Mission Control in Houston?

No, but just as essential to reliable, economical electric service as Houston is to the space program.

This is one of several Kentucky Utilities' power plant control rooms. Every facet of plant operations is monitored and controlled here to make sure all generating units are working efficiently.

Each control room is connected to a system-wide, computer-operated dispatching center which determines the most economical operating schedule of all generating units. This is how we provide electricity at the moment you need it, giving full concern to the generating cost.

Ultra-sensitive equipment is enormously expensive. And, it's absolutely necessary to continue providing the energy demands of this generation, which challenged the outreaches of space, and the next generation, which will conquer it.

Freezing Chicken

Raw chicken that is correctly wrapped, frozen and stored should keep well for one year. Cooked poultry dishes will keep for about six months, except for fried chicken and chicken stored without broth or gravy.

Plan to keep fried chicken in your freezer no longer than 4 months. Frozen chicken salad and chicken salad sandwiches will keep for good eating quality about one month.

Use transparent plastic freezer film, aluminum foil or laminated freezer paper to wrap chicken. Seal airtight so that oxygen will not get in and cause off-flavors and off-odors. The air in your freezer is also dry and can cause freezer burn by soaking up moisture from the chicken.

Whole Chicken

One good way to store chicken is in a poultry-size freezer bag. Immerse the bag in a container of warm water up to the bag opening. The weight of the water will force out the air, making the plastic cling to the bird. Twist top of bag and seal tightly. You don't need to worry here about leaving head space, because the plastic freezer bag is stretchy and will give without spilling. Note on your label if it is a young, mature, or old chicken to help you decide what cooking method to use later on.

Chicken Parts

To freeze chicken parts, separate them with a double thickness of freezer paper or a piece of aluminum foil. This makes separating and thawing easier. Or quick-freeze individual chicken parts on a baking sheet, then package in an airtight freezer wrap.

Cooked Chicken

Cooked chicken will stay fresh longer in freezer storage if you cover it with broth, gravy or sauce. Chicken-a-la-king freezes well, for instance. Cooked poultry dishes should be cooled as rapidly as possible and packaged airtight in plastic freezer bags.

A freezer temperature of 10 degrees below zero F. is recommended for poultry.

Bro. Ernie Johnson Named Chairman Of "Breath of Life" Campaign

Rev. Ernie Johnson has been named Mount Vernon Chairman of the Breath of Life Campaign to fight children's lung-damaging diseases, according to Jay Crouse, president of the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation. Rev. Johnson will lead local volunteers in raising funds to support research and care programs for children affected by lung-damaging diseases like Cystic Fibrosis, severe asthma, chronic bronchitis and bronchiectasis.

The Breath of Life Week will be November 15 - 23rd with a door-to-door drive scheduled during that time. Approximately one of every 1,500 babies is born with Cystic Fibrosis, which is still incurable. Cystic Fibrosis is inherited when both parents carry the recessive gene for Cystic Fibrosis. It is believed that one in twenty persons, or a total of ten million Americans, is a symptomless carrier of this gene. Current research funded by the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation is seeking a practical test to identify these carriers, as well as a cure for Cystic Fibrosis and better methods of treatment for all lung-damaging diseases.

Because of improved treatment developed through research, many Cystic Fibrosis patients are now living into their teens and young adulthood. This same treatment is also beneficial and often curing children suffering from other lung-damaging diseases. Even with this progress, the need of millions of children who struggle to breathe grows larger, and with it the need for more volunteers and more funds.

Everyone can help, the job cannot be left solely to dedicated parents of Cystic Fibrosis and lung-damaged children. The cause is great enough to engage the attention and support of men and women everywhere who care about children - and lung disease.

Most people don't realize that there are millions of children in the U.S. affected by lung-damaging disease, for some of these children breathing is a struggle rather than the natural function we, who are lucky, take for granted.

The Breath of Life Campaign supports not only research, but diagnosis and treatment of children with lung-damaging diseases in Cystic Fibrosis Centers across the country. There are more than 110 of these Centers which also provide for educational programs and research.

the early settlers in the county, built several substantial log houses and taverns on White Oak Branch and elsewhere in the Salt Petre Cave area, all of which are now gone. In the same community still stands the old Tom Jim Ballard place by the side of the Old State Road, where for many years it served as a stage coach stop and tavern. A repair date of 1817 is crudely chiseled on one of the chimney rocks.

Over on Clear Creek, near Wildie, Kentucky, stood until recent years the big log house erected in 1800 by Thomas Fish. Father of the Fish Brothers who built the early houses in Renfro Valley referred to above. The Old Abraham Brannaman house and the old Coffey house, both on land now owned by Doc Wolfe, were early homes in the community. The very old Coffey house is still standing and the abandoned Brannaman house has only lately fallen in. Many of the old log houses I remember from 75 years ago were not mere log cabins. Many of them were large and substantial buildings, most of them two stories, with sometimes a half story attic

In addition, My grandfather Coffey's old home near the head of Renfro Creek was one of the most unusual and attractive of any I have ever seen. The old Alva Mastet home on a hill above Roundstone Creek was a commodious log house, well-arranged, and laid out and surrounded by every necessary and convenient outbuilding. The old house itself has long been gone but the last time I was by there the massive stone chimney was still standing, exhibiting some of the finest stone work I have ever seen.

In the old Redbud area many big log houses were still standing seventy five years ago. The old Spoonmore house was one of these. Uncle Jim Purcell lived in a big log house that even that far back showed considerable signs of deterioration. What was known as the old Stevenson place, built by Devil Bill Adams for one of his sons, was torn down only a few years ago to furnish the site for a new stone building. There were several old log houses in the Hiatt neighborhood, including the one occupied by Pur Rigby and family for many years. Many of the big log houses - the mansions of their day - were later covered with weatherboarding, which gave them many more years of existence. Probably the oldest house now standing in Mt. Vernon is of this type. It is now owned and occupied by the former owner of the Stephen Langford Place. Another was the old Tip Langford place, built by Ames McCall, one of the earlier settlers in Mt. Vernon. Mt. Vernon's most imposing old home, strictly colonial in style, was the "Mammy" Fish house, gone these many years but still remembered.

In conclusion, nobody knows what was the first home built in Rockcastle County or by whom it was built. Strictly as a matter of record we would have to say it was the old Lewis house, a part of which is still standing, because it was built and occupied by the Lewis family, credited with being the first permanent settler within the confine of the county.

