

City firemen were called out last Thursday afternoon to battle a brush fire in the vicinity of Owens Subdivision. City Fire Chief John Cox said that between two and three acres were burned over before the fire was brought under control. On Tuesday before that, two or three acres also burned behind Northside Baptist Church and Rescue Squad members and volunteers fought this blaze with the City Fire Department taking care of the area within the city limits.

Down on the Farm

BY ROY G. BROWN
ASSISTANT VICE PRESIDENT
CUMBERLAND PCA

Well, we soon shall see the end of winter and the beginning of spring, and to me this is one of the most, if not the most, beautiful seasons of the year. And the most busy times for the farmer, a time we must give careful planning to the kind and amount of crops we will grow. This needs a lot of study of what crops, how much of each and which fields, will be the best suited and most profitable. Each crop will need the right amount and analysis of fertilizer according to soil test. The time of planting will also determine the yield. Late planting will reduce the yield of corn.

Cutting of hay will begin about the 20th of May and this can determine the quality of our hay if it is not cut at the right time.

Although this is a busy time for the farmer, we shouldn't get lost in our work to take time over for a few days of leisure and enjoy the wonders and beauty that God has blessed us with. This is the season when trees put forth their bud and leaves, the grass comes forth in green luster, spring flowers bloom in their many beautiful colors and shapes, the dogwoods and redbuds put more color to the woodland and fence rows that are almost breathtaking. And oh yes, for us fishermen, can't you just feel the rod bend with the strike of that big bass hid behind a log, rock or under a bush near the edge of the lake.

Why not take off from the farm chores a few days and really see and enjoy the beauty about us on every side and go fishing. You will feel more like doing a better job, (don't forget to take the family, too.) Down on the Farm.

programs by signing an installment contract under which they are obligated for several years. Membership is non-cancellable, non-transferable, and non-refundable.

The Federal Trade Commission reports that in recent years, many health spas have used false, misleading and deceptive advertising and sales presentations. Those for practices are characterized by high-pressure sales tactics, false bargain offers and deceptive pricing.

The length of available enrollment periods may vary, though contracts are usually written for the longest time possible. Signing those contracts may also involve the buyers in much more of a financial burden than they originally expected.

Examples include: facilities which have been promised, but aren't available; minimal employee qualifications and training; memberships sold to people not physically able to participate; and facilities which may never open.

Once a person has joined a health club or spa, there is little protection for him if he moves or the spa closes without warning. The monthly payments are still due.

To deal with these problems, the FTC has proposed a trade regulation rule with provisions for refunding, cancellation, a cooling-off period and a two-year maximum length for contracts. Public hearings are planned on this rule, and it will probably be several months before the rule becomes effective.

There currently appears to be an enrollment campaign under way to lure prospective buyers into signing contracts before this rule becomes effective. At this time, consumers have limited protections against the health spas which engage in these unscrupulous practices.

Until these standards are uniformly adopted, what should Kentuckians do to avoid such problems?

If possible, hold off making a commitment, a cooling-off period and the protections provided by the proposed rule. If you decide to join a health spa or club, be certain to read the contract before signing it, and decide if this is a wise investment for you.

Consumer Comments

By Robert F. Stephens
Attorney General

How often have you wished that you had the slim, trim figure advertised as a benefit of membership in health clubs or spas?

Many Kentuckians have responded to such advertising. They are enticed into a health spa and are enrolled in there.

The Mordica Lincoln home in Washington County. The house, last lived in 1953, was built by an uncle of Abraham Lincoln in 1797. The original log cabin structure was covered with the current weather boarding by other tenants in 1815. The Kentucky Department of Parks and the Washington County Historical Society have entered into an agreement to restore and maintain the home as a part of Lincoln Homestead State Park.

MATH CONTEST TO BE HELD AT CUMBERLAND COLLEGE APRIL 9

An estimated 130-150 high school and junior high school students are expected to participate in the 14th annual Cumberland College Math Contest on April 9th from 9:30 a.m. until 2 p.m. From 40 to 50 high schools from Southeastern Kentucky and Northeastern Tennessee are expected to attend. Speaking of last year's contest, Chester Nevels, associate professor of Mathematics at Cumberland stated, "Last year's contest was very successful. We had more participants involved and that constitutes whether it is a success or not. Students come expecting to win and this year, they seem to be very excited about the competition."

The contest winners will be divided into four categories. Appropriate awards and recognition will be given the winning students in each category as well as to the high school whose students received the greatest number of total points. The winning high school and the first and second place winner of each category will receive plaques. The third, fourth and fifth place winners in each division will receive certificates of achievement. The winner of Test IV, the Advanced Test, will be granted a one-half scholarship to attend Cumberland, Kentucky's largest private institution of higher learning.

Categories
I. Test II, Algebra II; Test III, Plane Geometry and Test IV, Advanced Mathematics.

Each high school may enter no more than two students in each of the four categories and there is a one dollar registration fee for each participant. The fee will help to cover the cost and grading of the test.

