Mr. and Mrs. Ricky Ray Kirby

Taylor - Kirby Vows Said at Brodhead Christian Church

The marriage of Miss Patricia Ann Taylor and Mr. Ricky Ray Kirby was solemnized before an arch of daisies and lighted tapers at the Brodhead Christian Church on Saturday, August 28, at 3:00 in the afternoon. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Glenn Polly.

The bride, given in marriage by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E.J. Taylor, was escorted to the altar by her father. She was attired in a designers gown of imported silk organza. The horseshoe neckline was embroidered in chantilly. The entire bodice of the gown and the bell sleeves were also embroidered in lovely chantilly lace. The cathedral length train was embellished with lace like that on the bodice of the gown. Her veil of illusion fell from a crown of seed pearls to her waist. She carried a cascade of carnations and baby breath centered with a yellow orchid.

Mrs. Sherry Asher, of Brodhead, sister of the bride, was the Matron of Honor. She wore a gown of Aqua-blue sheer polyester and cotton over satinizing. She carried a bouquet of white carnations tipped in blue with baby breath and blue streamers. The bridesmaids were Miss Kim Kirby of Mt. Vernon, sister of the bride, Misses Elaine Price and Sandy Robbins of Brodhead, Miss Leslie Mullins of Mt. Vernon and Mrs. Myrna Childress of Louisville. They wore dresses identical to the Matron of Honor in hues of yellow and peach. Sharon Childress kept the guest book. She was attired in a yellow gown like the bridesmaids. Each wore picture hats in matching colors. The bridesmaids carried bouquets of peach carnations with baby breath and streamers in peach. Miss Adrain Henson of Stanford, cousin of the bride was the flower girl. She wore an aqua-blue dress like that of the Matron of Honor. She carried a basket of carnation petals.

Quentin Patey, Childress of Mt. Vernon served as Mr. Kirby's Best Man. Groomsman were Cecil Childress of Mt. Vernon, Dick Chesnam of Brodhead, Harold and Larry Taylor, brothers of the bride, and Gary Asher, brother-in-law of the bride, all of Brodhead.

David Wilson, cousin of the bride, served as ring bearer. They all wore light blue tuxedos trimmed with navy velvet and each wore a white carnation.

Pre-nuptial music was presented by Mrs. E.J. Smith, the organist and Miss Alicia Dick, vocalist. Vocal selections chosen by the bride and groom included "Because," "If," "Color My World" and "Wedding Prayer". The traditional "Wedding March" was rendered by the organist as the bride entered the church upon the arm of her father.

For her daughters wedding, Mrs. Taylor wore a shrimp polyester dress with white accessories. The grooms mother, Mrs. Kirby, wore a yellow polyester dress with a floral jacket and brown accessories. Both the mothers wore white carnation corsages.

A reception was held in the Fellowship Hall of the church following the ceremony. Serving at the brides table were Mrs. Bill Sue Lear, Miss Juleta Taylor and Miss Denise Sargent of Brodhead and Miss Sherry Riddle of Mt. Vernon.

The Bride's Table was covered with a quaker lace tablecloth. A bouquet of daisies and carnations with baby breath on greenery with lighted tapers adorned the center of the table. A crystal punchbowl was on one side of the floral arrangement and the three-tiered wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and groom with white doves and blue flowers rested upon a fountain of flowing blue water was on the opposite side.

Rice bags were distributed to be guests by Misses Jenny Lear, Selma Lear of Brodhead and Miss Debbie Wilson of Hamilton, Ohio.

For her going away outfit the new Mrs. Kirby chose a rust colored polyester dress with matching accessories. She wore the yellow orchid from her bridal bouquet.

Following a wedding trip to Tennessee, Mr. and Mrs. Kirby are residing in their new home in Brodhead.

ALASKANS, ESKIMOS AND ALEUTS ENTITLED TO BENEFITS

The Commonwealth of Kentucky has been asked to assist in locating Alaska Indians, Eskimos and Aleuts who currently are living in Kentucky and stand to share in more than $900 million in benefits.

About 89 native Alaskans already have been located in Kentucky, according to a letter addressed to Gov. Julian Carroll, and they have applied for enrollment which could entitle them to a share of $962.5 million in cash benefits, four million acres of Alaskan land and unestimated corporation stocks.

The royalties are part of the Alaska Native Claims Settlement Act passed by the United States Congress in 1971.

In order to be eligible for benefits from the Act (Public Law 94-746), one must be at least one-quarter Alaskan Indian, Eskimo or Aleut, and must be a United States citizen. Alaska natives who have not enrolled yet, to receive their share of the settlement must do so before the January 2 deadline.

According to Susan Ruddy of Alaska Native Enrollment in Anchorage, Alaska, some 78,000 native Alaskans have enrolled since the passage of the Act in 1971, and some 5,300 applications have been received from persons wishing to be added to the roll. Included in these are about 89 Kentucky residents from 26 locations across the state.

Kentucky Afield

By John Wilson

Kentucky's archery deer season will open Oct. 1, and hunters have a better chance of getting a deer this year than in the past. The Commonwealth's deer herd continues to grow and is now up to around 120,000, according to Harold Barber, chief forest game biologist for the state Department of Fish and Wildlife.

This is quite an increase from the approximately 1,000 deer in the state just 30 years ago. In fact, there are probably more deer in Kentucky now than there were in Daniel Boone's time.

In pioneer times, Kentucky was covered with mature hardwood forests, a habitat which does not favor high deer populations. A browsing animal, the deer needs low, second growth timber and brush for food, a situation provided in Boone's day only by the re-growth of forest fire areas.

The situation today offers a much more diversified habitat and this, along with modern wildlife management practices and increased wildlife law enforcement, has created a situation favorable for the increase in our deer population.

But as the modern hunter knows, a high deer population doesn't necessarily mean venison in the freezer. It takes skill, knowledge and a good measure of luck to bag a whitetail, particularly for the bow hunter.

But the self-imposed handicap of hunting with a bow is offset, to some extent, by the length of the archery season. From the first of October, bow hunters have through Nov. 14 to hunt during the first part of the split season. Then after about a month layoff, bow hunters may again take to the woods from Dec. 18 through Dec. 31. Some management areas have different dates or other special regulations which the hunter should check before hunting.

Bow hunters may take either bucks or does and may use longbows or compound bows. Legal arrows must be equipped with barbless broadhead points at least 7/8 inch wide. Crossbows are not permitted except in one location, the Pioneer Weapons Wildlife Management Area in Bath and Menifee counties.

Archers may not use chemically treated arrows or arrow attachments containing chemicals, nor may they carry firearms of any kind while bow hunting.

All deer hunters-gun hunters as well as archers-should remember that several counties are closed to deer hunting. These counties are Jackson, Dowsley, Clay, Harlan, Powell, Clark, Leslie, Wolfe, Perry, Johnson, Knott and the portion of Breathitt south of Buckhorn Creek Road.

Deer hunting as well as hunting for all other species is prohibited on the following wildlife management areas: Robinson Forest (Breathitt, Perry and Knott Counties); Beaver Creek, including private inholdings (Pulaski and McCarty); Grayson Lake (Carters and Elliott); Pine Mountain (Letcher) and Redbird, including private inholdings (Leslie and Clay). Deer hunting is also prohibited within Mammoth Cave National Park.

In addition to an appropriate valid license, all deer hunters must also have a deer permit ($10.50 for residents and non-residents), and the locking portion of the permit must be attached to any deer taken. A three-day, non-resident license is not valid for deer hunting.

Bow hunters are exempt from some requirements which apply only to gun hunters. Archers need not wear a "hunter" orange garment, nor are they required, as gun hunters will be this year, to take deer to a check station for validation of tags.

For a complete rundown of 1978 deer regulations, write for the current Deer Digest to Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources, Division of Public Relation, Capital Plaza Tower, Frankfort, Ky.

