Kentucky Afield

As promised last week, here's a rundown on the rest of Kentucky's 15 major lakes.

Huckhorn Lake: Eastern Kentucky. 1,200 surface acres, 65 miles of shoreline, 21 miles long. One of the best bass lakes.

Also: crappie, bluegill and catfish. Created in 1960 by the Corps with the impounding of the Middle Fork of Kentucky River.

Rough River Lake: West central Kentucky. 1,830 surface acres of water, some 220 miles of shoreline, 35 miles long. Good lake for bass, crappie and white bass, especially in spring. Also, one of the largest populations of walleye, ranging up to 28 inches in size, and title walleye fishing pressure. Created in 1961 with the impounding of Rough River by the Corps.

Nolin Lake: West central Kentucky. 5,995 surface acres, 172 miles of shoreline, 39 miles long. Noted as good producer of bass, crappie and bluegill and white bass in spring. Created in 1963 by a Corps dam on Nolin River.

Harren River Lake: Southcentral Kentucky, 10,050 surface acres, 140 miles of shoreline, 33 miles long. One of the best for largemouth bass and crappie, also good for bluegill, white bass and some walleye. Rockfish stocked 1974-75. Created 1964 by Corps dam on Harren River.

Barkley Lake: West Kentucky, 57,920 surface acres, with 45,600 in Kentucky and the remainder in Tennessee. 1,004 miles of shoreline, extending 118 miles from the dam on the lower Cumberland River. Fisheries similar to Kentucky Lake to which it is connected by a canal with good bass, crappie, bluegill and white bass. Rather shallow.

with a great deal of structure. Fair numbers of rockfish and catfish taken below the dam. Created in 1966 by the Corps.

Grayson Lake: Eastern Kentucky, 1,500 surface acres, shoreline of 60 miles, 22 miles long. Good population of largemouth black bass, crappie and bluegill. A scenic mountain lake with interesting bank structure. Musky and walleye have been stocked but the harvest so far is spotty. Created in 1968 by the Corps impoundment of the Little Sandy River.

Fairbairn Lake: Eastern Kentucky, 1,131 surface acres; shoreline, 43 miles; 16.5 miles long. White bass, crappie and largemouth bass. A Corps project, created in 1968 with impoundment of the Big Sandy River.

Green River Lake: Southeastern Kentucky, 8,360 surface acres, 147 miles of shoreline, length, 25 miles. Consistent producer, especially for black bass, crappie and bluegill. Created 1969 by Corps dam on Green River.

Cave Run Lake: Eastern Kentucky, 8,270 surface acres, 166 miles of shoreline, 48 miles long. Rapidly developing population of black bass, bluegill, crappie and catfish and best bet for musky. Created in 1973 when Licking River was impounded by the Corps.

Located immediately below the dam is the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources new Minor Clark Hatchery.

Laurel River Lake: Eastern Kentucky, 5,600 surface acres; shoreline, approximately 200 miles, length, 19.2 miles. Rapidly growing population of largemouth and smallmouth bass, crappie, walleye and rainbow trout. The deepest lake in the state, and one of the more scenic ones. Laurel was created in 1973 by the Corps with the dam on Laurel River.

PLANT SPRING TREE PLANTING NOW

The winter season has traditionally been a time when farmers plan their crops and farming operations for the coming year. Snowy days are a good time for planning how each field will be used to get the best use from each acre. Unfortunately, many people often overlook a part of their land when doing this planning. The area overlooked is idle or abandoned fields or land which is too steep to cultivate. Taxes must be paid on this type of land as well as on bottomland curtils and this "forgotten" land can be valuable. A good use for this land is timber production.

The farm woodland can be an extra source of income for farm families if properly managed. Any old fields which are not now in production can become a very productive part of the farm woodland when the wise farmer plants these areas in trees. The increase in land value and the future income to be obtained will more than pay for the cost and effort of planting trees.

In general, one thousand seedlings will plant an acre of idle ground. This is a 6 feet by 7 feet spacing. Professional Foresters are available to give free advice on suitable species for your site and to give instructions in planting of seedlings and care of growing trees. This assistance in working out a general management plan for the entire farm woodland can be obtained by contacting the Division of Forestry at Pineville, phone 337-3011.

COUNTY STUDENTS NAMED TO DEAN'S LIST

Eleven Rockcastle County students have been named to the Sue Bennett College Dean's List for the Fall Semester.

To be eligible for the Dean's List, a student must be a full-time student and must have a 3.5 or above grade point average.

Students named to the Dean's List from Rockcastle County are: Benedetta French, Connie Patrick, Alan Kelley, Connie Etta McClure, Lajoy Lynn parrett, Debra Shannon Raines, Theresa D. Sams, Dale Vaughn Whitaker, Regina Burton, Albert Dwight Vernon, Griffin, Nancy Irene Hale, and Gwenilyn Ruth Harris.

