Opportunity Knocks For Well Prepared

As most people looking for a good job know, you often can't get experience unless you first have experience. Fortunately, it is possible to get good training in useful skills in important fields such as electronics or communications and get paid at the same time.

A good chance to learn good skills to help them get a good job is available to a few good men.

The opportunity to do this can be found in the United States Marine Corps Reserve. Reservists earn $1,500 for 130 days of active service, during which they learn the same skills Marine regulars do. They receive leadership training and gain inner confidence that gives them an extra edge in their civilian careers.

After training, they return home to civilian life except for drill meetings one week and a month and two weeks of training each summer, so they can keep their skills sharp, their bodies in shape. For details about the range of programs and opportunities in the Marine Corps Reserve, call toll free 800-423-2600. Californians call toll free 800-252-0211.

Board of Education Meets; New Policies Introduced

By Roger Coldiron
The Rockcastle County Board of Education met in Regular Session Monday night, September 6th. During the meeting, two policies were introduced to members of the board for their evaluation and vote on in the October meeting. The policies pertained to the lunchrooms in the schools and corporal punishment by teachers in the classrooms.

Details will be discussed during the next regular session.

Lunches have increased 5c in all schools and adult lunches are now 75c each. In addition, a policy for the opening of school records was briefly discussed and will be studied in greater detail at next month's meeting as well.

Additional bus drivers were employed to fill vacancies left by those who could not drive this year. It was discovered that since insurance was obtainable for drivers over 65 years of age, these men could continue to drive. It was found that there was no state statute governing the age of drivers - a matter which had been in doubt at last month's meeting.

Drivers hired were: Glenn Bullock, Russell Hensley, Mark McKinney, George Pridemore, Robert Wilson and Lois Philbeck.

Three new substitute teachers were hired for the 1976-77 school year, they were: Cola Grace Wilson, Debra Stevens and Darlene Martin. Also, Geraldine Anglin was hired as a substitute cook for the elementary schools or high school and Doris Towery was hired as School Health Coordinator. Also employed were: Norma Olsen of Lexington as music teacher for the elementary schools. Ms. Olsen holds a Masters Degree in Music from the University of Kentucky.

It was also decided that Roundstone School would get a new roof. Karr Roofing Co. was awarded the contract with a low bid of $18,324.00.

The only other bid submitted was from Phelps Roofing Co. of Lexington for $24,864.00. The project is subject to the architect's approval.

An amendment was also made by the board to the attorney's contract to cover bus drivers for suits or criminal charges arising from their daily duties.

HALF OF PERMIT AND ACREAGE FEES RETURNED TO FORTY THIRTY COAL-PRODUCING COUNTIES

Gov. Julliah Carroll announced today payments totaling $630,085 are being sent to 43 coal-producing counties, representing half of the permit and acreage fees collected by the state the fiscal year, 1975-76.

Each year, one-half the strip mining acreage and permit fees collected by the division of reclamation are returned to the counties where the mines are located. The other half is placed in the state's general fund.

The largest check, $64,740, went to Whitley County. Grayson's check for $237.50 was the smallest. A law passed by the 1972 General Assembly states the county fiscal may use the funds for its general purposes.

Of the funds returned, Rockcastle County received $4,372.50.

ANNOUNCING THE 1976 4-H POSTER CONTEST

It's time for the 4-H Poster Contest again. Any 4-H member may make a poster. The top six posters in the county will receive ribbons and be submitted to the State 4-H poster contest. Posters made will be displayed during 4-H week, October 3-9, 1976.

4-H is to be the topic for the poster. Members can show what they think 4-H is, what they do in 4-H, what they think 4-H does for young people or some other idea related to 4-H.

Originality is encouraged in choosing a theme as well as the art work.

Fiscal Court Discusses Levying Tax On Local Stone Company

Members of the Rockcastle County Fiscal Court Tuesday asked County Attorney James Lambert to investigate the legality of levying a tax against the local stone company such as was proposed against the coal producers in the county. The tax on coal produced in the county was struck down when the state decided to levy a tax themselves and return a portion of the money collected to each county producing coal.

