Do you waste your money when you shop? You do if you don't plan ahead and buy wisely, particularly when you're food shopping.

For example, are you aware of what you've been going to drive store prices up? Handling the fresh fruits and vegetables hastens spoilage, increases the costs of the store, and so increases prices.

Do you buy better things than you should? Things that are going to be mixed or chopped or hidden don't have to look as good as otherwise. A can of ragged tomatoes is a better investment for spaghetti sauce than a can of whole fancy ones.

Do you go food shopping at the wrong times? If you're hungry or hurried, you're more susceptible to more expensive, impulse buying.

Do you buy the right foods? Some homemakers make their families go almost entirely without the benefits of butter, an important food in today's diet. Butter is a rich source of vitamin A, vitamin D, aids in the absorption of A, D, E and K, and can make practically anything, even inexpensive meals, taste better!

Shopping properly can go a long way toward helping you spread your money around!

Some people have said that a lion's heart buried in the house would protect it from lightning.

Basketball Season Over; Rockets Lose In Region

Basketball season in Rockcastle County is over as the Rockets went down to defeat in the first game of the Regional play 68 to 65 to a big, quick Lynch team.

At the first of the game, it looked as though the Rockets were going to be blown completely out of the gym when they got down by eight at 2:10; however, they fought back valiantly and, aided by a couple of turnovers by Lynch and steals by Clontz and Vanhook, the Rockets were within one at the end of the first quarter 14-15.

The second quarter went in favor of Lynch with the Rockets taking the lead early in the period on a long, outside shot by Vanhook but the Lynch reeled off 12 straight points and the Rockets were down 27 to 16.

A steal by Whitaker and an ensuing lay-up got the Rockets going in the scoring column again but Lynch stayed with them and at half-time it was 28-37 in favor of Lynch.

The Rockets managed somewhat of a come-back in the third quarter, with two steals and seven points by Vanhook; a steal and lay-up by Tony Arvin and a three-point try by John Clontz for a third-quarter score of 48 to 54.

It looked in the fourth quarter as if the Rockets had it made since they fought to within two points, 64-66, early in the quarter and tied the game up with a steal and lay-up by Whitaker at 60 all. Eddie Hammonds gave the Rockets the lead at 62-60 on two free throws and then it was back and forth until with 34 seconds to go in the game, the Rockets are behind 65 to 67 and a last-minute ball.

An intercepted pass by Lynch told the story, however, and the Rockets lost it 68 to 65.

Vanhook led the scoring for the Rockets with seven field goals and eight free throws for 22 points. Clontz got 12 points; Hammonds got 11; Whitaker 10; Griffin 8; and Arvin, 2.

Candy Strippers Reorganized

A familiar sight in many hospitals is a group of teenage girls in red and white striped pinafores and caps. They are called Candy Strippers and consist of high school girls who are interested not only in nursing careers but in serving at their local hospital in a voluntary capacity. Rockcastle County Hospital has just acquired such an organization.

Twenty-three girls from RCHS have just completed an orientation program deemed necessary to become a Candy Stripper by Head Nurse Cathy Satter at the local hospital.

Several local merchants have helped the newly formed organization to the extent of donating sugar which they used in their bake sale products for raising funds. The girls would like to personally thank these merchants: Superior's T & M Market, Ernie's Food Store, Alonzo Hamm's Grocery, Hill Top Market and Food Fair. Two bake sales were held at RCHS ballgames and $70.06 was netted which will pay for the girls' caps.

The support of the public is also being solicited this Saturday, March 15th, in the girls' door-to-door sale of popcorn. Money received from this project will pay the necessary expenses for delegates from the organization to attend the State Teenage Volunteer Convention to be held in Lexington at the University of Kentucky and UK Medical Center this summer.

The popcorn is the T.V. Time brand which has been made popular in this county by members of the RCHS Band.

RCHS girls interested in becoming Candy Strippers in the near future should contact Mrs. Robert Pylas, Director of the Rockcastle County Candy Strippers, fill out an application and, after careful screening procedures, the applicant will be notified of orientation dates.

You may also contact Mrs. Charlotte Bullock, Miss Regina Taylor and Miss Phyllis Noe.

Miller states that a "stage full of talent will be on hand for the show."

In other action of the club, Edd Hunt, Lions Club President, stated the "Lions Club Citizen of the Week" is a new program of the club, whereby the Club selects a local person who has donated time to civic improvement without thought of personal gain and has worked for the advancement of the community and the people.

Lions To Sponsor "Hee Haw" Show

Sponsoring of a "Hee Haw" Talent Show and the starting of a weekly "Lions Club Citizen of the Week" were main topics at last week's meeting of the Mt. Vernon Lions Club.

The "Hee Haw" talent show is being sponsored by the Lions Club in an effort to help pay for electric lights for the football field at Rockcastle High School. The date set for the show on March 25th will be held at the High School.

Denver Miller, local radio announcer, is to M.C. the show and is in charge of arranging for talent for the stage show. Mr.

Highway Projects Bids To Be Taken This Spring

Bids on highway resurfacing projects totaling $8.5 million will be taken this spring by the Bureau of Highways. Gov. Julian M. Carroll announced today.

This amount is expected to provide resurfacing for about 430 miles of state-maintained highways and shoulder treatment for 113 miles of Interstate highways.