Ray Carpenter, 21, of Route 3, Mt. Vernon, was killed instantly last Thursday about noon when the above auto, which he was driving, collided with a bread truck on U.S. 25 at Snyder. The front bumper of the truck entered the side of the car, striking Mr. Carpenter.

Council Becomes Member Of Job Start Corp.

Job Start Corporation is very pleased to announce that the Rockcastle County Improvement Council officially became a member of its organizational structure at its January Board meeting. Mr. Wayne Stewart and Mr. William McClure have been elected by the Improvement Council to sit on Job Start's Board of Directors. Job Start is a community development corporation serving Bell, Clay, Clinton, Harlan, Jackson, Knox, McCreary, Rockcastle, and Wayne Counties, which was formed in London, Kentucky. It is directed by representatives of various non-profit, community-based membership organizations located in these ten counties.

According to Ike Adams, Job Start's Director of Community Relations, the corporation has provided financing and other assistance to start seven new businesses in Southeastern Kentucky that had sales totaling over $6 million in 1975. He said that Job Start had approximately $2 million of venture capital that it planned to invest in new businesses or in the expansion of existing ones.

Mr. Adams said that Rockcastle County had not been directly represented on Job Start's Board in over two years. He said that he began contacting folks in Rockcastle County last summer and discussing the best ways for Rockcastle County to gain representation at Job Start, and, as it turned out, the Rockcastle County Improvement Council had goals and objectives similar to some of Job Start's.

The Improvement Council, which was formed in 1969, is dedicated to the civic, social, and economic development of Rockcastle County. Mr. Adams said that he believed that the relationship between Job Start and the Council greatly increased the potential of Job Start's ability to be a resource for the economic development of Rockcastle County.

SEVERAL BREAK-INS REPORTED

Sheriff Manuel Shepherd has reported that several break-ins occurred in the county recently.

Last Friday night, three boxes at the Mt. Vernon Post Office were opened by breaking the glass out of the doors. Postmaster James O. Smith said that Postal Inspectors had been notified. Also on Friday night, the home of Roscoe Kidwell was entered and two guns were stolen.

On Sunday night, the home of Roland and Kathy Carpenter on Trace Branch was entered and several guns and a stereo were taken.

Auto-Truck Crash Claims Life of Ray Carpenter, 21

The first traffic fatality in Rockcastle County for 1976 was recorded last Thursday about noon when Stewart Ray Carpenter, 21, of Route 3, Mt. Vernon, was killed in a car-truck accident on U.S. 25 at the Lambert Road.

According to Star Trooper Danny Coleman, who investigated the accident, Carpenter was traveling north on U.S. 25 when he was struck on the driver's side by a bread truck, driven by Raymond Phillips of Berea, who was pulling out from the Lambert Road. Coroner Bill Dowell said that Carpenter died instantly of chest and internal injuries.

Phillips was charged with reckless homicide and re-bonded on $2,000 bond.

Mr. Carpenter was born on November 26, 1954 in Rockcastle County, the son of Tommy Carpenter of Mt. Vernon and Mary Higgins. He was a partner in the Carpenter Brothers Ashland Service Station at Paint Lick. Survivors besides his parents are his wife, Mrs. Mona Morgan Carpenter of Route 3, Mt. Vernon; one son, Paul Ray Carpenter, at home; seven brothers - Lowell, James, Wayne, Ralph and Kenneth, all of Route 3, Mt. Vernon; Alfred of Richmond and Jeffrey of Mt. Vernon; one half-brother, Billy of Mt. Vernon; two sisters, Mrs. Carol Amb of Route 3, Mt.

Vernon and Mrs. Mary Ballinger of Berea, one half-sister, Miss Janet Carpenter. Mt. Vernon and his grandmother, Mrs. Alice Davidson of Kewanee, Illinois.

Burial was in the Sealford Cane Cemetery.

COUNTY HEART FUND CHAIRMAN REPLACED

The appointment of Miss Mary B. Himmitt, to serve as County Heart Fund Chairman, replacing Ernest Mason, in the 1976 Rockcastle County Heart Fund drive has been announced by Kentucky Campaign chairman, Jesse Stuart.

Mr. Stuart pointed out that, through his association with Heart, he has come to know first-hand of the "almost miraculous progress" science has made in the fight against heart and blood vessel diseases, and of how the Kentucky Heart Association, by its effective use of Heart Fund dollars in the state's communities, hospitals and medical research laboratories, has vitally furthered this progress.

The statewide Heart Fund appeal begins with Coffee Day, Tuesday, February 3, and continues through the month with the annual door-to-door solicitation on Heart Sunday, February 29.

NR/WO TO MEET

BFD Reports Several Fires

Brian Bussell, a member of the Broedhead Fire Department, reported Tuesday that the department had been called to three fires in Broedhead in the last nine days.

On Tuesday, January 20th, they answered a call to the D.H. Gray store building on Main Street about 10 p.m. Minor damage was sustained in the fire and Mr. Bussell said that the arson was suspected as the cause of the blaze.