A Cookmaster Tip from Extension Specialists at the UK College of Agriculture

What can you do with those egg yolks left over after the whites have been used in a cake or dessert topping? Here's a suggestion from UK Extension foods specialists. Refrigerate them for a few days (covered with water in an airtight container). Then put the yolks in a strainer, lower them into simmering water, simmer until hard cooked, and mince them with a garnish for curry, add them to a tossed salad, or moisten them with mayonnaise, add chopped stuffed olives and use as a sandwich spread.

Kentucky Wildcats To Host Penn State

The Kentucky Wildcats, with two wins in three games after a hard-earned 14-10 victory over West Virginia, will be in Commonwealth Stadium for the second week-end in a row when they play host to Penn State at 1:30 p.m. Saturday.

The Nittany Lions, 11th ranked nationally before being upset, 7-6, by Iowa at State College Saturday, have lost two in a row, an unusual happening for Coach Joe Paterno. They opened with a victory over Stanford and then lost to Ohio State before meeting Iowa.

Penn State, held scoreless for three periods by the Hawkeys, finally scored with 8:20 left in the game on a one-yard dive by freshman Matt Suhey. But the Nittany Lions went for the two-point conversion and the pass fell incomplete.

The Nittany Lions drove to the low seven-yard line, failed to advance in three downs and lost as a 25-yard field goal attempt by freshman Herb Manhardt was wide with 47 seconds left.

Paterno said the Nittany Lions were lucky to be that close. "Iowa outplays us, outcoaches us, and we were not ready mentally," he said. "I don't think we were ready for them tactically. Iowa just outplayed us. They beat us across the line of scrimmage, they ran hard."

"I think we played the first half sitting on our hands," he said, "but I don't want to take anything away from Iowa, because Iowa is a fine football team."

Paterno now must get his team ready for a Wildcat squad that outplayed the Lions - in practically every department last year except where it counted most-on the scoreboard.

In that 10-3 loss at State College, the Wildcats led in rushing (200 yards to 151), total yardage (258-282), passes (7-5), possession time (37 minutes to 23) and pass interceptions (three to one for PS).

The Wildcats scored on a 36-yard field goal by John Pierce, but were halted twice on the nine-yard line, once in the second quarter and then in the closing seconds of the game.

Leading Penn State in rushing and scoring is Suhey, whose touchdown against Iowa gave him three for the season. He has rushed 60 times for 261 yards.

Quarterback John Address, who started against the Wildcats a year ago, has completed 26 of 60 passes for 330 yards and four interceptions. Jimmy O'Neal has caught five passes for 92 yards. Rich Mauti five for 70 yards.

Quarterback Derrick Ramsey leads Kentucky in scoring (six touchdowns) and rushing (51 attempts for 225 yards and 6 touchdowns). He has completed 13 of 31 passes for 133 yards and 2 touchdowns.

I'm getting lots of requests these days for information storage of fresh garden produce. Since storage of fruits and vegetables in root cellars, basements, outdoor pits and such is food preservation method, I'll devote this week's column to the matter.

STORING PUMPKINS, SQUASH
Sound, hard rind pumpkins and

The Mt. Vernon Signal A-8
Thursday, Sept. 30, 1976

squash will keep for several months in a dry place where the temperature is 55 to 60 degrees, most unheated basements make a good storage place. Harvest them when the colors darken and the skins are hard, leaving a few inches of stem on. Handle them with care so as not to bruise or nick them. Acorn squash doesn't need curing before storage. Cure pumpkins and other winter squash for about 2 weeks at around 80 degrees or just nick them and let them stay out in the garden for a week or two for Mother Nature to cure. This hardens the rind and heals any minor surface injuries. Store them on shelves in a single layer so that air can circulate around them. Don't store pumpkins and squash in your root cellar. It's too moist there.

STORING CABBAGE

Store firm, sound heads of cabbage on shelves in your root cellar, leaving the outer leaves on for protection. Cut off the roots.

Or you can even store cabbage in the garden, after pulling it up by the roots. Just put down a 4-inch layer of straw and place sound heads of cabbage on it, roots up. Pile straw around the cabbage, then mound some over it, leaving some straw on the sides uncovered for ventilation.

Cabbage will keep for several months in your root cellar, or insulated by straw and soil, in your garden.

STORING IRISH POTATOES

Time to dig, cure and store Irish potatoes. Dig them up carefully and if the days are warm, spread them out in the garden to cure for a few days. Cover them over lightly to keep out all sunlight. Or spread them out in a shed or screened-in porch, out of the sunlight. This curing hardens up the skin so the potatoes will keep better. Then sort them to remove any that are cut or bruised and use them quickly for fresh eating. Store potatoes in ventilated wood or cardboard boxes in your root cellar, or any dark moist place when the temperature is around 40 degrees and there is no danger of freezing.

MONTHLY CHECK-UP

But don't just store your vegetables away and forget them. Use them regularly in your meals, and do look them over carefully at least once a month so that you can remove any that show signs of spoilage.

FREEZING SWEET POTATOES AND SQUASH

Although you'll be putting most of your sweet potatoes and squash in cold storage, you might like to freeze some for pies and baked dishes. Cook them thoroughly, mash them up and cool them quickly by setting the pan in cold water for 10 to 15 minutes. Stir occasionally. To keep mashed sweet potatoes from darkening, mix 2 tablespoons of orange or lemon juice with each quart. Park into freezer containers, leaving 1/2 inch headspace. Seal, label and freeze.

FREEZING SWEET RED PEPPERS

Pick, crisp, well-developed bell or pimento peppers with a good red color. Wash, cut out stem, and remove seeds. To loosen peel, roast in a hot oven at 400 degrees until peel is charred, about 3 or 4 minutes. Peel, cool chop or cut in halves or slices. Pack dry in freezer containers, leaving 1/2 inch headspace. Seal, label and freeze. You can freeze red bell peppers without peeling them. Peppers do not need to be blanched in steam or boiling water.

University, will conduct the break for lunch and a meeting of all exhibitors, official placing of entries by Dr. Dennis Liptrap, State Extension Swine Specialist, will begin at 1:30 p.m. A banquet and awards program, scheduled for 5 p.m., is also included in the schedule of show activities. Following this event, all pigs will sell at auction, beginning at 6:30 p.m.

The Lake Cumberland Feeder Pig Show is open to any pork producer, but all pigs must be farrowed on the farm of the exhibitor. Six pigs, averaging 40 to 70 pounds, are required for an entry. The six pigs may be barrows, gilts, or any combination of the two, and competition is open to both purebred and crossbred entries. Classes for both lightweight and heavyweight pigs will be offered. Each pen will be weighed as a group, and after all pigs are weighed, each pen will be entered in the appropriate class.

Commissioner Harris urged pork producers to actively support the Lake Cumberland Feeder Pig Show, saying this activity offers a unique opportunity to gain insight into the type of feeder pig that will best meet the needs of all segments of the swine industry. Persons who are interested in entering this competition or who desire additional information should contact the chairman of the show, D. E. Salisbury, Clinton County Extension Office, Courthouse, Albany, Kentucky 42602.

FHA LEADERSHIP VOYAGE

By Jill Martin

"FHA Leadership Voyage" set the theme for the 1976 fall meeting of Region 13 "Future Homemakers of America." It was held at the Pineville High School, September 11. The purpose of the meeting was to inform chapter officers of their duties and responsibilities for the upcoming year.

The guest speaker was Mrs. Loretta Leach, a graduate of the Alex Adams modeling Agency. Mrs. Adams spoke on the importance of a good personal appearance. This was very interesting and valuable to every member there. Another very important person attending the meeting was Mrs. Dorothea S. Oatis, Assistant State Advisor, who presented the "Literary for Officer Briefings."

