

County Agent's Notes

BY: H. LEE DURHAM

CLUSTERING FLIES AND THEIR CONTROL

It won't be long before County Agents will be receiving phone calls from distraught housewives because they have some large, black flies buzzing around their house. These flies are more than likely cluster flies, face flies, or blow flies that had overwintered in the walls, attics and window frames. When warm weather arrives or the area they are overwintering in is warmed by the home heating system, they come out much to the distress of the housewife. She need not fear that these flies are breeding in her house. They can be controlled as they appear using ordinary household aerosol sprays. They can be prevented from entering by sealing all access routes into their overwintering areas or they can be killed by spraying the outside of the home with residual insecticides. Once inside, they can be controlled by placing insecticide impregnated strips in attics and other enclosed areas at a rate of one strip per 100 cu. ft. of air space. If the housewife finds a great accumulation of them when she is cleaning the attic she can control them quickly with the vacuum cleaner. In short, they are nothing to worry about, but are a nuisance that can be controlled by using a little "common sense."

BLOAT

Bloat of dairy cattle is not a major problem in Kentucky, but it can occur at any time. Cows most often bloat in the spring on lush legume pastures, or in the fall in cattle grazing legumes immediately following a light to heavy killing frost. Cattle can bloat on leaty alfalfa hay, heavy concentrate rations, or overeating of unusually tasty ration ingredients. If a bloat danger situation exists, research has produced an ingredient called Poloxalene which has had excellent results in preventing bloat. It is sold as a feed additive or feeding block, and is available under a trade name at most feed mills. A drench should have available a heavy rubber hose and a gallon of either soybean oil or mineral oil for the occasional bloated animal. Shove the hose down the animal's throat with the curved part turned up so it goes in the rumen. Then pour about a pint of the oil down the hose. The initial entry of the hose will relieve some of the pressure and the oil will break up the stable foam which is blocking the release of the gas that is causing the bloat. In all but very advanced cases, this will relieve the situation. Stabbing with a knife should be used only as a last resort and then only on the left side ahead of the hook bone and high on the cow's side.

DON'T WASTE YOUR TIME ON SEDDLING FRUITS

Selecting an offspring from a Delicious apple is like playing the roulette wheel—your chances of coming up with a winner are extremely remote. Much like humans in their genetic makeup, no fruits ever produce exactly the same fruit, nor are the offspring identical to their parents. All living things have genes in their germ cells which determine their characteristics. At pollination time, each parent contributes one-half of the genes, which are then contained in the seed as it develops in the fruit. When the seed is planted and grows, the resultant plant is the product of the gene expressions.

Some genes are dominant and express themselves in the fruit; others are recessive. In peaches, for example, freestone is dominant over clingstone; therefore if the seed contains both kinds of genes, the resulting tree will produce freestone. This is more or less true for hundreds of characters contained in the germ cells of different seeds. When you consider the almost limitless number of combinations of genes that could occur, it is easy to see why no two fruit seeds will ever produce exactly the same fruits.

On the other hand, most vegetables and flowers, unless they are hybrids, will produce true to seed, because they are much less genetically complex. They contain only one kind of gene for each character, thus they transmit only that character. As a result, the plant is the same as its parent and is said to be homozygous. Hybrids are an exception to most seed crops. Seed from hybrids will not produce plants exactly like the parent because the combination of two pure homozygous lines will produce heterozygous offspring.

FOOD CLIPS

Sweet potatoes should not be stored in the refrigerator. Decay is a problem with sweet potatoes. Avoid ones with worm holes, grub injury or any other defects. Even if you cut away the diseased area the remainder of the potato may have a bad taste.

If you "think thrifty" you'll find cheese wastes are generally less expensive than cheese purchased sliced, cubed or grated. You slice, cube or grate the cheese yourself.

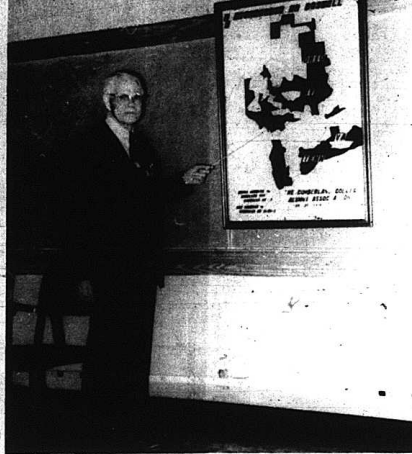

Did you know that processed cheese spread is better in food value than processed cheese spread — but usually sells for the same price.