On Friday, January 23rd, a fire in the kitchen of the Dix Point Restaurant resulted in minor damage mainly to tea sets. The fire occurred about 10 a.m.

Also on Friday, January 23rd, at 5:15 p.m., Ernie Wallin, of Silver Street, was severely burned in a fire which began in the bedroom of his residence.

Mr. Bussell said that the fire was apparently caused by Mr. Wallin smoking in bed. The fire damaged the bedroom and other parts of the home sustained smoke and water damage. Mr. Wallin crawled into the kitchen where he was found by firemen. He is now in a Lexington hospital.

Mr. Wallin's 84-year-old father was visiting neighbors at the time of the fire.

FRANKFORT WATCHLINE

The General Assembly is in session, but the spotlight is on Gov. Julian Carrill.

Of course, in Kentucky, a governor being in the spotlight is hardly unusual. Under the state's constitution, the governor is a powerful executive and the legislature is, well, just about what the governor will let it be.

Thus far, out of the governor's office alone, have come: the hot and getting hotter bill to abolish ball bonding for profit in the Commonwealth; a sweeping consumer protection package that will bring joy to the hearts of consumer advocates but will no doubt bring forth a record number of lobbyists at the same time.

the most widely quoted statements on, of all things, the subject of legislative independence.

and such routine spotlight-getters as the State of Commonwealth message. All this, even before the biggest coup of all, the executive budget, had been presented.

This is not to say, of course, that Carrill in the first governor to have a legislative package.

What he is doing a bit differently is to lay his cards on the table and take a wide open stand on some immediate controversial piece of legislation. Carrill's method stands in contrast to some of his predecessors who preferred to handle controversial legislation in a not so open manner, by having the legislation introduced by a friendly legislator and managing the legislation through its course through the General Assembly.

That style of management was often done — by a list magically appearing on legislators' desks with "yes" or "no" written beside certain bill numbers, or by the governor's man sitting in the gallery pointing in unusual directions with his thumb.

Carrill is also sending position papers to committee chairmen on other issues. These, too, are being dribbled out in the press and while Carrill is getting maximum exposure on them, once again, the cards are on the table. How long such "openness" continues is yet to be seen, of course, but even legislators not aligned with the administration seem happy to know what is happening.

Meanwhile, Carrill's legislation to outlaw ball bonding for profit is apparently not going to have an easy road, despite the full efforts of his office being behind it.

In announcing the bill, Carrill cited a late night telephone call to his brother, threatening embarrassing information being leaked to the press about the governor, himself, if the bill were introduced.

Such intimidation has apparently not stopped Carrill who would not be specific in his most recent comment about the problems, but sources on his staff say the governor is not kidding when he talks of the pressure as being serious.

"I have never in my 14 years (in public office) had to go through what I'm going through now," Carrill said.

He reported he has beefed up security, hinting that he has provided security for some of his staff and some legislators.

There is speculation that Carrill is over-emphasizing the intimidation as a means of gaining sympathy for the bill, but sympathy or not, mistakes say the intimidation is real.

In every session, there are bills introduced affecting the press. One measure this session promises to be one of the most heavily editorialized against press bills in years.

The bill would allow governmental units to publish in newspapers summaries of budgets and audits and ordinances which now must be published in full.

The Kentucky Press Association, and individually, most of the members of that August body, are out in force on this one, hammering out the theme that the bill does violence to the people's right to know.

Without commenting on the merits of that line of attack, the lobbying effort now underway by the KPA and the editorial columns of much of the state press is becoming something of a joke.

One observer may have summed up the legislative reaction the other day: "Is it really the publisher's right to know or the publisher's right to eat?"

Legal advertising is, after all, a mainstay of some smaller newspapers and a significant income producer for larger ones, and in some legislators are having a hard time swallowing the moral arguments when the monetary ones are ignored.

What with all the cold weather and snow we have been having, I have had a little trouble getting everything going at the same time to write this column and go gather a little news. News, by the way, in case you didn't notice last week, has been a little hard to come by and I haven't felt like personally getting out and stirring up any let-up.

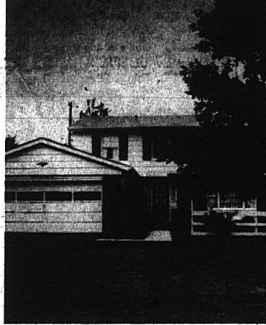

I don't know if any of you saw it or not Tuesday but I made my television debut on that day and, believe me, there has not been a rush as my door demanding my entry into that media. My husband and I were stopped over in Turf Hill Mall, where we had gone to look at some kitchen cabinets, by Sue Wylie of the "Moon Today" show and asked if she might interview us. We obliged, or rather I did. Jim tried to run over me anyway, shaking his head no. While I went out and there was asked who the TV cameramen were, our country is celebrating this year means. Of course, later, you always think of all sorts of witty and intelligent answers but that moment only the obvious one, that it is our country's 200th birthday, came to me. Jim had nothing to add and we decided later that that part of the interview would be cut since we distinctly got the impression that they were looking for one of two things, whether someone so dumb that they didn't know who the biceventual was or someone with a witty, intelligent answer mentioned before.