The program was filled with lots of tips on smooth sailing, as the FHA'ers sailed for leadership. Those attending from the Rockcastle County Chapter of the Future Homemakers of America were Debbie Cable, Betty Cain, Loretta Dillingham, Velina Felner, Betty Gllovak, Theresa Gllovak, Leigh Ann Hatt, Vanessa Hopkins, Carolyn Lamb, Jill Martin, Vicki Martin, Kaye Payne, Serena Stewart, Debbie Taylor, Patty Mink and Paula Proctor.

Legend has it the first cock-tail was served in 1776 in a New York bar decorated with chicken feathers.

On Voting...

By: Roger Coldiron

It is a bitterly cold evening in the dead winter of 1777. A pallid and colorless afternoon light has given way to absolute darkness. Light snow has begun to fall and is whipped by a vicious wind out of the north. A lone man sits on a fallen log and listens to occasional gunfire borne to his ears by the wind.

He sits alone, freezing, a dull ache in his stomach because of a lack of food and hot water. The bandages wrapped around his feet are soaked through with black blood and ice crystals, tinted red, form in his eyebrows and beard. With his one eye, he gazes down slowly at his right hand and discovers his index finger has frozen to the trigger of his ancient but faithful weapon.

As he looks back up into the night, his mind slowly begins to wander. It wanders to spring in Vermont on a small farm with a loving wife and four young sons. It wanders to spring plowing and seeding. To the long, hot summer days of hard work. To the autumn harvest when the rewards of labor are reaped - it's suddenly not as cold now.

The dream is snapped by the raking sound of a crude saw on raw bone - a horrid scream - and the dull thud of a human leg striking the ground. The moans of the wounded fill his ears - the cry for the doctor when one awakes on his own deathbed and finds that another soldier has been visited by the grimest reaper of all.

The sounds of the battle have stilled somewhat and the man dares begin to hope that he might yet see home again.

Before his eyes, the ladies dance as the men play their stringed instruments. The children play happy games and laughter rocks his tiny farm home. Taffy is warm and ready to be pulled and gay sparks escape from the fireplace.

The guests at last leave and he and his family retire to ready themselves for tomorrow's labors.

The battle is getting more distant it seems. The gunshots are somewhat fainter. He rips the flesh from his finger as he pulls it loose from the trigger but feels little pain and it is too cold to bleed.

And then, it is spring again at home - the grass is growing greener, tiny leaves are sprouting from the trees, the dogwood is blooming and a beautiful fragrance fills the air. How wonderful spring is - warm days, cool nights, home, family...

They find him the next morning, frozen to death sitting on a log and grasping a rifle. A pleasant, peaceful look on his face and a smile barely plays at the corner of his mouth. They prize him up and bury him there.

Spring has come, the fresh grass covers his grave and dogwood blossoms fall on his grave as thick as snow.

This man, this revolutionary, this soldier died knowing full well why he did it all - there was one simple, underlying reason...

Thrifty homemakers refrigerate leftovers in covered containers so when they are removed from the dining table, Remember to keep tabs on leftovers and use them soon, UK Extension specialists suggest, otherwise, the refrigerator becomes cluttered with a dab of this and a cup of that which ends up being thrown away in refrigerator-cleaning time.

City Council Outlines 1976-77 Development Plan

The Mt. Vernon City Council agreed upon a 1976-77 Development Plan recently.

This plan details the city's goals in the coming fiscal year in several areas and reads as follows:

2. To strengthen the Fire Department by setting aside funds that will go toward replacing the fire truck according to state regulations in 1980.

New Telephone Directories

Soon To Be Delivered

Delivery of new telephone directories to Mt. Vernon, Brodhead and Livingston customers will begin about September 30, 1976 according to Wallace Black, Commercial Manager, for Kentucky Telephone Company.

Black urges customers to become familiar with the new directory. "By doing so," he said, "our customers will find that it is easy to read and understand, and that emergency and other special information is readily available."

He also commented that customers should transfer their "frequently called" numbers to the new directory, and examine the old directory thoroughly for letters, notes and other personal articles before discarding it.

"If customers have not received their new directories by October 3, 1976," said Black, "they should call the telephone company to have one mailed.

A hearing was held on this matter in the commission's Frankfort office Sept. 8.

Inter-County serves some 13,000 customers in 12 Kentucky counties including Rockcastle, Madison, Garrard, Lincoln, Casey, Boyle, Mercer, Washington, Marion, Taylor and Letcher.

Rev. Henry Hodgepeth, pastor of the Pioneer Baptist Church in Harrodsburg, will be holding Revival Services at Northside Baptist Church in Mt. Vernon the week of October 4-10. Bro. Harvey Penzel, pastor, and the congregation cordially invite everyone to attend these services.

David Owens, No. 24 for the Rockets, gained a total of 160 yards rushing last Friday night against MMI - putting three touchdowns on the board in the process. Owens also went over for a two-point conversion during the game. In the bottom photo, No. 27 carrying the ball for the Rockets, is Billy Hackworth whose total yards gained wasn't as impressive but who also scored three touchdowns for the Rockets. Final score in the game was 60-6 as Coach Glen Pally played all his available men in the game. This Thursday night, the Rockets journey to Lynn Camp hoping to make it two in a row. The game begins at 6:30 p.m. [See football story elsewhere in this week's Signal].

DEVELOPMENT COUNCIL MEETS WITH GOOD ATTENDANCE

The Rockcastle County Development Council met Monday night and had perhaps its best attendance yet. A large portion of the Rockcastle County Jaycees were on hand and requested to become members of the council. Roy Brown appeared pleased with the request and welcomed the new members.

New officers were elected for the next year. They are Bill James, Chairman; Roy Brown, Vice Chairman; Gatliff Craig, Secretary and Clay Colon, Treasurer.

Two representatives from the Job Start program explained short and long range plans of that agency in helping with the procurement of industry for Rockcastle Co. Surrounding communities were used as examples of development through their programs.

The next meeting of the council is scheduled for 7:30 p.m., October 25th. Anyone interested in the progressive development of the county is encouraged to attend.

GOSPEL SINGING

The McKamey Family Singers from Clinton, Tennessee will be at the Ottawa Baptist Church at Ottawa, Saturday, October 2, 1976 for a Gospel Singing. The singing will begin at 7:30 p.m. Everyone is invited to come and hear the McKamey Family as they praise the Lord in song.

DANCE LESSONS NOW IN PROGRESS

Tap and Ballet Lessons for children three ages of age and older are now in progress at the Cedar Rapids recreation Center. The lessons are being given by the Cooper School of Dances. Also some interest has been shown for Modern and Jazz Dance lessons for older girls and women. For more information, call 256-4252.

NOT FRESHMEN

In last week's Signal, a news release from Centre College in Danville erroneously contained the information that three students enrolled there from Mt. Vernon as freshmen were John Clontz, Brian Egan and Tony Arvin.

It has been brought to our attention that these three young men are enrolled at Centre but are sophomores. There are two freshmen enrolled at Centre from Mt. Vernon and they are Joe Clontz, son of Attorney and Mrs. Carl Clontz and Shane Bullock, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jess Bullock.

The Signal regrets this error.

HOMECOMING AT BRUSH CREEK

Homecoming at Brush Creek Holiness Church will be held Sunday, October 3rd, with services beginning at 11 a.m.

Bro. Charles Wells of Clarksville, Ohio will be the guest speaker and there will be special singing by the Medley Brothers of London and others.

A potluck dinner will be served and everyone is invited to attend by Bro. Olen McGuire, pastor and the congregation.

Council Decide To Sell Parking Lot At Public Auction

The Mt. Vernon City Council met in called session Monday night and several important items of business were discussed.