Pvt. Teddy W. L. Rose, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ted Rose of Rt. 1, Brodhead, has complete his eight-weeks basic training at Fort Dix, New Jersey. Following his AIT Training, he will be stationed in Europe, where he will be joined by his wife, Mary Rimell Rose.

Rockcastle Recollections

By John Latr

The search for the oldest houses in Rockcastle County has been an interesting part of the preparation for this county's history and is by no means completed. Sources for the information sought are almost non-existent and are found only in very old deeds and grants and family histories.

In a collection of old land warrants and grants furnished me by Jones Bennett Hiatt I have come across an original grant for one thousand acres of land of Roundstone Creek, made out to John Cobb and signed by Patrick Henry, governor of Virginia in 1781. In it mention is made of an old stone house which was used as a point of reference in a survey. There is nothing to indicate who built the house, or when, or by whom it was occupied. This is of no help to us in the search for the first settler in what is now Rockcastle County but it does offer proof that the house was built sometime prior to 1781 and that its occupants, tho now unknown, may have been our first settlers. Mrs. Linda Ashley, in researching old records in the Land Office at Frankfort, Kentucky, reports coming across entries along Skaggs Creek as early as 1780, one of which speaks of "improvements" a term used to indicate the building of a cabin and the raising of a crop of corn on the land prior to date of entry. Nothing more can now be learned concerning whether or not someone actually erected a cabin and lived in it as so early a date.

In awarding to the Lewis family of Petersburg, Virginia, credit for being the first settlers in the county area I was influenced by the fact that they were the first of record, the date of 1787 being assigned to their settling within two miles of the present site of Mt. Vernon. There is always the possibility that others may have been ahead of them but no records have been found positively identifying and such settlers or where they settled.

Among the earliest houses built in what was later to be Rockcastle County were those built by the Langfords. All three of these houses were destroyed in recent years. The Robert Langford house, last known as the Old DuVal Langford house which stood just back of the court house and which, intact, served as the court house at the time of the formation of Rockcastle County, in 1810, was torn down and the logs in its walls sold by its owner; the "Old Langford Place" located on the bank of Rockcastle river a few miles below Livingston and being from appearance, the oldest one of the lot, was so damaged by the hurricane in the early 1970's that it, too, was later completely torn down and it's remaining logs sold too. It is certain that one of these houses was in existence and being used as a tavern in 1792, when Andre Michaux stated that he spent a night under its roof. We have generally assumed that this was the Stephen Langford house at Mt. Vernon, but the possibility that it might have been one of the other two named has not been entirely ruled out.

Three other very old houses were those built by the three Fish brothers in Renfro Valley at an early date. One of these had been completely destroyed and only a few chimney rocks and pieces of logs were left to mark the spot in my early childhood. The other two are yet standing. Cecil Fryinger occupies a part of the old James Fish house, in the Rose Hill community, while the one attributed to Col. William Fish has been removed from its original site on Renfro Creek to a corner of my lawn, where it has been carefully restored and will soon house a small but important Pioneer Life Museum. Exact dates of the erection of these Fish houses is unknown, but it has been established that Col. Fish and his bride were occupying theirs just after the close of the War of 1812. Also in Renfro Valley is still standing the old Bennet Hiatt Place, known to have been built before 1814.

Since many of the early land grants were located along Skaggs Trace it seems quite certain that many of the first log houses in the area were built in that part of the county. D. Graves, the local authority on matters pertaining to that section, has furnished me with the following list, which also includes the "Old Langford Place" previously referred to, which he says was a very old house which formerly had many more rooms than it had in recent years. In addition he mentions the following: Old Pittman house, built before Kentucky became a state; lately gone Old Grider house, on Mareburg-Strand Springs road; one central log room still standing; old Colyer house, below Blue Springs, still standing; Old Nathan Bray house, on Price Branch, still standing; Old George MacIver house, at Bronco. It includes a part of the old original Renfro house built in 1808; others still standing include McClure and Renner houses on Eagle Creek; Bayless McKinney, Martin DeLoach, Capt. Sam Evans (built in 1797), old pioneer homes now gone include those of James Dyzart (only foundation visible), John B. Dyzart, Billy Wallen, Richard Southards, Renner, Crooner, Nicholas on Buffalo and Lees Creeks), Lawrence, McLemore and Renner.

County Agent's Notes

BY H. LEE DURHAM
COUNTY EXTENSION AGENT

Landscaping in November
Many home owners feel that by November practically all lawn work is over for the year. This is a serious mistake because there are many things that must be done if the grounds are to look good for next year. For example, the lawn should be kept clipped until the grass is dead, fertilizer should be spread on the lawn, dead tops of flowers removed, and other plants mulched for winter.

Since crabgrass is the number one enemy of many lawns, and since it comes from seed every year, it is very necessary to keep the lawn clipped until this pest has been killed by frost or even a heavy freeze. It may be necessary to rake the clippings and destroy them to help eliminate as much seed as possible.

Bluegrass which was seeded in September is beginning to grow and because weeds for the most part are killed, now is the time to fertilize the lawn. A good, high grade, complete fertilizer such as 10-10-10 or higher analysis, should be applied at the rate of 15 pounds to each 1,000 square feet of surface. This feeding of the grass at this time of the year is one of the most important things to do if the lawn is to look good next year.

Tobacco stalks, if laid in a regular pattern and placed about 6 inches apart, are also excellent to supply badly needed food to the bluegrass.

Frost has killed tops of flowers and now the stems should be cut off about 2 inches above the ground and removed. Insects and diseases may live over winter on these dead tops if they are allowed to remain on the flower beds. The dead tops should not be pulled from the plants because this often will injure the roots of some plants, especially the perennials. Pulling the annuals is all right because the roots are dead anyway.

Most perennials and bulbs will benefit by having some kind of mulch on the ground to prevent alternate freezing and thawing during the winter. This mulch may be of old hay or straw, or perhaps small branches cut from trees and shrubs with a few leaves scattered over them. This mulch should never be too deep, one or two inches is enough.

Since the purpose of the mulch is to prevent alternate freezing and thawing of the ground, it should not be applied until after the ground has frozen hard. Then while the ground is in this condition, the mulch is applied, and it will help to keep the ground frozen.

Of course, the hybrid tea roses should have special care for the winter. As soon as the frost has removed the leaves, they should be raked and removed. Black spot lives over winter on these old dead leaves.

If the rose plants have grown to be 3 feet or more tall during the summer, it will be well to cut them back until they are 18 to 20 inches high. It is not necessary to use special care in cutting them, just straight across the top is all right. Hedge shears are a good tool for this.

