

This giant-sized trenching machine, which is owned by John Price and Sons, of Liberty has recently been used to complete the installation of almost five miles of plastic tile to drain wet land in Rockcastle County. According to the Cooperation Needs Inventory, as prepared by the Soil Conservation Service, there are nearly 4,000 acres of wet land in the county. The practice of tilling wet land improves the workability of the soil, increases air capacity and increases crop yields. (Soil Conservation Service Photo by S.T. Vanover)

Tommy Adams, CETA employee, Rockcastle Conservation District and Junior Long, Conservation Technician, Soil Conservation Service, are shown working from the installation of the Jack Upcan farm. There were 3,800 ft. of tile installed on the Upcan farm. Other installers recently included Jim Cox, 4,000 ft.; Sherry Adams, 2,500 ft.; De William Adams, 2,200 ft.; George Hardin, 2,000 ft.; R.R. Wolfe, 800 ft.; Bill Coffey, 1,800 ft. and Eddie Norton, 3,300 ft. Assistance in planning, layout and installation was provided by the Soil Conservation Service in cooperation with the Rockcastle Conservation District. (Soil Conservation Service Photo by S.T. Consumer Comments
 By Robert F. Stephens, Attorney General

The Attorney General's Division of Consumer Protection was established in 1972 to protect ethical buyers and sellers in the Kentucky marketplace. The people who work in the division hear a lot about fly-by-night commercial fraud, and stories of "rip-off artists" are told to the division every day. Little, however, is publicly said about reputable companies operating according to law and dealing fairly with consumers.

The experience of our office in complaint mediation has shown that most business people are concerned with consumer problems and customer relations affecting their business. That's why many of the complaints we handle are resolved.

However, some customers whose problems are satisfactorily resolved, either through this office or their personal negotiations with the company, don't tell us about it. We would like to hear about successful consumer-business problem-solving experiences. If you have had a consumer complaint and feel the business treated you well, let us know about it. We would like to hear how you and the company found a mutually satisfactory solution to your problem. Please write our office and tell us of these experiences.

If you have a consumer complaint, write to the Attorney General's Division of Consumer Protection, Room 34, The Capitol, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601.
 The office has found that it can most effectively deal with written complaints and encourages you to write when you have a complaint. However, if you have an emergency situation, call the consumer hotline. The number is 1-800-372-2960.

Sales Clinic and Dinner To Kick off Festival of Values Sales Campaign

Those attending the sales dinner Monday night, April 19th, at Benfro Valley Lodge from the Bank of Mt. Vernon were: Fain Furniture, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Fry representing P&H Cynthia Herron, Jeanne Lee Barnett, Ina Jean McClure and Carole and representatives from Stevens Cycle Shop.

Also present were Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Wynn from White Auto Store and Billy Doon, Larry Bell and Darryl Stewart, all from Food Fair.

About 40 local merchants and employees attended a dinner Monday night hosted by the Mt. Vernon Signal to kick off the townwide "Festival of Values" promotion that will start here next week. Highlight of the meeting was a sales clinic presented by Mr. Guy Painter, Sr. internationally known sales analyst.

Painter and his associate have been in the area for nearly two weeks selling the promotion, a vital part of which is the clinic. A native of Atlanta, Georgia, he moved to Canada 16 years ago and started his own company. Over 100,000 persons have heard his lecture on successful selling. Painter has spent his entire adult life in sales training and newspaper promotion. He has appeared from Las Vegas in Nevada to White Horse in the Yukon and St. John's, Newfoundland. Ten years ago, Painter and his son (a Kentucky newspaperman) bought a home on the south coast of Spain and now in semi-retirement, he lives there about seven months a year.

In the sales clinic Monday, Painter presented an audio talk on sales. He included everything from the way to handle customer complaints and grouches to the varied ways to close a sale. He insists the customer may not always be right but it's the all-important one whose desires are to be considered. "If someone gets mad at you when you're selling, don't get mad, too...don't let him spoil you day," gressed Painter. He advises you to "live by the Golden Rule" in business.

He enumerated ways to attract and keep new customers, emphasizing customer attitudes as most important emotion, and how to create good customer relations. The interesting presentation lasted but an hour after a tasty dinner.

The speaker was introduced by the Signal Editor, Mrs. Perlina Anderkin.

