beautiful flowers and a special thanks to the men who dug the grave. May God richly bless each one. Also, I'd like to thank all my friends for the sympathy cards and letters I've received - (some from people I've never seen). Good Christian friends mean a lot to me. They are more precious than gold. So now Mom is gone to be with Dad, my sister Margaret and my brothers Marcus and Robert in Heaven. I'll miss her so much. I hope and pray the other ten of us will make the family circle complete one day. Life is short but death is certain. It's a debt we all have to pay. So if you aren't ready to go, I hope you will get ready because we never know what minute we'll be called out of this world.

Kentucky State Parks Offer Vacation Bargain

By: Patricia Mellie

The Kentucky state parks system is offering its visitors more services, improved facilities, expanded programs and last year's prices.

Though the Department of Parks is holding the line on prices, it hasn't stopped improvement in what many travel experts consider to be the nation's finest park system.

Returning vacationers will find a variety of physical changes at the 15 state resort parks. New tennis courts have been installed at several parks, and existing courts have been resurfaced and upgraded. In the campgrounds, central service buildings have been improved. Grills are now installed at every campsite.

The department hasn't reduced its efforts to provide vacation fun. Its program of organized recreation has been expanded to a wider scope of activities in this summer's plans. A larger staff of recreation professionals will offer programs appealing to all age groups. Activities ranging from square dancing to campfire sing-alongs are part of the all-day schedules.

The parks' natural program has grown, too. Naturalists at several parks head expanded nature interpretation centers. These full-time naturalists will lead such programs as hiking and bird watching to assist visitors in discovering Kentucky's natural attractions.

Families will find last year's prices all around the parks. Green fees at the golf courses, pedal boat and bicycle rentals, lodge and cottage rates, all are unchanged.

In the dining rooms, family prices are still on the menu. Adults can choose a satisfying evening meal from a host of Southern specialties, at prices beginning as low as $3.00. For the younger set, special menus offer smaller servings at smaller prices (and children will always find hamburgers).

This anti-inflation campaign doesn't mean that the parks system is sacrificing quality. Faced with rising expenses, the department began a broad program of more efficient operation to absorb costs. We want to be responsive to the family budget," a parks spokesman said.

Only two small price increases have surfaced: a 50-cent addition to recreational vehicle camping fees was necessary to meet higher utility costs, and there is a nominal increase in boat-slip rentals.

As always, vacationers may make early reservations for the vacation they're planning now. This year, advance reservations are greater than last, so families would be wise to reserve their cottages or lodge rooms now.

From telephones in Kentucky, reservations may be made with a toll-free call to the Parks Central Reservations Service at 1-800-372-2961. Residents of surrounding states can reach the service toll-free by dialing 1-800-628-2911. Travelers from farther away, where toll-free lines are not available, can still make use of the Central Reservation Service by making a regular long-distance call to the Frankfort number, 502-223-3235.

More information about Kentucky's state parks and their facilities is available by writing the Department of Public Information, Frankfort, Ky. 40601.

The vacationing family will find a wealth of surprises at Kentucky's state parks this summer and the best one may be the price!

TIPS FOR PLANTING CORN.

1. Land Selection - Corn does extremely well on land that is in soybeans the previous year. You should use your best land for continuous corn production. By using the no-tillage method of planting corn, land classes II, III, and IV can be planted in classes I, II, and III, respectively for corn production.

2. Lime and Fertilizer - Corn production is proper fertility. Test your soil and supply only the needed lime and fertilization materials. If the phosphorus and potassium tests are low, the amount used may be reduced 40% this year if fertilizer is applied in a side-band at higher rates.

3. Soil - Corn does best on a moderately well or poorly drained soil. Rates of nitrogen fertilization can be decreased 35 lbs. if 2/3 or more of the nitrogen is applied four to six weeks after planting. Granular nitrogen can be broadcast over the top of the corn without reducing yields, but liquid nitrogen should not be broadcast over the top. Use drop nozzles and place liquid nitrogen on the ground between the corn rows.

Hybrid Selection - The best information on hybrids is in the 1974 Ky. Hybrid Corn Performance Test progress report available in your county extension office. Yields, moisture at harvest and standing ability are reported for each hybrid tested. It is wise when you plant a relatively large acreage to use two or more hybrids or different maturity dates. Full-season hybrids normally will produce higher yields than earlier hybrids. If Johnson Grass is a problem on your farm, select a variety that is resistant to the virus diseases which overwinter in Johnson grass.

Several earlier maturing virus resistant hybrids are now available for grain production.

The later maturing hybrids are better for silage production. The corn you raised last year, now known as F2, should not be used for planting this year as yields can be reduced by 20% to 35%.

