Gardening Tips from Extension Specialists at the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture

Down through the years this column has often recommended that "for further information (on some farm, garden or home problem), see your county Extension agent."

There was and is, good reason for this piece of advice. A representative of the University of Kentucky, the county Extension agent for agriculture holds out one of the greatest potentials for the good welfare of any community. He's a scientist; a teacher; a father-confessor; a counsellor; a compendium of farm, garden, and orchard knowledge, and a veritable agricultural jack of all trades. From him can be secured the pastoral lore of the ages as well as expert advice on how to combat tomato blight, kill termites, and rid the lawn of wild onions. He can even give farmers advice on filling out complicated forms at income tax filing time. In fact, there are few things agricultural beyond the ken of this public servant. If he should confront a problem about which he is not qualified to advise, he knows where to go for help. He is backed by the total resources of the UK College of Agriculture, of which he is an integral part.

A county agent operates on the theory that what a man hears he may doubt, what he sees he may possibly doubt, but what he does himself he cannot doubt. Therefore, while he often works harder than many of his clientele, his greatest value is not in what he does himself, but in what he can get other people to do for themselves.

It has been said that farming and gardening consist of one eighth science, three-eighths art, and one-half business methods. There's a lot of truth in this statement, but it is a rare farmer or gardener who is, at the same time, a scientist, artist, and businessman. Consequently, he must have help if he is to attain a satisfactory degree of success. Here, again, the county agent with his training, and backed by the vast resources of the Cooperative Extension Service, steps in as a common denominator and makes up the difference.

Science, big government, big business, big labor, and other factors have tended to develop regimented philosophies, but the philosophy of the county agent remains about the same. His is a broader perspective, and he thinks in terms of balanced or related values. He is a down-to-earth character with an ecological conscience and an interest in all resources—natural, aesthetic, economic, and human. He's a good man to have around.

20 reasons you can COUNT ON BOB GABLE

1. His tax reduction program would repeal the State sales tax on your residential gas and electric bills.
2. And it would end the State portion of the property tax on real estate.
3. And it would reduce the State income tax on middle-income families.
4. And it would repeal the State inheritance tax on small estates so family farms can be saved.
5. Gable would lead in having Kentucky initiate a U.S. constitutional amendment to prohibit forced busing.
6. Because education of our children is his first priority, he favors free text books for Kentucky students.
7. Without needing study commissions to tell him so, Gable is absolutely opposed to damming the Red River Gorge.
8. He would immediately institute a freeze on further hiring of more State employees.
9. He is totally opposed to the right to strike for teachers and other government employees.
10. To cut long-term unemployment, he has proposed State matching grants to communities building the kinds of local services which influence the location of expanding industries.
11. Having spent his life in the energy business, Gable would organize a comprehensive Statewide exploration for oil and natural gas reserves.
12. And he wants the part-time State Public Services Commission to become full-time to protect the public interest against rising utility rates.
13. As former Kentucky Commissioner of Parks, Bob Gable is committed to protection of our natural environment.
14. He believes that tax assessment of Kentucky farmland should be based only on its current use, not on the inflated notions of bureaucrats.
15. He would end political contracts to cronies, and re-establish the competitive bidding system.
16. He favors zero-base budgeting, by which every office must justify its existence before submitting a budget request.
17. Gable feels government officers should lead a simpler, less extravagant life, starting with the Governor himself.
18. He is the only candidate for Governor to have released his full State and federal tax returns for the past eight years.
19. He is a calm and stable man.
20. In short, Bob Gable is a leader.

CHILD DEVELOPMENT CENTERS MEET

Cheryl Witt met with the group in the morning and showed slides and they discussed how used clothing could be recycled into useful garments for children and members of the family.

The three centers are starting a project for fund raising of matching money. Light bulbs are for sale in packages of 6 bulbs (2-100 watt, 2-75 watt and 2-40 watt). A package sells for $2.25. You may help by buying bulbs from any parent or staff member from either of the three centers. Call "Brothead Center at 758-8887, Brindle Ridge, 256-4467, and Maple Grove, 256-4129 on contact, Schumacher's Discount at Brodhead or Burdette's 5 & 10 in Mt. Vernon.

Lunch was served to those present. Later each Center parents met in their group and chose Chairman and secretary for Center Parents Committee.

Those chosen were: Brindle Ridge Chairman, Gail Burdette; Secretary, Myrtle Smith; Brothead: Chairman-Virginia Houk, Vice Chairman Judy Baker and Secretary Barbara Radar.

Canned tuna is usually available in three pack styles—fancy or solid, chunk, and flaked or grated. Choose the style that best suits the use you plan to make of the tuna. UK Extension foods specialists suggest. You may want to buy the fancy style for cold plates, the chunk tuna for salads, and the flaked style for sandwiches and casseroles, where moisture, fancy is not important.

EQC Hears Ways Of Reclaiming Land

Members of the Environmental Quality Commission (EQC) heard various methods of reclaiming strip-mined land, how to keep track of reclamation activities and what to do with repeated violators at their recent meeting in Frankfort.

Representatives from the U.S. Forest Service and the coal industry discussed reclamation and reforestation techniques. A consultant with a Louisville engineering firm explained proposed computer techniques for keeping track of reclamation activities. And, officials of the Kentucky Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection explained a proposed regulation concerning repeated noncompliance with state reclamation regulations.

