

Rockcastle Recollections

JOHN LAIR

Over the years, the crushed stone business has been Rockcastle County's most substantial privately owned industry, supporting the biggest payroll on a year-round basis.

Dick Welsh seems to have started the first crushing plant, employing a few men to break rock with napping hammers, as was done in surfacing some of the first highways through the county. As the use of crushed stone increased and the demand grew greater, more men were employed, the crew never reaching more than twenty-five men, until the business was sold to W.J. Sparks and his partner, Sam Davis, owner and proprietor of the only saddlery and harness shop in Mt. Vernon. Sparks himself was at the time a successful traveling salesman for the Louisville Grocery Company.

W.J. Sparks was a man of vision and would later become one of Rockcastle County's most successful businessmen and philanthropists. With his vision and his background of salesmanship, he rapidly built the crushed stone business to substantial proportions. His first big customer was the Louisville and Nashville Railroad Co. who, during their heyday of building and expansion, brought hundreds of thousands of dollars into Rockcastle County, being for many years the biggest taxpayers on the county's books. The W.J. Sparks Company eventually operated five quarries, three in the county at Vernon, Burr and Mullins Station. They also owned and operated one at Russellville, Kentucky and at High Cliff, Tennessee.

It was at the High Cliff, Tennessee plant that Albert (Abb) Sparks, W.J.'s half-brother, who was later to play such an important part with the company, first came on the scene. Their father was married twice, first to a Miss Miller and their son, W.J., was born in Laurel County in 1856. The second wife was of the well-to-do Turley Family of Madison County, where Abb was born in 1871. At the death of their father, Abb's mother went to Laurel County and got W.J., her step-son and took him to live in Madison County where she saw to it that he received the best education possible to the time and place.

Upon reaching manhood, Abb opened at store in Livingston, Kentucky which was not a successful venture. Afterwards he operated a sawmill in the nearby Pine Branch Community. When he was unable to meet the payroll and had to close down the mill, several of his workmen urged him to continue, promising that they would work for him without wages until times got better. He never forgot their loyalty and years later, when he was general manager for the Sparks chain of stone quarries, he hunted them all up and gave them employment for as long as they were able to work.

After closing down his lumbering operation, he went to work for his half-brother at the High Cliff, Tennessee quarry. Later, in 1906 and 1907, he contracted with the Louisville and Nashville Railroad and dug tunnel No. 5 and No. 7 for their tracks across the county. Following this, he went to work for the Sparks Quarry at Burr, Kentucky, moving his family from Livingston to Mt. Vernon in 1907. He soon became General Manager for all Sparks Quarries, which position he maintained until they were sold following the death of W.J. Sparks in 1927. The Sparks half-brothers, W.J. and Abb, were a very successful combination. With his training and skill as an engineer, Abb managed the operations of the quarries so efficiently that W.J. could devote his full time to the business of selling and fronting for the business. An impressive, well-dressed man, W.J. Sparks was thoroughly at home in any society and was my youthful idea of "Big Business" personified. Through it all, he was never too busy to devote time and money to the promotion of the best interests of his hometown and community. He built the most impressive home in Mt. Vernon which he enjoyed with his wife, the former Zula Williams, and three daughters.

Abb Sparks, married Lemp Bentley, daughter of A.N. Bentley, and they also made their home in Mt. Vernon, occupying the big house built by "Devil Bill" Adams for one of his sons in the earlier days of the county. Here they raised a numerous and well-respected family, most of whom are now prominent citizens of Lexington, Kentucky.

This brief sketch carries the Sparks Quarries through their formative period and up to the end of the Sparks Ownership. The story of their acquisition by the Kentucky Stone Company, with accompanying developments, will be brought up-to-date in a future article in this series.

by several species of mosquitoes most notably in Kentucky - the COMMON HOUSEHOLD MOSQUITO, Culex pipiens. Good mosquito control is required to keep this disease from reaching outbreak proportions again.

Mosquito control must be approached on an organized community or area-wide basis to be effective. This type of program should involve competent public spirited citizens as well as a person experienced and trained in mosquito abatement practices and techniques.

The first important task necessary is the survey of mosquito breeding sites and the monitoring of both adult and larval mosquito populations. These surveys are needed to determine the species, their population fluctuation and distribution to more effectively facilitate their control. SLE virus levels should be monitored in local bird populations to help forecast possible SLE outbreaks.