To protect the rose plants during the winter, soil may be brought in from the outside and mounded up around each plant about 15 inches high. Tobacco stalks can be mounded around the plants and they will give protection as well as food for the plants. Straw or hay can be used provided it is held in place with wire netting or something to prevent its blowing away. Leaves are not good because they become wet and pack, and hold moisture that often injures the rose stems, especially when the leaves freeze to the stems.

November is a good time to set shade trees, shrubs or evergreens. In fact, the plants will do better when planted now, especially if there is any question of having plenty of water to give the plants after they have been set. Many rural homes do not have water to spare during the spring and summer and in such instances the plants that are set now can become established and will not need so much water next spring.

There is another thought to keep in mind and that is that setting plants is a man's job and the men often have more time in the fall to do this than in the spring.

Other Things To Do Now
Hurry to plant spring-flowering bulbs if they have not already been planted.

Empty the bird bath and put it away for winter. If not drained, the water will freeze and break it.

Move that climbing rose, shrub or evergreen that is not placed to your liking.

Save a few attractive plants to keep in the house over the winter.

Restricted Pesticides
Restricted pesticides are those pesticides which are "highly toxic" or which remain too long in the environment. The "Restricted Pesticide List" is not complete, but in the list below are examples of the pesticides applicators most probably will not be able to purchase or use unless they are certified.

Azodrin, Carzol, Chlordane, Dastin, Dieldrin, Dintiro, Di-syston, DNEP, Dimeton, DNOG, Dow General, Endrin, EPH, Furadan, Guthion, Lannate, Lead

Arsenate, Lindane, Methyl Bromide, Monitor, Nicotine, Parquat, Parathion, Roundup, Phosdrin, Pictran, Premerge, Roundup, Snoot, Sulfotep, Systox, Trichlor, Temik, Top, Thimet, Thiodan, Toxaphene, 2-4-5-T, 2,4-5-TP, Vapona, DDDP, Vorlex, Zextran, Zenophos, Vapam, Metasystox.

It is expected that other pesticides will be added to this list, from time to time. Remember! This list is not final and is of value only as a rough guideline of what we might expect to be restricted.

KENTUCKY'S DUCK SEASON OPENS NOVEMBER 20

Kentucky's statewide duck season opens Nov. 20, and waterfowl hunters will be using the point system to determine daily and possession limits again this year.

Under the point system, different species and sexes of ducks are assigned point values. A hunter reaches his daily limit when the point value of the last duck taken, added to the total point value of other ducks already taken during that day, reaches or exceeds 100 points.

The possession limit under the point system is the maximum number of those species and sexes which could have legally been taken in two days.

This year's point values are as follows: Canvas back - 100 points; hen mallard, black duck, wood duck, hooded merganser and red head - 70 points; pintail, blue-winged teal, green-winged teal, cinnamon teal, gadwall, shoveler, scamp and all mergansers except hooded merganser - 10 points; drake mallard and all other species of ducks not mentioned above - 25 points.

Coots are assigned a point value of zero, but there is a daily limit of 15 and a possession limit of 30 on coots.

After the Nov. 20 opening, the duck season will continue through Dec. 2, with the second phase of the split season opening Dec. 11 and running through Jan. 16, 1977.

The statewide goose season opens Nov. 12 and will continue through Jan. 20, with a daily limit of five geese, to include only two Canada geese, two white-fronted geese, or one of each.

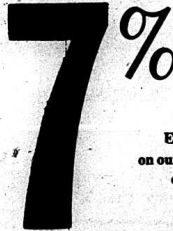

The possession limit is also 5, which may not include more than four Canada and white-fronted geese in the aggregate, of which not more than two may be white-fronted.

On the popular Ballard County Wildlife Management Area in Western Kentucky, duck hunting will begin Dec. 11 and continue through Jan. 15. Goose hunting on the area will run from Dec. 1 through Jan. 20, with no hunting for either ducks or geese on Sundays or on Christmas Day.

Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources officials said that the requests for reservation to hunt at the Ballard area exceeded the available space this year, and they suggest that hunters who wish to hunt in the vicinity consider one of the several nearby commercial hunting preserves.

A list of these facilities along with a complete rundown of waterfowl hunting regulations is available from the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources, Division of Public Relations, Capital Plaza Tower, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601.

Rockets Open Season This Friday

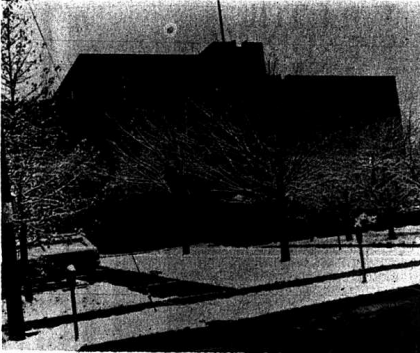

The Rockcastle Rockets, short on senior players, will take the floor for the first game of the 1976-77 season this Friday night at Annville with the B team game at 6:30 and the varsity game at 8 p.m.

Coach Bill Riddle is beginning the season with 3 seniors, 4 juniors and 6 sophomores on the A team. He said that present plans are to play the 6 sophomores on the B team and dress them with the varsity squad, at least until Christmas, and then play them as needed.

Coach Riddle, who admitted that his team this year was small and young, said that he felt the team would be in good shape by district tournament time.

"The team will be playing a brand of basketball people are going to like," Coach Riddle said. "They are all hustling hard and, although they have a long way to go, they are going to be quite enjoyable to watch."

Rockcastle County's first snowfall of the year came last Thursday when, according to local weatherman Bud Cox, about 2 inches of snow fell. However, a 1-3 inch snow forecast for Sunday night failed to materialize much to the relief of some of us who have absolutely no love for the white stuff.

Two teams from last year's schedule, Mercer County and Madison High, were dropped and two, Pine Knot in McCree County and Corbin, were added to the schedule.

Thanksgiving Tournament is November 26th and 27th

The first time Rockets basketball fans will have a chance to see them at home will be the Thanksgiving Tournament next Friday and Saturday nights, November 26 and 27.

Last year's winner of the tournament, Madison Model, will take on Lone Jack at 6:30 p.m. in the opening game and Lynn Camp and the Rockets will meet at 8 p.m. Semifinal and championship games will be at the same time on Saturday night.

BURLEY PRICE SUPPORTS UP ON ALL GRADES FOR '76 CROP

With the burley tobacco markets opening November 22, the new price support schedule -- the grower's blueprint for current crop sales shows substantial gains on all grades over last years.