Willis Vogel, of the U.S. Forest Service, emphasized that careful planning must be done before a strip mine is begun to insure that environmental damage is held to a minimum and that the land is prepared for some desirable use after mining is finished. The surface owner should determine what that use will be, said Vogel. When the landowner shows no preference for future land use, Vogel said it probably will be developed into forest land.

Roy Mullins, reclamation supervisor for Falcon Coal Co., said one of the biggest problems with reclamation is that the surface owners often do not have a say in deciding what the future use of strip-mined land will be.

"I would like to see the mine operator working with the surface owner and the division of reclamation in working out the plan of restoring the area," said Mullins.

David Ferguson of Shimpler and Coradino Associates reported that his firm has completed a study of the state's reclamation offices and computerization of the reclamation files has been recommended.

Book Containing Ky. Laws To Be Printed

Gov. Julian Carroll is providing money to publish in one book for the first time all laws relating to Kentucky's third class cities.

The 300-page book will bring together Constitutional and statutory provisions that now are scattered through several volumes of Kentucky Revised Statutes. There now are 17 third class cities—those with populations between 8,000 and 20,000.

Similar volumes already have been published for fourth, fifth and sixth class cities, with funds from the Office of Local Government in the state Finance Department.

Gov. Carroll is providing money from his Governor's Contingency Fund to publish the third class city book, which should be out by the end of the year, he said. The cost is estimated to be around $2,000.

Work is under way on books for first and second class cities. The job of bringing together all the laws pertaining to each class city is being done by a subcommittee of the Interim Legislative Committee on Cities, with the help of the University of Louisville's Local Government Law Center.

"The compilation of this information greatly enhances the ability of local elected officials to identify their powers and duties in all aspects of concern to local government," Gov. Carroll said.

"Ready access to statutory obligations and constraints has never before been possible for our cities," he said. "It is clearly part of the state's responsibility to provide this kind of information assistance to its local units of government."

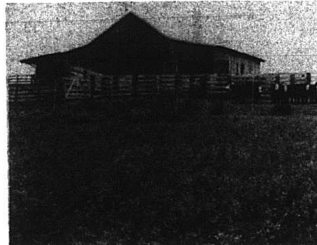

"It will be of particular importance should the General Assembly act on my recommendation to establish a Commission on Municipal-Statute Revision," Gov. Carroll said.

Also present at the meeting, representing local civic groups were John Rush, Harvey Rush, Billy Hiatt, Danny Ford, Oscar Palm, Rudolph Burdette, Gary Cramer, Floyd Owens, Tommy Parsons and Mrs. Leslie Harris. These people made recommendations to the Council concerning projects which might be considered in the Mt. Vernon area. They included: a community center; sewer extension; elimination of the odor from the sewer plant; sidewalks on Williams Street; Lowell Lane to Williams Street and Maple Drive (to the hospital); a municipal pool; two parks in the Main Street area; storm drain improvement around natural drains in the city; sidewalk renovation from Main Street area and sidewalk additions, including sidewalks to the Rockcastle County Library.

The Council was told by the CVADD representatives that qualifications for the project were very liberal and the deadline for submitting applications is January 15, 1976.

Two public hearings are mandatory on any pre-application and another meeting will be held next Tuesday night at the firehouse at which time priorities for projects will be determined. Anyone interested is invited to attend.

Dr. Burton White, noted Harvard researcher, was also on the program. Dr. White gave significant data, documented by recent research, that the first three years are very critical in shaping later development of the child. He stated that there is a definite need for parent education in order to maximize the growth and development of children and families.

Senator Hubert Humphrey III was the featured speaker at the banquet Friday night. He urged all child advocates to keep legislators informed of current

Rockcastle's Share of Federal Hwy. Allocation Is $26,292.37

Rockcastle County's share of the $3,550,000 allocated to Kentucky by the federal government for improvement projects on rural roads in the county, is $26,392.37 according to John Witt of the Bureau of Highways Office in Frankfort.

Mr. Witt said Tuesday that the funds must be spent for improvement projects, as opposed to maintenance of roads, i.e., a rural road could not be resurfaced with the funds but could be surfaced if it met standards.

Any project chosen by the County Fiscal Court, which meets federal and state approval, would be financed by 70% of the funds from the allocation and 30% from local sources and, in some cases, Mr. Witt said that funds could possibly be used from the County aid program to help make up the 30%.

Mr. Witt said that it was hoped that counties would keep their improvement projects simple rather than undertaking a project which would require the purchase of right-of-ways and moving of residents. The Bureau of Highways will administer the program under an agreement with the federal government and, of course, the state will have final approval of projects.

Mr. Witt further said that projects would be approved on a district basis rather than a county-by-county basis and therefore it would be to the benefit of each county to work up their project or projects as quickly as possible so that they might be submitted for approval.

The allocations were made throughout the state on the same formula used to figure other road funds coming into the counties. For example, of the original $3,550,000 allocation, the Bureau of Highways was allowed to retain 12% for administration and the remaining 88% was divided as follows: 1/5 equally to all counties, 1/5 for the ratio of rural population in the county to the rural population in the state, 1/5 for rural mileage of the county as compared to total rural road mileage in the state and 2/5 for the rural area of the county as compared to total rural area in the state.