Breeding areas should be destroyed or larvicided to prevent mosquito breeding. It is also important to have methods available to control adult mosquitoes. Overall, the most important aspect of good mosquito control is that it be approached on an organized community wide basis.

COUNTY AGENT'S NOTES
BY: H. LEE DURHAM
CONTROL OF LAWN WEEDS
Many broadleaved perennial weeds such as dandelion, plantain, wild garlic, wild onion, and ground ivy can still be controlled by chemical treatments. Winter annual weeds such as chickweed and henbit can also be controlled by fall applications.
Recommended materials for general broadleaf weed control are 2, 4-D, silvex, or banvel. These herbicides are sold under various trade names as single materials 2,4-D, for example) or as combinations (2,4-D and silvex). For controlling chickweed in the lawn, one of the products containing silvex or banvel should be used. For rates to use, follow directions on the label of the container in which the material is purchased. Care should be taken to avoid spray drift to desirable plants. Also follow closely the precautions on the label.

Fall applications of these herbicides do not act as rapidly as in the spring when weather conditions are more favorable, but they will be effective if properly applied.
The herbicides can be applied any time the temperature is expected to be above 55 degrees for a period of 3 or 4 days.
ENCEPHALITIS
Forty-nine confirmed cases and 17 probable cases of Saint Louis Encephalitis (SLE) were detected in Kentucky this summer. Fortunately there were only two confirmed deaths attributed to this disease. SLE is harbored in wild and domestic birds and is transmitted to many Well it is tobacco grading time again. With the tobacco market opening to receive tobacco November 14 and sales starting November 24th, tobacco people who should know, think tobacco prices will be lower this year, which is more reason to do a better job of grading your tobacco even though they may get the same price for each grade.

Just in case the buyers don't go over the support price set by the government, grades you will stand a better chance of getting the most from you tobacco.

This fall has been a good time to treat your tobacco beds for the 1976 crop. Sometimes it is very difficult to get weather and ground conditions just right condition Down on the Farm.

KEEP THE HOME FIRES SPARKLING

A bright, shiny kitchen seems to radiate a "homey" feeling, and a clean stove is an important part of it all.

To keep your gas range sparkling and avoid frequent long, drawn out scrubbing, follow these tips for daily stove care:

*Wipe up food spills when they happen. If grease and food residue are allowed to build up, they'll be more difficult to remove. After sanded use, when the range has cooled, squirt all enameled parts with "Grease relief" degreaser and wipe with a damp sponge to get rid of sticky dirt quickly and easily. If food has burned on, scrub with a plastic or nylon mesh pad - do not use a metal pad which can scratch enamel.

*Remove burners, grates and drip pans if food has been spilled onto them. Drip pans can be cleaned easily by wiping with degreaser and sponge and rinsing under clear water - If food has burned on, use a mesh pad instead of a sponge. Burners and grates should be soaked in hot sudsy water to which detergent may be added. Grates may need scouring to remove burned on food.

*When replacing burners, grates and drip pans, fast each burner to make sure it lights. If any of the holes in the burner are clogged, they can be cleared with a piece of thin wire.

*Clean the broiler after each use to prevent a build-up of sticky grease. Remove the tray, and wipe with degreaser, wipe with a damp sponge or mesh pad and rinse. When the broiler has cooled, wash inner surfaces with degreaser and hot water.

Failure to Report Changes Can Bring Supplemental Security Income Penalty

People who don't report changes in circumstances that affect their supplemental security income payments may have a penalty deducted from future payments, according to social security officials here.

The supplemental security income program "makes monthly payments to people with little or no income and limited resources who are 65 and over or blind or disabled. Eligibility for payments and payment amounts can be affected by changes in income, place of residence, marital status, and other circumstances.

"People have 30 days to report such changes to any social security office," a spokesman said. "Under the law, failure to report changes—or delay in reporting changes—can mean reductions in supplemental security income payments."

The penalty is $25 for the first failure or delay, $50 for the second, and $100 for each subsequent failure or delay. "The penalty isn't applied if people couldn't help reporting late or weren't at fault for not reporting changes in their circumstances," the spokesman said.

"People who make a false statement that causes them to get money not rightfully due may be prosecuted for fraud," he said.

Anyone getting supplemental security income payments can get information about reporting changes in circumstances by calling or writing any social security office.