The most important item on the agenda was the disposal of the city's parking lot located adjacent to the old Parsons Equipment Building. Previously, the Council had been approached by representatives of The Bank of Mt. Vernon concerning the bank purchasing the property from the City for $15,000. The bank agreed at that time to leave the lot open to public parking for five years before restricting its use to bank customers only. The city originally paid $10,000 for the property.

However, this proposal met with resistance from some of the councilmen who felt that since the parking lot was public property, it would be more fair to sell it at public auction, thereby giving anyone who might wish to the chance to bid on it.

After some discussion, a motion was made and passed unanimously for a rezoning to sell the parking lot at public auction possibly some time in October.

Denney Resigns

City Policeman Sherman Denney tendered his resignation to the Council during the meeting. Mr. Denney's letter of resignation cited his recent purchase of a coal truck and his subsequent involvement in hauling coal as the reason for the resignation.

The Council accepted the resignation and decided to advertise for applications for a new city policeman.

C.B. RADIO AND MUSIC SHOW

The Livingston Lions Club will sponsor its annual Music Show Friday evening, October 8, in the Livingston Elementary School gymnasium. Admission will be 50 cents for students and $1 for adults. A citizens band radio will be given away during the program. Chances on the radio are $1 and may be purchased from any club member or at the program.

The house and lot of Mr. and Mrs. G.H. "Hobe" Griffin was sold at Public Auction Saturday, September 25th for $15,000. Successful bidder was Mr. and Mrs. Earl Fish.

The sale was handled by C.N. Scott, Realtor, Stanford and Wendell E. Lawrence, Realtor and Auctioneer, Brodhead.

Operation Identification Program Now In Progress Here

The Mt. Vernon City Police Department is presently participating in the Operation Identification program. This program, as explained by Asst. Chief John Grider, works as follows:

Engraving equipment is available, free of charge, to the residents of Mt. Vernon. With this equipment, you can engrave your social security number on any valuable items in your home or car. You then enter the name of the item and the number engraved on it on form also supplied by the city police and retain this in a safe place. Should any of the items be stolen you can simply turn the list over to the police and if recovered then the police have an excellent means of identifying to whom they belong simply by referring to the form on which you have entered the name of the item and the number engraved on it.

This engraving equipment can be picked up a City Hall, Monday through Friday, or from any Mt. Vernon City Policeman. Asst. Chief Grider also went on to say that, if desired, the city police will engrave your items for you.

David Owens, one of the co-captains of the football team, is shown as he escorts Nancy French BORN Homecoming Queen for 1976. Miss French, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert French of Route 2, Mt. Vernon, was escorted by Matt Poynter.

FRANKFORT WATCHLINE

By Ferrell Wellman

The importance of the upcoming special session of the Kentucky General Assembly continues to mount as the special panels preparing legislation for the session try to dig out from under mountains of research material.

The regular session put 344 new laws on the books, although fewer books will be passed this fall if it's possible the special session could have a bigger impact on the state. In a letter mailed to lawmakers in early September Governor Carroll said the session could start as early as November 8th. Don't bet on it.

"Conscientious and dedicated" is how observers in Frankfort are describing the work of some of the panels putting together legislation for the session. Despite their efforts, it's doubtful the committees will be able to get their recommendations completed and the bills drafted in time for an early start.

The Mt. Vernon Signal, P-2
Thursday, September 30, 1976

November start. In addition, the governor has promised to give the legislators a chance to preview the legislation before they are called to Frankfort.

It now appears at least four items, possibly five, will be included in the call by the governor. Here's an update on the status of the issues to be included:

JUDICIAL REFORM: The biggest problem facing the legislative committee trying to draft proposals to implement the new state district court system is how to refund money taken from the local governments when the new state district courts replace the police, county and quarterly courts in January, 1978. The proposal would have returned revenue from fines and forfeitures directly to the local governments when the state district courts begin operation. The proposal did not include other law makers complained the plan would spawn speed traps.

WORKMEN'S COMPENSATION: The special commission looking at workmen's compensation insurance rates will try to draft short-term legislation. Commission members say there's not enough time to consider long-term solutions to the workmen's comp problem. Rate hikes averaging 32% were approved by the state Insurance Department and became effective in July. Business leaders say the rates coupled with recent state Supreme Court decisions will cost them $51 million annually.

DEEP MINE SAFETY: The Deep Mine Safety Commission met recently with federal Mining Enforcement and Safety Administration officials to look at coordinating federal and state mine training programs. The commission has proposed adding 340 mine safety analysts to the state inspection force at an annual cost of $8.3 million.

DEATH PENALTY: The Attorney General's Office told the governor the present state death penalty law is unconstitutional based on recent U.S. Supreme Court decisions. The A-G's staff has proposed a revision of the Kentucky capital punishment law.

OTHERS: If the Jefferson County delegation can agree on legislation implementing a massive $875 million sewer project, the governor will include it in the call. The delegation is looking to Frankfort for financial aid for hardship cases and installation of sewers in undeveloped areas. While the governor seems willing to have the state participate, delegation members won't say if consensus can be reached in time for a special session.

Also being considered, but unlikely, are a model procurement code, no-fault insurance, recently approved bills with drafting errors, legislation dealing with municipal utility rates, and school board vacancies. Regardless of what's included, the governor makes it clear implementing the judicial article is the single most important matter.

IN MEMORY

In Memory of my dear husband, Clarence Tussey who died on September 9, 1975.

One year has passed since God called you home, So very far away, yes he has, Darling I miss you more each day, God knows the tears I shed over you, You did not go alone for part of me went with you, The love I had for you will never go away, God has given me strength to face it all, Yes he has, and more, It seems like I can hear you say, Don't worry mama, I felt this troublesome world where pain and trouble are felt no more, Darling it broke my heart to lose you, Some day God will take me to you and all my worry will be over.

Sadly missed,

Wife, Eliza Tussey

Rockets Celebrate Homecoming By Trouncing MMI 60-8

Homecoming at RCHS last Friday night was a sweet one for Rocket football fans as the Rockets chalked up their first win of the season, in a big way, over MMI 60-8.

For a while, it looked as if the score might be that at the end of the first quarter as the Rockets scored four times in the first period. David Owens accounted for three touchdowns during the game. Billy Hackworth matched his total. Tim Whitehead went over for another score, and Rick Anderkin accounted for the last score of the game. Also scoring for the Rockets was David Hinkle. Tim Whitehead, who scored three extra point attempts which were good for four points; Whitehead, three extra point attempts which were good for four more points in addition to his touchdowns; and Owens, one extra point try good for two more points in addition to his three touchdowns.

Coach Glen Polly cleaned his bench during the game but MMI, with the exception of one or two players, was no match for the Rockets at any strength.

Leading yard-gainer for the Rockets was David Owens with 160 yards in 17 carries; Hackworth got 78 yards in 9 tries; Tim Whitehead rolled up 28 yards in 5 carries; David Hinkle picked up 14 yards in 4 plays; Quarterback Earl Hammon gained 7 yards in 3 carries and was 1 for 2 in the passing department; Denzil Chasteen got 18 yards in 3 tries; Brian Owens carried the ball twice for 13 yards and Rick Anderkin carried it once for 13 yards.

Defensively, Kyle Miller was outstanding for the Rockets, being credited with 17 individual tackles and 11 assists. Others credited with tackles and assists on defense were: Jeff Carr, 10-6; Rick Anderkin, 6-3; Ty Huffines, 6-5; Earl Hammon, 5-2; Danny Hunt, 5-8; Billy Hackworth, 3-2; Mark Cummins, 3-6; Walter Browning, 5-7; Mike Barrett, 1-3; Brian Stokes, 2-1; Dusty Carlotta, 1-1; Ho Huffines, 3-4; David Owens, 2-2; Charlie Fain, 2-2; James Thompson, 2-0; Robert Owens, 1-0; Mark Smith, 1-2; Anthony Holbrook, 1-0 and Dennis Chasteen, 1-0.