The Festival of Values promotion begins next week in The Mt. Vernon Signal and runs for about eight weeks, during which all the participating firms will offer specials and good trade building items. Also, there will be drawings for valuable prizes. At least one prize will be offered from each of the 25 participating local firms, a total of 25 prizes in all. Registration will be free in the stores during the period. Some drawings will be held each week. Full details will be in next week's Signal.

Everyone attending the sales dinner Monday night, April 19th seemed to thoroughly enjoy the fine dinner and the program of slides presented by Mr. Painter. In the above photo are, from left: Mrs. Melberta McBee from McBee Department Store, Estill Hodges, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Davis and Mrs. Melba Bryant, all representing Bryant Bros. Mr. Logan Bryant was also present but not shown in the photo. In the foreground of the photo is Miss Anita Previtt, a Signal employee.

Mrs. Steve Owens: fifth grade at Brodhead School has also gained much by having the advantage of KET, Mrs. Owens said. In addition to music lessons, the children receive lessons in Math, Phonics, Social Studies and other areas and Mrs. Owens said that one of her class' favorite program was one dealing with problems children had to deal with in their contact with other people. Mrs. Owens also said that the visual aid seemed to enable the children to learn more quickly and gave them a more varied area of study which would not be possible without KET.

FEMALE ALCOHOLISM IN SOUTHEASTERN KENTUCKY

By Mark Stephens

Quite often you will read about the enormous problem of alcoholism and how it affects the lives of 9,000,000 Americans. While this information is valuable in helping us grasp the complexity and vastness of the problem, there still remains a need and desire for a more localized form of information about the extent and type of situations existing in our local communities.

In an effort to meet this need, the Cumberland River Comprehensive Care Center has been compiling information about alcoholism in Southeastern Kentucky.

Female alcoholism is a growing concern all across our country. The average female alcoholic in southeastern Kentucky is 31 years old, married, and has completed 10 years of schooling. The largest portion are counted in the work forces and usually have a higher yearly income than the male alcoholic. These women have been drinking on the average of eight years. The amount of alcohol consumed is slightly below the national average. Of the women we served last year, 99 percent were married, 4 percent divorced or separated and 32 percent single or widowed.

Too often women are isolated and the fear of social stigma blocks their way to treatment. To learn more about what can be done to help those who suffer from alcoholism you are encouraged to contact your local Comprehensive Care Center. *****

Why Did ERA Recission Fail?

Could it have been because it wasn't handled in the democratic way, the way we say we stand for?

First, our governor said he didn't vote for it in '72. Ms. Peden told us in her speech last July that, "Lt. Gov. Julian Carroll didn't have to vote, but he did to show his approval." He keeps telling us hands are off, yet, at the very hour, March 19, he had Morgan, D-Paducah, in his office when SB 30 was being voted on. Morgan, appeared as soon as the voting was over.

We had 17 more votes, when HR 7 was in the House. What happened to our men if they voted with conviction? Ines from Murray, one of the sponsors of HR 7 didn't vote. His excuse was, "We have indulged the taxpayers enough on this issue." This rings with about as much truth as Hancock. D-Frankfort saying it was unconstitutional to rescind. He told me his own wife wanted him to vote with us. Could it be he made no decision on the matter those that put him in did for him.

The night before, we had the vote to get it out of the committee. What happened then? I was told, "an angel appeared on the window sill." "What do you mean?" I asked? He said, "Think about it." I replied, "Do you mean like Morgan's state job?" He answered, "I would say you are in the right church."

We know Morgan has his offer of the job before then. What about his vote? Sixteen didn't vote. Why?

I was also told by this same person that we were to blame for what happened. Instead of going to political rallies, we are busy doing "ogt thing." Over the years, he added he had seen men vote, go to the ball, return and change their vote. If we don't care enough to put a good man in—someone will be put in that can be easily swayed. When I list it be known we needed forty passes for the House on the 19th, the PERSON in charge made a quick trip to the Lt. governor's office. Upon returning, she posted signs, "NO PASSES ISSUED UNTIL SCHOOL CHILDREN HAVE THEIRS."

I stood at the door-way and asked for any extra passes as the legislator passed. Others were at the door of the House. With the aid of a few of our men we got our passes.

