

KENTUCKY LIVESTOCK OPERATORS CHARGED WITH VIOLATING P&S ACT.

London Farmers Livestock Market, Inc., a stockyard at London, Ky., and its president and manager, Lee Williams, also known as Elmer L. Williams, have been charged with violating trust account, conflict of interest, accounting, and recordkeeping requirements of the Packers and Stockyards Act, the U. S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) said today.

London Farmers Livestock Market is registered as a market agency to sell livestock. Mr. Williams is registered as a dealer to buy and sell.

USDA's Packers and Stockyards Administration charged in an administrative complaint that London Farmers Livestock Market, under the direction and control of Mr. Williams:

• Endangered prompt payment and accounting to consignors by having shortages in and failing to properly maintain its trust account for proceeds received from the sale of consigned livestock;

• Permitted Mr. Williams to purchase for his own speculative account livestock that had been consigned to the market for sale on a commission basis; Aided in the above transactions by not disclosing to the consignors Mr. Williams' full identity and his business relationship with the firm; and Issued invoices to the purchasers of livestock which failed to show the true and correct names of the purchasers, and retained these invoices as a part of its records.

Mr. Williams was charged individually with making purchases on a dealer basis from consignments to the market when his registration specifically prohibited such purchases.

Filing of the complaint does not prove that either of the respondents have violated the Packers and Stockyards (P&S) Act. They have a right to a hearing to determine if the evidence supports the charges.

If the charges are proven, the respondents would be placed under a cease and desist order. Their registrations could also be suspended.

Market agencies are required under the P&S Act to properly maintain a trust account for proceeds received from the sale of consigned livestock as a measure of financial protection for the sellers. Market agencies must also maintain an "arms length" business relationship between the buying and selling sides of the market in order to prevent conflicts of interest.

The P&S Act is a fair trade practices law. It promotes and maintains fair and open competition in the marketing of livestock, poultry, and meat.

The record in this case is open to the public. Copies of this complaint, P&S Docket 8301, may be obtained from the Information Office, Packers and Stockyards Administration, USDA, Washington, D. C. 20250.

programs. For those unable to solve their problems without professional help, a wide variety of clinical care and supportive services are available. These programs include partial hospitalization, group living facilities, sheltered work shop and transportation services.

Partial hospitalization entails diagnosis and evaluation of a patient's problem and appropriate treatment is then initiated. This can consist of group living where the individual is isolated from the general community but is able to take a greater share in the control of his environment. This type living builds confidence on the part of the individual and prepares him for life in the open community. Training in vocational and social guidance and in establishing personal goals and human relationships are a large part of this intermediate care.

Consultation and educational services are available through the centers and some of these services are at the disposal of the community at large. The primary goal of this program is identification and early treatment of mental diseases. In addition, professional members of the staff are available to speak to schools and organizations throughout the community for purposes of education in the areas of drug and alcohol abuse, mental health and services available through the Comprehensive Care Centers.

Children's services are intended for the early identification and treatment of emotional, behavioral, and intellectual problems. These services include crisis intervention, therapy on all levels, evaluation on all levels, chemotherapy, collateral therapy, and speech therapy. The child is worked with until he can be re-introduced into his peer group without cultural shock. He is also expected to perform on the same level as other children his age after release from treatment.

Emergency services are available 24 hours a day, 7 days a week for individuals who find themselves in a sudden severe crisis. This includes suicidal, severely depressed, anxiety reactions, or overly aggressive, dangerous patients. This assures the patient of the care he desperately needs, at the very moment he needs it.

Developmentally disabled adults get help through Adult Activities Centers. The objective of these centers is to provide social and vocational skills of which they would otherwise be deprived. Sheltered workshops are used and the patients learn crafts. The product of their work is sold on the open market and helps to supplement capital income.

Programs are also available to those who are debilitated through the use of alcohol and drugs. The services include halfway houses, emergency services, consultation and education. In addition speakers go out into the community for the purpose of education and prevention of abuse of all drugs.

Since the conception of the Comprehensive Care Centers in the 8-county district, the inpatient case load from this area at state hospitals has declined 75%. This impressive reduction is due in large part to early identification and treatment of mental disabilities. The first line of defense against mental diseases is holding in this area of Kentucky; because of the wide variety of services available. Mankind's greatest asset is, truly, another man.