The supplemental security income program is administered by the Social Security Administration, an agency of the U.S. Department of Health, Education, and Welfare.

Edd Hunt, President of the Mt. Vernon Lions Club, states 95 invitations have been mailed to the farmers of Rockcastle County inviting them to the annual Farmer-Businessmen Banquet. He also stated that 125 business and professional men have been asked to purchase tickets for themselves and the farmers.

This year's banquet makes the 10th year the farmers and county businessmen have held the banquet, with the banquet to be held this year at the Rockcastle County High School.

The program will be presented by Mrs. Jackie Winkler, State Outreach Coordinator for the Food Stamp Program, who will present a puppet show geared to the outreach program of the state.

Lee Durham, County Extension Agent, will be the Master of Ceremonies, with Edd Hunt introducing the speaker. Mr. Hunt stated that the people who are buying tickets this year are those who received a free meal last year, with exception of some new businessmen who haven't attended before.

He also stated that if any farmer or businessman has not been contacted and would like to attend, they may do so by contacting any member of the Lions Club.

134 EKU Nursing Students in Capping Ceremony

A total of 134 students in Eastern Kentucky University's nursing programs were capped in ceremonies recently in Hiram Hall.

Capping is a symbolic ceremony signaling the beginning of preparation in the nursing profession.

Eastern, the largest producer of registered nurses in the Commonwealth, began the development of the Association of Arts program for the preparation of nurses in 1964, admitting the first class of students in 1965. The Baccalaureate program was developed in 1969.

During the past 10 years, Eastern has continued to develop health-related programs in such areas as medical record technology, dietetics, medical laboratory technology, environmental sanitation and health assisting.

Students from Rockcastle County who were capped in the recent program were: Karen Brown of Brodhead, Susan Bullens, Junnie Chastean, Rhonda Lakes, Deborah Mize, and Lisa Randolph, all of Mt. Vernon.

Council Hears Committee Reports; Hires Mrs. Craig as City Clerk

The Mt. Vernon City Council met for their regular monthly meeting last Monday night and the first item on the agenda was reports from committees which were set up to make recommendations for projects for a HUD Discretionary Grant.

Reports were heard from the Industrial Site Committee, the Housing Committee, Recreation Committee, the Downtown Area Committee, the Sewer Expansion and the County-Wide Projects Committee.

Following these reports, Mayor Mullins recommended to the Council that cost estimates for the various projects discussed be drawn and a meeting with committee members be held to decide priorities for the projects.

In other business before the Council, Mrs. Mary Craig, assistant City Clerk for the past several years, was hired as City Clerk, effective November 17, 1975, due to the resignation last month of Mrs. Errel Cromer. The Council put off hiring an assistant city clerk until a future date.

Three service station owners were present to discuss with the Council the splitting up of the City's gasoline business for city trucks and the police cruisers.

OPEN HOUSE AT MT. VERNON ELEMENTARY

The "will be an" open house held at Mt. Vernon Elementary School on Monday night, November 17th from 7 p.m. to 8:30 p.m.

All parents and interested citizens are urged to attend.

HEALTH SERVICES APPLICATION REQUESTS NOW BEING TAKEN

The Cumberland Valley Comprehensive Health Planning Staff is now receiving requests for Certificate of Need Applications for all health services. The cut-off date for requests is December 5, 1975. These Certificate of Need Applications will be reviewed on January 13, 1976.

For further assistance you may contact Miss Nancye Helton or Mrs. Linda White at the Cumberland Valley Area Development District, Inc. office in London, Kentucky, phone: 606-864-7391.

After some discussion, the Council decided to advertise for bids for gasoline per gallon from all stations in the city and nearby selling unleaded gasoline.

The matter of cattle getting into Lake Linville was again brought up by the Council who, after some discussion, voted to take down all fences on city property around the lake with proper notice to owners of cattle.

The matter of the decrease in water bill rates for senior citizens qualifying for the homestead exemption was brought up by Mayor Roland Mullins who told the Council that due to lack of response from the governmental agencies, whose consent was needed for the action, the decrease in rates would not take effect.

December 1st of this year as originally planned but would be put off until at least January 1, 1976. Jerry Makin was also before the Council to discuss with them the possibility of renting the boat dock at Lake Linville. Mr. Makin told the Council that he would not be interested in leasing the dock if there were any restrictions whatsoever as the size of motors on the lake mainly because he did not feel that revenue otherwise would justify leasing the dock.