It was fun watching myself on television however, and actually much better than the only other time I had managed to see myself on the "BOOB TUBE." The other time, I was enrolled in a journalism class at Somerset and was exactly eight months pregnant. I didn't realize that we were going to give a speech in class that day which would be televised and then replayed and I had picked that day as THE day when I absolutely had to start wearing maternity clothes. I had put it off so long because I was extremely self-conscious of my looks in this type of wear among all those sweet young things in college. Anyway, I showed up for school that day in my tent dress and if you have never seen an eight-month pregnant woman in a tent dress on a small television screen, you have missed just about one of the wonders of the world. My instructor, a gentleman of the

THE HIGHEST HEATING BILL?

Most people would readily guess the larger house costs more to heat. It might not. The size of a house is only one factor that determines its heating bill.

When your home is properly insulated your heating unit doesn't have to work as hard because less heat is lost through the walls and roof. This can save you one-third or more of your electricity costs.

And, with some electric heating systems you can adjust the temperature in each room. The bedrooms can stay a little cooler. The nursery and bath a little warmer. That can save energy and money.

The energy picture has changed dramatically in the past couple of years and people want all they can get for their heating dollar. Many are turning to electric comfort conditioning for summer and winter. We can help you plan your electric heating and cabling system, recommend proper insulation and give you a free operating cost estimate. Just contact our local office.

HELPING CHILDREN DEVELOP GOOD EATING HABITS

Children are great imitators and will copy parents food likes and dislikes.

Offer new foods when children are hungry and in good health. Never when ill or cross. Serve new foods in a matter of fact way.

HONORED—Brenda Abney was one of 66 graduating seniors honored at the mid-year recognition service at Berea College. She will complete the requirements for graduation at the end of the January Short Term and will receive the B.A. degree in elementary education. A reception for the graduates and their families was held at the home of President and Mrs. Wilks D. Weatherford before the ceremony. Dr. John Wallbauer, visiting professor of religion, was the speaker. Miss Abney is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Abney, formerly of Route 3, Mt. Vernon. They now live in Brooksville, Florida. Miss Abney is a graduate of Mount Vernon High School.

and continue serving them if they have been rejected before. Show no disappointment when they aren't eaten. Reward the child with a compliment if even one bite is eaten.

Introduce only one new food at a meal; perhaps with one of his favorite foods.

Serve small servings and give seconds if they want them. If children eat one food at a time, don't be concerned. They will soon follow the example of the adults.

Because desserts are so popular, they should provide many of the nutrients needed in a day. Desserts made of milk, eggs and fruit are nutritious and easy to fix.

See that children get plenty of exercise outdoors in the fresh air to stimulate the appetite.

Plan a quiet time before meals, such as reading, coloring, quiet games. Some TV shows are too stimulating to be good for a quiet time.

Serve meals as regularly as possible and in a pleasant atmosphere. Don't bribe, force or punish to encourage eating. Serve colorful food that tastes good, looks good, and feels good in their mouth. Make smooth and crisp foods are textures preferred by most children. Very small children like finger foods. Don't stress table manners until a child has learned to eat a variety of foods. A comfortable chair (feet on the floor or foot rest), the table the right height and a spoon that is easy to handle are important. Give him assistance when he needs it. Relaxed parents, suitable food served in friendly surroundings without worry about how much or how he eats is the best way to be assured children will develop good eating habits. *****

MORE ON CHLORDANE & Heptachlor - As I told you in the November, Chlordane and Heptachlor were suspended on December 24, 1975. Further clarification is in order... Although official written interpretations have not been received, telephone communication with EPA personnel would indicate the following:

- (1) All Chlordane or Heptachlor manufactured before July 29, 1975, can be used according to label directions.
  - (2) All Chlordane or Heptachlor manufactured after July 29, 1975, can be used in corn production in 1976 for cutworm control, but unused stocks cannot legally be used after August 1, 1976.
  - (3) Chlordane manufactured or formulated after July 29, 1975, for lawns, garden, turf and for household use cannot legally be sold or used. I have no idea what quantity might be involved.
- Homeowners who possess undated quantities of Chlordane should use these materials according to label directions.
- As the story regarding these chemicals continues to unfold, I will keep you informed.

old school, had not realized my condition until that day and in fact until I saw me on television and he immediately secured me a chair and insisted that I sit down while everyone else stood in the studio as if he were afraid that his services were going to be called on at any moment.