Smallest variation from 1975 in the list of 106 grades appears in the "M" or "mixed" category, where gains are 7c and 8c a pound. This is in sharp contrast with the leaf and flyings, where supports are up as much as 16c and 17c per pound over 1975.

The comparatively small rise in mixed-stripped tobacco support apparently is intended to discourage non-separation practices.

Average supports in the 1976 loan rate table are $1.09.3 per pound, up 13.2 cents per pound above last year.

As in the past, the price-support program in this area is administered by the Burley Tobacco Growers Cooperative Association, for the five states of Kentucky, Indiana, Ohio, West Virginia and Missouri.

This year, as heretofore, no price

Western Water District Now 80% Complete; Priorities Set For Water Line Extensions

The Western Rockcastle County Water District, a project began in the Spring of 1972, is now 80% complete, according to Roy Brown, president of the association.

When completed, the project will have a total of 75 miles of line laid at a cost of $1,480,000. Paul's Pipeline of Danville is contractor for the project which is being financed by a loan and grant.

The project will service approximately 500 customers in the following areas: Willalla, Quail, Bee Lick, Otawa, Broughtontown (Lincoln County), Gum Sulphur, Copper Creek, Brindle Ridge, Pine Hill, Calloway and Negro Creek. Three storage tanks have also been built.

The association will buy water from Mt. Vernon and resell it to their customers at the rate of $3.00 for the first two thousand gallons. Some customers in the Quail area have been using water from the new lines for about five weeks. The project is expected to be completed by the Spring of next year.

Besides Mr. Brown, other officers of the association are: Wallace Proctor, vice president and Henry Brown, secretary. Directors are: Irvin Denney, Jr., Floyd Gabbard, Charles Denver Burton, Lorraine Wilson, Brad Reynolds and Money Ed Cummins.

Priorities Established For Water Line Extensions

Mr. Brown also announced recently that four roads have been given priority to have water lines extended if there are enough funds left after the current project is completed. It is anticipated that there will be enough funds to do some of the roads, but not necessarily all of the roads. According to Mr. Brown, the hope is that there would be enough funds to do the four roads and prioritized and these are:

1. Run a water line from the water tank at Brodhead to the Billy Cass property, which was a part of the property acquisition agreement with Mr. Cass.
2. Extend the line on the John Leflow Clay Colson road to the Clay Colson property.

Tyree Graduates

Sergeant James W. H. Tyree, son of Mrs. James H. Tyree of Rt. 3, Mt. Vernon, Ky., has graduated from the Tactical Air Command Noncommissioned Officer Leadership School at England AFB, La.

The sergeant, who was trained in military management and supervision, is a munitions maintenance specialist at England.

Sergeant Tyree is a 1970 graduate of Mt. Vernon High School. His wife, Karen, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James O. Wilson of Route 1, Chanago Forks, N.Y.

3. On South 461 from the W.O. Broyles property to the Roscoe Adams property.

4. North 461 from Irvine Denny, Jr.'s property to Paul Witt's property. Mr. Brown emphasized that all potential water recipients should understand that the Association can complete just as many of these projects as the surplus money will allow. Any of these not completed would have to wait until new funds could be had from Farmers Home Administration, which would have to be gotten on a new application.

He further stated that all Rockcastle residents on roads not now served within the area of the West Rockcastle Water Association, but wishing to have water, should make a joint effort with all residents on the road to get enough signed up to make the extension feasible. It has been suggested that there be at least one resident on each road to be named by the residents living on that road or within that community to act as project captain. This person (captain) would take the lead responsibility for getting people signed up and communicating with the Association. The Association's next meeting is on Tuesday, December 7, 1976 at 7:00 p.m. in the conference room at the Production Credit Agency Office in Mt. Vernon.

Application forms can be secured by contacting the P.G.A. Office at the West Rockcastle Water District Office in the Farm Bureau Building in Mt. Vernon. Mr. Brown reiterated that all interested parties should keep in mind that additional water line extensions would have to be financed with a new loan and would, therefore, require considerable time to get a new loan processed and approved by the Federal Government.

Accepts Pastorale

Brother Oliver Abney and his wife, Minnie have recently moved near Renfro Valley from Hamilton, Ohio.

They have taken the Pastorship of the Union Chapel Pentecostal Church, located about 3 miles north of Brodhead on Route 1505.

Church services will be held each Sunday night and Thursday night and the 2nd and 4th Saturday night of each month at 7 p.m. Also Sunday School will be at 10:00 a.m.

BULLETIN

George W. Allen, 81, of Ottawa died Wednesday morning at the Veterans Hospital in Lexington.

The body is at the Dowell and Martin Funeral Home where arrangements are incomplete.

Employees of Paul's Pipeline of Danville are shown laying more water line in the Pine Hill area for the Western Rockcastle County Water District. The project is about 80% complete at present, according to Roy Brown, president of the association. Some customers in the Quail section of the county have already begun using the water.

Group Told Master Plan Next Step In Obtaining Industry

Earl Kerrick of the Community Services Division of the Department of Commerce, told a group of interested citizens of Rockcastle County last Thursday that the main need of the county, at this point, to attract industrial prospects is a Master Plan of the development of the county's 92-acre industrial site on Hwy. 150.

Mr. Kerrick's statements came at a question-and-answer session at the PCA building in Mt. Vernon following an early morning breakfast and tour of the county by representatives of the Department of Commerce, other guests and local businessmen and community leaders.

This Master Plan, stressed by Mr. Kerrick and other speakers, would show some initial roadways into the site, water and sewage planning, railway facilities and, most importantly, a two-foot interval contour map. It would be used to show industrial prospects so they might have some idea of the planning for the site.

Several other comments were made during the meeting concerning the first impression given by Mt. Vernon and Rockcastle County, Charles Shinick, with the Industrial Development Division of the Department of Commerce, told the group that he had noticed, while on the tour, that there were several areas in the county with junk cars sitting alongside the roadway and rusting farm machinery abandoned. Mr. Shinick also commented on the fact that there had been some improvement made to the business section of Mt. Vernon.

Basically, the group was told that Mt. Vernon-Rockcastle County needed to make our towns as clean as possible by getting merchants interested in renovating store fronts and mounting a drive to clean up the farming areas. He also said that residents needed to have a community spirit and that all these things combined would serve to show industrial prospects that they are wanted and will find what they are looking for in Mt. Vernon-Rockcastle County as opposed to other counties.