He continued by saying an additional 210,000 people were aided by Fiscal Year 1976 loans, and it is expected 55,000 will be assisted during the three months of the fiscal transitional quarter ending September 30. This was accomplished by $135,000,000 in loans and $5,000,000 in grants during the fiscal 12 month period. Another $40,000,000 in loans is expected to be used in the next three months.

Burris proud of this volume of work, and it compares with approximately $35,000,000 of loans made in 1969 when he first assumed his office. He added this increase was made with no increase of FmHA personnel in Kentucky.

The State Director explained the loans were made for farm operating, farm ownership, emergency, individual housing, rental housing, community sewers, soil and water improvement, community water, various community facilities, and business and industry.

A happy home we once enjoyed
How sweet the memories still

In the midst of all I'm blue
With a smile on my face
I have a heartache
Always remembering you.

by perline m. anderson

It's not possible for me to let the opportunity pass without informing each of you about the "wonderful" time we had on our vacation last week — on a 15-500 houseboat with Jim and all five children.

After the first two or three days, when Jim practically exhausted himself screaming at the children to keep their life jackets on whenever they were out of the cabin or on the side or back of the deck (the front was tied in shallow water), things smoothed out and he only had to yell at them occasionally the rest of the time. He and the two older children enjoyed it thoroughly mainly because Rick got to ski to his heart's content and Jamie learned how after trying and trying and trying. I finally got up enough nerve to get into the water with the skin on my feet and the ski rope in my hand but that was it — the second I felt any pressure from the rope,

The Mt. Vernon Signal, P-14 Thursday, July 15, 1976

I turned loose. The children then proceeded to imitate a chicken sound for me but that didn't bother me half as badly as did the thought of spending the next 6 months in a body cast because of trying to prove something. I don't like lake water to begin with, I like to be able to see what's down there ready to crawl up my leg and another thing, the lake we were on is very deep rationally all over and even though I can swim fairly well, if I were to lose my life jacket in the middle of that deep water, I would no doubt push out from the shock of it and sink like a lead balloon.

Next year, I am going to pick the vacation site and unless I change my mind, it will be on Hamlin Street in Mt. Vernon with the telephone turned off and "all the conveniences of home." Seriously, it was enjoyable. The nights were cool except for one night (you can't have everything you know!) it was pleasant to rev up the houseboat and cruise the lake and what little fishing we got in was fun (once trolling from the back of the houseboat, I caught an eight-inch Black Bass which is strictly a no-no but to make it worse we were in the Tennessee part of the lake at that time Rick probably set a new world's record for returning that fish to its native habitat.

The extra pounds I picked up sitting around with something to eat in my hand constantly aren't very pleasant but as Jim delights in pointing out, I suppose I have reached the age where I can expect a few pounds to gather here and there. I may as well expect them since they are certainly gathering.

As a baseball freak, I was in "hog heaven" Tuesday night watching the All-Star game and while watching the Red take on the American League, and defeat them, I decided that next year if we take a vacation at all, I may just blow myself to enough tickets to see the Reds play one complete home stand. Even though I can't really stand crowds, I would endure them particularly if I were lucky enough to land seats behind first base about six rows up and had someone in order to make periodic trips to the refreshment stand for me...

We left for our vacation on Monday which was a first for us because in ten years, we have never left town without seeing to the paper being out first. I was quite disappointed when I called in Tuesday afternoon and was assured that they were getting along nicely. I expected a cry for help at least on Wednesday morning and when it was not forthcoming, I began to feel that my role as the indispensable one was definitely in jeopardy. For years, I have ranted and raved about having to be here to write the stories and help put the paper together but the first time that it was written and put together without me — it's a kind of funny feeling. I'm not sure I like the idea of being dispensable all of a sudden. One of my bosses at Sylvania where I worked just prior to coming to Mt. Vernon, and where I thought I was pretty indispensable too, remarked once that anytime a person thought he was indispensable, he could find out differently just by driving by the cemetery. He was a Massachusetts Yankee so I felt he could be forgiven for being a little smart-alecky...