4. Date of Planting - A good seedbed is essential for good stands of corn whether you are planting conventionally or by the no-till method of planting. For highest yields, corn should be planted by May 10-15 in Eastern Kentucky and by May 20-25 in Eastern Kentucky. Wait to start planting until after the soil temperature is above 50 degrees F and getting warmer. If using lower quality seed germination less than 85% delay planting until soil temperatures are above 60 degrees F. The

Down On The Farm

Well, last Sunday we had to run our time pieces up one hour faster to conserve energy... so they say from Washington. But I have never had anyone show me where or how we save energy by changing the clock. The sun still comes up and goes down the same time since God created all things. We get up one hour earlier in darkness and colder, thereby taking more light and heat. The children go to school and stand out in the cold and darkness waiting for the bus.

If the powers that be in Washington (Executive, Legislative and Judicial) would change the time we are paying for to sound constructive affairs our Nation was built up on, we wouldn't be in the condition we are in today.

Now is a good time to keep cattle for lice, worms and check for mineral deficiencies in cattle all the time. Grams tetany has already started. A good preventive measure is a mineral supplement of 20 lbs. Traco Mineral Salt, 20 lbs. Cotswold Salt, 20 lbs. Steamed Bone Meal and 40 lbs. Magnesium Oxide. Keep all other salt away from them. Here's a wish before a successful 1975... DOWN ON THE FARM...

no-till planting of corn should be started about one week later than conventional planting.

5. Plant Population - Top yields of grain with the highest net returns are obtained with plant population of 16,000 to 20,000 per acre. Plant 10-15 percent higher populations when planting by the no-tillage method.

An increase of 1.2-2.0 more plants per acre is best for silage production. Corn planted at higher populations often results in increased lodging, more stalk rot and lower quality grain.

If you have to buy seed of lower than 95 percent germination, adjust your seeding rates to compensate for lower germinating seed. For example, to obtain 20,000 plants per acre for 80 percent germinating seed, you must plant 25,000 seeds per acre. Divide the percent germination into the desired population per acre to obtain number of seeds to plant per acre. Use of the proper plate to fit the size corn and ground speeds under 4.5 mph will result in more uniform stands and higher grain yields. If you purchase smaller seed than normal (small rounds or flats) this year, check the plate size more carefully or you may overplant.

6. Depth of Planting - For good emergence and uniform stands, corn should not be planted more than 2 inches deep except in sandy, dry soils. Be careful not to plant the very small seed rounds or flats over 1 inch deep for good stands.

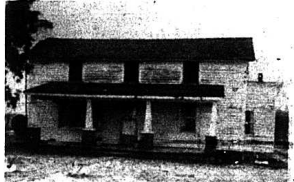

7. Weed Control - Control of weeds is a must for top corn production. In no-till production, a contact residual herbicide with 40 or more gallons of water per acre must be used to obtain best weed control. Proper applications of these chemicals is the most important step in controlling weeds. Consult AGR-6, Chemical Control of Weeds in Farm Crops in Kentucky-1975, for specific information and recommendations regarding weed control.

News & Views From Your Rockcastle Co. Library

"Not to know what happened before one was born is almost to be a child," stated Cicero, who believed that history was the "teacher of life" and the "torch of truth." A well written story about the past is a drama to be enjoyed. Today, when almost every daily headline records new history, it is particularly important that the educated minority which must lead our nation be not ignorant of the wisdom of the past. Read and keep abreast of all the happenings as they myself out of bed an hour earlier, according to the sun, is unbelievable. I suppose we'll get used to it but I don't really see the need to have to get used to it.

I had just begun to think why I could put out in my garden this early when "Prunus" weather showed up again over the week-end. I am all set for my spring gardening and canning, having laid in all my canning supplies and having laid out a beautiful and productive garden on paper. Now all I have to do is talk my husband into going along with raising this "beautiful and productive" garden. I have been amazed this winter at what I managed to save at the grocery store because of what we preserved last summer and, believe me, I fully intend to do the same this summer. It takes a little time but the benefits far outweigh the loss of time and effort.

Went to the Jaycee School Tournament last night at Mt. Vernon and only stayed for the first game in which Mt. Vernon beat Livingston. We rushed home to watch Kentucky lose to Florida and, being thoroughly upset at that, went to bed early for a change. I cannot fathom Kentucky losing to a team which had beaten by 22 points earlier in the season. Don't forget the Jaycee Tournament will be held Thursday night at the high school gymnasium with Mt. Vernon meeting Lancaster in the first game and the winner of the Roundstone-Broadhead and Clark-More-Point Lick games playing in the second. The consolation and championship games will be played Saturday night, March 1st.