1975 Local Winners
Rockcastle County winners in the 1975 Math Contest were Rhonda Bradley, tied for first place, Test III and Luther Centers, second place, Test III, both of Rockcastle County High School.

RECREATION COUNCIL MEETS
The Mt. Vernon Recreation Council met Monday night and elected officers for the coming year. Re-elected president was John Bullock; Mrs. Gary (Janal) Croner was elected vice-president and Betty Cameron was elected secretary-treasurer.

During the meeting, the group discussed obtaining sponsors and coaches for the little league baseball teams and it was decided that a concentrated effort, through personal contact, would be made to get volunteers to coach these boys and merchants to provide uniforms for the teams.

Also discussed was the problem the playground had last summer with a few people drinking alcoholic beverages on the premises and this matter was resolved when Bro. Harvey Pensol took time out from the meeting to visit at the City Council meeting to ask if a City policeman had the authority to remove someone drinking or generally being obnoxious from the grounds. Bro. Pensol was told by City Attorney Carl Clontz that city police did have this authority and he was also told by the Council that they would discuss later furnishing one of the city policemen to periodically patrol the grounds and discuss using some Revenue Sharing funds to help hire someone for this purpose.

The Recreation Council also decided at this meeting to advertise for a Playground Director for the summer program with applications to be opened Monday night, March 29th.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Jailer Anglin wishes to thank the Grand Jury for their last report. It was gully, the fine would have only been about five hundred dollars. In my opinion, there have been several instances where news items have deserved larger headlines than I got in December of '75 but I never saw a bigger display like that in the paper like there was against me over nothing.

There was a man from Somerset, Kentucky, who was sent over here for a purpose. I caught on to the racket and I refused to let his supposed to be wife in the jail cell with him. I figured it was a frame-up to incriminate me. Now, the Grand Jury don't go out and drum up proof on people. They only take what comes before them but I think some certain people that will talk against me. But what they told the jury wasn't worth the paper it was written on. Why didn't they have people like those who know about my jail and Ivory Anglin. I'll just name a few preachers and their wives and a few members of their churches that have been coming to my jail every other Sunday to preach and talk to the prisoners and other preachers of other denominations who have held revivals upstairs over my jail here in the courthouse. They should have talked to those people. Let me give some names of people that are in different parts of the county: Forester Mullins, Joe Daugherty, Little Joe Clark, C.W. Phillips, Bill Cole, Virgil Abner, Jackie Parsons,

Hubert Chasson, Bill Wren, Sr., Carlo (Hack) Saylor, Chester Brown, Lloyd Owens and Danny Sargent.

I would like for the good people of this county to talk to the people that I have mentioned in this letter. Ask them if they have ever seen anything unlawful or drunk or drinking at this jail out of L.L. Anglin or Chester Anglin.

Now, let's talk about Lawrence Hall sending my prisoners to the Laurel County Jail. No. 1, the Kentucky law says if any prisoner is threatened of their lives of being in danger of a jail riot or if a jailer fails to furnish heat, lights, water and another reason if a jailer feeds prisoners stale food or unclean cooking vessels now these things has to be true and proven according to law before they can legally be moved. There were five prisoners at the Lims Hall ordered them out. But, only three went, two refused to go to Laurel County jail because they said it was unconstitutional and they remained here. I, Ivory L. Anglin, elected by the people of Rockcastle County feel that I have carried out the duties of being jailer to the best of my ability.

Contrary to the indictments facing me, I feel and know that the people of Rockcastle County do not regret electing me as their jailer.

Thank You,
Rockcastle County Jailer

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

I am writing concerning the Rockcastle County Hospital. There are so many nice people up there. The nurses are so kind although there is one that isn't so kind but guess you can expect that.

My sister, Mollie Waterfield, and I are so thankful for Mrs. Hale. She is the nicest person and we are also so thankful for Dr. Arvin. He is kind and good and so interested in people. I believe the Lord called him to be a doctor.

We are so thankful for this little hospital and all the nurses' aides.

City Council To Take Action Concerning Traffic Violators

The Mt. Vernon City Council asked City Police Judge Virgie Bowder Monday night at their regular monthly meeting, to issue warrants for persons receiving parking tickets and not paying them.

The Council had discussed the problem at an earlier meeting after they were informed by City Clerk Mary Craig that her letters to traffic violators were going unanswered and that with the increase in postage, it was not really worthwhile to continue sending the notices.

The City Ordinance states that overtime parking tickets shall cost the recipient $1 if paid within 24 hours, $3 if paid within 5 days and $5 if paid within 10 days. After this time, a warrant will be issued for the person receiving the ticket.

In other action, the Council heard a request from County Judge Hubert Thacker for a contribution from the city to the county's garbage collection system for the year ending July 1, 1976. However, after some discussion, the Council decided they would hold off on making a final decision until the next called meeting of the Council.

Bro. Harvey Penzol was before the Council to ask if the city would provide some law enforcement on the playground at Mt. Vernon Elementary School this summer during the Recreation Council's summer program.