Back to the lack of news available these days. There was one good news picture I missed last Friday night and that was at the Pie Supper at Roundstone Elementary School. From the supper, the Boosters Club there raised an astounding $900. I forgot it because I had spent the entire week applying pressure to Jim to go to the meeting that night of persons interested in joining the new square dancing class forming. I finally got him to the meeting and was almost immediately informed by him that since one of the basic premises of being able to learn square dancing was the ability to discuss quickly your right and your left that I was in trouble. He suggested that we might write right and left on my shoes so that I could glance down when I needed to and therefore go in the right direction. I really couldn't get upset at the teasing since it is the gospel truth - but, I was really the one who had this particular problem and that's all I am going to say about that.

School was closed again Wednesday since the we understand puts the date to May 27th as when the children will get out. I don't blame school officials because taking a chance with a busload of children on any road is for the birds but I wonder if they heard the rumor of the gang of mothers who are threatening to storm the administration building and if all else fails go to school themselves and leave the children at home.

Rockcastle Recollections

By: John Lehr

Plans are now under discussion, although far from complete at present, for bringing out the first edition of our county history, "Rockcastle Recollections," in connection with the opening of our PIONEER LIFE MUSEUM this spring or early summer. A leading television station has agreed to be on hand if such an event takes place and will make a full-length program featuring it. This could mean a lot to Rockcastle County as a whole, and certainly mean much to publishing the county's first history.

The book is beginning to really shape up. We know by now where we're going and are better organized to bring it all together. Actually, I have enough written up to make a big volume but now comes the difficult task of laying it out in the proper sequence so that the story, once begun, will run straight through to the end and not be doubling back from time to time and making it hard to read and keep up with.

TV personnel and other publicity people with whom I have talked feel that, in this bi-centennial year, a lot of attention will be drawn to the museum and its unusual and original conception. They believe it will be a practical and attractive way to bring home to people living in these complicated times the utter freedom and self-reliance of a day long gone by. They think it might prove to be worthy of national attention being bestowed upon our county and its way of life which so many of us remember.

Of course, we are not advocating a complete return to "The Good Old Days," which actually were not so good after all, but in many ways it will be better than some we are now going through. I have often thought that if people of our day and time could live like parents did, making the money we make today, everybody could be independently rich. Of course, you're not going to talk anybody into giving up modern pleasures and conveniences and a large life of ease and go back to raising a garden, milking a cow, butchering a hog or doing without television, but just remember that many of us once did those things and we lived through it alright.

So, if we can't talk anybody into living like the Kentucky pioneer lived two hundred years ago, we can take this two hundred birthday of our nation to show how it was done in the beginning. In this museum, we will show nothing less than one hundred years old and nothing that was not made by a pioneer who had to depend upon his own resources for everything in support of himself and family. Many such items and exhibits we already have on hand, but many more will have to be hunted up and added to the collection within the next few months that will bring us up to the main reason for this article - we are asking for help.

Our history, when published, will contain a long list of "Rockcastle County Facts." Some of those being listed by Jim Harvat in issues of the Mt. Vernon Signal almost one hundred years ago are still in existence somewhere in the county. If you have such an item and are willing to part with it, we will attempt to buy it at a fair price. If you have such an item and would like to donate it, we would like to borrow it for this exhibit, giving you a receipt for it and insuring it in your name to preclude any chance of your losing it.

If you do not have such a rarity but do have something hand-made that is at least one hundred years old, we can make the same offer on that. Or, if you know of somebody else who has such articles, put us in touch with them and if we succeed in getting them for the display, you will be paid a finder's fee for telling us about it. Right now, we would like to get hold of an old hand-forged ax, a hand-forged grubbing hoe or other hand-made tool turned out in one of the old blacksmith shops of years ago.

We hope to illustrate in this exhibit proof that a pioneer could come into the Kentucky Wilderness two hundred years ago with an ax and a rifle - both of which he could have made himself - raise a family and make a successful life for himself, on his own, without a cash income from another source. With the ax, he built his home, barn, fences and outbuildings. With the rifle he killed game to feed his family and to get at least a part of their clothing, the rest being provided by his wife on the spinning wheel he made for her out of materials which came to hand. With tools and implements he made himself, they grew, processed and preserved their own foods - and wouldn't you like to have some today that tasted as good? With musical instruments he made himself his family furnished their own entertainment, whenever they wanted it.

There is no end to the possibilities. We'll probably think of a lot more and we'll be hoping that a lot of you will share with us in this project by doing the same. For instance, when I read in the Lexington paper today that hospital rates have just gone up to $138.00 per day, I couldn't help but think that even in my own lifetime, a comfortable bed at home and sympathy from neighbors did a pretty good job for free. When you pay a big doctor bill or lay out a lot of money for medicine, do you find yourself wondering if some of Granne's home remedies might not have done just as well? Progress is a wonderful thing and we must have it, but we might just wake up some day and find ourselves unable to pay for it. Anyway, it will be kind of interesting to show folks how it used to be if we get this all finished in time to include a picture of it in ROCKCASTLE RECOLLECTIONS. It will be a pretty good way to show how the people of Rockcastle County, from such a start, have built up the business, cultural and spiritual world our children are being brought up in.