He also expressed the opinion that the lake has never been developed to its full potential mainly because, with the exception of Virgil Aicora and his brother who operated the dock for two summers as employees of the City, no one leasing the dock has been from this county or even area.

Once again the Council was thrown into a discussion of the future use of Lake Linville and Mayor Roland Mullins read a letter to the Council from one of the governmental agencies, from which he had requested a study of the lake to determine the quality of our water supply.

The letter, very vague in nature, was enclosed with a general statement policy concerning restrictions on water use for drinking.

After some discussion among Council members, Mayor Mullins recommended to the Council that two of the Council members, Chester Heald and Bob Jasper, form a committee with four members of the community, two opposed to the restrictions and two for, study

FRANKFORT WATCHLINE

'Down in the Fifth District, people are raised to believe it's a sin to vote any other ticket than the Republican ticket,' says W. Harold DeMarcus...

'So when they're mad about something or they're angry to protest about something, they just don't vote at all,' he notes.

DeMarcus, of Stanford, is the House Republican floor leader. That is how he accounts for the debacle that was visited on the Republican Party last week by Gov. Julian Carroll.

Larry Van Hoose, the executive director of the state Republican Party and manager of the Gable campaign, sees the problem as a 'vicious circle' of apathy, Watergate and lack of money...

Both Van Hoose and DeMarcus feel Fifth District Republicans move so that GOP stalwarts anywhere else, are still bitter about Watergate-feeing either dismayed that Richard Nixon was hounded out of office or betrayed that Republicans could have done such things.

The vanquished candidate has another view. Robert Gable recognizes the same concrete problem-lack of money but he does not see apathy, Watergate or himself as the problem behind the problem.

He sees it as the current campaign finance reporting laws which, according to Gable, take away an individual's right to donate anonymously to the candidate or the party of his choice.

So why didn't that law hurt Julian Carroll's fund raising? Gable claims it is because of the power of the incumbency and of being the majority party.

There is another analysis of this available, although Gable doesn't subscribe to it. That is, these people who would like to have given but didn't simply didn't want to be tagged with backing a loser.

While none of the three-Gable, Van Hoose or DeMarcus-let Carroll's record margin of victory had killed off the Republican Party in Kentucky, Clyde Middleton was particularly optimistic.

Middleton, the Republican state senator who less than four months ago took over as state GOP chairman, thinks the party is no worse off now than it was in May.

Remembering the conventional wisdom after the May primaries, Middleton reflected that no one gave Gable any kind of a chance then.

If Gable made no gains for the party, he made no losses either, in Middleton's view. Middleton also remembered the Republican comeback after the traumas of 1959 and 1964.

But there is more than a little speculation this time that Carroll may have hit the GOP too hard for them to recover. Carroll won every district in the state, for the first time was the state's political history, and that included a solid victory in the Fifth District, also for the first time ever. His astonishing margin should be enough to give even the most optimistic of republicans pause to seriously wonder about the future in Kentucky.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Editor,

We would like to point out that in last Tuesday's General Election, there were several votes cast for write-in candidates for Mt. Vernon City Council.

After the votes were counted Tuesday night it was discovered that these votes had not been entered on the tally sheets or counted in the election results.

We assume that this was an unintentional oversight on the part of the election officers in the Mt. Vernon precincts and we realize that the election has already been certified by County court Clerk Clifford Bales; but, we do feel that the fact that there were write-in votes cast in the city council race should be recognized.

While realizing that the write-in votes would have made no difference in the final outcome of the city council race, mainly because it was not an organized attempt, this should serve as a reminder to election officers across the county to check for this type of vote in future general elections.

Mrs. Jeannie Mullins Mrs. Norma Lyons Sister Sara K. Fredlock *****

Dear Editor,

The day I was taken out of the County Jail, I was out of my head, I did not know what I said or where I was.

I am sober and on this no medicine or whiskey at this time and would like to say that I did and said a lot of things that day that were not right. Always before, I have pulled my time in jail or hospital without any trouble. As far as my knowledge of that day and what I heard I said and done, I don't know anything about it.

If I had whiskey that day, I do not know where it came from. Nobody at the jail gave me the whiskey.