Was it by chance as the pro-ERA forces arrived in the balcony that the school children got up and the pro ERA groups took their seats?

Hours before the voting we were told by someone working the floor, that we would lose—some had changed the way they would vote overnight!

We have had an uphill fight all the way, with an undemocratic committee, 16-11 picked by the Lt. Gov. Then Tom Garrett, D-Paducah, chairman of the powerful Rules committee, which decides what bills will be sent to the floor, was bold enough to say if it got out of the committee he would vote with us. Where was he when he needed his vote to get it out?

Our Lt. gov. sent a state car to Henderson to pick up one of the speakers for an ERA hearing. Is our tax money to be used for one's own personal views on an issue?

Is it asking too much for our Governor to have this issue put in his special session this fall? It was voted on in a special session in '72.

—Mrs. June Harper

He contacted police from a nearby house and identified Milburn as one of the thieves. The car was found abandoned Sunday afternoon by Trooper Wheat about 5 p.m. near Luner in Rockcastle County. Grand Jury Makes Report

The Rockcastle County Grand Jury reconvened recently and completed a short report during their session. The first item in the report dealt with the jury's commendation to Circuit Judge Phillip K. Wicker on the efficient and orderly manner in which he conducted the business of the Court and the jury's wish for him of the very best in his tenure as Circuit Judge.

The report then turned its attention to the condition of the courthouse which the report states, shows visible evidence of paint blistering on several of the offices of the need for paint in the county courtroom and evidence of leaks in the roof. The report recommended that immediate action be taken to correct these situations.

However, County Judge Thacker and members of the Fiscal Court took exception to this report. Judge Thacker told this reporter that the county courtroom had only recently been painted and that the only place where the paint was dirty was around the entranceway to the courtroom where people stood while trials were being conducted. Judge Thacker also said that any leaks which the courthouse had had previously had been taken care of and that at present, there were no leaks in the building.

The Judge also took exception to an item in the Grand Jury's report which dealt with the handling and processing of HUNT RE-ELECTED PRESIDENT LOCAL LIONS CLUB.

W. E. Hunt was re-elected president of the Mt. Vernon Lions Club at their regular meeting conducted last week at the Hen House Restaurant.

Also re-elected were Estill Hodges, treasurer; Floyd Owens, secretary; Rev. Ernie Johnson, 1st vice president.

New officers elected were Wm. J. Thompson as second vice-president, Joe Adams as tall twister, Lee Durham as program chairman, Charles Barr as the chairman of the White Cane and Talking books program and Bob Witt as membership chairman.

Wm. J. Thompson was also re-appointed as the club's representative on the Mt. Vernon recreation council.

President Hunt stated that the club also made plans to conduct a community flea market May first at the Mt. Vernon Elementary School grounds. Stating that the club hopes to promote the flea market into a "Rockcastle Trading Days" affair, to be conducted on the first Saturday of each month.

This year's market will be conducted the same as last year's flea markets sponsored by the club, with the club renting space for those wishing to sell at the market, and President Hunt also requested those who wish to donate items to the Lions Club for the club to sell and retain the money to use on their own projects, to call any Lions Club members and arrangements will be made to pick up the merchandise.

physical evidence seized from accused persons, particularly alcoholic beverages.

The report stated: "At the present time, there is no uniform method to properly account for such articles. Law enforcement officers must take the seized items home with them or store them in their car or wherever they can place them. It is the opinion of the Grand Jury that there should be a central location where all such evidence may be stored and properly accounted for."

Judge Thacker stated that there was three rooms, on the third floor, which under lock and key in which seized alcoholic beverages were kept stored and which was for the use of all law enforcement officers in the county.

On the bright side, the report did commend the Fiscal Court for the great improvements made since the report of the last Grand Jury. The report also went on to compliment the Jail and his deputy for the marked improvement of the jail facilities as well as for the clean condition of the whole courthouse facility.

1975 Was Record Year For Coal Production

Figures released Tuesday, April 13, by the Kentucky Department of Mines and Minerals point to another record year for coal production in the state. A total 144 million tons of "black gold" was unearthed during 1975, compared to some 136 million in 1974, the previous record.

Muhlenberg County again leads the nation as the largest county producer with 22,470,369 tons up from 21.8 million in 1974. Pike County claims the second highest production with 19,332,430 tons. That figure is slightly lower than 1974, 21.6 million on figure.

