

Service

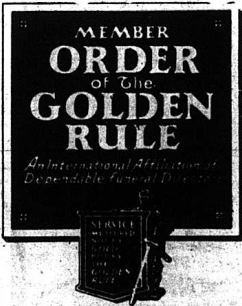

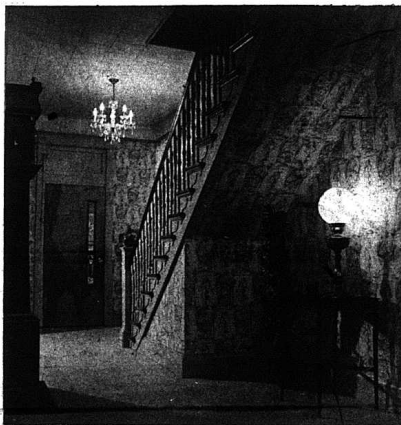

EVER WONDER WHY MORE FAMILIES RECOMMEND DOWELL AND MARTIN FUNERAL HOME?

Maybe it's because of the sincere and personal service provided by every member of the Dowell and Martin staff. Personal attention is given to every detail so that nothing will be overlooked. Even after the funeral service, the Dowell and Martin people will help in arranging social security benefits, insurance policies or veterans benefits. Anything to help families in this very difficult time.

Or maybe it is the beautiful surroundings that create a feeling of warmth and peace. A home-like atmosphere.

Or maybe it is the sincere education that each member of the Dowell and Martin Funeral Home Staff has to helping people when they need it most. Each individual family has different desires and wishes. We are here to obey each and every request.

Or maybe it is all of these reasons that more families recommend Dowell and Martin. The Order of the Golden Rule thinks so and that is why they selected the Dowell and Martin Funeral Home to be their only member in Rockcastle County.

questions and answers

Q. I'm disabled and I get supplemental security income payments. When social security makes a redetermination of my case, will I have to be examined by a doctor to prove I'm still disabled?

A. No. Social security will make a redetermination of your eligibility for payment based on such factors as your income and resources. A redetermination of your disability would be made only if evidence indicates that your condition has improved or if you return to work.

Q. I didn't work long enough under social security to be eligible for Medicare hospital insurance, so I'm buying this protection with monthly premiums. Is the premium "extra" going to go up?

A. Yes. Starting July 1, 1975, your basic premium rate for Medicare hospital insurance will go from $36 to $40 a month. The premium rate is based on the average monthly Medicare hospital insurance payment for patients who have the protection. The increase is due to rising hospital costs.

by perline m. anderkin

I was given to understand Tuesday night that I had not given sufficient coverage to the John Lair Day, scheduled for July 4th, as pertains to the fact that everyone is being asked to dress "old timey" for this special day. Now, by this, I assume they mean long dresses and bonnets for the ladies and overalls? or such for the men. Anyway, use your own judgement just try to dress in tune with Mr. Lair's love for old time ways and customs. More on this on the front page of this week's paper.

I have been neglecting this column and really can't, right at this minute, think of a thing witty to write about. But, here I am anyway. I suppose part of my problem is that there isn't too much going on in this old world to inspire witicism. I was reading in the Sunday paper that on October 1st the U.S. Postal Service is going to increase first class mail from 10¢ to 13¢ and that 2nd, 3rd, 4th and 5th class mail will be raised 20 and 30 percent. Believe me, that's going to call for some figure juggling on our part and if we try to juggle much more we are bound to drop something. I would write a few lines on just exactly what I think of our postal service and their already horrendous rates but since the local people might take it personally, I won't. Notice how mellow I am getting in my old age!

I don't think I will be so reticent concerning the present state of our telephone system. You know, the last time I dared to editorialize about the inadequacies of the system, I was immediately personally visited by the powers that be from the London office inquiring why I chose this method of complaint against them rather than one of filing it in the usual way. Of course, I had done this but I had also chose to voice my opinion of the service we were receiving personally and I chose to do so again. Have you noticed how the service has deteriorated even more in the last few days, if that is possible? I have a standard procedure I now follow to get a call through whether it is next door or cross country. I dial the number and listen to a recording say, "I'm sorry, the number you have reached, etc." then I dial the number again and get a busy signal, then I try once more and listen to it ring off the hook on the other end with no answer then I ask the operator to assist me in dialing the number. Sometimes together we go through all four steps before the desired number is reached. I don't mean to get ugly about it but I do think we deserve more than we are getting from somebody and it is highly irritating to have a person that refuses to cooperate constantly. But, this is getting me no where fast. I had a chance to voice my opinion to the Public Service Commission and fell down on the job there so far better or worse it seems we are stuck with it...

CARD OF THANKS

The family of Carter Lawson would like to express their appreciation to everyone who helped in any way at the time of the loss of their loved one.

A special thanks to the Tri-City Rescue Squad of Rockcastle County, the squads from Laurel, Jackson and Madison, the State Police, Division and all the individual volunteers. Also a thank you to those who sent food and flowers, Dowell and Martin Funeral Home, Bro. Cornelius and Bro. Mullins, the singers and those who stood by with their prayers. May God bless each and everyone.

Well, summer is once again upon us in full force - our garden is growing like mad - the kids are running wild and we haven't sat down to a meal as a family since school let out.

I was really looking forward to school being out for the children's sakes but now I just don't know. Between the ball park, swim team practices, swim meets, piano lessons, and various other activities, the Anderkin Chaffering Service is once again in full swing. What happens to those good old summer days when everyone lazed the day away in the shade and the most activity was sweating flies? I don't know what happened to them. I just know they don't exist anymore.

What I have really been dreading is when our garden produce starts arriving and all the extra work and effort that involves. I grant you it will eat very good this winter - it's just getting it to the eating stage this winter that is bothering me already...

I have an interesting story to relate concerning Mr. John Lair. As you all know, Mr. Lair is quite advanced in age, somewhere in his 80's. It seems he went to the local library on Saturday a couple weeks ago and into a small room to look over some historical records. He had been there several hours when he decided that it was about time to go home - and, found in his dismay that he was locked into the passage between the library and the recreation room since the librarians had called it a day at their regular 4 p.m. closing time. He had access only to the two restrooms and the small storage room where the records are kept. No telephone, no nothing. Not letting a small thing like his age deter him, however, he opened a small high bathroom window, set a chair outside the window on the ground and proceeded to climb out the window, get in a car and go home. He notified the local fire department that the window was left ajar through necessity. As we understand it, Mrs. Lair was highly amused by the incident and felt that it amply repaid him for the time that he unknowingly as (I suppose) locked her in the barn at Renfro Valley.

If you wonder at the size of the Signal this week, it's because we sent this paper to every home in the County (whether they wanted it or not). We hope you new readers enjoy the paper even this particular out of drivel and if you would like to take this opportunity to subscribe, the rate is $4.20 for one year in the county. How long this will be the rate with the shenanigans proposed by the Postal Department is questionable but that's the going price right now...

I have just had a horrible thought. I don't know how to end this and I suppose, in the mood I am in, I could go on "ad infinitum" (don't worry, I'm not sure what it means either) but since space is a little limited...

Deaths and Funerals

DOUGLAS MOORE, 45, DIES SUDDENLY

Douglas Moore, 45, of Livingston, passed away suddenly Sunday evening June 15, 1975, at the Rockcastle County Hospital.

He was born in Julesburg, Colorado on January 22, 1929; the son of the late Thomas and Rosie McDaniel Moore and was a veteran of the Korean War.