Bro. Penzol told the Council that the Recreation Council had been told that city policemen could not take anyone off the playground who was drinking alcoholic beverages but instead had to

DEVELOPMENT COMM. MEETS

The Rural Development Committee held their regular monthly luncheon meeting Monday at noon at the Holiday Steak House with Robert Robinson as host.

As the first item of business, Doug Edwards, chairman, asked for committee reports and Mr. Robinson reported his lack of success with the Fiscal Court in offering the committee's assistance in cleaning up the illegal dump sites which have accumulated throughout the county since the garbage system went out.

Following this report, the committee decided that efforts would be made to obtain volunteer help from members of the Rescue Squad, the FFA chapter and others in cleaning up the sites and County Judge Hubert Thacker, who was present, stated that he would probably be able to furnish a dump truck and loader and possibly some men employed in the county under the CETA program.

Later in the meeting, the committee went on record publicly expressing their gratitude to the Fiscal Court for reinstating the garbage collection system.

The group also decided to approach outside the city limits was discussed by the Council. Councilman Virgil Alcorn and Chester Hellard agreed that if this were done then a surplus could probably be built up in the water department which would enable water rates for city customers to be lowered. No action was taken on the matter at the meeting but it was agreed to study the proposal and decide at a later date.

FRANKFORT WATCHLINE

FRANKFORT, Opponents of the Equal Rights Amendment to the U. S. Constitution keep trying, but their first test last Friday on the Senate floor left them short of the necessary votes to bring the issue to a head.

U. S. Gov. Thelma Stovall remains confident that she and her fellow supporters of the ERA can keep control over the matter and keep the resolution to rescind Kentucky's ratification of the ERA bottled up in committee.

Based on the outcome of Friday's parliamentary efforts, Mrs. Stovall may be right.

One senator commented that if the move to drag the recession bill out of committee were ever to succeed, it would have to be done last Friday, perhaps the last day when all 88 members of the Senate will be present.

Opponents of the ERA need every warm body they can muster, since they need an absolute majority of 20 votes to take the resolution from the Senate Committee on Elections and Constitutional Amendments.

Last Friday was the day for the vote on the executive budget bill, a day when even sick senators drag themselves to their seats to vote, for nothing is more dangerous politically than not voting on the budget.

Her opponents can come back next campaign to accuse the incumbent of not voting for education, teachers, the aged, or lower taxes, and nobody wants to run that risk.

Friday may well have been the last chance this session for opponents of the ERA.

An unusually long special session of the General Assembly appears to be in the offing for later this year.

Earlier this year, Gov. Julian Carr (Carroll) promised he would call a special session to handle the mass of laws necessary to implement the judicial reform article approved by voters last November.

Last week, he said he would also place in the call for the special session matters pertaining to the no-fault insurance law. Meanwhile, he will, by executive order, extend the rate reduction on no-fault policies until next January.

While there has as yet been no official word, it appears that the special session will most likely come in late Fall of this year, probably November after

Rockets Lose in District

The Rockcastle Rockets went down to defeat in the second game of district play to a fine Jackson County team, 45 to 44. Jackson then went on to win the District in a close one with Clay County 77-75.

The Rockets, who had advanced to the semi-finals by defeating Oneida, shot 50 percent from the field the first half but their rebounding left something to be desired. At the end of the first quarter, the score was 14 to 10, Jackson County's favor, but at halftime the Rockets had moved closer 22 to 21. An outside shot by junior John Nugent tied the score at 20 all for the first time in the game late in the second quarter.

Two factors which hurt the Rockets in their bid for at least a share of the district title was the fact that senior Garlin Vanhook was held to only ten points. However, Vanhook hit the field goal early in the third quarter which put the Rockets ahead for the first time in the game 23-22 early in the third quarter.

Bill Henderson, one of the Rocket's best shooters, failed to score a field goal until late in the second half but made some brilliant defensive moves late in the fourth quarter to help keep the Rockets in the game until the final buzzer.

Following the Rockets' go-ahead score by Vanhook, the game saw-sawed back and forth until late in the fourth quarter when the Rockets found themselves down by 6 points, 39-33, with a minute and 39 seconds to go in the game. They then made a run at the Generals which paid off but not quite enough. Henderson stole the ball twice in the closing seconds and passed off to Harmon for one goal, made another one himself from way outside and then Vanhook contributed once again by coolly sinking two free throws but it was all to no avail.

Henderson and Harmon shared the lead for the Rockets in scoring with 12 points each. Vanhook had 10, Nugent 8 and Burdette 2.

The Girls' team also went down to defeat to Jackson County in the first game of the night 39-36. The girls had also advanced to semi-final action by defeating Oneida earlier.

Named to the all-tournament team from RCHS were Vanhook and Henderson and Nancy French, Sandy Sturgill and Regina Ruppe for the girls. The Rockets' cheerleading squad also took second place in cheerleading behind the Jackson County cheerleaders.

BOWLING REPORT

Week of March 6th
The Browns are still on top in the Saturday Night League at the Bear Bowl in Somerset with 67 wins and 97 losses. In second place are the Millers at 64 1/2 and 39 1/2 and the Barrons are holding down third place with 60 1/2 wins and 43 1/2 losses.