Gov. Carroll explained that this program is financed totally with state funds and affects only state-maintained highways. It does not include similar activities funded by special programs, such as County Road Aid, Rural Secondary or Municipal Aid.

Carroll said, "While a limited amount of mileage on coal haul roads is included, the $20 million I have made available for a special coal-haul road program will not be used to fund any part of this program."

The governor stated that he recognizes the resurfacing needs of Commonwealth highways are more than $9.5 million can meet. "If subsequent review of our revenues shows we can add to this program, I will be delighted to approve any other projects we can afford," he said.

The 113 miles of shoulder treatment on older sections of 164 and 175 will provide resurfacing for worn shoulders. This is the first time these sections have required such treatment since they were constructed.

Highway Commissioner John C. Roberts said, "Considering the problems the economy is creating for all highway activities, we are very pleased with this resurfacing program. We have had a rather mild winter, at least so far, and that has helped.

Funds available will be distributed equitably among the various regions of the state. Specific projects are selected on the recommendations of the Bureau's professional engineering staff. Roberts stated.

Highway officials say they have seen some evidence of greater competition for road contracts. This leads them to expect better bids than they would have received last year. At the same time they recognize the threat to commodity prices presented by prospective taxes on imported oil.

Roberts said, "All our program projections are complicated by the uncertainties of both revenues and costs."

Resurfacing contracts are usually let as early in the year as possible since they must be completed before cold weather makes the use of hot bituminous material impossible. Bureau specifications show a cut-off date of November 15th for surfacing activities.

better able to keep your shirt on when you shop if you select food that's properly clothed as well. Preferably, you should purchase produce and other food products that come pre-packaged.

Pre-packaging combined, when necessary, with refrigeration can save a lot of money in distribution costs on many food items, cut labor costs (which today are up to about six cents a minute), keep food fresh on the shelf and decrease the chances of the food getting damaged; all of which can save you money.

Percolation Test Required For Septic Tank Installation

The State Plumbing Program under the Department of Natural Resources and Environmental Protection has announced that enforcement of KRS 318.134 will start immediately statewide.

KRS 318.134 (2) directs, that:

"All applications for plumbing installation permits shall be accompanied by plans and specifications of the proposed plumbing installation, location, and construction of water supply system, type of sewage disposal, location of septic tank, drain field or pit to be used. No plumbing installation permit shall be issued until plans of the sewage disposal have been submitted to and approved by the Department together with the results of an approved percolation test."

The mandate of the statute is clear. No plumbing permits shall be issued unless a plan of sewage disposal and results of an approved percolation test have been submitted and approved by the local plumbing inspector on new installations of septic tanks.

An approved percolation test can only be run by a registered engineer, a registered land surveyor, a registered soil scientist, or a registered geologist.

Plumbing permits can be purchased at the Rockcastle County Health Department in the Courthouse on Wednesdays from 1 to 1:30 p.m.

1975 Cars Expected to Show Fuel Economy

Findlay, Ohio—(H)—The purchaser of a 1975 automobile may still be getting higher value for his higher price.

Walter MacDonald, Technical Services manager for Marathon Oil Company, said "Lower maintenance costs and reduced fuel consumption on most new cars will probably save some money to offset higher selling prices."

One of the savings MacDonald foresees will result from longer intervals between oil changes and spark plug replacements. Use of the new unleaded gasoline, required for all 1975 cars, can account for some of that savings.

Generally, car owners will be able to go for 20,000 to 30,000 hours between spark plug changes and tune-ups, MacDonald noted. "One particular kind of 'long-life' spark plug requires changing only every 50,000 miles directly as a result of using unleaded fuel."

According to the Marathon official, new features such as electronic ignition systems, special tires and optional rear axles will all result in more miles to the gallon. He noted that on an industry wide basis the 1975 cars are expected to offer a fuel economy improvement of 13.5 percent as compared with 1974 cars.

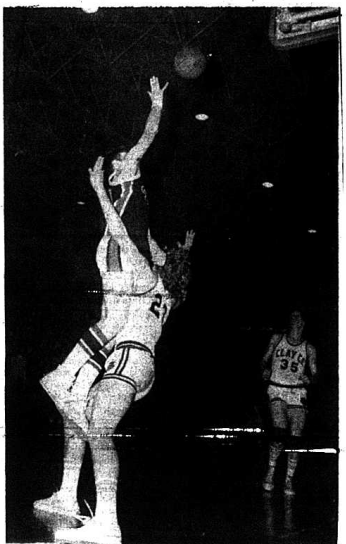

MacDonald cited another significant trend. With new improvements, air conditioning and other options available on more and more cars after 1967, the overall fuel economy dropped substantially. MacDonald explained that new Environmental Protection Agency studies have shown that 1975 cars will achieve an average of 13.7 miles per gallon, the same as for 1967 model cars.

"After seven years of declining fuel economy, this should be seen as a real accomplishment," MacDonald asserted.

Many people believe that a key is an effective amulet against the evil eye—especially if that eye is looking through the keyhole!

It looks like charging but my informant source [my son Rick] tells me that No. 23 for Clay County was called out swinging on Dwight Griffin for the Rockets. This photo was taken during action in the Clay County Rockcastle County Championship Game last Saturday night at Jackson County. The Rockets were defeated by Clay by an eight-point margin and went on to lose to Lynch in the first game of the Regionals. No. 35 for Clay County is Walter Brymline.