Don't feel it's some good, more is better. Too much tenderizer may make meat mushy or crumbly, meaty and dry.

"Light meat" tuna cost less than "white meat" tuna. In descending order of price, packs are fancy or solid, chunks are flaked or grated. In making salads or creamed tuna, or even casserole dishes, it's important to remember that your usual use of tuna in small pieces — so you don't need the solid pack.

Use less tender, less expensive meats and cook slowly with moisture, not roasting, braising, simmer and stew. It cuts down on shrinkage and is more economical. You can serve more people by adding mild-flavored foods, such as dry beans or peas, macaroni products, rice or potatoes — to casseroles, stews or soup.

The protein in cheese is of the same high quality as the protein in meat, fish and eggs.

DEAN OF KENTUCKY EDUCATORS — Cumberland College President Dr. J.M. Bassett points proudly to the Rockcastle County portion of a Cumberland College Service Area Map given him by the institution's alumni association on the occasion of a surprise celebration commemorating his birthday, his 45th year as a Cumberland staff member and his 32nd year as the college's principal administrator. Dr. Bassett's long tenure as head of the commonwealth's largest independent institution of higher learning — comprising a longer period than that of any other Kentucky college or university president — has prompted others among his fellow college and university chief executives to refer to him as the "Dean of Kentucky Educators." Currently 11 Rockcastle Countians are enrolled at Cumberland and 43 of the college's graduates live and work in the area.

Calorie watchers note: Cottage and Ricotta cheeses because they contain more moisture and less fat milk.

Out of flour? Substitute: For 1 tablespoon of flour (used as a thickener) use 1/2 tablespoon of corn starch, potato starch, rice starch, or arrowroot starch, or 1 tablespoon or quick-cooking tapioca.

If you're trying to substitute for 1 cup of sifted all-purpose flour — you need to use 11 cups of unsifted all-purpose flour minus 2 tablespoons.

When the recipe calls for 1 cup of corn syrup you could use 1 cup of sugar plus 1/4 cup of liquid. — One cup of honey would require 1 1/4 cups of sugar plus 1/4 cup of liquid.

A substitute for a "cup of milk" in your recipe is: 3 tablespoons of sifted regular nonfat dry milk plus 1 cup minus 1 tablespoon of water, or 1/2 cup instant nonfat dry milk plus 1 cup minus 1 tablespoon of water.

Need to save cheese for awhile in the refrigerator? Dip the cut surface in paraffin-it will prevent it from drying out. Then store in a tightly covered container — or wrap in waxed paper or foil.

Any perishable food (cream, pie, seafoods, and dishes made with eggs, fish, meat and poultry) should be kept cold (below 40 degrees). Do not let these foods stand at room temperature for more than two hours.

Excess fat on the meat? Cut it off — but don't throw it away. It may be tossed in the frypan to get fat for browning, the meat then discarded.

Four trophies were presented at the tournament with the 6th grade Roundstone Eagles winning first place. The Lion's Club has designated January, February and March as membership drive months.

It is not unusual for fat to supply 45 to 50 percent of the total calories in an American diet. If you're planning on freezing apple pie slices — select only full-flavored apples that are crisp and firm, not mealy in texture. The pie is usually preferred for apples to be used for fruit cobbler or uncoked dessert. Applesauce to be frozen should be carefully packed into containers that allow "head space" — then just seal and freeze.

Education is Top Priority In 1976-78 Executive Budget

"Foremost among my priorities for the Commonwealth of Kentucky has been the need to significantly upgrade the quality of the public elementary and secondary schools. That goal is reflected as the top priority in the executive budget," Gov. Julian Carroll announced last Wednesday night in the formal presentation of his 1976-78 executive budget.

Before a joint session of the state legislature, Gov. Carroll announced that state funding for elementary and secondary education "will exceed one-half billion dollars each year of the biennium for the first time in our history."

Of the $5.7 billion budget the governor is proposing for the next two years, the Department of Education is the recipient of over $1.2 billion.

The effect of the increased appropriations, the governor explained, would be to raise Kentucky from its ranking of 23rd in the country in state funding of elementary and secondary education to an estimated ranking of 14th. This jump is based on the assumption that the other states will increase their per pupil expenditures by the nation-wide average of 8.3 percent.