The lack of an adequate industrial site had, Mr. Kerrick said, in the past been a deterrent to Rockcastle County obtaining industry but this, he felt, was adequately taken care of with the acquisition of the Clyde Payne farm on Hwy. 150, especially with the new Hwy. 461 reportedly coming through it and affording adequate access. In regard to Brodhead's non-rail site, Mr. Kerrick said that this type of site was not as often desired by industry since they usually elected to be near an interstate or parkway and to have a nearby rail siding. But, he also pointed out that there were industries that preferred this type of location and it should be available to them. Stressed throughout the session was the fact that the Department of Commerce or anyone else cannot actually obtain industry for a community -- this must be done on the local level. However, help was pledged by the Department in getting industrial prospects to the area, when we are ready for them, to look over the industrial sites available. All were in agreement that the first impression is very important and thus the call for improving the looks of the farming area

BOARDING THE BUS for the tour of the county given to representatives of the Department of Commerce and other guests last Thursday were, from left: Howard Lintville, Clyde Lintville, Judge Hubert Thacker, Gastin Craig and Mayor

Richard Milline, extreme right. The group toured two industrial sites in the county, several residential areas, business sections, etc. during the day and followed it up with a question and answer session at the PCA building in Mt. Vernon.

One of the main steps on the tour was the Clyde Payne farm on Hwy. 150 on which the County presently holds an option. The 92-acre site is located near a rail siding and the new Hwy. 461 will reportedly give good access to the property.

FRANKFORT WATCHLINE

By Ferrell Wellman

Imagine walking into a voting booth, but instead of pulling the draped behind you and sliding down the lever by the name of your favorite politician, you pick up a pink card and punch out the name or number of your share. You're voting by computer. It's not far fetched and in Kentucky it's time may not be here.

Crowded ballots, storage, and transportation of the familiar 900 pound lever voting machines are prompting some Kentucky counties and a legislative committee to look at other kinds of voting equipment. The trend in new voting gear includes, not only computers, but giant lever machines, optical scanners, and devices with electric display screens.

The General Assembly's Interim Joint Committee on Elections and Constitutional Amendments recently took a peek at ten machines which are being used in other parts of the country. Their cost varies from $2,000 for a small lever machine to $50,000 for a part of a computer tabulation system.

"No one machine is best for all 120 counties," said Martha Moloney, a General Assembly researcher. "Each county has special needs. A simple lever machine may work fine for a small county which can store seven or eight of them in the courthouse basement,

Six Trillion Dollars

That's not a typographical error or a number taken from a science fiction novel. Rather, it is the U.S. Treasury Department's own computation of the total Federal Government debt right now.

This incredible statistic was cited in a recent speech by Robert F. Lee, Chairman and Chief Executive Officer of SmithKline Corporation. In it, he warned that if our government isn't turned back from its present freespending course, the day of economic reckoning may come sooner than we think.

Proponents of more government spending like to point out that the debt level for American business is higher than for the U.S. government. Mr. Dee has an answer for them: business borrowing is used mainly for capital expansion. It creates jobs and it keeps the economy healthy. Not so with government debt. Government borrowing does virtually nothing to improve the capital resources of the country. And as government spending increases, so, inevitably, does the size of government.

Big government, Mr. Dee states, means more central control of the people through employment, control of business through regulation, control of our institutions through absorption or intimidation, or both. In the final analysis—as history shows again and again—freedom goes as government grows.

But how to turn government back? The answer is obvious, Mr. Dee says. It will have to be done by political means. We need to elect representatives of the people who are publicly pledged to limit government spending. And they must have the courage and character to keep their pledge once they're elected.

Six trillion dollars. That's written numerically with the number six followed by eighteen zeros.

We don't have room here to write in that way; obviously our government does.

Jefferson County, on the other hand, paid $75,000 this year just to store and move the 750 machines it uses."

It's possible Jefferson County may be able to use some type of alternate voting equipment. The county is in trouble. With legislative, judicial and local races in the 77 cities in Jefferson County on the ballot for the spring primary, a change in state law appears necessary.

"It's a grave situation," says Jefferson County Clerk Bremer Ehrler. "We had to use paper ballots in 1975 and that was illegal. We don't want to use them again." As least Ehrler doesn't want to use them again "illegally."

State law prohibits the use of paper ballots. Even if paper ballots were permitted, there are no guidelines on which races could be placed on them if they were used. Ehrler wants the upcoming special session of the General Assembly to tackle the question. The Elections Committee agrees.

The Committee is asking Governor Carroll to include the question of permitting alternate voting systems in his call for the session. Word from the Governor's office seems to indicate that Governor Carroll agrees it is a problem that needs immediate attention.

The dilemma is not confined to Jefferson County. Carlisle County had to buy new machines for the recent election. Taylor County used paper ballots to accommodate the names of four of the nine presidential candidates whose names appeared on the Kentucky ballot. An official from the Kentucky Association of counties estimates that a crowded ballot is already a problem in six counties, and it will be a headache for all of the state's urban areas in a few years as the number of parties, candidates and issues facing the voters continues to increase.

An official of the Washington, D.C. based Clearinghouse on Elections Administration has told Kentucky lawmakers the state has the knowledge to move to computers. However, Dr. Greenhalgh warns that problems with computers usually result from poor management, not faulty equipment.

Although Greenhalgh says it's not as big a jump from levers to computers as it was from paper ballots to levers, he warns that people who have trouble entering the electoral system, such as minorities, are often turned off by the new voting devices.

The old lever machine may be bulky. It may be expensive to store, but unlike the new punch card system there's no paper being put into the hands of the voter. It's almost fraud proof. The ballot crunch will force Kentucky's counties to act, but their actions must be made carefully. The faith of the Kentucky voter will be on the line.

Optimist Outlook "Pessimistic" ramblings . . .

By Roger L. Cook

By Perlina M. Anderkin

An objective individual from outside another town recently told this reporter that Mt. Vernon is inherently a ugly town. He was not referring to the taste qualities of the people who live in Mt. Vernon or Rockcastle County or to the personalities of the outstanding members of the community. He was referring to the lack of progressive development of Mt. Vernon and its environs by the people who live in the development. This lack of civic pride is perpetually obvious to anyone who sees this town daily.

It were to compare photographs of downtown Mt. Vernon in 1976 with some taken in 1946 they would be basically the same. A few minor changes have been made but a basic archaic way of life is constantly displayed. It is obvious that great pride is taken in the care of homes, but the places of business need only be great and not necessarily attractive.