Eddie Hammonds, No. 24, for Rockcastle County tries for two from outside during action in the Friday night game between Rockcastle and the Lynch Bulldogs at the Regional Tournament in Middleboro. Trying to block the shot for Lynch is No. 40, Richard Chapman, who picked up four points for the Bulldogs. The Bulldog who really gave the Rockets fits is also in the photo, No. 54, James Price. Price was high point man for the game with 25 and numerous rebounds.

Debbie Harris, No. 52, tries for two against the Clay County girls and Paul Pennington, No. 10, in particular in last Saturday night's championship game at Jackson County. The Rockcastle girls were runner-up in the District. No. 11 for Clay County is Andy Hild. Debi No. and No. 81 for Clay County were named to the all-tournament team.

MOUNT VERNON, KENTUCKY 40456

VOLUME 85 - NUMBER 27

THURSDAY, March 13, 1975

ALMOST FOUR INCHES OF RAIN IN LESS THAN 24 HOURS caused several problems in Rockcastle County Wednesday. In the above photo, a small dot in the rear of the picture is a small school bus which is almost submerged. According to reports, Caleb Lamb was driving the bus to school Wednesday morning when the bus slipped off the road and into the water on Lime Plant Hollow at Pine Hill.

Water surrounds the home of Thurman Tompkins and the Conagins in Lime Plant Hollow at Pine Hill. Four families living in the Hollow were blocked by the high water. School was dismissed at 11:30 a.m. Wednesday due to the rising water in several communities.

Council Approves Street Program; Hires Grider As Policeman

The Mt. Vernon City Council, at its regular monthly meeting Monday night, accepted the recommendations of the Street Committee and approved the Municipal Road Aid Program for the year. Streets included in the program and the amounts to be spent on each are as follows:

Williams Street, $8,328;
Lair Street, $1,134; New Street, $495.00;
Newcomb Avenue, $1,816;
Maple Street, $352;
Lovell Court, $570;
Lewis Street, $1,100;
Floyd Street, $400;
Clark Street, $400;
and Shirley Street, $1,156. The total listed above is $16,049 leaving approximately $1,122 in the program for patching of other streets.

During the meeting, the Council went into Executive session to discuss the application of three men for the job of City Policeman - a position which is open due to the resignation of Roy "Schooner" Lucas. The three applicants were from John Grider, Kelly Richards and Estill Alcorn. After considerable discussion, a motion was made by Councilman Conrad Parrett and seconded by Councilwoman Kay Robinson that Mr. Grider be hired at a salary of $475 per month and that City Policeman Sherman Denny, who has been working on a day-to-day basis, be hired full time at the same salary. The three men's shifts, including Police Chief Clifford Pittman, were set up by the Council as follows: 7 a.m. to 3 p.m., Chief Pittman; 3 p.m. to 11 p.m., Patlman Denny; and from 11 p.m. to 7 a.m., Patrolman Grider.

Mayor Roland Mullins brought to the attention of the Council the fact that the preliminary plan for the recreation project at Lake Linville had been approved by the Resource Conservation and Development Project (RC&D) and that the next step would be an invitation from the Council to RC&D for a field representative to come to the area and look over the proposed project as to feasibility.

Mayor Mullins told the Council that the estimated cost of the project, which included the running of water to the boat dock, the building of shelter houses and recreational equipment for the area, was $50,000 of which 50 percent would have to be matching money from the city. However, Mayor Mullins also said that there was a good possibility that in the city's 50 percent portion that 50 percent of the retail value of the land on Lake Linville involved could be considered along with any work done locally on the project thereby reducing to a great extent the actual cash the City might have to put up for the project.

He also assured the Council that the next step of having a field representative visit the site committed the Council in no way to the project - which has not actually been approved as yet.

A discussion of the ticketing of cars for parking illegally beside the Post Office and between Cox Hardware and Mt. Vernon Bargain Store was held and the Council decided to go one step further. In the future, not only will these cars be ticketed but Chief Clifford Pittman was instructed to also ticket cars parked on Spring Street from the Railroad down to the old Landromat in such a manner as to cause one-way traffic.

INJUNCTION DENIED IN RENFRO DISPUTE

Renfro Valley, Inc., owned and operated by J. Hal Smith, was denied a temporary injunction in a hearing before Circuit Judge Lawrence Hall recently.

The injunction had been asked in connection with a civil suit filed by Renfro Valley, Inc., against Glenn Pennington, part owner of the Big Red Barn at Renfro Valley. The suit had asked that an injunction be given Renfro Valley enjoining Mr. Pennington from interfering in any manner with plaintiff's employees and entertainers and from hiring said persons to compete with plaintiff.

Other issues in the suit will be determined by a trial in Circuit Court.

DENTAL FACTS
-In London in the 14th century, barbers were specialized in the practice of pulling teeth were called "Tooth Drawers." They would use sharp caps and necklaces of teeth they had pulled.
-The value of practicing oral hygiene procedures was recognized in the ancient Hebrew, Greek, Roman and other civilizations.
-About 1840, oral health in this country began to take on aspects of a profession, with establishment of a dental school, a dental society, and a dental course of instruction.
-Some early toothpastes included highly abrasive minerals. The development of dentifrices has now progressed to the point where toothpastes are available for a variety of purposes: tooth whitening, polishing, fighting cavities and relieving the pain of hypersensitive teeth. The therapeutic dentifrice Sensodyne has been reported to be effective in cleaning and polishing overly-sensitive teeth.