About the statement I signed in front of a notary public, I had just come out of the drug and alcoholic place and just barely remember signing it. I am still in the hospital.

Farris Lewis Cameron *****

Dear Editor,

And the fellow residents of Rockcastle County, We hereby address this letter concerning your jail here in Mt. Vernon, and the great effort and courtesy of our jailers in running the jail.

The main view of this article is that some think our visits should be cut down. Other surrounding jails have not this rule.

We request that our inmate privileges should not be narrowed down. Visits are too helpful in our position for them to be cut down.

Robin Walker, James Couch, Donald Davis

Dear Editor,

In answer to Miss Cameron's letter, she says she wants chairs in the jail and that's absolutely dangerous and I won't do it. She also said something about taking medicine.

We give medicine according to the doctor's orders and if he does not take it, it's not my fault. Miss Cameron, we have had no trouble until your brother, Farris Cameron, came to the jail. Then trouble started.

The night before he left, he knocked Clevis Anglin down, choking him. One fellow tried to pull him off but couldn't and two of us had to pull him loose from Anglin's throat.

You also said you could get whiskey in the jail any time. Now listen, We feed our prisoners real good. Ask the prisoners if we don't feed them good while they are in jail.

Now, if anyone had any sense, he would know I couldn't afford and wouldn't and don't and never have furnished whiskey to my prisoners. That just doesn't make any sense to me or anyone else.

CURE FOR DESSERT DOLDRUMS

There comes a time in the life of most cooks that calls for a new venture. Today it is most likely to happen in the preparation of desserts. Desserts have to look and taste good or they are skipped altogether by calorie conscious guests. Blackberry Lady Finger Cake, with its nostalgic appearance and delightful combination of flavors looks like a culinary masterpiece from a patisserie, but it is quite easy to prepare at home.

A bread loaf pan is a good shape to use as the lady fingers fit vertically along the sides as well as horizontally across the bottom. The filling, which is made of Royal Blackberry Gelatin, crushed pineapple, ice cream and chopped pecans, is a pleasing complement to the ladyfingers.

The finished dessert doesn't need garnish, but a few strips of whipped cream will add a touch of elegance. Ice tea with lemon and plain milk are appropriate accompaniments.

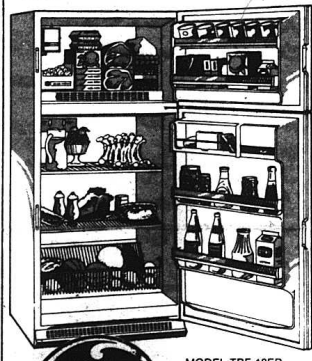

During warm weather it's a good idea to make refrigerator desserts such as this a day before you plan to serve. This gives them a chance to get firmly set which facilitates slicing and serving. Lining the pan with waxed paper makes the cake easy to unmold.

Disolve gelatin in boiling water. Add cold water and

Old Southern Bank
Logan County

Standing at the southwest corner of Sixth and Main streets in Russellville is this two-story brick structure which was at one time the largest bank in Kentucky.

In 1810, William Harrison purchased the lot from Presly Edwards and erected this handsome residence. The doorway which abuts on the sidewalk has an elaborately carved frame.

George W. Norton acquired the property in 1837 and used a part of it as his residence. The Southern Bank of Kentucky was chartered in 1839, with Norton as its first president.

Russellville was at one time the third largest city in Kentucky and this was the largest bank. In 1863, the bank was liquidated by Kentucky statute and became the Nimrod Loan and Company Bank.

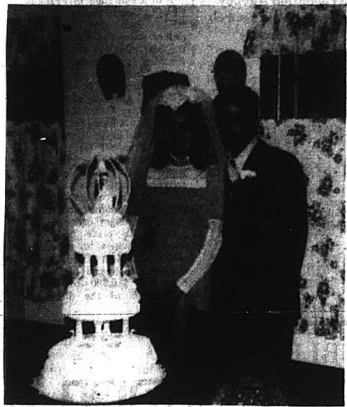

In 1868, Jesse James and a group of five companions arrived in town posing as a group of cattle buyers. On the afternoon of March 20, they shocked the townspeople by robbing the bank of $9,000 and wounding its president before fleeing into Tennessee. One of the bank robbers, George Shepherd, was later captured and sentenced to three years' imprisonment.