FIRE DEPARTMENTS AND RESCUE SQUAD RECEIVE FUNDS
The Brodhead and Mt. Vernon Fire Departments will each receive $666.89 from State Aid funds. The funds, for the fiscal year 1975-76, were approved by the 1976 General Assembly as part of Gov. Julian Carroll's executive budget. Each of the eligible fire departments must maintain a fire truck and have a chief and at least 12 firefighters in order to meet state requirements for the funds. All applications are verified by state field investigators employed by the fire marshal's office. The local Tri-City Rescue Squad will receive $687.89.

A lot of little people (and a lot who are not so little) would love to have an exquisitely detailed doll house that captures the flavor of a bygone era. You can get the easy-to-use plans for building one yourself, either elegantly Victorian or charmingly colonial by sending $6 to Joan Eastman Miniatures, 9 Johns Road, Setauket, New York 11733. Spotlight on HEALTH

DENTAL FACTS

The author of a dental survey says the fear of "being hurt" compounded by a fear of "the unknown" are two reasons why a child's first dental appointment can be a very traumatic experience. Queen Elizabeth I had such dental problems that it's reported that she left in the middle of many affairs of state because of severe pain. Root canal therapy by an endodontist can save teeth that would otherwise have to be removed with up to 95 percent success.

Hypersensitive teeth are not necessarily diseased, but are excessively sensitive to hot and cold food, sweets, acids and physical pressure. A special toothpaste called Sensodyne is reported to relieve pain for two out of three patients with tooth hypersensitivity. Pain relief builds up with continued use. Contrary to popular opinion, drinking milk and taking vitamin and mineral pills will not make teeth less susceptible to decay. A well-balanced diet can help maintain healthy gums and bones, but cannot make teeth stronger or less resistant to decay.

Dental plaque, rather than hormones, precipitates the cause of gum diseases in pregnant women, according to a researcher at the University of Maryland School of Dentistry.

Mr. Huffines said that forward progress has become the primary objective of The Bank of Mt. Vernon and improvement of banking services will be his major concern in the future.

FmHA Aids Ky. Rural Development

The trend of nearly fifty years is reversing and people are returning to rural areas in increasing numbers. John P. Hinkle, State Director of the Farmers Home Administration, said today, "These people must have homes, water, waste disposal facilities, community facilities, and jobs. The U. S. Department of Agriculture through the Farmers Home Administration is improving living conditions and enhancing employment opportunities in rural areas by making loans under nearly thirty programs. These loans are made where commercial credit is not available under reasonable rates and terms.
Burriss said the impact of FmHA programs can be better appreciated when it is realized that approximately one-fifth of all Kentuckians are directly benefited and served by these programs.

The ceiling of the cabin elevates to reveal a screen, used in a slide show about the settlers' routine and customs. The exhibit is free.

Lake Linville, Sidewalks and Other Items Discussed By City Council

By Roger Coltrin

The matter of Lake Linville was again before the Mt. Vernon City Council at their regular meeting Monday night and the buoy line and engine restrictions are causing additional problems for the council.

Luther Chaney, a former resident of Mt. Vernon, told the Council that he had acquired property in Hysinger Hollow past the buoy line and on the side of the lake opposite the roadway and now finds that his property is almost totally inaccessible by anything other than a ryboat or electric trolling motor. Mr. Chaney and his wife wish to improve their property but find this impossible because of the impracticability of transporting materials to the acreage. Mr. and Mrs. Chaney approached the mt. Vernon City Council and requested a solution to their problem. They were told by Council members that they could use a trolling motor to reach their property but must raise their gasoline engine out of the water before passing the buoy line. Further discussion of Chaney's dilemma was delayed until more information concerning responsibility for building a roadway could be obtained.

It was a night for complaints as Mrs. Fannie Mullins approached the Council concerning a fall which she took on Main Street in Mt. Vernon. Mrs. Mullins told the Council that she had tripped over a water meter cover in front of Hiatt's 5 & 10 and suffered a laceration above her right eye plus abrasions and contusions. The cover over Mrs. Mullins' eye required six sutures to close. Her request of the Council was that an attempt be made to fill in around meters and to convince property owners to repair sidewalks for which they are responsible. The Council assigned Junior Powell to check the condition of sidewalks throughout the City and make necessary repairs.

Discussion was again opened concerning a small dirt road which extends from Lovell Lane near Hamlin Street in Mt. Vernon between the property of Mrs. Edna Cummins and Mrs. Cola Grace Wilson. In previous discussions, when the Council was asked to blacktop the street, they had denied ownership. Monday night, the Council was presented with a copy of the deed and plat which gave the city ownership of the street ten years ago. Since this road has been city property for this length of time and no improvement has been made, the right-of-way was deemed back to Henry Coffey, the original owner of the land.