MRS. IDA M. WEBB, 77, DIES MONDAY, JUNE 16

Mrs. Ida M. Webb, 77, of Route 2, Mt. Vernon died Monday, June 16, 1975 at the Rockcastle County Hospital. She was born January 15, 1898 in Rockcastle County; the daughter of the late Ben C. and Mollie Childress Mink and was a member of the Chestnut Ridge Church of Christ and the Mt. Vernon Women's Club.

Survivors are one brother, Albert Mink, of Route 2, Mt. Vernon; three sisters, Mrs. Rebecca Jones of Route 1, Mt. Vernon, Mrs. Hazel Puhlinger of Route 2 Mt. Vernon, and Mrs. Ora Reiber of Lockland, Ohio; and several nieces and nephews also survive. She was preceded in death by her husband, James H. Webb.

Funeral services were held Wednesday, June 18 at the Chestnut Ridge Church of Christ with Bro. O.V. Smith officiating. Burial was in the Pine Hill Cemetery.

Cox Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements.

Interest Rates On Savings
American depositors with accounts in American banks are getting from 10.19 percent to 14.10 percent interest.

Because of these rates, and in some cases for the sake of privacy, an estimated one billion dollars has been invested by Americans in savings accounts south of the border.

Interest rates there vary according to the length of time the capital remains on deposit.

The dollar influx has been welcomed in Mexico where Jose Lopez Portillo, the Finance Secretary, has observed: "Our rates are attractive, and money is coming in."

JUNE is DAIRY MONTH CONGRATULATIONS to our DAIRY INDUSTRY

DAIRY MONTH IS A NATURAL TIME TO SAY THANK YOU.

This month is a good time for all of us to take a closer look at our Dairy Industry. One thing is certain, it has become big business and is getting bigger every day. And our dairy farmers have done an excellent job in increasing production to meet growing demands. They are using the most modern, up-to-date equipment in rigidly controlled modern plants. We salute them for a job well done!

The dairy farmers and their families who live and work around our community deserve a great deal of thanks. Their stability helps our community remain stable and healthy. Their insistence on offering only the highest quality milk and dairy products sets an example for us all, and improves the quality of our lives. We congratulate them now, during Dairy Month, and thank them for their contributions.

June is Dairy Month

NURSING ASSISTANTS MAY NOT SHAVE PATIENTS

Woodhaven Medical Services in Louisville asked if nursing assistants may legally shave male patients. The Attorney-General's reply was that under the Kentucky Revised Statutes concerning barbering and cosmetology, shaving must be done by either a practical or registered nurse; assistant nurses are prohibited from doing so.

The Huron Indians had men who preached to fish and persuaded them to come and be caught.

OPINIONS FROM THE OFFICE OF THE ATTORNEY GENERAL

JAIL TIME SHOULD BE CREDITED

Mrs. Lucille Rubock, chairman of the Kentucky State Parole Board, asked if time spent in custody before sentencing should be credited to the time a prisoner serves before parole. It is the opinion of the Attorney General's Office that the time should be credited to the prison term, but the parole board, in order to evaluate the prisoner's rehabilitation, may require him to spend some time in self-help programs within the correctional institution before parole consideration.

CANDIDATE MAY WITHDRAW FROM RACE

A candidate running for city commissioner in Hickman asked if he could withdraw from the race. The reply of the Attorney General's Office was the although no provision exists for withdrawal in the city manager form of government, he may do so if he notifies the county clerk prior to the printing of the ballots.

Former Mt. Vernon Mayor Clyde Linville shares an amusing story with Mrs. Jack St. Clair, McKee Mayor Otis Johnson and Mrs. Linville during the social period following the community meeting. Until February, when he retired, Mr. Linville was Director of Developmental Disabilities. Upon Mr. Linville's retirement, Mrs. Elizabeth Baker, also of Mt. Vernon, was named to that position.

Miss Alma Pike, Mrs. Lucille Hysinger and Mrs. Jack St. Clair look over a display of craft items made by the Adult Activity group of which Mrs. Hysinger is an instructor.

Refreshments were served to those attending the community meeting of the Cumberland River Comprehensive Care Center (CRCCO) last Friday afternoon at the Courthouse. Enjoying them are, from left, McKee Mayor Otis Johnson, personnel manager for CRCCO, Mt. Vernon Policeman Sherman Denney, Sheriff Manuel Shepherd and Dyche Mullins. Mrs. Jeannie Parsons and Janet Burton served refreshments. Mrs. Parsons is a part-time partial nurse and Mr. Burton is a CETA employee working with developmental disabilities. In the background between the ladies is Mrs. Virginia Sutton Bray, partial aide.

Under social security, but I've heard that I can buy Medicare's hospital insurance through monthly premiums. Is this true?
 A. Yes. People 65 or older who aren't eligible for hospital insurance coverage on their own work record or their spouses' can buy the protection. You will have to pay a monthly hospital insurance premium, and will also have to enroll in Medicare's medical insurance and pay the premium for it. The basic premium rate for hospital insurance is $40 a month starting July 1, 1975. The premium for medical insurance is $6.70 a month.

Q. I have to pay monthly premiums for Medicare's hospital insurance because I didn't work long enough under social security to be eligible for it. I hear that the premium's going up this year. How often can the premium be raised?
 A. The basic Medicare hospital insurance premium rate will go from $36 to $40 a month starting July 1, 1975. Under the law, the premium rate can be changed once a year.

Booklet Tells About Medicare And Medicaid

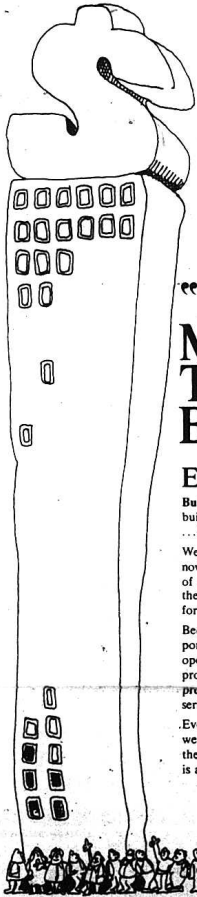

Single copies of a booklet explaining differences and similarities between Medicaid and Medicare are available free at any social security office.

The 32-page, pocket-sized booklet is called "Medicaid, Medicare: Which Is Which?" It was prepared by the Medical Services Administration of the Social and Rehabilitation Service of the U.S. Department of Health, Education, and Welfare.
 Medicaid is a State-Federal program that helps pay the health care expenses of eligible people with little or no income and limited resources.
 Medicare is health insurance funded by social security contributions, individual premiums, and Federal general revenues. It helps pay the hospital and doctor bills of people 65 and over, disabled people under 65 who have been entitled to monthly social security disability payments for 24 consecutive months or more, and eligible workers and their families who have chronic kidney disease and need a transplant or dialysis.

YOUR CHANGING HORIZONS... PSYCHOLOGISTS SUGGEST, SHOULD YOU CONSIDER RESPONSIBILITY, NOT YOURS... MARRIAGE, CREATING OR SUPERVISING CAN INTERFERE WITH LEARNING, AND WITH MATURING AND INDEPENDENCE.

for a list of major services and supplies that Medicare generally does not pay for. If you don't have a copy, you can get one at any social security office.
 Q. I was going through some old papers recently and came across a doctor bill for treatment I received in August 1974. Is it too late to send in a Medicare insurance claim for this bill?
 A. It's not too late to submit this bill, but there are time limits for medical insurance claims. For covered services you received between October 1, 1973, and September 30, 1974, your claim must be submitted by December 31, 1975.
 Q. I'll be 65 in a few months. I've never worked

"IF IT COSTS SO MUCH TO BUILD, THEN DON'T BUILD SO MUCH."

Easy to say.

