ROCKCASTLE RECOLLECTIONS

By John Lee

In many of the county histories I have examined the record of achievement by actors, sons and daughters in the various fields of music, art and literature has been a matter of much pride by the author and we too, would like to claim for our county some excellence in those lines.

However, my own knowledge of such people is rather meager and I am sure there must have been some outstanding examples of earlier years that some of our folks know about and could pass along. We have had many excellent musicians, but they seem to have been content to confine their talents to the local scene with not much thought to the outer world around us.

A possible exception to this was Nettie, a ward of Atty. John Brown, a strictly self-made musician who attained considerable fame in the night clubs of Chicago and New York. A local girl we all remember, Jenny Morrow Miller, had undoubted operatic ability and could easily have made the professional stage if she had cared to enter that field. I once got an audition for her in a big Chicago radio station, where she met with favorable response and could have joined their staff as a beginner if she had cared to leave home at that time.

About the only musician of my earlier acquaintance who engaged in professional work away from home was Victor Tate, and his was a mixed rather than a strictly musical talent. As a young man, he was an outstanding member of some of Mt. Vernon's current brass bands but it was his baritone voice, impressive appearance and acting ability that led him to the theatre. I remember as a boy that when Vic had been out on tour and came home between seasons he was object of much attention by Mt. Vernon citizens, especially those of opposite sex.

In more recent years another boy who had his fling at musical entertainment was Robert Huffman Thompson, who played a merry clarinet in some of the prominent dance bands around the county, resigning from Billy Vaughn's orchestra to come back to the more peaceful scenes in his home county, where until 1968 he sang bass in the choir early in 1976, still a comparatively young man. His musical ability first found expression in a family group in his early childhood. With his father and mother, both of whom were talented instrumentalists, he played for the local picture show when he was almost too small to reach the drums; his original pianist and teachers of long standing were Mrs. Lena Lawrence (and later her daughters Mary Elizabeth, Mrs. Helen Miller and Ruth Mullins, later the "Miss Ruth" of Renfro Valley Gatherin' of CBS radio network fame.

In the field of art we have had three excellent representatives in Bert Mullins, Raymond Meyers, and Clifford Amyx. At the time of his death, Bert had gained considerably fame in portraiture and had done murals in several government buildings in different parts of the nation. Opp Busell recently done a book on him under the title "The Mountain Artist". Clifford, the son of Dr. Amyx grew up in Livingston, Kentucky and claims that he got his inspiration for an art career from drawings I did on the school blackboard when he was a student in my fourth grade class in the Livingston Grade School, around 1917. He has had a successful career as artist and teacher. Raymond, who spent his earlier years in Mt. Vernon, was a son of Dr. M.L. Meyers, our local dentist, and followed in his fathers footsteps so successfully that he recently retired as Dean of Dental School, University of Louisville. His art, which he found time to carry on as a side line, ran largely to fine gold and silver castings, in addition to pen-and-ink drawings. My own dabbling with pen-and-ink in the early years following the close of World War One led to acceptance by the Washington Star, the Chicago Post, College Humor, and Life magazine, together with the illustrating of two or three minor books.

In the literary field, Dr. Raymond Meyers, "doubling in brass" goes to the head of the list with his excellent and well-received book "The Zolite tree", dealing largely with the life and death of General Felix Zolitefer, outstanding Confederate officer who was killed at The Battle of Mill Springs. The honor of being the first Rockcastle native to have a book published goes to believe, to Mrs. Rosalind Beasley, known affectionately for many years as "Miss Rosie". I remember from early boyhood seeing her go out around from home to home, selling a book which she had published. So far as I know, she was the first person in the county to become the author of a real book, and she was regarded as nothing short of a literary genius. I well remembered the title of the book, "Virginia Rose", but could recall nothing of its contents. I have always thought of it as a novel, considering the title, but have since found out that it was a collection of short stories, consisting of "Virginia Rose" and others. "Virginia Rose, I now know was not the name of a heroine, but of a famous horse. "Miss Rosie's second husband, a well-known trainer and exhibitor of saddle horses, Roy Beasley, no doubt was able to furnish her with an excellent background for her feature story.

I had searched rather extensively for an original copy of "Virginia Rose" but had been unable to locate one until I was contacted by Mrs. Hubert Chasteen, of the Seaford Cane district, who informed me that she knew someone who has a copy, in good condition, of this extremely rare little book. Mrs. Chasteen's father, Eugene Repper, was a brother to Mrs. Beasley and among her relatives is a person who owns this copy, which she has carefully preserved. Mrs. Chasteen volunteered to see if the owner would allow me a copy made of the book, but to date such permission has not been obtained.

Mrs. Beasley, who was among the better teachers in the early days of Rockcastle County, died in 1924 in the Fairview section of the county. She was married first to Mr. Nesbitt, a successful lumberman and dealer, who built the old C.C. Williams property, now owned by Jack St. Clair, of Mt. Vernon's Main Street.