Other Kentucky counties surpassing the one million mark for coal tonnage include Harlan, 10,931,638; Hopkins, 9,789,456; Ohio, 9,652,685; Union, 7,757,258; Martin, 6,880,471; Breathitt, 6,829,993; Perry, 6,329,573; Letcher, 4,870,139; Floyd, 4,479,074; Bell, 4,184,876; Knott, 3,968,662; Leslie, 3,781,441; Whitley, 2,803,354; and Webster, 2,007,887.

Other large producers include Clay, 1,095,363; Henderson, 1,180,061; Johnson, 1,413,924; Knox, 1,881,982; Laurel, 1,533,808; Magoffin, 1,976, 391; and Morgan, 1,159,847.

Also mentioned in the Mines and Mineral report are coal counties are Boyd, 76,238; Butler, 740,732; Carter, 275,152; Christian, 199,445; Davis, 975,682; Edmonson, 34,555; Elliot, 459,961; Grayson, 40,292; Greenup, 178, 377; Hancock, 261,088; Jackson, 514,760; Lawrence, 794,450 and Lee, 218,930.

Donald McClure of Mt. Vernon constructed the above building on Highway 150 in Mt. Vernon which he has leased to the Malone Hyde group of food stores. The building, which is adjacent to the Mt. Vernon area and contains over 8,000 sq. feet of floor space, will be occupied by a Pic-Pac Supermarket within approximately three months.

Educational Television Now Installed In All Elementary Schools

We visited a couple of classrooms to observe the use of KET being used in teaching in the county schools and in the above photo, Mrs. Charles Parsons' second grade class at Mt. Vernon Elementary is being taught musical notes on this particular program. KET is now installed in all the county elementary schools and it appears to be of much value to teachers in the presentation of their lessons. Mrs. Parsons said that children are encouraged to actively participate quite often in the lessons and this helps to keep their interest. The teachers are supplied with teaching materials by KET in order to assist them in presenting the lessons along with the visual aid of television.

With the installation of Educational Television Receivers in the Mt. Vernon and Blue Springs Elementary Schools this year, the Board of Education completed a project begun in 1969.

The board was convinced back in 1969 that ETV was a significant and useful tool in the hands of a skilled teacher and that its use could bring new and challenging enrichment into the curriculum.

NDEA, Title III matching federal funds have been used by the board to purchase the sets and to wire the buildings. The first project was completed at Roundstone in 1969 followed by Livingston School in 1970 and Broadhead in 1971. Blue Springs and Mt. Vernon received their set this school year thereby completing a goal of providing ETV in all elementary classrooms.

Teacher training programs in the way of workshops have been conducted by personnel from Kentucky Educational Television, Lexington, Ky.

Instruction by television is a significant and useful tool of the classroom teacher. It is not a substitute for activities involving vital teacher-student relationship. Television instruction is a team function between the regular classroom teacher and the television teacher.

It was stressed in workshop session with teachers that ETV is used to teach not to entertain, that good ground rules must be established for listening, viewing, homework and conduct standards.

In the recent session of General Assembly, Governor Julian Carroll recommended and the Legislature approved funds in the amount of $1,100,000 for the 1976-78 biennium for Kentucky Educational Television to implement a program to increase and (Cont. to 9)

FRANKFORT WATCHLINE

Once you give a dog a bone, it is most unwise to try to take it back. The consequences are well known, even with otherwise friendly dogs.

An extension of that is that once you start giving a dog bones, he becomes accustomed to getting them, and is likely to spend much of his time hanging around waiting for more bones, which he has come to expect as a regular part of his regimen, no longer just a treat.

No magists and judges and governors have come to expect as part of their regimen those tidy chunks of money known as federal revenue sharing.

Although it was not intended that way in the beginning, federal revenue sharing has become the staff of life for many communities, and recently, those officials were on the short end of a congressional spear when Congress hesitated about continuing the program. The original intent of the program was to give local and state governments a shot in the arm, money for non-recurring expenses in the context of a governmental philosophy of returning the money its origin, where it can be spent to best advantage. It was a venture away from centralization at the Federal level.

As might have been expected, the money was gratefully and not so gradually in some cases, plowed into recurring expenses, either directly or indirectly, to the point that if the money were suddenly withdrawn, some local governmental units would be left destitute.

