Down on the Farm

By: Roy G. Brown
 Assistant Vice President
 Copherland P.C.A.

On Thursday of this week, all red-blooded Americans will observe Thanksgiving Day. It all began with the early settlers at Plymouth Colony in December, 1621. After victories over the Indians and harvesting an abundant crop, they took time out to give thanks and to feast on wild turkey, fruits and vegetables.

Since then, different days have been celebrated until in 1941, Congress by a Joint Resolution approved by the President, set the fourth Thursday in November as Thanksgiving Day.

I wonder how many really know and appreciate the true meaning and give thanks to God for a bountiful harvest of food we in America enjoy.

I wonder how many in America really know in planning, investment, labor, sweat, and risk besides not knowing the market price will pay for the cost of production with maybe nothing for our labor.

There are many perhaps who believe food comes from the supermarket and they can just keep the shelves and freezers restocked any time they run out. Those consumers are most in government, especially George Meany, labor leader, think the farmer ought to furnish cheap food at below cost of the world.

On Thanksgiving Day, as we sit down to a table filled with bountiful food of turkey with all trimmings, vegetables, fruits and pumpkin pie, let us not forget to give thanks to the One who makes it all possible, God in Heaven.

We at PCA wish everyone a thankful Thanksgiving not only Thanksgiving Day but everyday in the year.

The Kidney Foundation of Central Kentucky has provided four kidney machines to the home dialysis unit to be used by patients who may not be able to acquire their own machine. The Foundation has helped to purchase a perfusion machine which will preserve a kidney for 24 hours before transplantation. In an effort to provide better professional care for those suffering from kidney disease, the Kidney Foundation is financing a fellowship in pediatric nephrology at the UK Medical Center.

A portion of the proceeds from the candy sale goes to support research to find the cause and prevention of kidney diseases. A large percentage of the profits from this year's candy sale will be directed to patient services, which provides medications for those who cannot obtain them through other sources, transportation to dialysis and transplant clinics, and other emergency needs.

COFFEE Facts & Figures

THE STORY OF COFFEE

The origins of coffee are lost in time, but experts say the coffee tree is native to Ethiopia.

Legend adds that mountain shepherds from the ancient Ethiopian kingdom of Kaffa discovered the exhilarating effects of the coffee bean about 600 A.D. But whether this is true or not, Arab traders had learned to boil the bean in water by the mid-1500's.

The beverage was introduced by the Arabs to Turkey and from there made its way to Europe in the seventeenth century. Since then the cultivation of coffee has spread to many lands, and it has become a welcome part of the daily diet for millions throughout the world.

In the United States, where it is a particular favorite, coffee is produced with modern technology in a variety of forms - ground and instant, regular or decaffeinated - and in a number of blends to satisfy different tastes.

There have been many improvements in the art of making coffee, and a greater selection is now available to the coffee-drinking public. Nonetheless, the price of coffee remains surprisingly low. The National Coffee Association reports that a cup of coffee served in the home costs only about 3 cents.

In these inflationary times, it could explain why coffee continues to rank as this nation's favorite beverage.

ALL AMERICAN DESSERTS

If Americans were asked to pick their favorite course at dinner, dessert would probably win first place—especially if the children could vote.

The early American settlers also loved desserts and devised some interesting concoctions reflecting their various ethnic backgrounds and existing conditions in the New World.

Strawberries grew wild in American soil and the first batch of the season frequently was used to make strawberry shortcake, the most classic of American desserts. Our ancestors would spoon them, crushed and sugared, onto warm biscuits that had been broken open, buttered and closed again. Then they would pour thick cream over the shortcake to soak into the biscuit and mingle with the butter and strawberry juice.

Boston cream pie is another traditional American dessert. It is a plain cake in glamorous dress lavished with a rich pudding filling and luscious chocolate frosting. According to legend, this cake that is called a pie originated at Boston's famous Parker House Restaurant.