Two books published in recent years by Prof. Opp Busell, a native of Rockcastle County but now Supervisor of Schools in Anderson County, Kentucky, have dealt with unusually gifted Rockcastleites. These were Col. James Maret, probably our most useful citizen of all times, and Bert Mullins, our most outstanding artist and painter.

Over a long lifetime, I have published several books of only minor importance. My only "hard-back" being "Songs Lincoln Loved" published by Dowell, Sloane and Pierce of New York, who also published an edition of ten thousand copies in paperback. My most ambitious project of this kind has been getting together this present work, "Rockcastle Recollections". Nesbitt I have had the assistance of several friends and fellow-Rockcastleites.

No doubt readers may remember other literary efforts that I have overlooked. I would be greatly obliged to anyone who can add to the list as set forth above.

Rockcastle County To Receive $51,006 In Rev. Sharing Funds

U.S. Representative Tim Lee Carter (R-Ky.) announced today that a total of $55,764,577 will be made available from the Office of Revenue Sharing to the Commonwealth of Kentucky and local jurisdictions throughout the State during the Seventh Entitlement Period of the Revenue Sharing Program, July 1, 1976 to December 31, 1976. These funds will be distributed in two quarterly payments, in October 1976 and January 1977.

Representative Carter stated, "Revenue Sharing funds generally have been quite helpful to the communities in our area. We have been able to develop a wide variety of meaningful projects, at the local level, and I am working in support of the continuation of this important program."

Legislation that would reauthorize the Revenue Sharing Program is currently pending in Congress.

Title I of the State and Local Finance Assistance Act of 1972 (Revenue Sharing) authorized and appropriated $30.2 billion to be distributed to all units of general government in the United States over a five year period, from January 1972 through December 1976. To date, a total of $25.1 billion has been paid to governments in the United States. Of that amount, a total of $455,773,566 has been paid to units of general government in Kentucky.

The allocations of shared revenues are made on the basis of data provided by the Bureau of the Census, the Bureau of Indian Affairs, the Bureau of Economic Analysis, and the Internal Revenue Service. The amounts that the units of government in Kentucky may expect to receive are indicated on the Planned Revenue Report forms which have been mailed to each recipient government.

Rockcastle County may expect to receive $51,006. Brodhead, $4,295; Livingston, $667; and Mt. Vernon, $6,508.

Council Adopts Regulations Concerning Operation of Boats on Lake Linville

The Mt. Vernon City Council met in Called Session last Thursday night to discuss proposals by which to govern the use of Lake Linville this summer.

The Council had originally discussed three proposals but in the final discussion, the three proposals were cut down to two by the combining of two of the proposals.

Meeting with the Council was Jonh Lair, who recently re-purchased the Rehno Valley Complex, to discuss the possibility of leasing the boat dock facilities. Mr. Lair told the Council that he and his two partners were interested in the area, would have to know under what restrictions the boat dock would be operating before making a proposal.

Mr. Lair also said that it was his understanding that the area needed quite a bit of cleaning up and also that, if the facilities were made into a paying proposition, a lot of publicity would be needed to draw the tourists' attention to the camping area and other facilities.

Councilman Chester Hilliard told the Council that he would prefer to see the lake restricted to trolling motors the year round but that the Council should consider all proposals. He went on to state that the Fish and Game Department had said that last year, the fish were not able to spawn in the lake because of the continual wash of the water and that he felt that boats with gasoline engines should be restricted from Hyarger Hollow all the time.

On question, Mr. Lair said that he and his partners would probably not be interested in leasing the facilities if the Council had adopted the proposal.

Lions' Flea Market Is This Saturday

Saturday, May 1st will be the first of four scheduled Flea Markets to be conducted this summer by the Mt. Vernon Lions Club. The club plans to conduct a flea market the first Saturday of each month, May through August.

The Lions Club sponsored two such markets last summer and both were considered very successful for the sellers, the buyers and by the club and all the participants had asked the Lions Club to again sponsor the markets this summer.

The markets will be at the parking lot in the Mt. Vernon Elementary School where the parking lot will be marked off and "space" for booths rented to sellers at $3.00 per 10 foot space.

Last year, there were booths selling antiques, tools, clothing, toys, shoes, old books, food items, Army surplus, household items and miscellaneous items.

This year, the Lions Club hopes to promote an "Old Fashioned Trading Days" to be conducted along with the Flea Markets.

Anyone wishing to sell at the Lions Club Market should contact any Lions Club member to reserve a "space." Set-up time is scheduled for 9 a.m., with selling to begin at 10 a.m. and continue to 5 p.m. The club will also be operating a booth and anyone wishing to donate items to the club for them to sell and retain the profits, may call any Lions member and arrangements will be made to pick up the merchandise. The club has been properly immunized and skin tested most be signed by a physician or Health Department and presented upon enrollment in school. Each child must have these immunizations and skin test before entering the first grade.

sking and swimming were prohibited completely.