Mr. Witt said that members of the State Bureau of Highways would be meeting with the County Fiscal Court to explain the situation to them and also to present the county aid program for the coming year. *****

Rockets Explode On Whitley County 22-14

PROGRAM FOR THE BLIND TO BE PRESENTED OCT. 31ST

A Talking Books Program for the blind, low vision and physically handicapped, will be presented Friday, October 31st and Saturday, November 1st until noon at Floyd's Home Improvement Store on Richmond Street in Mt. Vernon.

The program will be presented by Charles "Chuck" Barr, man for the blind and physically handicapped.

Mr. Barr states there are numerous free services offered the blind and handicapped, such as books and magazines recorded on discs and tapes with machines loaned without cost to those who can qualify.

If you are interested or know of anyone who might be in need of these services, try to be there. If your club or organization would like to have this program presented, call Mr. Barr at 256-2916.

It was a team effort all the way with every Rocket on the field alert for Whitley mistakes and able to capitalize on several crucial penalties against Whitley.

Leading rusher for the Rockets was Jerry Pensoil who picked up 129 yards in 20 carries; David Owens gained 85 yards on 14 carries; Earl Hammons got 12 yards in 8 carries and Billy Hackworth gained 11 yards with 6 carries.

Defensively, the Rockets were led by Larry Welch, who was credited with 7 individual tackles. Pensoil got 6 tackles and 5 assists and other Rockets credited with tackles and assists were: Bobby Boring, 4-2; David Hunt, 5-4; David Owens, 2-6; Billy Hackworth, 3-5; David Whitehead, 4-4; Shane Bullock, 4-4; Mark Holbrook, 1-4; Jeff Carr, 2-4 and Earl Hammons, 3-3.

This Friday night, the Rockets wrap up their season with a trip to Mercer County.

A Child Symposium, sponsored by the Progressive Women's League, was held at the Rockcastle County Library Monday night. Three physicians participated in the program which was well attended. During the session, a variety of subjects was discussed and questions asked by the ladies attending. Items discussed included: discipline, sibling rivalry, emotionally immature children, bed wetting, thumb sucking, etc. In the above photo are, from left: Mrs. Leslie Harris, president of the Progressive Women's League; Dr. Robert Dana, Child Psychiatrist, Cumberland River Comprehensive Care Center; Corbin Dr. William G. Griffith, Mt. Vernon General Practitioner; Dr. William Underwood, Department of Pediatrics in Lexington and Mrs. Roland Mullins, Coordinator for the program.

FRANKFORT WATCHLINE

Women's liberationists probably wouldn't care much for Emily Gable or Charlann Carroll, two women who willingly stand in the shadows cast by their candidate-husbands.

"I'm his supporter," said Emily Gable of husband, Bob, the Republican candidate for governor.

"I used to think things could be 50-50, but I don't think Bob's the boss, his word goes," she said, "I feel like the man's the breadwinner and should be happy with what he is doing." Charlann Carroll remarked identifying her role as wife of Gov. Julian Carroll.

"My first role is as mother and wife," she said, "adding that it is a difficult position, what with all the official duties."

"What we're raising is part mine, too," she said, citing her 25 years of supporting him, even in the strictest sense of the word when Carroll was working his way through College and law school.

Mrs. Gable does some campaigning, especially when her husband's travels carry him into their home Fifth Congressional District. However, she sees her main duty as providing the solid home life she believes her children need.

Mrs. Carroll, while shut out of the last four weeks of the primary campaign to bear their fourth child, has been reactivated for the general election. Since mid-September, she has hardly missed a day without some sort of campaign appearance.

The views of the candidates' wives may or may not shed light on precisely how the candidates feel about the controversial Equal Rights Amendment to the U.S. Constitution.

The state legislature ratified the measure in a special session in 1972, but there is every indication that the General Assembly will attempt to and likely succeed in an effort to rescind its ratification in 1976.

Whether rescinding the action is even legal has been the center of attention, and the Supreme Court could decide that much of the question before the 1976 General Assembly can act. But, for now, it is still an open question and neither Carroll nor Gable has taken a clear stand on the ERA.

Both candidates say they are for the provisions that guarantee equal pay and equal work opportunity for women, but both have expressed reservations about how else the ERA might be interpreted.

Gable, for example, is concerned about Congressional power to set aside state laws it deems to be discriminatory.

Carroll said he would oppose it if it means you foolishly open public bath facilities to both men and women, as some opponents claim the ERA would do.

While sympathy for rescinding the ERA seems very strong among legislators, if the vote is a close one, the governor's influence could be a deciding factor.

While both gubernatorial candidates have endorsed the judicial amendment to the state constitution, the endorsements have apparently done little to stimulate voter interest.

The endorsements came in a joint statement, and while neither candidate has been able to make political hay because of it, neither has chosen to take the issue before the public.

Of course, what with the traditional negative attitude Kentuckians hold toward changes in the charter, and the fact that the state's county officials are nearly unanimously opposed to the change, it is likely neither saw any political profit in pressing the issue.

Letter to the Editor

Mt. Vernon, Kentucky
October 16, 1975

Editor of the Mt. Vernon Signal
Mt. Vernon, Kentucky

Dear Editor,

I would like to urge the people of Rockcastle County to vote for Joe Lambert for Clerk of the Court of Appeals in the upcoming election. I have known Joe all his life and he is a fine, Christian boy. In this day and time we need Christian people in public offices. I work with needy people and I know from experience that Joe has a deep feeling for needy people.

He is an outgoing young man and has a personality which enables him to meet the people and understand their needs. Rockcastle County has never had a representative in a high office such as the Court of Appeals and I think it would be nice to have Joe in Frankfort to greet us if any of us need to go there on business.