I seem to remember having brought up this subject once before, but if I did I don't remember getting any results from it and I want to try again. When we were putting up the major buildings at Renoir Valley, and that hasn't been so many years ago, Johnnie Ramsey, who was architect, engineer, foreman and head stonemason on so many of them, mixed up the paint with which the interior of the building just behind the restaurant was painted. I had seen such paint when I was a boy but had forgotten about it until he made it up and used it. People used to paint their porches, window casings and doors with it and I seem to recall that it lasted a long time exposed to weather. It was generally green. Sometimes a light green and at other times darker, shading to gray-green that made wood look like it had weathered many storms or had lain on the bottom of a pond or river.

I need some of that paint and surely there is somebody left who remembers how it was made. Mr. Ramsey said he dug the dirt he used out of a blue-green slate bank on Little Renfro Creek, a short distance down stream from the old Gas Station home. How he ground it and what he mixed it with I do not know, although I would rather suspect he used coal oil - it being a rather common product for many uses in earlier days. I need this paint for a special purpose - not just because it is cheap - and would be glad to pay somebody top price of any standard brand of paint for making it up. I'm saying PLEASE use this one. *****

With the Legislature In Frankfort

By: Rep. Harold DeMurus

One of the most popular pieces of legislation that will come before the 1976 Kentucky General Assembly will be the so-called power equalization bill. A bill establishing a district power equalization program was introduced on behalf of the interim joint Committee on Appropriations and Revenue in the 1974 General Assembly, but died in committee.

During the 1974-75 interim, the committee added to the earlier bill a provision for the full state funding of the public education throughout the interim, the committee recommended for introduction in the 1976 General Assembly a bill which would establish a program of district power equalization and provide for full state funding of the foundation program.

The District power equalization is a process whereby the state guarantees that equal property tax rates levied by school districts will produce equal amounts of revenue for the districts. This would be done by the state making up the difference between what a rate actually produced, based on property values in a particular school district, and what it would produce if the district's property tax assessment per child were equal to that of the wealthiest county-wide school district.

The intent of Kentucky's public school foundation program is to equalize state expenditures for elementary and secondary education, thus equalizing educational opportunities for the children of the state.

Because local "leeway" funds are so dependent upon property taxes, the amount of leeway money that a district can raise depends not only upon the district's tax rate, but its wealth (assessed value of property per pupil). The per pupil wealth of Kentucky school districts ranged, in 1974-75 from $100,416 to $10,415. Thus the district with the $10,415 assessed valuation had the "power" to raise with an identical tax rate 10 times as much money per pupil as the district with the $100,416 assessed valuation. It is this disparity in power that the proposed legislation primarily addresses.

The proposed district power equalization legislation would require the Superintendent of Public Instruction to calculate annually an amount which the state would distribute to local districts as a supplement to the revenue which was raised by the districts' leeway rates. The amount of supplement would equal the difference between what each district's rate produced per child and what each district's rate would have produced per child had that rate been applied in the wealthiest countywide district in the state.

The annual cost to the state to equalize local leeway rates at the 20-cent level would be approximately $42 million, if every school district which currently levies less than a 20-cent leeway rate raised its rate to the 20-cent level. If each school district raised its rate, the annual cost to the state would be approximately between $30 and $32 million.

The bill also would eliminate the present "required local effort" which school districts must make in order to qualify for funds through the foundation program. Instead the state would completely fund the foundation program by shifting the required local effort to the state level.

For most districts, the present required local effort is the amount of money generated by a property tax of approximately 30 cents per $100. In shifting the burden to the state level, state property tax rates would be increased by approximately 30 cents per $100 with corresponding mandatory reductions in local rates.

If this proposed legislation survives the Appropriations and Revenue committee and obtains passage by both houses and is not vetoed by the governor, then there will be additional funds available through this program to the school systems in our area. The Boyle County School system would be entitled to $138,901 in district equalization revenue from the state; the Danville School system would be entitled to $165,019; the Lincoln County School system would be entitled to $204,748; the Rockcastle County School system would be entitled to $178,100; Science Hill School system would be entitled to $2,727; and the Somerset Independent School system would be entitled to $155,365. However, the Pulaski County School system would not be entitled to district equalization funds from the state as they are presently below the 30c tax rate and this legislation only equalizes the leeway funds levied by the local government which are above the 30c level.

The district equalization funds are additional funds which will come to each eligible school district in excess of the funds now being levied and collected by them for educational purposes.

Power equalization would mean that each of the above eligible school districts would receive during the 1976-77 biennium an increase in the amount of funds available per pupil as follows: (this would be in addition to the per pupil expenditures now being received by these school districts)

- Boyle County School system, $61 per pupil.
- Danville School system, $69 per pupil.
- Lincoln County School system, $58 per pupil.
- Pulaski County School system, 0.
- Science Hill School system, $13 per pupil.
- Somerset School system, $74 per pupil.
- Rockcastle County school system, $59 per pupil.