Councilman Virgil Alcorn expressed concern as to what the crowds, which Mr. Lair would not doubt bring in with publicity, would do to the lake.

After more discussion, a motion was made by Councilman Jasper to rope off buoy off Hyarger Hollow and not allow

COUNCILMANS ATTEND DEVELOPMENT MEETING

Rockcastle Councilmans attended the Cumberland Valley Area Development District Board meeting at Pine Mountain State Park, Wednesday, April 21, 1976.

There were lively discussions of such topics as a Road Slide Project on Sanctified Hill, the Black Joe Housing Plan in Harlan County, Williamsburg's Water system and the lack of availability of funding from a primary agency so the supplement funds that are available for the Appalachian Regional Commission can be awarded.

PWL To Meet

There will be a meeting of the Progressive Women's League this Thursday night at 7:30 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Nancy Mullins in Mt. Vernon. Guest for the meeting will be Sandy Speagle, local artist, who will talk about her work and will also make a sketch of someone at the meeting.

New officers were recently elected for the club. They are: Mrs. Susan Coffey, president; Mrs. Ruth Johnson, secretary-treasurer.

First Grade Registration Is Thursday, May 13th

A medical examination is required of each child entering school within the period of six months prior to or one month following admission to school.

any gasoline engines in this area at any time and to allow no gasoline engines anywhere on the lake except for a period from June 10th to September 10th.

It took awhile, but the motion was finally seconded by Chester Hilliard with Councilman Alcorn and Bullock voting yes. Councilman Dennis Halcomb was unable to attend the called meeting.

A city work crew Tuesday installed a sign on the lake at the Boat Dock which notifies boat owners that gasoline engines are prohibited on the lake until June 10th.

The Councilman also decided to allow the launching of a boat anywhere in the Hyarger Hollow area.

FRANKFORT WATCHLINE

The figures are out again on overweight trucks on Kentucky roads. Despite threats more than a year ago by Gov. Julian Carroll, increased tonnage limits on highways and a stepped up program which resulted in more citations, county judges in many of the counties where coal is king still refuse to enforce the state law. In Eastern Kentucky, particularly, it seems that the more coal coming out a county, the less are the chances of being convicted of hauling too much.

No doubt, the philosophy still reigns that you don't bite the hand that feeds you, and forgotten are the endless tax dollars that must go toward keeping up the miles and miles of broken road each year.

Altogether, there were fewer citations for overweight trucks in 1975 than in 1974, 4,390 as opposed to 5,957, but more overweight road trucks were cited into court, 2,864, over 600 more than the previous year.

Almost one in three of the total were convicted, but if it were left to some Eastern Kentucky counties, that conviction rate would approach zero. In Johnson County, there were only two convictions on 313 citations, and in Pike, which produces more coal than all but Muhlenberg, in Western Kentucky, there were only two on 198 citations.

Health, Martin, Magiffin, Clay convicted under a 1974 law.

Western Kentucky coal counties did a little better and some, like Ohio, convicted more than 70 per cent. Carroll had expressed his intention last year to see to it that the Commonwealth's laws were enforced, but in an interview last week he said he would "bite" it up to the General Assembly now, which, when it meets in special session later this year, will have to implement the lower tiers of the new court system.

It appears possible that under the new court system, judges might be less closely tied to individual counties and, perhaps, less susceptible to the all-pervading influence of coal.

However, there are obviously no guarantees. County judges, and other lower court judges, will be stripped of their judicial functions the first of next year, and those powers will be placed in the hands of district judges.

While Carroll was not specific in his remarks last week, he said he remains firm in his conviction that the laws should be faithfully enforced. It should be easier to attain more equitable enforcement of the laws under a state court system than under a local court system and the separation of powers: the judicial from the administrative could eliminate that.

On another related front, Robert Bell, in office only a few weeks as Secretary for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection, appears to have wasted no time in going after strip mine and reclamation law violators.

In recent weeks, some of the heaviest fines in history have been levied, and two operators were in jail for a few hours, an unheard-of phenomenon. The rumors and speculation ran strong for a time that a hard-line attitude toward strip mine law enforcement would wane with the departure of John Stanley Hoffman. There was much speculation, angering Carroll, that Hoffman was leaving because he used too firm a hand.

Skepticism remains concerning Carroll's commitment to strong enforcement of the laws and, indeed, his too early to say with any certainty whether Bell's first few weeks will be a pattern in the department.

People who know Bell, however, are convinced both that Bell has a record of strong commitment to the law and its enforcement, and that Carroll would not have put him in office if he intended to keep him under tight reins.