Shown here are updated versions of these traditional desserts using another All American favorite—Planters Cocktail Peanuts.

Peanut Strawberry Shortcake and Boston Cream Pie with Peanuts are sure to please you and your fellow Americans when served for dessert.

- Combine strawberries and sugar. Let sit 1 hour, stirring once or twice. Stir in 1/2 cup Planters Cocktail Peanuts.
- Lightly spread margarine on each biscuit half. Spoon about 1/4 cup strawberry mixture onto bottom half of each biscuit. Replace tops of biscuits. Top each with about 1/4 cup strawberry mixture. Garnish with whipped cream and chopped Planters Cocktail Peanuts. Makes 4 servings.
- BOSTON CREAM PIE WITH PEANUTS

during the company's start-up period.

"In order to raise the $200,000 escrow money, it will offer to the present stockholders only a special issue of preferred stock at $10 per share, and the money raised from the sale of this stock will be deposited at First and Farmer's National until the plant is ready to open and begin processing livestock," Faulkner said.

"All stock sales to non-members are closed until the $200,000 escrow money is raised and then more stock will be offered to the general public at $15 per share, but without the free kill privileges of the original preferred stock."

"When the doors of the plant open and the processing of cattle and hogs for slaughter begin, the price of stock in the Cooperative will increase to $25 per share," according to Faulkner.

At the present time, the Beef Plant Cooperative has 2,900 members living in 32 South Central Kentucky counties, and $724,000 worth of preferred stock have been issued to these members.

Faulkner pointed out during the meeting that the idea of a Cooperative slaughtering plant is something that is brand new on the American agricultural scene, and the iii operating in Adair County is attracting considerable attention from farm people in Indiana and Florida.

When completed, the plant will be capable of slaughtering 120 beef animals or 240 hogs per eight hour shift.

The iii management foresees this livestock being supplied to the cooperative by its farmer members who operate in 32 south central Kentucky counties.

This area has a total beef population of 371,000 head, and Faulkner believes that the area's farmers can make a greater profit by selling their livestock through the cooperative for slaughter than they would get through selling them at terminal markets or as feeder calves for someone else to finish out for slaughter.

"The production of market animals for slaughter can be a more profitable venture than many beef men realize, and selling through the cooperative will let the farmer participate in the profits which would otherwise go to the various middlemen between the beef man on the farm and the meat retailer," claims Faulkner.

The iii Company has already entered into a tentative contract with Jewell Food Stores, a major grocery chain which operates in the North Central United States for the sale of up to 100 truckloads of beef per week, and the cooperative will also develop its own retail outlets in the cities and towns of the area when the processing of beef and pork at the new plant begins.

One outlet is planned initially for Somerset, with more to be opened in other areas as soon as possible after the plant starts operation.

"The price of market beef and hogs at the cooperative plant will mirror the current terminal market prices in Louisville and Indianapolis, but the member who markets his animals through the cooperative will have no additional marketing charges deducted from the sale price of his cattle, and he will also share in the profits of the venture through dividends to shareholders as well," claims Faulkner.

"Another advantage of selling through the cooperative is that if the carcass grade of the slaughtered animal is higher than the on-hoof grade, the producer will be paid the extra amount," he added.

The iii Cooperative will hold membership meetings in each of the counties where it has members during the coming weeks to explain the plans for opening the plant.

Members will be informed of the location and time of their county meeting by the Cooperative and all members are urged to attend.

Mrs. Mullins said that in Kentucky about 75 percent are waiting for transients. The average wait is nearly a year. Some wait 18 months or more and some won't survive until donor kidneys are available.

Even though progress has been made in treatment of kidney disease, it will be of little value unless people are aware of the part they can play in providing kidneys for those who need them.

The Kidney Foundation helped sponsor a 1974 General Assembly Bill which authorized donor cards to be placed on the back of Kentucky Driver's licenses. If the donor card is signed, it will authorize removal of specified organs for transplantation purposes after death of the donor. It is hoped the information on the licenses will increase public awareness of the need for donors.