Joe is well qualified for this office and I think all the people of Rockcastle County should get behind him and support him in this election.

Sincerely,

Pansy McCoy

Dear Editor,

As the general election of November the 4th draws near, a reminder to citizens and voters of Rockcastle County. We are indeed fortunate to have a representative of the calibre of Mr. Harold DeMarcus in our State Legislature.

In addition to being the Republican Floor Leader of the House, Mr. DeMarcus has some fine accomplishments for the people of his district that I feel the good people of our county should be reminded of.

1. Wrote, introduced and persisted in the passage of the Homebased Exemption Bill which provides our elderly citizens with a $7,700.00 exemption on their homes and property.

2. He was very instrumental in passage of the old age pension increases and the Good Lord knows that in this day of inflation and high prices, our people on fixed incomes need all the assistance they can obtain.

3. He has been responsible for more blacktopping of the state roads in Rockcastle County than at any time in our previous history.

As a businessman, in an agriculture district, he is tuned to the needs of the people and has an open mind to our problems. He listens to all and exerts every effort to provide strong representation for us in his legislative position.

Since we, as citizens of Rockcastle County, are fortunate enough to have such a public servant dedicated to his constituents, it is therefore imperative that we, the voters, support our political partners, return this fine man to our next legislature with an overwhelming majority.

Dear Editor

Each week I read in the Signal and "other" papers the questions and answers on Social Security benefits.

Well, I have some advice for the ones who have become disabled before reaching 65. You had better be prepared for a long, long wait if you figure on applying for the benefits you have paid for. I know, because I have been trying for two years. I'm only 43 years old but have been totally disabled for the past two years.

100% through the Veterans Administration. All the medical evidence from the best specialists in the State of Kentucky.

In December of 1973, I appeared before a Federal Law Judge in Lexington, who approved my claim, backdated to November, 1972. I was a medical doctor and federal judge. But, his decision wasn't any good. They have a bunch in Maryland who are called the Appeals Council. They didn't think this Federal Judge knew what he was doing because they reversed his decision. They requested that I be examined by a state agency doctor -- which an animal vet could have done the examination that he performed.

The federal law judge, the state agency doctors and appeals council members are paid out of the money that you and I have worked out. Had deducted from my pay. If you're working on a payroll you have no choice, because they take it. Then, you try to get it back when you need it. I've only been working a short number of years yet I have $84,500 to my account. Where is it? I need it now. I needed it when I first applied for it two years ago. The only way you can be considered as being disabled by this appeals council is to be dead. Then, if they were to learn that one of your toes moved while they were lowering you into the ground, they would say "Why this man is not disabled, he can move his toe, so you can do something." All they have to do is say it. If you can move your hands, you can feed the monkeys or sell tickets at the theater. The monkeys may be in Texas, the theatre in New York and you in Kentucky but that doesn't matter. All they have to have is a meeting to review your claim and decide that you are not disabled and have not been.

According to the Social Security rules, in order to be considered as being disabled you have to be disabled for a year. Yet, the latest refusal which I received stated that at no time prior to that date which was the 8th day of May, 1975 was I considered as being disabled. They're saying that from the 13th of November, 1975, for about 9 days that I was in the intensive care unit in the St. Joseph Hospital in Lexington unconscious and full of tubes and wires. Then trying to live until my mouth and face wired together until January, 1974. Back broken in two, part of my back spliced together with bone cement, my hip, buckled up in a back brace until the summer of 74 -- then this council says that I was able to work.

Now, this June, I filed suit for the benefits that I have paid for. The government got an extension on getting their answer back to me -- they claim because of their backlog of cases. If they would quit running the people round the horn, prolonging the decision for some reason or another, they wouldn't have any backlog. But they keep you waiting, hoping you'll either die or give up. I don't need this when I get able to go back to work or lose what I have worked for -- I need it now.

Why doesn't the Senators and elected officials start changing some of those rules, cut out all the time-consuming appeals and give the people what they have paid for? Or, stop taking Social Security from your wages. If you are going to have to fight a court battle or starve to death before you can get it back, it isn't worth anything. If you agree with me, write me.

REDISCOVER AUTUMNAL BEAUTY THROUGHOUT THE COMMONWEALTH
There are poets who have said that autumn is a bogle, but do not be misled by its poverty any more than were about Appalachia's buried wealth. Beggars need not always be as poor as Job's turkey.

Although much depends upon the eye of the beholder, how could a field of autumn cornstalks be called poor when shafts of sun play up and down the rows, turning common stalks into uncommon beauty.

This is the gold season: the dull and tawdry gilded by sun and shadow, the gawdy and overbright dulled into subdued elegance by frost and weather. The play of season and weather on things of the earth—especially in Kentucky with its many changes—might dull a field here and there, but at the same time it brightens leaves and adds brilliance to many flowers.

Throughout the Commonwealth, autumn has taken over and for those longing for a look at this magnificent season, the time is now.

Walk autumn's rich path, past oaks as rusty as a green hoe and maple as bright as a flirt's ruffled skirt. Gaze at wild asters, still lavender blue, swaying beneath bright red staghorn sumacs.

Talk back to starting crows on a boney ridge, but stop every now and then to hear squirrels cutting on nuts.

Stop at tall milkweeds to scatter silvery huff in sequined whirls and gather some pods for angel wings or tree ornaments in preparation for the season ahead.