Kentucky would also climb from 49th in the nation in combined state and local funding for school systems to approximately 39th, assuming the other states increase their state-local support by a nation-wide average of nine percent.

Gov. Carroll said that the Commonwealth could climb even higher in these two areas, because he has learned that 37 of the 50 states are facing financial difficulties this year.

Teachers' salaries are raised in the two-year budget by $2,000, $1,200 next year and $800 the following year.

While noting in his address to the legislators that "it is not the intention of Kentucky to get into a face-race with surrounding states," Gov. Carroll said that the salary increase would bring the Bluegrass state within $616 per year of the average of the seven surrounding states. He added that if Illinois was excluded from the comparison, Kentucky teachers' salaries would be within $122 per year of the average of the other six surrounding states.

In other areas, the budget earmarks $9 million for eliminating student fees at all grade levels, and sets aside $7.6 million for a program providing free textbooks for high school students.

Dr. James Graham, who said "I was well impressed with the textbook project will take some time due to existing textbook contracts and procedures."

The governor's remarks concerning student fees and free textbooks for all students prompted comment from state Superintendent of Public Instruction, Dr. James Graham, who said "I was well impressed with the textbook allocation for high school students. I was particularly pleased with the elimination of fees."

"I hope the legislature acts with dispatch to approve the budget so that we might implement its provisions for the benefit of all of our children in Kentucky," he said.

Another provision of the executive budget designed to improve the quality of education in Kentucky was that of "power equalization."

Basically, power equalization is a provision whereby poorer school districts in Kentucky can get more state money without taking any more from the more affluent districts.

Under the formula outlined by Gov. Carroll, $10.5 million has been set aside to distribute at a level five cents higher than the 30 cents per $100 of assessed property that is now written into the Minimum Foundation Program.

Under the new plan, the state pays local districts the difference between what that additional five-cent local property tax would yield in their area

"FISCAL COURT"

the plan "insofar as its (ie, the county's) financial ability will allow." Mr. Sargent told the Court that he was in question as to who would decide what the county's "financial ability" might be at any given time and he, personally, did not feel like possibly committing the county financially to a project for which the cost is uncertain.

Judge Thacker told the Court that he did not feel that the wording of the Resolution was such that the county would be bound to a financial commitment and that he was sure the Fiscal Court would be the one to determine the county's "financial ability" should any funds be requested for the project.

Nevertheless on the motion, Magistrate Sargent and Cromer abstained with the others voting yes.

and what it would bring in Kentucky's wealthiest county school district. participation in the power equalization program is voluntary. Local districts do not have to participate if they do not wish to, and can continue to determine their own tax rates.

Other areas of the budget which pertain to education include: -$200,000 to study other state's methods of setting standards for public education. In this way, officials can be held accountable for the success of their efforts in operating the public school system.

- $2 million for a survey to identify all exceptional children.

- Funds to improve, renovate and construct new facilities at the Kentucky schools for the deaf and the blind.

- More than $2 million over the next two years for vocational education.

- An increase in teachers' retirement benefits. ***** such a process would be slow and potentially ineffective. There is no prohibition in this legislation against public employees' strikes. Therefore, public employees could merely refuse to work until their demands were met and, thereby, leave our communities without fire and police protection, close our schools and bring local government to a standstill. Furthermore, this bill would create another arm of state government and would require appropriations from the state for approximately a half million dollars over the next biennium.

In conclusion, the ramifications of such a bill is so far reaching that its potential effect on state government at both the state and local level cannot be foreseen.

Next week's column will deal with the Executive Budget.

Court Reinstates Garbage Service; Hears Complaint on County Road

A majority of the Rockcastle County Fiscal Court voted Tuesday at its regular meeting, to reinstate garbage service in Rockcastle County.

The matter was taken up as the last item of business by the Court and was brought about when Judge Hubert Thacker made a motion to "reinstatement the garbage collection contract with Kenneth Cromer for a period of two years, with an option for him (Mr. Cromer) to continue for an additional six months thereafter if he desires to do so, and to pay him one thousand dollars per expense connected with resetting the collection containers." Judge Thacker's motion went on to state that "the contract between the County and Kenneth Cromer be rewritten so that the duties and obligations of both parties are clearly set out in writing."