Robert D. Kime, Executive Director of the Foundation, expressed thanks to the many volunteers in Rockcastle County for their tremendous support. Thanks to their efforts, continued advances will be made in the treatment and eventual cure of kidney diseases. *****

Many so-called "educational toys" are sold with the vague assertions that they will make your child smarter or quicken his mental development. According to Dr. Jerome Kagan, a noted child psychologist, there is no evidence that toys can make a child smarter or quicken his development. But some may help a child learn skills.

For any questions or complaints about toys and toy safety, call your local area office of the Consumer Product Safety Commission. Look in the phone book under U.S. Government for the listing. You can also call toll-free The Consumer Product Safety Commission. The number is 800-638-2666.

With Christmas just around the corner, many of us are already beginning to buy toys for the festive season. But buying toys can be a big responsibility in that we need to know exactly what dangers may be in them and what the best purchase would be. Each year approximately 700,000 children suffer toy-related injuries.

When shopping for toys, take your time. Try several stores, comparing prices and features. Since 33 per cent of all toys are purchased by children themselves, it is wise to also educate your children in safe, sensible toy buying.

Acquaint your child with deceptive advertising techniques. Explain that T.V. and magazine advertisements can make toys seem larger and better constructed than they really are.

Nor do all the accessories pictured on the screen, in the magazine, or even on the box necessarily come with the toy. The more complex a toy, the more likely it will need repair. Those old standby-blocks, crayons, paper and scissors rarely need repairs and depend on the child's imagination for their entertainment value.

Beef Plant Financing Plan Approved

Stockholders in the ill Beef Plant have approved plans for completion of the Beef Plant through a $420,000 loan and an issue of $200,000 to be put in escrow to insure operating capital.

Stockholders in the ill Beef Plant Cooperative will be attending special county meetings at which Robert Faulkner, Chairman of the Board of Directors, will be outlining plans for the opening of the Plant.

"The completion of the plant has been delayed because inflation in the building industry made the construction costs more than we had originally planned, and the tight money policy on credit has delayed us in financing the completion of building," Faulkner says. "But economic conditions have stabilized now, and if all goes well, the plant should be in operation in a few months," he claims.

According to Faulkner, the ill Beef Plant is now about 85% completed and the finished facility will be worth $2.5 million dollars. The estimated cost of completing the building is $420,000 and a first mortgage has been secured for that amount from the First and Farmer's National Bank in Somerset, Kentucky.

"This is a five-year loan with a ten percent interest rate, and payments do not start until the plant has been in operation for 90 days," Faulkner explains. This $420,000 loan will be completed when the ill Beef Plant Cooperative deposits $200,000 in escrow funds at First and Farmer's National Bank which will be earmarked for use as operating expenses.

Five Ohio Juveniles Hold in Robbery

Five Ohio juveniles were apprehended last Wednesday night after an alleged robbery attempt at the D.L. Bullock General Store on Highway 70.

According to Mr. Bullock, owner and operator of the store, a male youth came into the store and bought a package of cigarettes about 8 p.m. He then left and some 15 or 20 minutes later, two more male youths came into the store with stockings over their heads, carrying a shotgun. They reportedly told Mr. Bullock to put his money in a sack whereupon, Mr. Bullock, thinking they were local youths pulling a prank, told them to give him the gun.

Mr. Bullock told Sheriff Manuel Shepherd that the gun then discharged and several pellets struck the concrete floor, ricocheted off and struck him (Mr. Bullock) in the legs. The youths panicked, fled to a waiting car and took on Highway 70, heading for its junction with 150. Billy Lawrence, a resident of the area, pulled up at the store only moments afterwards and Mr. Bullock told him what had happened. He gave chase and followed the youths onto Highway 150 where they turned toward Mt. Vernon. While pursuing them on this road, both cars passed State Trooper Greg Eanis, who recognized the Lawrence car and began chasing the youth's car. He followed them until they pulled into a service station at Renfro Valley where he took the four boys and one girl into custody. Mr. Lawrence left the chase when he was pulled over at the French Residence to go back and get him, not realizing that the State Trooper was already in pursuit of the youths car.