But irresponsible. Kentucky Utilities needs to plan and build now... even with construction costs at record levels... just to meet your demands for electric power.
 We will have to spend more than $550 million between now and 1979 to build new facilities. More than $350 million of that must be borrowed. All of this is needed to build the capability to handle the expected growth and demands for power on our system.
 Because of insufficient revenues we have already postponed nearly $6 million in maintenance, construction, and operating expenditures even though we recognize it will probably cost more later. But delaying these and other projects longer not only can raise the final costs, but can seriously jeopardize your supply of electricity for the future.
 Even though construction costs face increasing inflation, we have to build to meet tomorrow's demands. Because the cost of not being able to supply your needs tomorrow is a price none of us can afford.

Electricity... use it wisely.

ELDEN F. BROWN, 76, DIES AT RESIDENCE

Elden F. Brown, 76, of Route 3, Mt. Vernon died June 9 at his residence of an apparent heart attack.
 Mr. Brown was born in Knox County, Kentucky on March 12, 1898, the son of the late James and Francis Brown. He was a retired railroad, a member of the Wildie Christian Church and of the Berea Masonic Lodge.
 Survivors include a daughter, Mrs. Raymond (Jean) Towery of Conway; two sons, Leslie Brown of Terre Haute, Indiana and Homer Brown of Route 3, Mt. Vernon; three sisters, Mrs. Anna Lee Ballinger of Berea, Mrs. Mary Jackson of

Q. I thought that as long as I was receiving care from a participating hospital or health facility, Medicare would pay for my care. My neighbor says this isn't always true. Is he right?
 A. Under the law, Medicare cannot pay for care that is not considered reasonable and necessary for the treatment of an illness or injury, even if the care is provided by a hospital or other health facility participating in Medicare. See Your Medicare Handbook at his residence of an apparent heart attack.

 He was preceded in death by his wife, Pattie Brown.
 Funeral services were held Wednesday, June 11 at Roming Funeral Home in Berea with Bro. Kenton Parkey, Bro. Homer McNew, and Bro. Cecil Dalley officiating. Burial was in the Berea Cemetery.

Police Chief Clifford Pittman is shown with the new police cruiser which was delivered to the City of Mt. Vernon Tuesday. The cruiser, a 1975 Ford, was purchased from Alton Baskley Ford in Somerset for a low bid of $14,088.80. The cruiser was purchased with federal revenue sharing funds.

Clay County Men Find Body of Carter Lawson

Two men from Clay County discovered the body of Carter Lawson, 72, of Route 2, Livingston last Thursday about noon in a heavily wooded area of Lonesome Mountain just above Horse Lick Creek.

Rescue parties had been searching the area for Mr. Lawson since late Sunday night. Mr. Lawson left his home Sunday morning with his dogs to dig Ginseng. The dogs returned home around noon of the same day and the family began searching for Mr. Lawson when he did not appear soon afterwards. The Tri-City Rescue Squad was called into the search Sunday night and were later joined by squads from Jackson County, Laurel County, Madison County and by members of the U.S. Forestry Dept.

The two men who found Mr. Lawson, a father and son, had come from Clay County to join the search and were coming over the mountain when they came upon the body in heavy underbrush just inside the Jackson County line about two and one-half miles from his home. Mr. Lawson was found lying on his back with his ginseng apron still on. Jackson County Coroner Harry Justus ruled the death was caused by a heart attack and that Mr. Lawson had been dead since Sunday.

Paul Hansel, Director of the Tri-City Rescue Squad, praised the efforts of all the volunteers and squads from other counties who joined in the search. Mr. Hansel said that approximately 60 men were searching for Mr. Lawson at the height of the search.

Mr. Hansel also wanted to specifically thank Clayton Hammonds, Tip Reppert, and the C.B. Radio Club for their donations of food for the men searching and Sheriff Manuel Shepherd who cooperated fully.

There were eleven rattlers and coonpanda killed by the searchers during the four day search.

TRAINING FUNDS APPROVED

Fourth-year funding for a program which trains students from Rockcastle and 15 other counties for health-related careers has been announced by Congressman Tim Lee Carter.

Congressman Carter reported that $54,699 was approved by the Appalachian Regional Commission June 11 to continue the Allied Health Occupations Instructional Pilot Program.

That program at Southeast Community College in Cumberland provides training for 58 students in allied health professions such as medical laboratory technician.

"We need more allied health professionals in our health-care delivery system," Carter said in reporting approval of that grant. "It is certainly good news that this money has been approved so that people from this area can be trained for these jobs."

Total cost of the program is $88,815, with nonfederal sources providing $34,116.

Carter said the students for the program are drawn from the 16 counties served by Cumberland Valley and Kentucky River Area Development Districts.

Those counties include Bell, Clay, Harlan, Jackson, Knox, Laurel, Lee, Leslie, Letcher, Owsley, Rockcastle, and Whitley.

IMPROVEMENT COUNCIL TO MEET JUNE 23RD

The Rockcastle County Improvement Council will meet Monday, June 23 at 7:30 p.m. in the PCA Conference Room.

If you, as a citizen of Rockcastle County, are interested in the future and prosperity of our boys and girls, let it be known by attending this and every meeting of the Council and by voicing your ideas where they will count.

AIR FORCE TO HOLD GRAND OPENING

The United States Air Force cordially invites you to attend the grand opening ceremonies for the new Armed Services Recruiting Offices located in the Robbins Motel, 415 Eastern-Bypass, Richmond, Kentucky.

The ceremonies will commence at 10:00 a.m. June 23, 1975 with ribbon cutting by local dignitary and military personnel.

Free hors d'oeuvres and refreshments will be served after the ceremonies.

County's Assessment Tops $59 Million Mark

Rockcastle County's tax assessment for 1975 is $59,018,225, according to the final figures released recently by Property Valuation Administrator Robert Cromer.

This year's figure shows a $6,124,169 increase over last year's assessment of $52,894,060. The big increase seems to be in the residential and farm assessment since these categories combined jumped $3,513,425.

The assessment breakdown as follows with last year's figure in parentheses: Real Estate - Residential, $16,193,410 ($14,734,528); Farm, $21,474,565 ($19,324,055); Commercial Property, $5,348,425 ($4,600,675); Oil Rights, $5,000 (same) and Mineral and Timber Rights $57,300 for a total real estate assessment of $43,078,700.

Tangible Property - Motor Vehicles, $8,047,070 ($6,331,510); Aircraft, $21,000 ($22,000); Watercraft, $117,630 ($32,730); Inventory, $1,444,995 ($1,466,555); Professional Trade Tools, $405,420 ($358,090); Drilling, Mining and Construction, $39,200 ($57,600); Mobile Homes, $1,214,800 ($1,223,700) and other tangible personal property $21,580 for a total tangible assessment of $11,311,795.

Also included in the assessment is $419,070 for manufacturing machinery and $21,375 for manufacturers inventory of raw materials.

Not included in the total assessment is $2,790,830 for notes, mortgages, stocks and bonds. The state collects the tax on these at the rate of $2.50 per thousand dollars assessment.

Bank shares are this year assessed at $1,396,445 as compared to $1,196,140 last year.

Mr. Cromer also reported that 33 new homes were built in Rockcastle County in 1974 at an assessment of $1,168,400 and that the Rockcastle Villa apartments in the Old Broodhead were added to the assessment this year at $530,000. There are 131,041 acres in the county under fire protection and 8,163 automobiles were licensed in Rockcastle County this year.

The Homestead Exemption Act cut in the assessment this year by a total of $5,107,350 ($2,799,250 residential and $2,308,100 farm).