The story is told by C. G. Morehead of Owenboro that Jesse's father had received a loan from this very bank which had enabled him to attend Georgetown College to become a Baptist minister.

The James boys continued an infamous life of crime. They are reported to have robbed many times, including the Deposit Bank at Columbia (killing the cashier, R. C. Martin) and the Mammoth Cave stagecoach near Cave City. Jesse James was shot in the back and killed by Robert Ford, a member of his gang, at St. Joseph, Missouri, in April 1882. Frank James was later pardoned and was elected state auditor of Missouri (1907-1911).

The old Southern Bank Building is now used as the Logan County Public Library.

HE LOVES YOU
By Helen Steiner Rice

It's amazing and incredible. But it's as true as it can be. God loves and understands us all And that means you and me.

CARD OF THANKS

We would like to take this opportunity to express our sincere appreciation to everyone who was so kind to us at the time of the death of our father, James Faulkner.

A special thanks to Dowell and Martin Funeral Home and to those who brought food and sent flowers.

The Faulkner Family

His grace is all sufficient. For both the young and the old. For the lonely and the timid. For the brash and for the bold. His love knows no exceptions. So never feel excluded.

No matter who or what you are. Your name has been included. And no matter what your problems is. Just place it in his hand. And no matter what you past has been. Trust God to understand. For in all of our loneliness. This Great God loves us still. He loved us since the world began.

And what's more, he always will!

CHILD ABUSE AND WHAT YOU CAN DO ABOUT IT

Have you ever seen a mother alternately slapping, and then trying to comfort, her one-year old baby? A father whipping his child for no reason? Child abuse is far more commonplace than most people care to admit. Until recently, it had been considered the rare act of a deprived parent yet the U.S. Children's Bureau reports more than 75,000 cases a year. A New York pediatrician says that over the next several years, thousands of children will die and 300,000 will be permanently injured by abuse. Abuse can be Perhaps it's a sign of the times—or a sign of the times—a quick bit it seems there are too many unnecessary problems in our lives today. A case in point is the farmer who wants to welcome visitors to his farm—hunters, fishermen, campers—but finds visitors adding to his daily burden of unavoidable farming problems. Thus creating unnecessary aggravation in his life.

And for the most part, such a farmer is typical. Most have no objections to visitors hunting, fishing, camping, hiking or nature "watching" on their land. That is, they have no objections to those who conduct themselves in a proper and courteous manner while they use the country's open spaces. However, when the visitors add problems to the farmers, already large list of day-to-day troubles—rain that falls too much or not at all; weeding too fast in the wrong places; crops that must all be harvested at the same time; livestock that must be cared for, etc. the unnecessary problem is almost more than he can cope with.

When this happens the farmer often feels the solution is to post the land as trespassers. This is a solution that most farmers resist, but it is being resorted to at an alarming rate. The trend can only be reversed in one way: if outdoor minded individuals are to continue to enjoy the privilege of entering the land of another to enjoy their favorite sports, then each and every one must realize that they have certain responsibilities to the landowner and they must fulfill them.

The visitor must respect not only the farmer's property, but the farmer's work as well. It simply isn't fair that one should spend his precious time chasing down a hunter or fisherman who has parked his car or truck in the middle of a farm road or blocked a gate so that the farmer cannot go about his business.

And a gate that has been left open can mean more than lost time to a farmer. Livestock can wander onto an open highway or into a field where crops can be damaged, or they can scatter over the entire farm or onto the farm of another person.

Too many farmers have left hunters onto their land only to find fences were cut to allow hunting dogs complete freedom during the chase or to make a shortcut for campers or trucks. And one farmer I know narrowly escaped losing a barn from fire when he found deer hunters had camped there and, ignoring the fact that it was full of hay, had smoked and thrown the cigarette butts and matches on the floor.

Farm pond banks and stream banks are often littered with cans, bottles and other debris which can, and sometimes do, injure livestock or damage farm machinery tires. Even domestic ducks and geese that some farmers set so much store by, have been known to die from eating the fat left in discarded fish hooks. So if an outdoorsman litters his land, the farmer is lucky if he loses only the time it takes to clean up the mess.

These are but a few of the problems many farmers face when they open their land to visitors. Most outdoorsmen are not the slob we've talked about here, but the farmer must protect himself and his property against the few who are and the gentleman outdoorsman suffers in the process.