Frankfort Watchline

During the last General Assembly, for the first time, Eastern Kentuckians pulled together for a common cause and had some strong leadership to keep them together.

For a few weeks, the usually independent band of mountaineers fought a sometimes bitter battle with Gov. Wendell Ford, with general interests, and with each other in their own ranks.

And they succeeded, beyond their own wild dreams at the time, in getting the governor to allot them a portion of coal tax revenues.

For weeks after the Legislature closed, the members of the mountain caucus rode high on their first victory. There were parties and celebrations of victory. And there was much discussion of how to parlay the success of 1974 into even greater success in 1976.

The edge has worn off a bit now, and talking with Letcher County Hoover Dawahare, the Democrat state legislator who sparked the unity when he was thrown out of the House by speaker Norbert Glumac, the night fears are coming back.

The mountain caucus is threatening to dissolve into the disarray that had marked it for decades before the last session. While the spark is still there, the leadership is rapidly disappearing.

Top of that list is W. Terry Terry McBrayer, the Greenup Democrat who is now Gov. Julian Carroll's chief executive officer.

McBrayer is generally credited with proving the leadership, the voice in the governor's office, the compromising agent. The mountaineers, respecting him and would listen to him.

While McBrayer's loss will be the hardest for the Eastern Kentuckians, there is more. The division is losing both of its majority leadership positions.

After six terms, including some hard fought battles in his own district just to stay in, state Rep. Bill Reynolds of Floyd County has announced he will not seek re-election.

As Democratic caucus chairman in the House, Reynolds was a big stick for the mountain caucus.

In the Senate, Joe Stacy of West Liberty, another veteran legislator and caucus chairman of the Senate Democrats, has also decided to step down.

Although Stacy was not deeply involved in the severance tax efforts of last year, he was a leadership voice that the mountain delegation will miss.

Yet a fourth leadership voice won't be on hand this year. Less obviously that McBrayer, for example, but nearly as effective in cooling down some of the hot-tempered mountaineers when the need for cooling would arise, was David Van Horn of Lexington, who is now running for attorney general.

The mountain caucus is left with plenty of spark from the likes of Hoover Dawahare and Cumberland's Glenn Freeman, but some cool-headed, politically experienced leadership is going to be sorely needed.

The hard part is that there may be more of a need in 1976 than there was in 1974. Legislators from other areas of the state are bitter about the huge amounts of money the mountain amendment raised last session as the coal prices soared and the current tax sharing plan will die before the General Assembly convenes again.

The mountain caucus wants far more as they are likely to get from the next General Assembly, and someone willing to bargain for an acceptable compromise is going to have to rise from their ranks.

Speaking of McBrayer, the man who once was considered Gov. Carroll's tacit running mate this year was conspicuously absent from the Carroll rally March 1.

Worn out from fielding 120 phone calls a day and talking with an endless stream of visitors on Carroll's behalf, "I took the kids to Disney World for the weekend. I had to get away."

The U.S. Bicentennial Focus '76

BY VERNON JOHNSON

"What to the American slave is your Fourth of July? I answer, a day that reveals to him more than all other days of the year, the gross injustice and cruelty to which he is the constant victim. To him your celebration is a sham; your boasted liberty an unholy license; your national greatness, your sounds of rejoicing are empty and heartless; your denunciation of tyrants, brass-fronted impudence; your shouts of liberty and equality, hollow mockery; your prayers and hymns, your sermons and thanksgivings, with all your religious parade and solemnity, are to him mere bombast, fraud, deception, impiety and hypocrisy—a thin veil to cover up crimes which would disgrace a nation of savages."

Frederick Douglass 1852

As the nation approaches her 200th anniversary, the words of Frederick Douglass hold great significance for millions of Americans. Fighting for an independence, a right to life and a liberty which was guaranteed to all in 1776, the Bicentennial takes on a special significance for these individuals.

In an effort to deal with these special interests the Afro-American Bicentennial Corporation was founded in Washington in 1970.

The consensus of the corporation's directors is that the Bicentennial will be viewed by Black Americans as a timely and appropriate vehicle for addressing many of the problems still faced by millions of the nation's poor Black and Brown citizens. Thus, the project and programs being fostered are long-term social, economic and physical residuals far "beyond the fireworks of 1976."

One such program is the building of the National Frederick Douglass Center. This memorial would include his home in Cedar Hill, Washington, D. C., and additional facilities to make his life and his story a living example for the people of the entire country. The National Park Service is building a Visitor Center to display exhibits and present an audio-visual presentation on the life of Douglass. Funds for the additional facilities, which include a Black Studies Library and a Center for the Arts, are being sought through private and other government sources.

It is hoped that these kinds of projects will bring about a greater understanding and respect of the contributions the Black Man has made in this country. With it perhaps a new level of communication will be opened. A level of communication which does more than talk of every individual's right to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness.

A demonstration on making seed and dough flowers will be conducted Monday, April 14th at 7 p.m. by Mrs. Willie Cummins and Mrs. Gwen Harris at the Rockcastle County Library. Materials needed for making these will be publicized at a later date.