Plans Being Finalized For John Lair Day

Plans for John Lair Day, scheduled for Friday, July 4th, are finalizing and the event promises to be one of the biggest ever in Rockcastle County.

Several dignitaries will be on hand for the event, including Col. Harlan Sanders, Rev. Ford Philpot and, according to a message received by Ed Hunt from Bill Cox of Governor Carroll's office, the Governor himself will be on hand or a representative. All of this, of course, not to mention many original performers from Renfro Valley and also present day performers.

The public is being asked to dress in the fashion of yesterday for the day and the parade, which will contain several floats, will have an antique theme. Also scheduled to be in the parade in addition to the floats, are the Berea Studentancers, the Whitley County Marching Band, a National Guard Honor Squad and the local high school band.

The parade is scheduled to get underway at 2 p.m., under the direction of Parade Marshal John Cox. It will proceed to Renfro Valley, where the first event there will be a "This Is Your Life, John Lair," presentation at 4 p.m. This will be followed by the cutting of the birthday cake which will be served to the crowd at 5:30 and there will be three country music shows in the big barn at 7:30, 9:30 and 11:30 p.m. All of this will be free to the general public, including the shows.

The "This Is Your Life, John Lair," and the birthday cake serving will all take place outside.

Floats which will definitely be in the parade include the Progressive Women's League, Mt. Vernon Lions, Ford Realty and Auction, Christian Church, Catholic Church, Port Sequoyah and Cox Funeral Home with their original horse-drawn hearse.

Plan to be on hand for the big event which will honor Rockcastle County's leading citizen.

"Doll and Belle" Contests Set For Dairy Day

A "Dairy Doll" Contest and a "Dairy Belle" Contest will be a part of the Dairy Day activities this year on Main Street in Mt. Vernon June 28, 1975.

Dairy Doll contestants should be from 4 to 6 years of age and Dairy Belle contestants should be from 7 to 9 years of age and both Dairy Dolls and Dairy Belles should be dairy farm family members.

Entrants will be judged on personality and appearance by judges of the regular dairy princess contest.

Parents interested in entering their daughter in either of these events should contact Mr. Lew Hunt, Chairman, Dairy Princess, Dairy Belle, and Dairy Doll Committee. Phone number - 758-8757.

CHANGES TO BE MADE IN FOOD STAMPS

Food stamp recipients alerted of possible changes of July 1, 1975 in their food stamp eligibility and of the purchase prices in accordance with federal law. The amount of stamps a household may purchase is also being increased.

USDA ANNOUNCES CHANGES IN BURLEY TOBACCO QUOTA TRANSFER REGULATIONS

The U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) has announced changes in policy governing the transfer of Burley tobacco quotas that would permit transfer to farms not presently holding a basic quota.

USDA had previously required a farm to hold a Burley quota before permitting the transfer of additional quota poundage. (Under the Burley program, unlike the programs for other types of tobacco, quotas are expressed in terms of poundage rather than acreage).

Under the new program, transfers to nonquota farms will be subject to the same terms and conditions that currently apply to transfers to quota farms. The main exception will be that the quotas indicated on marketing cards issued to nonquota farms by USDA's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) will be limited to the actual poundage leased. The Burley tobacco program permits only the lease, not the sale, of quota poundage.

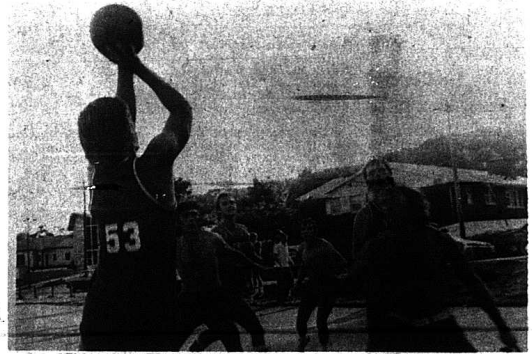

USDA officials feel that the change in policy is necessary to permit a number of interested individuals, not currently eligible for a new farm quota, to enter the Burley tobacco market.

Just as with transfers to quota farms, quota leases to nonquota farms will be filed with the local ASCS office or USDA service center and will have to be between farms in the same county.

REVIVAL AT PHILADELPHIA BAPTIST

A two-week revival will begin Sunday night, June 22nd at the Philadelphia Baptist Church located on Bishop Ridge Road just off Negro Creek Road.

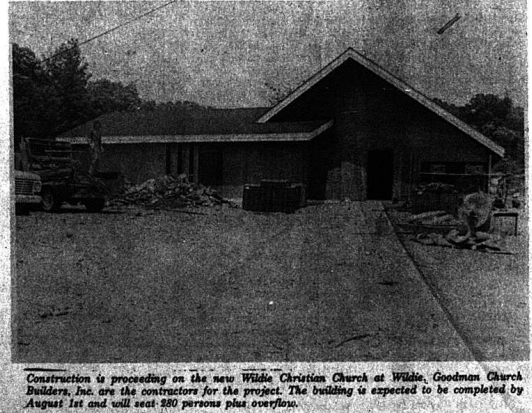

Rev. Jerry A. McCortney, County will be the evangelist for the services and Lawrence Roberts, pastor, and the congregation invites the public to attend, especially all singers.

Doyle Mullins, a member of the Mt. Vernon Christian Church basketball team goes for two points during action at the Mt. Vernon Playground Monday night. The church team was defeated by the Stock Shock team in a close game. Four teams are presently playing in the basketball league at the playground.

Mrs. Jean Allen, Mental Health Worker and County Team Leader with the Cumberland Area Comprehensive Care Center, narrated slides which were shown last Friday at a community meeting at the Courthouse. The slides concerned the new center's work with developmentally disabled and emotionally disturbed children and the facilities available to them locally and on a regional level. Approximately 75 persons attended the meeting.

Construction is proceeding on the new White Christian Church at White, Goodman Church Builders, Inc. are the contractors for the project. The building is expected to be completed by August 1st and will seat 200 persons plus overflow.

Frankfort Watchline

Outside of getting Gov. Julian Carroll elected to a full term this fall, probably the biggest task Kentucky Democrats are facing is getting the big debt "off" the modern headquarters building set off.

That subject is likely to consume a great deal of the June 21 meeting of the Democratic State Central Executive Comm. after Howard (Sonny) Hunt of Danville is elected chairman.

Hunt is reportedly Carroll's choice for party chairman to fill a vacancy in existence since State Sen. Bill Sullivan resigned earlier this year. Unlike Sullivan and his immediate predecessors, Hunt is expected to be paid for his work on a full-time basis.

Repeated attempts to reach Hunt last week for comment on the big debt remaining on the building here were unsuccessful.

Carroll's campaign staff can no longer be known as the "warehouse gang" since the Carroll tem has now been moved from the temporarily fixed up quarters to the headquarters building.

It appears that other candidates on the Democratic ticket will be offered at least a desk and a telephone in the headquarters building, if not an individual office. It's a move that should help cut off campaign expenses all the way around.

Meanwhile, Democratic gubernatorial nominee Robert Gable is apparently going to ask his party to name State Sen. Gene Stuart, of Louisville, as chairman of the state GOP.

Stuart very nearly got into the primary earlier this year against Gable, but changed his mind, with a bitter taste in his mouth, after he realized the tide of the party hierarchy was going with Gable.

Stuart would succeed Charles Coy of Richmond, who has said he will resign effective the July 19 meeting of the party's executive committee.

dominate the scene this year, so will national politics next year as Kentuckians get their first opportunity to indulge themselves in a race of somewhat more widespread import.

Kentucky's first presidential primary could be of a great deal of national significance, and while none of the potential candidates have officially indicated they will come here, some have been making quiet overtures.