We can help the farmer and ourselves by understanding what he's up against. We can pick up litter others have left behind, take care that our own behavior is beyond reproach and we get on our soap boxes and "preach" good manners and good sportsmanship.

If we want to get those "posted" signs down, we really don't have a choice, do we?

SCHOOL BUSING TO PRIVATE ORGANIZATIONS—In a two-part opinion issued to attorney John G. Prather of Somerset, Assistant Attorney General Robert L. Chenoweth said that children who qualify could be authorized to ride school buses to private organizations, provided this transportation represents no extra outlay of school funds. To qualify, the children would have to live outside a reasonable walking distance of the school.

The two questions involved transporting children from an elementary school to a child care center on the bus's regular route and from a middle school to scout meetings at the high school. In the case of the elementary children, Chenoweth said that a written permit authorizing children to ride to the child care center should be given to the bus driver.

Regarding a question of liability toward the middle school children, the assistant attorney general noted that liability and indemnity insurance coverage should be checked to ascertain whether it includes these circumstances.

Reclamation Agency Moves Against Laurel Coal Company

A Laurel County coal firm was recently issued a penalty of $3,000 by Judge Squire Williams of Frankfort Circuit Court for strip-mining without a permit.

B & H Coal Co. was charged with strip-mining without a permit about seven miles from East Bernstad on Twin Branch Road. The company was given the maximum civil penalty of $1,000 a day for three days the strip-mining violation occurred.

As a result of an administrative hearing on noncompliance charge held in late May, John S. Hoffman, secretary of the Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection ordered B & H Coal Co. to stop strip-mining and to reclaim the affected area.

In a suit filed in Franklin Circuit Court in September, NREP said that Hoffman's orders were not followed and the coal company had made a situation that constituted a great, immediate and irreparable threat to the state.

In a previous judgement, Judge Henry Meigs of Franklin Circuit Court found that B & H Coal Co. had never attempted to secure a permit for the area being strip-mined. He also found that the company's activities violated statutory law and that the company hadn't satisfied the order of the NREP. Judge Meigs ordered the company to cease its strip-mining activities, to submit a reclamation plan to the division of reclamation and to post a bond for $10,000 to assure reclamation of the disturbed area.

price for mausoleums located in perpetually care cemeteries must be placed in an irrevocable trust fund for maintenance.

Citing the possible argument that the maintenance of a mausoleum could present a different problem from that of ordinary grave maintenance, the assistant deputy attorney general said that those finding this application of the current statute to be unfair would have to see a legislative amendment dealing more explicitly with the treatment of mausoleums.

Opinions From The Office of the Attorney General

SCHOOL BUSES CAN BE USED IN RELEASED

SCHOOL TIME-In an opinion issued to Jessamine County School Superintendent Hugh C. Adams, Jr., Assistant Attorney General Robert Cheneweth said that school buses could be rented or leased to transport children participating in a moral instruction program from the school campus to a classroom building off campus during released school time, providing certain stipulations are met.

In citing the stipulations, the assistant attorney general referred to previous opinions which noted that such use of school buses could not take place when buses might need to be available for school use. As well as compensating the school board for the use of the buses, the group using the buses must carry sufficient liability and collision insurance to cover the buses and to cover all persons who might reasonably be held responsible, including the members of the local board of education.

MAUSOLEUMS FULFILL REQUIREMENTS FOR PERPETUAL CARE-Assistant Deputy Attorney General Charles W. Runyan, replying to a request by Dean O'Leary, attorney for the Department of Banking and Securities in Frankfort, stated the opinion that mausoleums seem to fall under the classification of "lot or grave space" and that, therefore, at least 20 per cent of the selling

There is Need For Family Care Homes

How would you like to "adopt" an older person into your family?

Keeping the elderly in their own communities, and out of institutions, is one of the goals of the Kentucky Department for Human Resources (DHR). The Department is looking for families who can participate in making the goal a reality.

Family personal care can mean some income for the operator of a home, and need assistance for senior citizens who might otherwise be forced to move into nursing homes.

Under DHR rules, a family care home can serve one, two or three individuals who are not related to the home's operator. The residents cannot be bedfast or require nursing care. They may, though, need some assistance in their daily lives—the same kind of help many adults give to their aging parents. This usually means such services as preparing meals, taking care of errands or transporting residents to needed services.