WILLING WORKERS MEET

The Willing Workers of the Mt. Vernon Christian Church held their all-day gathering September 22 at the church. The warm fellowship hour and delicious luncheon, which was a program.

Mrs. Jewel Brown, president, opened the program with devotion. The business session consisted of gathering gift blocks together which had been prepared by the members.

PERSONAL IMPROVEMENT WORKSHOP

Would you like to look better, feel better and improve your health? A Personal Improvement Workshop will be conducted by the Cooperative Extension Service on Monday nights, from 7:00 to 8:30 p.m., beginning October 18 and will continue for five weeks. The place for the workshop has not yet been decided. It will include the benefits of exercise, how to eat to be more healthy, make-up and skin care, poise and personal grooming, and improving your personality. Plans for the workshop include guest speakers, films, and an exercise program.

If you are interested in participating in the workshop, you must register by calling the County Extension office at 256-2408 or contact Cheryl Witt, County Extension Agent for Home Economics before October 10. If too few register, the workshop will not be held.

GIFTS FROM SCRAPS

Christmas time is just around the corner - only three months away! And if you enjoy creating your own gifts, we have just the thing for you. A lesson on gifts from scraps will be presented by Cheryl Witt, County Extension Agent for home Economics on Monday, October 11, at 7 p.m. at the PCA building in Mt. Vernon. The lesson is open to the public and there is no charge.

The lesson will include easy-to-make ideas for gifts, children's toys and accessories for the home. The gifts can be made from fabric scraps or inexpensive fabrics. The only needed homemade items make ideal Christmas gifts for all members of the family, but they would also make good bazaar and gift shop items. Some require sewing skills and others are non-sew items. Also, new techniques and notions will be shown which are used in the gifts.

U.S. BICENTENNIAL COINAGE POPULAR AROUND THE WORLD

Americans have history to spend, but apparently they are saving it instead.

The U.S. Mint reports citizens are acquiring circulating versions of the nation's new Bicentennial coins at record rates.

"The popularity of the coins is a tribute to the nation," said Mrs. Mary Brooks, an Idaho rancher who is Director of the Mint. "It confirms that Americans have great pride in their country and its heritage."

She championed the concept of new coinage as the most effective way to place history in the hands of all Americans."

Congress agreed. It directed minting of both circulating and non-circulating versions to provide citizens with official, meaningful commemoratives of the country's 200th birthday.

The new quarter, half dollar and dollar coins are writing history while honoring it. They were designed by the people in nationwide competition and the first circulating coins changed to celebrate an anniversary of American Independence.

The newly designed coins represent one of the most important changes to occur since the founding of our government," Mrs. Brooks said.

The Mint reports that orders for circulating versions of the coins far exceed demand for their predecessors during comparable periods ending last year. The announced sales of uncirculated sets of the three coins, which contain 40 percent silver, are being ordered around the world from Austria to Japan. A bank in Taiwan recently ordered 250,000 such sets with a check to the Mint for $1,750,000.

But Americans apparently are even collecting the circulating versions without silver. As of June 30th, the Mint said it had distributed for general circulation:

- 84 million Colonial Drummer quarters since August, 1975, a 140 percent increase over the previous quarter during a like period.

- 345 million Independence Hall half dollars since July, 1975, a 70 percent increase.

- 143 million Liberty Bell with moon dollars since October, 1975, a 260 percent increase.

These figures are based on distributions to Federal Reserve Banks throughout the nation, which in turn reflect commercial banking and thus public demand for the coins.

Of the 45 million special 40 percent silver uncirculated and proof coins minted under the Congressional directive, approximately half have already been purchased at home and abroad.

LOCAL STUDENTS TO JOIN IN NATIONWIDE EDUCATION SURVEY

Students from Rockcastle County Schools will be participating this year in a nationwide survey designed to measure how well groups of young Americans ages 9, 13, 17 and 26 to 35 have mastered certain traditional learning areas. Charles B. Parsons, superintendent of schools, announced today.

Rockcastle County is one of approximately 800 in the country selected to participate in the National Assessment of Educational Progress (NAEP) study. Districts and students are chosen by random sampling procedures similar to those used by national public opinion polls.

NAEP is a project of the Education Commission of the states, a nonprofit organization of 45 states, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands that seeks to

FREEZING HOT PEPPERS

Select crisp, tender green or bright red pods. Wash and drain. Package, seal, label and freeze. You may want to air some of these hot peppers up to dry in a kitchen window or near the stove. Use them as you feed them. Insects won't bother them.

Dark stains on aluminum pans can be avoided if you add vinegar to the water before boiling eggs.

Some people once believed that the first farmer to feed his cattle on New Year's Eve would have healthy animals all year long.

County Agent's Notes

BY H. LEE DURHAM
COUNTY EXTENSION AGENT
FOR AGRICULTURE

In 1972 FIFRA (Federal Insecticide, Fungicide and Rodenticide Act) was passed and became law. FIFRA requires that all personnel engaged in the application of restricted use pesticides be certified by October 21, 1977. The Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection (DNREP) was designated as the lead agency in Kentucky for preparing a state plan which would help bring private and commercial pesticide applicators into compliance with the Federal Law. Mr. Fred Waters, chief of the Pesticides Section of DNREP has been in charge of this complicated task. On November 10, 1976 Mr. Waters plans to administer certification examination for the pesticide applicators who fall within Category 7 (Industrial, Institutional, Structural and Health Related Pest Control of FIFRA). This examination will be given in Room A6 of Agricultural Science Center North at the University of Kentucky.

People who fall within Category 7 include structural pest control operators and any other doing pest control for institutions such as hospitals, rest homes, and housing projects. In order to help these people to prepare for this examination a series of Regional Certification Workshops have been planned at 5 locations throughout the state. These workshops will last all day and will cover the subject matter necessary to comply with FIFRA.

The dates and locations of Category Seven Certification Workshops are: October 6, Holiday Inn-Riverton, River Road and Zornes Ave. in Louisville, Ky. from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m.; October 7, Madisonville Community College, Auditorium, Madisonville, Ky. from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m.; October 20, University of Kentucky, Room A6, Agricultural Science Center North, Lexington, Ky. from 9 to 6; October 27, Red Carpet Inn, Greenwood Interchange, Bowling Green, Ky. from 9 to 6.

Program Agenda, Category and Certification Workshops: 9-9:30 a.m. Opening remarks and registration; 9:30 to 10 a.m. Laws and regulations with Speaker Fred Waters; 10 to 11 a.m. Pesticides with speaker Chris Christensen; 11:30 to 12 Discussion; 12 to 1 p.m. Lunch (on your own); 1 to 2:30, Equipment and Application Techniques with speaker Chris Christensen; 2:30 to 3:30 p.m. Safety and Environment, Chris Christensen; 3:30 to 5, Pests and Pest Fumigation, Chris Christensen; 5 to 6 For further information on Category 7 contact Fred Waters, Chief, Pesticides Section, Department for Natural Resources and Environmental Protection, U.S. 127 and Century Plaza, Frankfort, Ky. 40601. ### TOBACCO PLANT BEDS

An ideal place for growing tobacco plants is in an open field and near a supply of fresh clean water. Since many streams contain the black shank organisms, it is very important to have a supply of clean water to use on these tobacco beds next spring. Avoid selecting a site near tobacco barns or other sources of tobacco trash and areas infested with bulletnests, groundcherries or plantains. These plants may be sources of tobacco viruses.

STUDENT AND JOB NEEDS BOTH VITAL, VOD-ED CHIEF SAYS

By Sally Wilson

Kentucky's vocational educators are concerned about human needs as well as job needs, according to Billy Howard, new director of the Bureau of Vocational Education.