Two annexation requests to the city limits were presented the council. James Anderkin, Jr. and William D. Gregory asked that a portion of their land adjoining the city on the last street in Owens Subdivision be annexed for police and fire protection purposes. The proposal was accepted unanimously. However, attempts to annex McGuire Subdivision for the same purposes was stalled when it was discovered that a two-inch water line was the only water supply to the homes in the area. The Council's reasoning was that a two-inch line is not sufficient to supply fire hydrants and is not normally acceptable to most insurance companies. It was decided to discuss the matter at greater lengths with the property owners. The possibility of selling or leasing the city parking lot to The Bank of Mt. Vernon was discussed briefly. However, nothing definite was done on the matter. In other business, the city accepted bids for crushed stone and for blacktop to resurface Carter Drive and Rocky Street in Mt. Vernon. Kentucky Stone made the only bid for crushed gravel at $3.10 per ton and Allen and Company submitted the sole bid for blacktop at $14.75 per ton.

The Council also decided to accept sealed bids from individuals on the old backhoe sitting behind city hall. Numerous individuals have inquired about the piece of machinery and it was decided to sell the backhoe by sealed bids.

New figures for the 1976-77 fiscal year were discussed at the meeting and a deficit of $11,750 was projected. This deficit is not definite but appears very possible at this time. It was also decided that the city's waterworks records would be audited by Touche and Ross, CPAs from London. The bill for the audit will be $2,000.

Cumberland River Comprehensive Care Centers Combat Mental Diseases In 8-County Area

By Roger Coltrin

Mental illness, mental retardation, and development disabilities are probably the least understood diseases which plague mankind. Their impact on the nation, the state and this county are significant. A battle rumbles on in the background for most of us, but in grim reality for a few members of our community. They expose themselves to an environment of mentally disabled persons.

The Cumberland River Comprehensive Care Center is the first line of defense against the mental diseases that plague communities in an 8-county area. It is made up of the most important resource available to those who need help people.

The center offers a wide variety of treatment and rehabilitation programs to the public. Approximately 250,000 visits were made to the various facilities under the center's jurisdiction. Although located in one of the most poverty stricken areas of the country, no patient is ever turned away because of a lack of ability to pay.

The area. The counties are: Bell, Clay, Harlan, Jackson, Knox, Laurel, Rockcastle and Whitley. The board is supported by the military, educators, governmental leaders, agency heads, as well as members of medical societies.

Outpatient care is centralized for each county, according to need, in eleven outpatient clinics. These clinics are located in Barbourville, Corbin, Harlan, London, Manchester, Mt. Vernon, McKee, Middleboro, Pineville and Williamsburg and in the tri-county area of Cumberland, Benham and Lynch. These clinics are staffed with full term, completely trained, professional staff which is competent to deal with situational and developmental problems of people of all ages.

If further therapy is needed after the release of a patient from care, he may return at any time for further evaluation and treatment.

The most significant and helpful types of care available to the general community are the Intermediate Care (Cont. to 11)

Sidewalk repair was one of the items discussed at the City Council meeting on Monday night. Mrs. Fannie Mullins described, in detail, the deplorable condition of Mt. Vernon's sidewalks. The above sidewalk was alongside of the city's park.

FRANKFORT WATCHLINE

By Ferrell Weisman

It's still two-and-a-half years until candidates will be announcing their intentions for the state-wide constitutional offices. Speculation on who will be seeking the Democratic Party's nomination for Lieutenant Governor is a favorite pastime of reporters assigned to Frankfort. It's the best we can do since the capital city has been free of sex scandals for a couple of years.

Kentucky Attorney General Robert Stephens is on everybody's list in Frankfort as a likely candidate for Lieutenant Governor in 1979. Stephens had shown some interest in the position last year. State Auditor George Atkins, the former mayor of Hopkinsville, had also eyed the number two slot in 1975. Like Stephens, Atkins decided to wait four years before trying for the job which is becoming a steppingstone to the governorship.