Jump when you unwittingly frighten a rabbit from its home, but if you are quiet in this season of quietude you might come face to face with a deer, its brown eyes more startled than your own.

Look at your feet, for there beneath your eyes is a soft carpet of leaves and multitudes of dark beetles scurrying to winter homes. Fine cones might be wondering why you haven't been by sooner to pick them up for a table or doorway arrangement and his of wood are ready for new showplaces.

Linger amid autumn and its magnificence. Soak up the reds, oranges, rusts, magentas, and variances of color while you weave bright leaves into a bouquet.

If weeds and foliage are brown and spotted, think of them as the beauty marks on an otherwise flawless face—folks for their outstanding features.

If your thoughts wander skyward when you hear the droning of a plane, imagine what you could behold from that high window. Hills in shades and tints of all primary colors with subtle blendings into secondary and even tertiary hues. Hills and meadows looking like giant bouquets set in green vases, not at all unlike bouquets of handmade calico flowers.

Autumn is not a beggar in the things that really count. There is an inner radiance that glows in sunshine, even though it last when the sun goes down. Take a drive on Mountain Parkway or one of the other highways and interstates. See for yourself how this season of brown and beige is utterly beautiful in a crisp glow of changeable, rustling taffeta. And when ravaged by the cold and other unkind elements, if the taffeta seems to be a bit worn, look beneath, for autumn will be wearing a flirty petticoat complete with scarlet ruffles.

*****

GOOD NEWS THAT AFFECTS OUR LIVES
LIVING STANDARD LINKED TO ENERGY SUPPLY
The next time you walk into your office or pick up the tools of your trade, you might want to tip your hat to the people who supply our energy.

The interesting fact is that for the past two decades our economic and energy growth have been in almost perfect lock step. If you were to chart our annual energy growth rate, it would show a one-to-one correlation with our economic growth. Energy is essential for economic growth.

A lot of experts agree that the long-range prospects for keeping our energy supply in balance with our energy demands call for new trends in the use of our natural resources. Unhappily, our domestic reserves of oil and gas are limited. Those who have studied the fuel situation often agree that the answer lies in nuclear power.

There is great hope in keeping our energy supply healthy because of a type of nuclear reactor called the breeder reactor. The breeder differs from conventional reactors in that it creates power for the consumer. The breeder reactor will not only continue to make low-cost nuclear generated electricity available, thus helping to provide jobs and a satisfactory standard of living, but it will help to free the nation from the dangerous dependence upon imported oil from foreign nations. The breeder reactor provides our nation with the potential for achieving energy independence.

Mr. and Mrs. Ponder, having purchased property in another county, have contracted our firm to sell their excellent farm for the high dollar.

Improvements consist of the above pictured frame house. The house has three bedrooms, living room, kitchen and bath. It also has built-in cabinets, a washer-dryer hook-up and is double insulated. Water for the house is provided by a good spring. questions and answers

Q. My sister doesn't think she'd be eligible for supplemental security income payments because she's not totally blind. But she has extremely limited vision. Would she be considered blind under the law?

A. She does not have to be totally blind to qualify for supplemental security income payments. Under the law, a person whose vision is no better than 20/200 with glasses or who has a limited visual field of 20 degrees or less is considered "blind" if your sister's visual impairment is not severe enough to meet this definition of blindness, she may qualify as a disabled person. And if she has limited income and resources, she may be eligible for payments. She can apply at any social security office.

Q. My grandmother is 77 and has no income except for a monthly social security check of $115. She does own a small home, and has some personal property and other assets. Would her assets make her ineligible for supplemental security income?

A. An individual may have resources (assets) worth up to $1,500 and be eligible for supplemental security income. In figuring this $1,500, not all resources are counted. A home with a market value of $25,000 or less ($35,000 or less in Alaska and Hawaii) is not counted. Personal effects or household goods, with a total market value of $1,500 or less are also excluded. Certain other assets also are excluded. Tell your grandmother she should apply for supplemental security income at a social security office and the people there will tell her if she is eligible.

Q. My husband, who's 47, has kidney failure. He's going to a social security office next week to apply for Medicare. If he's eligible, will our children and I also be eligible?

A. No, not unless you too have permanent kidney failure. Under the kidney disease provision of the law, only the person with permanent kidney failure is eligible for Medicare.

MUSHROOM KABOBS, A YEAR 'ROUND TREAT

Mushrooms, "the vegetable steak," strung on skewers and brushed generously with a nippy sauce, make elegant go-alongs to serve with many main dishes. It takes about five minutes to heat them through and, if desired, vegetables such as green pepper squares, cherry tomatoes or quartered onions can be added.

You can also thread mushrooms on skewers alternately with quick-cooking tender beef or lamb chunks, chicken livers, large shrimp or cubed firm fish. Whenever you want to serve mushrooms with meat which must broil more slowly, better broil the mushrooms separately, starting them five or six minutes before serving time.