Mr. Lambert was asked to check with the attorney general's office on the legal aspect of this type of taxation on the basis of the stone being mined by the company being a diminishing asset.

The County Attorney agreed to do this and report his findings at the next meeting of Fiscal Court.

Mr. Mason also made a motion that the recent check for $4,372.50 received by the county for their share of the strip mine permit and acreage fees collected in the county, be split between his district, W. H. Wren's and J. R. Cromer's since these are the three districts out of which coal is hauled and thereby roads more heavily damaged. There was little discussion on Mr. Mason's motion, which was seconded by Mr. Wren, but Magistrates Danny Sargent and Chester Whitaker both abstained with Mr. Cromer voting yes.

Hospital Admissions

Members of the Rockcastle County Hospital Board, Administrator Henry Hoskins and others met with the Fiscal Court to present them with a general resolution authorizing the hospital board to proceed with the first and preliminary application to Farmers Home Administration (FHA) asking FHA to consider financing the extended care facility and also authorizing the hospital board to hire a bond attorney and architect.

The bond attorney, Joe Ferguson of Louisville, told the court that in order to build the 32 bed facility there would have to be an issuance of revenue sharing bonds which it is anticipated FHA would buy at probably a 5 percent interest rate. Mr. Ferguson further explained that the bonds would state that the repayment would be made from rental of the hospital facilities and the court would in no way be responsible for repaying the money due, even should the hospital cease to operate. He (Mr. Ferguson) said the only obligation by the county, should this happen, would be to make an effort to rent the facilities to someone else.

Paul Kinsell, the architect who has been hired by the hospital board, told the court that the estimated cost of the facility would be about $320,000 not counting the additions needed to existing facilities such as the kitchen, which would have to be enlarged.

Mr. Hoskins then told the court the purpose of the extended care facility which would fill the need for persons not requiring intensive care but who need regular hospital care. The hospital has already issued a Certificate of Need by the State Department of Health which is one of the first necessities of an undertaking of this size.

The court's approval of the resolution asked for by the hospital board was given but not before two of the magistrates, Ernest Mason and Bill Wren, asked the hospital board to provide room for operation of the ambulance service out of the hospital facilities. Bill Bailey responded for the hospital board by saying that present plans called for housing the service in the new addition but this of course would be at least the latter part of next year. However, when the issue was pressed by the magistrates, it was decided that there would be a meeting between the magistrates and the hospital board this Thursday night at 7 p.m. at the hospital to see if there was any possibility of the necessary room being obtained in the present building.

Highway Department

Benton Owens, representing the State Department of Highways was at the meeting to present the court with two projects, one to resurface 1250 North past Freedom Church for 2 of a mile and the other a rock hauling contract for a total of $4,891.16. Both projects were approved by the court.

Roads Accepted

Two roads were accepted by the county, one a road in the James Payne Subdivision by Junior Denney's store and the other on the property of Homer Hale off the Old Bushland Road, Sam Ford, speaking for Mr. Payne, asked the court to accept the 40 foot street which has been graded and ditched in accordance with State Highway Department regulations. The street is 600 feet long and has been covered with 124 ton of white rock. The other road is in the city limits but will not be accepted by the city unless it is blacktopped. However, Danny Ford, speaking on behalf of Marvin Mink and Johnny Cromer, told the court that if the county would accept the graded street for maintenance then the city would take deed to it, a requirement before FHA will grant a loan for home building in the area. Both roads were accepted as stated.

New Ambulances

Mr. Clark, a director of the Boone Regional Emergency Medical Services System, Inc. (BREMSS) was before the court concerning the two new ambulances which the county needs to purchase to be in compliance with the federal requirements which go into effect in 1978.

Mr. Clark told the court that the bids had been advertised (on a 43-county basis) and accepted and that the two ambulances for Rockcastle County would cost $54,000. The ambulances are being purchased under the county needs to purchase to be in compliance with the federal requirements which go into effect in 1978.

Burley Producers Must Decide Referendum On September 21

On September 21, Kentucky burley tobacco producers will decide whether they wish to provide funds for the promotion of burley tobacco and burley tobacco products.