There are two different philosophies of vocational education, Howard said. One claims that the sole function of vocational education is to train people for jobs in accordance with manpower needs, even to the extent of putting aside student interests.

The other philosophy claims that, although training should be in keeping with a realistic view of the job market, it should also consider student interest and increased student mobility.

"We in Kentucky follow the second philosophy," Howard said. "But," he added, "we are doing everything we can to keep job training in line with job opportunities."

"Needs assessment is vital," Howard said. "And an important way of making sure programs are geared to manpower needs is continuous communication with business and industry. The bureau's staff exchange program keeps abreast of rapidly changing technology."

The staff exchange program permits educators to spend up to four weeks in a business or industry related to their teaching fields. This experience enables them—and their students to keep abreast of rapidly changing technology.

The council, which advises the bureau, is also working on a system to utilize information from local areas. Howard, former executive director of the council, said this information will aid the bureau in keeping the curriculum current, evaluating programs, and keeping up to date on equipment.

But, Howard said, assessing manpower needs can't stop at the local level. Increased student mobility means that state and national needs must be considered too.

"People will go all over the state in order to take a job they're interested in," Howard said.

Howard said he didn't think there would be any major conflict of student interest and manpower needs. Secondary school training emphasizes career guidance, orientation and exploration of careers, he explained. And providing students with information on such things as job opportunities and salaries can influence student interest a great deal.

Howard would also like to emphasize the shop programs, he said, because they can have a significant effect on a student's ultimate career choice.

Fairview

By Mrs. Hubert Chasteen

Worship services were well attended at Fairview over the week end and Sunday School attendance was ninety-five. I just wish everyone had a heart's desire to attend Sunday School and church. What a different world we would have. If you aren't attending church and your children aren't enrolled in Sunday School please think about it. God gave you your children and it's your responsibility to raise them up right. Children need a lot of love, kindness and understanding. They are very precious and lovable. But they need to be taught from a little child on up the good things of life. They need to understand the meaning of love, honor and respect but most of all they need to know about the love of Jesus Christ. So keep them in church and Sunday School. "Train them up in the way they should go, and when they are old they won't depart from it." And you as parents won't be sorry.

Mrs. Willard (Louise) Todd of Rockford who has been ill for the past few weeks remains about the same. Please continue to pray for her.

Mr. John T. Stevens also of Rockford is convalescing in the Berea Hospital following major surgery last Wednesday. He is improving very nicely. May God bless him to return home soon.

Mrs. Willie (Mary) Cope returned home Monday September 27th following a short stay in the Rockcastle County Hospital in Mt. Vernon. We thank God for her improvement. Mary, we love you and our prayers are with you.

Miss Jewell Marie Alexander was admitted into and remains a patient in the Berea Hospital due to a sprained back she received from a fall while playing ball. The accident occurred on the Roundstone School grounds where the Scaffold Cane Baptist Church members were having a cook out following a hay ride. Jewell is such a sweet girl and loved by everyone. We wish her a speedy recovery and God's blessings she is improving and is expecting to return home soon.

We were very sorry to hear of Mrs. Pearlie VanWinkle breaking her hip. A speedy recovery is wished for her. She sold her home at Snider and is now residing in Mt. Vernon. God bless her.

Mr. and Mrs. R.J. Ridgell, Connie and Ricky have moved from Conway to the Fairview vicinity. Their property.

Mr. Irvin Miller is a patient in a Lexington hospital. May God bless him to have a speedy recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. Cletus Peters and daughter, Mrs. Beverly Jane Brock visited Mr. and Mrs. Bill Daugherty in Somerset last week.

Mrs. Thursa Blair of Fairview celebrated her birthday Saturday September 11th at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Bill (Flossie) Stephens and Mr. Stephens of Rockford. A birthday dinner was given honoring Mrs. Blair's eightieth birthday which was September 10th. She is the mother of four daughters and has lived in the Fairview vicinity for many years. Her husband, Mr. Ben H. Blair passed away December 12th, 1971. She still lives at her home and is in very good health but has someone staying with her to care for her. Dinner guests were Mrs. Blair, Mr. and Mrs. Stephens, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Jackey, Mr. and Mrs. Johnnie Jarrett and daughters, Pam and Becky of Louisville, Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Bullens and daughter, Mrs. Danny Hudson and children, Chrissy, Becky, Ronnie Lee and Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Reynolds, Billy and Heather, all of near Macedonia, Mr. and Mrs. Bennie Stephens, Don and Ami of Taylor Mill, Ky., Donald Stephens of Rockford and Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Harold Mink, Tim and Sherri of Brindle Ridge. Evening guests were Mr. and Mrs. Everett Robinson also of Macedonia. The dinner and the evening was enjoyed so very much by all who attended.

We, her neighbors and friends, as well as all her loved ones thank God for sparing her life for these eighty years and hope the rest of her life will be filled with love, health and happiness. God bless you, Mrs. Blair.

Mr. and Mrs. Luther Isaacs of Wildie have returned home from a much enjoyed vacation. Sunday afternoon and Monday were spent in the Smokies. Tuesday was spent with Edna Turner. Wednesday and Thursday visiting relatives in Rural Retreat, Virginia.

Enjoying a good supper and an evening of entertainment Friday night, September 17th at the People's Restaurant in Berea were Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Chasteen and members of Mrs. Chasteen's Sunday School Class (Young People). A Consumer Tip from Extension Specialists at the UK College of Agriculture

Store meat and poultry products correctly to avoid spoilage and the chance of food-borne illness. UK Extension foods specialists suggest: If you plan to use the meat or poultry within two or three days, just refrigerate it at a temperature of 40°F. or lower—at this temperature, growth of germs and bacteria is slowed down but not stopped. For longer storage, wrap the meat or poultry in an air-tight, moisture-resistant wrap such as aluminum foil or freezer wrap and freeze at 0°F. or lower—bacterial growth stops at this temperature.

SHORT ROWS

By Nevyle Shackelford

Gardening Tips from Extension Specialists at the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture

According to UK garden specialists, many Kentucky garden soils could be improved by plowing in the fall. This, they say, is especially true of soils containing clay. If heavy soils such as silt or clay are plowed too wet in the spring, it is difficult to prepare a good seedbed. By plowing such soils in autumn, the alternate freezing and thawing action during the winter improves the soil structure and thus makes for a better seedbed. Fall plowing, however, is not recommended for gardens with a steep slope.

Fall plowing puts the land in the best shape for the actions of the elements and the development of plant food. It hastens the decay of coarse materials turned under—materials such as straw, cornstalks, crop residue and organic mulching materials. If turned under in the spring, these materials could rob crops of plant nutrients, thereby delaying harvest and reducing yield and quality. When such materials are plowed under in the fall, they consume some plant nutrients in their decay that otherwise might be lost from the soil through leaching.

Fall plowing is also a means of killing a lot of cutworms, white grubs and several other injurious insects that overwinter in the soil and in crop residue. By disturbing their snug places of hibernation, they are killed off by the cold before they can reestablish themselves.

Other advantages of fall plowing include the reduction, in some cases, of erosion problems. If the garden is plowed and left in the rough, water collects in low fungus with a subsequent reduction in loss of soil through surface run-off. If the area slopes, plow on the contour.

Then, fall plowing relieves the pressure of spring work. Spring is usually the busiest time of the year for gardeners and, at the same time, the best time of the year to go fishing. By plowing up the garden in the fall, one of the most pressing spring jobs can be eliminated, thus giving more time for other pursuits, including trips to the bluegill pond or crappie hole in the river.

Probably the best case for fall plowing is that here in Kentucky, it makes possible earlier preparation of the soil for spring planting. A plowed soil drains quickly and warms up faster in the spring. Frequently, erratic spring weather delays plowing until the best planting dates for cool season crops have passed. Early soil preparation is a must for such cool weather crops as peas, lettuce, radishes, onions and some forms of greens.