But as Alabama Gov. George Wallace hangs like a spectre over the ambitions of these candidates nationally so, too, his shadow is already over any primary here. He would be a formidable candidate in this state.

The little man in the wheelchair, loved in so many quarters as he is despised in others, certainly must know his own strength in this state where he amassed enough of a vote to keep an entire party alive when he ran that one year.

Last year, at the annual Fancy Farm Picnic and political speaking in Western Kentucky, it was Wallace, in absentia, who received the heartiest cheer of all when a telegram was read saying he might be able to come this year.

If Wallace steps in here, the question that will face these other candidates is "Can any of us beat George Wallace?" as can any of us get a big enough percentage of the vote to make it worthwhile?"

Jefferson County Judge Todd Hollenbach, roundly beaten in last month's primary against Carroll, is trying to drum up support for the party among other defeated candidates in the primary.

Curiously, Gable is soliciting the same votes and support, in the same manner as Hollenbach, through letters to Democratic voters.

Both sympathize with them for having fought the good fight and call on them for support.

TWO WOMEN APPROVED FOR KSP TRAINING

By Herl rock

The Kentucky State Police Personnel Board for the first time has approved two black women to enter state trooper cadet training.

In a meeting late yesterday, the board approved the application of Maxine Yvonne Rogers, 22, of Nicholasville, and Kathryn Lee Stout, 21, of Paris. The state police currently have no women troopers, although a number of black males have joined the 27-year old force within the last year.

State Police Commissioner Truett Rich said in an interview today that no date had been set for Ms. Rogers and Ms. Stout to begin training, but he expects them to enter, either together or separately, a cadet class "within the next few months."

The next two cadet classes tentatively "set to start in November and February." Rich reaffirmed his earlier statement that women troopers will be treated in basically the same manner as males. He said Ms. Rogers and Ms. Stout will be assigned to posts after graduation from the academy in the same lottery as the men.

He said the women will serve patrol duty and perform all other functions of a trooper.

Rich said specifications concerning uniforms, dress and hairstyle are being studied. "We're going to try to keep it close to the basic style we have for the men," he added.

The commissioner said limited numbers of female cadets can be housed in the duty officer quarters on the second floor of the State Police Academy at Frankfort. They would be isolated but on the same floor as the men, he said.

"If we get large numbers of women at one time, we're going to have to find another place to house them," he said. "We're studying that potential problem now."

Capt. David Finch, commander of Police Personnel, said the make-up of each class depends on a number of factors, including when the applicant originally applied and how he or she stands in an application process which spans many stages and takes months.

Finch said there was a backlog of applications, some dating back as far as late 1974.

Finch said the action of the board, which is made up of four civilians and the state police commissioner, is the final step in the long application process. To even reach the board's consideration, an applicant already must have passed minimum mental and physical tests and met all other qualifications.

In about 10 per cent of the cases, the board uses personal interviews if further information is needed before making a decision. Neither Ms. Rogers nor Ms. Stout had interviews, Finch said the number of applications for trooper positions recently has been dropping after hitting a peak of some 300 a month in the early spring. They now run about 150 a month, which is still considerably more than the 25 a month received before the employment pinch sparked the application deluge.

Ms. Rogers, the daughter of the late William T. Rogers, lives with her mother, Mrs. Virginia M. Rogers, at 706 Chestnut in Nicholasville. A graduate of Jessamine County High School, she has attended the Eastern Kentucky University School of Law Enforcement.

Ms. Stout lives with her parents, John J. and Roberta Stout, at 816 Horton Drive, Paris. She graduated from Bourbon County High School and last year finished an Associate Degree in management technology at Lexington Technological Institute.

Medicare Hospital Premium Is $40 Starting July 1 for Few Who Pay It

Starting July 1 the premium rate for Medicare hospital insurance will go from $36 to $40 a month for people who pay for this protection. The increase is due to rising hospital costs, according to social security officials here.

Premiums are required for only 10,000 of the 23.5 million people who have Medicare hospital insurance.

Hospital insurance is extended automatically, without premium charge, to people reaching 65 who are eligible for social security or railroad retirement benefits, to disabled people under 65 who have been entitled to social security disability benefits for 24 consecutive months or more, and to many people with chronic kidney disease.

But people 65 and over who aren't eligible for social security benefits can get Medicare hospital insurance by paying a monthly premium. If they also sign up for Medicare medical insurance, according to a social security spokesman.

Medicare hospital insurance helps pay hospital bills and many related expenses. "The hospital insurance premium rate is based on the average monthly Medicare hospital insurance payment for patients who have the protection," the spokesman said.

Medicare medical insurance helps pay doctor bills and other medical expenses.

The basic premium rate for the medical insurance is $6.70 a month.

Over 22.5 million people have one or both parts of Medicare. In fiscal 1974 the hospital insurance program paid over $7.7 billion in benefits and the medical insurance program paid over $2.8 billion.

"People can get information about signing up for Medicare by calling or writing any social security office," the spokesman said.

Medicare is administered by the Social Security Administration, an agency of the U.S. Department of Health, Education, and Welfare.

State Archives now able to preserve Kentucky's oldest documents by lamination: at the new document conservation laboratory in Frankfort, historic papers are cleaned, protected against acid in the air and are laminated with a transparent, flexible coating. After lamination they can be handled safely by researchers.

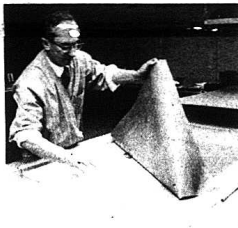

1. Archives employees Mary Samples and Marti Hall prepare records from the early 1800s for lamination.

2. Mrs. Samples uses paper cleaner to remove surface dirt. Later, the paper will be treated chemically to remove acid.

3. Bob Boak, representative of the company that manufactures the laminator, runs a document through the machine.

4. Boak removes sheets that cover the document when in the laminator. Bonding the tissue and acetate gives the document permanent protection.

green beans before they get too mature and put them quickly into your freezer for good eating the rest of the year. Don't forget to blanch them first - dip them in boiling water for 3 minutes so they'll keep that just-picked flavor.

When it comes to freezing vegetables, we emphasize that blanching is one of the most important steps. If you don't do it, the frozen vegetables will still be top quality for a week or two. But after that, they'll start to change, losing their flavor, getting woody and tough. That's because enzymes in the fresh vegetables will make the beans keep right on maturing, even though they're frozen. Dipping them in boiling water for the recommended time stops the enzyme action and keeps this from happening.

The only vegetables that don't need blanching are peppers.

For blanching most vegetables, use at least one gallon of water for each pound of vegetables. It's helpful to have a wire basket with a handle so the food can be easily dipped in the water. Start cooking time as soon as you put the vegetables in the boiling water.

Following are step-by-step directions for freezing green beans. Stop by your county Extension office for a free copy of Circular 626, "Home Freezing of Fruits and Vegetables" for directions on freezing other products.

BROCCOLI PRIZE OF THE FREEZER

It's been said that broccoli is the prize vegetable of the freezer, just as strawberries are the prize fruit. It keeps its fresh from the garden taste and appearance, and it's easy to prepare and freeze just a few containers at a time.

Here are the freezing directions from the County Extension Office. We invite you to stop by our office at the Court House for your free copies of the University of Kentucky's up-to-date freezing and canning manual.

Broccoli, like all vegetables, is best frozen as soon as possible after it is picked. It takes about 1 pound of fresh broccoli for each pint of freezer. Because broccoli packs loosely, you don't need a bowl for any headspace.