Magistrate Sherman Sargent seconded the motion and Magistrates Chester Whitaker and J.R. "Boone" Cromer both voted yes. Magistrates Bill Wren and Ernest Mason voted no on the two-year contract and that he was prepared to file suit, as an individual, against the County for its failure to pay the tax of taxpayer's money. Mr. Mason later said that he had agreed to re-advertise for bids for garbage collection but would not agree to reinstate it as before.

County Attorney James Lambert was asked for his opinion as to whether or not the County could legally bind itself to a two-year contract and he stated that it was his personal opinion that the County could but would rather that the matter were determined for certain before the contract was enacted.

Magistrate Danny Sargent then asked that the motion be amended to include the exception that the contract would run as long as revenue sharing funds continued and it was later agreed by the magistrates voting for the proposal that the motion should also be amended to read "subject to the legality of reinstatement."

In other business, the Court heard from Lewis Mink as spokesman for residents on the Calloway and Sand Hill Road and Sand Hill and Ford Hollow Road.

Mr. Mink told the Court that the road was almost impassable and that residents in the area had been told different stories when they inquired from the State Department of Highways and from the Fiscal Court when they attempted to determine whose responsibility it was to fix the road.

$704,000 Civil Suit Filed In Carpenter Auto Death

A $704,000 civil suit has been filed in Rockcastle Circuit Court as the result of an automobile accident January 22nd which claimed the life of Stewart Ray Carpenter, 21, of Berea, Mt. Vernon.

The suit claims that Mr. Phillips "was negligent in the operation and control of a motor vehicle owned by the defendant, Kern's Bakeries, Inc. causing it to collide with a motor vehicle owned and being operated by the plaintiff's decedent, Stewart Ray Carpenter."

Damages in the amount of $600,000 is asked for the total destruction of Mr. Carpenter's power to earn money; $3,000 for funeral expenses; $1,500 for damage to his automobile and $100,000 for the loss to his wife of his services, society, companionship and conjugal affection.

Joe I. Herrin Dies January 28 After Short Illness

Joe I. Herrin, 66, of Xenia, Ohio, owner and operator of Herrin's Garage for 30 years, died Wednesday afternoon, January 28, 1976 at Greene Memorial Hospital where he had been a patient since the preceding Friday.

Mr. Herrin was born in Mt. Vernon, September 20, 1909, the son of Charles and Alice Cummins Herrin. He was a member of the Providence Church of Christ.

Survivors include his wife, the former Blanche Taylor, whom he married May 30, 1926; a daughter, Mrs. Bully DeVore of Xenia, Ohio; six grandchildren, Mrs. John (Anita) Barbore, Mrs. James (Reed) Besson, Mrs. Hubert (Jan) Ingold, Miss Alice Devore, Thomas and Michael Devore, all of Xenia, Ohio and 8 great grandchildren.

Mr. Herrin was preceded in death by a brother, Clarence Herrin.

Funeral services were conducted Saturday, January 31st at the Lockland Church of Christ with Bro. Wayne Chappel, pastor, officiating. Burial was in the Woodland Cemetery.

Mr. Mink also told the Court that he had a petition containing 101 signatures of residents in the area requesting that action be taken to fix the road and that if something were not done in the near future, parents of the 88 school children in the area were prepared to take their children off the school bus and not send them to school because of the dangerous condition of the road. Mr. Mink said that the road was in such a bad shape that quite often the school bus couldn't get through, people could not get out to work and emergency vehicles cannot get through.

Magistrate for this area, Boone Cromer, told the group that he had tried to get the road set up for blacktopping under the off-systems federal aid funds which are going to be available to the county under a matching basis.

However, the Court has not thus far been able to agree which road to submit to the state for their approval and during the discussion, Judge Thacker presented a letter to the state approving for the State Highway Department, which asked for the Court's approval to blacktop 8/10 of a mile of the Three Links County Line Road beginning at the intersection of Phillips, resident of this road, reported to the Court that he had been informed by a representative of the Highway Department that he was the only road in the county which meets the 20-foot wide requirement and was ready for blacktopping. But, Magistrate Cromer took exception to this statement saying that he and Magistrate Sargent had traveled over the Ford Hollow Road and that in its narrowest place, it was 20-foot wide. According to Mr. Cromer, the resolution was set up under the county program but that, in the past, he has been unable to get the highway Department to expend any money on upgrading and maintaining the road.