Since frost action is not especially important on soils that are naturally friable, sandy or sandy loam soils are not so much benefited as clay soils by fall plowing. Nevertheless, in most cases, fall plowing is a good practice.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Cash are back from their vacation. They visited Big Bend National Park in Texas and New Mexico.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Pope and daughter visited Mr. and Mrs. Paul Cash, Sunday. *****

Tuition was only $15 Year at old Kentucky A&M could cost student $240

It cost a "pretty penny" when a student attended the old Kentucky A&M—but, the "pretty penny" of those days in the latter part of the 19th century was considerably less than the "pretty penny" of today.

The necessary expenses of a student while at College need not exceed the following estimates," read the "Catalogue" of the 1879-80 college year—and then came the estimate, which amounted to $128. If the student was an "appointee" and lived in a dormitory on the campus, or from $160 to $240, if the student lived off the campus, or, as the catalogue put it, "who board in private families." According to law, one student could be appointed to attend Kentucky A&M from each of the "Legislative Representative Districts." Appointees were not required to pay the $15 per year tuition, but were required to pay a $5 matriculation fee, plus $5 a year for rental of a dormitory-room.

The student had to furnish his dormitory room. In the catalogue of 1889, the outfitting of a room was specifically described.

"Each room must be provided by the occupants thereof, at their own expense, with neat and comfortable bed and bedding, three comforts or blankets, one pillow, three pillow slips, four sheets, table, wash-stand, looking-glass, chairs, bowl and pitcher, broom or brush," with an added note that "some of these articles can be brought from home by the student."

Apparently the furnishings could be bought through the College, for it was stated, "The furniture bought at the outset can be sold at the end of the collegiate year or retained for further use, at the option of the owner."

The cost of furnishing a room was listed at "about" $12.

"Good substantial board can be furnished at $2 per week, payable in advance," the catalogue read, which set the board figure in the estimate at $80 for the year.

"Fuel and lights" was another expense and was estimated at $6 for the year. "Washing" was estimated at $10 and books at about $10.

"Good boarding, with fuel, lights and furnished room can be obtained by private families at rates varying from $3 to $5 per week," it was stated, with the admonishment, "In all cases, where students can't afford it, boarding and lodging five examination, one properly prepared student each year." The students were required to be between the ages of 12 and 25.

In the catalogue for the academic year starting on Oct. 1 of 1866, it was stated, "Charge for tuition per annum will be $30; Janitor's fee $5, invariably in advance."

That same year, the catalogue stated "Boarding houses will be built at an early day on the farm (the newly acquired experiment farm) for the accommodation of all students at moderate prices. For the ensuing session, good lodging-

Joseph Kastle was one of Agriculture College's greats

The University of Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station has been fortunate to have had giants in the field heading the station's research. One of those giants was Dr. Joseph H. Kastle, who was the second director of the station. He was appointed to the position following the death of Melville A. Scovell in 1912. As the first director, Scovell had himself been a giant in the establishing of the Experiment Station.

Dr. Kastle was a native of Lexington, born in 1864. He was an 1884 graduate of Kentucky A&M, being awarded his masters degree in 1886. He did additional graduate work at Johns Hopkins University, where he received his doctorate in 1888.

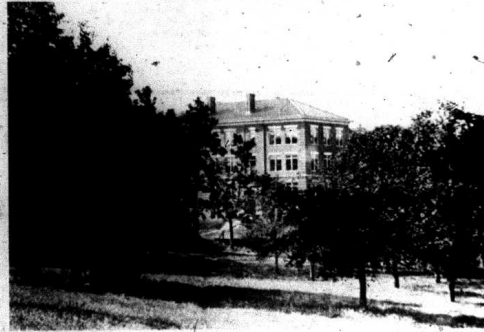

He was one of the early members of the faculty of Kentucky A&M, becoming the "head" of the Department of Chemistry in 1888 after receiving his doctorate. Apparently a man of untiring ability, his 17 years in the position were marked by his presenting four lectures a day, the supervising of laboratory work in elemental, analytical, organic and physical chemistry—and directing the studies of advanced students. His only help came from one graduate assistant.

A small, poorly equipped laboratory was no hindrance to his writing 51 scientific papers. In 28 years of work he had published 100 scientific papers on nearly every field of chemistry.

From 1905 to 1909 Dr. Kastle was in Washington as chief of the Division of Chemistry and Hygiene of the Public Health and Marine Service. From 1909 to July of 1911 he headed the chemistry department of the University of Virginia, returning to Kentucky to begin a connection with the Experiment Station as head of the Department of Chemical Research. The next year, due to Scovell's death, he became the director of the Experiment Station and Dean of the College of Agriculture. Ill health resulted in his giving up the deanship shortly before he died on Sept. 24, 1916.

He gained wide acclaim as a lecturer in addition to his wide renown as a chemist. A contemporary described him as having "a desire at all times to see the investigations of science given widest practical application among the problems of the agriculturists and other classes."

AS IT WAS MANY YEARS AGO—The old agriculture building on the campus of the University of Kentucky is shown not long after it was first occupied shortly after the turn of the century, the view being through the trees looking from the original Experiment Station building, now the Administration Annex.

Another admonition was, "As a rule, the less pocket money allowed by parents or guardians, the better it is for the pupil. When supplies are kept short, the opportunity for contracting vicious habits is correspondingly diminished. Students should be allowed by their parents to create no debts."

The students "appointed" to attend the College were required to be selected by examination, each district was "allowed to send, on competirooms on the University grounds will be furnished free of rent to a limited number of students, on timely application to the Steward. Those who apply first will have the preference. It is expected, however, that students occupying these apartments will provide their own beds, bedding, fuel, etc. This will be a small tax when distributed among the three or four occupants of a room; and such furniture can always be passed to successors at its full value."

promote education improvement through greater cooperation of gov- ernors, legislators and educators. Funded by, and under contract to, the National Center for Education Statistics, U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare, NAEP provides the public with objective, scientifically gathered data on specific knowledge, skills and attitudes of America's youth.

Superintendent Charles B. Parsons said school officials and a National Assessment representative are establishing a schedule for conducting the assessment in the selected schools. A random sample of students - ages 9, 13, and 17 - will respond.

NAEP findings are reported in terms of the percentage of young Americans who have responded correctly to a given exercise. Results are reported in each assessment area by age, sex, race, of the country, size and type of community and level of parental education. Data are not reported on an individual state, district or school basis, and names of participating individuals, schools and districts remain confidential. Students' participation in the survey will not affect their grades, district administrators stressed.

The 1976-77 study will mark the third assessment in science. Results can be compared to first and second assessment findings, thereby providing a measurement of the progress - or decline - in science achievement.

NAEP Director Roy H. Forbes said: "Assessments have already been completed in reading, writing, literature, music, citizenship, social studies, art, mathematics, and career and occupational education."

"NAEP data can give the public the hard facts needed to identify curriculum weaknesses and may point the way to effective school reform and legislation," Forbes added.

Further information on the National Assessment of Educational Progress may be obtained through the NAEP Public Information Office, Suite 700, 1860 Lincoln St., Denver, CO. 80203.

Forest Management

By Greg Stephens
Acting Soil Conservationist
Rockcastle County
Soil Conservation Service

Rockcastle County has about 1/2 of its total land area in forest cover. It has been my observation that much of this land is not producing as many benefits as it could if put under some type of forest management plan. What I would like to do here is explain what forest management is and what it involves.

The most basic explanation of forest management is providing the situations found in nature which create the best growing condition for trees. Forest management helps nature grow trees of better quality in a shorter amount of time than if left alone.

Almost every acre of woodland in Rockcastle County has been cut over at least once. These areas have grown back in trees. But are they the quality trees that bring top dollar? More often than not the answer is no. But under proper management the answer is yes.