On the whole, the same is true of the youth who are formed and develop in our community. Aggressive ambition is a state of mind little known and less understood in Rockcastle County. Teenagers are not provided with sufficient challenge to realize that they possess the necessary potential to even survive outside the womb of this area. Goals are never realized because they are not known to exist.

Recently an organization was formed in the Mt. Vernon area that indicated some change of attitude may be developing toward our young people. Forty well-intentioned individuals signed their names to a roster and pledged some effort towards the intellectual, cultural, and physical development of our young people. The names on the roster are irrelevant, but the organization in charge of the group is of prime importance. The outcome of the Mt. Vernon Rockcastle Optimist Club experience may well signal the future of this community.

Of the 40 "well-intentioned" men who chartered this chapter of Optimist International, a number of us managed to be on hand for the most recent meeting. The meeting was held the same day that representatives of the Kentucky Department of Commerce visited Rockcastle County. It is very fortunate that these men did not choose to attend a meeting of one of the many civic organizations in existence; their earlier impression of people trying to reach the 20th century would have been totally destroyed. They would have realized the truly complacent, apathetic attitude of our people toward community development.

The people of Rockcastle County are the most maligned of any group in our state. It is shameful that a group of leading citizens cannot make time to challenge and develop these young people. It is not as if the Optimists are trying to grow crops on barren rock—the minds are fertile, impressionable, and the minds are trying out for help.

If you are one of those men who originally pledged to help with the development of these young people, paid your club dues, and then promptly forgot everything—it is time for you to do some soul-searching. The next time a youngster goes to jail for drunken driving, or a place of business is vandalized by a teenager, remember that you are, at least in part, responsible. You broke your promise to them first, and you reneged on your word of honor.

The course that Rockcastle County will take in the near future will depend on the collective efforts of the community leaders. These men are the ones who should be the "lead" in the "lead" that Optimists are. Perhaps if this group is the same as those who will lead our community it is time for some of us to leave or find new leaders.

I would, perhaps, be interesting to hear an outside, objective opinion on the people who lead our community.

Last week's visit to Mt. Vernon and Rockcastle County by representatives of the Department of Commerce and other organizations served to bring to the attention of those county residents present the quite bluntly deplorable condition of our community as far as the impression it gives to outsiders.

One of the first things mentioned in the discussion session held after the tour in the PCA building was the number of junk cars and rusting machinery to be found in every area of our county effectively destroying its beauty.

After some soul-searching on our own, we feel it should be pointed out to the business people and residents of our area that their criticism was well-founded. They also mentioned the need for modernizing the store fronts along Main Street. In this area, we ourselves have been neglectful in not completing our remodeling job begun last year and plan to do so in the near future. Once you look at anything long enough it tends to bother you less each time and that is the situation we found ourselves in when we were forced to look at our community through the eyes of outsiders who know what it takes to draw industry.

It really does not take a great deal of money to put a good "front" on things, and, as one of the group from Frankfort pointed out, first impressions are so very important because not always do industrial prospects give themselves time to get to know the people of the area but we are not hard-working, proud and aggressive even for them.

Rockcastle counties are all these things but they tend to believe that their business houses for example need not be attractive only functional. This may be basically true but it is not a progressive attitude when compared to other cities where it can be seen that those who progress strive to improve their appearance to the consumer all the time.

The remodeling and addition to the (Cont'd to page 13)

WHEN WILL THE SPENDING END?

It took 173 years, until 1962, for federal spending to hit $100 billion a year. But by 1971, only nine years later, government spending had jumped to $200 billion a year.

THEN CONSIDER: In 1975, only four years later, government spending actually had reached $300 billion a year. And this year, after just two years, spending broke the $400-billion-a-year barrier.

NOW STOP LOOK AND THINK!

Such huge spending has resulted in a bigger and bigger government debt. The interest alone on the national debt has more than doubled in ten years and is now over $40 billion a year. In fact, the interest burden on the debt constitutes ten percent of the federal budget!

Ask your representatives in Washington whether they have the courage to help stop this deadly trend. If they do not, we'll eventually wake up to find ourselves living in a fool's paradise.

They planned a feast that day in Nov. It would soon become a day you would remember; The Indians and Pilgrims feasted for many days; And spent their activities in many ways. They ended the feast with a beautiful prayer; And the beautiful ocean flourescent with the suns glare; They said "Thank you God for the things you have done," And thanked Him for sending his son; For he gave us our eternal life And to take it all in beautiful strife; From now on remember God on this beautiful day; And always be thankful that's all I can say.

Thanksgiving is a time to praise the Lord, Thy God. As the Pilgrims did on American soil; They went from England across the sea To come to America where religion was free; They came over on a ship called the Mayflower; Just a crude little ship without a decent shower; On the ship many people died From the giant waves some were tossed over the side; When they arrived a friendly Indian did show; This red man's name was Squanto;

In chess, the castle gets the name from the French, châss, which is said to have meant a warrior.

Commissioner of Agriculture Tom Harris spoke at the annual Farmers-Businessmen's Banquet held last Friday night at the Rockcastle County High School. Mr. Harris spoke mainly about the hope of an increase in farm profits in the near future. The turnout for the event was very good with approximately 175 members of the farming and business community present.

Commissioner Tom Harris

Kentucky Afield

By John Wilson

This is the third year that Kentucky's waterfowl hunters will be using the point system to determine daily bag and possession limits for ducks. Although the basic system will be unchanged this year, some of the point values have changed.

This season there is only one 100 point duck - the canvasback. Redheads, hen mallards, black ducks, wood ducks and hooded mergansers are worth 70 points each, while pintails, blue-winged teals, cinnamon teals, green-winged teals, gadwalls, shovelers, scaups and mergansers (except the hooded merganser) are 10 point birds.

Drake mallards and all other species not mentioned above count 25 points each. Coots have a point value of zero, but there is a daily limit of 15 and a possession limit of 30 on coots.

Although the point system seems complicated at first, it's really not too hard to figure out. Basically, a hunter can take ducks until the point values of the birds he bags reaches or exceeds 100 points.

If, for example, a hunter takes a canvasback as his first duck, he's through for the day. If he goes out the next day and drops another canvasback, he's reached the maximum possession limit also (the possession limit is the maximum number of ducks of those species and sexes which could have legally been taken in two days of hunting).

This was a familiar scene last Thursday afternoon as snow began to fall about 12:30 p.m. and before it was through had dumped 2 inches on Rockcastle County. Mrs. Jewell Hansel, an employee of PCA, found it necessary to scrape her windshield clear in order to go home about 4 p.m.