DHR social workers visit family care homes regularly and are available to assist both operators and residents if problems arise. If it appears that a resident requires more care than the operator can provide, DHR staff members will help that person to find more appropriate living arrangements.

Anyone interested in obtaining additional information on family care homes may contact DHR's Bureau for Social Services at Bowling Building on U.S. 150, or phone 256-4323.

REAL ESTATE TRANSFER TAX APPLIES IN DIVORCE

A real estate transfer tax would apply in the instance of property transfers involved in divorce judgments, according to an opinion issued by Assistant Attorney General William S. Riley.

The opinion, in response to a request for Oldham County attorney James W. Pike, was based on the assumption that such transfer of property was held jointly by husband and wife without survivorship.

The tax, Riley said, should be assessed on one-half of the real estate's fair market value.

FIGHTING UNEMPLOYMENT AND INFLATION

The next time you pass a group of workers at a construction site, take note that these are members of many trades working toward a common goal. Iron workers, plumbers, electricians, all are making use of their particular skills to build an office, plant, school, apartment building or store that will in turn provide jobs and fill a community's need.

In the past year, this has become a rare scene in many areas, as the construction industry has been one of the hardest hit by the recession.

While residential construction is showing signs of recovery, commercial construction remains weak. And the promise of recovery for the industry has clouds ahead. Before the United States Senate are bills—one already passed by the House of Representatives—that may hinder the comeback of the construction industry and add to the nation's inflation and unemployment woes at the same time. They are called "common site" if employees belong to any union, since one union can shut down a plant even if employees belong to another union. But the critical difference is that the manufacturer is a single employer with complete control over his labor relations policies. A construction site, however, involves many independent subcontractors and many different crafts. A plumbing contractor, for example, has no power whatever to resolve a dispute between the electricians and the electrical subcontractor. Yet if common site picketing becomes law, he could not prevent his employees from striking if the electricians called a strike.

The building trade unions already have the same leverage as other unions in that they have the right to strike against their employer and to shut down the operations of that employer at a construction site.

Industry observers feel the Senate should recognize the economic havoc that common site picketing would wreak on construction—driving even higher the cost for schools, stores, manufacturing facilities and housing—at a time when we are just beginning to recover from a recession.

How can you be more sure you're getting the most for your money when you shop? It's an indication that the meat and fish are also first rate. If a store shows sufficient concern for its customers to accept their credit cards, it probably watches out for the customers in other ways, too.

Most quality retailers see the credit card much as they do their heating, rest rooms and lighting, as a customer service that's part of doing business.

In fact, many merchants accept credit cards because their customers demand that they do. People carry credit cards because they provide written records of all purchases and because they provide great financial flexibility. They are also a safe, secure way of carrying a lot of money. Basically, the kind of stores that cater to customers this way are the ones to take your custom to.

Pocket Problems Solved
Pockets are convenient resting places for pens and pencils, tools and instruments, assorted paraphernalia and hand dirtied by everything from crank cases to toilet sprays! Cause things that leave their grimy mark in these wonderfully convenient catchalls. Pockets just seem to know how to attract tough soil and stains!

To deal with pocket grime, follow this simple guide:
Before washing garments, make sure any pockets have been emptied. Certain common pocket residue can turn into difficult stains if allowed to go through the wash cycle.
Pre-treat noticeably dirty areas with Spray 'n Wash laundry soil and stain remover. Just spray it directly on grubby areas of pockets (any other extra dirty parts of the garment, too) and wait 60 seconds. Then add pocketed items to rest of laundry and wash as usual.

Whenever possible, turn pockets inside out so that the most used surfaces get maximum exposure to cleaning efforts.
With a little laundering know-how, your pockets and clothes can keep looking neat, clean and attractive... so you can feel good wearing them.

When you think of pests, think of me.

I can get the termites out of your house. And the ants, cockroaches, spiders or mice. And keep them out. I can get any pest out of your house (except maybe your in-laws).

Lambert Thanks Voters of Rockcastle County

I deeply appreciate the generous support given me by my friends in Rockcastle County in my race for Clerk of the Kentucky Court of Appeals. Though I, and the Statewide Republican ticket, suffered a defeat, it was very encouraging to me to have received such a large majority in Rockcastle County.

I am grateful to Republicans and Democrats alike for your confidence and will always remember the kindness you showed.

Very Truly Yours,

Joseph E. Lambert