Mrs. Julie Harris, President, reported that members of the Club had gone to Berea College and inquired through the Publicity Department into having a schedule sent weekly to this paper to keep our community up to date on what programs are available there such as plays, symphonies, puppet shows, arts and crafts, displays, etc.

She also informed the Club that a one-week art class connected with the Living Arts and Science Center in Lexington will be held this summer for pre-school children, ages 4-6 and Elementary School Children, ages 6-12. Two Saturday craft classes for boys will also be conducted.

Ladies, you need not be any more to participate in any or all of these various projects and activities, but your help is needed so plan now to become a member and to take advantage of these opportunities to grow!

EVEN THE VICTORIANS CHASED AFTER THE SUN

Did you know that sunlight for a long time, has been considered one of the best disinfectants? Although it appeared that the Victorians, with their drawn blinds, preferred a faded face to a faded carpet—even then, sane voices were pleading that sunlight be splashed in every corner. When you consider all those leaky pipes and bad drains there is little wonder that the more enlightened advocated sun therapy. Which reminds us—children's rooms should have lots of it!

That scientific term "astronaut" is rather romantic in the original Greek. Astor means star and nautis sailor, so an "astronaut" is one who sails among the stars.

WHY WE CAN'T SAY "PRICES ARE TOO HIGH: WE WON'T BUY."

From wood poles to steel towers, from glass insulators to manlift trucks, the impact of price increases in the thousands of things we buy is almost unbelievable. A substitution we could build in 1973 for $500,000 now costs $1 million.

We can't simply say, "Prices are too high; we won't build." We must buy and we must build to meet your increasing electrical needs.

In the next five years we must spend more than $550 million on the KU-ODP system to build new facilities and add environmental equipment at today's and tomorrow's costs. In the past, when we built new facilities, their greater efficiency held down the cost of service. In the face of today's awesome price increases that is no longer true. Consequently, as we build and grow for tomorrow, the cost of electricity must grow with us.

energy outlook

BY HARRY L. OBER

A story surviving from the hansom cab era is about a kindly lady who got into one and put her heavy suitcase on the floor. Noting the fatigue of the swabbak nag pulling the cab, she clicked, "The poor old horse has enough to haul woman into." So she picked up the suitcase and put it on her lap.

The story's recall is triggered by the suggestion in the recent Project Independence study, on which future federal energy policy will be largely based. It urges legislation to force a shift to greater use of electricity.

Because electricity is simply a converted form of other energy, and we are admonished to cut sharply our use of electric power, are we being asked to put the suitcase on our lap?

Perhaps, and perhaps not. The laws suggested would, for example, forbid the use of oil or gas to heat new homes, leaving builders with no practical choice but to use electricity. What is intended is to stimulate the use of coal to produce electricity. Of coal we have an 800-year supply.

Right now, about one-half of our national use of electricity is coal-based—and 80 percent or more in some parts of the country. Electric producers would like to use more of it because it would keep consumer bills down, but there are obstacles. The Environmental Protection Administration condemns the burning of high-sulfur coal, the kind found east of the Mississippi. The low-sulfur stuff is mainly in the west and usually must be surface-mined. But surface mining is frowned upon.

The EPA's solution for eastern utilities is that they install stack "scrubbers" to keep sulfur oxide emissions from getting into the air. The utilities say the scrubbers cost millions, boosting electric bills, and while they are being improved, they don't yet work well enough to warrant the cost and other problems.

An eighteenth-century physician, Dr. Sangrado, would be best forgotten for this theory: It is an error to believe that blood is necessary for life.

HAYES-It has been said that you couldn't have a war without a Hayes in it, so far as I know, there has been a Hayes to disprove it. Certainly in every conflict I have ever studied which involved English-speaking nations, the name occurs with some frequency. My mother was a Hayes and her grandfather, George Hayes, was a Revolutionary war hero. William Hayes, fought in the War of 1812; her uncle Wiley Hayes, was one of many of the name who fought on each side of the War Between the States. The Mexican War period produced probably the most famous of all the Hayes's - Captain John Coffey Hayes, who never lost a battle, regardless of odds and became the first captain of the Texas Rangers, in whose service he won undying fame.

According to such information as I have been able to gather, the name is first found in the county of Tipperary, Ireland in 604 A.D. and had been traced through the noble houses of Ireland, Scotland and England. The family seems to have been separated at the time of the Norman invasion, under William the Conqueror, A.D. 1066, many of them spreading into England and Scotland. The name was first spelled Hay then Hays or Hayes our Rockcastle branch, for the most part, using the latter spelling.

The name first appears in America in Virginia, Pennsylvania, New Hampshire and Connecticut between 1638 and 1654. A few years later, we find them established in what is now Tennessee, from whence they later spread into Kentucky. George Hayes, the Revolutionary soldier from whom most of our Rockcastle branch is descended, was born in Amherst County, Virginia in 1760 living later in Burke County, North Carolina, from which place he entered the service in 1781. At the close of his enlistment, he settled in Hawkins County, Tennessee, moving later to Blaine County of the same state and dying there in 1839. His father had also been named George and was also a Revolutionary soldier. He was born in England in 1735 and had come to America in 1855, joining relatives in Amherst, Virginia, where he married and raised a family, his first child being the George Hayes previously noted.