A percentage assessment at the time of sale, with the resulting funds to be used in promoting increased production, use and sale of burley tobacco products, is proposed.

County Extension offices in each of Kentucky's 120 counties will be the voting sites, according to Wilson Hourigan, Extension agricultural economist at the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture. Any person 18 years of age or older who is engaged in the commercial production of burley tobacco is eligible to vote. This includes tenants and sharecroppers who receive money from the sale of burley as well as farm owners.

If the majority of those voting favor the proposal, one-tenth of a cent (0.1c) per pound per marketing quota - with a minimum of 80c and a maximum of $10 per marketing year - will be deducted from the sale price by warehousemen or other dealers who buy burley from growers. Producers who do not want to take part in this "check-off" can have their assessments refunded, Hourigan says.

If the assessment is approved, money raised by the "check-off" will go to the Council for Burley Tobacco, Inc. The Council will use 60 percent of the total collected for "Promoting and stimulating" by research, market development and education the increased production, use and sale, domestic and foreign, of burley tobacco products. The other 40 percent of the total will go to the Burley Tobacco Growers Cooperative Association for their export promotion program and other association activities related to burley promotion and use.

The 1976 Kentucky General Assembly passed legislation permitting this referendum to be held under the supervision of the Kentucky Commissioner of Agriculture, Hourigan notes. Details on the proposal and on the rules for the referendum are available at county Extension offices and from the referendum agent appointed for each county by the commissioner of Agriculture.

SQUARE-UP

The Rockcastle Cloverleaf Square Dance Club will sponsor an Open House on Monday, September 13, 1976 at 7:30 p.m. at the Catholic Recreation Hall located behind the Altie. All members are encouraged to attend.

At this time applications will be taken for beginning square dance lessons. All persons interested in talking beginning lessons are urged to attend. The teacher will be Lloyd Holbrook.

MIX-UP CAUSES PROBLEM

Due to a mix-up in who was going to do what at the Signal over the Labor Day Week-end, we regret that the dedication of the Jaycees Wa. Memorial Monument was not covered. We did get pictures the day the monument was erected but.

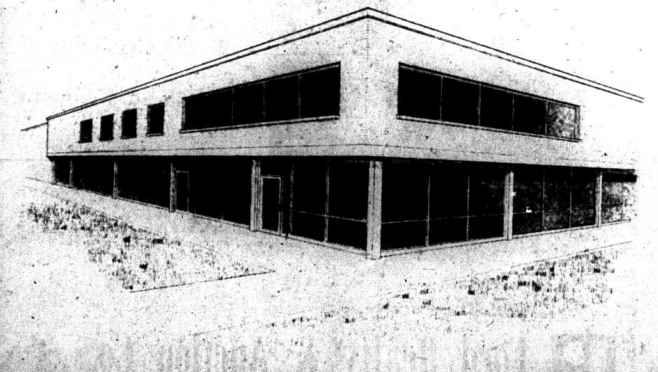

Our apologies, Jaycees.

Approximately $1,200 damage was done to windows in the front of Food Fair Supermarket over the week-end when all four of their big plate-glass windows were shot out by vandals. The windows were replaced Tuesday. This is one of several incidents in Mt. Vernon in the past couple of weeks of windows being broken. Two Main Street businesses had their windows broken out by throwed bricks just prior to the Food Fair incident.

Above is an architect's conception of how the new addition to the Rockcastle County Hospital will look when completed. The Extended Care wing will be added to the hospital in the rear of the present building and will have 32 beds. The hospital board is presently working with a bond attorney in order to get general revenue bonds issued to finance the project.

FRANKFORT WATCHLINE

By Ferrell Wellman

Avoid 4:30 p.m. in Frankfort. That's when the stampede begins. It's unlike any you may have seen on "Bonanza." The pounding hooves aren't those of cattle (although there is a lot of bull in Frankfort). It's the stampede of the state workers. There are more squealing tires at rush hour in Frankfort than can be heard all season on Starkey, and Huch.