High team series for the week went to Norfleet's Garage with a 2,151 and Reynolds Grocery took high team game with a 761.

Individual highs for the week were as follows: high series, men: Bobby Hood, 573; Ronnie Adams, 572 and Danny Carroll, 555. High game, men: Bobby Hood, 228; James Everett "Doc" Brown, 220 and Danny Carroll, 217.

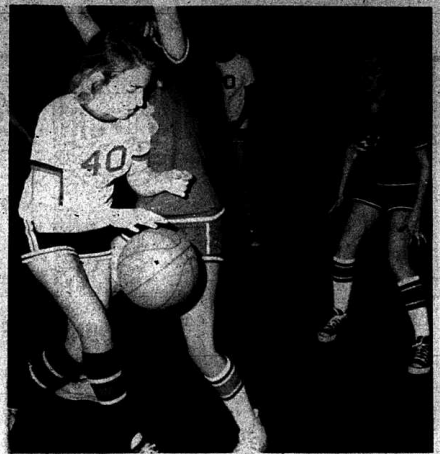

High series, women: Carolyn Carroll, 521; Doris Hall, 507 and Tressie Barron, 506. High game, women: Carolyn Carroll, 205; Debbie Kieser, 197 and Sharon Simpson, 186.

Garlin Vanhook, No. 52 for the Rockets, is shown going for two against Jackson County in one of the Rockets' last home games of the season which the Rockets lost by two points. Vanhook was named to the all-tournament team in district action.

Bill Henderson, No. 24 for the Rockets, gets a little nudge from a Jackson County player in the same game. Henderson was also named to the all-tournament team. The Rocket cheerleaders received the second place trophy in that competition in the district.

Regina Ruppe, No. 40, drives around a Jackson County player in last Friday night's game. Miss Ruppe, a sophomore, along with Sandy Sturgill, a freshman, and Nancy French, a junior, were all named to the girls all-district tournament team.

It looks as though the referee might be signaling a touchdown but actually it was a foul on a Jackson County girl in last Friday night's contest between the RCHS girls' team and the Jackson County Girl Generals. Jackson came out on top even though the Rockets had defeated them twice in regular season play. An inability to convert several free throws at the last of the game proved the girls undoing. The Jackson County girls were defeated in the first game of the regionals, to which they journeyed as district runners-up, by Cawood.

Sewage treatment plant effluent must be clean enough to be discharged into a river or stream without polluting it. Removal of nutrients from the stream are important in preventing blooms of algae. According to the division of water quality in the Kentucky Department of Natural Resources and Environmental Protection, although no effluent from any sewage treatment plant is absolutely clean, most pollution and health hazards can be eliminated.

With the Legislature In Frankfort

By Rep. Harold DeMarcus

Many state governments have become concerned recently over events affecting the heretofore high reputation of municipal bonds. Rumblings from the financial world are being heard in response to the tight fiscal situation facing some states and the possibility that at least one municipality, New York City, might default on payment of its obligations. As a result, even those states in good financial condition are finding that investors are reluctant to purchase municipal bonds and notes, regardless of their relative merit. Furthermore, high interest rates needed to lure less apprehensive investors back to the market increase the cost of credit and compound the problems of states needing large amounts of capital. Because of Kentucky's continued reliance on the bond and note market for its capital needs, the situation creating turmoil in the world of municipal finance most likely will affect the state in more than one way.

The cost of a large scale state construction project cannot ordinarily be financed by a one time appropriation to the state capital construction fund without a severe cut-back in other governmental service areas. Therefore, outside capital has to be attracted in order to finance the project and allow day-to-day state operations to continue without threat of a cutback.

Postponed, March 11, 1976

Kentucky has satisfied this need for additional capital by selling bonds in the open market. Bonds are a written representation to pay the holder a sum of money at a certain time (more than one year after issue) and at a stated rate of interest. Of the many types of bonds, Kentucky has utilized two in its capital raising efforts: general obligation bonds and revenue bonds.

When general obligation bonds are sold, the state (that is, the people of Kentucky) incurs an obligation to pay these bonds plus the interest thereon. Chapter 42 of Kentucky's Constitution specifically states "The General Assembly may contract debts . . . but such debts . . . shall not at any time exceed $500,000." This section has been interpreted to mean that the General Assembly acting alone could only incur $500,000 of debt.

Chapter 50 of Kentucky's Constitution has been interpreted to permit the Commonwealth to incur additional indebtedness if such additional debt is "approved by the voters in a general election."

Therefore, under these two constitutional provisions, Kentucky (as of June 30, 1975) had $361,180,000 of general obligation bonds outstanding. The six bond issues approved by Kentucky's voters are:

- (1) Road Bonds of 1957, $29,900,000;
- (2) Highway Bonds of 1951, $78,100,000;
- (3) Highway Bonds of 1965, $127,845,000;
- (4) Various Purpose Bonds of 1965, $29,155,000;
- (5) Park Bonds of 1961, $6,510,000; and
- (6) Veterans' Bonus Bonds of 1960, $90,520,000. The bonds totaled $361,180,000.