- GRILLED MUSHROOM KABOBS
- 1/2 pound medium-sized mushrooms or 2 cans (6 to 8 oz. each) canned mushrooms
  - 1 green pepper cut into 1-inch chunks
  - 3 tablespoons oil
  - 2 tablespoons lemon juice
  - 2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce
  - 1/2 teaspoon salt
  - 1/4 teaspoon paprika
  - 1/8 teaspoon ground black pepper
- Rinse, pat dry and halve fresh mushrooms or drain canned mushrooms. Arrange 2 fresh mushroom halves or 2 whole canned mushrooms and a green pepper chunk each alternately on several small skewers. Thoroughly combine remaining ingredients. Brush over both sides of mushrooms and green pepper. Grill under a preheated hot broiler or over hot charcoal, turning once and brushing twice more, about 2 to 3 minutes on each side. Serve hot.
- YIELD: about 12 hors d'oeuvres.

Household Workers Social Security Reports Are Due by October 31st

Quarterly wage reports and social security contributions for household workers are due by October 31, according to social security officials here.

"If you pay a household worker $50 or more in cash wages in any 3-month calendar quarter for work around your house, you must send a report of the wages and the social security contribution to the Internal Revenue Service within one month after the end of the quarter," a social security spokesman said.

Quarters are January-February-March, April-May-June, July-August-September, and October-November-December. Wage reports and social security contributions for the third quarter of 1975 are due by October 31.

The reports may be filed on a form available at any Internal Revenue Service office—

Employer's Quarterly Tax Return for Household Employees (for Social Security).

Under the current social security contribution rate, the employer and the employee each pay 5.85 percent of covered wages.

Social security contributions help build retirement disability, survivors, and Medicare protection for 1 1/2 million household workers, including maids, cooks, cleaning women, gardeners, handymen, and babysitters, according to the spokesman.

Earnings from Holiday Jobs Can Affect Social Security Payments

Earnings from holiday jobs can affect the amount of Social Security benefits, according to Social Security officials here.

The amount people earn from holiday jobs will cause a reduction in their social security checks if their total earnings for 1975 are over $2,320.

"For every $2 you earn over

$2,520, $1 in social security this year will go over $2,520, according to the spokesman.

"Refunding overpayments to social security could cause hardship," he said.

People can get information about earnings and social security benefits by calling or writing any social security office.

There were other Clans whose tartans were naturally dark and who wanted to cut a dash on special occasions. So for these Highlanders tailors made tartan using the normal pattern on a white ground. This is known today as the Clan's Dress Tartan.

If you have a Clan name, or are married to a person with a Clan name, you are entitled to wear that Clan's tartan. The same applies if you are descended from people with Clan names. But, if you have no Clansman in your ancestry, you can wear either Shepherd's Plaid tartan or Royal Stewart tartan.

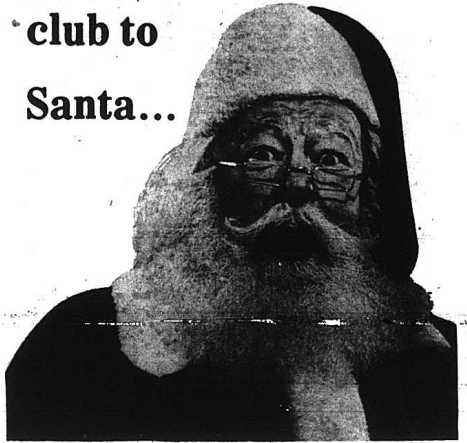

Shepherd's Plaid is a small black and white check and was worn by Sir Walter Scott. And, since the Queen is the head of all Scots, anyone with even the slightest trace of Scottish blood is entitled to wear the Royal tartan.

THE TARTAN FOR YOU

Many people are confused about the Scottish Clan tartans because some Clans have as many as three different patterns. But Teacher's Scotch Information Centre can explain this quite simply.

Each Clan has its own tartan. In some cases the ordinary tartan was so brightly colored that it would be too conspicuous when the Clansmen were out hunting. So a more sombre-colored tartan was designed, to tone with the moor, the hills and the forests. This is known as the Hunting Tartan.

REPORTS TO THE PEOPLE OF KENTUCKY

RURAL DEVELOPMENT PROVISIONS MUST BE IMPLEMENTED

I have introduced legislation, co-sponsored by eight other members of the Senate Agriculture Committee, to extend Title V of the Rural Development Act of 1972.

Unfortunately, the Rural Development Act has never been fully implemented, and this is especially true with regard to Title V, which provides for small farm research and development programs. The result of this inaction has been to seriously undercut efforts to upgrade the life and prosperity of rural America.

Congress intended that Title V (due to expire June 30, 1976) would provide for programs dealing with management and production techniques for small farms, research on farm machinery technology, cooperative agricultural marketing and distribution systems suitable to the family farm operation.

In passing this provision Congress recognized that many farms are too small to be economically viable in and of themselves. It was recognized that many of these farmers or their wives have to seek supplemental non-farm income. But even in that situation, many of these farm families are living at or near the poverty level.

If research and extension programs can be utilized to maximize their farm incomes, we will not only be able to maximize their farm incomes, but we will be able to accomplish much toward improving their standard of living, putting more dollars into local rural economies, and thereby making life better in rural areas.

Nearly two-thirds of the American farm families come from the category of small farms. Unless some action is taken to provide these people with equity within the farm sector, we will speed up the process in which the "super" farm is beginning to control American agriculture. The number of farms with sales of $100,000 or over per year increased from 23,000 in 1960 to 115,000 in 1974. There is nothing wrong with this per se, but we should not permit this development to drive out of business the small farmer, who traditionally has been the backbone of this country.

That's what Title V is all about. It is designed to help the small farmer increase his earning power by increasing his productivity. This would be good for the farmer, the consumer and the entire nation.