That could change. Kentucky state government is trying some innovative concepts which could lengthen the work day, boost worker morale, and protect the unwitting tourists who step from their car near the Capitol at quitting time.

For the past ten weeks the Kentucky Department of Personnel has been experimenting with almost every worker's dream, the four day work week. Under the plan used by Personnel, half of the department's 174 employees worked from 7:30 a.m. to 6:00 p.m. Monday through Thursday. The other half works the same hours Tuesday through Friday.

The Commissioner of the Department of Personnel, Adlie Stokley, said the four day week boosted morale, increased the effectiveness of the department and provided better service to the taxpayer. For example, the state's testing center where all applicants for state jobs are examined was open ten hours more each week. This was especially beneficial to job hunters from West Kentucky, who lost an hour traveling to Frankfort because of the time change.

As the experiment of the four day week ended, department officials surveyed the staff to gauge its feelings about the concept. As expected, 72 percent gave it their okay.

Every week end seems like a holiday, one clerk in the department said. "I have more time for personal business and recreations."

Workers said the four day week permitted them to get more work completed. They are able to start and finish a project in the same day. Supervisors cited a more congenial atmosphere among the staff. Employees were more willing to work together.

The most dramatic result of the four day week was the drop in absenteeism. Workers took only 35 sick days in July, 1976 while the experiment was in progress. In July of last year, Personnel Department workers had taken 123 days off. In addition, absenteeism without pay declined 83 per cent.

Of the 23 percent who disliked the four day week, most were married women with children. The early hours created problems for mothers who had to get their children to school. For commuting mothers with small children, a was their child's bedtime when they returned home in the evening.

Almost half of the workers in the department said the longer day fatigued them. Another complaint came from night school students who were bothered by the late quitting time. It now seems the department might look at another concept called "Flex Time." Under this plan, all workers would work during a "core period," usually 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. Workers would be free to work their remaining hours at their convenience.

The results of the experiments will be passed along to the Governor's Office. If the final results are as promising as the early ones, here's hoping the administration will implement the innovative work schedules in departments where they would be feasible. It's to the Carroll Administration's credit, these experiments are even being tried.

VISITED YOUR LIBRARY LATELY?

Have you visited your local public library lately? If you haven't, you are in for a surprise. You will find more books there. In fact, it's a whole new library.

Records, cassettes and framed prints can be borrowed from the local public library," said Charles F. Hinds, director of the Kentucky Department of Library and Archives. He added that even sets of Paul Sawyer prints have been placed in all of Kentucky's 110 local public libraries for lending.

Today's public libraries have become more people-oriented, according to Hinds. Many have meeting rooms which can be used by civic and social clubs; movie projectors and films are loaned to civic and church groups, nursing homes, and community centers, and independent learning programs are offered.

Entertainment is another offering of today's libraries with puppet shows for the youngster and movies for all ages. Many libraries have art or photography exhibits scheduled throughout the year, usually highlighting local artists and craftsmen.

Public libraries can add to your enjoyment and knowledge said Hinds. "Visit - you will find it's a whole new library," said Hinds.

In tiny El Salvador, where 32% of the national budget goes for education, new innovations in education are winning attention from U.S. educators.

Goal: Earning Skills
Three aspects of El Salvador's educational program are especially interesting.

1. Educational programs are designed to provide students with skills to earn a living.

2. Students who drop out of school can continue their education by using the two national educational TV channels.

3. For the 60,000 young people now enrolled in the four universities, tuition is commensurate with each student's financial situation.

For youngsters who years ago might have faced a lifetime of mental drudgery at poverty wages, the new educational program is helping the country live up to its name. In Spanish, "El Salvador" means "The Savior."

Tomato Sauce and Catsup

Put up some of that beautiful crop of tomatoes as sauce or catsup. Recipes for canning these products call for enough vinegar so that they may be safely processed in your boiling-water-bath canner.

If you're planning to put up spaghetti sauce, with or without meat, freezing is the best way to go. Looking through my canning books, I find no recipes for spaghetti sauce. That's why I recommend freezing it, or planning to make it later from your canned or frozen tomatoes.