As general obligation bonds, each Kentucky stands behind the payment of these bonds. The approximate population of Kentucky as of July 1, 1974 was 3.4 million. Thus, each kentuckian citizen is ultimately responsible for approximately $103 of these outstanding general obligation bonds.

Issuing general obligation bonds has proven to be time-consuming and in addition, projects financed in this manner are at the mercy of the voters. In order to circumvent these and other constitutional provisions, and to gain more flexibility, the state has been issuing bonds that are known generally as revenue bonds.

Revenue bonds, which are supposed to be paid for by the revenue generated from the project, do not have to be approved by the Kentucky taxpayer. And, although, the full faith and credit is not pledged as security, there are moral obligations, as well as legal obligations imposed upon the Commonwealth to compel the state to insure the payment of all debts.

As of June 30, 1975, Kentucky has outstanding $1.3 million of revenue bonds that had been issued by five different state agencies and the state universities. These revenue bonds are:

- (1) State Property and Building Com., $122,350,000;
- (2) Department of Transportation; $3,071,000;
- (3) Turppike Authority; $733,500,000;
- (4) Kentucky Housing Corp., $51,745,000;
- (5) Pollution Abatement Authority, $23,585,000; and
- (6) Eight State Universities and Colleges, $37,212,000, making a total of $1,311,811,000.

Since the state is ultimately responsible for all bonds, the state (that is, Kentucky's taxpayers) is also obligated for these bonds. This would make each Kentucky resident (2.4 million persons) responsible for approximately $368.00 of these outstanding revenue bonds. At this amount, the $103.00 of which each resident is responsible for in general obligation bonds, the Kentucky resident is indebted on behalf of the state for $468.00. And this is $468.00 for every man, woman and child in Kentucky.

But, this does not set forth the total picture. The amounts set out above are only for the principal on these bond issues. Each year, interest must be paid on the outstanding debt.

A clearer picture can be drawn by looking at the debt service requirement on these bonds - debt service is the amount which must be paid each year. The debt service included the amount of interest plus the principal payment for that year.

The debt service requirement for fiscal year 1976 is $122,971,198 or $36.00 for each Kentucky resident for fiscal year 1977, $122,465,989 or $36 for each Kentucky resident; for fiscal year 1978, $122,218,665 or $36.00 for each Kentucky resident; for fiscal year 1979, $122,892,373 or $36.00 for each Kentucky resident.

The debt service on the general obligation bonds is paid out of the general fund of the state treasury. The debt service on the revenue bonds is "supposed" to be paid out of revenues generated by the project financed with the bonds.

In reality, the debt service is usually all paid from the general fund - the source of which is our tax dollars.

The plain fact is that the revenue generated by the revenue bonds is not sufficient to meet the debt service requirements. Also, some of the revenue is used for "other projects" rather than the retirement of the debt.

To give a specific example of the way the state's funds are being administered, look at the Veterans' Bonus of 1960. At that time, the Kentucky voters chose to pay a sales tax to fund this bonus. Instead, the state issued bonds to pay the bonus - bonds which are still outstanding and which do not become due until 1990. If the sales tax had been used as the voters wanted, the bonus would have been paid in 6 months. But by issuing bonds, the state incurred a debt of 140,000,000 of which $90,520,000 is still outstanding.

In closing, I might add that we may not be as far from bankruptcy as we were several years ago. According to available data, we are first in per-capita long-term debt in the southeast.

We owe more money than forty-three other states in the nation.

Over the past 20 years, our debt has increased over 2,000 per cent - from approximately $75 million to $1.7 billion.

Citizens Beware! These debts are actually a mortgage on all of your business and your homes!!!!!!!

Kentucky may have more old dams still operating than any other state. Many are more than 100 years old. Kentuckians began building locks and dams in the early 1800's to raise the water level and aid navigation. The materials used to build the locks and dams were crude and common. The walls of the lock chamber were made of native limestone blocks. The dams were rock-filled timber cribs with wood sheather crests.

Rains Last Friday Helped To Extinguish Forest Fires

Friday morning rain helped firefighters control and extinguish the scores of forest fires that have plagued eastern Kentucky for more than a week.

Harry Nadler, director of the Division of Forestry in the Kentucky Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection, said that damage from the fires could run as high as one-half million dollars.

Nadler said that many of the fires were deliberately started, pointing out that several persons have been apprehended, charged and sentenced.

He estimated that acres burned by the fires will total from 35,000 to 40,000 acres. The spring fire season normally runs through the second quarter of each year. The five-year average for acres burned is 17,000, which means that the current rash of forest fires has more than doubled the state average, with the heart of the forest fires season yet to come.

The fires became so widespread that last Thursday, 84 persons from the state Department of Transportation were sent into eastern Kentucky by Gov. Julian Carroll to join the more than 1,000 state and federal firefighters already battling the blazes.

But Friday morning brought the rain needed for the fire fighters to get the blazes under control.

"The rains have quashed the fires temporarily," Nadler explained, "but if the area dries out again and more winds come up, more fires could spring up."