The last named George Hayes had two sons, William and John, who fought in the War of 1812. Other sons were James, Hiram, Harmon, Barrett and some whose names are not remembered. William was married to Jane Rucker of Granger County, Tennessee had 12 children and raised 9 of them to maturity. George W. married Louisa Dalton; Colby married Nancy Coffey; Thomas M. married Elizabeth Houk; John Alfred never married; Thomas married Sarah Rucker; Harmon married Ann Snodgrass; Mahalia married Hiram Houk; Mary married James Houk; Allie married Coleman Haley. William Hayes was wounded in the knee by an Indian tomahawk during service in the War of 1812, for which he drew a pension and a grant of land. William's son, Lieutenant James M. Hayes, fell at the Battle of Mill Springs during the Civil War. He, with his wife, his father and mother and many other members of the family are buried in the Renfro Valley Cemetery.

Harmon Hayes, a sergeant in the Union Army, and his wife, Ann Snodgrass Hayes, had two daughters, Elmada Summers Hayes, born 1858 and Volene E. Hayes, born 1860, who were married to death June 26, 1873 when their clothing caught fire from the explosion of a coal-oil can in the kitchen of their home. Elmada Summers was soon to be married to W.H. Fish and she and her sister and a girl friend were engaged in making her wedding dress at the time of the accident. They and their father, Harmon, are also buried in the Hayes section of the Renfro Valley Cemetery.

Another Harmon Hayes, son of Revolutionary veteran George Hayes and his wife, Jinetta Dalton Hayes, were parents of Paulina, who married Thomas Jefferson Coffey and had 9 children; Wiley, who married Julia Tiley, in North Carolina. Their children were Florence, who married Isaac Coffey; Bettie, who married Jim Trueser; Charlie, who married Sarah Bryant; Mattie, who married William-Elliott. There was also a son, Colonel Coffey, concerning whom we have no information.

Lieutenant James M. Hayes, son of William and Jane Rucker Hayes, who fell at the Battle of Mill Springs, as noted elsewhere in this work, married Elizabeth Houk and they had 3 children - James, Sarah Jane who married W.H. Fish and Thomas Calvin, who married Mary M. Griffin. They had 4 children. Eliza M. married Rance Coffey and had 6 children. She lived to be past 90 years old and at the time of her death had amassed more information on the Hayes, Coffey, Houk, Griffin and Fish families than anyone I had ever known. She was of great help to me in getting the book together. Her husband, George W. Coffey, died and Lloyd scattered out, with Lloyd now making his home in California.

Among the first of the Hayes men to lead an active military life in Kentucky was William, who married a daughter of Daniel Boone and came with him in the settlement of Booneboro, where he was later a member of Capt. John Holder's Company. Hayes went to Missouri when he left Kentucky and was killed there in an altercation with James Davis.

GREEN-From old cemetery markers and place names, it would appear that the Green family was once important in the earlier affairs of this county. John Green, born in Tennessee in 1798, is buried in the Renfro Valley Cemetery, having passed away in 1869. He was married to Orlia Slatten and they were parents of 11 children, among whom were the following: A.J., William, Colonel Houston, Amanda, Henderson, Syrena, Rutha and Sally. John Green's wife, Orlia, died and was buried in the Renfro Valley Cemetery and by 1869, he was living with two of his sons, A.J. and William in Scott County, Kentucky. He seems to have died there in that year as an after-result of an accident of some kind. He had a wish that his body be taken back to Rockcastle and be buried beside his wife, but, since his death occurred in very hot weather and embalming or other methods of preservation was not possible, he asked, at the last, that he be buried in a Methodist churchyard near the scene of his passing. This was done but at a later date, his sons had his body taken up and brought back and marker now interred beside that of his wife in Renfro Valley.

The Greens intermarried with the Parsons, Ramseys and other of the older families in the county. Several boys of various families were given the first name of Green - notably Rev. Green Fish and others. It is not known certainly that Green Hill was named for this family but since several Greens at one time or another made their homes in that community, it is assumed that it was so named.

New Communications System Readied For Tornado Season

By: Anthony Pearce-Batten

High winds wrecked a mobile home park in the Ohio County town of Centertown last week, grimly ushering in the annual tornado season and reminding Rockcastians of the twenty-seven twisters that rampaged through the state last April.

Just weeks away from the first anniversary of the worst natural disaster ever experienced by the state, it seems timely to ask how Kentucky has improved its capacity to deal with the threat and damage of tornadoes and other disasters.

In the aftermath of last year's twisters, state rescue and relief operations were greatly hampered by a communications system that was dependent solely on telephone or other landlines.

"We had almost nothing last April 3," remembers James L. Mathews, director of communications in the division of Disaster and Emergency Services (DES), formerly the Kentucky Civil Defense Office. "It was one big mish-mash. During the tornadoes I was using mobile unit-to-base contact and whatever landlines that were still left," he added.

Now headquartered in the emergency operations building of the Boone National Guard Center here, DES has a complete communications setup and a detailed set of plans to cope with emergencies ranging from flood to nuclear war.

The radio console in the DES communications center puts the disaster service unit into instant contact with the Kentucky State Police, the state division of forestry, Department of Fish and Wildlife, Department of Transportation, National Guard, all Kentucky Educational Television transmitter sites and each of the remaining program cabinets of state government.