Storing Ripe Melons

You can store ripe cantaloupes up to 10 days in plastic bags in the coldest section of your refrigerator.

Ripe watermelons will last about a week at room temperature. They'll keep 2 or three weeks at 45 to 50 degrees F, and from 80 to 90 percent humidity. The coldest part of an unheated basement might be the best place to store them at your house.

Signs of Food Spoilage

Always check for the possibility of spoilage when you open jars of home-canned food. Don't ever use food that shows the least sign of something wrong.

Look closely at each jar of food before opening it. Bulging jar lids or a leak mean that the seal has broken and the food has spoiled. When you open the jar, look for other signs - spurting liquid, an off odor, or mold.

Boil Vegetables Carefully

For safety's sake, boil all home-canned vegetables at least 10 minutes before you even taste them. Boil spinach and corn 20 minutes. If the food looks spoiled, foams, or has an off odor during heating, destroy it. Heating usually makes any odor of spoilage more evident.

Burn spoiled food, or throw it away when there is no chance it might be eaten by humans or animals. Sterilize at once all jars that have contained spoiled foods - wash in hot soapy water and immerse in boiling water for 10 to 15 minutes.

Testing the Seal After Canning

Test the seal on jars with porcelain-lined caps by tilting each jar over in your hands. To test a jar that has a flat metal lid, press center of lid - if lid is down and will not move, jar is sealed. Or tap the center of the lid with a spoon. A clear ringing sound means a good seal. If you find a leaky jar, use unspiced food right away. Or can it again. Use another jar, a new lid, and pack and process food as if it were fresh. Before using old jar or screwband again, check for defects.

When jars are thoroughly cool, take off the screw bands carefully. If a band sticks, covering it for a moment with a hot, damp cloth may help to loosen it. Before storing canned food, wipe jars clean. Label to show contents, date, and lot number (if you cannot more than one lot a day).

Wash bands, store them in a dry place so that they won't rust.

Tried and True Recipes For

Tomato Sauce and Catsup

Tomato Sauce:
18 tomatoes
2 green peppers
2 medium onions
2 teaspoons salt
1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
1/2 teaspoon ground cloves
1 teaspoon saltspice
2 cups vinegar

Peel, core and chop tomatoes. (Use sound, ripe tomatoes without any spoiled spots). Chop peppers and onions fine. Combine all ingredients. Boil slowly for about 4 hours, or until thick. Fill boiling hot to within 1/2 inch of top of pint jars. Process 10 minutes in boiling water bath canner.

Tomato Catsup:

8 pounds ripe, sound tomatoes
1 medium onion, chopped
1/4 teaspoon cayenne
1 cup sugar
1 1/2 teaspoons whole cloves
1 1/2 inches stick cinnamon, broken
1 teaspoon celery seed

4 teaspoons salt

Wash, peel, remove stems ends and cores, and quarter tomatoes. Let tomatoes stand in colander to drain off excess liquid. In 8 to 10 quart-kettle or Dutch oven mix tomatoes, onion, and cayenne. Bring to boiling and cook until tomatoes are soft, about 15 minutes, stirring occasionally. Put tomatoes through food mill or a coarse sieve to extract juice. Add sugar to tomato juice and return to kettle.

Bring to a boil; then simmer briskly 1 1/2 to 2 hours, or until mixture is reduced by half. (You can measure the depth with a ruler at start and end). Meanwhile, in small saucepan combine white vinegar, whole cloves, stick cinnamon, and celery seed. Cover and bring vinegar mixture to boiling. Remove from heat. Let stand.

Strain spiced vinegar mixture into tomato sauce. Discard the spices. Add

A THOUGHT TO REMEMBER

By: Robert L. "Buddy" Cox

Will Rogers, the most popular humorist of his time once said, "I never met a man I didn't like." He was so well liked that more than a million copies of books about him were sold after his death.

It is a fact of life that if you like people you will be liked. People who resent or dislike people are in turn resented and disliked by others. It is an inexorable law of retribution. Liking people is an indispensable possession that is shared - share for share. To have a friend and to be a friend, one must be friendly. Cox Funeral Home, Mt. Vernon, Ky. Ph. 256-2345 or 256-4444.