After an area has been cut over and the area is allowed to grow back in trees there will be many seedlings. This is natural. If allowed to go without management these trees would grow rapidly at first but growth would soon slow down because the trees start competing with each other for essential growth factors, sun light, root space, soil moisture, nutrients, etc. In nature the stronger trees win out. In forest management to speed up the natural process we select trees that appear to be the stronger ones and favor them by sacrificing trees close to them in order to give them growing space. This forest operation is called thinning. During the life of a stand it may need to be thinned several times before the final "crop" of trees is cut for market, and the process is started again.

This is one aspect of forest management. There are key points within this explanation which require professional expertise. For example, what is the right number of trees at a particular stage of development? What species should be favored? Which specific trees should be favored? How often can harvest be made? Should regeneration be natural or should trees be planted? These are question which have different answers for different situations.

There are benefits to be realized from good forest management beside a timber crop. Good forest management can benefit wildlife, increase aesthetic beauty, and reduce soil erosion.

The Soil Conservation Service is dedicated to the wise use of our Nation's natural Resources. Our Nation's Forests are part of our Natural Resources Base. Properly managed they can provide benefits endlessly through time whether the family woodlot of 10 acres or National Forests of thousands of acres. There are a variety of Federal and State programs available to individuals who want to improve their woodlands. Call the Soil Conservation Service at 256-2541 or stop by the office in Mt. Vernon and every effort possible will be made to help you with your specific woodland problem or question.

by perina m. anderkin

This week's issue is one of those everybody gets one whether they want it or not - or a county-wide issue. We do this periodically when the mood hits us and it hit Jim for some reason a couple of weeks ago. I held out as long as possible but to no avail finally. I don't really mind except that when the Signal goes into every home in the county I would really like to have something in it that would be breathtakingly interesting and this wasn't one of those weeks. I suppose one of the main reasons Jim chose for going county-wide at this point was to announce our rate increase effective January 1, 1977. It has been several years since we increased the cost of subscription to the Signal or the single copy price but several postal increases and the higher cost of having the Signal printed have finally forced our hand. We have checked around and find that we are still a little below other county papers our size so we're really not robbing you at gunpoint and you have the option to renew between now and January at the old rate regardless of when your subscription expires but the increase will arrive January 1, 1977 and that certain...

Got caught up in a clean up, paint up, fix up campaign at home recently and that's the last time I'll let the house cleaning fever affect me. I have never found so much ground in dirt accumulated in one place in all my life. For a while there, it was touch and go whether I would get the dirt out first or the Health Department would hear about the house and come and close me down. While on this spree, I decided it would be nice if I brightened the upstairs bedrooms up with a little wallpaper and paint. It has been years since I wallpapered any although mother and I used to paper for the fun of it (mother's fun, not mine). I consider myself quite a top-notch wallpaperer but after my first round with it I ain't quite as tough as I thought I was. For one thing, our house is an older one (it put it politely) and the walls are not the straightest you've ever encountered but I decided when my last strip wound up 6 inches further in from the wall at the bottom than at the top that no one would really notice that patch strip I had to put in down the side and besides it was 11:30 at night and I was tired. My first real shock though was to discover that wallpapering isn't cheap anymore. Jim doesn't like wallpaper, preferring to panel and paint everything in sight, so he laid down a few ground rules which designated that the paper had to be washable, strippable, pre-pasted, etc. and when I

[Cont. From Front 2nd Section] discovered what price tag on these little goodies carried I almost back out counting (4 cent) for me - counting one but - the new decorating styles allow you to get away with quite a lot like painting two walls and papering two - so, I managed in spite of it all to at least get one room done. Whether or not I carry out my ambitious plans and make it with the other three upstairs rooms is questionable.

I attended my first City Council meeting in the new addition to City Hall Monday night and was quite impressed in spite of the fact that we seemed to rattle around in all that space. I suppose after being used to the necessary compactness of the old quarters, the extra space will just take a little getting used to. Of course, the city fathers knew what they were doing because with the rate this area is growing it will undoubtedly be long before all the additional space is really required.

It has been brought to my attention several times in the past few days that Monday, October 4th is the final day to register if you wish to vote in the upcoming general election - and I can't believe there is anyone of voting age anywhere who does not want to have a say in it. The candidates seem to offer no reason to ration the city participating in choosing who this country's leader will be over the next four years. We have gone through some disturbing times in the past few years but, hopefully, we came out the winner simply because our system of justice did work when it was needed. Get involved! It's as important a time in our country's history as it has ever been and you should feel some responsibility to help determine its course. It takes so little time and effort to vote - of course, we should all spend more time studying the candidates' positions on important issues but that would be time well spent. I suppose the main thing that bothers me about people's irresponsibility in not voting is the knowledge that our ancestors fought and died for this privilege and we treat it so lightly as to ignore it all together. It is neither fair to our countrymen or to ourselves to shrug off this responsibility and it is not setting a proper example for our children when we do not instill in them the desire to participate in selecting those by whom we are governed. A recent survey showed that more eligible Americans will stay home from the polls than will vote - think about it, don't treat this birthright so lightly - register and then make an extra effort to vote November 2nd...

Consumer Comments

By Robert F. Stephens, Attorney General

Your picture, or the picture of a notable local event or person, appears in the hometown newspaper. Several weeks later you receive a laminated copy of the photo and a bill for $3.95. Or perhaps a picture of your golden wedding anniversary appears in the paper, followed some time later by a mail offer to send you 50 stamp-size copies for only $5.00. Do you have to pay for these? Should you buy them?

The Attorney General's Division of Consumer Protection has been hearing about these problems in the last few weeks, because many consumers think they must pay for the laminated pictures received in the mail, even though they did not order or request them. There is no such responsibility under Kentucky law. Consumers do not have to pay for the unsolicited goods described in this situation.

Unsolicited goods are any items received through the mail that were not ordered or requested by the consumer. The consumer is not required to return the item. It may be kept and used. Don't let yourself be unwittingly forced into purchasing these items. Should the company begin harassing you about payment, report this to Attorney General's Division of consumer protection.

In situations where personalized items are offered through the mail, you should exercise the same caution. Are you sure you will receive the offered material after sending your money? You should not send your money to anyone without checking to be sure you are making a wise expenditure.

Should you have questions or complaints about these photo offers or any other consumer complaint contact the Office of the Attorney General, Division of Consumer Protection, Frankfort, Ky. 40601. The office has found that it can most effectively deal with written complaints and encourages you to write when you have a complaint. However, if you have an emergency situation, call the consumer hotline. The number is 1-800-372-2960.

You can freshen fiber glass curtains after washing them if you add one-half cup of powdered milk to the last rinse water.

NOTICE TO PUBLIC

Notice is hereby given that Kentucky Utilities Company has filed with the Public Service Commission of Kentucky an Application to modify its retail rate Fuel Clause. If the average cost of fuel consumed by the Company's generating stations is in excess of or less than 36.492 cents per million BTU, as determined from the Company's most recent monthly operating reports available, prior to the beginning of the month, an additional charge or credit will be made on the kilowatt-hours purchased by the customer at the rate of .00113 cent per kilowatt-hour for each 1 cent or fraction thereof variation in the cost of fuel above or below 36.492 cents per million BTU for that month's billing.

The effect of this modification upon its customers would be to reimburse the time between fuel expense expenditure and its recovery through Fuel Clause applications. In moving from the present three month calculation period to the proposed one month calculation period, the bill will be two months' fuel expense eliminated from recovery under the Fuel Clause. The Company has requested authority to recover this amount, prorated over the next twelve months, by surcharge. This does not constitute an increase in rates. This Application is set for public hearing at the offices of the Public Service Commission in the Capital Plaza Tower, Frankfort, Kentucky, on October 19, 1976, at 9:00 A.M., E.D.T.