This system provides for cross channeling of these different departments and includes phone-patch capabilities by landline to local government officials," explained Mathews. More importantly, the entire communications network can be assessment, including aerial reconnaissance and emergency airlifts.

The governor would move his staff to the adjutant general's office on the second floor of the Emergency Operations Center in case of a disaster or other emergency. Press room facilities would be established on the same floor to enable the governor and adjutant general, who directs the emergency operations, to brief newsmen on the progress of disaster aid work. The news services of the state Department of Public Information also would be moved into the communications center in case of an emergency. Both the equipment and disaster plans are fairly new.

ON ALERT—James Mathews (background), director of communications for the state Division of Disaster and Emergency Services (DES), and his deputy, Charles D. Davenport, man the telephones and radios during a simulated disaster situation in the emergency operations room at the Boone National Guard Center in Frankfort. In case of a natural disaster like last year's tornadoes, the radio console in front of the men would provide them instant communication in dispatching emergency aid to the stricken areas.

PANCAKES A'PLENTY....

If you're a "pancakes are for breakfast" diehard, these German Apple Pancake dessert just might change your mind:

6 eggs, lightly beaten
1 1/2 cups sifted flour
1/4 tsp salt
1 tsp sugar
2 cups milk
2 to 3 tsp. butter
cinnamon sugar
1/2 lemon
cooked apples or applesauce

Combine eggs, flour, salt, sugar and milk. Beat five minutes with rotary beater or whip in blender one minute. Batter should be thin and smooth. Melt butter in very wide frying pan. Pour four to five tbsp. batter into pan. Turn and slant pan from side to side, so batter spreads to form thin, large pancake. Cook over high heat until pancake is dry on top. Turn and bake other side.

At the table, sprinkle top of pancake thickly with cinnamon-sugar. Squeeze lemon juice over cake; cover with sweetened, cooked apples or apple sauce... Roll, jelly-roll fashion, and serve immediately. Recipe makes four to six huge pancakes.

This recipe comes from Kansas Wheat Commission. Here's another intriguing one...

Sour Dough Starter
Combine ingredients in large, non-metal bowl. Mix until well blended. Let stand uncovered in warm place (80 to 85 degrees) for 48 hours; stir occasionally. Stir well before use. Pour out required amount and replenish remaining starter by mixing in one cup each, flour and warm water. Let stand uncovered in warm place a few hours, until it bubbles again, before covering loosely and refrigerating. Use and replenish every two weeks.

1040 U.S. Individual Taxpayers Ask IRS

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U. S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q. I participate in a work retraining program sponsored by the State welfare agency where I live. Are the payments I receive in this program taxable?

A. No. Such payments are not taxable (exclusive of extra allowances for transportation, etc.) provided they do not exceed the public welfare benefits you might be receiving otherwise.

Q. I am receiving taxable unemployment benefits from which tax has not been withheld. Should I file a Declaration of Estimated Tax for 1975?

A. You must file a declaration of estimated income tax. Form 1040-ES, if your estimated tax (income less the estimated tax worksheet) is $100 or more or your estimated gross income for 1975 includes more than $975 in income not subject to withholding. Other circumstances of marital status and amount of gross income affect whether you must file Form 1040-ES. For further information call the IRS toll free with the number listed in the tax forms package you received in the mail.

Q. I use my car in my work and have to travel over long roads to reach some of my clients. Are these tolls deductible in part or in full?

A. If you are required to use your car in your work, you may deduct the business portion of its operating costs. These deductible costs include tolls incurred during business use of your car.

Q. Can I deduct my transportation expenses for going to nursery reserve meetings once a month?

A. If the reserve (or National Guard) meetings are held in the general area of your tax home (the city or general area where your business or other employment is located) and you return home on Saturday night, the transportation cost from your home to the meeting is a commuting expense and is not deductible. If the meetings are held outside the general area of your tax home, you may deduct the cost of your transportation to attend the meetings. If the reserve meetings are held after work on a normal workday, you may deduct the cost of getting from your work to the meeting. However, if for some personal reason you do not get home from one location to the other, you may deduct only the amount it would have cost you to go directly from work to the meeting.

The close of hunting season each year marks the beginning of the season for the Department of Fish and Wildlife's game biologists and wildlife managers, the men whose duty it is to see that next year's hunters have ample populations of game animals. On the state's wildlife management areas, plans are now underway for spring plantings of wildlife food plots, mowing strips to provide succulent new growth for rabbits and other grass-eating species, and performing the other operations necessary to insure ample and productive wildlife habitat. Wildlife plantings begin each year in February and continue through October. A variety of foods, ranging from clover to corn, are planted each year. On many areas, farm crops are planted and tended by a local farmer on a share-cropping basis. The farmer harvests his share, but leaves the rest of the crop standing for wildlife.

ations to the Fish and Wildlife Commission about seasons, limits and other matters concerning Kentucky's various resources.

And then there are the various restocking programs. research projects, wildlife disease studies, consultations with landowners and a myriad of other jobs which keep the members of the Div. of Game Management busy throughout the year.

So while Kentucky's hunters are putting away their guns and turning their thoughts to other outdoor pursuits, this group of dedicated professionals is hard at work getting ready for next fall.