All five youths are now awaiting a juvenile hearing.

Opp Bussell, Jr. Completes Work On Life of Late Bert Mullins

Opp Bussell, Jr. of Mt. Vernon, a Supervisor in the Anderson County School System, has followed up his work "The Boonesway Men," a story on the life and accomplishments of Col. James Maret, with a story of Rockcastle Countian Bert Mullins, a nationally known artist.

Mr. Bussell's booklet, entitled "The Mountain Artist," will go on sale Friday, November 29th in Mt. northeast of Mt. Vernon.

Berton Rueben Mullins was born near Wood Betony on April 29, 1901, the son of William Green Mullins, a mountain farmer-merchant and his wife, Eliza L. Before he was old enough to attend the local one-room school, the young boy was drawing figures and horses.

Money did not come easy for him and he worked as an agent selling subscriptions to the Home Comfort Magazine which offered paints as a bonus. For his first canvases, he used sugar sacks, those that could not be used as towels and washcloths.

Young Mullins, aside from his artistic talent, was skilled with carpenter tools, and he made his first money by making and selling a chair. With this first earnings, he traveled 10 miles to Berea and brought some blank paper from the local

FRANKFORT WATCHLINE

Somehow, it's just not going to be the same at the lieutenant governor's mansion. Raymond Stovall will soon be in the unique position of being the husband of the lieutenant governor of Kentucky. It would be difficult, at best, to picture Raymond Stovall holding coffees and afternoon teas in the traditional style of the spouses of lieutenant governors of the past. It would, in fact, be laughable. Both Raymond and Thelma Stovall have roots imbedded in the working class, where there has never been time for such frivolity as morning coffees. When they married, both were employed at the Brown and Williamson Tobacco Co. in Louisville. Thelma as a floor sweeper who had to borrow a cousin's birth certificate to get on, and Raymond in the stockroom, from which he has finally retired. It was from that vantage point that Raymond watched his wife rise from secretary of the local tobacco workers union to lieutenant governor-elect in a little more than 30 years, a rise that was all but a comedy of accidents for the first half of those years and coldly calculated thereafter. From the first, Raymond Stovall never encouraged his wife to run for public office. His advice to her was, in fact, to the contrary. Yet, by their own recounting now, he never really pressed the issue. Thelma Stovall remembers coming to Frankfort that first time, after winning a race for legislature in Jefferson County, she says she never would have entered had she thought she could win. Raymond drove her to the old Capitol Hotel where all the legislators stayed in those days and helped her with her luggage into the lobby. She panicked and pleaded with him not to leave her there alone when she saw "that bunch of old men" in the lobby. But she had made her decision when she got into the race, as Raymond reminded her, and besides, he had to be back at the factory the next morning. Six years later, Raymond was at home watching the news, as surprised to hear what he heard as Thelma had been a few hours before. She had been approached to run for secretary of state in 1955 but both she and Raymond had decided against it. Then she was approached again and said that she would talk it over again with Raymond. It was December of 1954 and former governor and again candidate Happy Chandler was addressing an AFL-CIO banquet. Chandler called her to the podium, for what Thelma thought was to thank her for guiding him around Louisville all day. "I'd like to be the first to introduce you to the next secretary of state," Chandler said, his arm around Thelma Stovall's shoulder. She got home late that night and had to wake Raymond up to say, "Raymond, there's something I have to tell you." "You don't have to," Raymond said. "I already heard it on the news."