This bill will not create any additional taxes whatsoever. Any issue which I have talked about in this column, I would appreciate hearing from you and your views on it. My address is: Room 382, State Capitol, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601.

Oh, thus be it ever, when freemen shall stand, Between their loved homes and the war's devastation; Distant with victory, and peace may the hero's rescued land Praise the Power that has made and preserved us a nation. Then conquer we must, when our cause it be just, And this be our motto: "In God is our trust." And the star-spangled banner in triumph shall wave O'er the land of the free and the home of the brave.

Rockets Lose Two

The Hockcastle Rockets played at home this last week and dropped two in a row. The Rockets were defeated, went as follows: Garland Vanhook, Saturday night hook, 26; Bill Henderson, 18; Bill 60-49, despite playing a fine ball Belcher, 6; Frankie Durham, 4; game up to the fourth quarter. apart and began missing close inside shots. The Rockets had trouble finding the range on their free throws during the game, as well as Somerset doing just the opposite.

Scoring for the Rockets was as follows: Garland Vanhook, Saturday night hook, 26; Bill Henderson, 18; Bill 60-49, despite playing a fine ball Belcher, 6; Frankie Durham, 4; game up to the fourth quarter. John Nugent 4 and Jeff At that point, the Rockets fell Burdette, 2.

This past Tuesday night, the Rockets hosted Pulaski County and played an outstanding game under the boards even though they were outscored. Bill Henderson, who garnered 8 points on the night and made some excellent passes to Garland Vanhook, the Rockets' center.

Vanhook had 27 points and several rebounds and he and Henderson was responsible for two blocked shots each. Bill Belcher also had several rebounds and 13 points.

At the end of the first quarter, the Rockets led 16-14 but at the half, the Maroons had the edge by two. At the end of the third quarter, the Rockets were again ahead by one but the final score ended up in the favor of Pulaski County 57-55.

The Rockets actually had four chances to tie the score, with 53 seconds to go, the Rockets came down the court and passed off to Vanhook who then took a shot and missed. However, on the next play, Vanhook was fouled but could not convert his free throws. Then, with 14 seconds showing on the clock, Billy Hackworth was fouled but he too was unable to put them through the hoop then, with 8 seconds remaining, Henderson missed an outside shot and that was "the game."

IRS OFFICES PROVIDE TAX HELP THREE WAYS

Taxpayers having difficulty preparing their tax returns and unable to find answers in the tax instructions have three choices when it comes to receiving help from the Internal Revenue Service, Paul Niederecker, IRS district director for Kentucky, said today.

The three options, according to Niederecker, are: Toll-free telephone service, walk-in tax help at local IRS offices, and the availability of over 80 free tax publications.

Niederecker pointed out that the toll-free number to call is 1-800-292-6570. "No matter where a taxpayer lives in Kentucky," he said, "he or she can call the IRS for assistance for the price of a local telephone call. Incidentally, the best times to call are 8 to 10 a.m. and 3 to 4 p.m., when lines are least busy."

Taxpayers who prefer to visit a local IRS office will find IRS taxpayer service representatives available to help fill out tax returns, either through group instruction or individual counseling. Taxpayers who came to the local IRS offices for help should remember to bring their financial records, including all Form W-2 and Tax Statements. This material will be helpful in the preparation of

The concert is part of the Bicentennial Parade of American Music funded by Exxon and sponsored by the National Music Council and the National Federation of Music Clubs. The series of 52 live concerts honors the music of each State and the District of Columbia in order of their entry into the Union as part of the "State Days" celebration organized by the Washington Mayor's Office of Bicentennial Programming. the return, Niederecker said.

In addition to phone and walk-in tax help, the IRS has free tax publications on a variety of tax topics, such as the benefits for older Americans, retirement income credit, moving expenses, child care deductions, real estate taxes and others, he said. Taxpayers can obtain these publications by mailing in the order blank found in their tax packages.

Niederecker stressed that many questions can be answered if the taxpayer takes the time to check the instructions. "Not only do they provide comprehensive information," he said, they also give complete step-by-step details for filling out the return.

Gardening Tips from Extension Specialists at the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture

Home gardeners, plant hobbyists, and small-farm operators who wish to produce early vegetable and flower transplants for their own use and to sell to their neighbors might do well to consider a homemade hotbed.

According to C.R. Roberts, UK Extension specialist in horticulture, vegetable and flower seed can be planted early in these structures, grown to proper size, and, at the earliest possible moment, transplanted directly to the field or garden, or offered for sale on the plant market.

To have early vegetables and to have a decided advantage on the early markets, Roberts adds, vegetable seeds must be sown from mid-January to mid-March.