Medicare 'Carryover' Can Help With 1975 and 1976 Deductibles

Doctor bills for October, November, and December may in some cases count toward the $60 annual deductible for both 1975 and 1976 under the "carryover" provision of Medicare medical insurance, according to social security officials here.

Medicare medical insurance doesn't pay for the first $60 in covered medical expenses in a calendar year. "But people who haven't had $60 in covered expenses before October should be sure to send in all the bills for covered services they receive in October, November, or December," a spokesman said.

"Any expenses you have during the last 3 months of the year that can be counted toward your deductible for that year can also be counted toward the deductible for the next year," he said.

The carryover rule helps people who might otherwise have to pay the $60 deductible twice in a short period of time—at the end of one year and at the beginning of the next year.

Bills for covered medical services should be attached to a filled-out Request for Medicare Payment form and sent to the health insurance organization that handles Medicare claims in this area.

Requests for Medicare Payment forms are available at any social security office and at many doctors' offices.

Medicare medical insurance helps pay for doctor bills and many other medical expenses of people 65 and over, of disabled people under 65 who have been entitled to social security disability benefits for at least 24 consecutive months, and of many people with permanent kidney failure.

Medical insurance is the voluntary part of Medicare, funded by individual premiums and Federal general revenues. Medicare is administered by the Social Security Administration, an agency of the U.S. Department of Health, Education, and Welfare.

FIRE PREVENTION TIPS

Taking steps toward fire prevention should be second nature. Our families and homes are important.

1. Check your wiring system often. Make sure it's adequate to handle appliances, especially the new, larger ones recently purchased. Frayed cords should be repaired.
2. Remember built up grease can catch fire on the stove.
3. Store gasoline and other flammables in light metal containers. Oil soaked rag also in these types of cans.
4. Use flammable liquids outdoors or near enough ventilation to disperse vapors. Don't use flammable liquids near heat or while smoking.
5. It's dangerous to smoke in bed. Don't do it even if you think you're wide awake. When emptying ashes into wastebaskets, check that all matches and butts are out.
6. Keep a fire extinguisher handy. If you take the vital protective measures, you'll never have to use it, but it's smart to have one around, just in case. Norelco makes an extinguisher called the Flame Fighter that's easy to use and also looks attractive. It's off-white, slim and compact and has a convenient wall mount and designer cover. You can use this extinguisher on grease, electrical, oil, paint and other common home fires.

7. Keep bedroom doors closed when you sleep. If a fire starts somewhere else in the house, the closed door will keep most of the deadly gases out for a while, giving you a chance to escape.

8. Don't leave small children alone in the house or leave cigarette lighters or matches within their reach.

9. Police these tips. Fire is a danger. Avoid it.

WHAT TO DO IN NOVEMBER

"No shade, no shine, no butterflies, no bees, no fruits, no flowers, no leaves, no birds, November!"

The poet Thomas Hood may have depicted November reasonably well, but any homeowner could have told him that there are plenty of leaves, and November, even if most of them are on the ground rather than on the trees. And, even though most of the "fruits" of summer are gone, activity does not stop for the dedicated gardener.

What is done in November to put the garden in order for the dormant months of December, January and February can have a decided and sometimes dramatic effect upon what takes place there in spring and during the following nine months of planting, cultivating, and "harvesting."

Gardens not properly cared for after the harvesting season are over harbor diseases and insects. They also provide havens for field mice and moles. So the best idea is to clean up all refuse and destroy it so that disease organisms, insects, and other vermin cannot use it as a winter haven.

Some veteran gardeners recommend fall spading and sowing. This helps sterilize the soil by disrupting the life of some insects and exposing their underground nests to the death-dealing cold.

Then, in November, there is always the problem of falling leaves. If they fall on the lawn, they must be raked up to keep them from smothering out the grass. Hardwood leaves such as oak, hickory, and beech can be raked up and put aside for winter mulching. On the other hand, maple-leaves, which readily decay, can be spread on the garden or composted where, by spring, they will become humus.

While there are dozens of other lawn and garden tasks that can be performed to an advantage during this month, the two mentioned are the most urgent. Leaves must be raked up and disposed of and the garden must be sanitized. With these two jobs out of the way, it comes highly recommended that the gardener take some time off to enjoy the last few warm, lazy days of a rapidly-waning autumn that usually show up in November.

With this in mind, one of the things to do during these rare days is to take to the ridgetops and old pasture fields where persimmons and wild grapes are reaching their wild, ripe perfection and where black walnut and shagbark hickory nuts are dropping their fruit.

Eat some of the persimmons and grapes on the spot and then gather and carry a supply home.

Ripe persimmons can be made into a pudding that excels even that made at Thanksgiving from sweet potatoes. Wild grapes make a jelly of such tang and flavor as to be fit food for the gods.

Pick up a sack of walnuts and hickory nuts, too. They can be cracked and eaten around the winter fire or used for feeding the birds that love black walnut kernels and hickory nuts better than anything except perhaps sunflower seed. You don't have to pick out the kernels for them. Just crack the nuts and the birds will joyfully do their own picking.

By this time the pawpaw season is over but, by raking under the leaves around the trees, you may be lucky enough to find one or two that squirrels, foxes, and opossums have missed. Its skin may be the color of tanned horsehide, but the chances are the flesh of this rare fruit will be just right for eating. A pawpaw is a fruit of reflection and, like the persimmon, tastes better when eaten in-the-wild.