W. F. Mink with some of the items he has handcrafted since his retirement. Mr. Mink is 87 years old and keeps himself busy mainly with making exact replicas of old time farm items.

Retirement Doesn't Mean Quitting For W. F. Mink, 86 Years Young

W. F. Mink's philosophy concerning retirement is simply stated: "Most people want to quit at retirement or before, not me, why quit, when you don't have to?"

And, Mr. Mink follows through on this idea by spending all his spare time during the day working in his woodworking shop. Mr. Mink's shop, located at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Edna Singleton, on High Street in Mt. Vernon where he also resides, does not contain any elaborate or modern tools. His main tools are knives and he also uses saws and files. His ability in making exact replicas of wagons, plows, sleds and a harrow of Olden Times is astonishing.

Most of Mr. Mink's work is sold, but he says this is not his main reason for working on his woodcraft. His main reason is simply that he enjoys keeping busy.

Mr. Mink was born on Crooked Creek near Salt Petre Cave on November 22, 1888. He worked in logging and timbering until 1908 when he was employed by W. J. Sparks and Company at the Quarry at Mullins Station.

The company changed names to what is now known as Ky. Stone Company and Mr. Mink worked there for 57 years retiring at the age of 77.

In 1908, he married Nancy Elizabeth Mullins and they had seven children, all of whom are still living. They are: George of Elizabethtown, Donald and Gene of Mt. Vernon, Mrs. Nell Cummins of Brodhead, Mrs. Lorene Cummins and Mrs. Edna Singleton of Mt. Vernon and Mrs. Candace Waddle of Livingston. Mr. Mink's wife died June 19, 1972 at the age of 84.

County Agent's Notes

By: H. Lee Durham

The Food Situation - 1974 Revisited

The extraordinary rise in food prices in 1973 continued in 1974.

*During 1974, food prices increased at a 12 percent rate, compared to more than a 20 percent increase in 1973. The U.S.D.A. attributes 4/5 of the 1974 retail price increase to the widening margin between retail and farm prices.

*Food prices during 1974 increased at about the same rate as other so-called "necessities." For example, from January through November of 1974, housing costs were up 16.6 percent, apparel up 9.1 percent and health and recreation up 10.3 percent.

*Food prices rose faster than consumer incomes in 1974. Real spendable earnings actually declined 5.4 percent during the year reflecting the recessionary trend in the country. Traditionally, incomes have increased more rapidly than food prices.

*While food prices in the aggregate were increasing, prices of selected foods did not change at the same rate. For example, cereals and bakery products increased nearly 22 percent, fruits and vegetables were up 14 percent and meat, poultry and fish prices declined more than 2 percent during the year.

*Farm-retail price spreads for a market basket of U.S. farm foods widened in 1974. In fact, the spread was 21 percent larger in 1974, compared to 1973. This is nearly 3 times the previous largest annual increase. Do these statistics infer that "middlemen" profiteered? Publicly released data from the supermarket chains indicate that profits were up in 1974. However, rising wage rates, energy and material costs and transportation charges increased drastically. For example hourly wages were up 10 percent and energy costs were up 52 percent. These latter two components, on the average, account for more than 70 percent of so-called "middlemen" expenses.

Food Outlook for 1975
For the first time since World War II, the U.S. border has become lean and more belt tightening is to come. The U.S.

Department of Agriculture predicts that prices will continue to rise at an annual rate of 15 percent during the first half of this year, for two reasons. First, we will be eating foods that were harvested in 1974 - a disappointing crop year plagued by bad weather. Second, inflation is driving up the costs of food processing, distributing and retailing. Agricultural economists are predicting an even wider spread this year than last between what the farmer is paid for his crops and what the consumer pays for his food.

Gloomy projections of higher prices may be cancelled out by bad news of a different kind. If the recession gets grave enough and enough people lose their jobs, demand will fall and prices will follow. Indeed, a dramatic drop in farm prices and a decline in wholesale prices of processed foods as 1974 ended may cause the USDA to revise its forecast downward.

The most abundant news, of course, is that we are still here. The prospect of higher prices for most staple foods. Prices are expected to rise for pork, chicken, milk, eggs, margarine and salad oil and for some fruits and vegetables. Retail prices of plentiful foods - such as potatoes, rice, onions, beef and oranges - may continue to creep upward, though almost certainly not at anything like a 15 percent annual rate.

Brown Bagging It
High prices are changing habits learned during years of plenty. Last year Americans consumed an estimated 188 pounds of meat per person, down from almost 192 pounds in 1971. Restaurants report that more and more patrons are requesting "doggy bags" and bread lines have formed outside cafe shops, selling out-of-date baked goods. Kenneth Schlossberg, staff director of the Senate Select Committee on Nutrition and Human Needs, says that in the future "people will spend more time preparing food and saving food the way they never did before. You're not going to see middle-class housewives pouring a kid a glass of milk and the kid drinking a third of it and the rest goes down the drain. Seraps are going to go into soups. Husbands are going to start taking lunch to work."

Americans are definitely on their way to a more herbivorous diet. Our consumption of vegetable protein in the form of meat extenders and substitutes grew from about two ounces per person in 1970 to a little over a pound in 1974. If USDA predictions hold true, consumption of textured vegetable protein will amount to as much as 180 pounds per person by 1980.