Of Kentucky's loss of an estimated half-million dollars, Nadler said that half the total was in burned timberland, at an average of $8 per acre, and the other half in water shed damage, loss of wildlife, soil damage and loss of aesthetic value. "The situation is unique this year," Nadler said, "because the hazardous conditions have developed so much earlier than usual. Not only have we had much drier weather than usual, the temperatures have been so much higher."

Prestonburg seemed to be the "hot spot" for the fires. As of Thursday morning last week, crews were battling nine fires in the Hazard area.

"The gusty winds we had made fighting these fires extremely hazardous especially at night," Nadler stated. "No injuries of fire fighters were reported, however."

"The fire fighters were able to use only hand tools in many areas because the rugged terrain prohibited the utilization of heavy equipment."

Several college students, including some from Union College in Barboursville, helped fight the fires along with about 30 high school students from N.C. Napier High School in Perry County.

Nadler said the Friday morning rains were "a godsend" as Thursday night 30 new fires had cropped up in several eastern Kentucky counties.

Dear Mother and Father...

"Say, excuse me, but did you notice the corpse lying in your front room last evening? You didn't. Well, maybe you should have been paying more attention. As a matter of fact, there were a number of them - so many that it almost seemed like a large city funeral parlor except, of course, there were no flowers."

It all started last evening as the national network news came on the air. During the news the television audience was given a close up view of how the tortures, and massacres were being carried out in another part of the world. Then came the closer-to-home variety of violence. A visit to the murder site of a southern coastal state, complete with a close-up of corpses and bloodstained weapons. If you have never had the chance to view a murder warning, the camera gave you at least 20 seconds or more to firmly imprint this kind of warning on your mind. Enough for the news. On to the real home violence! Program after program, more weapons, blood and homicide. Violence multiplied by violence and the evening was filled with light with the kids to go to bed. More of the same TV violence presented for our entertainment.

Some of you may say, "Wow, I never realized this was happening in my own living room." Please take a second look. What is happening on the television is affecting you and most especially, it is affecting your children. And the only real remedy is to turn the television very, very firmly OFF.

You might be tempted to allow your children to watch Saturday morning cartoons thinking that a cartoon is a harmless sort of program? Again, take another look. From approximately 8:00 to 9:00 Saturday morning, a whole lot of news, some of the most senseless television programming takes place. This innocent sounding set of cartoons not only captivates children but very often dishes up some of the most heinous stories about what one person is capable of doing to another human being. Some of the sequences are so violent that if real people, as opposed to cartoon characters were involved, many people would issue a loud outcry. It's sadistic, brutal, inhuman, and so forth.

In addition, Saturday morning television illustrates very well how children are being manipulated to want, desire and get their parents to buy sugar coated goodies and a whole lot of toys that are of questionable value. Super sell artists have connected a group of commercials that are interspersed between the cartoons. These commercials are action filled and often create a sad picture of how certain segments of society are abusing children, their minds and their values. Many researchers have been at work studying the effects of TV violence and aggression on children. It's been a costly venture, but now, after more than 50 studies involving more than 10,000 normal children, the evidence is in. There is solid research evidence that shows that the demonstrated and instigated affects of aggressive television programming is a sufficient importance to warrant some very firm action.

Case after case presented in some of the studies relate how crimes have been committed by children. And this crime, the techniques and the brutality had been learned by the children involved while watching television. In a word, television teaches children how to do many crimes.

Think for a moment, if you regularly watch Sesame Street, he probably has astounded you by blurring out the numbers one to ten. Or one day out of a clear blue sky, rattles off the ABC's. Now, a child can learn this kind of lesson, why can't they just as well learn the lessons of aggression and crime from the evening or Saturday morning television programs?

The answer is, of course, they can. And yet in many homes across the country there is little effort to control while watching television. It's ironic that many parents refuse to take their children to a funeral parlor to see the relative who has passed away, or when a loved one is involved in an accident scene on the highway, will speed by because it's so gory. Nevertheless, they will allow these same children to experience in full and living color, the same sort of thing while sitting in their own homes.

Something needs to be done about children's television. The United States is almost the only country in the world programming to be put on the tube. Many parents have taken action by writing the sponsors of these programs expressing their dissatisfaction. Others have formed or joined local groups to protest.

If you're not a joiner or a writer, there is still something you can do. Yes, there is something you can do right in your own home. You probably guessed it, you can simply, but firmly turn the television OFF. Realize that young children see on television, you must be firm and consistent. You can monitor and control the programs your children watch.