County Agent's Notes

BY H. LEE DURHAM
COUNTY EXTENSION AGENT
FOR AGRICULTURE

What to do in September

Since it partakes of the character of both seasons, summer and autumn, September has been called "transition" month with "summer's best of weather and autumn's best of cheer."

And indeed it is. In the southern part of our nation it is one of the warmest months, and even in the North, hot days are frequent. Nights, however, are likely to be cool and fine for sleeping. Then, too, there is often just more than a touch of that nostalgic blue haze that makes the later autumn days of October so hauntingly beautiful.

On the farm and in the garden, September is a busy month. It is the harvest period for many crops - a period when corn is cut and made into shocks or ground into silage, when potatoes are dug and the last green tomatoes gathered for storage. It is a time when "lamed farmers labor without slack" to harvest and store away the "rich fruits of the field."

In the calendar of Charlemagne, September was called Roman times, and in some countries it still bears that name. In their choice of a name for this month the Anglo-Saxons were more specific. They called September the "barley month."

Many of our months have undergone changes in their number of days, but since old Roman times, September has been limited; it has always had thirty days, but it hasn't always been the ninth month as it is today.

Before the calendar was revised by Julius Caesar, it was the seventh month, and its name stems from the Latin "septem," meaning seven. When the month was shifted in the Julian calendar to the ninth place, the name was not changed.

Aside from being the "harvest month," and the "barley month," September could very well be described as the "inspirational" month. Immortal poets and artists have been stimulated by the month to complete immortal poems and paintings. For, as Longfellow once wrote, in effect, in "September the earth is beautiful as if newborn. There is nameless splendor everywhere, wild exhilaration in the air, that makes passers in the city street congratulate each other as they meet."

September is a month in which to live and enjoy life and, according to University of Kentucky horticulturists, orchardists, and other specialists in the art of rural living, to renovate the lawn; clip hedges for the last time in the year; plant daffodil bulbs; bring in houseplants; transplant evergreen shrubbery; harvest and store white and sweet potatoes; sow lettuce in coldframes; sow cover crops in vacant garden areas; pull, dry, and store onions; water plants in places such as under eaves where normally they do not receive enough water; and gather materials for fall flower arrangements - milkweeds, foxgloves, bittersweet, sumac, hydrangeas, oaks, tassel and others.

But above all, plan to spend some time outdoors in September and enjoy all the "lovely tokens" it has to offer. It will be a long, long time before the month will come again.

Mow your lawn as long as it grows. Long grass over the winter promotes many fungi that can cause trouble next spring.

Don't clean up your iris beds until after November 1. The iris borer spreads most of your soft rot problems, and if you control this insect, you control soft rot. The borer eggs are laid on old flower stalks and plant debris through October. Wait until all the eggs are laid, then burn

Down On The Farm

BY ROY G. BROWN ASST. VICE PRESIDENT CUMBERLAND PCA

Well, school days are here again and it seems school only closed a few days ago. How time does fly!

I wonder how many of you out there realize the change and difference in schools today from a few years ago. Today a big, shiny yellow bus stops by the house and picks up the children and whisks them off to a modern school building, which has so many different rooms, study hall, library and huge gym, that most of us would get lost in it. They also cook and serve hot meals for the children and teachers. What a change from a little one room school where few had two rooms and you believe me, that was like a high school. The old schoolhouse has a coal stove for heat in winter and most of its boys would almost fight to see which one got the job to go early and kindle the fire. They usually paid 5 cents a day. Then there was a scramble to go down to a nearby spring or well to get a bucket of water, so we could get away from school and it usually took us so long that the teacher would get very upset when we did get back. Yes, we had to take our lunch. Those in the richer class had lunch boxes, but the most of us used paper sacks. Lunch usually consisted of eggs, jam with biscuits. When corn was in, we had corn on the cob, and then wind up with a cob fight. Our games were town ball, marbles, slinkbaes, drop the handkerchief and foot and goose chase. But an 8th grade education back then was equal to a high school education today, as school books contained more practical everyday use than. There are not many one room school houses left standing "Down on the Farm."