The letter received from the highway department by Judge Thacker contained a resolution which the Court was asked to approve. The Three Links County Line Road as the road to be blacktopped; but, on a motion by Mr. Cromer to turn down this road, the resolution was defeated with one dissenting vote - that of Magistrate Bill Wren. Mr. Wren told the Court that the decision of the Court was holding up the other counties in our district and that since the highway department was obviously going to spend the funds on the road they wanted to anyway, the Court might as well go ahead and approve the resolution and, Mr. Wren put this in the form of a motion which received a second from Judge Thacker. However, the other magistrates refused to vote on this motion and the matter was left in abeyance.

County Attorney James Lambert did tell the group present that they should continue to bring pressure to bear locally and on the state level so that their need would not be forgotten.

Mrs. Glada Shepherd, Deputy Sheriff, presented the Sheriff's Settlement for 1975 to the Court for their approval. The report listed $21,546.31 as total receipts and $14,850.50 as total expenses for the year. The Court approved the settlement.

Tommy Harold Mink with the Department of Vocational Rehabilitation also met with the Court to discuss with them applying for funds to install an elevator in the courthouse and ramps along the sidewalks in Mt. Vernon for use by handicapped persons and the elderly.

Mr. Mink said that federal funds were available for this project under the Title I program and that applications would need to be made by both the county and the City of Mt. Vernon.

The Court voted 10-2 to approve to authorize applications for these funds.

A Resolution prepared by the City of Mt. Vernon for approval and passage of the Fiscal Court, was another matter which the Magistrates split in their voting.

The Resolution concerned a 201 facilities planning survey which the city was conducting for possible expansion of sewer and water service to outlying areas. The part of the Resolution which drew the fire of Magistrate Danny Sargent was the part which asked the county to cooperate with development of

School Board Meets

The Rockcastle County Board of Education met Monday night for their regular monthly meeting with little of interest on the agenda.

Following the reading of the January minutes by Superintendent Charles Parsons, the Board opened two bids which had been received for insulation of the ceiling of Mt. Vernon Elementary School.

The low bid was received from Lewis L P Gas Company of Middleboro for 8 inches of fiberglass insulation at a cost of $4,300. The second bid was from Preston Collins, a local contractor, for 8 inches of premium brand slag mineral fiber at a cost of $8,600.

The board voted to accept the difference in cost lay in the difference in the type of material used for the insulation but that he had called Donald Shelton, architect who told him that Fiberglass insulation would be acceptable.

The board voted to accept the low bid subject to approval of the State Department of Education.

Supt. Parsons then presented to the board a revised statement of valuation of school buildings covered by fire insurance. Mr. Parsons said that since the school's fire insurance coverage expired April 3 and the board would not maintain that date in April, that it would be wise to advertise for insurance bids this month and open them in March so that fire coverage on the buildings might be continuous.

In the revised valuation, the following school's coverage was raised as shown: Mt. Vernon Elementary (main building); $350,000 to $450,000; Mt. Vernon's Industrial Arts building.

$17,000 to $20,000; Administration building; $40,000 to $50,000; Roundstone Elementary School; $270,000 to $350,000; Livingston Elementary School (main building); $200,000 to $300,000; Livingston gymnasium; $30,000 to $50,000 and Brodhead School and gymnasium; $350,000 to $400,000.

The following school building's coverage was kept at the same level: Rock Buildings at Mt. Vernon, $40,000; Mt. Vernon High School; $200,000; Webb building used by LES, $10,000; BES as shop building; $24,500; mobile units at schools; $3,000 each; Harry S. Gentry; $200,000; $377,000; and Rockcastle County High School; $1,240,000.

Mr. Parsons also told the board that he had been informed at a recent meeting that fire insurance rates were expected to increase by about one-fourth this year which would, along with the increased valuation, add to the cost of fire insurance.

The board voted to approve the revised valuation and to authorize Mr. Parsons to advertise for bids.

In other business, the board approved the payment of $7,750 to Rube and Wendell Lawrence for construction of an oxygen storage shed at the vocational school; approved a $500 payment to the architect for work on the block building at MVES damaged by fire; approved the hiring of Roscoe Bookland, a retired professor at Berea College, as a substitute for the high school; approved the hiring of Paul Harper as substitute janitor at MVES at the minimum wage of $2.20 per hour and approved amending the board's policy statement for reduced price lunches and breakfast under the new income schedule.