Don't forget either to look for hibernates which can be gathered and brought in for attractive home decorations. While out on the ridgetops look and listen for wild geese winging down the sky. Their stirring, goodbyes to the North may make you lonesome and a bit melancholy, but like gaspennies they will be back in due time.

Yes, there are a lot of things to be done in and around the garden in November, but a day or two taken off for a simpler day on the uplands may help you do them better.

TEEN SCENE

A high priority among teens is keeping their skin clear and problem-free, according to a survey of national teen magazine editors. If you have skin problems, the best thing you can do is to be willing to "come clean" and follow some good advice.

To help you "face up" to the clearest year ever, here are some up-front tips from Chatterbox Laboratories, makers of Mudd, the new cleanser that's especially formulated to remove dirt and oil.

Keep skin super clean washing it at least twice a day. Washing in the morning will refresh your skin, and let you start with a clean slate. A good scrubbing at night will remove the day's make-up, dirt and oil—real pore-cloggers that spell trouble.

To come really clean try Mudd, a unique product actually made with down-to-earth clays. Mudd draws and loosens embedded pore-clogging oils and dead skin cells that often encourage infection, and its drawing action can open and clean pores to leave skin soft, smooth and fresh.

Catch Z's for at least eight hours a night to give your body, inside and out, a chance to recharge. Stress and fatigue can only take their toll on your complexion.

Watch your diet, making sure you eat foods from each of the Basic Four groups. Avoid greasy, rich foods that you can "eat tonight-and wear tomorrow." Get plenty of exercise and fresh air to get your circulation going—a known factor in keeping skin clear and putting a healthy glow into your cheeks.

questions and answers

Q. Since my wife and I both will reach 65 early in 1976, we plan to apply for retirement benefits next month. What papers should we take with us to the social security office?

A. You should take your social security card or a record of your social security number, proof of your age and your wife's age (preferably a birth or baptismal certificate made at or shortly after birth), and your marriage certificate. If your wife is applying for benefits on her own work record, she should take her social security number, too.

Q. I have Medicare coverage under the kidney disease provision of the law, and it's really been a big help with the expenses of my treatment. But I don't have any other health insurance and it's hard for me to pay for the things that Medicare doesn't cover. Is there some place I can get financial help?

A. In some States, there are agencies that, under certain conditions, help with some of the medical expenses that Medicare does not cover. Some States have Kidney Commissions that help people who need assistance in meeting expenses of kidney dialysis and transplant services. Every State has a Medicaid program that helps pay medical expenses in cases of financial need.

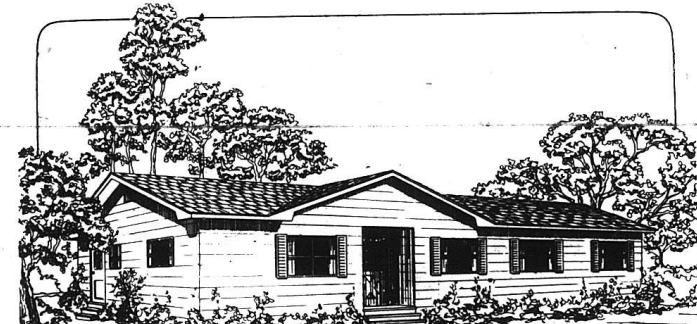

Q. When my husband was laid off from work last month, I took a job as a waitress. My boss just told me that I have to pay social security contributions on my tips. Is this true?

A. Yes. Under the law, the supplemental security income payment to a person who lives in the household of another is reduced by one-third. This reduction, which takes the place of determining the dollar value of support and maintenance, applies only to the Federal amount of your monthly check. It does not apply to the State amount.

lect from you the social security contributions due on the tips you report to him. For more information, contact a social security office and ask for a copy of Social Security and cash tips. This leaflet tells you how and when to report your tips.

Q. I'm 67 and get supplemental security income payments. Part of my monthly check is a Federal payment and part of it is a State supplementary payment. If I move in with my daughter, who lives across town, will the amount of my check change?

A. Yes. Under the law, the supplemental security income payment to a person who lives in the household of another is reduced by one-third. This reduction, which takes the place of determining the dollar value of support and maintenance, applies only to the Federal amount of your monthly check. It does not apply to the State amount.

The amino acids in eggs are in such a well-balanced proportion, they approach the theoretical ideal protein that is indispensable for humans. For this reason, eggs are used experimentally as the reference standard in evaluating the protein of other foods.

Some Employers Won't Hire People Without a Social Security Number

Some employers won't hire people unless they have a social security number, so students and others planning to get holiday jobs should apply for a number without delay if they don't already have one, according to social security officials here.

"Delaying your application might prevent your employment or cause you to lose time and wages in a job requiring a social security number," a spokesman said. "When you don't recall having had a social security number before, your application is screened against central files in Baltimore to make sure a second number isn't issued to you—and screening takes time."

"You should apply for your social security number at least several weeks before you need it for a job," he said. "You can get information about applying by calling or writing any social security office."

A worker builds disability, survivors, retirement, and Medicare protection by work and earnings credited to his social security number. He gets credit if he's paid $30 or more in a 3-month calendar quarter for work covered by social security.

More than nine out of ten jobs are covered by social security.

"Your social security number is yours alone and remains the same for life," the spokesman said. "When you get a job covered by social security, be sure your employer copies your name and number correctly from your social security card to his record."