In so many areas, it is only because of the Federal money that policemen and firemen have gotten pay raises. It is only because of the Federal money that some local governments have been able to hold the line on local taxes, a move of incalculable benefit to those who are doing the holding.

After this year's battle, the continuation of revenue sharing will likely be easier for a few years, but it is worth thinking about that there are no guarantees.

For example, several years ago the federal government put up what it described as "seed" money for the establishment of local mental health centers, what became the chain of comprehensive care centers throughout the state.

Washington had said when it started the program, and continued to say throughout the several years of its beginnings, that the money was limited, that local agencies would have to find some way of funding the centers when the money ran out.

Substantially, no one believed that the federal money would be cut off. It was.

Within a period of a few weeks last year, comprehensive care centers in several areas of the state to let go half of their employees and cut back on some marginal programs.

As one Eastern Kentucky compare director commented at the time, it was impossible to convince fiscal courts to appropriate money when the federal money was still flowing in.

The longer federal revenue sharing continues as a program funded year to year, it will become more and more difficult to cut it off and cut it back. Already, the program is being used in some communities for such recurring expenses as regular payroll. The original philosophy of revenue sharing has very nearly been reversed. Now, suddenly, local agencies are more dependent than ever on the federal dollars and one only wonders what would happen if someone in Washington decides to use revenue sharing as a lever for something else.

Gov. Julian Carroll has finally come out, as expected, for former Georgia Gov. Jimmy Carter for President. . . or at least to win the Kentucky presidential preference primary.

Carroll's endorsement was something less than unequivocal, and, in fact, reinforces the idea that Carroll mainly wants control of the state's delegation to the Democratic convention. A strong showing here by Carter, with Carroll's help, would give Carroll effective control of both the Carter delegates and the uncommitted slate if the convention goes past a first ballot.

State Auditor George Atkins may have made a mistake rather than a politically smart move in taking over as head of the campaign in Kentucky of Sen. Henry Jackson.

His action, at first, appeared to be a "no lose" decision, but some sources close to Carroll say that Atkins erred in going against Carroll and the tide of support for Carter, and that he erred even further in not consulting first with Carroll.

THESE MEN ARE AFRAID OF THE DARK.

A power shortage doesn't just dim the lights. It can drastically change your life. That's why these men are building generating plants and other facilities today.

We know the issue isn't simply electricity, it's enough electricity. And all of our customers could suffer from a power shortage. Imagine doing your job with inadequate or unreliable electric service.

Our job is to make sure this doesn't happen. That's why we're working now to meet the great electrical demands of the future.

And that takes large amounts of money, money we have to borrow at today's high interest rates. Add that to our increased operating costs and increased costs for the raw materials we must have to make electricity. The result is an electric bill that's higher than most people are used to.

A nation that runs on electricity can't afford to run out of it. That's why we must plan and build now so you won't be faced with a shortage of electricity ten years from now.

Brodhead Willing Workers Homemakers Club Meets

The home of Mrs. D.H. Gray was full of activity Thursday, April 18, when 12 members and 2 guests filled and put the finishing touches to 40 Easter Baskets that several members took to each and every resident of the Sowerder Nursing Home, Saturday, April 17th.

This was done after the roll that was answered by a consumers hint.

Later a self-analysis questionnaire was given to the members to score secretly to see for themselves what kind of portrait that they could paint of themselves as a "Successful Home-maker".

Discussion about the club's sponsor went yearly Sunrise Easter Service at 6:30 a.m. Sunday on the hill where the Rockcastle County Christian Church Camp is located, was led by the chairman of this project, Mrs. Richard Shivel.

The district meeting in Lexington, Ky., on May 12-11, and I were discussed also, which gave several a desire to attend these meetings.

The maracas luncheon and participation of the members were planned for a later date.

Delightful refreshments were served by the hostess before adjournment.

Mrs. Roland Mullins, standing left, is shown serving Progressive Women's League recently elected Mrs. Susan Coffey president of their club.

Dressed in their Easter finery, Brandi and Bridgett DeBorde, four year-old twin daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Bobby DeBorde of Mt. Vernon, are more interested in enjoying the swing set than bothering with any old Easter Egg hunt.