A New Look for the Signal

Please notice carefully your Signal this week because some changes have been made (and believe me, it would have been a shame to work as hard as we did to make the changes and not have one).

We have gone to a six-column format with a wider page instead of our former seven-columns. Although we have one-column less, we actually have more news and advertising area because the page is wider than the old one. This format is being used more often by weekly newspapers so we thought we would give it a try.

Anyway, it's done (almost at this particular point) and if you have any comments regarding the looks of our new look - please let us hear from you.

FRANKFORT WATCHLINE

Gov. Julian Carroll won almost unanimous applause for the budget document he submitted last week to the General Assembly, with three important exceptions.

Carroll did appear to carry out the thrust of his campaign pledges of last year to make education the number one priority of his administration, and this pleased legislators.

He took a long stride toward bringing Kentucky teacher salaries into line with surrounding states, got the textbook program started, cut out fees for students, added a raft of classroom units for kindergarten, special and vocational education, and took a small step toward the fuller funding of schools in poor counties.

His hope is that the $147 million in new money for education will boost Kentucky from 49th to 39 in the nation.

But while Carroll was plowing the additional millions into elementary and secondary education, he went after the requests from the state's colleges and universities with a vengeance, swinging the pendulum of emphasis back to the lower schools.

In a budget that was 28 per cent higher than for the current biennium, other agencies got modest to substantial increases, not nearly enough to satisfy some, but few programs were slashed.

Three problem areas stand out, all of which are grounded in budgetary philosophy.

They are: 1. His attempt to use $8 million in state funds to bail out depositors who lost money when Louisville's Prudential Building & Loan Association crashed in 1972.

The backlash was immediate and intense from legislators, who raised questions of whether that is a legitimate use of taxpayer money, whether the state was in any way responsible through laxity in examining the firm's books, and whether such an action would set a precedent for other bailouts in the future.

2. Carroll's refusal to grant coal counties an outright rebate of coal severance tax money has angered many coal county lawmakers, although that group is uncharacteristically reserved in reacting.

Carroll said in his speech that he still favors the concept of coal counties getting a piece of the action, but has problems with the way the money was handled since the last session.

However, he had told newsmen earlier that day that there would be no rebate of severance money, absolutely, but left in the air for the time being a $18 million fund for economic development, a fund he would ask legislators to help him allocate.

Goal legislators are hoping for a substantial piece of that to be earmarked for their counties. Indication is that may well be.

3. Carroll left a quarter of a billion dollars for capital construction, without actually specifying where it should go, yet mentioning certain specific projects in the budget document. Those projects had no figures attached.

There is strong speculation by some legislators that this in effect leaves Carroll with more of the control over funds he said he was going to give back to the legislature.

There is also some speculation that Carroll can use this, and the projects the money can buy, as a hammer to hold over legislators to get his programs passed.

If we get no more detail than this, we might as well skip the hearings and pass the budget tomorrow, one prominent legislator remarked last week.

It is a not uncommon occurrence among politicians.

Stories about Carroll deciding that this term will be his last in elected office of any sort, a story leaked out by the governor himself, very nearly matched the attention given the budget.

Carroll's statements left no margin for interpretation. This term will be his last.

At this point, no one has come up with any good reason for doubting Carroll's sincerity.

On the other hand, there is on reason to believe that Carroll could not change his mind sometime during the next four years.

It is a not uncommon occurrence among politicians.

USDA ANNOUNCES REDUCED 1976 BURLEY TOBACCO MARKETING QUOTA

A 5 percent reduction in 1976 farm marketing quotas of Burley tobacco was announced recently by U.S. Department of Agriculture. This reduction is the maximum allowed by law and was taken to maintain supplies in line with demand.

The national marketing quota announced today is 830 million pounds—40 million pounds below last year's quota. However, because of special provisions of the Burley tobacco program, effective farm quotas for 1976 are expected to total about 727 million pounds—3 percent less than last year.

Under current legislation, a farm that markets less than its quota of burley will have its quota raised for the following year to make up the difference. Likewise, any marketing in excess of a farm's quota are reduced from the farm's quota for the following year. These provisions allow the total actual farm quotas in effect in a given year to be greater and smaller than the announced national marketing quota.