You can, as a starter, take a survey of what and how much your children watch. Write it down. Is it too much? What about violence? What aren't they watching that might benefit them? Then decide when the television is to be on. That's your decision children aren't capable of determining what's a worthwhile and good program. Some of the programs that have been on for years, and especially the programs that are on educational television, are very often the best programs for children. You must put it on a tight today to control the programming that comes into your home. Why allow your child to see one more act of violence, of killing, of maiming? Remember, he is learning just as much from these programs as he is from the worthwhile program.

up by the roots and kills beetles that attack the above-ground portion of the plant. A lot of beetle damage can occur quickly because the plants are small and tender. This is where the systemic insecticide comes in handy because it is giving constant protection, whereas our ability to spray to control the problem at the right time depends on "mother henning" of the bed. Di-Syston 16 percent G at the rate of 2/3 lb. on a 100 x 9 ft. bed and 3/4 lb. on a 100 ft. x 12 ft. bed is recommended at a good flea beetle control. You should apply this evenly over the bed before seeding and work into the soil with light raking. It can also be applied to beds where the tobacco is already up, and watered in.

What's that you say? The flea beetles may be taking your bed and you have to have relief today. Well, what size are your plants? Averaging somewhere around the size of a half-dollar? That rules Sevin out, because of burn and distortion problems. However, this year we have a new recommendation and the material is called Orthene. We recommend the use of Orthene Tobacco Spray (75 percent SP) at the rate of 2 tablespoons (level) in 3 gallons of water per bed. And, yes you have to pull the bed cover back before spraying. Lighten up the plants and flea beetles control won't be long in coming. But remember, don't use any more than the rate we recommend...we don't want the operation to be a success and have the patient die.

Well, I'm running out of space but let me take a shot at cutworms. We have added Diazinil 14 percent at 2/5 lb. per bed to be broadcast and worked in at seeding time. This treatment appears to offer good cutworm control. And, yes, you can apply both Di-Syston and Diazinil to the bed without any negative results. It would probably be a good idea to do this since neither material controls both pests. Make sure, however, that these granulars are worked into the soil and not left on top. In any event, use the right material to solve your problems. You can start by picking up the recommendation sheets from your County Extension Office. Ask your Extension Agent for a copy of the 1976 Insecticide Recommendation for Tobacco Beds.

Want Trees? Twelve Million For Sale

Does your land need trees? Then plant some.

The state has about 12 million tree seedlings for sale and ready for spring planting. That's two million more than last year.

Although most landowners don't think of planting trees until the weather warms, according to Harry Nadler, director of the division of forestry in the Kentucky Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection, the first part of a year if the best time to order trees.

The orders are filled on a first come basis. So, said a landowner has a better chance of getting the species he wants if he orders early. "Naturally," said Nadler, "the sooner the nurseries receive the orders, the sooner they will be able to get the seedlings on their way to the landowners."

The nurseries began lifting the one and two-year-old seedlings in Mid-February. The lifting and shipping reach a peak about the first of March and continue until about the first of April.

Nadler said that the nurseries had a good supply of the more popular species such as loblolly, shortleaf and Virginia pines, black locust, yellow poplar and black walnut. Some species such as white pine, white oak, white ash and cottonwood are in short supply.

The division is again offering a special wildlife packet. The packet contains a mixture of 100 pine and hardwood seedlings and sells for $5. This year all species will be available in bundles of 250, 500 or 1,000 seedlings of a single species. The price varies with the size bundle and the species. The price for a bundle of 1,000 varies from a low of $15 for loblolly pine to a high of $25 for black walnut.

Price lists and order forms can be obtained from the division of forestry office and most Soil Conservation Service, Extension Service, and Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation Service offices.

Landowners who would like assistance in determining the best species to plant on their particular site can get help from one of the division's service foresters. To obtain the help, contact any division of forestry office or write Director, Division of Forestry, Kentucky Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection, 207 Holmes Street, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601.

LICE ON CATTLE

Lice populations are increasing on Kentucky cattle. Counts made on untreated cattle on February 27, showed most cattle with light populations and several with medium to heavy populations. The heavily infested animals can be severely debilitated by these insects due to blood loss and irritation. Control of lice now will help cattle make it through the coming months. Control using pour-ons or sprays are very effective. SPOTTON (20 percent fenitrothion) has also recently been labeled for lice control. Studies currently underway will also show that forced use dust bags seem to keep lice populations under control after the initial population has been knocked down with a cattle spray. Beams getting dust bags, backrubbers, and hark liners ready now for the Spring. With this nice weather we've been having, it won't be long before we start seeing Horn Flies and Fleas. Have insecticides waiting for them.

TOBACCO BED INSECT CONTROL MEANS ADVANCED PLANNING

The tobacco bed, a carefully tended "growth chamber," can also be a haven for insect pests. If we are to be able to carry hardy transplants to the field, then it sometimes becomes necessary to help mother nature along with insecticide tools. However, the cure can be worse than the problem if we don't use the recommended material at the right rate. Phytotoxicity, a burning or distortion of the plant, is sometimes the result of ill-planned insecticide application to tender seedlings. As you know, the use of methyl bromide to "gas" the soil has been very effective in controlling soil pest forms. However, movement of a systemic insecticide or a post-emergence foliar spray. Of course, the concept of a systemic insecticide is not new to you anymore. Di-Syston applied to the bed surface and raked in at seeding and/or watered in after the bed is sown is taken

BROWNOUT: WE HOPE YOUR KIDS NEVER FIND OUT WHAT IT MEANS.