You might say that Wade Johnson was "checking all his eggs in one basket" in the above photo but actually, we think he was just checking out how many eggs he found during the hunt. Wade is the 10-year-old son of Bro. and Mrs. Ernie Johnson of Mt. Vernon.

REMEMBER 34¢ GASOLINE!

Be happy if your local gasoline prices have dropped slightly, but remember they are still almost double what they were a short time ago. Don't forget the energy crisis. It's still with us. In fact, America now imports more oil from foreign countries than we did during the time of long waiting lines. That means we still are subject to blackmail by countries who can cut us off when they wish.

The electric energy crisis has gotten worse. And you'd better believe it. Costs for most materials needed to produce and deliver electric energy still are climbing. The need for electricity continues to grow. And only three straight mild winters have kept us from banging heads with an electric energy shortage. You know we didn't escape rising costs even with mild weather.

Don't be misled by "corner experts" who know nothing of the problems but seem to have easy answers to everything. There are no easy answers. The best thing you can do . . . right now . . . is to avoid wasting all kinds of energy. Contact your electric cooperative and get helpful facts about energy and money saving from people who really care about short supplies and rising costs.

also the time to think about next fall and winter's wildlife. This is particularly true for landowners who want to enhance wildlife habitat on their property.

Some wildlife management practices carried out now can increase the number of both game species, such as quail and rabbits for fall hunting, and also provide habitat for songbirds and other desirable wildlife.

According to Joe Bruna, game management director for the Department of Fish and Wildlife.

There are some things landowners should not do, Bruna says. Don't clean up all tree stumps or other brushy areas which can provide cover and nesting sites for wildlife and attract birds, spiders and other insect pests. Don't remove dead trees which furnish dens for several species of birds, particularly woodpeckers and doves and occasionally for squirrels. Remember a completely "clean" farm may look nice, but it offers very little habitat for any kind of wildlife except harmful insects and mice.

During May or June hay cutting, leave an uncut portion around woods, brushy areas and fence rows. These unworked areas provide good nesting sites for quail and rabbits. And later on, at harvest time, leave a row or two of corn around the edges of fields to provide winter food for wildlife.

Early wildlife foods, such as Korean lespedeza, should already be in the ground, but the wildlife planted in April on a well prepared seed bed. Now is the right time to put in biolior or japonica lespedeza. Later wildlife foods, which can be planted in May or June, include millet, corn, sorghum, buckwheat and cowpeas. Soybeans are especially good, since they both provide rabbit browse and also improve the soil.

also the time to think about next fall and winter's wildlife. This is particularly true for landowners who want to enhance wildlife habitat on their property.

Some wildlife management practices carried out now can increase the number of both game species, such as quail and rabbits for fall hunting, and also provide habitat for songbirds and other desirable wildlife.

According to Joe Bruna, game management director for the Department of Fish and Wildlife.

There are some things landowners should not do, Bruna says. Don't clean up all tree stumps or other brushy areas which can provide cover and nesting sites for wildlife and attract birds, spiders and other insect pests. Don't remove dead trees which furnish dens for several species of birds, particularly woodpeckers and doves and occasionally for squirrels. Remember a completely "clean" farm may look nice, but it offers very little habitat for any kind of wildlife except harmful insects and mice.

During May or June hay cutting, leave an uncut portion around woods, brushy areas and fence rows. These unworked areas provide good nesting sites for quail and rabbits. And later on, at harvest time, leave a row or two of corn around the edges of fields to provide winter food for wildlife.

Early wildlife foods, such as Korean lespedeza, should already be in the ground, but the wildlife planted in April on a well prepared seed bed. Now is the right time to put in biolior or japonica lespedeza. Later wildlife foods, which can be planted in May or June, include millet, corn, sorghum, buckwheat and cowpeas. Soybeans are especially good, since they both provide rabbit browse and also improve the soil.

If any of these mast-producing trees or shrubs are present, they should be encouraged by clearing away competing weeds and bushes. The landowner may also want to plant other mast-producing trees, such as pine, walnut, black locust, Chinese chestnut, autumn olive or white ash.

Landowners wishing some professional advice on wildlife habitat improvement should get in touch with their local conservation officer, who can request that a wildlife biologist visit the property and make specific recommendations to the owner. With some pre-planning and just a little work, almost any land can produce good wildlife habitat.