Speaker of the House William Kenton of Lexington is another likely contender. Kenton's failure to challenge John Breckinridge for this Sixth District Congressional race this spring left little doubt that Kenton's mind is on the Lieutenant Governor's chair. Secretary of State Drex Davis is also frequently mentioned as one who could join the field. Former Carroll side Bill Cox of Madisonville is rumored as the man who will share a spot on a ticket headed by Terry McBrayer of Greenup.

The Mt. Vernon Signal, P-2 Thursday, July 15, 1976

Others will likely make the effort. This would certainly include someone from Eastern Kentucky, at least another state lawmaker, plus the usual accompaniment of political perennial who like to see their names on the ballot.

The word from all corners in state government is the new pre-trial release program is working smoothly. The program is a result of the bail bond prohibition law passed by the General Assembly which complements the state's new judicial reform package. Officials say there have been only a couple of cases where those released under the new system failed to appear.

The new program could create some problems for the Kentucky State Police. Governor Carroll in his '76-78 budget allocated funds for only 50 additional uniformed troopers. As expected, the General Assembly complied with his wishes. The pre-trial release system places an additional burden on the State Police. State Police Commissioner True R. Rice told William Davis of the Office of Judicial Planning the KSP would need 70 additional men this summer to seek and return those who "jump bail". To date, there's been no indication Ricks' request has gone as far as the Governor's Office.

Hearings conducted by the Governor's special commission on deep mine safety will continue throughout the summer. The commission is looking at a proposal sponsored by Representative Glenn Freeman of Cumberland which would put mine safety monitors in underground mines. Freeman recently said Governor Carroll should be at the re-opening of the Scotia mine where 26 men were killed and 11 are still buried four months after the explosion. Freeman's reasoning was the visit by the Governor would get him personally involved in the disaster and he would realize the need for the proposed safety legislation.

Some people in the Carroll Administration have been hinting that Freeman may be playing politics. They feel his comments about the Governor's involvement and the bill itself may be politically motivated. There is a good possibility, however, that Freeman has already made up his mind not to seek re-election to his seat from Harlan County. If Freeman announces he has no plans on seeking office, it could place his mine safety efforts above the political plans.

Here's something to watch. Governor Carroll has yet to make his appointments to the 14 seats on the Court of Appeals. The appointees would become incumbents at election time. These 14 jobs could be the choice political plums of the Carroll Administration.

How often have you heard the words heat pump and how much do you know about it?

Power companies and cooperations have sent out bulletins encouraging the use of heat pumps as energy savers. They also say do not over-size the unit. One power company went so far as to say you were better off under-sized than over-sized. But why be either?

No one knows more about his equipment or how to apply it than your local franchised G.E. dealer.

We enjoy so much having people in our home. You know, we are living in a day when it seems people don't have much time for each other, but I've always felt if we can't love and enjoy each other and do some good in the world, I don't know what we are here for. I've always loved people and always felt that there is some good in everyone if we only take time to seek it out. And, the good times we have in this world are nothing to compare with the glorious times we'll have when we all meet around the throne in Heaven. If you are not ready to meet God, I pray you get ready. We don't know the day or the hour He might call us out of this world. My prayers are with you all. God bless you.

ENERGY TALKS

Q. I know we need the oil, but has any oil company figured out a way to find it more easily?

A. Yes. Several oil companies, have developed seismic technology to detect underground deposits of oil and gas. This has enabled Gulf Oil Corporation, for example, to achieve a ratio of one successful exploratory well for every two drilled offshore Louisiana, a rate considerably above the industry average.

Randy and Andy Flinn, two sons of Linda Flinn of Stamford, Ky. celebrated their birthday June 21st at their home. They are the grandsons of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Stevens of Brodhead, Ky.

County Agent's Notes

County Extension Agent

MAPLE BLADDER GALL

We have been receiving a number of specimens of maple leaves that have the red bumps on them. The bumps are called Maple Bladder Galls and they are caused by a tiny mite VASATES QUADRIPEDS (Shimer). It is an Eriophyid mite. Once the warts or bumps show upon the tree, it is too late to spray the tree for control.

Control can be achieved by spraying the tree with a lime sulphur dormant spray (1 to 10 dilution in water) before the buds swell in the spring. This kills the eggs before they can hatch.

SPIDER MITES

Spider mites have been a sporadic problem this year over on henlock. Usually the foliage begins to turn a mottled reddish brown. It looks like the tree is dying out in that specific area. Closer examination will show very fine spider web-like strands running in among the needles. If you examine even more closely you will find the tiny spherical eggs and possibly some of the tiny reddish mites which feed on the sap of the plant.