And he rolled back over, because Raymond Stovall had to go to work the next morning and working men need their sleep. The decisions since then have all been Thelma's and Raymond's. Nothing much surprises Raymond Stovall anymore, and there is no awe for him in moving into the big house on High Street. The night after the election this year, Raymond was drinking coffee in the kitchen of their house while Thelma was washing kale between phone calls. "I didn't get done till 2 a.m., but I guess I ought to be grateful so many people care," Thelma Stovall said.

Mr. Hale, you have just been bested. Leonard Bullock of Gem Sulphur brought us a turnip that weighed two pounds, nine and one-fourth ounces, is 6 inches across and 19 3/8 inches around. Maybe we ought to have a turnip-growing contest in the county since Somerset always has good luck with their biggest sunflower contest each year. The only problem with these turnips is who is going to eat them, I don't especially like them.

EDDIE HAMMOND MEMBER OF KY. CHRISTIAN BASKETBALL SQUAD

Eddie Hammond, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack E. Hammond of Livingston, Ky. has earned a spot on the basketball squad of Kentucky Christian College in Grayson, Ky. The 6'3", 165 lb. freshman is a 1975 graduate of Rockcastle County High School where he lettered in basketball two years. Eddie's attitude and ability will provide both depth and leadership to the Knight squad in the years to come.

Kentucky Christian opened up on November 13 and 14 with their own Invitational Tournament and went on to capture the first place trophy. Other games on their schedule for the 1975-76 season include Campbellville College Christmas Tournament, as well as the road trip south into Georgia, North Carolina and Tennessee. The Knights will travel north to the Lincoln Christian College Invitational in Lincoln, Illinois. Kee Coach Bob Baird believes this schedule will amply prepare the Knights for the NCCAA District Tournament which is to be held in Knoxville, Tennessee this year.

In Memory of Mattie A. (Whitaker) Cromer Who Passed Away November 29, 1964.

"THE MOUNTAIN ARTIST" (Cont. From Front Page) newspaper. Here, he also assembled his set of oil paints. As a young man, he attended Berea Foundation School, taking courses in woodworking, architecture and art under a Miss Cough, and in addition, spent three months studying under the noted artist, Richard Miller, in Provincetown, Massachusetts.

sets. After a stint of work in Cincinnati and St. Petersburg, Florida, he returned to Kentucky and married his childhood sweetheart Eva R. Ison on June 12, 1925.

Mullins opened a studio in Berea and his work began to attract art critics. Genius had touched his canvas and commissions came to him unsolicited. In 1938, he did his first historical mural, the first of many others that hang in the post offices, schools and other public buildings throughout Kentucky, and in other states. For Col. E.R. Bradley, the noted horseman near Lexington, he did a splendid likeness of his favorite stallion, Bimelech, which was greatly admired by all horsemen. He did commercial art for many business houses and concerns; he excelled as a portraitist and did paintings of people in all walks of life, friends and strangers alike.

Bert and his wife Eva lived in the mountain home on which he had labored off and on for 14 years, built of native limestone with an unfinished studio lying north of the living room. Bert Mullins died on February 22, 1963, at his sister's home at Roundstone in Rockcastle County and was buried in the Scaffold Cane Cemetery attended by a large following of friends and relatives. The author of The Mountain Artist has collected for the first time in print a list of 60 of his portraits, mostly in Kentucky, but others in Massachusetts, Ohio, New York and New Hampshire. Fourteen of his murals are located and identified, twelve religious murals are included, together with 19 general murals, the last of which was "Early Education in Kentucky," which hangs in the Jessamine County High School near Nicholasville.

Opp Bussell, Jr. touches the elements of the environment which helped to mold the life and character of Bert Mullins who today occupies a prominent place in Kentucky mural and portrait painting. The Mountain Artist is a fine contribution to our knowledge of the state's portrait painters as well as a vital chapter in the general history of Kentucky. This work, modestly priced at $3.00 plus 25c postage, can be obtained from the author at P.O. Box 202, Mt. Vernon, Kentucky 40456. It should prove a valuable addition to any Kentuckiana library and especially to those who love the art history of their state.