When the demand for electricity is so great the electric company can't meet it, a "brownout" occurs. Line voltage drops, lights dim; appliances don't work properly; motors overheat, work slows down or stops.

Right now this isn't a problem for our customers. We have enough generating capacity to supply your home and job, even during times when everyone uses a lot of electricity. And we want to keep it that way. That's why we must build new generating plants today. To meet increasing electrical demands. To avoid brownouts five or ten years from now.

All of this takes money.

And we have to borrow that money at today's high interest rates. Our construction and operating costs are up like everyone else's. We have to pay more for the fuel we need to make electricity. And we have to prepare for the future. The result is an electric bill that's higher than most people are used to. But for a lot of costly reasons. Reasons we don't like anymore than you do.

Our job is to supply you with the electricity you need now and ten years from now.

And Soon It's Shamrock Time For The Likes Of Old Ireland

By Helen Price Stacy

"In Down three Saints one grave do fill Brigidi, Patrick and Columelle."

Patricious died March 17, 1493 and to choose a final resting place for the crusader of Christian faith in the Emerald Isle, two wild oxen were allowed to pull his bier, stopping where they pleased.

It was in County Down, and the graves of the three Saints today are marked by a single monolith of unheaven granite in the churchyard of Downpatrick Cathedral.

Saint Patrick, native of Wales at the time of Roman occupation, was a son of a British church deacon and suffered imprisonment and punishment before he was visited by an angel directing him to freedom.

Saint Patrick was revered through the ages by the Irish. Much later when the New World began to open to immigrants, followers of Patrick showed the same courage in embarking on strange seas and alien paths. Who were some of the Irish who for various reasons look passage (or stole away) on ships bound for America?

William Orr left County Clare in 1763. His son William was born in 1780 in Northumberland County, Pa. and in 1805 married Elizabeth Turner in Bourbon County, Kentucky.

She was a daughter of William and Martha Ricords Turner who came from England to Maryland, then to Kentucky and were at Bryan's Station during the Indian fighting.

Richard Thompson was born in Ireland in 1742 and was in America before the Revolutionary War. He was in Col. Abaham Buford's regiment in North Carolina and Virginia and moved to Lawrence County where he died at age 80 on Blaine Creek. His wife Margaret was an Englishwoman.

Thomas Rhoden, born 1751 in Ireland, arrived in America in time to serve in the Revolutionary War. He married Susannah Beatty and they lived 40 years in Fleming County.

Among the many Kentuckians who joined those going to Sangamon County, Illinois, in the 1800's was Irishman Charles Dougherty. He was born in Erin in 1792, came to America in 1817 and in 1820 married a widow Mrs. Susannah Gants in Pennsylvania. With her nine children they moved to Wheeling, Va. then West Virginia, then to Greenup County, Ky. and in 1838 to Illinois.

Cornelius Coberty of Ireland married Mary Hill in Virginia. With son James and other 12 children, moved with Daniel Boone to Kentucky and lived at Eastill's Station seven years, then in 1824 moved to Illinois.

Thomas Caldwell of Ireland was married there to a Welch lady, Betsy Harris. They emigrated to America, first to South Carolina, then to Virginia and finally to Jessamine County, Ky. She was relative of John C. Calhoun.

Lawrence Kelly made up his mind to leave Ireland. He was a youth and his reasons for leaving are not known. He stowed away on a ship to Virginia fought in the French and Indian War and became the ancestor of the Kelly families in Harlan County. He is buried at Knoxville.

Graham's, Botton in Floyd County was named for settler John Graham who came to the big Sandy in 1805. His grandfather, William Graham left Donegal County, Ireland in 1741 and established a home on Calf Pasture River of James River. Va. John Graham was the son of David and Jane Armstrong Graham. Her father James Armstrong served in the Virginia Militia.

There were the McGuire's who were early settlers in Eastern Kentucky. John and Nancy McGuire and their first son James were born in Ireland. A descendant, the late Harlan Brown of Ashland, native of Morgan County, described his Irish ancestry as people who did not drift too far from shore.

However, the Irish would show up easily if they felt they were wronged.

John Nickell was born in County Tyrone, Ulster, Ireland, in 1728. He brought a plantation in Augusta County, Va., married Barbara McCombe and fought in the French and Indian War. His six sons John, Thomas, Joseph, Isaac, Robert and Andrew served in the Revolutionary War and later settled throughout Kentucky, particularly Eastern Kentucky.

These paragraphs do not include the great family Patrick, descendant of Patricks from the British Isle. They helped settle Magoffin, Morgan, Floyd and other East Kentucky counties.

It has been said that the reason so many men of Erin settled in Eastern Kentucky was because the green hills in spring were so like the green fields of Ireland.

According to the division of solid waste in the Kentucky Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection, the typical neighborhood recycling center has several problems.

Besides the facts that funding is uncertain and operation depends on volunteer labor, the recycling center must find nearby markets for recycled materials. Other typical problems include: bimetal cans need special processing, metal rings must be removed from glass bottles, glass containers must be separated by color and steel cans are often mixed with the more readily recyclable aluminum cans.