Another advantage for a gardener having his own hotbed is that he can have the plants on hand when he needs them and at the proper times for transplanting. Also, by taking precautions, he can usually produce better quality plants than those shipped in from other areas or states. Certainly, his plants will be fresher and more likely to survive when transplanted.

Hotbeds can be of almost any size to meet the need. They can be heated by electricity, by warm air (flue-heated), or by manure. They can be relatively inexpensive, too. Not counting the cost of labor, Roberts says a 6 x 6-foot, electrically-heated hotbed can be constructed for around $80. Materials will cost around $20 and a thermostat will cost in the neighborhood of $40.

If seeded directly in beds, a 6 x 6-foot hotbed will accommodate up to 2,000 tomato, eggplant, or pepper plants, and up to 2,500 broccoli, cabbage, or cauliflower plants. If the seed are planted in 2 1/2-inch peat pots, the same size hotbed will hold 575 cucumber, muskmelon, watermelon, or squash plants.

Success with a hotbed will be largely determined by its location. It should be on a southern slope in a sunny place where it will not be shaded.

Sites should be well drained, reasonably close to a water supply, and if the bed is electrically heated, close to an electrical outlet. Also, less heat will be needed if the hotbed is not in a windy place.

To this, George Duncan, Extension specialist in agricultural engineering, adds that a good hotbed frame should be tight and well covered so that very little heat escapes. Several materials can be used to construct low-cost frames, but for a more permanent frame, 4-inch concrete blocks are best.

Anyone interested in building a hotbed should contact his local Extension agent and ask for a bulletin entitled "Hotbeds For Transplant Production." This is a rather comprehensive publication that gives information not only on how to construct hotbeds but also on when to plant and how to take care of the plants.

Bills to Provide Free Textbooks Introduced

State Senator Thomas M. Ward, Democrat, Woodford County, has introduced bills to provide free textbooks for grades 1-12 and to abolish charging of fees except where fees are required to purchase materials which become the personal property of the pupil.

Ward said, "In February of 1975, while campaigning for Lt. Gov., I became the first candidate for state-wide office to call for free textbooks and the abolishment of fees. I was very pleased when Governor Carroll adopted these items in his platform. I am now pleased to work with Governor Carroll to bring these reforms to the people of Kentucky."

Senator Ward said that these bills are urgently needed appropriation of $5,000,000 for each of the next two fiscal years.

Ward said, "This is a lot of money but it will be money well spent—a relatively small price to pay for helping to keep children in school thereby training them to make a living and become taxpayers instead of tax wasters."

completion of training. Thus far 220 students have received these scholarships.

Only four years old, the program is directed by the Appalachian Regional Commission, E.O. Robinson Mountain Fund and the Jessie Smith Noyes Foundation. Medical, dental, nursing, pharmacy, and allied health students receive scholarships ranging from $1,000 to $3,700 each year, depending upon the program and cost.

Each student, after completion of training, is obligated to practice in Appalachia, Kentucky for the same period of time for which he or she receives educational aid.

According to executive vice president of the National Health Council, "This excellent response supports the premise of the program: Young people from an area will return to serve in that area if given appropriate assistance and encouragement."

Some of the more effective health manpower programs coming out of the Appalachian Commission include the Health Professions Scholarship Program in South eastern Kentucky.

Demonstration area counties where health professionals are being placed are: Bell, Breathitt, Clay, Harlan, Jackson, Knott, Knox, Laurel, Lee, Letcher, Owsley, Perry, Rockcastle, Whitley and Wolfe.

Southeastern Kentucky Health Professions Scholarship Recipients for 1975-76 from this area are: Henry Dale Coffey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Coffey, Joy Parsons, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John F. #### CHECK OFF AGAIN FOR THE 1976 PRESIDENTIAL CAMPAIGN FUND

Taxpayers again have the option of participating in the 1976 Presidential Election Campaign Fund simply by checking a "Yes" box on the front of your 1975 Form 1040 or 1040A tax return.

Faul Niederecker, district director of Internal Revenue for Kentucky, said today:

"On returns filed last year, Niederecker said, over $31 million were earmarked for the Campaign Fund, totaling over $80 million as of December 31, 1975. "This is the last chance for taxpayers to designate funds to the 1976 campaign," Niederecker added.

Under legislation enacted by Congress in 1971, every taxpayer with a tax liability of $1 or more may designate $1 of his or her tax each year to the Presidential Election Campaign Fund. All money earmarked goes in the Campaign Fund to be distributed among all eligible Presidential candidates.

"On a joint return, a husband and wife with an income tax liability of $2 or more may each designate $1 to the fund for a total of $2. If a husband or wife wishes to designate $1 and the other does not, "Yes" and "No" boxes are provided for each. Taxpayers filing individually who do not wish to participate in the Campaign Fund may check the "No" box provided on the front of Forms 1040 and 1040A.

Niederecker emphasized that participation by a taxpayer in the Campaign Fund neither increases the tax due nor reduces any refund owed.