"COUNTRY AGENT" (Cont.'d from P-8)

October is a good time to check and repair sprayers and mowers for next spring.

Sit down and think about the disease problems you have had to face over the past year. Plan control for next year in advance. Made leaves and small twigs can make a poor mulch if they carry Verticillium wilt. It's usually better to burn them. Bake and burn leaves of any plant that was bothered by leaf spots or blights this year. Leaf diseases overwinter on these dead leaves. This procedure is a very essential step in controlling Black Spot on roses. Cut down, cut up, and burn or destroy dead stems now to help reduce spread of Dutch elm disease next year!  LOGSDON REUNION The Logsdon Reunion was held Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Ramsey. Others attending were Mrs. Ola Mae Roy and Joyce, Mrs. Lola

Logsdon, Mr. and Mrs. Dale Noland, Mr. and Mrs. Robert French, Mr. and Mrs. Terry Bradley and Charly, Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Broyles and Andy, Mrs. Karen Walmsley and Sonny, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Ramsey, Jr., Libby, Patsy and Dayne. Those visiting the family cemetery were Mr. and Mrs. William Logsdon, Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Logsdon and Ann Elizabeth, Mr. and Mrs. Estelle Howard, Larry and Sherry, Mrs. Opal Estep, Bobby and Nichelene and Edberg, John D. and Mike, Mrs. Lois Elliot and son, Brian Rice, Terry Lovins and son, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Renner, Mrs. Sinnie Nicely and Charles. A nice dinner was served and everyone enjoyed the nice day.  THE MT. VERNON SIGNAL P-9 THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 9, 1976

Two Killed During Hang Gliding Competition

By Roger Colburn

Hang Gliding Competition came to an abrupt halt at Raven Rock in Natural Bridge State Park Sunday after two pilots plunged to their deaths. "Squirrely" winds, homemade gliders and inexperience were cited as contributing factors to the accidents which killed two members of the Cincinnati Hang Glider Association.

The first accident involved Allan King, 27, a Cincinnati architect. According to Kevin Colker, club vice president, King had never flown in competition before. It was speculated that he either froze or blacked out in the harness of his glider after coming off the launch site 700 feet above the valley floor. The uncontrolled machine dove into the trees directly below the site and King was pronounced dead on arrival at Clark County Hospital in Winchester Saturday afternoon.

A vote was taken after the accident and participants decided competition should continue. Several safe flights were made but Sunday morning tragedy again struck at Raven Rock.

24-year-old Dan Ballas of Cincinnati dove to his death before the crowd—several hundred.

Ballas had flown the pylons to gain points in the contest and was noting his kite down to land in the target area. However, Ballas went into a "full-luff" dive and lost all control over the machine. Full-luff is used to describe the sail filling with air from the top rather than bottom and throwing the kite into a nose-dive. Ballas too was pronounced dead on arrival at the same hospital.

Brian Porter, World Open Class Hang Gliding Champion, flew one last time after the competition was terminated on Sunday. Porter said the winds were unpredictable and the site was probably inherently unsafe for hang gliding.

The first Raven Rock Open Hang Gliding Tournament may also be held. The site is currently being re-evaluated by the United States Hang Gliding Association, which sanctions the meets. The deaths were the first ever in sanctioned competition.

Patrik Richland lands his 18' Rogallo wing on Sunday within hours of the death of a hang glider pilot at the same spot. Pat was the last pilot to fly the site because of the difficult winds in the area.

PORTABLE POINTERS

More and more people are finding that portable televisions are suiting their home entertainment needs. Why? They're easy to move around, often compact in size—and as fine in reception as their console brothers.

For use in a boat, camper or anywhere away from household current, the battery-powered black and white set is your best bet. Check how long the set will operate without recharging; whether a car/boat adapter comes with the set; and whether the battery pack is included in the price of the set or is an optional extra.

For outdoor viewing, many sets have sunscreens for glare-free viewing.