However, if our hunter takes nine birds worth 10 points each, he is still allowed another duck, no matter what the point value, since he hasn't reached 100 points yet. Now, if he takes a canvasback, his point total is 190 and he's reached the legal limit.

It's possible to have as many as 195 points (for example, three 25 point birds, two 10 point birds and a 100 point bird), depending upon the order in which they were taken. As long as the hunter's bag doesn't contain 100 points worth of ducks, he may continue to shoot.

It's possible to identify your ducks either on the wing or in hand after they've been taken. But the hunter who is good at on-the-wing identification can often get in more shooting than the one who must wait until he has retrieved his ducks before making a positive identification.

In fact, the point system is designed specifically to encourage on-the-wing identification. The hunter who chooses his ducks, taking primarily low point birds, can come home with a lot more meat for the table than the hunter who shoots, then identifies. Even the ability to tell a drake mallard from a hen of the same species can allow a hunter to double his daily take.

The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service establishes guidelines which states must follow in setting waterfowl seasons and regulations and determines point values each year based upon population levels of the various waterfowl species and generally allows a longer season to those states which use the point system.

Duck hunters - and goose hunters as well - should remember that they need a federal migratory bird hunting stamp (commonly called a "duck stamp") in addition to a valid Kentucky license.

For a rundown of waterfowl hunting regulations and a duck identification chart, write the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources, Division of Public Relations, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601 for a copy of this year's Waterfowl Hunting Guide.

SMALL GAME SEASON OPENS NOVEMBER 18

Kentucky's small game seasons open Nov. 18 and hunters can expect quail and rabbit populations to be slightly higher than last year, according to a survey conducted by the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources.

The survey, based on sightings made by rural mail carriers during June, July and August, reveals that statewide quail numbers are up 2.6 percent over last year, with the largest increase in the far western part of the state.

Rabbit populations are up slightly over last year - 80 per cent statewide, with the best population increase in the Hills of Bluegrass region.

In addition to quail and rabbit, seasons will also open for grouse, squirrel and furbearers Nov. 18. All small game seasons will close during the Dec. 4 through Dec. 5 gun deer season, except on selected wildlife management areas.

The squirrel season will then run through Dec. 31, while the seasons on rabbits and furbearers will remain open

The Mt. Vernon Signal Thursday, Nov. 18, 1976 P-7

A new regulation this year places a daily limit on raccoon of one per hunter or three per party of three or more hunters while in the field. As in the past, there is no maximum possession limit on raccoons.

Small game hunters should also be reminded of a regulation adopted last year which makes it illegal for them to have shotgun slugs or buckshot in possession while small game hunting.

One of the most valuable postage stamps today is the one-cent black on magenta issued in British Guiana (now Guyana). Only a single specimen exists, and it's worth about $300,000!

Tax Tip If You Sell For A Profit

Normally, taxpayers who sell their home for a substantial profit face a heavy tax load, but this burden can be avoided. If you buy another home that costs as much or more than the sales price of the old one, within a specified time, the profit from the sale is not included in your taxable income.

The second home must be bought and occupied within a period ending 18 months after the sale. (This is a new change, previous time period was one year). A 2-year period is permitted when building a new home. This tax deferral applies only to the sale of a home which is the family's main residence.

When figuring the amount of gain for which tax may be postponed, you may deduct for "fix-up" expenses if they were accomplished within 90 days prior to the sale, and paid for no later than 30 days after the sale. Check with your accountant or the IRS on details if this matter affects you. It could be well worth your while.

If there is anything we can do to help you in the field of real estate, please phone or drop in at FORD REALTY & AUCTION CO., Mt. Vernon. Phone: 256-4545. We're here to help!

In addition to Mr. Shinnick and Mr. Kerick, others present were: Gene Cline, Community Services Division, Dept. of Commerce; Jack Scott, Agribusiness Division, Dept. of Commerce; Jim McGowan, Bureau of Vocational Education, Dept. of Education; Art Crowe, Asst. Director, Industrial Development, L&N Railroad; Leonard C. and of the business districts. Some other suggestions made for development of the industrial site included building a grading which would show where the access road is going to be, not developing internal roads first, thereby effectively limiting the potential of the site, being restrictive as to who gets the site so as to insure quality industry for the area, etc.

Mr. Kerick stated that ideally, the 91-92-acre site, when fully developed, should provide employment for 800-1000 people causing an increase of between 2500-3000 affiliated service jobs. Labor availability of the area was also brought up during the meeting and Claude O. Jarvis with Manpower Services in Corbin said that Rockcastle had one of the lowest unemployment rates in the state at 5.9 percent. However, on question by Bill James, president of the Rockcastle Improvement Council, it was brought out that this figure does not include welfare recipients who might be able to work or those who commute to jobs outside the county. Gail Craig, Executive Director of the Cumberland Valley Area Development District, pointed out that this figure was 1,049 and that no doubt a goodly portion of these would be willing to avoid the long drive to other areas and would switch their employment here were it available.

Regarding training programs, Mr. Shinnick said that there would be drawbacks should a prospective industry want to know if programs for this were available since there was a myriad of programs available through the Department of Commerce and other state training. Primarily the discussion served to tell the Rockcastle County Improvement Council what steps are necessary to attract industry to this area. Foremost of these seems to be the drawing up of a Master Plan by engineers (approximate cost $5,000); to get community residents and businessmen interested in a clean-up, fix-up campaign and to form a small committee who will be up-to-date on facts and figures concerning the

FISHER CONSTRUCTION

Many many hours go into the primary assembly of the Fisher Stove. Every unit is closely checked for accuracy by highly skilled craftsmen. The construction begins with 1/4" and 5/16" MSPL steel. Each piece is cut to close tolerance and ground to insure the best fit as the stove is assembled. Then over twenty seven feet of professional welding insures an air tight, draft free fire box. Absolutely NO asbestos, nuts, bolts nor haywire construction in your Fisher Stove.

FISHER GUARANTEE

All good purchases are covered by guarantees and your Fisher Stove is no exception. Each Fisher Stove is personally inspected three times by three different inspectors and then a lifetime guarantee goes on your Fisher Stove.

On Guard!

You will be forced to use less energy! That's the real message that energy experts are delivering today. Every national plan for achieving energy self-sufficiency counts upon our avoiding energy waste. Sometimes it's said in terms of achieving maximum efficiency. It adds up to the same thing. We're still using too much energy.

The hard fact is that costs involved in generating and delivering energy are increasing so rapidly that most of us will be forced to use less simply because of the high price. And no real relief is expected until nuclear fusion is perfected and used on a wide scale.