There was talk for a time that citing overweight truck violators into Franklin Circuit Court might be the only way to manage violators and get consistent enforcement of the laws.

Strong state-level control of strip mine operations lends support to such a move, but it is well worth remembering that state-level enforcement of laws has no record of consistency either.

Letter to the Editor

To the Editor:

I want to thank the last grand jury for the good report on my jail and also the court house and I appreciate the compliments and good word that was said about our Circuit Judge Wicker. Here is what I had to state on one janitor, Elmer Decker; and "White Jack" Cletis Anglin as Deputy Jailer; about two brooms, two mop buckets and yes this jail was in very bad shape. But I have done the best I could on my budget. The first fiscal court said that we had no money to buy the needs for the jail that we should have had at the time and one Grand Jury came down and in the paper said that we was in bad shape. Then I ordered two new commodes for the jail that cost about our Circuit Judge Wicker. installation. Then the complaint was the mattresses, I then bought over $1000 in mattresses, fire proof and around $100 in blankets for the jail. Since the first of the year we bought an electric buffer and it's equipment that cost about $900 and a floor vacuum and its equipment that cost $400 and will all of this equipment a better cleaning job in the court house and the jail. We have painted the jail cells and bars, the walls and also the floors. Anybody knows that you can't do something with nothing to do it with. Since the first of the year it's made quite and improvement in the jail and the court house. Since the first of the year I have employed James Durham and Larney Durham both are now residence of this county and are both doing an excellent job. Larney is very good cook and Jim is a terrific good eater. We have had two casualties here in the jail which the jailer nor the jail was responsible for. They were investigated thoroughly by the law and attorney's and found nothing against the jailer or the jail and will the people to know this: I want to say another thing when Judge Hall ordered my prisoners to the Laurel County Jail only three went and they were State prisoners. The others refused to go and didn't they say it was useless and uncalled for. I invite anybody to come in and visit my jail. I've been criticized pretty heavy by some people. I just want the people to know the truth.

Thank you,
 J.L. Anglin
 Jailer, Rockcastle County

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Because it will be sometime before I can see well enough to write, I want to let all the friends who have written to me by cards and letters how very much I have and will enjoy reading them when I am able. My operation was a great success and I can see with temporary glasses as well as can be expected after only a week. I am not too well physically but by the grace of God and much patience I may be able to answer all the letters I have received.

Thank you all for your prayers and good wishes, well and birdy cards.

Homemakers

EDITOR'S NOTE: The week of May 2-8 has been designated National Homemaker's Week. Realizing the Homemaker's contribution to community life, Mrs. Cheryl Witt, Home Demonstration Agent for Rockcastle County, has compiled the pictorial feature found on this page which shows in how Homemakers in Rockcastle County contribute to activities in our community.

May 2-8
Extension Homemakers week

Homemaker Clubs are active in improving their communities. The Brodhead Homemakers helped a family whose home had been destroyed. They have also worked in support of the Brodhead Fire Department and have sponsored community Thanksgiving, Christmas and Easter programs. All clubs have worked with the nursing home and have been involved in the newly formed Senior Citizens Program.

Homemakers participated in the Brodhead Bicentennial Parade last November.

Homemakers Clubs share information with other organizations in the county. KIPP centers have gained educational information from Homemaker Club members including subjects such as Nutritional Snacks, Clothes for Children, and Food Preservation.

Homemaker club members learn from each other. Here a member, who received training at county-wide training school on Macramé, is showing a fellow club member the art of knot-tying to form a design.

Homemakers from the Quail Homemakers Club who participated in the county-wide meeting held each year. The theme of the meeting was "Kentucky in Our National Bicentennial. Over three fourths of the county's membership participated. The clubs in the county are Brodhead, Wilting Workers, Quail, Town and County, and Chestnut Ridge.

Each year Homemaker club members from counties in an eight county area get together for a meeting. Last October, this meeting was held in Pineville. Those participating enjoyed a quilt and patchwork display. They also received valuable information on the effect of TV on their families from Robert Shig, Director of programs for KET.

During the past September and this April, Homemaker Club members have participated in First Aid Courses in order to receive First Aid Certificates.

leader in her community, in her responsibility for passing on to others her mastered skills and knowledge. I believe in the fellowship that comes through the homemaker's organization, the exchange of ideas, the joy of knowledge shared with others thus broadening our lives and lifting household tasks above the common place. For these opportunities I am grateful. I am thankful for the courage of yesterday, the hope of tomorrow, and a growing consciousness of God's love always.

What is the Kentucky Extension Homemaker's Association? It is operated and organized for educational programs in Home Economics and family living in cooperation with the Cooperative Extension Service of the United States Department of Agriculture and the University of Kentucky. The membership is made up of organized County Extension Homemakers Clubs whose membership shall be open to all (Cont. to 14)