Notice of individual farm poundage quotas for 1976 will be mailed to farm operators by local Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee about March 15—the earliest date that adjustments can be made to reflect 1975 and overmarketing. As in the past, a small amount of quota will be reserved in 1976 to establish quotas for farms having no Burley history during the past five years, for correcting errors and for adjusting inequities.

Burley tobacco is grown principally in Kentucky, Tennessee, North Carolina, West Virginia, Virginia, Ohio, Indiana and Missouri.

IN MEMORY

In memory of our Mother, Liddie Repper, who passed away February 6, 1975.

You left us so suddenly, dear Mother. You said goodbye to none. The heavenly gates just opened. And a voice said, please come. No one knows how we miss your smiling face.

But you left us to remember. No one could take your place. Only a prayer for you, dear Mother. Only a thought, kind and true. Only a token of deep affection. From us who thought the world of you.

Loving daughter and sons,

With the Legislature In Frankfort

By Rep. Harold DeMarcus

This week's column will be devoted entirely to the issue of unionization of public employees (collective bargaining).

Since public employment involves an estimated 150,000 persons in Kentucky, any new legislation in this area could have considerable impact on all levels of government and the services they provide to the citizens of the state.

Support for bargaining legislation has mainly been from private organizations which believe public workers should have the same rights and privileges as those in the private sector. Opposition has come largely from government officials, school administrators and certain private interest groups including some business and farm organizations. Much of the opposition has been based on the effect unionization of public employees could have on state and local budget-making processes.

In 1966, the U.S. Seventh Circuit Court of Appeals handed down an opinion that the First Amendment to the U.S. Constitution gives public employees the right to join a union, "but there is some illegal intent" on a union process has not been demonstrated to inherently violate the interests of public policy.

Wisconsin enacted the first public employee recognition and bargaining law in 1959. Since then, 37 states have enacted some type of public labor relations legislation. The laws are not identical. Eighteen states have comprehensive laws which mandate collective (union) bargaining between employer and employee. The remaining states either allow bargaining by local option or have "meet and confer" provisions. The laws also differ on what matters may be negotiated and what rights are reserved for employers.

Activity by the states in the area of collective bargaining for public employees has increased significantly in the last several years. Fifteen states, including Kentucky, analyzed the need for legislation in 1975. As a result, new laws were enacted in five states granting collective bargaining rights to 200,000 workers.

Several bills have been introduced in the last two sessions of the U.S. Congress to mandate a national policy for public labor relations.

Kentucky at present has no comprehensive law regulating public labor relations. While bargaining rights are mandated for certain policemen and firemen, other state and local government employees are covered by legislation that is solely permissive.

State employees are regulated by a Memorandum and Statement Policy adopted by the State Personnel Board in 1966. It recognizes the right of state employees to join labor unions and labor unions, but stipulates that no department or agency of state government will recognize or bargain with any third party agent. No binding agreements with employee associations or unions are permitted, and the right to strike or conduct any type of slowdown or job action is prohibited.

Kentucky's Attorney General has stated that, with the absence of any prohibitory statute or regulation, teachers and other employees groups may legally organize and bargain in a collective manner with their employer. The Board of Education. Separate opinions, however, recognized the right of boards of education to unilaterally decide whether to bargain with its employees.

There is no statutory or case law in Kentucky that addresses the question of local government units entering into bargaining agreements with employee associations or unions. While there is no authority granting cities and counties the power to enter into such agreements, the Attorney General has concluded that an agreement between a government and a union may be entered into in the same manner that a government would contract for construction of a hospital or delivery of fire department vehicles.

A committee of seven legislators was appointed by the Legislative Research Commission in the fall of 1974, and charged with conducting an intensive study of public employee collective bargaining. The committee held five public hearings and received testimony from over 165 individuals representing public employers and employees as well as private interests.

Based upon information gathered at the hearings and the research of individual members, a majority of the committee recommended that the 976 General Assembly not enact legislation mandating public employee collective bargaining. The majority also recommended that the 1976 General Assembly not enact legislation establishing a procedure to be followed in the event a local government or governmental body and its employees voluntarily entered into an agreement.