Control can be achieved by spraying the plant with one of the following acaricides: Cyron 2 E 1 pt./40 gal. water of 2 tbs./3 gal. water. Malathion 57 percent EL 1 1/2 pts./100 gal. water of 1 t./gal. water. Malathion 25 percent WP 1/2 pt./100 gal. water of 1/2 t./20 gal. water. Malathion 4 or 5 percent dust - Cover thoroughly. Metasystox-R SC - 1 to 1 1/2 pts./100 gal. water. Kelthane - 1 to 1 1/2 pts./100 gal. water.

For more information on control of mites on conifers and other chemicals to use see Ent. 9 Insect Pests of Coniferous Trees and Shrubs.

WHAT TO DO IN JULY

Ornamentals:

Prune climbing roses. If the plant is older and well established, remove one to two older canes at ground level. As new canes acquire size, attach to trellis or other support.

Remove flowers from annual bedding plants after they have started to deteriorate. This results in more vigorous plants that bloom longer and more profusely.

Divide and replant Oriental peonies just as new growth starts from the root. This usually occurs in late July. Transplanting should be done only to relocate plants in more permanent places.

Divide bearded iris now. Cut out borer-infected parts and treat fresh cuts with sulfur. Mound soil when planting to provide good drainage; to help discourage rot organisms.

Repot houseplants and place outdoors in protected areas to encourage vigorous growth for the winter months. Sink the pots in soil to prevent drying out.

Grass clippings make excellent mulch if applied in small amounts. More than one inch used at any one time will result in heating and rotting odor.

Water plants during droughty times. Peonies, Dogwoods, Azaleas and many other plants form buds during the summer months for next year's sowing and fruiting.

Order fall bulbs now while the selection is still good.

When The Sun Shines Bright On Your Old Kentucky Home ... You Need Insulation

Summer's sunshine is wonderful, but what it does to the temperature in an uninsulated home shouldn't happen to an air conditioner! It runs and runs and runs and runs and runs to help you keep your cool.

Proper insulation can cut those runs by a third, and that can mean a third less electricity and a third less cost for maintaining the same indoor temperature.

And more. That insulation will work just as hard next winter to keep you warm. The savings then are even greater.

Call your insulation contractor now. Better still, call our nearest office for facts and figures on the type and amount of insulation you need. Insulation can be a giant step toward lower electric bills this summer.

CONSUMER COMMENT

By Robert F. Stephens
Attorney General

From time to time, the Consumer Protection Division receives complaints about the shrinkage, discoloration, fading, damage or destruction of items of wearing apparel made from natural and synthetic fibers. These complaints usually come after the clothes are washed or dry cleaned. When this happens, consumers tend to blame the persons who cleaned or sold them the clothes or material. These parties, in turn, point at the manufacturer as the party responsible for seeing that proper care instructions are included with the materials from which the clothes were made. Indeed, with so many synthetic and exotic fabrics of the market today, and with so many of these coming into the country from overseas, this clothing or fabric care information is very important. The consumer and the cleaning establishment can only follow the directions given by the manufacturer.

The Federal Trade Commission requires that any textile product in the form of a finished article of wearing apparel must have a label or tag permanently attached to it which clearly discloses instructions for the care and maintenance of the article. The commission also requires that any textile product in the form of piece goods, which is made for the purpose of immediate conversion by the consumer into a finished article of wearing apparel must be accompanied by a label or tag which provides clear instructions for the care and maintenance of such goods and can, by normal household methods, be permanently affixed to the finished article by the consumer. This label or tag must be provided by the person or organization manufacturing the goods. Instructions for the care and maintenance of any article covered by the regulation must fully inform the purchaser how to handle the regular care and maintenance necessary for the ordinary use and enjoyment of the article; for example, washing, drying, ironing, bleaching, dry cleaning, and any other procedure regularly used to maintain or care for a particular article. They must warn the purchaser as to any regular care and maintenance procedures which may usually be considered as applying to such articles, but which, in fact, if applied, would substantially diminish the ordinary use and enjoyment of the article. The instruction must also be made readily accessible to the user and be provided in such a manner that they will remain legible for the useful life of the article.