But there are some easy things to do right now to save money and energy. Raise your thermostat in summer, lower it in winter; install proper insulation, storm doors and windows; use less hot water by taking fast showers instead of a tub bath, and by using an electric razor instead of lather and blade shaving. Remember, energy saving is everybody's business.

Jeffrey Bradley Enlists in Army

A 17-year old Brodhead, Ky. resident joined the ranks of area youth who have decided to join the Army. Jeffrey Bradley enlisted in the Army on November 12, 1976 and is currently stationed at Fort Knox for training as an Armor Crewman. After training Jeff will be assigned to the 1st Infantry Division at Fort Riley, Kansas.

According to his recruiter, Army Sergeant Roger Hayse, Bradley's decision to join the Army will pay off for many years because of the current GI Bill benefits that will accrue.

Jeff is the husband of Sheryl Lynn Bradley and the son of Beulah and Thurnie Bradley, all of whom currently live in Brodhead.

Staff Sergeant Hayse said the volunteer Army is providing many area residents with their first really good job with paid training and fringe benefits. High school seniors can currently reserve a job for after graduation under the Army's Delayed Entry Program and be guaranteed training and assignments in writing. For more information, interested individuals can see SSG Hayse at his office at Carnaby Square in London, Ky. or call collect at (606) 878-6811.

STRETCHING YOUR FOOD DOLLAR

If some member or your family doesn't like milk, remember that cheese can replace part of the milk needed in the daily diet. UK Extension food specialists offer these suggestions on money-saving buys in cheese:

Natural cheeses, particularly those marked aged and sharp, usually cost more than process cheese. Sliced and grated cheeses cost more than equal amounts of the same cheese wedges or sticks. Pasteurized process cheese usually costs more and has more cheese flavor than pasteurized process cheese foods and cheese spread.

Bank of Mt. Vernon will do much towards improving the downtown section of Mt. Vernon and perhaps businessmen, including yours truly, should take a long, hard look at our business plans and make an effort to improve them accordingly.

If you will notice this week's editorial page, you will see that we have two articles regarding our free-spending government. The statistics are frightening and it is time that we sent a crystal message to our representatives saying in effect "Cut it out - Now."

These representatives, except for a very small minority, seem to believe that the way to the voters hearts is through social service programs and promises of even more. Perhaps this is being unfair to this one but it does seem to be where the major part of the increase in government spending has come from. Rep. Tim Lee Carter told me not long ago that he had voted for an increase in the school lunch program so that I - meaning me individually - might realize some benefit from the tax dollars I was paying.

This statement, by a supposedly well-informed Congressman, literally shocked me. The man must not realize that I would much rather have relief from the taxes I am paying in the form of a reduction rather than in the form of taking advantage of a program which will only tend to let my children think that when you need something you automatically look to government for it rather than try to obtain it by hard work.

I have been licking my wounds ever since the last election and, at this stage only I hope I am proven wrong, but a Democratic President coupled with a Democratic Congress could very well spell economic chaos for those of us who still prefer to pay our way - because "paying our way" may become a thing of the past if our tax bill keeps going up to

KENTUCKY'S UNEMPLOYMENT RATE UNCHANGED

Kentucky's rate of unemployment showed very little change last month, dropping from 5.2 per cent in September to 5.1 per cent in October, according to figures released recently by the Department for Human Resources.

The October jobless rate was the lowest in Kentucky since November, 1974, when 5.0 per cent of the labor force was unemployed.

The national rate of unemployment during October was 7.2 per cent.

The major cause for Kentucky's slight decrease in unemployment was increased hiring in nonmanufacturing industries, agriculture and the like, according to chief labor market analyst Robert W. Mac Donnell.

During October, 74,300 Kentuckians were unemployed while 1,371,000 were employed.

Rockcastle Chapter DAR Meets In Berea Nov. 12th

The Rockcastle Chapter DAR met Friday evening, November 12th, in Berea at the home of the Regent, Miss Janie Ramsey with Mrs. Elbert Eversole as hostess. This meeting was devoted to working on reports for the coming year and to completing and approving the budget.

An interesting story was told about the beginning of Kate Duncan Smith School in Grant, Alabama. In the late twenties the National Society DAR decided to build a school in this area as it was such an isolated section that, in the days before school buses, many children had great difficulty attending and some were unable to attend at all. When the parents feared of the Society's plans they came to the members and offered to help in any way possible and the men went out into the fields with their spring wagons and picked up field stones and hauled them to the top of the mountain where the first building was erected. This building has been in constant use until the past year when complete renovation was required. In fact the engineers wanted to demolish the entire structure and build a completely new building. However, the State Board of the Alabama Society DAR, remembering all the back breaking effort and toll which the men of the area had put into building the fieldstone walls, prevailed upon the engineers to tear out all of the interior structure and plumbing and to save the fieldstone walls for the new building.

There are two other school supported mainly by the NSDAR. Tennessee in South Carolina and the Boone Indian School. Hindman Settlement School in Kentucky and many other schools benefit by donations from the NSDAR. Chapters also work with the local schools to promote interest in good citizenship, American History and patriotism. Rockcastle Chapter DAR has established a section of books and materials for genealogical research in the Rockcastle County Library. This collection has been added to by Mrs. Wilburn Walker, of Bryan Station Chapter of Lexington, and by Miss Nell Nieceley of Columbus, Ohio, a prospective member of the Chapter.

FARM PRODUCTION PLANS GOAL OF UPCOMING USDA SURVEY

Farmers' winter wheat, cattle, hog and poultry production activities will be the target of a major Department of Agriculture survey in late November and early December.

Special attention will center on how much wheat acreage was seeded this fall following a larger-than-usual crop in 1976 and very dry planting conditions in many areas this season. The survey, conducted here by the Kentucky Crop and Livestock Reporting Service, will produce an estimate of State and national acreage as a guide to 1977 production.

Jim Koepfer, Statistician in Charge of the Kentucky Crop and Livestock Reporting Service, explained that the survey will rely on the cooperation of representative sample of producers. Farmers will be asked about numbers of cattle, hogs, and chickens, and how many pigs and calves are planned for early 1977. All information collected from individuals in personal interviews, by telephone, and mail questionnaires will be kept confidential and only State and national summaries will be published.

The estimates will be a significant information aid to producers and others associated with agriculture as they map out their farm plans for the next several months. The estimates of winter wheat acreage and hogs will be available to the public on December 22; poultry information, January 28; and cattle data on February 2.