However, the committee recommendations have not been adhered to as House Bill 300 was introduced on January 22, 1976 by State Representative Norbert Blume of Jefferson County (who is the former Speaker of the House of Representatives and the Governor's handpicked Chairman of the House Labor and Industry Committee for the 1976 session). House Bill 300 is entitled "An Act Relating to Public Employees' Collective Bargaining". Under this bill, provisions are established whereby public employees and public employers can enter into an agreement to bargain collectively. In reality, the effect of this bill will be that the majority of all public employees, will form organizations for the purpose of collective bargaining as they will feel that their interests can better be served and their demands attained through a united organization, such as a union.

Once such a union is organized under the statute, then the public employer must bargain collectively with the elected representative of this union. The statute also permits the organization to establish requirements for joining the union and for deduction from wages for union dues. The potential effect on the Commonwealth of Kentucky of such a bill is that every local public employee (if not exempted from the statute) would join fellow local employees for the purpose of organizing a labor union and would demand bargaining rights with their public employer. This could mean that every local fire department, police department, county road workers, school teachers, and general county employees could form a labor union to bargain with their public employer. In essence, the total machinery of local government could be stopped if a collective bargaining agreement could not be reached by the public employees and their public employer.

Although provisions are provided in the proposed bill for arbitration,

Down on the Farm

By Roy G. Brown
 Assistant Vice President
 Cumberland PCA

Even though we are in mid-winter, there are many things that we can be doing. Even though it may be cold, raining or snowing outside, there are many important things that will mean dollars at market time. If we expect to have healthy, thrifty, top price cattle for marketing, now is the high time we check and treat cattle for lice, worms, scours and anything else that will hinder getting the most from their feed. Also keep plenty of salt, minerals and feed a balanced diet.

Other jobs are soil test whenever soil can be taken for test. Knowing what kind and right amount of fertilizer used for the best and most productive crop will be money making at market time. Cattle prices will again in the near future be profitable. Will we then be ready to make the most out of them? If we are not careful because of higher fertilizer, seed and other costs. We'll have to neglect our pastures and hay crops, which is our cheapest source of cattle feed. Now would be a good time to start a pasture renovation program. First a soil test, apply whatever lime and fertilizer is needed, destroy at least 60 percent or more of present grass with a tiller or disc, then work ground to a good seed bed and seed by March 12 if weather permits.

Also now is a good time to check and repair machinery to be ready to use when crop season comes "Down on the Farm."

Freshmen Play Catch-up And Defeat Pulaski Co.

By: Rick Anderkin

The Rockcastle Rockets' Freshman team came from behind Monday night to defeat the Pulaski Co county freshmen 43-40.

During the first quarter, the Rockets stayed close to Pulaski but could not take the lead partly as a result of missing all of their foul shots during the quarter. During the second quarter, the Rockets playing did not improve much. They continued to miss foul shots and Jack Farthing, who played an outstanding game, had to set out part of the second quarter because of having picked up three fouls.

At the end of the first half, the Rockets were behind 24-18. Things did not look good for the Rockets at the beginning of the second half as Eddie Thompson picked up two quick fouls, making him four, and therefore had to set out most of the remainder of the game. However, his back-up man, Robert Owens, played his finest game of the season. Owens only got four points but pulled down 11 rebounds.

At the end of the third quarter, the Rockets were down even further, 32-24 but they had a few surprises in store for Pulaski County as, beginning in the fourth quarter, it was the Rockets' game all the way.

Steve Centers, who missed most all his foul shots the first three quarters, was not to be denied as he hit 8 of 10 foul shots in the final period and a field goal giving him 10 points in the fourth quarter and 18 for the game.

Another big reason why the Rockets were able to come back in the fourth quarter was Jack Farthing and David Pensol. Pensol hit two long outside shots and the clinching free throw. Farthing had 13 rebounds and 11 points, 4 of them coming in the fourth quarter.

Centers led the scoring with 18 points and 5 rebounds; Farthing got 11 points and 13 rebounds; Pensol, 7 points and 3 rebounds; Owens, 4 points and 11 rebounds; Warren Cash, 2 points and 3 rebounds and Thompson, 1 point and 1 rebound.

Jack Farthing, No. 42, the Rockets' fine freshman forward goes up for a shot in the above photo. Farthing had 11 points and 13 rebounds in the Pulaski game. Thompson, also in the photo, got into foul trouble very early in the second half and had to set-out most of the second half because of it. [Photo by Rick Anderkin.]