Exemptions to the regulation may be considered when the physical characteristics of the article or its utility or appearance, would be substantially impaired by a permanent attached label. If an exemption is granted, the clothing or fabric care information described above must accompany the article whenever it is sold, but it does not have to be included on a label or tag permanently attached or affixed to the wearing apparel or material. An exemption may also be granted for specific articles intended to be sold at retail for three dollars or less and which are completely washable under all normal and reasonable foreseeable circumstances.

If garments or fabrics do not bear the required labels, think twice before you buy them. Notify the store manager or the manufacturer regarding the absence of the label. You may also want to notify the Federal Trade Commission. If instructions are not followed and the garment or fabric is damaged in some way, notify the retailer or the manufacturer. If you have a complaint which is not resolved, contact the Division of Consumer Protection, Room 313, Capitol Building, Frankfort, Ky. 40601.

Tees Councilers were Lisa Owens, Marita Stewart, Debbie Adams and Jerry Penzol. Also staying with the group was Cheryl Witt, County Extension Agent for Home Economics.

Cooking, Dicing and Slicing: After you have allowed the jars of processed pickles or relishes to cool and have checked the seal, store them in a cool, dark dry place. You need to protect them from light to retain their color and quality. Be sure to store them in a place where there is no danger of freezing. Try to use them up as quickly as possible, although they will actually keep much longer than this.

New Pickle Publication: Stop by the Extension Office at the Court House in Mt. Vernon for a free copy of our publication on "Making Pickles and Relishes." This old favorite has just been completely revised and brought up to date by UK Extension food specialists Sue Burrier and Dr. Fudeko Maruyama.

MAKING PICKLED CAULIFLOWER

Pickles and relishes have a tart, spicy flavor which adds zest and variety to them. Cauliflower is one of the many vegetables you can pickle.

Break two large heads of cauliflower into small snowrets and cook in unsalted boiling water for 3 minutes. Then drain them. Combine 2 1/2 cups of distilled white vinegar, 1 1/2 cups water, 1 1/2 cups granulated sugar, 3 tablespoons pickling salt, 1 tablespoon's mustard seed, 1 tablespoon celery seed, and 1/4 teaspoon ground turmeric (optional) in a saucepan and bring to boiling. Add the cauliflower and let simmer for 2 minutes. Continue simmering while quickly packing one clean hot jar at a time. Fill to within 1/2 inch of top, making sure vinegar solution covers the mixture. Cap each jar at once. Process 5 minutes in boiling water bath canner. This makes 5 1/2 pints.

TOP QUALITY PICKLES

Pickled fruits should be plump, firm but tender, with a spicy sweet tart taste. Pickled vegetables should be young, tender, crisp and lustrous.

Cucumber pickles should be firm solid, dark olive green and have a translucent, even color.

Relishes should be bright, have a crisp texture, and have the colors of the original vegetables.

Mixed pickles and relishes should be firm, crisp and brightly colored.

Use Tested Recipes: To get these kinds of results, use reliable recipes and follow them to the letter. Pickle only fresh, good quality young fruits and vegetables. Use fresh whole spices and a good standard vinegar, free from sediment.

Use granulated white sugar, unless the recipe calls for brown sugar. Use only coarse pickling salt and soft water for brining.

When using cucumbers, choose only those varieties recommended for pickling.

Use the Right Utensils: Unchipped enameled and stainless steel saucepans or kettles are probably the best choice for heating pickling liquid. Don't use copper, galvanized brass or iron utensils. These metals may react with salts or acids and cause color changes or form undesirable compounds. Good brining containers are a cork, stone jar, unchipped enameled, a large glass jar, bowl or casserole. Don't use plastic containers.

Wash Fruits and Vegetables: Before pickling, wash fruits and vegetables thoroughly in several changes of cold water. Use a vegetable brush to remove soil that clings to cucumbers. Lift fruits and vegetables out of the water each time to keep soil from draining back onto them. Handle gently to prevent bruising.

Be sure to remove the blossom end of the cucumbers. Otherwise, these could be a source of enzymes responsible for making cucumbers soft during the fermentation process.

Don't Use Open Kettle Method: Many old time pickle recipes call for open kettle canning. This means heating the pickles in an open kettle, then filling and sealing the jars without further processing. However, since spoilage organisms could enter the jars when you transfer the food, this method of canning is not considered safe. Don't do it!