Steaming the broccoli over rapidly boiling water, called "blanching" is important, so don't lose this step out! The heat kills enzyme action which would otherwise rob the broccoli of its fresh flavor and even make it turn woody and tough.

HOW TO FREEZE GREEN BEANS

Pick those tender young

1. Select young, tender, stringless beans that snap when broken. Allow 2/3 to 1 pound of fresh beans for 1 pint of frozen beans.

2. Remove and discard ends, then cut beans into 1- or 2-inch pieces, or slice them lengthwise for Frenched (Julienne-style) beans.

3. Put beans in blanching basket, lower basket into boiling water, and cover. Boil for 3 minutes (2 minutes for Frenched style). Keep heat high until water.

4. Plunge basket of beans into cold water to stop the cooking. It takes about as long to cool beans as it took to cook them. When cool, remove beans from water; drain.

5. Pack beans into bags or other containers and seal by twisting and folding bag's top or bag and tying with a twist tie. Freeze beans at once. Store at 0°F. or below.

6. Leave 1/2-inch head space and seal by twisting and folding bag's top or bag and tying with a twist tie. Freeze beans at once. Store at 0°F. or below.

KIDNAPPING AND ASSAULT are the subjects of the latest show on Kentucky's new penal code now scheduled for airing on Monday, June 23, at 8 p.m. (EDT) on the Kentucky Educational Television (KET) network. The show is the seventh in a series of 14 shows being produced by KET for the Kentucky Department of Justice to explain important changes in the state's new penal code to the public.

KET Aired Program On Assault

The seventh in a series of 30-minute color television programs on Kentucky's new penal code will be aired Monday, June 23, at 8 p.m. (EDT), on the Kentucky Educational Network (KET).

The program deals with assault and other crimes involving injury or threat of injury to victims.

Kidnapping, one of seven crimes in Kentucky with a possible death penalty, also is covered.

According to the new penal code, which took effect last January 1, assault is a bodily injury crime, penalties go up to as much as 20 years imprisonment. Some other crimes like assault and battery, malicious cutting, striking or stabbing are no longer on the books - replaced by the general crime of assault.

The television program points out that the new code makes the penalty fit the crime more consistently than did the haphazard collection of criminal laws formerly in effect in Kentucky. It also points out that an assault with a deadly weapon, like a gun, is penalized more harshly than other assaults.

The program also discusses crimes that, while not actually causing injury to a victim, do threaten or endanger an innocent person.

Henri L. Mangoni, secretary of the Department of Justice (DOJ), describes the television series as part of a comprehensive, statewide effort to acquaint citizens with the new criminal code and other justice issues.

This program, like others in the series, points out important changes in the new criminal laws. It was possible under the old laws for a person to be imprisoned for 21 years for shooting at a man's leg, even if he missed," said John L. Grenough, executive coordinator of the television series.

"On the other hand, placing a bomb in a person's car with the intent to kill could result in a maximum sentence of only 12 months if the bomb injured, but

VET-TIPS

At a meeting with the Kentucky State Board of Agriculture, in Commissioner Wendell Butler's office, the Horse Health Regulations were discussed. The main topic was, of course, the Coggins test for Equine Infectious Anemia. Everyone was in agreement that this disease should be eliminated from all horses as soon as possible by the use of the Coggins test to discover horses with E.I.A. Horses found to be infected with E.I.A. remain a threat to other horses as long as they remain alive. It was brought out in the meeting that there is no effective treatment for this disease and no vaccination against E.I.A.

The present regulations remain in effect. Horses going to shows, sales, racetracks and entering into the state of Kentucky must be tested for E.I.A. by the Coggins test and found negative to the test. Test papers must accompany the horse to the sale, sale, racetrack, and coming into Kentucky from other states. The test papers are valid for 6 months.

To be assured that you will have your test performed and get your test papers in time for the first date of showing; the veterinarian should take the sample of blood two weeks before your first showing date. This will enable the laboratory to complete the test and get the papers returned to you.

Dr. Tom Maddox, the state veterinarian said, "that horse activities will be spot checked." This means that if you come to a show without your test papers, you may not get to show.

Kentucky horses are not required to have an official Health Certificate and a negative Coggins test. Kentucky horses being shown in other states should have a negative Coggins test and an official health certificate to be able to return to Kentucky.

STRAWBERRIES

For best continued production don't kill the person," Grenough added.

The half-hour programs are scheduled for airing in the evening of the fourth Monday of every month throughout the year. A total of 20 programs - 14 on the penal code - make up the series, which is funded by DOJ and produced by KET.

in 1976, strawberry fields and patches should be worked out and renewed (renovated) just after crop harvest is completed. For this, the middles between the rows are cultivated and the bearing rows are mowed. 400 to 600 pounds of 10-10-10 or similar fertilizer should be broadcast per acre. (This amounts to 5 pounds per 100-foot row).

Salivation and/or chemical weed control should continue until frost.

MILK FACTS-CHEESE

Cheese experts say there are more than 200 varieties of this versatile dairy food, ranging in name from Abertam to Zwin, and in taste from mild to very strong.

While a number of these varieties differ only in name or geographic origin, there are many interesting and different cheese flavors, each distinctive and especially suited to a particular taste sensation. The talent for proper use of cheese has come to be the mark of the gourmet and epicure.

Ancient peoples were extremely fond of this dairy food, and it is reported that the Olympic athletes of Greece were trained on a steady cheese diet. The Roman emperor Augustus was a cheese fancier, and so was Charlemagne.

Thomas Jefferson, one of the first American presidents to show a fondness for cheese, was presented with a gigantic wheel of Cheddar on the occasion of his inauguration. So was President Jackson, who allowed it to stand in the hall of the White House, where it was devoured by his enthusiastic partisans.

Cheese has long been a popular gift. One of the first to be used for this purpose was a giant 1,000 pound wheel presented to Queen Victoria on the occasion of her marriage to Prince Albert. It required a day's yield from 780 cows, stood 20 inches high, and was more than nine feet in diameter. The prideful craftsmen who created this giant, later borrowed it for publicity purposes and ended fighting among themselves for the honor of keeping all or part of it. Victoria never saw it again.

Among the most popular cheeses available today are Cheddar, generally known as "American"; Swiss; Gouda and Edam; Cream Cheese; Brick and Blue. Other favorites are Provone, Mozzarella, Parmesan and Romano, which originated in Italy; Gruyere, Emmentaler and Neuchatel, originally from France.

Although cheesemaking originated long ago in Europe, the artful craft has long since come to America, and American cheesemakers now are considered among the best in the world.

MSU's Writers Workshop

By Helen Price Stacy

It is not too late to enjoy some of Morehead State University's Writers Workshop, which continues through July 5, with daily sessions from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m.

"I'd give my wig to be able to go up to the writers Workshop at Morehead," wrote Magoffin Countain Mary Lou Brown in her newspaper column, County Commentator (Salysville Independent).

Mrs. Brown, herself a talented writer, stated that she wanted "to pinch" a real, live writer, "someone," she explained, "like John Filiateau, Lee Pennington or the bossman, Jesse Stuart, himself."

A first writer's workshop on the MSU campus took place in 1952. Guest instructors included "bossman" Jesse Stuart — a Kentucky writer who will long be remembered — Hollis Summers, James Still and Collier Hutchinson.

There have been changes in the years since. The teachers college now is a university, with handsome buildings, beautiful grounds and a program efficiently administered by Dr. Adron Doran, who 20 years ago began making a place for youth, particularly youth from the surrounding hill counties.

For Mrs. Brown and others who might wish to travel to Morehead for a few afternoon sessions of "auditing" the workshop, it will be a time of learning, getting acquainted with famed writers of the Commonwealth and other states and absorbing the magnificence of a mountain summer.