We can't say for certain who took the above shot, although we think it was a Rocket but No. 22, Jeff Halomb, No. 11, Billy Hackworth and No. 20, John Nugent, stand ready to go for a rebound if necessary. Hackworth scored 4 points in the game for the Rockets. Don't forget to turn out for what should be an exciting Thanksgiving Tournament this week end. (Photo by Rick Anderkin)

No. 41, Wendell Parrett, for Annville tries to block a shot on Rockets' center, Garlan Vanhook, No. 52, but was unsuccessful as they were several other times with the big center who scored 34 points in the game to lead all scorers. Billy Hackworth, No. 11, and Bill Henderson, No. 24, are both in on the action for the Rockets along with No. 33, Jeff Parrett, No. 45, Tony Parrett and No. 15, Gary Lakes for Annville. Rockets Defeat Annville 74-58; Tourney is this Week-End

By Rick Anderkin

The Rockcastle Rockets took the floor last Friday night for the second time this season but, unlike the first game, came out on top by defeating Annville, 74-58.

The Rockets, behind the fine shooting of center Garlan

Vanhook, who scored 34 points in the game, and the rebounding of Bill Belcher, another senior, were in command after the first few minutes of the game. The Rockets, who played poorly in their opening game, looked better Friday night and showed much promise for the season. Annville, a team who had already defeated Jackson by a good margin this season, has an excellent player in the form of guard Gary Lakes, who scored 26 points against Jackson and 28 against the Rockets. Although Annville was never a great threat to beat the Rockets, they did cause the Rockets several turnovers. The Rockets kept the same starting line-up as last week, however, Coach Riddle substituted freely.

Other players scoring for the Rockets were: Bill Henderson, 14; Belcher, 10; John Nugent, 8; Billy Hackworth, 4 and Jeff Burdette and David Noe, 2 each.

The Rockets Thanksgiving Tournament will be this Friday and Saturday night and will begin Friday night with Model and Williamsburg taking the floor at 7 p.m. Rockcastle and Everts will meet each other for the second game. On Saturday night, the consolation game will begin at 7 p.m. and the championship game will follow.

B-TEAM WINS
The Rockets B Team, which is now 2-0 on the season, defeated Annville 47-17. Starting players for the Rockets, four of whom play on the A Team, are: Larry Harmon, Frankie Durham, David Owens, Billy Hackworth and Tim Arvin.

The Rockets' starting players only played half the game with Coach Charles Norris also substituting freely the second half.

The Rockets B Team is now idle for a week due to the Thanksgiving Tourney.

FRESHMEN WIN

Eddie Thompson was high point man for the rockets' Freshman Team as they defeated Corbin Monday night, 47-32. Thompson, who scored 21 points, also pulled down 9 rebounds for the Rockets.

Other players scoring for the Rockets included: Steve Centers, 10; Jack Farthing, 7; David Pensol, 8 and Warren Cash, 1. Also seeing action in the game was Robert Owens, Jeff Hammonds, Bill Anderson, James Griffin, Frank Phillips, John Masters and Jesse Potter.

The Rockets' Girls Team went down to defeat by the Corbin Girls Team in a game following the freshman game.

OTHER GAMES

Following the Thanksgiving Tourney, scheduled for this week-end, the Girls and Freshmen will play Model at home on December 1 and on December 2, the Varsity and B-Team will journey to McCreary County for a game.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Dear Editor,

I was born and raised in Rockcastle County. I left in 1955 and came to the state of Michigan. I've known L.L. Anglin since 1948. I find it hard to believe that all the things are true, that people are saying about Mr. Anglin. Although I've never been locked up in jail, I do feel that the job of jailor is too much for Mr. Anglin, because of his age. I hope that he doesn't feel hurt by my letter.

I receive your Signal every week, and enjoy it very much. Just keep the Signal coming.