Process All Pickled Products: For safe keeping and safe eating, process all your pickled foods in a boiling water bath canner. This is the only sure way to keep them from spoiling or losing quality. Check your recipe for processing time.

Kentucky Afield

It's that time of year again - high water temperatures, banks washed to the extent that the water along the shoreline is often muddy and "too many"

pleasure boaters combine it with many fishermen feel it's almost more trouble than it's worth to wade a line in most of the big lakes.

What we've said before, good strings of both pan and game fish can be caught during these hot summer months in the major lakes by fishermen who care how and who are willing to put forth a little extra effort. For example, casting at night or in early morning, before the lake is churned up, can be very productive for black bass, and fishing worms or crickets along deep walls, weed beds or other likely blugill "hang-outs" account for many a fine summer supper, but there are alternatives to fishing in the main bodies of the major lakes and one is to move down - in fact, to move below the dam - and fish the tailwaters.

And if you think tailwater fishing is merely "second best," think again, and check that Kentucky record fish list, which came out of tailwater fishing. One of the current records were tailwater catches.

First, there's a 100-pound blue catfish, "caught by the late J. E. Copeland, Benton, from below Kentucky Lake Dam on August 21, 1970. Then on September 10, 1972, Jim Mattingly of Somerset broke the record 14-pound, 6-ounce rainbow trout from the tailwaters of Cumberland Lake, and finally, the most recent state record which came out of tailwater was the 37-pound, 8-ounce white perch caught April 25, 1978 by Ernest E. Morgan of Henderson from below Kentucky Dam.

Obviously then, tailwater fishing can be productive for the "big ones," but perhaps more important, it offers just plain good, easy fishing for a variety of species and can be enjoyed as "serious" fishing or as a family outing.

"Hot" fish are attracted to the current which is nearly always found below the large dams and where there are half fish, there are also those fish such as white bass, crappie and catfish (and sometimes trout) which feed on the bait. Other species frequently taken include white perch, rockfish, sauger, bluegill and Kream bluegill.

In most tailwaters, the anglers fish from the bank, casting artificial lures or still fishing live or cut baits. Generally the water areas offer ample parking space and rest rooms and some have picnic tables, camping sites and boat launching facilities.

Children should be required to wear life-jackets, even when fishing from shore, (as should adults who aren't quite as steady as they'd like to be.)

One of the tailwater fishing is one of my favorites during the hot summer and if you haven't yet given it a try, there's no better time than now.

According to legend, coffee was discovered by shepherds in the ancient Ethiopian village of Kaffa around 1000 A.D. Whether this is true or not, coffee was being enjoyed by Arab traders by the mid-1500s.

"BUS DRIVERS"

include instruction from the state police concerning Kentucky's traffic laws, as well as from officials of the Education Department.

Topics include "Pupil Discipline," "Defensive Driving," "Emergency and First Aid Procedure," "Public Relations," "Loading and Unloading Procedures," "Pupil Management," "Kentucky Administrative Regulations," and "Preventive Maintenance."

In memorandum to state school board superintendents and transportation supervisors, Jones noted that "Over 450,000 school children are transported each day" in state school buses. He attributed the safety of those children to "the attitudes and skills" of the bus drivers, calling the bus driver "The single most important person in school bus safety." Jones said that while Kentucky's bus drivers "have achieved a commendable safety record over the years," it is important that they be made aware of state laws and regulations, means of controlling students, and emergency measures. He emphasized the importance of loading and unloading school children, calling that procedure the most dangerous of a bus driver's duties.

Full Speed Ahead To What ?

Electric power generating stations are facing intense pressure to install scrubbing equipment to remove sulfur gas from the coal burning process. But the only scrubbers available today are incredibly expensive and create monstrous solid waste problems. And the equipment has not met the test of continuous use.

Now it develops that our nation's Environmental Protection Agency is worried about the air standards it has set. Agency officials admit that recent testing fails to confirm its earlier report. In fact, EPA now admits that its earlier findings were adjusted a bit, and more rigid requirements than the information justified.

The easiest course for a utility is move full steam ahead and pass the costs along to consumers. But that makes no sense to Kentucky's electric cooperatives. To those money away for unproved or unneeded equipment does not help our environment. It simply gouges our members' pockets. And we oppose that.