Roadsides are so lovely it is difficult to describe the blue-violet of chery mingled with mauve-pinks of crown and vetch and clover. Dog fennel and field daisies intermingle with these and other blooming plants to make almost unbelievable beauty. In the background are those majestic Rowan County hills, looking like deep-sculptured, green pile carpeting.

There also are side trips to enjoy. One of these is to Cave Run Lake, with its beaches, boat ramps, and wide expanses of green reflected in the lake. Opened this year, the lake, fourth largest in Kentucky, already is a tourist attraction as well as a place for family camping, picnicking, fishing, boating, water skiing — or just resting and looking.

Most of those enrolled at the writers workshop for graduate or undergraduate credit made advance plans to attend; many who are to attend part time have had to plan also, as did those in 1952 who's mothers have small children gave private piano lessons and sold from her garden to finance even the small expense. She told Jesse Stuart and Hollis Summers that "it was worth every drop of sweat, peddling that corn at 40 cents a dozen, to be in one of your classes and lectures."

Leonard Press, Director of Kentucky Educational Television, was one of those at that early workshop. Recently, he stated he would like a list of enrollees at the 1952 event, held July 14-25 and directed by James McConkey.

Today's workshop is featuring authorities in different categories of writing. MSU's Dr. Marc Glasser is supervising creative writing and Dr. Donald Cunningham is directing non-fiction prose.

Morehead is located near Interstate-64 and also is accessible from feeder roads such as Mountain Parkway and I.S. 60.

NOISE COMMITTEE ADVISES STUDYING OTHER STATES ENFORCEMENT METHODS

By Jenny Pulliam

"Keep up the fife Jones" is the advise the Kentucky Noise Advisory Committee on Noise Control gave the state noise officers.

At a recent meeting in Frankfort, the noise committee asked how other states, particularly those bordering Kentucky, are enforcing their own regulations. Kentucky's proposed noise regulations are identical to the new federal Environmental Protection Agency noise emission standards for motor carriers engaged in interstate commerce.

Because interstate traffic is involve, Tommy Jackson, chief of the noise office, was asked to contact neighboring states as they adopt the bill to find out what type of enforcement procedures they plan to implement.

A Jackson noted that the adoption and implementation of the regulation is optional for all states and may vary from one to another.

The noise advisory group also questioned the opening of Daniel Boone National Forest to vehicles. They resolved to write a statement concerning this matter to the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency.

3. Avoid outdoor shoes. A child takes 90,000 steps a day and this is the number of times a small shoe will bump his toes.

4. Lac a child's shoes loosely but with a firm double knot.

5. Let wet shoes dry at room temperature. Never apply heat.

6. Allow your child to decide when it's time to walk. It's best not to try to teach him or her the date.

7. Don't buy shoes with any kind of built-up support except on the doctor's advice and prescription.

8. Don't allow your child to wear hand-me-down shoes unless they are the size of the shoe.

9. Follow your child's feet every day and check for blisters and skin problems.

10. Follow these helpful hints, and your child will be taking giant steps toward good foot health.

Rockcastle Recollections

BY JOHN LAIR

While in the state of Kentucky on one of their bank robbing forays, the James Gang appear to have had designs on the bank at Somerset, Kentucky and on an appointed day had gathered in town to put their plans into effect. They had set the robbery for the morning hour, while the streets were deserted by reason of the stores being closed while the proprietors were preparing in the small hours of the night for the day. In their leisurely approach to the bank, so as not to arouse suspicion, the five men who were to pull off the job began to take up their appointed positions. Three of them were to remain outside on one remaining with the horses while the other two were to act as guards to see that no one else entered the bank while the robbery was being committed.

Just as the two leaders were starting to enter the front door of the bank, it was noticed that several men and boys were approaching, armed with shotguns and rifles. The party was being augmented by others who were coming in from different directions, apparently headed for the same place. Becoming instantly alarmed and figuring that their plans had in some way become known and these armed citizens were moving in to protect the bank, the five strangers hurriedly mounted and rode out of town at a brisk gallop.

Actually, this was the day which had been set for the big "circle" hunt, and all the men and boys were gathering at the town square before starting out for the scene of the proposed encirclement of the fields and woods where the game was to be found. The outlaws, of course, were unaware of this and had gotten several miles out of town before it was noticed that they were not being pursued and pulled off into the bushes by the side of the road to let their horses bleed while they made plans for separating to make a pursuit more difficult and appointing a meeting place for getting together again after the expected pursuit had cooled off.

In two leather bags, in the personal custody of the leader, were the proceeds of a previous robbery. Fearing that either of the James brothers, or any of the older and better known members of the gang, might be recognized and taken into custody, it was decided to entrust these bags to the newest recruit, who was to take a route separate from that traveled by any of the others to London, Kentucky where they were all to come together again on the fourth day.

This bandit, whose name is not known, set off on the route which led past Rockcastle Springs, then a famous summer resort on Rockcastle River. Stopping there for refreshments, he became intrigued with the gambling tables there and decided to put in the time between then and the appointed rendezvous in attempting to add to the amount of cash in his custody.

At this time, the Springs maintained a number of rowboats for the use of guests and had employed to take care of them, a seventeen-year-old boy who lived in nearby Pulaski County. For reasons which will become readily apparent, his name will not be given here. Late one afternoon, he was requested by the bandit to row him up the river. Before setting out, he was asked if he had a pistol and upon producing one from his pocket was asked if he wanted to sell it. He priced it at twelve dollars and fifty cents, which he himself considered exorbitant and when the man immediately bought it, the boy became suspicious and did not tell him that he had another pistol concealed on his person.

The man had been drinking and on the way up the river became very talkative. Calling the boy's attention to the two leather bags he was carrying, he informed him that they contained a large sum of money and that his purpose in coming up the river was to locate a good place in which to bury them, adding the stern warning that if the boy ever told anybody about it that he would kill him with his own pistol. Being apprehensive that he would kill him anyway before they got back to the hotel, he watched his chance and when the boat touched shore at a designated spot, and the man started to step out the boy drew his other pistol and shot him through the back of the head, killing him instantly.

After going ashore and scratching out a shallow grave in the loose dry earth under a big cliff, he dragged his victim to it and rolled him in, raking enough dirt over the body to conceal it. He then took the bags and walked that night to Crab Orchard, where early next morning he boarded a train for Texas. Changing his name and later marrying a local girl, he raised a family there, investing his money so as to have amassed a considerable fortune by the year 1936.

In that year a nephew living in Pulaski County visited him in Texas. Confiding in this young man the story of the source of his wealth he tried to impress upon him the importance of not allowing money to wreck his life as had wrecked his own. He said that this murder had so preyed upon his mind during the years that it had once put him in asylum for a period of time. He also gave this nephew a description of the big cliff under which he had buried the robber and told him that he had left part of the money in the grave with him because he could carry it all on his long walk to Crab Orchard. He advised the nephew to dig up this money when he got back home and to put it to good use.

When he got back home the young man related this story to a friend of his, resident of Somerset, Kentucky, and asked him to go with him to find the designated cliff and help him dig for the money. Since this man whose name was VanHook is now deceased there can be no harm in mentioning his name. I had become acquainted with him when he and a man named Wombles had formed a company to search for Swift's Silver Mines and had invited me to share with them such information as I had on Swift and his operations in Kentucky.

VanHook told me that he had gone with the young man and started digging as directed by his uncle. He said that they had soon turned up the skeleton of the murdered man, but no money. It was VanHook's theory that the uncle had been so bothered by his conscience that he wanted the skeleton to be dug up and given decent burial and had mentioned money being buried there merely to insure that his nephew would go to the trouble of digging for it and thus unearth the bones of his victim.

Such research as I have been able to do leads me to believe that this account of the disposal of our lesser-known member of the James Gang is correct. It has never before, to my knowledge, appeared in print.

During the year 1971 considerable excitement was aroused in Rockcastle over the discovery of several gold coins on a farm just across the line in Lincoln County. While this was not on Rockcastle soil, it was only a short distance away, and since the people primarily involved in this account were once natives of Rockcastle and members of one of the county's most important families the full particulars, when finally brought out, were of much interest to our population.

Mr. Devala Robbins, a well-known educator and real estate man of Brodhead, Kentucky, owned the farm on which the gold pieces were found. He was away on vacation at the time of their discovery and in his absence his tenant had started to plow a field near the house that had not been under cultivation for some years. While so engaged his plow point came in contact with an old stone jar full of gold pieces which became scattered through the ground being plowed.

As soon as word got out of this discovery, neighbors nearby - and some from not so near by - started gathering in with pick and shovel and indulging in individual treasure hunts of their own. The excitement and the digging continued for several days, during which an undetermined number of gold coins of different denomination were found. People engaged in the search became anxious to share with them such information as I had on Swift and his operations in Kentucky.

DOG WARDENS HAVE NO POWERS OF ARREST

Richard M. Rawdon, Jr., Scott County attorney, asked if a dog warden has the same powers of arrest as a peace officer. Since a dog warden, under the Kentucky statutes, is not defined as a peace officer, the Attorney General's Office is of the opinion that these officials do not have the power to arrest individuals in order to enforce the provisions of the dog laws. Dog wardens are required, however, to arrest "unlicensed dogs running at large."

very secretive with each other and many unreported finds were made. It was told that one woman, a little more open in her transactions, had half a dish pan full of coins of different value she was offering for sale to curious spectators. For a flat fee of fifteen dollars she would allow a customer to reach into the pan and take a single coin, regardless of its denomination or condition.

When I learned of the discovery of this money I was suddenly reminded of something I had run across in getting together the history of the Fish family. I had learned that John Fish, son of Thomas and Winford Fish, among the earliest settlers in Rockcastle County, had married Mary Hiatt, sister of William Peaslee and Bennett Hiatt, early comers to Renfro Valley, and had settled on a thousand acre farm in Lincoln County. At the outbreak of the Civil War, he was a very prosperous farmer and stockman, with a productive farm and more than forty slaves to cultivate it.

During the war General Buell and his army had forcibly occupied the farm for a period of one week, during which time his troops had burned ten thousand pounds of cotton and taken everything off the farm, not leaving even a chicken.

When his unwelcome visitors had finally departed, Fish set energetically to work and by the time he had reached old age was again a wealthy man. During these years he had made a practice of accumulating gold coins and hiding them away for safekeeping. His family knew of this habit but never knew where the money was hidden. He had always told them that before he died he would reveal the location of his hidden wealth, but since he passed away during a stroke he was unable to do so. After his death the family continued to search for this money and over a period of years had discovered the hiding places of six pounds of gold, amounting to from three hundred to eight hundred dollars each. They always felt that there was a considerable sum hidden, which they never found and finally gave up the search, many years ago.

With this story in mind I went to the county clerk's office in Lincoln County and checked the location of the old John Fish farm. Sure enough, it was the identical farm, now owned by Mr. Robbins, on which this buried gold had recently been found. So, although we may never know exactly by whom this buried treasure was found (nor if it has all yet been found), we know at least by whom it was buried and how it was accumulated in the first place and the mystery back of this exciting buried treasure discovery has at least been solved.

Seemingly, the most unfair thing about it all is that Mr. Robbins, who owned the farm and all that was on it, never so much as got sight of a single one of the gold coins found there. They had all been dug up and carried away before he got back from vacation, being on a Mediterranean cruise where his tenant (former tenant, you may be sure) could not reach him.

CONSUMER COMMENT

By Ed W. Hancock, Attorney General

Last year the Attorney General's Division of Consumer Protection received over 3,000 written consumer complaints. What happens to those complaints once we receive them?

First, we examine each complaint to determine if there are any indications that a company is engaging in false, misleading or deceptive practices.

If those indications do exist, we initiate an investigation. If the investigation reveals that a company is engaging in false, misleading or deceptive practices, and if it is in the public interest, the office will bring legal action against the company.

Most complaints received by the Division of Consumer Protection do not indicate false, misleading or deceptive acts or practices. Many seem to be simple misunderstandings between consumers and businesses. In these cases, we notify the business of the consumer complaint and request an explanation from the business of its position on the matter. The Division of Consumer Protection then attempts to mediate and, where possible, bring both consumer and business to a mutual agreement. Most of the consumer complaints we receive are settled at this stage.

It is important for consumers to understand the limitations placed upon the Attorney General's Division of Consumer Protection. We can do only what the law gives us power to do. If a complaint does not involve false, misleading or deceptive practices, and if a dispute cannot be resolved by mediation, the division may have to refer a consumer to another agency or to a private attorney. The Division of Consumer Protection cannot act as an individual's private attorney.

If you would like to know more about the Attorney General's Division of Consumer Protection, or if you have a consumer complaint, write to the Attorney General's Division of Consumer Protection, The Capitol, Room 34, Frankfort, Ky. 40601, or call toll-free on the consumer hotline: 1-800-372-2960.

Down on the Farm

By Roy G. Brown, Assistant Vice President Cumberland Production Credit Assn.

Today, we are visiting down on the farm of the Paul Blevins family near Bee Lick. In the picture, you see Paul, Janet, Rusty, Ernie, and Paula. The Blevins family got tired of the big city's hustle and bustle and moved back to Rockcastle where they were originally from, bought their 72-acre farm and started in the dairy business. They now have 28 milk cows and 20 heifers, mostly all Holsteins. They sell Grade A milk to Southern Belle Dairy and their feed program consist of 22 acres of corn, leased on another farm mostly for silage. They also have hay and pasture and their farming program consist of two and one-half acres of tobacco.

They operate as a family farm with everyone getting into the action wherever the job might be.

We at PCA congratulate Paul, Janet, Ernie, Paula and Rusty not only during June Dairy Month but every month of the year and wish them the best of everything DOWN ON THE FARM.

Unemployment Rate Drops

With more Kentuckians being called back to work in May, the state unemployment rate dropped for the first time in seven months. The non-adjusted figure for May was 7.2 per cent, a drop of 0.1 per cent from the 7.3 per cent reported in April.

According to Bob MacDonald, chief statistician for the Bureau for Manpower Services, Department for Human Resources, the drop in the state figure almost parallels the drop in the national rate. The national non-adjusted unemployment rate for May was 8.3 per cent, a drop of 3 percent from April. However, a national seasonally adjusted rate of 9.2 per cent was released earlier this month. Kentucky has no figure comparable to this.

"Historically we have generally followed the national trend and it looks like we will continue to do that," MacDonald said.

Besides industrial recalls, MacDonald attributes the lower unemployment rate to drop in employment insurance claims. An estimated 3,200 claims were dropped in May.

Employment increased in manufacturing, non-manufacturing and agriculture in May. Compared to a month ago, there were 2,106 more employed in manufacturing, "mostly people being called back to work,"

MacDonald said.

Non-manufacturing industries accounted for an employment increase of 2,700. A seasonal increase of 22,700 was seen in agricultural employment, but MacDonald said, "this increase doesn't have much bearing on the unemployment in Kentucky because people laid off by industry are not likely to take an agricultural job."
